INTERCOLLEGIATE DEBATE

Ursinus will make its initial appearance in intercollegiate debating circles on this Monday evening when it will meet a team from Swarthmore College in Bomberger Hall. The subject to be debated is Resolved, that the attitude of the Federal Courts towards the use of the writ of injunction as instituted by the Buck Stove and Range Company decision is conducive to the best interests of the people of the United States, all questions of constitutionality eliminated. The team that will represent our institution is composed of Messrs. Abel, '09, Myers, '09, and Moser, '10, with Laucks, '10, as alternate. Competent judges have been secured to render their decision on the merits of the arguments. The public is invited to attend the debate, on Monday evening at 8 p. m.

BASEBALL

The baseball season was opened away from home last Saturday with the nine of Princeton University. It was Princeton's second game of the season, and they had little trouble winning by the score of 8-2.

The opening games are usually taken as a means of getting a line on the new men, and the Princeton game gives promise of great things later on when our team meets teams that are more in her class. Ursinus' inability to bunch the hitting was largely responsible for the defeat. Horten in the box is better than ever, and he has an excellent receiver in Freese. The latter catches like a veteran. He made a very auspicious debut at the bat by driving out two two-bagers. Pownall and Kichline, who are new men, play good ball in outfield positions. Horten and Capt. Abel hit well, each having two hits. The line up:

PENN GAME

In the second game of the local season, Penn mixed hits with misplays, and won by the score of 7-3. With proper support behind him Horten would have given them a stiff argument, but the question of winning the game was settled by a series of misplays behind him in the third and fourth innings. After the fourth inning only one hit was made from him.

Ursinus scored first. Bunting was hit by pitched ball, advanced to third on a single and an out, and scored on Horten's long fly to center. In the second inning Hoover got to third before the overthrow of his grounder could be recovered. A little later he scored on a wild pitch by Collier. Still another was added in the third when after being passed to first Horten scored on a pretty double by Abel. At this juncture a change of pitchers was made and no more runs were scored.

After having the game well in hand, Ursinus threw it away in the unfortunate third inning. Chapman, upon relieving Collier, pitched splendid ball. Pownall played a fine game in left field. The score:

ZWINGLIAN ANNIVERSARY

The thirty-ninth anniversary of the Zwinglian Literary Society was held on Friday evening at 8.00 o'clock. As is the custom at such times the regular weekly meetings were set aside, and both societies attended in a body. Many friends and ex-members of the society were present, among them being a number of alumni, who make the anniversaries of the societies occasions for a return to their Alma Mater.

A program of literary and musical numbers was rendered by members of the society assisted by the College Orchestra under the leadership of Prof. Henckels. The Orchestra played the Recessional and obliged several times during the evening's exercises. The number were well received, as were all the musical features of the program. All the literary numbers deserve special mention for their excellent rendition.

Myers, '09, chairman of the committee, presided. The other members of the committee were Miss Fryling, and Messrs. Wagner, Bunting and Behney. A reception and refreshments followed. The program:

LIFE AT AN ENGLISH UNIVERSITY

BY PROF. J. W. CLAWSON

Concluded from last issue.

The average undergraduate has no special difficulty in passing this series of examinations in the course of three years and in having plenty of spare time for other interests.

However the Honour man has a much harder time of it. His examinations are fewer. He must pass the Previous Examination with a special examination added to it, to show that he has a certain amount of general culture. This he usually does immediately on entering College. Then for three years he studies one subject alone and at the end of that time goes into an eight day examination covering the work of the three years. A good deal can be said against this system of examination, but at least it has the merit that you can't "crum" for it at the last moment. There are about as many Honour as Pass Men.

From work we turn to play.

The Collegiate division of Cambridge makes it better adapted than any University but Oxford, which closely resembles it, for a wide spread athletic development. Practically every undergraduate at Cambridge takes part in some game or other. Every afternoon the river is constantly stirred with the wash of scores of boats and the playing fields are alive with struggling players in the various intercollegiate contests. Each College maintains its one, two or even six crews, its Rugby football team, its "Soccer" team, its cricket team and its track team. Lacrosse, field hockey, golf, cross country running and other minor sports attract a smaller number. Possibly in the future development of Ursinus intergroup contests may lead to a similar extensive participation in athletics.

A few more words about rowing at Cambridge may find a place. Early in the fall freshmen are got out and trained. A few weeks later the College boat captain makes up his "trial eights," selecting them so as to make as even a contest as possible. Shortly before Christmas the race is held some morning when the river is free. Then the freshman gets his first taste of a race and knows what

EDITORIAL

With this issue the old editorial staff lays down its pen, and turns over the care of the paper to the newly elected staff. The work of the associate editors during the year has been faithful; no criticism and only praise can be theirs. Whatever the results, we can retire with the pleasant satisfaction of some duty done. We have had criticism, but our own work has called it down upon us. The work had been well planned, but evidently it was too idealistic, for many things were never realized to their fullest measure. The places where we have fallen short are many, and a knowledge of these with hopes for improvement in all things is the only heritage that we can bequeath the new staff.

A word must be said of the business condition of the "Weekly" which may be of interest to many subscribers. The paper is on a better footing than ever, thanks to the energy and ability of the Manager. Strained conditions in this department are unknown. It is to be hoped that the succeeding year may find a similar situation in the business end of it, and greatly improved work from the staff of editors.

We are pleased to receive as an exchange a weekly publication from our sister college, Haverford. The issuing of a weekly is a new departure for Haverford, but the sheet is a very creditable one. As in our own, all college activities are given equal attention. It may be a source of satisfaction to many to know the paper was modeled after our own "Weekly." The respective managers have been in communication for some time as to the workings of a college weekly, and our system so strongly appealed to the neighboring school that their first volume is closely built over our own plans. This does credit to the "Ursinus Weekly."

CONCERT AT NORRISTOWN

Prof. Jolls took the Men's Glee Club to Norristown on Tuesday evening, where a successful concert was given in the Central Presbyterian Church. The concert marked the debut of the boys in their full-dress suits, and they were well received in every way.

The Glee was assisted by Mr. Horton, A, on the violin and by Mr. Wagner, '10, cellist. Mr. Wismer, '09, was the reader for the evening. The Male Quartette, which is very popular with Norristown audiences, contributed two numbers, and encores were in order. Solos by Messrs. Fogleman and Quay with the Glee were strong and pleasing numbers.

The audience was large and appreciative, and the pleasure which the trip afforded made the Concert a success in every way. A number of the students accompanied the Club and occupied reserved seats in the gallery.

Y. M. C. A.

The meeting on Wednesday evening was the last one under the present administration, and was in the hands of the retiring president, Koons, '09, who gave a review and report of the year's work. The work of the Association was shown, and the hope was expressed that the work done during the year might be but a modest beginning of greater results for the coming year.

The report was in the nature of a review of the work done by the several committees, and recommendations and suggestions were offered to strengthen where there was weakness.

The President gave statistics of the Association. The membership at present is fifty-six, six of whom are associate members. Twenty-three new men were enrolled during the year. The members are distributed among the classes as follows: Seniors, 11, Juniors, 12, Sophomores, 8, Freshmen 14, Academy, 11. The new Cabinet takes up the work at this time in a field ripe with opportunities for spiritual growth.

pearance last Saturday, coming out victorious over their opponents, Collegeville High School Team by a score 5-3.

The battery comprised of Whipple and Rabell give promise of some good work, while the infield comprised of L. Fuste, A. Menendez, S. Estrada and Horten distinguished themselves by their clever fielding and knowledge of baseball.

With a thorough drill in batting the team bids fair to win honor.

Manager Whipple has arranged a fair schedule of games both at home and abroad.

Although this team does not directly represent any part of the institution, it is organized for the purpose of good clean sport, and for the furtherance of the baseball spirit.

SEMINARY NOTES

Through the kindness of a friend of Dr. Herbruck the Seminary was presented with a complete set of Werner's Encyclopedia. This gift is a valuable addition to the library.

On Wednesday evening the junior and middle classes were entertained by Dr. and Mrs. VanHorne. A most delightful evening was spent in social intercourse.

Prof. Robertson Murphy of Dayton delivered a scholarly and impressive address to the Y. M. C. A. on Thursday evening. His subject was "Two Ways of Salvation."

The Y. M. C. A. elected the following officers for the ensuing year: President, Kriete, '10; Vice-President, Hartman, '10; Secretary, Leidy, '11, Treasurer, Swope, '10; Musical Director, Fry, '10; Representative from the Faculty, Dr. Stibitz.

Dr. Vollmer arranged for special services in Second Reformed Church, Dayton, for Passion Week. Dr. Vollmer is supplying the congregation until the pastor-elect enters upon his work.

FIELD HOUSE FUND

Subscriptions to the Field House Fund have not been plentiful during the past week. As far as the students are concerned this is not unexpected, owing to the near approach of the Easter vacation. However, we urge all students to give this matter their immediate attention, so that they will be able to pay their amounts pledged after the Easter recess. Keep in mind your pledge and come back prepared to fulfill it. Those other than students, including alumni and friends, we again urge to contribute. It is surprising indeed that more answers are not received to personal letters sent out, and that more inquiries are not made concerning this field house. Plans have already been drawn and we are sure they will meet with approval owing to the simplicity of design and the general features of the project. If it is at all possible, a print of the plans will be mailed to all who desire to see them and can be secured by addressing the Athletic Director, Mr. Price. We must build this house before the Fall, so again we ask every one to contribute as soon as possible.

LIFE IN AN ENGLISH UNIVERSITY

it is to row his mile and a half. Immediately after Christmas the "first Lent boat" is made up of the best crew that can be got together, the "second boat" of the next choice and so on. Before Easter the Lent bumping races are held.

These are intercollegiate in character. Trinity has six boats entered, Downing one. There are seventy-five boats in all. The race is rowed on four successive days and in three divisions. In each division are the fifteen crews which ended in that division the year before. The river is as narrow as the Perkiomen, so boats are placed in line a fixed distance apart and at the gun the procession starts, each boat trying to catch the one ahead. If it succeeds, the bumper and bumped run close to the bank and let the others go by. Thus for each boat the race may last one hundred yards or it may run on for the whole mile and a half.

In the second days racing the bumpers move up a notch and the bumped move down one. To make four bumps in the four days racing is an event celebrated sometimes with more zeal than discretion.

After Easter active preparation begins for the May races in which a smaller number of boats race in the same way on sliding seats instead of fixed. The generous number of boats that race at Cambridge makes easier the selection of a crew to represent the University against Oxford, one of the year's big events in British sport. This abundance of material together with the narrowness of the rivers which makes coaching from the bank so easy and supervision so perfect accounts largely for the superiority of English crews at this form of sport.

Considering everything, work and play, surrounding and associations, one can safely say that a three years residence at Cambridge is an experience which will always be looked back to with pleasurable and thankful feelings. One would like too some day to go back, and like Tennyson, himself a Cambridge man, recall other days in a ramble through the College and town.

"I past beside the reverend walls
In which of old I rowe the gown;
I roamed at random through the town,
And saw the tumult of the halls;

And heard once more in College fanes
The storm their high-built organs make,
And thunder-music, rolling, shake
The prophet blazoned on the panes;

And caught once more the distant shout,
The measured pulse of racing oars
Among the willows; paced the shores
And many a bridge, and all about

The same gray flats again, and felt
The same but not the same."

For this must always be the sentiment of a graduate returning to his Alma Mater after a lapse of years.

1909 COLLEGE MEN

Should consider these facts.

Pennsylvania is rapidly becoming the foremost High School State in the Union. Pennsylvania gives College Graduates life certificates of the highest grade after they have taught three years successfully. A life certificate in the best High School State in the Union is a valuable asset. Every year for the past five years we have located all our College Graduates, and have had first-class opportunities for more.

SPRING TO Paddle's Place REGAL SHOES

All styles, cuts, colors and shapes. All-so laces, polished or anything that can be bought in the best shoe store in the city. Regal does repairing in the "Regal Way." Bring your shoes to me.

Any one buying shoes directly from Regal's Market Street Store, will confer a favor upon me by presenting my card or a slip stating that he is from Ursinus.

Have a full line of college and academy penants, wall banners, and cushion covers. Will get you athletic uniforms; jerseys, sweaters and sweater coats made to measure and anything in the line of sporting goods that an athlete needs.

I don't ask for your patronage because I am a "student," but because I can give you as high a quality of goods at as reasonable prices as you can get anywhere and will save you the trouble of going after it.
