THE BLACKBERRY.

Once upon a midnight dreary, while I pondered, weak and weary, Over the top of the rebellion, and the danger...

They had not been in thinking, hardly ever, till slowly drifting...

And I wonder that, nothing more, All I stand there, head in gloom, and in gloom...

And I wonder that, nothing more, All I stand there, head in gloom, and in gloom...

And I wonder that, nothing more, All I stand there, head in gloom, and in gloom...

And I wonder that, nothing more, All I stand there, head in gloom, and in gloom...

And I wonder that, nothing more, All I stand there, head in gloom, and in gloom...

A Short Story.

TAKEN PRISONER.

"No rest again this month?" This is the third time that it has happened within the half year...

Mr. Matthew Deane was in particularly bad humor this time...

"Certainly, sir," answered the clerk, "I shall be glad to have you here again for the rest of the month..."

It was a small five-very small, as if every limb of the structure were honed...

"I called to see your aunt, Miss Mellen," said he.

"I know it, sir; but as I was aware of her high temperance, I sent her away."

"You'll be nothing of the kind, sir," said the clerk.

"You are what the world calls rich, Mr. Deane; you own rows of houses, piles of bank stock, railroad shares, bonds and mortgages, who knows what?"

She passed a moment, and looked gravely and intently at Mr. Deane. The color rose to her cheek...

Mr. Deane smiled a little, although he was getting angry. Olive went on with the utmost composure.

"Very well, sir, I can wait," said Miss Mellen, dipping the key in the pocket of her dress...

"I am sorry that luxury is out of your power," said the clerk.

"I have an appointment at one," said the clerk.

"I have made my very happy, Mr. Deane; I dare say you think me unwomanly and unfeminine, but indeed you do not know to what extent we are driven by our poverty."

"How she will hem-peck him. By-the-way, I wonder who her husband will be?"

"I really, Miss Mellen, to hear that mock tone one would suppose you had never loved."

"The Science of Reading." "People will just get out as a hundred knows how to extract bliss from love's lips, no more than they know how to handle diamonds from chemical."

"The gentleman should be a little the tallest. He should have a clean face, a kind eye, a mouth full of expression..."

"I really do not know," said the clerk.

"I really do not know," said the clerk.

"I really do not know," said the clerk.

"I really do not know," said the clerk.

"I really do not know," said the clerk.

"I really do not know," said the clerk.

From the Cleveland (O.) Plaindealer. A Rough Homestead.

On last Friday morning an affable young fellow in the town of Wagonport, Ohio, was sitting at his kitchen table...

"There was an uproar in the room which even had assigned to the newly married couple a room in the house."

"I really do not know," said the clerk.

"I really do not know," said the clerk.

"I really do not know," said the clerk.

"I really do not know," said the clerk.

"I really do not know," said the clerk.

The Fenians.

The Fenian Brotherhood is still active. Disunion, strife and kickings bid fair to thwart the whole purpose of the organization...

We do not pretend to be acquainted with Fenianism in all of its ramifications. The general design of the organization is declared to be, to achieve the independence of Ireland...

However brave the sons of Ireland may be, we are of those who are forced to the painful conclusion, in the light of her past history, that Ireland, by her own unaided strength and resources, will never be free...

The Legislature of Kentucky. The present Legislature—we mean the majority of it—will always hold a high place in the history of the State.

But looking a little closer at this fellow Legislature, we discover that he cares little for the rights of the South, while regarding them with his infantile admiration...

At the beginning of the war, the Legislature of Kentucky, in the best of enthusiastic devotion to the perpetuity of the Union, enacted various measures...

Again we say, we are proud of our Legislature. Despite of bayonets, martial law, proclamations, and interference with elections, despite the devil and Gen. Fremont, the people selected a good, conservative body of men...

Again, though the Irish have many national virtues, though they are distinguished for their courage, their honesty and self-reliance, yet it must be confessed that they have not the virtue of secrecy...

The French are a queer folk. With them, your brother is a man (mere), your father a peer (peer), and your daughter a filly (filly).

The Governor has signed the bill repealing the expiration law.

The Tertentaller's Paradise—The Temperate Zone.

The Phary's Paradise—Coquet Island.

The Relationship Between Lawyers, Brothers-in-Law.

A New Idea. A few weeks ago, a notice appeared in this paper, that Capt. Gurley, the assassin of Gen. Robert McCook, had been tried and condemned by a court-martial...

Since that time we have conversed with several officers who held rank in the Confederate army, and have been furnished with some particulars in regard to Capt. Gurley...

While we think that the existence of war should furnish no alibi to protect murderers, yet we think it a disgrace to our annals to execute a man for acts done in the regular and legitimate discharge of his duties as a soldier.
