"Newsletter From the President"

September 1969

Dear Auxiliary Member:

On behalf of the members of the Executive Board I bring you greetings as we start a new and exciting year. We also want to thank each of you for your continued loyalty and support that enabled us to increase our stature as an important segment of the Health Team.

We had a wonderful time and a good convention in Montreal. The scenery was beautiful and our hosts were delightful. We are most grateful to Dr. William Apple, George Griffenhagen, Past President Max Eggleston, President William Hennessy, for their ever ready assistance and encouragement.

Last Summer your Board Members did a bit of "soul searching" as we faced a new year. We asked ourselves: Are we, as Auxiliary members of the Health Team, ready to accept our place and meet the challenges that face our profession--to accept our role as a responsible group on this Team? The profession and the auxiliaries are much in need of team work and a united front. Segments of an organization often move in opposite directions without organizational structures which direct the efforts and activities into a united channel.

"Newsletter From the President"

January, 1970

Dear Auxiliary Member:

First and foremost I want to thank each and every member who took the time to write to me this year commenting on our projects and programs. I loved and appreciated each letter and have tried to answer every one individually. Your interest is a great boost for me and for the Board Members, and serves as a guide in many instances.

On September 26th I attended the Planning Session in Washington, D.C. for our annual meeting April 12-17, 1970. I want to share with you some of the arrangements and details.

"Cherry Blossom Time" just has to be gala and our hosts in Washington plan to make the most of it for our enjoyment. They are busy making arrangements for entertainment for the Brunch. Our Tour this year will also be unique as only our Nation's Capital has to offer.

The APhA Headquarters and registration will be in the beautiful Sheraton-Park Hotel where many of our activities will be -- the rest will be in the, also beautiful, Shoreham Hotel across the street. The Brunch will be Tuesday, April 14, 10:30 a.m. in the Regency Ballroom of the Shoreham, and the Eli Lilly and Company will again host the Luncheon which will be at the Sheraton-Park. They are such warm and gracious hosts always making our Luncheon the highlight of each annual meeting.

Monday morning, April 13, we want you to attend our coffee hour and a most interesting and challenging program on Legislature and the important role the women of pharmacy can and must play.

Monday afternoon, April 13, we have an outstanding panel of Washington officials who will enlighten us on Drug Abuse Prevention. Last year our program on Drugs was so successful we have had requests for another program. Coffee and cookies will be served following the question and answer period.

ANYONE FOR LEMONADE?

As a hobby, Tom Green of 6407 Grigsby Place grows huge lemons on little trees in his back yard. The five-foot tree that produced this fruit had three lemons this year, with the largest compared here on pharmacy scales to the normal size fruit. This lemon, about 20½ inches in circumference, weighs about three pounds. Another tree in Green's back yard has lemons about 14 inches in circumference. This huge lemon grew on the tree about six months before a gust of wind knocked down the ripened fruit. Green expects the tree that bore the fruit to grow about four more feet. It came originally from Southern California. What do you do with three-pound lemons? Give them to friends. Green has this one on display at his Green Brothers Pharmacy at 1610 N. El Dorado.

Card Party

Members of the San Joaquin Pharmacy Auxiliary have set Saturday as the date of their third annual card party.

A George Washington theme will be used in decor at Holiday Inn for the benefit event. Guests arriving for the 1 p.m. dessert will be seated at tables covered in red and centered with arrangements of deep blue and red primroses and tiny flags.

Proceeds will be used to assist the University of the Pacific scholarship program.

Mrs. Carl Riedesel can be dialed for tickets.

BOARD WILL MEET HERE

The California State Board of Pharmacy will hold its annual meeting at the University of Pacific tomorrow through Friday.

The session will be in conjunction with license examinations in the university's School of Pharmacy r o t u n d a building, and a tour of Pacific's new $4.4 million pharmacy complex.

Dean Ivan W. Rowland of the pharmacy school will conduct the tour and later present a report to the state board as chairman of an ad hoc committee on competency.

Business session topics of the eight-member board include committee reports on rules and regulations, drug problems, legislation and liaison with the State Board of Medical Examiners and Department of Health Care Services.

Charles Cummins of Ontario is president of the pharmacy board.

Other members are John Berger of Hermosa Beach, James Gates of San Luis Obispo, Denver Latimer of Los Molinas, Ray Lundy of Compton, William McDermott of Pittsburg, Leonard Parsons of Solvang and Carl Vitalie of Los Angeles.

Winds Whip UOP Dedication Rites

By MARJORIE FLAHERTY
Of the Record Staff

Sure and it was blustery enough yesterday that University of the Pacific's double dedication could have been done and finished with that old Gaelic blessing:

"May the roads rise with you
"And the wind be always at your back . . ."

The wind was certainly at the backs of dedication dignitaries—also at fronts and sides—as they were blown up two rises to ceremonies commemorating the completion of two major construction projects.

—The Donald B. Wood

Bridge across the Calaveras River, connecting the north and south campuses, made possible by a $120,000 gift from Wood, a Stockton canner executive.

—The Cowell Student Health Center on Brookside Road, made possible by a $967,990 grant from the S. H. Cowell Foundation.

University friends, faculty members, officials and students first trudged up the Calaveras River embankment to admire the 320-foot-long, 18-foot pedestrian-bicycle span.

After dedicatory remarks by Ted Baun, president of the board of regents, Wood ripped a sheet of paper at his feet to reveal a plaque bearing his name.

Ceremony observers and program participants then crossed the road to the winding driveway leading to the student health center where:

—Chauncey Veatch, president of the Pacific Students Association, emphasized that students recognize they must help bear the burden of seeking solutions to university problems.

—Dr. George Sanderson briefly traced the history of health care on the campus from the infirmary conceived 4½ decades ago by the late Dr. Minerva Goodman and financed by the late Harriet West Jackson to today's hospital.

—Dr. Arthur W. O'Donnell, center medical director, "must be more than a marvelous architectural design, beautiful interior and impressive roster of physicians."

—Max Thelen Jr., a trustee of the Cowell Foundation, called the center "the last chapter in the foundation's program to raise student health standards through facility."

—Homer Werner, chairman of the City Planning Commission, a UOP graduate and son of the late famed faculty member, presented an "award of excellence" to the university from the City of Stockton in recognition of the "the skill and imagination" encompassed in the center structure.

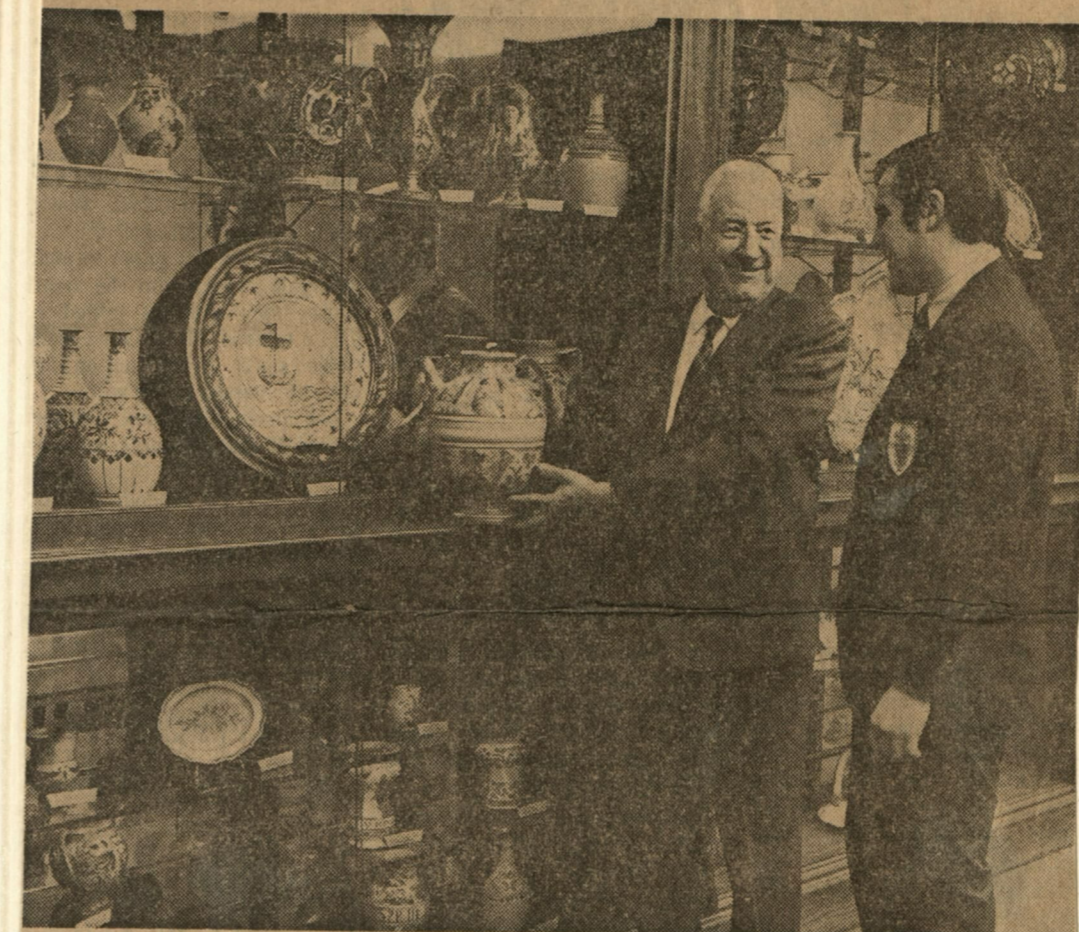

Dr. Robert E. Burns, university president, officiated at both rites. Regent Theodore H. Palmquist delivered the invocation and regent Arthur V. Thurman gave the benediction.

UOP Pharmacy Open House

Rare pottery, drug abuse discussions and laboratory demonstrations will attract visitors to University of the Pacific Sunday for an open house at the new $4.4-million School of Pharmacy.

Displays, demonstrations and tours of the new facility are being arranged by Phi Delta Chi, the pharmacy fraternity at Pacific. Pharmacy students and teachers will answer questions and conduct tours.

A highlight of the event, from 1 to 5 p.m., will be the first public showing of a 55-piece collection of rare Majolica pottery given to the school by Carl Lovotti, a San Francisco pharmacist. The 15th-16th century artifacts will be viewed in a 19th century display case.

Informal discussions of drug abuse will feature pharmacy students who are participating in the Straight Talk About Drugs program at the university.

Dr. Ivan Rowland is dean of the pharmacy school, which was established in 1955 and now has an enrollment of 483. The new building is located just north of the Calaveras River on Pacific Avenue.

Pharmaceutical Auxiliary to Welcome State President

MRS. RICHARD MARSH
State President

Members of the San Joaquin Pharmaceutical Auxiliary will meet tomorrow to greet Mrs. Richard Marsh of La Canada, state president, and her secretary, Mrs. William E. Meyer of Glendora.

Festivities will start with a traditional social hour for local board members and guests in the home of Dean of the School of Pharmacy at University of the Pacific and his wife, Dr. and Mrs. Ivan W. Rowland, 1249 Stratford Circle. Dinner will follow at 6:30 p.m. in Otto's and an 8 p.m. all-member session is slated in the home of Mrs. DeRay Bolen, 421 Leslie Drive.

A highlight of the evening will be the presentation of a puppet show that was created for first through third grade pupils in Stockton area schools. It deals with poison prevention and is the main service project of the local unit for the coming year.

Mrs. David Yoder is the local president and Mrs. Rowland is a past national president.

Mrs. Marsh was the second registered pharmacist in the state to be elected president of the women's auxiliary. She completed her education at the University of Southern California with a bachelor of science degree in pharmacy.

She became actively involved in the auxiliary when she was elected vice president of the Glendale-San Fernando group. In succeeding years she moved up to president of that chapter and was appointed Southern California chairman for Pharmacy and Poison Prevention Weeks and legislation. In 1966 she was elected state treasurer and since has been promoted to her current position.

March 1971

THE TWO PUPPETEERS . . . Mrs. Connor Sutton (left) and Mrs. Robert Grady are the "hands inside the puppets" for the show that the San Joaquin Pharmacy Auxiliary has created to warn kindergarten through third grade children of the dangers of putting anything in their mouths that hasn't been given to them by their parents. A card table is the base for the stage they transport from school to school for their performances.

"THE DEVIL MADE ME DO IT" . . . The Devil tempts little Jill to take some of the pills her mother has inadvertently left in the bathroom as the puppet play unfolds. The auxiliary chose a common — and dangerous — situation with which young children could identify in preparing the script.

THE AFTEREFFECTS . . . The doctor tells Jill's mother and brother Bill that she is all right, but has had to have her stomach pumped and will have to stay in the hospital overnight. This means she can't go to the circus with Bill. What punishment could be worse for a young child?

FOR THE PARENTS' INFORMATION . . . As part of the followthrough to the play, the auxiliary provides Antidote and First Aid for Poisoning charts to teachers to give to their pupils to take home. In this way, the pharmacy group hopes to educate parents, as well as children, to poison dangers. Receiving their charts from their first grade teacher at Village Oaks School, Mrs. Van Sweet, are Peter Trotter, son of the Ralph Trotters, and Rene Hughes, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Hughes. Peter is doubly aware of harmful substances since his father is a pharmacist.

"REMEMBER LITTLE JILL" . . . Mrs. Grady, who is the current poison prevention chairman for the auxiliary, goes over the words to the catchy jingle that sets the show's theme with Jennifer Kern, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Roger Kern and a first grader at Village Oaks School. The words are displayed beside the stage during the puppet presentation so that the youngsters can read along — or sing along — with the characters.

Pharmacy Puppets Plugging Poison Prevention

By JOAN ULRICH
Record Women's Editor

"Little Jill, she took some pills,
She thought that they were candy,
She soon found out beyond all doubt,
The stomach pump was handy."

The San Joaquin Pharmacy Auxiliary is hoping to make this jingle as familiar to young area residents as the "Jack and Jill" tune to which the new words have been adapted.

The catchy rhyme sets the theme for the puppet show the auxiliary has created to impress upon children of kindergarten through third grade age the danger of putting anything but food in their mouths unless it is given to them by their parents.

Although the program is a "natural" for National Poison Prevention Week, which begins today, auxiliary members hope the puppet show will bring year-round awareness of harmful substances to their young audiences.

Between 500,000 and one million children every year swallow substances that may be harmful or deadly, with 95 percent of the poisoning of children under 5 occurring while they are under the supervision of their parents or other responsible adults.

The auxiliary hopes to educate parents indirectly as their offspring talk about the show in their own homes and through the Antidote and First Aid for Poisoning chart that each youngster receives to take home after seeing the puppet presentation.

The poison chart may alert parents to potential dangers they have overlooked, since the list extends far beyond medicines. Among other substances most frequently ingested by children are cleaning agents such as furniture polish, fabric softeners, and dishwasher detergents; insecticides and paints, and — mothers, beware — cosmetics like cologne, liquid makeup, deodorant, shampoo and nail polish.

The puppet show is a new project for the local group and the scripts, puppet patterns and other guides are being made available to any interested auxiliaries throughout the nation.

The tale deals with Jill, who is tempted by the Devil to take some of the pills her mother has accidentally left open in the bathroom. She must be taken to the hospital to have her stomach pumped after swallowing the pills, thus missing a chance to accompany her brother, Bill, to the circus. The "Remember Little Jill" song opens and closes the show.

The idea for the show was conceived last year by three auxiliary members, Mmes. Robert Belloumini, Howell Runion and Roger Taylor. The trio wrote the script; created the six puppets — Jill, her brother, Bill; their mother, the Devil, the Doctor and the Little Old Lady who introduces the other characters at the beginning of the eight-minute show; and prepared a list of follow-through activities and discussion ideas for the teacher to use in the classroom to implement and reinforce what the children learn from the show.

Then came the polishing. The words to "Remember Little Jill" were printed on a large card so that the children can read along — and sing along if they so desire — as the song is repeated during the show. A group of Lincoln High School drama students, under the direction of Tom McKenzie, made a tape recording of the script to be used for each performance.

Mrs. Robert Grady, current poison prevention chairman for the auxiliary, and Mrs. Conner Sutton, herself a pharmacist, have been the "official puppeteers" for the auxiliary this year.

They have devised a portable "stage" — a card table with rods on each side to hold a curtain extending to the floor — that they can take easily into the multipurpose rooms or classrooms of the schools at which they give their performances.

Two or three classes combine to view the show at one time, and the women usually repeat the show about four times during a school visit.

So far, the duo has performed at Knoles, John R. Williams, Colonial Heights, Adams, Village Oaks and Lincoln Elementary and estimate that 1,500 children have been exposed to the poison prevention message.

EXCITING CONCLUSION . . . After the completion of each performance, Mmes. Sutton and Grady take the puppets out among their young audiences to give them a close-up look, an exciting experience for children like these kindergartners and first graders at Village Oaks. Mrs. Grady has been interested in the different responses of the youngsters to the play: The kindergartners are almost awestruck, the first and second graders are very receptive and the third graders, sophisticated but interested.

Because it is a new project, Mrs. Grady has been contacting individual schools as her time and that of her puppet-manuevering partner allows to offer to present the show. She is inviting inquiries about scheduling from all schools, however, and the auxiliary is hoping to expand the program next year so that Jill and her cohorts can carry their important message to as many children as possible.

The show will debut on a national scale next week when it is entered as a contestant in the Service Project of the Year competition at the National American Pharmaceutical Association convention being held in San Francisco.

Whether it wins an award or not, however, the show will represent a "job well done" if any child, when tempted to take a harmful substance, remembers the admonition of the last stanza of "Remember Little Jill":

"Whenever you find cleaning things,
Or chemicals or pills,
Don't touch them till you ask your Mom,
Remember little Jill!"

Pharmacy Unit Takes Top Award

San Joaquin Pharmacy Auxiliary has received national recognition for its work in the community to teach young children about poison prevention.

The group received the 1971 American Pharmaceutical Association Women's Auxiliary Achievement Award during the association's national convention in San Francisco this month. Mrs. David Yoder, local auxiliary president, accepted the honor.

The award cited the auxiliary for its puppet show, "Remember Little Jill," which is being presented in local schools to warn youngsters from kindergarten through third grade about the dangers of ingesting anything not given to them by their parents.

Pharmacy Auxiliary Plans Fashion Show, Card Party

"Do Your Own Thing, Spring" is the festive theme for the fashion show that the San Joaquin Pharmacy Auxiliary will stage in conjunction with its annual card party at 1 p.m. April 15 at Holiday Inn.

The parade of styles from the Private Line will include Leisure Limited Fashions created by Mrs. Florence Fish, local designer who began her venture in the world of fashion last fall. A former professional model and owner and operator of a modeling school and agency in Detroit, she concentrates on leisure wear and hostess ensembles in her collection.

Appearing in ensembles geared to spring as Mrs. Fish provides the commentary will be Mmes. Dennis Regan, DeRay Bolen, Charles Green, Robert Belluomini, Donald Pace and Belleigh Cox.

Shocking pink has been selected as the theme hue in decor for the afternoon. Hostesses clad in kelly green, white or pink with shocking pink aprons will serve coffee, tea and dessert to partygoers throughout the afternoon, and shocking pink bows will tie the clear cellophane wraps on the bevy of gifts to be presented during the festivities.

The foursome tables will be covered with red cloths and enhanced with shocking pink accessories. Plants decorated with shocking pink bows will serve as centerpieces.

Mrs. Paul Perry is serving as chairman of the card party, with Mrs. Bolen as cochairman. Committee chairmen include Mmes. Gordon King, decorations; Frank Van Fleet, publicity; Belluomini, prizes; Connor Sutton, properties; Michael Alexander, gift wrapping; and James King and Howell Runion, posters.

Mrs. Belluomini is also hostess chairman, with Mrs. Pat Catania as cochairman. Hostesses will include Mmes. John Langley, Stan Jirka, Ray Vignolo, Cary Shimada, John Brown, Duncan Kelly, Van Fleet, Michael Anderson, Sutton, and Robert Grady.

Mrs. Carl Riedesel is ticket chairman and is taking calls from interested persons.

Proceeds from the benefit event will be used as grants-in-aid for pharmacy students.

What better place to "do your own thing" in the spring than a playground? Mrs. Robert Belluomini gets in the mood for the festive card party and fashion show that the San Joaquin Pharmacy Auxiliary is planning by trying some of the equipment at Villa Dorado Park. One of the models for the style parade, she is wearing a Gordon Peters jumpsuit in a purple floral print and red sash. It converts easily for entertaining with the addition of the long hostess skirt in a modified patchwork pattern.

Educational Puppet Show Is Available

San Joaquin Pharmacy Auxiliary's educational poison prevention puppet show, starring "Little Jill," is available as a community service to be presented for any interested school.

The program, geared for kindergartners through third graders, warns them of the dangers of putting anything but food in their mouths unless given to them by their parents. The children are also given an antidote chart and first-aid-for-poisoning chart to take home to their parents.

Auxiliary members will take the show to any school in the county and have already presented it in several since September. Hopefully, they will be able to cover every school in the county.

Mrs. Robert Grady is poison prevention chairman. Helping her present the program are Mmes. Connor Sutton, John Head, Dennis Regan, DeRay Bolen and James King. Any of the above may be contacted concerning the show.

Pharmacy Poison Puppets return

Little Jill is back. The San Joaquin Pharmacy Auxiliary has resumed its poison prevention puppet show starring Little Jill. The program is created to educate Kindergarten through third grade children about the dangers of putting anything but food in their mouths unless it is given to them by their parents.

The puppet show is a community service and anyone wishing to have it presented at their school should contact Mrs. Robert Grady 2228 West Benjamin Holt, or any of the above associates.

The auxiliary will go to any school in the county to present the program. The children also receive an Antidote and First Aid for poisoning chart to take home to their parents. The auxiliary has already been to several local schools since September and would like to cover all the schools in our area as well as in the county.

Mrs. Robert Grady is the poison prevention chairman and has five other members who help present the program. They are as follows; Mmes., Connor Sutton, John Head, Dennis Regan, De Ray Bolen, and James King.

The puppet show is a community service and anyone wishing to have it presented at their school should contact Mrs. Robert Grady 2228 West Benjamin Holt, or any of the above associates.

Pharmacy Wives join husbands for dinner meet

The San Joaquin Pharmaceutical Auxiliary has changed its regular business meeting this month to a special dinner meeting with the Men's San Joaquin Pharmaceutical Assn. The dinner meeting will be held at Risso's restaurant April 22, at 7:30 p.m. The purpose of the event is to gain new membership for both groups as well as exchanging new ideas. Both the men's and women's groups sponsor Poison Prevention as a community service project.

The women's auxiliary is also acting as co-hostesses for the "Femme-Fatale" workshop to be held April 29, at San Joaquin Delta College.

Pharmacy Units Plan Joint Meet

San Joaquin Pharmacy Auxiliary will join its men's counterpart, the San Joaquin Pharmaceutical Association, for a 7:30 p.m. dinner meeting tomorrow at Risso's.

The event is planned to gain new membership for both groups, as well as providing for the exchange of new ideas. Both the groups take an active part in poison prevention projects as a community service.

The women's group also is busy with two other projects — the "Femme Fatale" workshop to be held April 29 at Delta College and the May 7 wine tasting and art show that the auxiliary is staging as its main fund-raising project for the year.

Invitations adorned with a drawing of a wine bottle and piece of cheese went in the mail last week, bidding guests to gather between 5 and 7 p.m. at Casa Manana Inn for the festive event.

The endeavor is open to the public, and reservations are being accepted by Mrs. Duncan Kelley.

Femme Fatal-e Workshop Set

Area women will have a chance to examine in depth the role they play in the deterioration of their own physical and mental health at a "Femme Fatal-e" workshop April 29.

Billed as "a conference on milady's risk-taking behavior," the all-day session is the first of its kind to be held in Stockton and will feature a series of talks by experts in a variety of fields. Each formal presentation will be followed by a question and answer period.

Among speakers who have volunteered their services for the conference are Dr. Harry N. John, obstetrician and gynecologist, who will discuss "Examination a la Femme"; Gail A. Rider of San Francisco, a consultant with the Smoking Education Project of the California Division of the American Cancer Society, whose topic is "The Profile of the Smoker"; Mary A. Shaw, coordinator for the San Joaquin County Alcoholism Service, who will deal with "The Woman Alcoholic"; and Dr. John K. Brown, associate professor of pharmacognosy in the School of Pharmacy at University of the Pacific, who will discuss "Women in Drugs: A Male Perspective."

After the luncheon break, conference participants will hear Gloria Zellmar, chief dietitian at Scenic General Hospital in Modesto and part-time instructor at Modesto Junior College, discuss "Sexual Difference in Nutritional Requirements" and Kathleen J. Conroy, psychology instructor at Delta, speak on "Women's Changing Life Styles."

Conference sessions will begin at 9 a.m. in Room Z 12 B at Delta College, with a noon luncheon at Raymond College. The afternoon program will convene at 1 p.m., with conference activities concluding at 3 o'clock.

During the luncheon, there will be an informal showing of "The Femme Fashions" from Weinstock's. Mrs. Laurie Edwards Brown is serving as coordinator and models will be Mmes. Ted Graham, Kenneth Glantz and Carl Knowles and three representatives from Youth Against Cancer, Miss Lori Simpson, Miss Nancy Hasmann and John Powell.

Concluding the formal conference program will be a panel that will react to the experts' presentations.

Mrs. W. E. Bowles of Stockton Branch, American Association of University Women, will be moderator. Panelists and the groups they represent will be Mrs. Paul Perry, San Joaquin Pharmacy Auxiliary; Miss Marjorie Baker, California Nurses' Association, District 10; Miss Libby Sarris, Delta Queen Chapter of National Secretaries Association; and Mrs. James Areida, San Joaquin-Calaveras Unit of the American Cancer Society.

Those who wish to remain following the formal program will be able to attend an optional "film festival" presented by the Tuberculosis, Cancer and Heart Associations.

The conference is open to all interested women, and the nominal registration fee will cover the cost of the luncheon, as well.

Cosponsoring "Femme Fatal-e" are Stockton Branch of AAUW, the area unit of the American Cancer Society, District 10 of the California Nurses' Association, San Joaquin Branch of the Central California Heart Association, Delta Queen Chapter of National Secretaries Association, Delta College, San Joaquin Dental Auxiliary, San Joaquin Medical Auxiliary, San Joaquin Pharmacy Auxiliary, and the Tuberculosis and Health Association of San Joaquin County.

Miss Anna Zak, a registered nurse and Delta College instructor, is coordinating the conference, assisted by Mrs. Charles Hasmann of the Cancer Society. James Bradley of the Heart Association has been assisting with publicity.

Reservations are being accepted through Wednesday at the Cancer Society office, and further information is available by dialing the Cancer Society or Delta College.

Art Show, Tasting Set

"Come With Me On a Wine-Tasting Spree" is the invitation being extended by the San Joaquin Pharmacy Auxiliary to a wine tasting and art show Sunday afternoon at Casa Manana Inn.

The event, which is slated from 5 to 7 o'clock, is open to the public and is a first-time endeavor for the group.

A local winery is arranging the beverages for the evening, and Stockton Fine Arts Gallery is in charge of the art display. A wide variety of cheeses will be served along with French bread to complement the wine.

Shocking pink flowers and greenery in crystal bud vases will center black-covered tables at the party site, and pink flowers will be applied on the black aprons that the hostesses will wear along with white peasant blouses and long skirts.

Husbands of affiliates will assist with pouring.

The wine tasting is the main fund-raising event for the auxiliary and proceeds will be used for scholarships for pharmacy students at University of the Pacific.

Mrs. De Ray Bolen is serving as chairman of the undertaking. Among those heading committees are Mmes. Robert Grady, Connor Sutton and Robert Overend, decorations; Dennis Regan, publicity and prizes; Francis Sayre and James King, refreshments; and Jerry Fishell, invitations. Mrs. Duncan Kelley is accepting reservations through Friday.

Final plans for the wine tasting and art show and election of officers are the top agenda items for the auxiliary's meet-

Mrs. Charles Green will be installed tomorrow for a second term as president of the San Joaquin Women's Pharmaceutical Auxiliary.

Members will gather in her home at 2844 Benjamin Holt for the 7:30 p.m. event. A cocktail hour and potluck dinner will precede the installation.

Among others to be installed by Dr. Max Polinsky will be Mmes. Paul Perry, first vice president; Duncan Kelley, second vice president; John Brown, third vice president; Pat Catania, treasurer; Robert Grady, recording secretary; Gerald Fishell, corresponding secretary; Cisco Kihara, auditor, and Mark Pettit, historian.

The installation ceremony will conclude the auxiliary's regular programs for the current year. It will resume activities in the fall with a membership drive.

Auxiliary to Show Crafts

San Joaquin Pharmacy Auxiliary will meet at 7:30 p.m. tomorrow in the recreation room of the Village Green Apartments, with Mrs. Darwin Sarnoff serving as hostess for the evening.

Members will present holiday craft demonstrations or share their unusual recipes for holiday fare.

New members are welcome, and further information about the group can be obtained from Mrs. Duncan Kelly.

The San Joaquin Women's Pharmaceutical Auxiliary will meet at 7:30 p.m. Oct. 4, in the recreation room of the Village Green apartments, 2901 Fisher Ct. Mrs. Darwin Sarnoff will be the hostess for the evening.

New members are always welcome and further information about the group is available from Mrs. Duncan Kelly, 478-2877.

A gift-making session will highlight tonight's, Dec. 6, meeting of the San Joaquin Pharmacy Auxiliary. The 7:30 p.m. meeting will be at Mrs. Thomas McKay's home, 6309 Culpepper Place. Following the business session, affiliates will create presents for the Senior Citizens Christmas party to be held Dec. 12, at the Senior Service Agency.

SAN JOAQUIN Pharmacy Auxiliary will meet at 7:30 o'clock tonight in the home of Mrs. David Thorpe. Joe Doll of Valley Floral Co. will present a flower arranging demonstration featuring Christmas bouquets.

February 1973

Pharmacy Auxiliary To Convene

Members of the San Joaquin Pharmacy Auxiliary will convene at 7:30 p.m. Wednesday in the home of Mrs. James King, 8942 Hope Lane, to hear a Heart Association representative speak.

During the business session, plans for a March 11 buffet dinner, wine tasting and art show will be discussed. Mrs. Robert Grady is chairman of the group's main fund-raising event of the year, which is open to the public.

Auxiliary members are continuing to visit schools in the Stockton area to present their "Little Jill" puppet show concerning poison prevention. So far this school year, 1,726 children have seen the show.

New members are welcome to attend Wednesday's meeting and can obtain further information from Mrs. Duncan Kelley.

MRS. PETE NEGRETE

Auxiliary Officers Will Visit

Members of the San Joaquin Pharmacy Auxiliary will gather Wednesday to greet Mrs. Pete Negrete of Los Angeles, state auxiliary president, and Mrs. Douglas Bailey of Los Angeles, state secretary.

Members and guests will gather tomorrow to greet the home of Mrs. Ivan Rowland, 3355 Fairway Drive, and a no-host dinner at The Shadows before the 7:30 p.m. business meeting in the home of Mrs. William Christopherson, 9528 Trenton Way.

Mrs. Negrete was a pre-medical student in college and worked in a clinical laboratory for eight years before becoming a sales representative for a pharmaceutical manufacturer.

Mrs. Bailey is vice president of her husband's pharmaceutical and biological manufacturing firm, has twice been president of her home auxiliary and is serving her second term as state secretary.

During the meeting tomorrow, members will complete plans for the art show, wine tasting and dinner they will stage Sunday in Elbert Covell Hall at University of the Pacific. The art show and wine tasting will be held from 4 to 5:30 p.m., and dinner will be served from 5:30 to 6:30 o'clock. The event is open to the public, and reservations are being accepted by Mrs. Christopherson until tomorrow.

Pharmacy Ladies to meet State Aux. President

Members of the San Joaquin Pharmacy Auxiliary will meet today to greet Mrs. Pete Negrete of Los Angeles, State Auxiliary President, and her secretary Mrs. Douglas Bailey, also of Los Angeles. A cocktail party for members and guests in the home of Mrs. Ivan Rowland, 3355 Fairway Drive, and a no-host dinner at The Shadows will precede the 7:30 p.m. business meeting in the home of Mrs. William Christopherson, 9528 Trenton Way.

During the meeting, final plans for the art show, wine-tasting, and dinner to be held Sunday, March 11 in Elbert Covell Hall on the University of the Pacific campus, will be discussed. The art show and wine-tasting are scheduled from 4 to 5:30 p.m., with dinner being served from 5:30 to 6:30. The event is open to the public. Today is the last day to contact Mrs. Christopherson for reservations.

Mrs. Negrete has a pre-med college background and worked in a clinical lab for eight years before being employed by a pharmaceutical manufacturer as a sales representative. She and her husband also owned a pharmacy for many years.

Mrs. Bailey, also married to a pharmacist, is now vice-president of her husband's pharmaceutical and biological manufacturing firm. She has been president twice of her home auxiliary, Southern California, and currently is serving her second term as state secretary.

Art, Wine, Dinner Elements of Benefit

"Eat thy bread with joy, and drink thy wine with a merry heart" is the quotation that the San Joaquin Pharmacy Auxiliary is using as the theme for its art show, wine tasting and dinner next month.

The group staged an art show and wine tasting as a benefit event last year, and found it to be so successful it is expanding the endeavor to include dinner this year. The women hope to make the undertaking an annual event.

This year's art show, wine tasting and dinner will be held March 11 in Elbert Covell Hall on the University of Pacific campus. Partygoers will be able to enjoy wine and a variety of cheeses while they browse among the paintings, ranging from representational to abstract, that will be provided by Stockton Fine Arts Gallery.

The dinner menu will feature boeuf bourguignon, served with rice pilaf, an assortment of salads, French bread, French pastries, fresh fruit and wine.

The art show is slated from 4 to 5:30 p.m. and guests will be seated at candlelit tables for dinner, which will be served from 5:30 to 6:30 o'clock. A string ensemble will provide background music while partygoers dine.

The fete is open to the public, and proceeds will be used to provide scholarships for Pacific pharmacy students.

Mrs. Robert Grady is chairman of the group's major fund-raising event of the year. Assisting her are Mmes. David Thorpe, invitations; William Christopherson, reservations; John Brown and Marvin Malone, art show; Duncan Kelley, wine; Dennis Regan, menu; Darwin Sarnoff, hosts and hostesses; Neil Heinrich, decorations; Wayne Davis and Thomas McKey, publicity and door prizes.

Mrs. Sarnoff is creating the arrangements of greenery and candles that will decorate the tables, and husbands of affiliates will assist with pouring.

Reservations, at $15 per couple, can be sent to Mrs. Christopherson at 9528 Trenton Way until March 7.

Pharmacy Wives wine tasting dinner planned

The San Joaquin Pharmacy Auxiliary's art show, wine-tasting, and dinner will be held Sunday, March 11 in Elbert Covell Hall on the University of the Pacific campus. "Eat thy bread with joy, and drink thy wine with a merry heart" is the theme of the group's major fund-raising event of the year.

The Stockton Fine Arts Gallery will supply the paintings that will be on view, ranging from impressionist to abstract. Dinner will be served from 5:30 p.m. to 6:30 p.m. Entertainment will be provided by a string ensemble, and door prizes will be given.

Mrs. Robert Grady is chairman of the event, with Mrs. David Thorpe in charge of invitations; Mmes. William Christopherson, reservations; John Brown and Marvin Malone, art show; Duncan Kelley, wine; Dennis Regan, food; Darwin Sarnoff, hosts and hostesses; Neil Heinrich, decorations; Wayne Davis and Thomas McKey, publicity and door prizes.

The event is open to the public, and reservations may be made until Wednesday, March 7, with Mrs. Christopherson, 9528 Trenton Way. A donation of $15.00 per couple will be used for scholarships for University of the Pacific pharmacy students.

WINE-TASTING, ART SHOW IN STORE FOR PHARMACY GUESTS

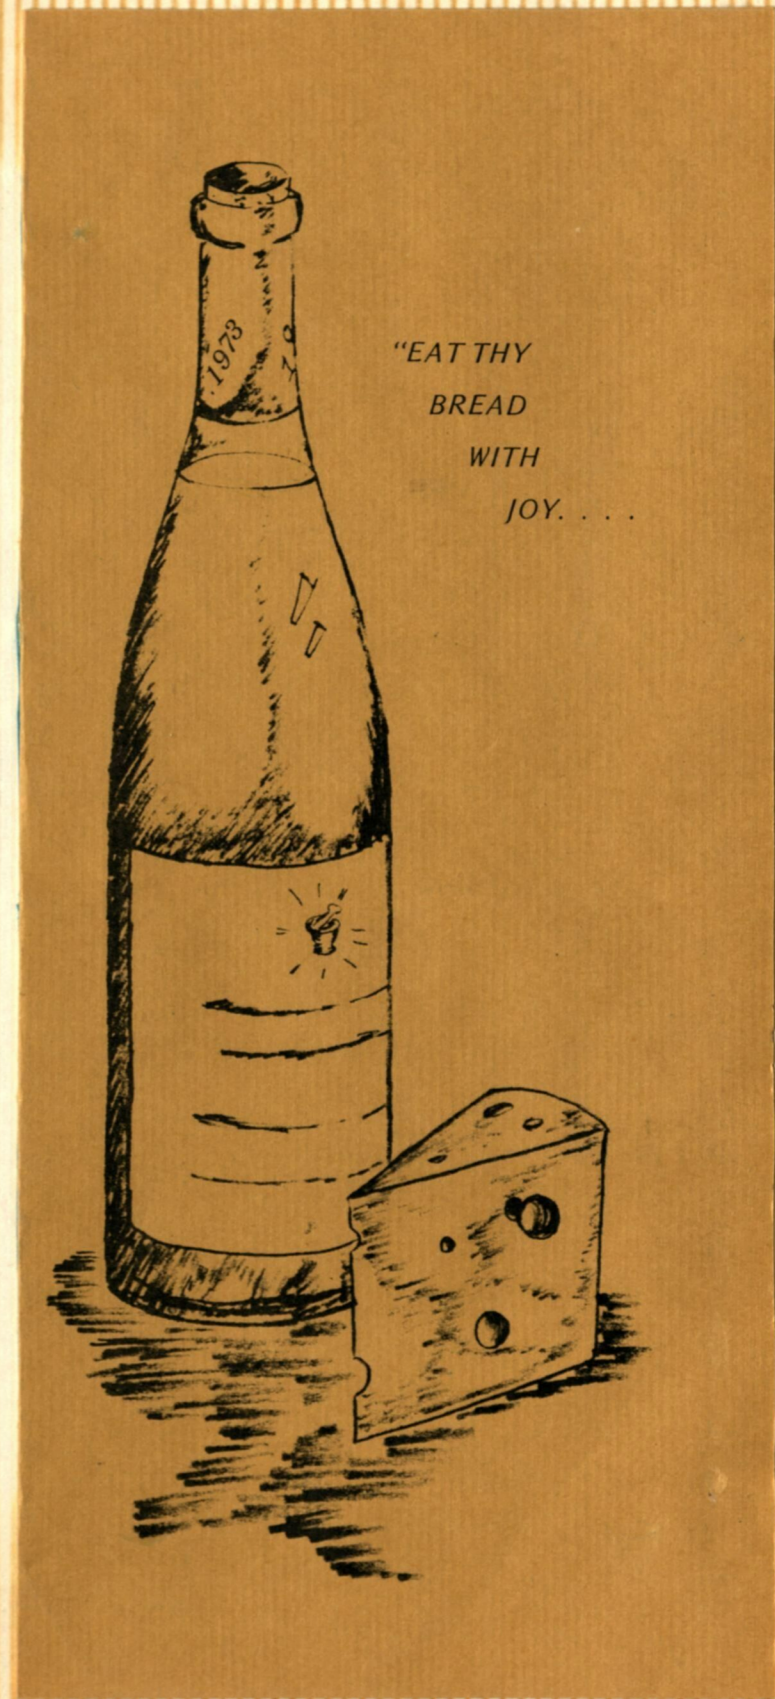

"Eat thy bread with joy and drink thy wine with a merry heart"—we are told in a rather original invitation from the San Joaquin Pharmacy Auxiliary, who are planning an art show, wine tasting party and dinner next Sunday night.

The event which will be held in Elbert Covell Hall at the University of the Pacific campus between 4 and 6:30 p.m. is, of course, open to the public. And judging from the enticing fare planned, we doubt that many will want to miss it.

The Stockton Fine Arts Gallery will display a myriad of paintings which may be viewed while guests sample a variety of wine and cheese from 4 to 5 p.m. Dinner, featuring Beef Bourguignon (fancy, no?) rice pilaf and French pastries will be enjoyed by candlelight as a string ensemble plays dinner music.

Guests may also win a beautiful, Chinese electric wok (at a French affair?) and dinner for two at Alberts. And all for just $15.00 a couple. Reservations are limited, so we suggest you contact Mrs. William Christopherson at 9528 Trenton Way before March 7.

Lest we forget/you might like to know that the Pharmacy Auxiliary will use proceeds from their enticing dinner to provide scholarships for UOP pharmacy students. Certainly a commendable gesture.

Pharmacy Unit Has Meeting Set

Mrs. Cisco Kihara, professor in the University of the Pacific School of Pharmacy, will show slides of her extensive travel in the Far East and Pacific Islands when San Joaquin Pharmacy Auxiliary meets next week.

Members will gather at 7:30 p.m. Wednesday in the home of Mrs. Francis Sayre, 4922 Cozad Way.

The auxiliary recently received an award from the San Joaquin County Safety Council for its activities in the area of poison prevention. During the past year alone, several thousand school children have seen the group's "Little Jill" puppet show, which deals with accidental poisonings.

New members are always welcome in the auxiliary and can obtain further information from Mrs. Duncan Kelley.

Druggist Wives meet tonight

Members of San Joaquin Pharmacy Auxiliary will meet tonight at 7:30 p.m. in the home of Mrs. Francis Sayre, 4922 Cozad Way. Mrs. Cisco Kihara, a professor in the U.O.P. School of Pharmacy, will present a program of slides of her extensive travels in the Far East and Pacific Islands.

The auxiliary recently received an award from the San Joaquin County Safety Council for activities in the area of accident prevention. This year over 3,700 area school children have seen the group's "Little Jill" puppet show concerned with accidental poisoning.

New members are welcome and may obtain further information from Mrs. Duncan Kelley, 478-2877.

Pharmacy Groups to Hear Guest

Mr. Richard Avancino, director of legislative affairs for the California Pharmaceutical Association, will address members of San Joaquin Pharmacy Auxiliary, Pharm. Mrs., and San Joaquin Pharmaceutical Society on Wednesday in the Gold Room at University of the Pacific.

The auxiliary's monthly business meeting is scheduled for 7:30 p.m. and Pharm. Mrs. members are invited to attend. The men's group will join the ladies at 8:15.

Plans for a June 6 potluck dinner honoring past auxiliary presidents and the installation of 1973-74 officers will be formulated during the business meeting.

Prospective members are cordially invited to attend both this meeting and the dinner in June and may obtain further information from any auxiliary member or by contacting Mrs. Duncan Kelly.

EVERYTHING YOU EVER WANTED TO KNOW ABOUT "LITTLE JILL"

In response to many inquiries, we are pleased to be able to clarify the origin of "Little Jill" in the version which is currently being used by a number of auxiliaries in California and throughout the United States.

In June 1970, three members of the San Joaquin County Auxiliary - Joanne (Mrs. Robert) Belluomini, Diane (Mrs.) Howell) Runion and Anne (Mrs. Roger) Taylor wrote the script and jingle, developed the teacher aids, and designed a set of puppets. These materials have been available to any auxiliary upon request.

During the next two years, Poison Prevention Chairman Judy (Mrs. Robert) Grady and Ria (Mrs. Connor) Sutton, working with Carol (Mrs. William R.) Bacon, were responsible for the sensational movement of "Little Jill" throughout California and the nation.

Jill's appearance at the APhA Convention in 1971 won the APhA Auxiliary Award for "Outstanding Project" for the San Joaquin County Auxiliary.

This school year alone, 3500 school children in the Stockton area have seen the show. Pam (Mrs. Dennis) Regan and Judy (Mrs. Robert) Grady represented the auxiliary to receive the Home and Safety Award from the San Joaquin County Safety Council.

Again we salute Little Jill and the wonderful women who work with her!

A very much surprised and thoroughly delighted Marylyn Sandquist of Lakewood was the 1973 recipient of the $300 Auxiliary Scholarship awarded at the University of the Pacific. Vice-president Alma Lillenthal made the presentation at the Awards Day ceremonies held in the rotunda of the (relatively) new School of Pharmacy on April 3.

A similar award will be made by President Lila Negrete at the USC Awards Banquet to be held at the Oyster House in Los Angeles on May 4.

Details of the University of California presentation are not yet known.

TURNED ON BY LEGISLATIVE DAY? YOU HAVE TO BE KIDDING!

But the nearly five hundred people who participated in the very impressive Legislative Day held by the CPhA in Sacramento on April 4 aren't kidding!

Some of the "turn-ons":

The number of dedicated and knowledgeable pharmacists who attended;

The skill with which officers, committees and staff arranged the day from the opening briefing to the last flicker of light at the cocktail reception;

The presence of 100 plus students aware of the legislative (and political) implications for their profession in relation to the tremendous problems of developing an adequate and equitable system of health care delivery;

The number of legislators and state departments who attended and their evident respect for the knowledge and opinions of a very important segment of the total "health team";

Hearing the announcement, over the loudspeaker, of the arrival of Senators and Assemblymen;

The presence of Auxiliary members; The opportunity to attend the Sacramento Valley Auxiliary, which changed its meeting date to hostess "visiting ladies."

If you weren't there this year, do plan for 1974! It was really great! REPORT YOUR ACT HOURS (1 or 100)! TO YOUR LOCAL CHAIRMAN. LET'S MAKE THE TOTAL A GREAT JOY FOR THE REAL JOY.

Auxiliary Dinner Concludes Year

San Joaquin Pharmacy Auxiliary members and their husbands will convene at 7 p.m. Wednesday in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Darwin Sarnoff, 2814 Rutledge, for their annual year-end potluck dinner honoring past presidents.

Installation of new officers heads the agenda, with Mrs. David Thorpe scheduled to become president. On her staff are Mmes. Thomas McKey, first vice president; Gordon King, second vice president; Pat Catania, treasurer; Dana Grau, recording secretary; Dennis Regan, corresponding secretary; William Christopherson, historian, and Charles Green, parliamentarian.

Dean Ivan W. Rowland of the University of the Pacific School of Pharmacy will conduct the installation, which is open to prospective auxiliary members and guests. Mrs. Paul Perry has further information for those interested in attending.

Mrs. Thorpe attended schools in Anaheim and earned her doctorate in pharmacy from the University of California Medical Center School of Pharmacy in San Francisco. She worked as a pharmacist in Alameda and Oakland before moving to Stockton a year and a half ago. Her husband is a consumer safety officer with the U.S. Food and Drug Administration and they have two young children.

Membership in the auxiliary is open to women who are hospital or retail pharmacists or wives of pharmacists, School of Pharmacy faculty members or their wives, and drug company representatives or their wives.

The local auxiliary will adjourn until September after Wednesday's meeting.

Drawer Blotters

Use large blotters for lining bureau drawers. They will help retain the scent of sachet and impart a delicate fragrance to lingerie that lays on them.

Pharmacy Auxiliary to Begin Year

San Joaquin Pharmacy Auxiliary will meet at 7:30 p.m. tomorrow in the home of Mrs. Max Polinsky, 2207 Bonniebrook, with Mrs. David Thorpe presiding at the group's first session of the year.

Mrs. Thorpe and her board members will be hostesses greeting returning affiliates.

Plans for an October garage sale will be discussed and the group's poison-prevention puppet show, "Little Jill," will be presented. The show has been presented before 3,700 school youngsters in the area in the past.

Further information about the auxiliary may be obtained from Mrs. Gordon King.

Pharmacy Auxiliary to meet tonight

The San Joaquin Pharmacy Auxiliary will welcome new members and greet returning affiliates at its' first meeting of the new season in the home of Mrs. Max Polinsky, 2207 Bonniebrook Dr. tonight at 7:30 p.m.

New business will be discussed and plans completed for an October garage sale.

Mrs. David Thorpe, the new auxiliary president, will preside at the meeting and board members will be the hostesses.

The groups puppet show, "Little Jill," which has been shown to over 3,700 area school children pertaining to poison prevention, will be shown for the benefit of new members. New members are always welcome and may obtain further information from Mrs. Gordon King.

October 1973

Pharmacy Unit Benefit Sale

San Joaquin Pharmacy Auxiliary members will complete plans for the charity garage sale they will stage Friday and Saturday when they meet at 7:30 p.m. tomorrow in the home of Mrs. Charles Green, 2844 Benjamin Holt.

Proceeds from the sale will help to maintain scholarships for pharmacy students.

Mmes. Dennis Regan and Wayne Davis will be hostesses for the evening.

New members are always welcome, and further information is available by dialing Mrs. Regan.

Pharmacy Unit Offers Tots' Show

A puppet show designed to prevent accidental poisoning among little children is again being offered by the San Joaquin Pharmacy Auxiliary.

Starring "Little Jill," the show is geared for kindergartners through third graders and warns youngsters of the dangers of putting anything but food in their mouths, unless given to them by their parents.

Mrs. Wayne A. Davis, poison prevention chairman, is assisted by other auxiliary members in presenting the program, which is available to any school in the county. It has already been shown to more than 3,700 school children of this area, who also receive an antidote and first aid for poisoning chart to take home to their parents.

Schools interested in having the puppet show presented may obtain further information from Mrs. Davis.

UOP Center Still in Need Of Coupons

The University of the Pacific's Speech and Hearing Center is still seeking Betty Crocker coupon points.

The points will be used to acquire a new piece of equipment for the center, which serves the Stockton area with a variety of speech and hearing testing and therapy programs.

According to Dr. W. Barry West of the center staff, the piece of equipment needed is used in the evaluation of certain functions of the ear and is particularly valuable in supplementing other audiological information as it relates to the classification of hearing loss.

Under an agreement with General Mills, the company will provide an impedance bridge for testing facilities at the center in exchange for 400,000 coupon points.

Dr. Kenneth Perrin, director of the center, reported the center has received approximately 175,000 coupon points. Some coupons have come from as far away as Japan.

Outdated coupons will be accepted as part of the drive, and persons who are interested should send their coupons to the Speech and Hearing Center at the University or telephone the center for more information.

Pharmacy Unit To Hear Talk

"Home Security" will be the topic of Sgt. Baxter Dunn of the San Joaquin County Sheriff's Department when he speaks to the San Joaquin Pharmacy Auxiliary Wednesday night.

The meeting is slated at 7:30 o'clock in the home of Mrs. Craig Norton, 1925 Edgewood Court, Lodi. Mrs. James King will be cohostess.

New members are welcome to join the auxiliary and may obtain information from Mrs. Dennis Reagan.

State leader to speak to Pharmacy group

Members of the San Joaquin County Women's Auxiliary to the California Pharmaceutical Association will meet tonight to honor Mrs. Carl E. Lilienthal of Oakland, president of the state-wide Women's Auxiliary. The meeting will begin at 5 p.m., with cocktails at the home of Mrs. Ivan Rowland, 3355 Fairway Dr., after which they will go to Mrs. Warren Schneider's home for a buffet supper at 6:30 p.m., with the business meeting to follow. Mrs. Lilienthal will speak on the topic "The Time is Now." Accompanying Mrs. Lilienthal on her visit to Stockton is Mrs. Lloyd Wishart, state secretary.

MRS. LILIENTHAL

Pharmacy Auxiliary to Honor State President

San Joaquin Pharmacy Auxiliary will honor Mrs. Carl Lilienthal of Oakland, state president of the Women's Auxiliary to the California Pharmaceutical Association, at a social evening and meeting tomorrow. Mrs. Ivan Rowland will be hostess for a cocktail party at 5 p.m. in her home, 3355 Fairway Drive. A buffet dinner and meeting will follow in the home of Mrs. Warren Schneider, 6446 Savannah Place, with Mrs. Darwin Sarnoff as cohostess. Among special guests will be Mrs. Lloyd Wishart, state secretary, who will accompany Mrs. Lilienthal. Mrs. Lilienthal has chosen "The Time Is Now" as the topic for her address. She will discuss the organization's history, current activities and projects pertaining to student aid, student recruitment, poison prevention and community participation of auxiliary members in areas of health education.

The speaker, an auxiliary member for 15 years, is a past president of the Alameda County Auxiliary. She is active in the San Leandro Memorial Hospital Auxiliary, the Nutmeg Branch of the Children's Hospital Auxiliary and the San Antonio Area Youth Project, a rehabilitation center for teen-age boys.

Further information concerning the auxiliary may be obtained from Mrs. Dennis Regan.

December 1973

Part of the evening will be spent making preparations for their Christmas project. New members are always welcome. For further information call Mrs. Dennis Regan, 478-1150.

Women Find Pharmacy Natural Service Niche

By Edith Saxe
Of The Record Staff

The daughters of Hygeia, goddess of health, are marching on, slowly but surely.

Hygeia, according to Greek mythology, was the daughter of Aesculapius, patron saint of medicine. It was she who first held the symbolic pharmaceutical bowl of healing potions. For centuries the profession itself remained in the hands of men.

Today, women pharmacists appear to be reclaiming the cup that was once their own. New opportunities for pharmacists to render service are making it an attractive profession for women.

All poor Jane Hawkins wanted to do, actually, was render service. But way back in 1628 she was banished from the Massachusetts Colony "for trafficking and meddling in oils, plasters and physics."

Professional recognition was hard to come by. Though records indicate that Mary Corinna Putnam graduated from the New York College of Pharmacy in 1863 (probably the first), it was not until 1887 that the American Pharmaceutical Association extended the "right hand of fellowship" to women to join the ranks.

Even as recently as 1959, when the first class of pharmacy students graduated from University of the Pacific's School of Pharmacy, there was but one woman. Even one created quite a stir.

That pacesetter was Katherine Lum Owyong, now chief pharmacist at St. Joseph's Hospital. Statistically, she was six per cent of a class of 16. The tempo is picking up, however. Last year, there were 47 women in a graduating class of 227—roughly 22 per cent. This year the pharmacy school's figures point to 25 per cent, which also happens to be the statistic nationally.

Katherine Owyong (she spells it O'Young on St. Patrick's Day) went directly to St. Joseph's after receiving her degree and license. There she encountered no sexual discrimination as some do in the commercial pharmacy field. She is chief pharmacist of a staff including three full-time pharmacists in addition to herself, two part-time, plus clerks and interns.

As most women pharmacists seem to be, she is a proud professional and was motivated early toward health services. Being good in mathematics and science helped. Short of practicing medicine itself, pharmacy seemed a natural and ideal profession for women. It is less strenuous and demanding than medicine. It is economically sound. It is flexible, giving a woman an opportunity to be both a professional and a homemaker, wife and mother. Katherine is the wife of Vincent Owyong, who works for the Division of Highways in transportation planning.

She is president of the UOP alumni chapter of Lambda Kappa Sigma, national women's pharmacy fraternity; a past president of the Central Valley Society of Hospital Pharmacists and on a state committee of the California Society of Hospital Pharmacists.

Harriett Rigar Catania and her husband, Patrick, are both involved in the field of pharmacy. She's on the staff at St. Joseph's and he is an assistant pharmacy professor at Pacific. He just recently earned his doctorate and Harriett is nursing vague thoughts about getting her master's. She received her degree from Pacific in 1970 and just this October received the outstanding pharmacy alumni award for contributions to the school and to pharmacy.

Harriett hailed originally from San Diego and interned at Dominican Hospital in Santa Cruz.

Lured also by the medical profession but seeing it as too dividing for a woman, she turned to pharmacy. She enjoys studying the history of pharmacy and sees her profession moving in different directions. As the pharmacist becomes more and more removed from the actual compounding of pills, a clinical role is being assumed. This involves, among other things, keeping accurate patient profiles in an effort to prevent inherent dangers of drug interaction.

As the world of pharmacy changes, so do some of its people. Take Ellen Romano, for instance. A 1960 graduate of UOP, she plied her pharmacy profession right on her home campus for 10 years, with time out occasionally for part-time or relief work elsewhere. Ellen one day decided it was time for a change. She went back to school for a year and obtained a secondary teaching credential. A good part of her scientific background is being used in the science class she is teaching at Continuation School.

She's finding the change exciting and challenging. Her students are not run-of-the-mill students. Though they must be under 18 years of age, many have families to support and must work. Some are merely troubled youngsters. Some are drop-outs, who are sorry they did. But whatever their reason for choosing to be there, Ellen, the teacher, meets them where they are.

Ellen still keeps her professional pharmacy hand working from time to time. Every summer she works in the Point Arena Apothecary in Point Arena, an area loved mightily by both Ellen and her husband, Frank, a teacher at Edison High School.

Incidentally, to keep one's hand in as a pharmacist, whether working at it part-time or full-time, the state now requires what is called continuing education. License renewal for all pharmacists requires 30 certified hours of study every two years, either through seminars, classwork or special workshops.

The government is now another avenue for women pharmacists as civilian employees. Janice Acremant Walden, a 23-year-old native Stocktonian, just recently started working at Sharpe Army Depot. She is chief pharmacist. She is also the crew and runs the show by herself.

A 1972 graduate of Pacific, Janice ran head-on into sexual discrimination. Three jobs for which she interviewed went to men, because the hiring boss wanted men. She's not unhappy about it, really. She likes the job she did get, including the hours and her clientele—military personnel and their families.

Janice is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ernie Acremant and graduated from Stagg High School. She and her husband, Dennis, have been married just a little over a year. Janice thinks pharmacy a secure field for women—once they can return to after a family is started, should they ever need to or desire to. It is a professional skill she believes will always be in demand.

Colleen Thorpe is one who dropped out of the full-time pharmacy ranks to have her family. She and her husband David, a consumer safety officer for the U. S. Food and Drug Administration, are the parents of Suzanne, 6, and Brien, 3½.

Colleen does substitute as a pharmacist, particularly in the Morada area where the family lives on a mini-ranch complete with cow, cal chickens, dogs, cats and other pets. She is also president of the San Joaquin Pharmacy Auxiliary, which promotes scholarship funds for future pharmacists and also involves itself with community health education projects. One such project is a puppet show for children on poison prevention. Colleen earned her doctorate in pharmacy from the University of California Medical Center School of Pharmacy in San Francisco. She was in the class of 1966.

Industry appears to be a land still to be explored by women in pharmacy. Statistical records at Pacific indicate just one woman grad, Anne O'Rourke, tried it. She worked in the Bay Area for Syntax.

When last heard of, however, she was opening up her own pharmacy. In Africa. And that is a long way, baby.

SYMBOLIC SOUVENIRS. . . Mrs. David Thorpe, who moved here with her husband, David, and two children two years ago from the Bay Area, is a good example of a woman able to combine raising a family and also having a profession. While her children are still young, she works only part-time, mainly in the Morada area, where the family lives. She is president of the San Joaquin Pharmacy Auxiliary. Her mortar and pestle collection is extensive. She collects them herself and they are brought to her by relatives and friends from their travels around the world

(Record photos)

A DEDICATED PROFESSIONAL . . . Katherine Lum Owyong, preparing a bottle for an intravenous injection, was in the first class graduated from the School of Pharmacy at University of the Pacific. She was the only woman in the class, a pacesetter on campus. She is still devoted to her profession, which she considers an important adjunct of healing services toward which she leaned even in her high school days. She's chief pharmacist now at St. Joseph's Hospital.

SHARING HER WEALTH. . . Ellen Romano, another early bird pharmacist from UOP (class of 1960), tired of the mortar and pestle routine after practicing it for 10 years on Pacific's campus. She did graduate work to get a secondary teaching credential and is finding her life as a teacher a rewarding one. She has a wealth of knowledge to impart to students in her science class at Continuation School and other interested young people. She spends her summer months, however, as a pharmacist at Point Arena. Here she explains the components of a cell, which Myrlene Fetters views by way of microscope and slide.

A YOUNG CHIEF. . . Janice Acremant Walden chose pharmacy as a career, not only because she liked science, but because she also saw it as a secure profession for women. She graduated from Pacific's pharmacy school in 1972 and ran into three cases of discrimination because of her sex. Now she practices at Sharpe Army Depot, where she is chief pharmacist by virtue of being the only pharmacist. The safe is the repository for much of the medication prescribed. Janice meticulously counts out the number of capsules prescribed by the physician.

Christmas wouldn't be complete without the special sweets associated with the season, and Mrs. Dennis Regan has two eager helpers this year. Seventeen-month-old Ryan is a taster extraordinaire, giving his unqualified approval to the red and green-frosted goodies, and Rob who is almost 4, is becoming quite adept both using the cookie cutters and distributing the finished products.
