RICKREALL MAKES IMPROVING STEPS

Community Shows Real Interest in Training School Center

The Rickreall school has doubled in size since it first became a training center for the Oregon Normal six years ago. When the school began it had two critic teachers, eight student teachers and 40 pupils. This year the enrollment shows three critic teachers, 18 student teachers, and 80 pupils.

Such growth necessitated the addition of the junior high three years ago and now the school consists of three departments primary, intermediate and junior high.

Two years ago the Crowley district consolidated with Rickreall which added 20 pupils to the district. A new bus was purchased this year thus affording modern, safe and pleasant transportation to the pupils living in the outlying districts.

A distinct advantage of the Rickreall training school is the community in which it is situated. The people are very interested and have an active Grange as well as a Juvenile Grange. The children themselves, mostly rural in tastes, are considerate of their student teachers and easy to cooperate with.

The school is greatly interested in athletics. A three acre field provides ample space for play and sports in the fall and spring, while a large enclosed gymnasium offers room for play during the rainy season. Just last week the school board equipped the school with basket, soccer and volley balls. Two years ago money was raised and a generous amount of equipment was placed on the playgrounds.

Miss Oma Belle Emmons, the principal and primary critic, has been at Rickreall since it was first established as a training center and has been principal for the last four years. She is a graduate of the Oregon Normal and the University of Oregon.

Miss Mary A. Donaldson, the intermediate critic for three years is also a graduate of the Oregon Normal and the University.

Miss Rose Johnson is the junior high critic. She graduated from the Normal and the University and has done graduate work in the University of California. This is Miss Johnson's first year at Rickreall.

The Rickreall student house, Miss Emmons acting as dean, has been newly refurnished and furnished by Miss Todd this fall. As usual, good taste and harmony prevail. The house is but one block from the training school.

Rickreall is six miles north of Monmouth and is located at the junction of the west side Pacific highway and the Salem-Dallas highway. It is very accessible for getting out week ends either by bus or the electric at Derry.

Some very splendid picnic grounds, famous through out this vicinity make lovely objectives for after-school hikes. It is the custom here as in all out-lying training centers for the critics in charge to insist upon a daily hike, rain or shine, so all must come prepared for their "daily dozen."

Mrs. Richards and Miss Lois Criswell were guests of Miss Graham at Albany college Sunday. Miss Graham had charge of the library department of the Normal during the absence of Miss Macpherson last summer.

Doughnut Basketball Teams Are Organized

The Doughnut basketball teams are organized from the different houses on the campus. Most of the houses have already chosen their team and captain and are anxious to practice together.

The following teams have been organized: Arnold Arms, Tillicum Illihee, Muller's House, Virginia Hurst, Niculo House, The Mixing Bowl, Johnson's Hall, White Hall, Riddell, Nelson, Howell's House, Weesta Inn, Cornelius Hall, Van Loan's, Pember Apts., Wallula Hall, Merrimac House, Crofoot House, First Floor Dorm, Alpha Chi.

These houses will soon make up teams: C. E. Stewart's, Junior House, Roselyn House and Laeonis House.

By all appearances shown Saturday morning the teams intend to fight with the best they have. Big crowds are expected at the games.

Appearance of Albany American Legion Band

The initial appearance of the Albany American Legion band was made Thursday evening in chapel, proving an appropriate end to a big football day.

This Legion band is the largest in the state and has been organized for two months. Regardless of short organization a full program of 15 numbers was presented.

Included in the program were: American Legion March, Charmaine, Campus Memories, The Hero, Stars and Stripes Forever.

Athletic Association Has First Meeting

The first meeting of the Women's Athletic Association was called Monday evening at 6:30. All girls who were interested in forming an association were present. Over a hundred girls were present to show their interest in the promotion of women's athletics in the Normal school.

Miss Taylor acted as temporary chairman. It was decided that the association should meet at least once every month.

A committee was appointed to draw up the constitution and by laws of the organization. Arleta Forrest, Betty Hobson, Margaret Neary, Velma Wilson, and Zoe Sanders, chairman, were asked to do this work.

The organization decided to wear badges, consisting of red letters W.A.A. on a white background, so that they might become better known.

The Women's Athletic Association plans to put on a Vodvil in the chapel to raise money for equipment to be used in girls' athletics. Miss Crane of the dramatics department asked that all suggestions for parts in the Vodvil be turned into the committee in charge of the Vodvil, which consists of: Florence Gutkencht, chairman, Alice Dyer, Ruth Patton, Helen Wilson and Esther Palmrose.

There will be a meeting of the W. A. A. Wednesday at 6:10 in room 10. All charter members are asked to be present as the adoption of the constitution will be considered.

Colonial Co-eds

Ye Colonial Co-eds at the C. E. Stewart home entertained at an attractive luncheon Monday evening. The honor guests were the Misses Nancy Nelson and Madeline Mason. A short informal program and games furnished lively entertainment following the luncheon. Mrs. C. E. Stewart was patroness.

OPERETTA PARTS SELECTION MADE

One of the most interesting events of the fall musical program for O. N. S. is the Musical Play, The Bells of Beaujolais, which is being prepared under the direction of Miss Woodruff, Mrs. Osborn and Miss Johnson.

They expect to have the play ready for presentation sometime the latter part of November.

The costumes will be of beautiful and gorgeous design.

The stage setting is to give the appearance of a moonlit garden in Spring.

The actors and actresses are working diligently on this production which is the first one of the kind to be presented this term. Under the supervision of these capable directors the play is expected to be a great success.

Traffic Committees Are Enforcing the Rules

"Obey all traffic regulations!" is the rigid command of the traffic committee whose members are seen at the stairs between all the classes enforcing the traffic rules. The traffic committee may be distinguished by the blue and gray T.C. monograms worn. When given directions by a member of the committee to go to another stair the student is expected to obey.

Dorothea Dodds is chairman of the committee and her assistants are: Vernie Miller, Velma Lee Nichols, Sewell Ayres, Ed Nelson, Edgar Hight and Lyle Hogue.

The only time when regulations are not in force is on chapel days, Monday, Wednesday and Friday, in passing to and from chapel. It is considered that students will be benefitted by adhering to the rules and will get to more classes on time.

Two Subjects Planned For Guidance Classes

Personal guidance in health and nutrition will be the subjects discussed in the personal guidance classes during the next six weeks.

The large class will be divided so that one part will attend the personal guidance in health class under Miss Laura Taylor and the other half will attend the nutrition class under Miss Jean McClew. The class will be so conducted during the next three weeks and then reversed the remaining three weeks so that all the students will receive instruction in both classes.

The personal guidance classes have been showing good attention and attendance during the last four weeks.

Proceeds of Picture to Go to Athletic Fund

Mr. Harold Zurfluh, proprietor of the Granada, has volunteered to run a picture for the benefit of O.N.S. athletics fund, Wednesday, November 2, turning all funds over to the association. The picture secured for this benefit is one of the best comedies of the year: Marion Davies in "Tillie the Toiler."

The show will run from 2 p.m. to 11 p.m. continuously and the admission will be the regular 25 cents. Although this is a student show, it will not be necessary to bring your student body ticket.

Homecoming Date Is Saturday, November 19

Plans for the Normal Homecoming, Saturday, November 19, are rapidly being formed. All alumni and former students are invited and will be entertained by the school. The main feature of the day will be the football game with Ashland Normal.

The ex-officio committee which has charge of all the plans for the homecoming is composed of Skip Lehman and Frances Kelly. The committees to be appointed to work up the affair are as follows: entertainment, housing, program, advertising, and decoration.

Notice of the homecoming has been sent to several of the institutes. A publicity campaign will also be carried on through the Oregon Journal and the Morning Oregonian.

Skip Lehman has asked that all O.N.S. students corresponding with alumni or former students send to them the homecoming date that they may plan to attend.

Norm Plans and Staff Are Near Completion

Definite plans for this year's Norm and the selection of the staff will be completed next week and published, states Helen Bryant, editor of the publication.

William Crow has been chosen to substitute this term for Joseph Watt, business manager of the Norm, who is now working near Mill City. Crow has also been appointed as advertising manager.

The outstanding work now being done is that of taking student pictures. The first re-scheduling started Wednesday, October 26, will be completed to-day. Second re-scheduling will then begin. This will be the last chance for students to have their pictures taken. All students pay attention to the bulletin boards. Anyone with a conflict in either practice teaching or observation work, designate by a check after name and the time. If a student's name is not on the list Helen Bryant or Virgil Reese can be consulted.

Two members have been appointed to the advisory staff of the Norm this year: J. B. Santee as an additional member, and Mr. Berreman, taking Mr. Bell's place. The remaining advisers are: Miss Edna Mingus, Miss Maude Macpherson, Mrs. Edna Culver, Miss Alabama Brenton, and Miss Bertha Brainerd.

The Norm office has been moved this term to that office formerly occupied by the instructors of the English department, located at the of the first stair landing up from the library, between the typing room and Miss Mingus' room. The former staff office has been turned over to the health department.

Mary Patrician enjoyed a visit from her mother last week-end.

Victoria Edwards, a student at the University of Oregon visited Naomi Tarrell at Klose Tillicum.

NORMAL MEN WIN GAME FROM REED

Schoolmaster Team Piles Up 32-0 Score With Portland Team

The school masters of Oregon Normal school defeated Reed College of Portland 32-0 at Butler field Thursday, October 27.

The teachers used line plunges and forward passes to turn the trick. This gives Oregon Normal the series as they each had one game to their credit. The teams were about evenly matched in the newspaper stories but the teachers, under Coach Meador, had an aerial attack along with power plays which were too much for Reed.

The Normal backs scored on line plays or end runs and mixed passes in here and there.

The school masters' line out charged Reed's forward wall and opened holes in the line large enuf to drive a truck through. Time after time the backs from Monmouth broke through Reed's secondary defense for large gains.

The Normal boys were just a little too fast and hit a bit too hard for the Reed college gang.

The school masters all worked together and this was shown by the way the interference took out the opposing tacklers.

Reed college showed that they are a fine group of sports and played a hard game all the way through the contest. At intervals they would break loose for gains but most of the time they were held by the school masters. They tried several passes but they only completed a few. However, Reed did complete a couple of good ones. Once or twice Reed netted some gains around the end though their interference was not much help to the man carrying the ball.

There was one element showed about the Reed team and that was hard, low, clean tackling. They also used the stiff arm to good advantage.

Oller, one of Reed's star players the big quarterback, carried the ball two out of three times for Reed. He also was a steady picker and passer and did most of the work for Reed in the way of making yardage. Gaiser, full back, also played a steady game for Reed.

Among the most outstanding O. N.S. stars were: Becken, half back; King, half back; Myer, quarter; Eckstein, full back; Captain McRae, center; J. Eckstein, guard; Frieson, Wickens, "Skip" Lehman; Robinson; Murphy, Rees, Aires and Huston.

CHAIRMEN FOR COUNCIL COMMITTEE CHOSEN

The Associated Student Body Council is organized and has selected chairmen for various committees that care for their respective student activity.

The following are the chairmen: Laura Stiles, social committee; Winfield Atkinson, finance committee; Lawrence Chestnut, athletic committee.

HOUSE ORGANIZATIONS TO MAKE CHRISTMAS GIFTS

In the Women's Council meeting Thursday evening a motion was passed that the various houses plan presents to be given to children at Christmas. No definite plans as to what these presents should be, were made. A second meeting will be held at 8 o'clock, Thursday evening, November 10 in the library.

THE MIDNIGHT CANDLE

When we hear all these boastful brilliant students brag about the startling fact that they studied until 10:30 last night and got up this morning at 3:30 and studied some more, how brilliant they like to sound!

They think they are displaying some wonderful and unusual mental feat. And if they don't get a 1 they'd like to know the reason why, for did they not study all hours of the night?

What the next day is to these poor foolish students is really pitiful. Their eye lids seem to be continually pulled down by some devilish elf. Their heads reel on their necks. There is a heavy load of nothingness where they usually consider their brains are. And after the seventh hour we find the poor things in bed with cold packs on their heads.

The good maxim is right: "Success consists not so much in sitting up nights as in being awake in the daytime."

MANAGING AND FINANCING

The student will find that his future stay in college hinges on his ability to manage. The following points will aid the student in his finances. First, make a budget. That is, study your resources, make an estimate of your expenses, then compare the two and try to make your resources cover your expenses. Second, keep a cash account. See where your money goes. Do not be afraid to put down even to a minor thing, that you spend. Be fair to your parents, if they send you money, tell them what you do with it. Third, if you find it necessary to assume obligations, be sure to meet them when the time comes. If you are not able to meet them, be frank with your creditor. Go to him and ask for an extension of time. You must do this for the sake of yourself and this institution.

If there is a laxity in managing while we are in college there is a possibility of something of a serious nature happening in the future. Managing and financing are two great builders of character. —Linfield Review.

The above editorial from the Linfield Review is certainly good advice to all students and especially to Normal students who are learning a profession.

STUDENT FORUM

To the Editor: It is a question of vital importance when the citizens of Monmouth comment on the rudeness of a few of our student body.

We can not expect first class entertainers to perform for an unappreciative audience.

One row of young people in the balcony acted like first graders instead of promising teachers. Remember rude conduct reflects past training. The concert Thursday evening was not compulsory so the "pink tea" could have been held at a more appropriate place. There are some who could have enjoyed the concert much more if those who came for a rowdy time had stayed away.

We suggest that the Pep club consider this as one of its duties to quiet such disturbances. It is a shame when students of college age and intellect do not know when and where to talk.—A.L. and M.M.

HALLOWE'EN

In old October when the pumpkins have golden turned, And the yellow corn is piled to the beam; There comes a night for which our hearts have yearned, It is the night of nights—our hallowe'en.

In every dark alley you see a gory ghost, Or hear some weird and dreadful noise; But you don't take the trouble to notice, For it is only a bunch of teasing boys.

What fun it is to invite some friends, And sit around a gloomy candle light; To tell spooky, ghostly stories and gems, That causes the girls to shriek with fright.

Though we have grown older and are away, And have forgotten our childhood dreams; Let us return again just for a day, In thoughts, to our happy former hallowe'ens. —C.M.

Notice to Whom it Concerns

Here are some general time saving suggestions and the author thinks they contain more truth than poetry.

Girls, if you want to save ten seconds in the morning squeeze out your tooth paste the night before, and sixteen seconds can be saved by putting a ham sandwich in your hip pocket. You can eat your breakfast while going thru the hall. Five seconds can be clipped off by wearing one piece dresses and three seconds by sliding down the banister, as firemen do, you know. If you have studied too late the night before, why sleep in class, of course. A pillow isn't a bad idea.

The Ten Commandments of an Ideal Student—by M. E.

- I. Thou shalt not talk while another is exercising his organs of speech.
- II. Thou shalt have no other speech before Public Speaking.
- III. Thou shalt not study before study hour for thou wilt then gossip at the wrong time.

IV. Thou shalt not make the plaster fall on the floor below for they will have to sweep it up.

V. Thou shalt not do thy washing in the Laundry when thou canst do it in the sink.

VI. Thou shalt not get to class in time if it is possible to get there late. Do not go at all if thou canst stay away.

VII. Thou shalt not stay awake in chapel if thou canst sleep comfortably.

VIII. Thou shalt not pay attention in morning class if thou canst study the lesson in the afternoon.

IX. Thou shalt not study too much for thou wilt wear out some of the 11,000 brain cells. Be saving.

X. Thou shalt not do a small amount of study daily when thou canst do all of it over the week end.

Child Examinations Are Given This Fall

Physical examinations are being given in the various practice teaching centers by Miss Laura Taylor, Miss Mylne and Miss McClue. These annual examinations are given usually in the fall when school opens and during the spring term.

The reasons for giving the school inspection are threefold. First to detect the physical defects which may prevent the child from acquiring an education. The correction of these defects may in most cases add to his physical and mental development. Second, to detect the contagious diseases thereby protecting the child and the community. Third, to teach hygiene and healthful living that may be practiced at school and at home.

The examinations are conducted as follows: The hands and face are examined and eruptions, sores, sore eyes, discharges from the ears and nose, and enlarged glands are observed.

The child is instructed to say "Ah! Ah!" This gives an excellent opportunity to see the condition of the tonsils, and also the teeth.

Examinations of large numbers of children result in high percentage in defects,—15 percent ear defects, 30 percent eye defects, and 24 percent enlarged glands. It has also been shown that 90 percent of the backward and unsuccessful children have physical defects including enlarged tonsils and adenoids.

After the inspection thus far carried out, measurements are taken. Each child is given a card with his own record—weight, height, average weight, girth of chest, contracted and expanded, lung capacity, girth of left and right arms.

Then the posture is examined and advised corrections made. The feet are also looked at and corrected in time. If the child is expecting to take part in some strenuous athletics the heart is examined to see whether it is strong enough.

It will be discovered that the backward child is often held back by some physical defect.

The practice teachers observing these examinations find how to conduct like work in their future schools and as has been shown will aid in raising the general working ability of the children.

Rickreall Letter

The following interesting letter was received from one of the Rickreall student teachers:

"Everybody happy? Yea bo! And who wouldn't be at our Student House? Our study hall is large and light, and a basket of apples is kept on the table to help us study. Our rooms are very nice and we all sleep on the big sleeping porch. Our sitting room is large and bright, with a dandy fireplace where on several occasions we have roasted marshmallows.

"We all think there is no one like Mrs. Randall and the good things to eat she sets before us.

"Our critics, Miss Emmons, Miss Donaldson and Miss Johnson are lovely and are helping us to guide the children's lives and to be the right kind of teachers.

"Those of us out here are. Mrs. Eunice Harris, Margaret Armbrust, Theoda Gribble, Elsie Macoby, Marie Kirkpatrick, Curtiss Hottel, Edna Peterson, Faye Mack, Doris Watson, Anna Johnson, Sarah Jullum and Lillie Rickard." Mildred Harader, Alma Stauffer,

Nature Study and Types Of Natural Life Appeal

The nature study classes have a varied and interesting program outlined for the term. This course which is required of all primary teachers, enables a person to acquire an elementary knowledge of all types of natural life, both flora and fauna, harmful and beneficial. At present the class is studying and analyzing five specimens each of trees, plants, insects, birds, and animals, both the useful and the harmful types. The habitat, methods and means of reproduction, and the economic value are particularly stressed. In the study of the insects the attention is called particularly to the community life of the ant and the honeybee.

Later in the term the textbook work will consider the appeal of nature study to the child, the disappearance of wild life and its conservation. A nature poem and story for each month of the year to correlate with the language studies of the child are also included in the work of the course. Astronomy as it would appeal to children, engages the attention of the class for a brief time.

The culmination of the course is a field trip into the country or woods for observation purposes. This hike is to be reported in written form.

All in all, this course is very interesting and a necessary part of a teacher's education. Children are always observing the natural life around them, as a matter of course will come to the teacher for enlightenment on many of its phases. To do justice to the child the teacher should and must be prepared to give satisfactory information when it is sought.

Monday President Landers gave another discussion explaining more fully the relation of science to religion. Many students have expressed benefit derived from these discussions.

On Friday the time was spent in the practice of songs.
