THE UNIVERSITY MARSHALS and ACADEMIC REGALIA

THE UNIVERSITY MARSHALS

A tradition since the early days of the University of North Dakota, the University Marshals are the honorary marshals and ushers for commencement exercises. The University Marshals are selected primarily on the basis of academic excellence.

ACADEMIC REGALIA

Academic costumes are related to two garments, a type of robe and a hood or head covering, worn in the twelfth and thirteenth centuries for warmth in unheated buildings. Special costumes to distinguish academic persons were first used in the fourteenth century at Oxford and Cambridge. Differences among such costumes came to symbolize two things: an academic degree and the institution which awarded it.

Academic garb has been worn in the United States since colonial times. In 1895 an Intercollegiate Code was adopted to encourage standard designs and usage.

An academic costume consists of three items: the gown, the hood, and the Oxford cap or mortar board. Gowns are easily distinguished by their sleeves. Bachelor's gowns have long pointed sleeves. Sleeves of a master's gown are oblong panels reaching nearly to the hem of the gown with a slit at the elbow through which the wearer extends an arm. A doctor's gown has full and bell-shaped sleeves which carry three horizontal bars: it also has a velvet panel extending around the neck and down to the front of the hem. The velvet trim is usually black, but may be of the color associated with the degree.

Hoods for bachelor's and master's degrees are similar, although hoods for bachelor's degrees are not normally used. A doctor's hood is four feet long and is trimmed with a five-inch velvet border. The color of the trim of a hood identifies the wearer's degree; that of the lining, the institution which conferred the degree. Hoods given by the University of North Dakota are lined in pink with a green chevron.

The cap is essentially the same for all degrees, except that doctors and university and college presidents may wear a gold tassel.

Colors of tassels associated with various degrees at the University of North Dakota are as follows:

University College	gray
College of Arts and Sciences	white
College of Business and Public Administration	drab (subdued orange)
Center for Aerospace Sciences	black and white
Center for Teaching and Learning	blue
School of Engineering and Mines	orange
College of Fine Arts	russet brown
College for Human Resources Development	silver
School of Law	purple
School of Medicine	green
College of Nursing	apricot
Graduate School	black

THE UNIVERSITY MACE

In academic circles, the mace of the University president symbolizes acceptance of leadership.

At University of North Dakota commencements, the mace is carried by the grand marshal. The UND mace was made from the oak of Old Main, the University's first build'

From sea to shining sea.*

UND ALUMNI ASSOCIATION

The ceremonies today will bring to nearly 70,000 the number of degrees granted since 1889. The UND Alumni Association traces its history to a meeting that year of the eight members of UND's first commencement class. Today the Association, an independent, nonprofit corporation, serves alumni through a variety of programs. It maintains address records of graduates and former students, publishes the monthly Alumni Review (mailed free to all alumni) sponsors a travel program, hosts on and off campus events, and promotes and coordinates private gifts to its affiliated University of North Dakota Foundation. Headquarters are located on campus in the J. Lloyd Stone Alumni Center. You can write to the Association at Box 8157 University Station, Grand Forks, ND 58202, or call 701/777-2611.

The awarding of degrees and academic distinctions listed in this program is contingent upon successful completion of the various requirements.

This program was designed by the UND Office of University Advancement. David H. Vorland, Coordinator of Commencements; Rita C. Monson, Associate Coordinator

UND is an equal opportunity institution (for additional information on Equal Opportunity policies and procedures, see UND catalogs and other major printed pieces).
