

Editorial

The Caribbean Journal of Philosophy, as the foremost Philosophy E-Journal in English from the Caribbean, with a clear focus on bringing the best in philosophical discourses across the disciplines and on various thematic issues, has ensured that our community of readers, authors and policy invested knowledge seeking public are served cutting edge ideas in all our issues. In the 2021 Volume, Editorial Board is pleased to bring to you special works by Professor Anthony Savari Raj and Emeritus Professor John Ayotunde Isola Bewaji. Our belief is that this is the best way to disseminate the efforts of these two scholars to a wider audience and generate even greater interface with other scholars. It will be remiss on my part if I fail to mention the salubrious environment which the Rhodes University Center for African Studies provided through the award of a Visiting Fellowship which made it possible for me to be in South Africa, to have a break from the humdrum of regular activities. The Rhodes University Center for African Studies' Fellowship was funded by the DFG, the German Research Foundation under Germany's Excellence Strategy, funding number EXC2052/1. The DFG is not responsible for the views expressed in this publication.