1934-1936	Minnesota Historical Society	Minnesota Dept of Education	School district survey 1934-1936	Other	2.3 cu. ft. (1 box and 2 partial boxes)	Officially titled "A Study of School District Organization in Fourteen Counties in Minnesota, July 1, 1936," the survey was begun in 1934 with funds from state and federal relief programs as a study of school district organization in fourteen selected counties, each picked with the consent of the county superintendent of schools. The counties surveyed were Beltrami, Big Stone, Chippewa, Chisago, Dakota, Houston, Kittson, Kandiyohi, Martin, Otter Tail, Pope, Swift, Wadena, and Wilkin. The study surveyed each district's organization, financial condition, and educational opportunities offered, and made recommendations that would provide for a plan of reorganization when necessary. It was sponsored by the Minnesota State Department of Education in cooperation with the Minnesota State Planning Board as WPA Project No. 1758. The working files are arranged alphabetically by county and contain several sections for each: 1) questionnaires, completed by each school district, contain information relating primarily to enrollment and transportation of pupils, but also to school buildings, 2) reports on capacity of buildings in districts maintaining graded elementary and secondary schools, 3) ratings sheets for elementary school buildings, and 4) summary statistics (tables) concerning enrollment, eligible children not enrolled, numbers of teachers, transportation of pupils (including information on bus drivers and routes), assessed valuations and tax levies, receipts and expenditures, indebtedness, consolidated districts, and sites, wells, and buildings on school grounds. Survey instructions called for submission of school district maps but these contain only occasional maps. The sixteen volumes include a preliminary draft of the summary report, the summary report, one volume for each of the counties, and an appendix, with questionnaires, report blanks, and directions for conducting the survey.
