Kresge Law Library Tip: Public Library Services Available at Hesburgh

NDLS students can sign up for a St. Joseph County Public Library (SJCPL) card at the Hesburgh Library Circulation Desk and then pick up and return SJCPL books at Hesburgh. This service is available for those who reside in St. Joseph County, including on campus. SJCPL offers a wide range of formats, including audio books and e-books. For more details, look for the "St. Joseph County Library" description on Hesburgh Libraries' "Borrow, Renew, and Request" page (<https://www.library.nd.edu/borrow-renew-request>).

Kresge Law Library: Father Link Exhibit

The Kresge Law Library is proud to present our first digital exhibit A Tribute to Rev. David Thomas Link, Dean Emeritus, Notre Dame Law School's eighth dean found HERE. The exhibit includes documents from his life including news stories, journal articles, dean's reports, and videos. The exhibit will grow to include other materials that alumni, faculty, staff, and others in the community may wish to share.

Exhibit curators and law library staff members, Yan Yu, Assistant Director for Technical Services and Beth Klein, Library Assistant III, built this tribute to Father Link's life is based on documents that reside in the NDLScholarship repository. Please take a moment to explore Father Link's extraordinary contributions to NDLS and discover how he embodied the phrase he coined, "a different kind of lawyer".

The Legal Writing Center:

The Legal Writing Center schedule is now open for the semester! Make an appointment today by visiting the online appointment scheduler HERE at and selecting "Legal Writing Center." Appointments are available from 3:00–6:30 PM on Mondays (Room 3171), 2:00–4:00 PM on Tuesdays (Room 3171), 10:00 AM–1:00 PM on Wednesdays (Room 2145), and 9:30 AM–12:30 PM on Thursdays (Room 3171).

The LWC offers free, one-on-one consultations for law students at any stage of the writing process. LWC tutors will work with you to address your concerns, whether you are brainstorming paper topics or putting the final touches on a brief. We look forward to working with you!

Congratulations to the Moot Court Board's ABA Team:

Congratulations to the Moot Court Board's ABA Team for their outstanding work in the ABA Law Student Division National Appellate Advocacy Competition this weekend! Hunter Van Asten and Grant Semonin advanced to the semifinals, and Kelley Guerra and Jaylen Amaker made it to the final round. Both teams were supported by phenomenal brief writers Andraya Flor and Lindsey Schmidt. Congratulations!

SPORT REPORT:

Good morning #DukeAndIrishNation. It was an absolutely wild weekend in college basketball. For the first time ever, every team ranked 1-6 in the AP poll lost on the same day. It was particularly satisfying seeing Gonzaga lose. Every year they get to coast through a weak conference and get gifted a 1 seed because they beat two teams barely in the top 15 in college basketball on their home floor or somewhere "neutral" on the West Coast. And Chet being the anointed #1 pick is a joke. 90% of NDLS students could beat him up. Definitely Shelby could (but she can beat up anyone tbh). He got owned by some YMCA-looking dudes as he always does against real competition and it was hilarious to see. But I bet they'll still be #1 in the poll for no real reason. It was also satisfying seeing Kansas lose to Baylor. I hate to admit this publicly to Caroline Capili but Baylor probably deserved to be where they were on the bracket reveal and could slide into that last 1 seed for the tournament.

So teams 1-6 lost. What does that mean about the team at #7, Duke? That must mean they won! (checks score) And won they did, curb stomping the Syracuse Fighting Nepotisms for the second time this season. But again nobody cares about Duke except me and a couple of random 3Ls (s/o Noah and Lindsey for your support), so let's move on to the Irish. Today's theme of "curb stomp" continues with the Irish as they curb stomped both the Fighting Nepotisms and the Georgia Tech Fighting Face Shields this week. They are still a game back of Duke going into the final week of the regular season, and Duke has the tiebreak for the 1 seed in the conference tournament by virtue of beating ND earlier this year. However, if ND wins out and Duke loses once, ND can claim a share of the conference regular season title (tiebreaks do not matter for the regular season title – multiple teams can win it). There is hope for the Irish. They close out the regular season at Free Shoes University/Crab Leg State and a home game against the Pittsburgh Not Steelers.

Today we have a special guest feature: the Football Focus. And no this is not the American handegg. Let's check in with our friends in London. Fr. Matt took Kevin and Silas to see his beloved West Ham United Fighting PETAs take on the Pride of the Midlands (not Claire Ramsey's Leicester City), original champions of Europe and founders of the Champions League, Bruno Lage's barmy army, my beloved Wolverhampton Wanderers FC in both teams' fight for a Champions League spot since Malcolm Chaka, Rachel Collins, Garrett Potter and Livinius's Plastic Manchester United FC can't seem to win a match against terrible teams despite having bought the entire continent of Europe (maybe you lot should have listened to Mourinho). Unfortunately for me Mr. Lage fielded a weak team for Wolves and West Ham took home a deserved three points. Congrats, Fr. Matt.

Have a great week and I'll have a bracket breakdown for you all when we return from spring break.

Regards,

1L OF THE WEEK:

Our 1L of the week is Sachit Shrivastav!

Q. Where are you from/where did you attend undergrad?

I'm from Sugar Land, TX (a suburb of Houston, TX), and I graduated from Texas A&M University!

Q. Baguette or croissant?

Definitely croissant, but more because the pronunciation is so fun.

Q. You only need to show up 30 min before your flight. Agree or disagree?

I'd love to, but that sounds terrifying. Trips to the Bush Intercontinental Airport were around one hour, one way. What if you miscalculated the time (shudder)?

Q. The childhood snack you still crave?

Maggi noodles, chili flavor. They're basically just ramen noodles, but with south asian spices. It's also as nutrient-deficient as ramen. Still, I'd eat it.

Q. How do you take your coffee?

Black! I'm actually a huge coffee nerd. When I have time, I like to grind some freshly roasted beans from a local shop, brew a small cup with my aeropress, and sip for hours.

Q. What are you looking forward to most about 2L?

Interacting and mentoring 1Ls. Some of the 2Ls and 3Ls here have lifted me up during the worst of time; I would like to lend that hand one day too.

Q. Favorite spot on campus?

Just beyond the Engineering School, on the left side of the path to the Duncan Student Center, a tall tree stands. This past fall, it changed color to a vibrant, fiery crimson that captured my gaze every time I would pass by.

Q. What do you look at first in the morning: text, email, or social media?

Text or Discord. Gotta keep up with my friends still in Texas!

Q. Anything you'd like to say to your fans?

We should start a Judge Hand fan club. I cannot get enough of that man. B>PL? Brilliant.

Q. Who should be next week's 1L of the week?

Scott Holben

2Ls TAKING Ls:

This week's "2L taking Ls" story comes from lady killer, Christopher Russell. I'm sincerely shocked that such a short fall could cause such a severe injury. I guess every inch does matter after all. Either way, I hope your friend's little brother got that Smore. I'd be upset if someone's ego got in the way of my dessert.

Now for our feature presentation:

While I never have ordered $130 worth of fish or operated a brothel like some of the more recent 2L's, I did break my leg for clout in 2nd grade.

I hit my growth spurt pretty early in life, and as a result I have been close to the same height since I was eight. This is important because you would think that someone around six feet tall should be able to touch the ground while using the monkey bars at their local playground. Well, that is where you would be wrong. My family and friends were camping at a spot near my hometown that was great for kids and always had something to keep you active, one of those places where the only rule was be back by sundown. On this particular day, my friends and I had decided it was time to head over to the jungle gym and see what was going on. We were having fun running around and zooming down the slides when, in my infinite wisdom, I decided that two fourth grade girls would be impressed if I did pull ups on the monkey bars as they hung onto my legs. There didn't appear to be much of a risk as we were barely off the ground, so they grabbed on and I started lifting us up. All was going well until things ended and it was time to hop off. The girls had already disembarked, and all I needed to do was drop down from the six inches that was separating my feet from the ground. This was apparently too tall of a task, and I hit my heel just right to cause a three inch spiral fracture up my leg. I immediately started hollering, and any chance I had with impressing the fourth graders was gone. As I was being carried to the car, I'll always remember my best friend's younger brother asking his mom, "Does this mean we don't get s'mores now?"

Honorable mention for my L: This 2L's taking L's is coming live from the Viracopos Airport in Sao Paulo, Brazil. My team missed a connection yesterday over a customs dispute and weren't able to get another flight for 24 hours.

For the next MMU, I'd like to nominate Max Nikitas.

ASK A 3L:

This week's 3L is Fighting Irish Masco- I mean brilliant JLEG Exec. Notes Editor, Brendan O'Leary! Grab Brendan a cold one and ask to be put on his explicit holiday chain text list.

Question(s) & Answers:

Q. Any running tips for any sad souls planning to run a half marathon?

3L Advice: New York's hottest high school alumni network is Chaminade's. It's got everyone: the guy who wrote Teenage Dirtbag, the biker from the Village People, every Fox News host's son, and Michael Klein.

Q. What is the premier high school on the east coast?

3L Advice: I'll be more than happy if we win a game or two in the tourney. As long as we outlast Baylor so I win my bet with Caroline.

Q. Socialism vs. capitalism?

3L Advice: That's a tough one! With capitalism we get student debt, imperialism, climate change, and poverty, but with socialism we get universal healthcare 🙌. Could go either way on this one honestly.

Q. Can you please explain why chain texts are still relevant?

3L Advice: Vulgar holiday chain texts are the only way to unite us as a people during these unprecedented times.
