

Yeshiva University, Cardozo School of Law

LARC @ Cardozo Law

Cardozo Law News Brief 2018 (series)

7-13-2018

Cardozo Law News Brief: July 13, 2018

Benjamin N. Cardozo School of Law

Follow this and additional works at: <https://larc.cardozo.yu.edu/news-briefs-2018>

Part of the Law Commons

Recommended Citation

Benjamin N. Cardozo School of Law, "Cardozo Law News Brief: July 13, 2018" (2018). Cardozo Law News Brief 2018 (series). 23.

<https://larc.cardozo.yu.edu/news-briefs-2018/23>

This Article is brought to you for free and open access by LARC @ Cardozo Law. It has been accepted for inclusion in Cardozo Law News Brief 2018 (series) by an authorized administrator of LARC @ Cardozo Law. For more information, please contact christine.george@yu.edu, ingrid.mattson@yu.edu.

FACULTY NEWS

How the DOJ is Justifying Reversing Itself on the Legality of Indefinite Family Detention: Professor Pearlstein in Slate

In Slate, Professor Deborah Pearlstein offers a detailed legal summary of the Trump administration's position on indefinite family detentions.

Professor Zelinsky in Law360 on Judge Kavanaugh, Interpreting Complex Statutes

Professor Ed Zelinsky spoke to Law360 about Judge Kavanaugh's tax opinions, saying that it's important not to read too much into any single opinion. He also wrote an op-ed on "Interpreting Complex Statutes: When to Go Beyond the Text."

Should NYC Tax Gramercy Park? Professor Sterk Comments in Gothamist

The law says that property owners who have access to Gramercy Park pay more in taxes for the untaxed amenity. However, if this approach is no longer yielding appropriate tax revenue, Professor Stewart Sterk says a better solution would be to go back to taxing Gramercy Park itself.

Professor Shaw Helps Analyze Kavanaugh Nomination

Kavanaugh, a conservative pick, could possibly be more moderate on the bench, Professor Kate Shaw said, "In part, because a couple of votes to uphold or decline to decide questions involving Obamacare, the Affordable Care Act."

Professor Seligman in PrawfsBlawg on Constitutional Politics, Court Packing, and Judicial Appointments Reform

Professor Matthew Seligman says that "the imminent threat of court packing could change the incentive structure for both parties in a way that makes binding cooperation more plausible."

EVENTS

CrimFest 2018
July 16-17, 2018