VOL. 11 NO. 5

BOSTON, MASS.

MAY 1953

☆ From President Burse ☆

At this the close of the academic year I wish to extend my sincere gratitude to the trustees, faculties, and staff of the University for their faithful and co-operative service and sacrifices. To them and the enthusiastic student body and the alumni, with their splendid demonstration of the value of Suffolk training, goes the credit for the year's outstanding achievement—the accreditation of the colleges. The same combination will within the near future secure accreditation for the Law School.

In behalf of the University, I extend congratulations to each Senior. Your record at Suffolk merits our confidence in you and your futures. May each of you attain your cherished goal in life.

To the undergraduates I wish a pleasant and profitable summer vacation and anticipate your return this fall to an even better and richer academic career.

President Walter M. Burse

GEORGE DAY GETS SPECIAL PLAQUE AS 10 OTHERS WIN GOLD STATUETTES SPEAKERS STRESS EXTRA CURRICULA

Five outstanding students copped top awards and 27 others were honored at Recognition Day exercises in the auditorium.

George Day received a special award, a mahogany plaque with a bronze medallion for his "outstanding contributions to the betterment of conditions at Suffolk."

The ceremonies began at noon with Dean Muncie awarding citations to the 'Who's Who's' recipients.

The Dean urged students to "always participate in an appropriate body of interests — even after college days are over."

S.U. Will Glow

Said the Dean: "Suffolk will always be proud of you and glow in the pride you have in her."

"Journal" editors awarded keys to staff members Burt Herman, Jack Barsoum, Art Rubin, George Ziady. Mel Cariofiles honored this year's council members with gold keys.

Mr. Colburn cited Mel for his fine work on the council and gave him the traditional engraved gavel.

Notable Service

Then, Mr. Colburn awarded 16 certificates and 10 statuettes for notable service and spirit at S.U. Mr. Colburn described his first year as Student Affairs Director as "one of the most spirited, active college seasons in Suffolk's history."

President Burse then awarded the top trophies and cited the importance of extra-curricula activities.

"We must realize," said the President, "the value of extra-curricula activities. For, they assure success when you leave Suffolk. I'm proud of your work. Suffolk is proud of your work. I call on the underclassmen to take note of your achievements and follow in your footsteps."

Business Club Elects Macci In Close Race

What Business club executives described as the most exciting election in the club's history saw Tom Moccia cop the presidency by a six-vote margin over Al Kamerons.

Sandee Lydon's eleven point majority was enough to win the vice-presidency over Bill Sullivan, while Phil Phillips beat Jules Frank by the same margin in the race for secretary.

Solomon Runs Unopposed

George Levine eked out a nine-point majority for treasurer over Murray Rosen. Sid Solomon ran unopposed as junior vice-president.

It was a second victory for both Moccia and Phillips. As president of the two most powerful organizations at S.U., the Student Council and the Business club, Moccia will be the

Three Vote Margin Puts Phillips On Top

Record Crowd Watches Close Battle Bill Waxman Is New Junior Prexy

In one of the tightest political battles ever waged at 20 Derne Phil Phillips was elected president of the class of '54 by a three vote margin over rival Al Kamerons, May 4th.

A record crowd in room 43 witnessed the nip and tuck battle which saw Phillips forge ahead in the early returns and fight off a last minute rally by Kamerons. Final count: Phillips 39 votes, Kamerons 36 votes.

Turkey And Talk At Business Club Final

S.U.'s biggest and most active organization, the Business club, wrapped up its annual festivities at a dinner at the Boston Yacht Club, May 11.

About 50 business-conscious students, and four faculty members enjoyed a delicious turkey dinner with all the fixings.

Two Guest Speakers

Guest speakers were Mr. Theodore Miller, vice-president in charge of Marketing at Dewey and Almy Chemical Corporation, and Mr. Charles Dufton of the Northeastern University Business School.

Mr. Miller's topic was "The Problems in Marketing and Distributing"; he showed slides to supplement his lecture.

"Dewey and Almy make about 1500 diversified industrial products which carry the company's dealings throughout the 48 states and to 27 foreign countries," he said.

Praises S.U.

"We prefer men who are specialized for all sales jobs," continued Miller.

Mr. Dufton, who directed the American Marketing Association conference, praised the efforts of the S. U. Business club.

President Stan (Smiley) Becker summarized the merits of the club during the year.

Al Frank and Fred Kaplan arranged the dinner.

Heart Throbbler

Vice-president Jack McGrath and Secretary Sandee Lydon who ran unopposed were automatic choices for office.

The fight for Student Council seats was, as expected, a heart throbbler.

Victors Tom Moccia, 53 votes, Warren Brown, 40, and Jack Klayman 38, gnawed their fingernails and shook their heads during the counting, breathing sighs of relief when it was over.

A mixup on the ballot necessitated a new election for the office of senior class treasurer.

Pre-election Dope

Pre-election dope turned out to be the right portion after all as Bill Waxman swept the junior class in a unanimous decision over Ron Rosenfield.

Mike Mooradian, Anne Sally and Marie Frassica, who were unopposed, cinched vice-president, secretary and treasurer's position.

Next year's junior class student council representatives are Les Shohan 44 votes, Dick Hasset 33, and Bill Head 33.

Brenner Loses

The expected battle for the office of vice-president of the sophomore class turned out to be a rout as Steve Juba, 34 votes, defeated Larry Brenner, 9.

New frosh elected to head their class at Student Council meetings are Norman Bligh, 38 votes, Shirley Hunkins, 30 and Phil Iuliano, 22.

Macfarlane To Speak At S. U. Commencement July 21, At Opera House

S.U. Commencement will be Sunday, July 21, 3 p.m. at the Boston Opera House, President Burse announced this week.

Guest speaker will be Robert S. Macfarlane, President of the Northern Pacific Railway Co., director of the Pacific National Bank of Seattle, First National Bank and First Trust Co., both of St. Paul, Minn., director of the Western Life Insurance Co., of Montana, director of the Burlington Railroad, Railway Express Co. and the Association of American Railroads.

Minnesota born, in 1899, Macfarlane entered Brown University in 1916. He was a Navy lieutenant (j.g.) in World War 1 and graduated from the University of Washington Law School, magna cum laude, in 1922.

In 1930, at only 31 years of age, he was elected judge of the King County Superior court, Seattle, Wash.

ROBERT S. MACFARLANE

Graduation tickets are available in the bursar's office from Dottie Mac.

'53 Beacon' Ready For Graduation

The '53 "Beacon" will be distributed to all eligible seniors at graduation, Burt Herman, yearbook business manager has announced.

"Eligible seniors" are those who have paid the price of the book in full. Twelve seniors are delinquent in payment and according to Burt, "will not receive their books unless they pay every penny."

"Beacon" delivery date is June 15. Anyone who will not be present at graduation may pick up the yearbook any time after the delivery date, or pay a postage fee to have it mailed to him.

The yearbook editors wish to salute Frenchy Vachon for his fine job in collecting yearbook deposits.

The late Jim Thorpe receiving his official membership into the S.U. Varsity club.

S. U. Science Student Cops Research Job After Whirlwind Trip

Dick Rochester, Science club prexy and Phi Beta Chi member, has been appointed to the Research Division of George Washington University, Frederick, Maryland.

In a whirlwind trip, Rochester flew to Maryland, cinched the job and was back home before midnight the same day. His return was in a special chartered plane with only one other passenger.

"She was a pretty blonde with dimples — a real doll," said Rochester.

"We had a long talk. I told her about my new job and the work I was going to do there on government explosives."

His companion was an entertainer. Her name—Sonja Henie. "This research field is getting better all the time," said Dick.

From The Fourth Estate

By R. M. D.

REMINISCENCE

This, as they say in the movies, is it! Your penman of the fourth estate is about to sing his swan song. I hope you'll find it a pleasant little ditty:

MEMORY LANE: The crystal ball spies: Al Cohen, friend and collaborator in journalistic adventures. "Fabulous" Shirley Hunkins, the girl who put "oomph" in S.U. corridors. Marie Beatrice and Jack Barsoum "the quiet man and woman" of Suffolk. Burt Herman, business manager and world traveler extraordinaire.

Nancy Sullivan, who has the nicest hair-do I know of. Everyone jokes about Nancy's "five year" plan too. Stan Becker, "Smiling Stan" to those who know him best. Phyllis Klein, who introduced me to the BEMS.

ENDURING THOUGHTS: The mind's eye sees: Tom Moccia, the dashing, debonair parliamentary paisan. Jean McPhee, personality plus. Carmine Pizzi and Mike Paratore, inseperables. Chubby, chuckling Mel Cariofiles, tepid tyrant. Sandee Lydon, the shiksi girl.

THE SECONDS SUGGEST: The clock remembers when: G. O. Day couldn't find the church key. Joe Corey was superb in "Night Must Fall." Anne Salley pleased them in "Goodbye My Fancy." Jack Resnick scored "75." Lorraine Foley wrote letters. Al Alford remained a name withheld on request.

The second hand touches the times when: Bob Murphy was the Marshfield Marauder . . . Les Shohan revived the "Rambler" . . . Frenchy Vachon chased yearbook payments all over 20 Derne . . . and SAC panned a play.

INDELIBLE IMPRESSIONS: The ink weaves permanent portraits of: Dick Rochester's ride with a movie star. Fred Kaplan clicking the shutter. Joanne Thibodeau's sultry singing. June Robideau's costume during the rec hall clean-up.

VIVID VIGNETTES: The typewriter keys sound off about: Esther Sidman whose shoes remain in the office. Tom Higgins, Shakespeare's friend or foe? Joe Zaitchik, poet and chess champion. Tony Gizzi, putting in a plug on the switchboard. George Ziady, "Journal" postman. Mike Karess, president by proxy. Phil Phillips, "ze bug in ze bush" man. Joan Kraw and the car she drives. Peter Beatrice, who demands order and gets it.

FACULTY FANCIES: The blackboard scribbblings suggest: Dr. Hannay's famous expression, "earmarks on the whole." D. Murphy's "loaded" briefcase. Donald's gleeful gleaning. Dr. Prof. McKee's mumbo-jumbo. John V's crooning. Mr. McNichol's "click-click". Dean Goodrich's theory on population increase. And the "humph-humph" of you know who.

WEARISOME WORRIES: The ulcers we all got at S.U. from: "Journal" deadlines. "The Miracle of Twenty Derne." Yearbook receipts, parking tickets, student council meetings, election time, charges and counter charges point systems, complaints, criticisms and graduation fees.

OFFICE OFFERINGS: The rumbling of the mimeograph comes to a halt at: Miss Mac, eternal sweetheart of S.U. Mary and Alice, the diligent duo of the editor's favorite. Mrs. Holland, the bursar's office. Janet Datson, the "number please" voice of Suffolk.

CUSTODIAN CANDIDS: The journeys to the Rec hall encounter: Rus, friend to all. Mac, the talkative, philosophical Scotchman and Mr. Hill, the always accomodating chief of the whole business.

MEN'S and WOMEN'S FORMAL CLOTHES RENTED For All Occasions

READ & WHITE "Quality Always"

111 Summer St., Boston, Mass.

Poem

When late by lamplight eyes blink tears
 Neath heavy, horn-rimmed glasses,
 An inner heat disrupts the haze,
 Recedes, and then repasses.
 Then in the mind italics lean,
 Bold-faced, bold-bent, persistent,
 Bright white, aglow, etched in the black,
 Move on and on, insistent.
 And read:
 Shakespeare wrote a book, a book; wrote a book, book he wrote,
 Shakespeare wrote a book, a book, wrote a book he wrote.
 And thinks
 The problem is to find the words.
 The error is to look for them.
 To dream of greatness
 Is Vanity of Vanities.
 But in the darkness of my bed
 Near warmth and quiet breathing,
 I stretch a hand and touch a hand,
 Two callouses for sheathing.
 I smile. And slap my pillow straight,
 Drum fingers in a spasm,
 Then shift and chin my knees and start
 Descending in a chasm.
 And think:
 The terror is to look for words
 The terror is to look for words
 That echo greatness
 And thrive on Vanity.
 And hear:
 Shakespeare wrote a book, a book, a book he wrote; he wrote a book,
 Shakespeare wrote a book he wrote
 It's fleece was white as snow.

"Fabulous" Shirley Hunkins submitted a detailed report of the activities of WASU to the Journal office last week.

The report was titled, "A History of WASU '52-'53" and proves that WASU had its greatest year to date.

The coeds started to whirl the social calendar in October as plans for a stag Halloween dance were made.

On October 30 the big night arrived; WASU's social was a smash success as the girls proved that they too could entertain royally.

Early November found the girls aiding in the Boston Community Drive.

WASU celebrated the Christmas season by exchanging gifts and testing home made delicacies at a holiday party in the women's lounge.

The new year began with another "first" — a mother-daughter tea. The tea was held in the president's office and invited guests included: President Burse, Dean Munce, Dr. Fehrer, Dean O'Brien and Mr. McNichols.

The WASU Valentine dance was the season's social highlight as the girls ended a clever promotional campaign by crowning Mr. Suffolk.

A banquet at Blinstrubs on April 15 brought the curtain down on WASU activities.

The girls, who paid the check for their favorite boy friend, ate drank and made merry as they celebrated the most progressive year in WASU history.

LEGALLY SPEAKING

By BERNARD KEVELSON

IS JUSTICE BLIND?

There is a famous statue in front of America's highest court depicting justice as a woman in flowing robes. A blindfold is across her eyes. In one hand she holds the scales of justice, in the other, the sword of retribution.

Why has justice been depicted as such? Is she really blind? Do our courts actually refuse a helping hand in cases of injustice.

In biblical times, the king was the judge and the jury; his word was law. As domains and kingdoms grew, the task of administering justice became an impossible burden for one man. Hence the administration of the law was divested among the king's followers until our present system of law evolved. There was a time when the king heard all problems brought to him personally; for these problems which had no remedy at law, he attempted to use his sense of justice, and under his prerogative granted a fair remedy to both parties.

When the burden of administering the law became too giant a task, the king delegated more authority to his court in the matter of hearing cases. These courts were developed not to decide cases for which there were adequate remedies at law, but for such cases where adequate remedies were non-existent. These were the forerunners of our present equity courts.

It can be seen from history that, although the law courts were the blindfold in weighing the facts and arriving at a decision, there was developed a court where the blindfold was removed and the moral aspects of the case could be added to the scales of justice in arriving at a fair and just decision. As the sands of time drained into history, these ecclesiastical courts were replaced by courts of equity or chancery.

Today, courts recognize the injustices that may be wrought upon innocent parties who are victims of those who attempt to use the law to gain their immoral ends. Our law courts feel that justice must be blind if justice for all is to be had.

However, there is an alternative in many cases whereby the injured party may turn to the mercy of the court. This alternative is the equity court, where the blindfold is removed and justice sees all and knows all.

NO! Justice is not blind. It is swift and true. It merely wears the mask of darkness to prevent its being blinded by the evils which surround it. No nation on earth has been so blessed as ours, whose courts maintain as their sole purpose the administration of justice. Our courts are only as weak as the people who run them and only as weak as the people they serve, Justice is blind only to those who fail to serve her and the sword of retribution falls heavy upon their heads.

SUFFOLK ALUMNUS SORTS OUT COUSINS

Revolutionary 'Cousin - Sorter' Chart Outsells Marilyn Monroe Calendars

If you've often wondered how crazy Cousin Clarence is related to aggravating Aunt Annie, Richard H. Nolan can solve your problem.

Nolan, a 45-year-old Boston lawyer and S.U. alumnus, SORTS OUT COUSINS! You may have read about him in the SATURDAY EVENING POST last month.

It all started when Dick Nolan graduated from Suffolk Law School with the determination to practice estate law, which is nice work if you can get it. Trouble is, you can rarely get it.

Startles The Governor

So, he did the next best thing. One day, he ambled into the governor's office and asked the startled chief executive for a job in the state's inheritance-tax office, which handles estates. There was no formal vacancy, but the insistent young lawyer talked himself into a job.

It proved advantageous to all concerned. Nolan got the experience he sought and the Commonwealth got a top-notch hand who served under six administrations, Republican and Democratic.

Massachusetts is quite concerned over who wins a contested estate, because the lucky winner also is awarded a bill for the inheritance tax. Nolan's job occasionally involved figuring out relationships.

Cousins !!!

A few years ago, Nolan had quite a court bout concerning a certain relationship involved in a contested estate. On returning home, his head was still whirling with "cousins," "first cousins," "uncles thrice removed" and "aunts that are relatives in the fourth degree." To prove his own argument to himself as well as to the judge, Nolan decided to write out a diagram.

This was one of those tied score affairs where two relatives were equally close to a few hundred thousand dollars. It seems that relationships are computed by degrees, each degree representing one generation.

Crazy Clarence

Therefore, your son is a relative in the first degree, while in the opposite direction, so is your mother a first degree relative. To get to crazy Cousin Clarence, the count is one for your father, another for your grandmother, a third for her daughter (your father's sister) and a fourth for daughter's son Clarence. Thus, crazy Cousin Clarence is, alas, a relative in the fourth degree (too close for comfort).

When ties are concerned, things really begin to get complicated. Even Einstein would retreat to the comforting confines of his "Theory of Relativity." Consequently, it calls for drawing yourself a diagram.

Nolan did that, found he was correct in his argument and went on to draw a complete, involved family tree. But, to his dismay, he found a large group of relatives that he just couldn't identify (a most frustrating situation).

Removed Cousins

Suddenly, it occurred to him that these unidentified cousins might be the so-called "removed-cousins." Now, "removed-cousins" have plagued the law courts and family-tree-tracers for years. At any rate, Nolan applied his theory of "removed cousins," and — Presto!! — the mystery of the unidentified relatives was solved.

It was as simple as this: Your cousin, regardless of his degree, is the same kind of cousin to your child, except, he is ONCE REMOVED (one generation removed). That's all there is to it, but nobody thinks in those terms. Nolan now knew that most people who thought crazy Clarence was a "second cousin" or a "third cousin" were wrong. Unfortunately for them, in most cases, Clarence is really a first cousin once or twice removed.

Having straightened the matter out once, Nolan was not going to do it again. He copied over his chart in India ink, assigning each relative "a degree of kindred." He humorously labeled it "The Nolan Chart" and added a brief summary of Massachusetts law concerning "who gets what."

Marilyn Monroe

Innocently, Nolan hung the chart in his office, and when on the first day, 28 lawyers asked for copies, Nolan knew he had a gold mine on his hands. He copyrighted the chart and established the Dawn Publishing Co. At $5.00 a piece copies sold faster than Marilyn Monroe calendars. "Dawn" Publishing Co., was a combination of Nolan's initials D. N. and his wife's maiden name initials, Audrey White.

Nolan and his family live in his comfortable West Roxbury home. They're living a little better now, than in the old days. You see, "The Nolan Chart" is hanging in offices all over the world. Everyday, it is consulted and its information often regulates the fate of a million dollar estate by deciding the closest remaining relative.

In addition, Nolan is a recognized expert on sorting out cousins. His collection of cousin-sorting anecdotes could make a best-selling book.

It was the "Nolan Chart of Relationships and Degrees of Kindred" that helped Dick Nolan discover that Adlai Stevenson and Alben Barkley are third cousins; that Senator Russell and Stevenson are fourth cousins; that Barkley and Russell are fourth cousins too.

29 Missing Cousins

Often, Nolan smashes the hopes of people who are ready to inherit an estate. In one case, the only heirs to a $25,000 estate seemed to be two cousins. Suddenly, four others showed up to contest the inheritance. Nolan was called in to see that justice was done. He located so many relatives, that he presented in court a family diagram measuring ten feet by twelve. He found 29 additional cousins in Germany, Czechoslovakia and Hungary. Then, to top it off, he discovered an aunt who outranked them all, which left 35 cousins arguing amongst themselves in a variety of languages.

In one case, Nolan was offered a $1,250,000 fee if he would prove his client was the heir to a vast fortune. There was no other apparent heir. When Nolan investigated, he found another long-lost relative still alive who had no knowledge of the case. Nolan surprised her with a $8,000,000 fortune, and, at the same time lost his million dollar fee.

Still Makes Money

But, have no fears, Dick Nolan still makes a living. He is an official of the Mass. Dept. of Corporation and Taxes. He has his own private practice in estate law, and he is a consultant on relationships. His Dawn Publishing Co. is good for a few dollars too.

So, if you cannot pin down the relationship between Crazy Cousin Clarence and aggravating Aunt Annie, see Richard Henry Nolan. It may mean some money for you, especially if Crazy Clarence is leaving an estate of $6,000,000.

TALKSTERS' TEA TERMINATES TERM

By LORRAINE FOLEY

On Wednesday, May 13, the Suffolk Debaters formally bowed out of the forensic year, 1952-53. An informal tea was held in the President's office and amidst a happy chattering the club bade farewell to Argumentation and Debate.

And now in retrospect let us review the activities of the Suffolk debaters through two highly successful semesters. The club, under the direction of Professor Joseph Strain, was guided by Jean McPhee through procedure, definitions, and contracts.

New Officers

At the first meeting the members chose their officers, electing Nancy Sullivan, vice president, Lorraine Foley secretary, and Arnold Raisin treasurer. After a thorough initiation into debating procedure the club was on its way.

The first clash was with Emerson college resulting in a win and a tie for Suffolk with Jean McPhee and Alan Alford upholding the affirmative and Lorraine Foley and John McDonough defending the negative.

The Argument

The Suffolk teams hotly defended their respective arguments in regards to the national question for this year — "Resolved: That The Congress of the United States Should Enact A Compulsory Fair Employment Practices Law." Federal supremacy, national prestige and internal stability in the government were hotly contested throughout the debates in regard to the national issue.

The Suffolkites waded through Stonehill and other schools gaining confidence and practice, preparing themselves for the highlight of the first Semester debating system, the Vermont Tournament.

The End

At the end of November the eight star debaters of Suffolk accompanied by Dr. Leo Leiberman and Robert Steadman, a former Suffolk debater, were on their way. The varsity team was composed of Jean McPhee and Alan Alford, affirmative and Lorraine Foley and John McDonough, negative.

Phillips, fresh from his senior class victory won his Business club office with little trouble.

Entire Ticket Wins

The entire ticket was sponsored by the '53 executive board of the Business club.

"We had a tough time getting our boys in," said Stan Becker, outgoing president, "but it was worth it. We're leaving the club in fine hands. They'll carry on the tradition set by Hy Fiske last year, by keeping our club the largest, most active organization in the school."

Cariofiles Hits Moccia

An hour-and-a-half of debate preceded nominations. Mel Cariofiles, Student Council prexy, charged that Moccia could not hold two jobs adequately Cariofiles' charge was answered by Moccia, George Day and Al Cohen.

They argued that Moccia was the best judge of his own ability and in their opinion, has "certainly proved his ability to hold more than two positions."

The most bitter battle concerned Art Wells, '54, who campaigned for presidential nomination. Wells was not an official member of the club and was ruled unqualified to run for office.

Jack Resnick, Alan Alford, June Robideau, Phyllis Klein, Tony Bille, Phil Phillips, Fred Kaplan, Al Frank, Lou Abrams, Joanne Thibodeau, Nick Lambros and Bill Moran.

"... the 'Suffolk Journal' awarded an Oscar to Jane Wyman."

"... over 300 frosh registered on September 19 and 20."

SUCCESSFUL YEAR FOR DRAMA CLUB

The S.U. Dramatic club experienced what may be called a season of "quality drama" in place of quantity productions.

The Derne street dramatists produced two fine plays despite a lack of volunteer actors, student cooperation and small financial gain.

The first, "Goodbye My Fancy," played to an appreciative audience in December.

Superb acting by S.U. coeds Shirley Hunkins and Anne Sallee kept the playgoers amused and interested.

The Best In 4 Years

When plans for a farce called "Reserve Two For Murder" fell through because of casting difficulties the club picked up its props and came up with a new production, "Night Must Fall."

The play was described by "Journal reviewer SAC as: "the best Drama club production in four years — it had everything — authenticity, emotion, was fast moving and carefully done."

It was the most notable production to play the boards in the little theatre off State House Square. Flawless acting by Suffolk thespians: Phyllis Klein, Joe Corey, Stan Becker, Sandee Lydon, Jean McPhee and Lorraine Foley contributed to its praises.

Art For Art's Sake

"All in all," said club secretary Phyllis Klein, "the season was a social and theatrical success, although financially it was poor."

The standard of excellence achieved by this year's Dramatic club ranks high among the notable contributions in the '52-'53 Suffolk calendar.

EDITORIALS

ABOUT OURSELVES

A word about ourselves . . . . . Considering the handicaps, we tried to bring you quality rather than quantity. The latter was impossible. The former was our only choice and was undoubtedly the best one.

Our first "Journals" were the experiments of novices. The later editions came closer to our standards.

We have not pulled any punches. We wrote what we thought was for the good of our school. Often, it has made many enemies. However, we tried to stress impartiality. Both sides of any controversy were always presented.

We have learned to love our work on the "Journal". Sometimes we feel that all the aggravation, the toil and long hours were not in vain. We hope not.

At any rate, we have found a wonderful institution in our little tabloid—an institution that we pass on to you. Keep it nourished and help it grow and by doing so, you will help build Suffolk into an academic leader.

A NEW CAPTAIN

And, at the same time, we call on the underclassmen—tomorrow's seniors. Next year's "Journal" will be captained by a member of the class of '55—Jack Barsoum.

Your editors have found him the most qualified, the hardest worker, the most sincere student in the school. Jack is a good journalist, a colorful writer and has the welfare of S.U. foremost in his mind and heart.

As a third year editor-in-chief, Jack has a full year during which to experiment. With only a few suggestions we have left the choice of a staff in his hands.

With your cooperation, encouragement, support and patience and with the grace of the board of trustees, Jack Barsoum will have two successful years.

Support your newspaper. Make the future "Journals" the best in S.U.'s history.

AS WE ARE

Al Capp, chronicler of the adventures of Lil Abner, Daisy Mae and those fantastic creatures known as Schmoos, puts down his pencil and takes up his pen to give us a look at ourselves as we are in a recent issue of PAGEANT.

His article satirizes us from tip to toe, which is all well and good, but his greatest coup d'etat comes when he takes a look at literature in the United States. The section dealing with the profusion of sex on the newstands comes as a welcome surprise to the JOURNAL which has been meaning to treat the subject also. Since Mr. Capp opened the way for us we will proceed to take off our gloves and grapple with the subject bare-handed.

The wealth of sexy (that's the only word for it) literature which adorns our corner drug store magazine racks is overwhelming. From every angle one sees half-dressed, sleepy-eyed, femme fatales leering at us. The clear photography and vivid colors used on the covers prostitute commercialism to the utmost.

It's no secret that most of the books with half nude damsels on the cover proceed to sell sex as you turn the pages. Once the book is bought the mission has been accomplished.

The effect of this "cheese cake" literature serves to harm youngsters and certainly gives them the "wrong" values of life. Publishers, illustrators and book sellers realize this, but complain that there is a buck to be made so why not make it. Sure they make money hand over foot at the expense of the youngsters' minds, usually at a period when they believe everything they read seems to be the real thing.

When booksellers and publishers traffic with young minds their crime is, to say the least, abominable. Commercialism, it seems has grown into a Frankenstein, continually groping for that next coin just up ahead in Johnnie's pocket.

A Congressional committee has been investigating this vice on the newstand; and recently the BOSTON PILOT had a series of articles probing this problem; churches of all faiths have been scoring the need for ethical principles among book sellers and promotional agents for a long time. We have just seen the dean of comics bombast sex on the newstands in words and pictures in the PAGEANT.

It's no coincidence that so many people—among them congressmen, priests, rabbis, ministers, P.T.A. groups—the list is endless, have been attacking the problem with fury. The JOURNAL hopes that you too will join the crusade for morality on the newstands.

A NEW EDITOR SPEAKS

Before putting the final touches on the '53 "Journal" let's stop to look back at the year's struggles.

Under the co-leadership of Dick Dwyer and Al Cohen, the "Journal" was lifted high into the realm of journalistic greatness.

Accomplishment must precede acclaim; the "Journal" knows this only too well. From September to now it has been an unending and most towering task.

Suffolk will never forget that wonderful Christmas package—ACCREDITATION! The "Journal," immediately taking up pen, etched a graphic and most indelible account causing the entire educational world to take another look at the little school atop Beacon Hill.

As always when great strides are taken, an emphatic pat on the back is in order. But, when the load is carried by a surprising few, the deed becomes even more meritorious.

There are many at Suffolk who are merely students in name only; they exhibit no school spirit and support few extra-curricular functions. Naturally, a portion of this inactive faction have concrete excuses—they must work after school hours.

However, we'd rather not rationalize and conclude that other schools also share this identical problem.

A school survives because its students show love for their institution. They echo its name and herald its tributes.

Logically, then, it is with the class officers and club leaders that our survival rests. It is hoped that this nucleus, by virtue of hard work and achievement, will instill in all others the general feeling of cooperation and participation that is so badly needed.

The "Journal" will work side by side with these leaders!

JACK BARSOUM
Editor-in-Chief of the '54 "Journal"

THE ELECTIONS

All doubt has vanished—next year's senior class is in good hands. The election proved it!

77 out of 99 juniors cast their vote during May 1, 2, 3.

This is more than a record, it is the finest display of unified class spirit we have seen in four years at Suffolk.

The election campaign was boisterous and exciting—the way a campaign should be. The corridor arguments and rec hall wrangling paid off—in votes.

We thought the class of '52-'53 was "the greatest" and we dislike to knock ourselves down a peg, but we must. The class of '53-'54 has proved itself ready, able, and willing to work hard, fast and above all, as a cooperative group.

Our sincere best wishes to Phil Phillips, Jim McGrath, Sandee Lydon and Student Council trio Tom Moccia, Warren Brown and Jack Klayman.

It's nice to know Suffolk picked the right talent for the best job.

PUBLICITY CLUB

The Publicity club has functioned as an unofficial university organization, but its many contributions deserve mention in the final edition of the "Journal."

Its members consisted of all those who helped promote and encourage social, student and worthy activities at S.U. during the year.

Their promotional successes included: a Thanksgiving dance, a benefit Jazz concert, WASU dances, a Big Brother Social, Business club dinners, the Miss Suffolk contest and yearbook promotion.

Their work deserves to be recognized because it went on behind the scenes—they did the elbow work and shunned the glory.

The Publicity club functioned as an unofficial club in '52-'53.

It is hoped that it will achieve official club rating in the fall. It deserves it!

Sandee Lydon, '53
Queen of Suffolk

Phil Phillips
Faces Facts,
Vows Reform

Fresh from two political victories, Phil Phillips, new senior class prexy and Business club secretary, cited the need of unity at S.U.

"Our main problem is the lack of coordination and cooperation between each class and the law school," said Phillips.

"Next year I will strive to unite the classes and the law school. It can be done; it must be done."

Joint Class Efforts

Phillips intends to boost University social functions sponsored by the joint efforts of all the classes. The profits from each function would be divided proportionately between the classes.

Phillips listed his five-point platform:

1. Provide funds to help defray senior expenses with such activities as a hayride, moonlight cruise, beach party, prom, Christmas card sales, dances.
  2. Promote lasting friendships that will live after college days.
  3. Promote cooperation between the University and the Law school.
  4. Bring the alumni closer to the student body.
  5. Promote class spirit and school spirit.
- Phil was happy over the election results since the huge voting turnout but was a fine indication of a rise in class spirit.

Letter To Students
Apologies And
Congratulations

I wish to apologize for the poorly run chess tournament of recent weeks. The tournament started off on the wrong foot when the names of non-players appeared on the players list. Their friends had placed their names on the list.

After weeding out these names, classes prevented other players from meeting. Games were forfeited because players did not post their available times so that meetings could be arranged.

However, games have been played and the field was narrowed to two players, Joseph Zaitcheck and William Munroe. These two had a play-off of three games from which Joe Zaitchik emerged the winner.

In September, a new tournament will be played and all those who are interested may sign up then.

☆ Farewell To Graduates ☆

As we watch with pride your degree conferred Faculty thoughts travel back through the years and note the progress you have made. As you accept that degree, your thoughts are racing ahead to the homes, travel, careers and honors you anticipate. Such is Commencement: to the Faculty, the end; to you, the beginning.

May this beginning mean for the young barrister a place at the Bar, the Bench, and in government. And to all of Suffolk's graduates may this be the beginning not only of material success, but also of the growth in heart and spirit to reverence and wisdom.

Good News For Suffolk.

When Maston A. Nelson, Jr., and Rico Salerno graduate on June 21, they will put Suffolk University on the map.

Nelson is the first student in the history of Suffolk to be accepted to a dental school.

Salerno, on the other hand, was recently accepted to Georgetown Medical School in Washington, D.C.

Both boys took part in extra-curricula activities and have been Dean's List nominees. Let's give them a hearty cheer of well deserved, "Congratulations."

This column is dedicated to the senior class. We shall tell you briefly what many of the seniors have in mind upon graduation.

George Day, is thinking seriously of going to Law School.

Joanne Thibideau, Miss Personality, had serious intentions of going to a graduate school of Sociology. However, her fiancée slipped an engagement ring on her finger and now the couple are anticipating marriage. Sounds like a graduation present.

Stan, the man, Becker hopes to go into public accounting. Good Luck, Stan!

Weston E. McArthur plans to enter the field of social work and possibly a graduate school of sociology.

Bill O'Mahoney, our silent genius, has already been accepted to Boston College Graduate School of Social Work. His main interest is psychiatric social work.

Gloria Bosfield has also, made the choice many young girls graduating from college seem to prefer . . . that is marriage. A June wedding is planned.

Alvin S. Robb, Jr. will be seen next year in B.U. Graduate School of Counseling and Psychology.

Mel Cariofiles, this year's president of the Student Council will be spending next year in the Air Force.

Floyd M. Foye plans to do graduate study in biology and chemistry at Boston University.

Richard A. Stowall will be seen in an army uniform next year.

Nancy Sullivan, a very active member of the French club, is interested in foreign service. She is seriously thinking of going to Korea to take care of war orphans.

Allen Getman will also be joining Uncle Sam's troops.

Martin Goren and Charlie Avallonne will be hearing wedding bells in June.

The most versatile, Jean McPhee, will be doing graduate work at Simmons School of Sociology. Jean will long be remembered for her excellent performance in scholarship as well as in school activities.

Burt Herman will be seen this summer as a head-waiter at a summer resort in Gloucester. In the fall, he plans to invade the business world.

Al Cohen and Dick Dwyer, Co-editors-in-chief of the "Journal," at the moment, have only one desire and that is to put out the best "Journal" ever, this issue. Al, by the way, will be joining the Air Force upon graduation.

Lewis Abrams will be attending Simmons School of Social Work. He intends to be a psychiatric social worker.

Walter Cassidy says he hasn't any plans for next year. However, Uncle Sam has. Look for him in an army uniform.

Well, I guess this winds up my column for the year. Before I do, however, I want to extend my most sincere appreciation to the class of '54' for voting me to the Student Council.

"At S.U. Mike Linquata promised better parking facilities and breezed in as senior class president after a vigorous campaign."

SUFFOLK LAW ALUMNI DINNER

At Suffolk Law's mid-winter alumni dinner were: Back row, left to right: Justice Henry F. Duggan, District Court of Peabody (1927), Justice A. Vincent Kelleher, District Court of Newburyport (1938) Justice Harry Kalus, Second District Court of Plymouth (925) Justice William H. Henchey, Fourth District Court of Eastern Middlesex (1921), Special Justice James Ashton Mulhall, District Court of Eastern Norfolk (1923). Front row, left to right: Justice John W. ## 156 S. U. Members Enjoy Best Year For Business Club

One hundred and fifty-six members, the largest enrollment in Business club history, banded together to make the '52-'53 Business club one of the finest organizations at 20 Derne.

The social calendar bulged with activities as club members heard four speakers, took three field trips and enjoyed special dinners.

Aside from regular meetings, guest lecturers and coffee and doughnut sessions, the Business club promoted—

Social Success

The Miss Mac anniversary party held on December 5 at the Hampshire House. It was a social success from the start.

The annual Business club dinner held in the Rec hall on December 17. Guest speaker, Peter Quinn, personnel director for Filene's, spoke on "Employment Opportunities in Retailing."

A.M.A. Conference

Participated in the second annual Spring Conference of Student Marketing Clubs at Northeastern.

Suffolk was one of the big powers at the conference due mainly to the public relations skill of George Day, the moderating finesse of Sandee Lydon and the diplomatic welcoming address of Stan Becker.

The club brought its whirlwind year to a close at the annual Banquet at the Boston Yacht Club on May 11.

Dewey Speaker

Guest speaker was Theodore Miller, vice-president in charge of marketing at Dewey Almy Chemical Co., Cambridge.

Faculty members present to congratulate members for a successful year included: Mr. Mahoney, Dean Munce, Dr. Archon and Mr. Johnson.

THE VICTORS! Tom Moccia (l), Student Council and Business club prexy congratulates senior class prexy and Business club sec'y, Phil Phillips. Note Phil's left fist.

The Yankees beat the Dodgers in the World Series and the White House prepared for a $5,000,000 face lifting, McCauley, Mikan and Groza shattered college basketball records.

Vogel and Einstein
Dr. Stanley Vogel became assistant professor of English and German at Suffolk. An A.B. degree was offered in speech 1950 . . . a new year born of hope, shattered by fear . . . war in Korea . . . Ben Hogan makes his "miracle comeback" . . . "The Cardinal" was a best seller . . . "Third Man Theme" haunted the nation's juke boxes . . .

And at Derne and Temple the Rec hall sported a new lunch counter where students discussed the season's hockey opener (Holy Cross 6, S.U. 3) over hot coffee and doughnuts.

The Boston City Council refused audience to four Japanese Diet members studying American democracy in action.

Ted and the Purge
The nation chuckled when the mighty "Big Mo" went aground. Ted Williams, whose 1950 contract of $125,000 made him the highest paid baseball star, was made honorary member of the S.U. Varsity club.

Senator McCarthy began his Red purge of the State Department. Bob Cousy was All-American.

Gilda Corso was chosen Miss Suffolk, 1950. The hockey team wound up a great season with a 4-3 sudden death win over St. Anselm's. And Jake Stahl was hoop star of the month.

Korean runners swept the Marathon and the Red Sox and Dodgers were picked for the pennant. NATO went into effect.

April Foolish Sophomores
The first April Fool edition of the "Journal" was a sell out. Joe Saponaro finished fourth in the inter-collegiate billiard tourney. Suffolk adopted the "Rams" as an official nickname.

Recognition day . . . the senior prom . . . graduation . . . now we called ourselves sophomores.

Ben Hogan won the U.S. Open

1951 . . . a year of conflict . . . the Korean war dragged on . . . at home atomic bombs were tested in the Arizona desert . . . "The Caine Mutiny" began its two year reign as best seller . . . Mario Lanza sang "Be My Love" . . . Michigan upset California 14-6 in the Rose Bowl.

At S.U., Judge Frank J. Donahue received the school's first honorary LL.D. Joan Blondell crowned Sandee Lydon, Queen of Suffolk.

Flying saucers turned out to be Navy weather balloons. The Reds were retreating in Korea.

Costello's Hands
Housewives abandoned the family wash in favor of TV stars Estes Kefauver, Rudolph Halley and the hands of Frank Costello. Charles beat Walcott to retain the heavyweight title.

Judy Holliday and Jose Ferrer won Oscars. And a deposed General MacArthur returned home to a hero's welcome.

The Red Sox were a cinch for the pennant. And a Japanese survivor of Hiroshima won the marathon.

and the soccer team kept losing. Secretary of State Dean Acheson reported the end of the Berlin Blockade. Einstein announced his new theory of gravitation.

Rudolph and Bertha
At S.U., Mike Linquta promised better parking facilities and breezed in as senior class president after a vigorous campaign. S.U.'s hit show of the month, was "Bertha, The Beautiful Typewriter Girl."

And the holiday season echoed with "Rudolph the Red Nosed Reindeer."

and the Red Sox set a league scoring record with a 29-4 win over the Browns.

MacArthur was named U. N. commander in Korea and Truman seized the strike-bound railroads.

Songs and School
"My Foolish Heart" topped the hit parade and movie hits were "The Men" and "Sunset Boulevard."

S.U. started its 44th year. The "Suffolk Rambler" replaced the name "Journal" and a Reading Clinic was our newest scholastic improvement.

Seoul, Korea fell and U.N. forces landed at Inchon. Joe Louis tried a comeback but was beaten by champion Ezzard Charles.

At Suffolk, the Drama club presented "Laura." The Student Council founded a weekly paper, "The Marquee." The Variety club's "Talent Roster" played to a capacity crowd.

3 Pass On
The Yanks beat the Phillies in the World Series. "Call Me Madam" opened to rave reviews and the "Disenchanted" was a best seller. At the movies we saw "Bitter Rice" and "The Glass Menagerie." Everyone hummed the "Tennessee Waltz." Edna St. Vincent Millay, George Bernard Shaw and Al Jolson died that fall.

The Reds began an all out drive in Korea, and Eisenhower was appointed NATO Supreme Commander in Europe. Rome's Holy Year came to a close.

School's Out
School was over and 300 graduates left 20 Derne. We were juniors, now.

Truce negotiations began in Korea while Anglo-Iranian oil talks collapsed. Newspaperman William Ottis was railroaded into jail behind the iron curtain. The West Point crib scandal shocked the nation. Kansas was swept by devastating floods.

Lee Wallard set a new Indianapolis Speedway mark. Randy Turpin upset Ray Robinson and Jersey Joe Walcott finally ko.o'd Ezzard Charles to become heavyweight champ.

Ike and Taft
"Stalag 17" opened to critics' praise on Broadway while the cinema smash of the season was "A Place in the Sun." Summer tourists whistled "Too Young and "High the Moon."

Taft announced his candidacy for president and Ike was rumored to be a good prospect for the Democratic nomination.

In September, the "Suffolk Rambler" began its clean up campaign.

The Yankees won another

1952 . . . election year . . . at sea Kurt Carlsen's "Flying Enterprise" battled the elements . . . prison riots and pantie raids . . . a king died . . . Johnny Ray cried while the rest of us whistled "High Noon" and "Blue Tango".

At Suffolk an Industrial Relations Clinic (the first of its kind) was a success. A custodian strike crippled Rec hall activities and student affairs. Joanne Thibodeau was S.U.'s Queen of Hearts.

The world mourned King George VI's death. Election fever gripped the nation.

Artist and Fool
March winds were mild compared to the furor caused by a Suffolk art display. Another "Suffolk Journal" April Fool edition found a "key communist cell at S.U."

"African Queen," "Quo Vadis" and "Encore" were the top films while Broadway enjoyed "Mrs. McThing" and "The Grass Harp."

Tuition at S.U. jumped to $400 to meet costs. Fifty-five students were honored on Recognition Day.

Truman's seizure of the striking steel mills was voted unconstitutional by the Supreme Court. Ike came home to campaign for the Republican nomination and Ridgeway succeeded him as European commander.

Old Soldiers
MacArthur's keynote speech opened a Republican convention

1953 . . . Republicans started house cleaning . . . a tyrant died and a new face arose in the Kremlin . . . floods smashed through the Holland dikes . . . and a queen died . . . Korean prisoners exchanged . . . Southern California 7, Wisconsin 0, in the Rose Bowl.

It was final exam time at 20 Derne.

Jose Ferrer starred in "Moulin Rouge" while a Pulitzer prize winner, "Picnic," opened on Broadway.

Goodbye Joe!
Joseph Stalin died at 9:50 p.m., March 5. Malenkov took over.

The Braves went to Milwaukee and Shirley Booth and Gary Cooper won Academy Awards.

World Series, this time from the "miracle" Giants. Robinson regained his title and Marciano became number one heavyweight contender by knocking out an aged Joe Louis.

Two hundred thousand Americans spent Christmas in Korean foxholes and dugouts. Moscow said war was not imminent.

that nominated Ike and Nixon, while a few weeks later, the Democrats chose Stevenson and Sparkman.

American swept the '52 olympics in Finland. And King Farouk was deposed in Cairo.

U.S. Marines fought the bloody battle of Bunker Hill, Korea.

We were seniors . . . Professor Fiorillo was our class advisor and our first dance (at the swank Boston club, Thanksgiving Eve) tripled our class treasury.

We were the first senior class at S.U. to cite the Frosh at a Beanie Dance. Fourteen seniors were elected to "Who's Who" and the Rec Hall Volunteers took matters into their own hands.

The Yankees and Ike
The Yankees won another World Series, this time from Brooklyn. Ike won in a Republican landslide.

Ernest Hemingway made a comeback with his Pulitzer prize winner, "Old Man and the Sea." Jack Tony Desprito rode a record 389 winners.

Ike visited Korea. On Friday, December 12, at 2:45 p.m., Suffolk University received its most welcome Christmas surprise—Accreditation.

The world mourned Queen Mary's death and America was saddened over the passing of its greatest athlete, Jim Thorpe.

Shirley Hunkins was Miss Suffolk '53. And Jack Resnick scored 75 points against Burdett.

The senior prom . . . a barn dance . . . some parties. Graduation was June 21.

EXIT . . . PROUD, HAPPY AND A LITTLE SCARED.

Herman Turns Reporter Traces Mr. Carson To Capitol Walk-in

Burt Herman, "Journal" and "Beacon" business manager, turned reporter last month coming up with an exclusive interview with Richard Carson, former S.U. business school instructor.

On tour through the nation's capital, Burt, "the sleuth," traced Mr. Carson to a below-the-street-level shop somewhere in the Beacon Hill section of Washington. Mr. Carson is co-owner of an antique and interior decorating shop.

"It's one of those basement affairs six steps down from the sidewalk," Burt told us.

"Paintings, antiques, chairs, tables — the place is crowded with old furniture, mostly Louis XIV, French and Italian," said Burt.

"Mr. Carson's business is moving right along. "In fact," said Burt, "he already has plans to open a new shop upstairs."

Burt exchanged Suffolk memories with Mr. Carson and kept him up on all the news.

"I even brought down the latest copies of the 'Journal,'" he said.

Mr. Carson sends his greetings to everyone at 20 Derne and invites students to call on him any time. Burt Herman will supply all information regarding his address.

COUNCIL SKETCHES

Do you know your Council Representatives? For those who are not too familiar with their background and their platform here is some valuable information.

Tom Moccia, President of the Student Council is a graduate of Boston Technical high, '47. Tom, 22, plans to enter law school after graduation. He plans to operate the council in a more orderly and efficient manner. He does not intend to interpret the constitution himself, but will leave important problems to the discretion of the faculty advisor. He plans to continue the "Rambler."

Les Shohan, 20, a product of Roxbury Memorial high, '50, is vice-president of the Council. Les does not believe in making absurd promises or attempting anything which cannot be carried out successfully. He shall concentrate on better recreational facilities. He urges cooperation between class officers and members of the Student Council.

Norman Bligh, English High, '47, age 23 is Student Council treasurer. "I do not believe that the main function of a student council is to act as a social club or a cleaning house for 'lonely hearts.' It should be rather a body to promote student welfare in a militantly democratic way."

Shirley Hunkins, 18, new secretary of the council, is a graduate of Revere High, '52. She plans to be a teacher after graduation. She is striving for a better Student Council. "There is much to be done and I shall try my best to see that it is accomplished."

Warren Brown, Roxbury Memorial High, '48, senior Council representative, is interested in psychiatric social work. He says: "We have a job to do, a big job, but you will be proud of us when we finish."

Jack Klayman, 24, Malden High, Bentley School of Accounting '50 will work tirelessly for the benefit of the University and class of '54. By the way, Jack is a pretty good musician—blows a fabulous horn in a dance band.

Dick Hassett, Woburn High, '50, age 20, is planning to enter Law School upon graduation. As sophomore Council representative, he says: "I shall work primarily for the best interest of the class of '55."

Bill Head, graduate of Northside High School, Corning, N.Y., '46. His home is in Corning, N.Y. and he is a pre-legal student. He says he is going to get full Council representation for the Junior class.

Phil Iuliano, Watertown High, '52, age 18. He plans to be a commercial lawyer. His platform is to do the best possible for the sophomore class and the school.

tion, was fast moving and carefully done.

One, Two and Three

Three things made it great. First, the choice of play (a Recognition Day trophy to Emlyn Williams). Second, good directing (rates a Recognition Day certificate to Ernie Amaral). Third, the cast — they played their parts like real pros. A difficult job well done.

Personally I'm glad it was a fine performance. Being my swan song, I would have hated to review another "Goodbye My Fancy." Cheerio!

That eternal monster—the parking problem at S.U.

REVIEWS

BY SAC

S. U. Dramatists Superb In Emlyn Williams' "Night Must Fall"

Danny (no last name) is a psycho killer who murders, hacks up and hides the pieces of a beautiful blond in rich Mrs. Bramson's trash pile. The sentimental psycho hides everything, that is, except the head, which he preserves in a little black satchel. Pretty soon, Lovable Dan the hatchet man decides to knock off old lady Bramson—"smothers her with a pillow, you know."

When he isn't killing, Dan is producing offsprings, specifically with Dora, Mrs. Bramson's cockney, not-too-intelligent maid. In fact, that's how the whole thing starts.

Neurotic Nuts

Dora is pregnant and Mrs. Bramson (a miserly, nagging, old hpyochondriac) decides to legitimize the affair. And so the story plunges through two hours of neurotic nuts with English accents.

Emlyn Williams has written a fine, well-knit psychological murder that has the terror-stricken audience leaping in fright, no less than six times. In addition, it is a fine description of unusual characters. It adds up to good drama and fascinating entertainment.

Phyllis Klein screamed and nagged through three acts as the miserly old lady Bramson. Her big part came in Act III, Scene I. Alone at night with Deadly Dan lurking about, hysteria begins to clutch Mrs. Bramson. It finally bursts forth in a raging terror. Phyllis' portrayal was sensational. It was the best college performance we have seen.

Dan the Psycho

Joe Corey was Dan the psycho who murdered in his spare time. Dan cracked up four or five times during the play—crying, screaming, wringing his hands, going into all sorts of tantrums. Then, the next minute, he was the cheerful, friendly boy-Friday of rich Mrs. Bramson.

Only Olivia, Mrs. Bramson's niece, nurse and catch all saw through Dan. In fact, she felt pretty sorry for the nut.

But then, why not — she was queer herself. It seems they were both suffering from an advance case of persecution complex.

As Dan, Joe Corey handled the most difficult part in the play and did a masterful job. It was Joe's last appearance in an S.U. production as he graduates this year. As such, it was the best proof that Joe Corey can whittle a future from the stage.

Foley Comes Through

Olivia was another neurotic and Lorraine Foley did an adequate job. There is still room for improvement, specifically in her vocal presentation. Sometimes she sounded like she was snapped out of it and gave a fine performance. In her scene with Dan, as the latter is about to kill her, Lorraine was a real pro.

Jean McPhee is another senior who will be missed next year. As Mrs. Bramson's wise-cracking, cynical, gossipy, independent cook, Jean (along with Sandee Lydon) supplied the chuckles.

Steals the Scenes

Jean and Sandee were the scene — stealers of the show. With authentic cockney accents they fitted about the stage gathering in all the loose ends of "Night Must Fall."

Al (Tennessee) Alford (without his guitar) supporting a moustache, was the typical English bore, who talked too much and did too little. It was not the best part for Al.

Lorraine And Al

He had some trouble with his accent, but his facial expressions were better controlled than in his last Drama club appearance. Considering all, he played the part of the disappointed suitor quite well. He gets nowhere with Olivia (Lorraine)—but who knows what goes on off stage.

And guess who played Inspector Belsize of Scotland Yard? It was Smiling Stan Becker, in person, making his dramatic debut. He was a little jittery at his first try, but settled down after awhile to a smooth nautical portrayal "Come along, Dan!" So it all added up to the best Drama club production in four years. It had authenticity, emo-

Address To Graduating Seniors

As in nature, there are many processes and occasions that are seasonable and Commencement is one of these annual experiences. The joys and regrets take the same form year after year—only the faces and names differ.

The proficiency of the graduating seniors is very high—as is to be expected of all our graduates. But in addition to doing well in course work, this year the senior class has been particularly active in extracurricular affairs and has sponsored many social events of important order.

Publicly I must be interested only in the quality of the students' instruction—but underneath it all I know that extracurricula activities are a very important part of a college education, and consequently, I favor a considered amount of this type of participation.

For a final word to our graduating seniors, I want to say: "Treasure the old, evaluate the new, synthesize the both, and forever let your 'reach' be a little beyond your immediate grasp."

Dean Robert J. Munce

SUMMER EMPLOYMENT

We can again offer students pleasant, congenial, remunerative outdoor work in our sales department. If accepted, we will train and guarantee you $55.00 weekly while learning. After the training period, we feel confident you can equal the average earning of $80.00 to $125.00 weekly established by other college employees.

A personal interview will be arranged at your convenience.

S. U. FADS FLY FAST DURING '53

I guess it all started when Phyllis Klein put me on the science fiction kick.

All science fiction stories have peculiar monsters called BEMS. For the record a BEM is a bug-eyed-monster peculiar to planets with lush vegetation and intuitive perception trees.

These BEMS started the "fad parade" which was to become one of the season's phenomena at Suffolk.

Cosmic Rays

Every time Phyllis and I met in the corridors we exchanged the royal BEM greeting—arms outstretched and eyes spurring cosmic rays.

The greeting caught on quick and pretty soon everyone was a loyal BEM greeter.

The BEMS died quickly; but other fads replaced them.

First fad was the "Yo-Yo" club. Members' names were posted in the Student Council office. There were no rules or regulation, just, Yo-Yos!

Middle Names

Then we had the "Middle Name" club founded by T. Joseph Moccia who was chagrined to think that two prominent members of the senior class were the only students who had middle names.

This club was an active organization dedicated to the propagation of otherwise neglected middle names.

But we went on to bigger and better clubs.

Friend!

Most popular club was the "Friendship club." There weren't too many members but those that joined, had a good time and carried out its slogan to the best of their ability.

Stan Becker, Business club prexy, was somehow overlooked in the formation of this club. He never did get a chance to practice its motto "You Too Can Shaft Your Buddy!"

The "Warriors" club was next in line. All that was required was a nervous stomach, shaky hands and sleepless nights.

Then came the best loved and most revered club of them all.

Everyone's Crazy

This was the "Crazy-Mixed-Up" club. You were a shoo in if you could prove you were crazy or mixed up. If you were both you were a committee member.

Consequently, this club enjoyed capacity enrollment.

German influence brought us the "Und and Mitt" club.

Und it was a selected club whose members came to meetings with Alpine hats and 12 inch beer steins.

Sandee Lydon, not to be outdone by club fever, founded the "Little Dingers" club.

Members specialized in singing, "Ja das ist dien hummmm dinger."

Spiritual director was Gunther Fritz.

Point Getters

Final fad was the point getters association which grew out of the farcical matter in which the Student Council handled Recognition Day.

"Point" chairman was Mel carry your own files) Cariofiles.

Whatever you did you got points. Examples — George Day got ever so many points for being himself.

☆ CAMERA SHOTS ☆

"The Variety club's 'Talent Roster' played to a capacity crowd."

"The hockey team wound up a great season with a 4-3 win over St. Anslem's."

"... and the soccer team kept losing."

Rubin Ruined By Stonehill As Rams Lose 14-6

Art Rubin, starting his first game of the season against Stonehill College, just didn't have it, as the boys from North Easton lambasted him for nine runs in five innings, and turned the game into a 14-6 rout.

Fast, Fabulous Fads

Rita Cohen got no points because she was Al Cohen's wife. And so it went during the Suffolk school year of '52-'53.

We leave the formation of new clubs to those following in our footsteps.

Good luck and may the fads be fast, humorous and fabulous. R.M.D.

Stonehill blasted Rubin for two runs in the very first inning, but the Rams reciprocated in the latter part as a result of a walk to Stahl, a Brenner double, and a boot of McDermott's grounder.

Two more runs marked the top of the second, and again Suffolk retaliated to tie the score after a walk to Rubin and Stahl was supplemented by a long triple by Brenner.

In the third, the first two batters to face Rubin were easily retired, then the roof fell in. Three straight walks was followed by a double, single, and another double, and before Brenner could put the fire out, five runs had crossed the plate.

It was no contest after that, even though Suffolk rallied for a couple of runs in the sixth frame.

By ART RUBIN

The Varsity Club, formerly a stalwart in the S.U. extra-curricular dept. really took it on the chin this year . . . Main reason for it was the unwillingness and neglect of the club's officers to interest the lettermen in joining . . . Let's hope the future finds better results from both officers and members.

Popular athletic director Charlie Law, is progressing rapidly at his home at Weston, after illness benched him earlier in the year . . . Congrats to John Colburn of the faculty, and Dick Thomas for pinch-hitting in place of Charlie.

According to reliable sources, next seasons basketball team will be a much stronger aggregation than this year's . . . At least three greater Boston high school stars will be turning to 20 Derne for a college education in the fall semester . . . All are well over six feet.

Prime aim of the baseball team is to attain membership in the newly formed Greater Boston Baseball League . . . This league consists of the major college teams in the vicinity . . . Only hitch in the idea may be that we are not yet recognized by the N.C.A.A.

Have you noticed the majority of the baseball team is made up of refugees from the fall and winter sports campaign Only two players will depart from the hockey team at graduation . . . They are Lido DiMasi and Chip Muse . . . There are more athletes on the Dean's List then ever before?

Vinny Rizza, student manager of the hockey and baseball squads, deserves much credit for the impressive schedules of both groups . . . Only a sophomore, Vinny should help the staggering sports program immensely before he receives his sheepskin.

The Rammettes, S.U. girl's basketball team may not have set the college athletic world agog by their playing, but you have to admit they did pretty up the hardwoods.

Rumors persist that the soccer team may be on its way back to Suffolk, depending of course, on the size of next year's enrollment . . . In the past, the booters have been suffering from malnutrition due to player shortages.

A much needed medical clinic will be introduced in the school . . . The clinic will occupy the athletic office which will be moved to the student affairs room . . . Lettermen better look for another hangout come next September.

A frosh-soph vs junior-senior softball game is in the making . . . Game will be played on the Charlesbank before exams, with the losers suffering a dunking in the muddy Charles.

Other means for the presentation of S.U. letters to those athletes who have earned them, must be decided on, since the annual Varsity Banquet has been overlooked this year . . . The event usually highlighted the conclusion of the school's athletic calendar.

Brightest star of the year award goes to the spaghetti eating hoopster Jackie Resnick . . . Showing much improvement over last year, Jack cinched the verdict after flipping in 75 points during a game this season . . . Top honors as freshmen sensation of the year goes to George Manoles, Suffolk's "Golden Greek" . . . George starred in both baseball and hockey.

The "Journal" predicts:

The next lightweight champion will be Providence bred George Arujo . . . Native Dancer will win over Dark Star by three lengths in the coming Preakness . . . Ted Williams, star left fielder of the Boston Red Sox, will be discharged by the Marine Corps before the end of the current season, and will rejoin the club . . . Harry Aggannis will open up the pro football season as first string quarterback on the Baltimore Colts . . . Tommy Collins will fight just one more time before drawing back the covers . . . USC and UCLA will switch from the single wing formation to the box T this coming season . . . The Bruins will snap Detroit's monopoly on first place, and will be on top of the heap the next time the NHL season comes to a finale . . . Bill Spivey, the accused bribe taker, will be reinstated in the NBA . . . The American and National league pennant race will finish this way . . .

Good luck in your exams. See you all again next year.

Food, Fun and Frolic As Seniors Bow Out

A dinner-prom, a square dance and private parties highlighted the senior weekend as the class of '53 ushered out its college social life in fabulous fashion.

The dinner-prom at the swank Woodland Country Club, Newton, Friday, May 1, was a tremendous success.

Music and Food

Dinner was served at 8 p.m. The main course was a choice of turkey or lobster. The Paratones supplied soft music during the meal.

After the meal, 42 couples danced, laughed and forget about impending final exams.

Mrs. Robert Munce and her husband, Dean Munce, were voted 'King and Queen of the Ball' and danced a beautiful solo waltz in appreciation. It was the congeniality of the affair that made it a universal success.

'Crazy Cats'

Lace, net gowns in pastel colors seemed the female dress of the day, while the beaux favored white jackets with a sprinkle of powder-blue-gray formals. A few "crazy cats" (ex. Tom Moccia, Stan Becker, Listy De Fruscio and Lenny Miraglia) sported plaid sashes and ties.

The formal function broke up a little past midnight and the fun was just beginning. The couples grouped off and headed to private parties, all-night spots, Chinatown, the Bavarian Rathskeller, etc. Saturday's dawn was greeted by many formal attired Suffolks.

Square Dance

But the hit of the weekend was the Saturday night barn dance at Mrs. Kelsy's Ranch in Lexington. A merry group weathered a heavy rainstorm to fill the barn.

But it was a real crazy affair with everyone stomping, Virginia reeling, heel and toeing and waltzing to an old fashion fiddle, piano, banjo and caller.

George Day walked off with costume honors. He wore dungarees that barely reached his shins, a red-checked shirt, an old vest and a black derby. The girls wore skirts, blouses and gingham dresses.

The Farmer's Daughter

Shirley Hunkins had her hair done up in pigtales. Mel Cariofiles lost five pounds in the dance workouts. The old barn shook with laughter and screaming. It was lots of fun.

After the dance, the groups paired off to private parties. One group of 14 invaded George Day's and Mrs. Day entertained expertly and served all kinds of delicacies from pickles, coffee, milk and salami to genuine kosher matzos.

The group finally dispersed after 3 a.m. singing "Rorey get the dory, there's a herring in the bay".

First Chess Club Has Notable Year

The Chess club, first of its kind in S.U. history, had a notable year since its founding in early February.

Forty active chess players, referred to in the trade as "woodchucks," practiced in weekly Rec Hall sessions for the S.U. Chess Tourney.

Club equipment was obtained by Student Affairs director, John Colburn.

The club's aim — to furnish students with worthwhile recreation in their spare time proved to be a success as the many members kept the Rec Hall buzzing with the "game of bishops and queens."
