

Note:

The document here features the Table of Contents and Author Biographies only. For the full content, please refer to:

<https://doi.org/10.1353/scr.2018.0000>

Table of Contents

Preface.....	i
Andrew S. Natsios and Sarah M. Misemer
Summary of Chapters.....	v
Introduction: Putin’s New Russia: Fragile State or Revisionist Power.....	1
Andrew S. Natsios
1. Putin’s Grand Strategy.....	15
Anne Applebaum
Part I: Evolution of Post-Communist Russia
2. The Return of the Enemy.....	23
Pascal Bruckner
3. Vladimir Putin and the Russian Military.....	31
Raymond C. Finch
4. Project Russia: The Bestselling Book Series of Putin’s Kremlin.....	51
Lynn Corum
5. Russia after Communism: the Road to Dictatorship and Terror.....	72
David Satter
Part II: The Threat from Putin’s Russia to Europe
6. The Return of the Empire: The Ukraine Crisis in the Historical Perspective.....	80
Serhii Plokhii
7. A View from Northeast Europe: the Baltic States and the Russian Regime.....	91
James S. Corum
8. Russia’s War of Words.....	105
Andreas Weise
Part III: Sources of Instability in Putin’s Russia
9. A Statistical Glimpse at Russia’s Multiple Demographic and Human Resource Problems.....	111
Nicholas Eberstadt
10. A Reassessment of Putin’s Russia: The Economy.....	147
Paul Gregory
11. The Legacy of World War II for Putin’s Russia.....	163
Roger Reese
Contributor Biographies.....	174

Contributor Biographies

- Anne Applebaum is a columnist for the Washington Post and a Pulitzer-Prize winning historian. She is an adjunct fellow of the Center for European Policy analysis. Formerly a Member of the Washington Post editorial board, she has also worked as the Foreign and Deputy Editor of the Spectator magazine in London, as a columnist at Slate and at several British newspapers, including the Daily and Sunday telegraphs. From 1988-1991 she covered the collapse of communism as the Warsaw correspondent of the Economist magazine and the Independent newspaper. Chapter Title: “Putin’s Grand Strategy”
- Pascal Bruckner is a world renowned essayist and novelist whose works have been translated in thirty countries. He has taught for fifteen years at the Institute d’Etudes Politiques in Paris and has been a visiting professor at New York University and at San Diego University. As a “public intellectual,” Bruckner has served as an expert commentator on French and European affairs for newspapers, reviews, and magazines around the world, including Le Monde, Le Figaro, and Libération, as well as the New Yorker, the New Republic, and in the op-ed pages of the New York Times. He has received numerous prestigious awards for his essays and novels. Chapter Title: “The Return of the Enemy”
- James S. Corum is a Professor of Terrorism and Security Studies at the University of Salford Manchester and former Dean of Baltic Defence College. He is a retired lieutenant colonel in the U.S. Army Reserve and served in Iraq in 2004. He was a visiting fellow at All Souls College, Oxford University and a faculty member at the U.S. Army Command and General Staff College in Ft. Leavenworth, Kansas. Dr. Corum is the author of eight military history books, including: The Roots of Blitzkrieg (1992), The Luftwaffe: Creating the Operational War (1997), The Luftwaffe’s Way of War, with Richard Muller (1998), Airpower in Small Wars, with Wray Johnson (2003), Quelling the Beast: A Counterinsurgency Strategy for America (2006), Fighting the War on Terror: A Counterinsurgency Strategy, with Michael Howard (2007), Wolfram von Richthofen: Master of the German Air War (2008), Bad Strategies: How Major Powers Fail in Counterinsurgency, with Dennis Showalter (2008), and Training Indigenous Forces in Counterinsurgency: A Tale of Two Insurgencies (2014). He has authored a number of book chapters and journal articles on military history and counterinsurgency. He holds an M.A. from Brown University, M. Lit. from Oxford University, and a Ph.D. from Queen’s University, Canada. Chapter Title: “A View from Northeastern Europe: The Baltic States and the Russian Regime”
- Lynn D. Corum is a professional translator. Chapter Title: “Project Russia: The Bestselling Book Series of Putin’s Kremlin”
- Nicholas Eberstadt, a political economist and demographer by training, is a Henry Wendt Scholar in Political Economy at the American Enterprise Institute. In addition to his role with AEI, Eberstadt serves as a senior adviser to the National Bureau of Asian Research, a member of the visiting committee at the Harvard School of Public Health, and a member of the Global Leadership Council at the World Economic Forum. He researches and writes extensively on economic development, foreign aid, global health, demographics, and poverty. He is the author of numerous monographs and articles on North and South Korea, East Asia, and countries of the former Soviet Union. His books range from The End of North Korea (AEI Press, 1999) to The Poverty of the Poverty Rate (AEI Press, 2008). He earned a Master of Science from the London School of Economics before returning to his undergraduate alma mater to earn a Master of Public Administration from the Kennedy School of Government and a doctorate in political economy and government from Harvard University. Chapter Title: “A Statistical Glimpse at Russia’s Multiple Demographic and Human Resource Problems”

- Ray C. Finch is a Eurasian Military Analyst for the Foreign Military Studies Office at Fort Leavenworth and retired Eurasian Foreign Area Officer with the U.S. Army. He has produced a number of analytical studies dealing with the Russian military and society, and is both an editor and frequent contributor to FMSO’s Operational Environment Watch. Prior to this he worked as the Assistant Director at the Center for East European, Eurasian and Russian Studies at the University of Kansas, where he taught courses related to Russian culture. Chapter Title: “Vladimir Putin and the Russian Military”
- Paul Gregory is a research fellow at the Hoover Institution. He holds an endowed professorship in the Department of Economics at the University of Houston, Texas, is a research professor at the German Institute for Economic Research in Berlin, and emeritus chair of the International Advisory Board of the Kiev School of Economics. Gregory has held visiting teaching appointments at Moscow State University, Viadrina University, and the Free University of Berlin. The holder of a Ph.D. in economics from Harvard University, he is the author or coauthor of twelve books and more than one hundred articles on economic history, the Soviet economy, transition economies, comparative economics, and economic demography. Gregory's economics papers have been published in American Economic Review, Econometrica, Quarterly Journal of Economics, Review of Economics and Statistics, Journal of Political Economy, Journal of Economic History, and the Journal of Comparative Economics. His most recent books are Women of the Gulag: Portraits of Five Remarkable Lives (Hoover Institution Press, 2013), Politics, Murder, and Love in Stalin's Kremlin: The Story of Nikolai Bukharin and Anna Larina (Hoover Institution Press, 2010), Lenin's Brain and Other Tales from the Secret Soviet Archives (Hoover Institution Press, 2008), Terror by Quota (Yale, 2009), and The Political Economy of Stalinism (Cambridge, 2004), which won the Hewett Prize. Gregory has also published The Global Economy and Its Economic Systems (Cengage, 2013) and is working with director Marianna Yarovskaya on a film documentary entitled Women of the Gulag. Chapter Title: “A Reassessment of Putin’s Russia: The Economy”
- Serhii Plokhii is the Mykhailo Hrushevsky Professor of Ukrainian History at Harvard and the director of the university’s Ukrainian Research Institute. A leading authority on Eastern Europe, he has lived and taught in Ukraine, Canada and the United States.

The author of ten books including the award-winning The Last Empire, which received the Lionel Gelber Prize, the Pushkin House Russian Book Prize and the Antonovych Ukrainian Book Prize. Chapter Title: “The Return of the Empire: The Ukraine Crisis in the Historical Perspective”

- Roger Reese is a Professor of History at Texas A&M University specializing in Soviet social history in general and the social history of the Soviet military in particular. Dr. Reese has written three books on the Soviet military and won the Moncado prize from the Society for Military History for an outstanding article in military history. His current research focus is on the Russian officer corps in the Late Imperial Period in general and in the First World War and revolutionary period in particular. Chapter Title: “The Legacy of World War II for Putin’s Russia”
- David Satter is a Senior Fellow at the Hudson Institute and a Fellow of the Foreign Policy Institute of the Johns Hopkins University School of Advanced International Studies (SAIS). He also teaches Russian politics at the Johns Hopkins University School of Advanced Academic Programs. A Moscow correspondent of the Financial Times from 1976-82, Mr. Satter’s most recent publication is It Was a Long Time Ago and It Never Happened Anyway: Russia and the Communist Past (2012). He is also author of Age of Delirium: the Decline and Fall of the Soviet Union and Darkness at Dawn: the Rise of the Russian Criminal State. His first publication, Age of Delirium, was made into a documentary film which premiered in Washington on December 2011 and in Moscow on February 2012. Mr. Satter is a frequent contributor to publications including the Wall Street Journal and National Review Online, and has been interviewed by media outlets including Radio Liberty, Voice of America, and the BBC. In December 2013, he was barred from returning to Russia, earning the dubious distinction as the first American journalist banned from Russia since the end of the Cold War. Chapter Title: “Russia after Communism: the Road to Dictatorship and Terror”
- Andreas Weise is RIAS Berlin Fellow and German journalist. Born in East Germany, Weise lived under a communist regime until his 20th birthday. He speaks fluent Russian and produced a series about the events, misconceptions, and mistakes that led to the liberation of Eastern Europe and the fall of the Berlin wall 25 years ago and the resulting implications. Since the beginning of 2014, he has been reporting from the Ukraine. Chapter Title: “Russia’s War of Words”