"Kyle is giving me a massage"
"Don't touch my chair"

"I feel like there is an earthquake going on in my head!"

Five friends were sitting in the common room of Hopkinton JJO. It is 11:30 on a Monday. Sarah is doing homework, Carol is getting a massage from Kyle, Faith is reading, and Kyle is listening to the conversation of her friends for her class project. All of a sudden Kyle takes out the Theragun, a massage device that vibrates out knots. Carol is surprised yet excited because hopefully this will make her head and shoulders feel a little bit better. Kyle turns the level up to 6, one of the higher levels on the Theragun. Carol screams, "I feel like there is an earthquake going on in my head!" All of us burst into laughter, it was such a random situation! Then, after Kyle massaged them all, they all went to school for a delicious lunch.

My Mother's Alternate World

In an alternate world, my mother will live somewhere hot, like Florida. She will live with all three of her children and their spouses and their children and her husband or my father. She will drive a very safe electric car, Maybe a Tesla? She will start her own business in the clothing industry. She will only ever eat healthy foods and never crave unhealthy foods. Her kitchen will be massive and will be able to help cook her signature dish, spaghetti and meatballs!!
