

Pushing the Boulder, Pushing the Envelope: Embracing the Iterative Nature of Improving Metadata

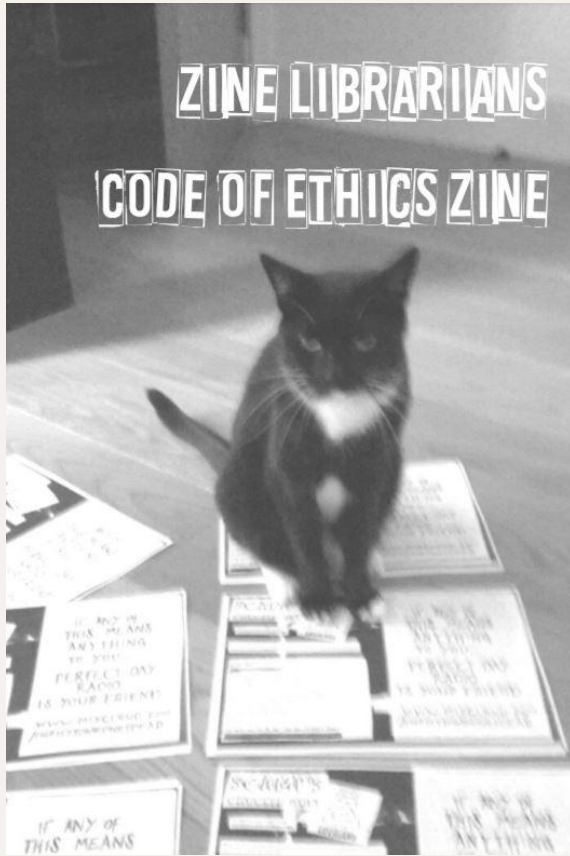

Violet Fox
violetfox@gmail.com
@violetbfox

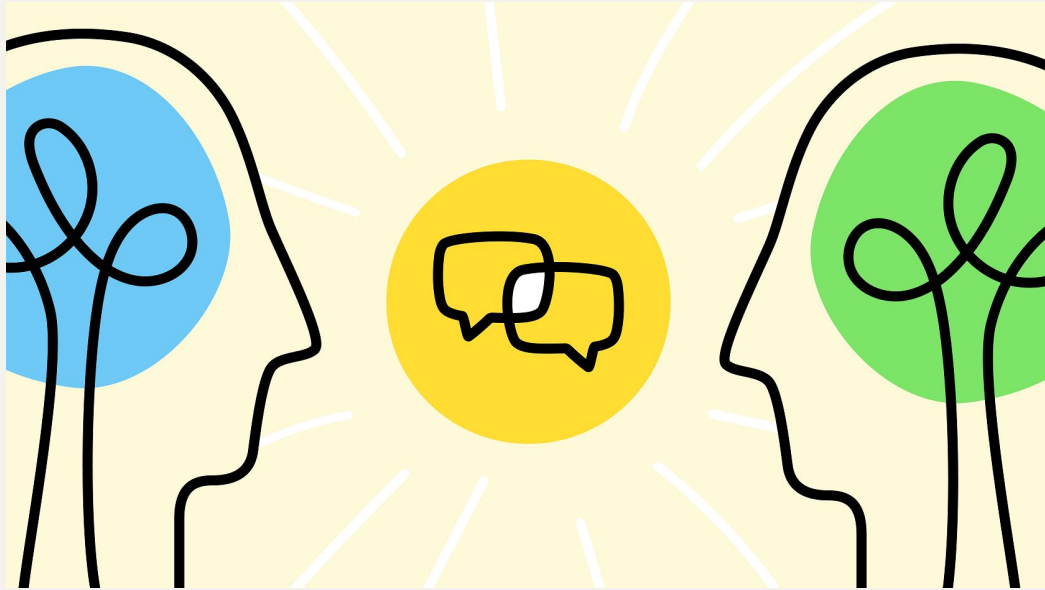

The world's largest turkey

Frazee, Minnesota

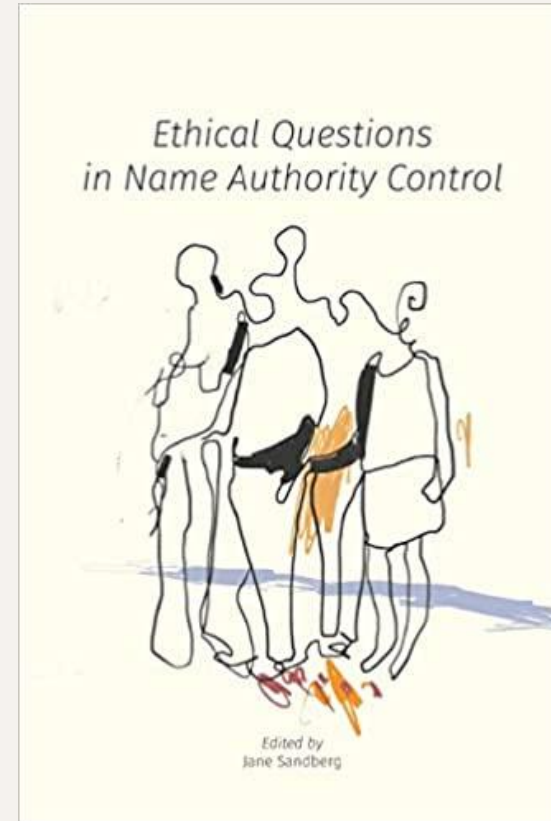

Zine Librarianship

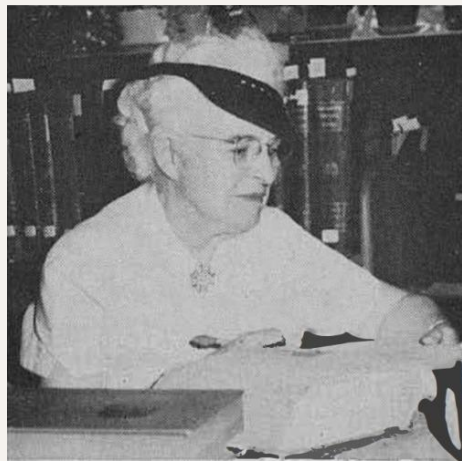

critical cataloging
radical cataloging
reparative metadata
mutual metadata
ethical metadata
conscious editing
metadata justice

“Authority Control as Outreach” with Tina Gross

“‘My Zine Life is My Private Life’: Reframing Authority Control from Detective Work to an Ethic of Care” with Kelly Swickard

Frances Yocom

Doris Hargrett Clack

Dorothy Porter

Recent wins!

- changing Blacks to Black people
 - changing Noble savage to Noble savage stereotype
 - changing Brothers and sisters to Siblings
 - changing Problem youth to At-risk youth
 - soon: LC's Indigenous headings project (replacing Indians of North America, Eskimos, etc.)
-

More recent wins!

- more people have been aware of these discussions, their own responsibility for this work
 - more people have been trained in how the LCSH approval process works and how they can get involved
 - LC has started inviting attendees to the monthly meetings where they discuss controversial proposals
-

The Cataloging Lab

A brief story about choices

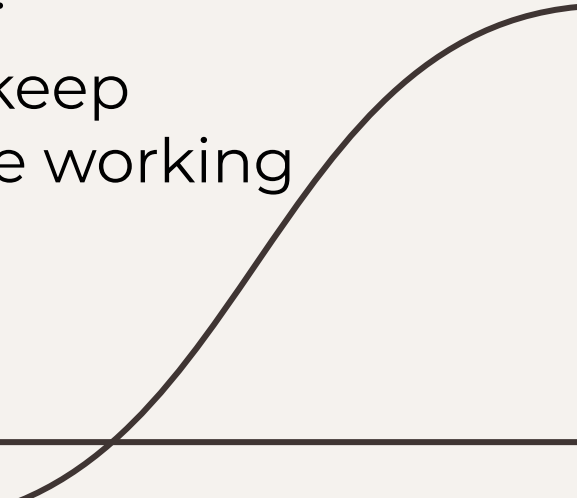

To keep in mind:

How do we move forward sustainably?

How do we move forward with justice work as an integral part of our day-to-day efforts?

How do we encourage each other to keep questioning the boundaries that we're working within?

Questions??

Please get in touch!

violetfox@gmail.com

@violetbfox
