To Comply With Demands From State

MSU Regents Approve Reductions In Budget

To comply with the anticipated $1,771,800 reduction in state appropriations, the Murray State University Board of Regents today approved several adjustments in the 1980-81 university budget.

In the expenditure column, reductions included a moratorium on filling position vacancies, $482,100; replacement of summer leave program with a faculty development grant program, $25,000; operation expenses including equipment, public service, program development and non-academic current expense reductions, $284,700; library book acquisitions, $150,000; and VRDC budget, $80,000.

Concerning reserve financing, reductions were taken in the university contingency fund, $300,000; and university reserve funds for handicapped access, life safety and miscellaneous construction projects, $350,000.

Income from tuition and fees was adjusted upward $100,000.

The MSU regents made no salaries reductions.

The budget cutback was the result of a projected shortfall in state revenues for the upcoming year. Proportional reductions of all budgets of Kentucky's state-supported institutions were demanded by state government officials.

Concerning other business, creation of a faculty development grant program, to replace the summer professional leave program [part of the budget cutback proposal], was approved.

Purpose of the program is promotion of professional growth and development of its faculty in areas of teaching, research and public service.

The program provides summary grant awards on a competitive review basis. Faculty with eight completed semesters of continuous full-time academic service to the university are eligible.

The program is funded by the board of regents.

In the president's report, Dr. Constantine W. Curriss told the board members that some equipment money for the new University Center may be missing. Of $300,000 originally set for the center, only $50,000 has been appropriated to the university.

Curriss reported that freshman enrollment for the fall will be up 10 to 12 percent over 1979. Dormitory space will be at almost 100 percent full, Curriss said. He added that there may be a few housing problems after school begins until a census of students on campus can be taken.

The summer sessions were completed today with commencement. Enrollment for the sessions was 2,927, or 20 more than the 1979 figure. Word from the Boy Scouts of America museum site selection committee is expected by the end of August, Curriss said. The university, which proposed the former laboratory school as the site for the museum, is a candidate along with four other cities to relocate the facility.

The committee visited the campus July 28.

Incumbents Charles Howard, president; Bill Carneal, vice chairman; Patsy Dyer, secretary; and Richard Grey, treasurer, each were re-elected to their respective positions.

New regents Sara Page and Bill Morgan were sworn in before the meeting.

SWEARING IN — Mrs. Sara Page, Paducah, and Billy B. Morgan, Benton, were sworn in as new members of the Murray State University Board of Regents this morning at the board meeting. Patsy Dyer, board secretary, administered the oath.

Ash, Steam Spew As Volcano Erupts

By KEVIN McCULLEN
Associated Press Writer

VANCOUVER, Wash. (AP) — A series of blasts from Mount St. Helens — the fifth eruption in three months — spewed plumes of ash and steam more than eight miles high and sent superheated gases down the mountain's north slope, leaving a light dusting over ash-stricken towns.

There were no reports of injuries. The ash plume and seismic activity subsided to nothing by dawn and extremely heavy clouds had enveloped the volcano, said Federal Emergency Management Agency spokesman Joe Sears.

Rain was falling north of the peak and local travelers advisories were issued by the National Weather Service for slippery roadways due to ash fallout mixed with rain.

The eruptions were no surprise to volcano-watchers, and one scientist said "the longterm prediction is for more of the same."

The blasts began at 4:23 p.m. Thursday and continued through the night. One ash plume shot more than eight miles high and others were more than four miles high, but the eruptions were described as the least forceful of the five major blasts that began on May 18.

Harmonic tremors, subterranean shivers that have occurred before other blasts, preceded the eruptions and signaled officials to evacuate scientists and forestry workers from the restricted zone around the volcano.

Pete Rowley, a U.S. Geological Survey geologist said the tremors, believed to indicate the movement of magma, had subsided early today.

After four hours of low-level harmonics on Thursday, Craig Weaver, a USGS scientist at the University of Washington, said "I'm reasonably confident it will erupt within six hours."

But within minutes, seismograph needles in the lab began waving wildly, signaling the start of an eruption.

"There she goes," said Steve Malone, UU seismologist. After the first burst, the mountain erupted at 7:10 and 10:32. The steam cloud from the late-night eruption reached only 36,000 feet, but seismologists said it was associated with the strongest tremors.

During the first eruption, a pyroclastic flow — superheated gas and ash — slid down the mountain's north slope, stopping short of Spirit Lake. The lake was devastated by clouds of superheated gas and rock during the cataclysmic May 18 eruption that killed at least 31 people.

U.S. Forest Service spotter planes sighted a glow within the crater and along the edges of the pyroclastic flow. "It could be hot rocks, but it's more likely burning gases," Rowley said.

Ash was reported more than 100 miles away. It fell lightly in Grays Harbor County on the coast, along the western slopes of the Cascade Mountains in King, Pierce, Thurston and Lewis Counties, and in Yakima, Ellensburg, and Wenatchee in eastern Washington.

The May 18 blast killed 31 people, left 33 others missing, and sent ash over six states. Other blasts rocked the mountain and spread ash on Washington and Oregon on May 25, June 12 and July 22.

Survey Shows Carter Leads In Rules Fight

Kennedy Optimistic About Convention

By DONALD M. ROTHBERG
AP Political Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, his underdog presidential campaign nearing its climax, flew to this convention city today and said he was "optimistic about the outcome" — but an Associated Press delegate survey showed he trails President Carter in the crucial rules fight.

As Kennedy took personal command of his final drive to convince Democratic delegates to repudiate Carter, political operatives for the president also arrived in town and set a schedule of meetings and interviews.

The Associated Press survey of Democratic delegates found that President Carter, as of today, commands a majority on the convention rules fight and retains his majority for nomination.

Interviews over the past week with 2,889 delegates to next week's Democratic convention found little evidence of enough defections from Carter to enable open convention advocates to prevail in the rules fight at the opening session on Monday.

The survey found only six percent of Carter's delegates saying they would support the move to reject a rule binding delegates to follow the state primary and convention results. Another seven percent said they weren't sure or refused to answer. Kennedy loses 1.5 percent of his delegates on the rules questions with another two percent unsure or refusing to answer.

"We've done a detailed survey that shows very promising results," Kennedy told reporters after a flight from Washington. "I've made a good many calls myself. I'm very hopeful, still optimistic about the outcome."

Kennedy planned a day of interviews and was to address an outdoor rally on Park Avenue.

Over the weekend, with Carter relaxing at Camp David, Kennedy personally will lobby delegates arriving for next week's Democratic Convention.

Before leaving Washington, Kennedy refused again to commit himself to support Carter if the president is renominated by the Democratic National Convention.

In an interview on the ABC-TV show "Good Morning, America," Kennedy said he would have "no hesitancy" in supporting a nominee who adheres to the concepts of the Democratic Party. But differences in their views of those concepts have been major issues in the Carter-Kennedy fight for the 1980 nomination.

President Carter was waiting until Wednesday, the day the convention will vote on the presidential nomination, before heading for New York, but he was heavily involved in lobbying delegates.

Both camps maneuvered for advantage, each trying their best to convince delegates they were the winning side.

Kennedy let it be known he had ordered work begun on his speech accepting the presidential nomination.

Carter's campaign chairman, Robert Strauss, let it be known that if the president wins the rules fight on Monday, the opening night of the Democratic convention, there is no chance he will release his delegates to vote however they want on the presidential ballot. "There is no possibility of releasing them after the vote, none whatsoever," said Strauss, who had said on Wednesday that he wouldn't rule out such a move, which had been mentioned as a possible conciliatory gesture.

Carter picked up the endorsement Thursday of the United Steel Workers of America, which is holding its convention in Los Angeles. It is the last major union to take sides in the presidential race.

In Washington, sources said that the political arm of the Veterans of Foreign Wars, its so-called Political Action Committee, will endorse GOP nominee Ronald Reagan for president the week after the Democratic convention. Reagan planned to spend the week of the convention off the campaign trail.

Independent candidate John B. Anderson campaigned in Pittsburgh on Thursday and predicted that Carter would be the Democratic nominee.

After hinting earlier that he might drop his own effort if someone other than Carter is nominated, he said Thursday that no matter what happens in New York, "I am going to stay in the race."

No Comments Made At City Tax Hearing

No one appeared at the public hearing Thursday afternoon to comment on the city's 1980 property tax rates.

The proposed tax rate for 1980 is .358 per $100 of assessed valuation. This is an increase of .012 over last year's rate of .346. The proposed tax rate is expected to generate a revenue of $450,714.82, which is $18,070.87 more than last year's tax revenue of $432,643.95.

The additional revenue this year will be used for police and fire protection, according to Mayor Melvin B. Henley.

Revenue expected from new property is $13,510.56, while revenue expected from personal property is $160,149.81. The tax rate will have its first reading at a special council session set for 5:30 p.m. Monday, Aug. 11, at the council chambers in City Hall.

Also on the agenda is consideration for authorization to sign a deed and contract with the Department of Transportation for right of way on Highway 94 East.

Hurricane Allen Roars Toward Coast Of Texas

By GORDON D. MOTT
Associated Press Writer

MERIDA, Mexico (AP) — Hurricane Allen roared today toward the Texas coast, less than 500 miles away, gathering strength from warm Gulf of Mexico waters after a Caribbean rampage that left at least 72 dead.

A hurricane watch was announced for the entire Texas and northeast Mexican coasts, and the U.S. National Weather Service said Allen could create hurricane conditions to portions of the watch area within 36 hours if it continued its course.

At 6 a.m. EDT, Allen's eye was near latitude 22.8 north and longitude 90.2

west — 500 miles east southeast of Brownsville, Texas, and traveling west northwest at 18 mph, packing winds up to 145 mph, the weather service said.

Hurricane force winds extended outward 75 miles to the north and 50 miles to the south. Gale force winds extended outward 200 miles to the north and 100 miles to the south.

The weather service warned smallcraft from the mouth of the Mississippi river westward to the Mexican Gulf coast, including the Yucatan Peninsula and around extreme western Cuba, to stay in port.

Gale warnings were discontinued in the Florida Keys at 4:30 a.m. EDT.

Texas authorities held planning sessions today with representatives of 35 federal and volunteer relief agencies that would go into emergency action if the storm hit.

Thousands of Gulf homeowners stocked up on candles, food and plywood to hammer down windows. Hospitals boosted orders for bottled water and Red Cross and Salvation Army officials prepared relief centers and placed workers on alert.

Insurance companies sent in teams to handle those who could be displaced, and oil companies evacuated 2,500 workers from offshore rigs and production platforms.

One helicopter carrying 13 people from one platform crashed 60 miles off the Louisiana coast Wednesday. Coast Guard authorities said at least four of those on board were found dead.

Allen buffeted Mexico's northern Yucatan Peninsula with 185-mile-an-hour winds and 15-foot waves Thursday but caused no injuries or serious damage, government officials said.

Mexico declared a state of emergency on the peninsula's eastern side and Red Cross authorities mobilized relief efforts. Thousands of people fled the storm, including some 5,000 in Cancun, the lush resort on the Yucatan mainland across from Cozumel.

Since becoming a hurricane Monday near the eastern Caribbean island of St. Lucia, Allen has followed a basically west-northwest route in its killer journey, across the Caribbean, through the Yucatan Channel and into the Gulf.

Lawson-McCubbin Wedding Planned

Final plans for the wedding of Miss Connie Frann Lawson, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ted Lawson of Murray, to James Kent McCubbin, son of Mrs. Helena Pike and James McCubbin of Campbellsville, have been completed.

The family wedding will take place aboard the Joe Edd Emerson houseboat anchored in Standing Rock Cove, Kentucky Lake. The bride-elect's uncle, the Rev. Wade Darby of Nashville, Tenn., will officiate at the ceremony at sunset on Saturday, Aug. 9.

Mrs. Tonya Elkins, cousin of the bride-elect, will be the vocalist. Mrs. Sue Smith will be the wedding director.

Ms. Lawson has chosen Mrs. Janet Wallis of Murray as her matron of honor and Ms. Terri Ray of Houston, Texas, as her bridesmaid.

Mr. McCubbin has chosen

Kevin Lawson as his best man, and Gregg Lawson as his groomsmen. Both are brothers of the bride-elect.

The reception celebration will be held at the Holiday Inn, Murray, on Saturday, Aug. 9, from 8 to 10 p.m. with Martin Paschall, cousin of the bride-elect, providing the entertainment.

All friends and relatives are invited to attend the reception.

HOT WEATHER DRINKS

If you usually quench your thirst in hot weather with sodas and lemonade, try these low calorie substitutes. Chilled clam juice, straight or mixed with tomato, is a zesty meal starter or afternoon refresher. Make your own "soda" by combining sparkling mineral water with grape or orange juice, or squeeze in half a lemon or lime.

Dear Abby

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: Have you ever heard of a sexy 7-year-old? My sister has one. Her daughter, Linda, is the sexiest kid you'll ever see. She's rather shy around women, but she flirts and climbs all over every man she sees. She doesn't have to know him very well, either. I've seen her act this way with strangers. She's such an affectionate little thing, I worry about her.

Linda is an only child. Her parents were divorced when she was 2, and she hasn't seen her father since. My sister is soured on men and hasn't had a man in her life since Linda's father took off.

Abby, what would make a 7-year-old girl act like this? And how can I help? I'm so afraid her actions will get her into trouble one day.

CONCERNED AUNT

DEAR CONCERNED: It's natural for little girls who have been ignored or neglected by their fathers to reach out for male attention and approval from any man who's handy. Share your concern with your sister and urge her to get counseling for Linda. Early therapy could avert a tendency toward sexual promiscuity later.

DEAR ABBY: My husband had a vasectomy four months ago, and I just found out that I am pregnant!

My husband, in an absolute rage, went immediately to the doctor who performed his vasectomy. The doctor reminded my husband that he had been instructed to return for a test to determine the success of the operation, but my husband got busy, got the flu, had to leave town on business, and he never did get back for the test. Finally he decided it wasn't really necessary so he just skipped it. Naturally, he can't very well blame the doctor.

I understand that once in a blue moon a vasectomy fails, so please do your readers a favor and tell them that after a man has had a vasectomy, he should go back for that test before he takes any foolish chances.

BLUE MOONSTRUCK

DEAR BLUE: All chances are foolish. But some chances are more foolish than others.

DEAR ABBY: I am sure my problem is not unique, but it has me stumped. I am an artist and a craftsman who has given many pieces of handmade jewelry and art to friends and relatives. They seem to think that if they lose an earring, or drop it and step on it, it's my responsibility to repair or replace it. Or if the colors in one of my paintings doesn't match their sofa pillows, I should change it for them! (Why don't they change their slipcovers to match my painting?)

Why should I have to replace, repair or adjust a gift after I have given it?

If my gifts were ordinary it would be another matter, but I get top prices for my work, and I think the recipients of my gifts would have the good manners to thank me and keep quiet, or throw them away if they so choose. After I give something I don't care what they do with it; neither do I want the responsibility for it for the rest of my life.

Short of including a statement to that effect along with each gift, I don't know how to convey this to them. Any ideas?

IMPOSED-UPON ARTIST

DEAR IMPOSED-UPON: Don't offend those with good manners by including such a disclaimer along with your gift. Simply ignore requests from presumptuous, insensitive clods.

Special Meetings-

Are Held By The Welcome Wagon Club

The Welcome Wagon Club of Murray has held two special meetings during the months of June and July.

For the June meeting the club met at the Golden Pond Visitors Center to begin a tour of points of interest in TVA's Land Between the Lakes.

After viewing a 20-minute LBL orientation program in the tilted-dome theatre, the group departed for the Environmental Education Center where they participated in a 45-minute nature hike led by a naturalist with a discussion of wildflowers, plants, and birds of the area. The group also saw the ruins of Center Furnace, remnants of the iron industry which flourished in the area in the 1800's.

The group had lunch at The Iron Kettle in Grand Rivers, and then visited Barkley Dam Visitor Center where they saw displays concerning "Steamboatin' on the Cumberland."

Following a shopping tour of shops in Ridgetop Mall, Grand Rivers-Christmas Corner; Aunt Maude's gourmet kitchen; Cousin Martha's; and Julie's Clothes Line, the group departed for home.

For the July meeting the club held a potluck supper at the home of Mrs. Robert Wynn, Doran Road, Murray. Forty members and guests were present for the supper served at 6:30 p.m. Sal Wynn, president, presided.

New Social Contract Is What America Needs

The new by-phrase "reindustrialization of America," to which Democrats as well as Republicans now pay ardent lip-service, is ideal for this campaign year. Even though it is imprecise, it sounds good and serves well the candidate who wishes to bid for the simultaneous support of labor and business management. For "reindustrialization" is a broad term that covers the country's economic malaise, recaptures the image of the past when U.S. industry ruled supreme, and calls for an industrial reformation.

We shall hear much more about "reindustrialization" and not merely from the politicians. This spring, Harvard University and the New York Stock Exchange jointly sponsored the First Conference on U.S. Competitiveness to examine why Japan, and not the United States, is the most dynamic, most technologically competitive, best managed economy in the world. The conference observed that the decline in U.S. economic power is a major factor behind the lack of U.S. dominance in the councils of the world — a dominance that was once taken for granted.

We find a sure storm signal in the falling rates of U.S. productivity. Japan and Germany are consistently outstripping the United States in economic productivity. While U.S. manufacturing growth has dwindled to 1.6 percent annually, the growth rate for Japan and Germany has steadily increased to about 5 percent. Output per manhour has actually declined in some key U.S. industries during the last decade.

The United States is still the world's most productive society, but the trends are going the wrong way. Last year, the American share of manufactured exports worldwide declined to 15 percent compared to a new high of 21 percent for West Germany.

Ironically, while the output of U.S. workers, compared with world rivals, has been declining, the hourly wages for U.S. workers have soared much faster and higher than those in any other nation.

Appropriately, the Harvard-Stock Exchange conference recognized the destructive role of the federal government: tax laws that discourage saving and investment, paralyzing, costly overregulation, and incoherent trade policies and export strategies. But the conference took an equally hard look at U.S. corporate management that has presided over declining auto, steel, shoe, textile, and other stricken industries.

Richard W. Kopcke, an economist with the Federal Reserve Bank of Boston, places about half the blame for slumping U.S. productivity on slower capital accumulation and plant modernization caused partly by mismanagement but largely by faulty taxation and rising inflation rates. In any event, the miserable results can be seen in a weakened dollar and larger and larger trade and payments deficits.

Most economists agree the Linn Boyd Wear, the highly respected pioneer Murray newspaperman who had endeared himself with newspaper readers with his nostalgic "Remember" column, died at the home of his son, Ralph, in Paducah April 24, 1962, at the age of 79 years. No other man had ever contributed more effort in compiling historic lore of Calloway County than did this fine gentleman. To few other persons are the writers of this book more indebted for their source material than to "Mr. Remember," for which we are indeed grateful. In addition, "Uncle Bud" guided us in the application of printing art as a benevolent teacher and he stood by our sides as helmsman as long as he was able to stand on his enfeebled legs. We loved him like a father, and it was with an impassioned pride we helped lay that gentle creature beside his lovely helpmate in the City Cemetery.

Bids for the construction of the new Murray Hospital were opened May 17, 1962, with the lowest bidder $1,530,000, an offer in excess of anticipated financial resources. The board exercised extensive deletions in specifications in an effort to get the project underway. Alterations of the specifications, however, affected the legality of the bid, thus another round of bids were submitted August 18, with a low bid of $1,398,386 which was accepted. Groundbreaking ceremonies were held October 19 for the new hospital. First ground breaking ever held in Calloway was in 1822, but how the ritual ever hopped a clod into construction projects in Calloway County remains a mystery.

Congressman Frank Albert Stubblefield faced the same opponent, Noble Gregory, Frank had upended four years previously when he won a razor-thin majority in the primary election. This May time, Congressman Stubblefield won a far more decisive victory over the district with home folks contributing an overwhelming 4,569 to 349 margin for their native son.

Resignation of Zelma Carter as superintendent of Murray Independent School District paved the way for the elevation of Prof. Fred Schultz to fill the vacancy. Eli Alexander was moved up to fill Schultz's post as principal of Murray High School May 5, and Coach Preston (Ty) Holland advanced as assistant principal.

OPEC price increases have not helped, but cannot be blamed primarily for declining U.S. productivity. After all, this country produces about half of its oil requirements compared with Japan and West Germany that must import all of theirs.

What to do?

In a recent and exhaustive analysis of this problem by the magazine Business Week, it was suggested that the time has come for cooperation rather than confrontation among America's three big partners: labor, business, and government. This would embody in a "social contract" not unlike the close economic-government relationships existing in Japan, West German, Brazil, Mexico, and South Korea.

Business Week makes the point, with which we agree, that the first initiative for this must come from business and labor because neither Congress nor the Administration is capable of providing the leadership necessary for a "reindustrialization of America." Leaders of the various economic and social groups should strive without delay, therefore, for a consensus of what is needed and present this agenda to Washington.

There could be, for example, ready agreement in the private sector on the need to reorganize the Carter administration's messy trade policy, now split between the White House and the Commerce Department and held hostage to other considerations from human rights to nuclear proliferation.

The basic immediate problem is that much of the country's corporate leadership has been shaken and demoralized into accepting the U.S. economic decline as inevitable. The first order of business, then, is for America's business and labor leaders to regain their confidence and to reassert the old Yankee traits of ingenuity, trading, and work ethic that have provided this country the highest standard of living anywhere in the history of mankind.

HEARTLINE

Heartline is a service for senior citizens. Its purpose is to answer questions and solve problems. If you have a question or a problem not answered in these columns, write to Heartline, 114 East Dayton St., West Alexandria, Ohio 45381. You will receive a prompt reply, but you must include a self-addressed, stamped envelope. The most useful replies will be printed in this column.

HEARTLINE: I am worried. My insurance agent came to my home recently and explained a Medicare supplement program to me. During his visit, he pointed out that my Medicare could be cancelled. I didn't know that Medicare could be cancelled. Can it? I also have Blue Cross Medi-Fill plan. J.S.

ANSWER: Once you are age 65 and have Medicare hospital insurance because of work credits under Social Security, your coverage is guaranteed as long as you live, or as long as you want it. Medicare medical coverage (and hospital coverage if you pay the premiums) is also guaranteed as long as you pay premiums or authorize Social Security to deduct the premiums from your Social Security check.

Obviously your insurance agent was wrong or you possibly misunderstood what your agent told you. Your agent might have meant that your Blue Cross Medicare supplement plan can cancel your coverage. We notice that Blue Cross-Blue Shield is also your Medicare carrier. Many people confuse Blue Cross-Blue Shield's function as a Medicare carrier with Blue Cross-Blue Shield's function as a private insurance corporation that sells Medicare supplement policies.

We want to point out, also, that not all Blue Cross-Blue Shield Medicare supplements can be cancelled in every state.

HEARTLINE: I am 47 years old and was recently retired on disability from the company where I worked for the last 18 years. Since I was found disabled by the company, would I also be eligible for Social Security disability benefits? G.G.

ANSWER: The fact that you meet your company's disability requirements does not necessarily mean that you will be found disabled for Social Security. The Social Security disability law and the rules your company uses may be different. However, to find out, you should file an application with Social Security. The report of any examination you underwent in establishing disability for your company's retirement will be considered in determining whether you are eligible under the Social Security program.

For further information on the requirement for Social Security disability and about appeals and hearings that might become necessary in your case, we suggest our Guide to Social Security. This book also contains information concerning the benefits other members of your family may be entitled to receive if you do qualify for Social Security disability. AN HONEST GOLFER TELLS THE HOLE TRUTH

Sunday School Lesson

The Call To Rebuild

After the Babylonian Captivity was over, God made it possible for those of His people who desired to do so to return to their homeland. Soon after beginning the reconstruction of the temple, they encountered opposition from without and discouragement from within their ranks, which resulted in their stopping the work and their becoming occupied with their own personal interests.

Haggai 1:1-9
Sixteen years went by and only the foundation of the temple had been reconstructed. Then, Haggai appeared suddenly on the scene in all the dignity of a heaven-appointed messenger, with no credentials except the fact that the word of the Lord was upon his lips. God had sent this prophet to rebuke the people for their indifference and procrastination.

After rebuking the people for neglecting to rebuild the temple, Haggai urged them to take inventory of themselves and to consider their sinful ways. Knowing their contention that it was not the proper time to rebuild the house of the Lord, due to insufficient funds, he pointed out the fact that they were able to find adequate resources to erect luxurious houses for themselves. He reasoned that if it were not the proper time to build God's house, then it was the wrong time to build their own houses.

Personal inventory and sober reflection on their conduct caused the people to understand that they were in a material, moral, and spiritual depression because they had failed to do their duty toward God, and He had simply withheld His blessings from them. They made a terrible mistake by making God's work secondary and selfish interests first. Since God's honor was at stake, in love God chastised His people. Prosperity was taken from them, and their earnings went into pockets filled with holes.

Their unhappiness and fruitlessness were due to their failure to exercise the correct priorities, so Haggai warned the people that disastrous results were inevitable unless they considered their evil ways, repented of their sins, and changed their manner of life. He urged them to make the necessary preparations and to complete the important task of rebuilding the temple, and thereby earn God's approval and blessing.

Zechariah 8:14-17
Recognizing that there was much to discourage the people and to dampen their ardor, as they faced the tremendous task of rebuilding the temple, God sent another of His prophets, Zechariah, to encourage them by declaring that the work was to be performed, as is all of the Lord's work, "not by might, nor by power, but by my Spirit, saith the Lord."

It is well to remember that when God assigns a work to His people they can always count on His enablement. When He guides, God always provides. To those of His children who are doing His will, God will most assuredly supply all of the means which will be needed in the accomplishment of His purposes. Whatever He commands us to do, we should do it through His enablement promptly and cheerfully. As certainly as God disciplines or chastises His children who persist in disobedience to His expressed will, He always blesses those who obey Him. Through Zechariah God exhorted His people to speak truthfully, to walk correctly, to think properly, and to hate deceitfulness and falsehood.

Funny World

Hertford, England — It could never have happened a decade ago, but eight teen-agers at the Hitchin Boys School have been suspended for wearing their hair too short.

"This very short hair is becoming a cult, and I'm determined to stop it," said headmaster John Gray. "It is a matter of internal school discipline."

Gray said that most of the boys who were suspended had shaved off all but one strip of hair, leaving a "Mohican" style haircut. (Hull Daily Mail)

Today In History

By The Associated Press
Today is Friday, Aug. 8, the 221st day of 1980. There are 145 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history:
On Aug. 8, 1974, President Richard Nixon announced that he would resign his office, saying that the Watergate scandal had forced him to step down in the national interest.
On this date:
In 1588, British sea forces under Sir Francis Drake destroyed the Spanish Armada in a battle off the coast of France.
In 1673, the Dutch recaptured New York and New Jersey from the British.
In 1815, Napoleon Bonaparte sailed for St. Helena to spend the rest of his life in exile.
In 1963, the U.S. and South Korea signed a mutual defense treaty.
Five years ago, Portugal's President Francisco da Costa Gomes swore in a new cabinet he hoped would provide a political pause during which time his nation could "construct something more definitive."
Last year, a congressional delegation flew to Hanoi, Vietnam, in an effort to get the Vietnamese government to stem the tide of "boat people" leaving that country.
Today's birthday: former Supreme Court Justice and Ambassador Arthur Goldberg is 72.
Thought for today: In order to have good soldiers, a nation must always be at war — Napoleon Bonaparte (1769-1821).

Ivory towers are lovely places in which to live. They are high in the sky above the everyday cares of the world. In them, one can while away many beautiful hours. The true Christian cannot remain in the ivory tower indefinitely, however. There is too much misery and unhappiness in the world for that. It is the Christian's responsibility to help those in need. So come down from your ivory tower before it gets too comfortable to leave.

OVC Coaches Pick Murray State 1st, Expect Overall Improvement

Then, the newest coach in the league came to the platform.

"I realize we are the new kid on the block," Akron's Jim Dennison said. "We have established a sound, comprehensive program."

"With the exception of Temple, we have not a comparable schedule to this before. I have nothing but respect for the football played here.

"I feel we are going to be an improved team. So much depends on our tailback and quarterback being healthy. Our strength is our kicker, Andy Graham, who hit 11 straight field goals and 16 overall.

"Since I have been at Akron, we will have our best interior linemen. Linebacker Brad Reese is a bonafide All-OVC possibility."

Western Kentucky's Jimmy Feix then broke the tempo of the meeting with words of warning about Akron, and on a much more serious note, about the cutbacks in the athletic budgets in the future.

"We are 0-6 against Akron," Feix said. "I don't know how tough they really are. We expected to win all our games last year, but we were hurt by injuries."

"We have the Father, Son and Holy Ghost Trinity at quarterback this year. John Hall (last year's OVC Offensive Player of the Year) will have to work to keep his starting position."

Feix said that both sophomore Ralph Antone and junior Marty Jagers will give Hall a run for the job this year.

But Feix then catapulted the meeting into its later inspection of the economic problems by saying, "College programs are going to have to take a serious look at themselves. It is becoming more and more important to justify expenditures."

Roy Kidd, coach of the defending Division I-AA national champion Eastern Kentucky, was apprehensive about the 1980 season.

"I have mixed emotions about the coming year," Kidd said. "I am anxious to get started, but I enjoyed the end of last year."

"I am amazed people picked us second. We are only 1-2 against Akron. Really and truly, when I look at the team, I see that eight defensive starters graduated.

"We lost a key player in Joe Richards, as fine a player as we have had at Eastern. We cannot come close to replacing him.

"We cannot be nearly as good on defense. You cannot win the conference without defense — it's that kind of a league.

"Our secondary could be a blessing for us, the way the other coaches are talking about throwing the ball."

It was then left for Gottfried to meet the challenge the other coaches has thrown at him.

"When one talks about the OVC, the most important thing is that the league should sell itself," he said. "The league has become a powerhouse league."

"I sincerely feel that any team in our league on any Saturday can go out and play with anybody. I see class players like Phil Simms and Wally Chambers going to the pros.

"I know coach Kidd hates to see last year end. I have never remembered a year as rewarding for me. I was an obsession for us.

"I told the kids during the summer that last year was over. I know the other league coaches feel like they can play with us. I believe any of these teams could win the OVC this year.

"I know Wade is not going to stay down, and Watson is going to have a good team.

"Our defense will be the strong part of our season. Our offense has a little question mark after we lost Ricky Ray."

"Our tailback Danny Lee Johnson is not going to be playing this year. He hurt his knee last year and has informed us that he will sit out this year and try to get healthy for next year."

"We feel good about our kicking game. It should be a weapon for us."

"Our first three games last year we said was an exhibition season for us. It will be similar this year, except that we will know a little more."

LOUISVILLE, Ky. — The Ohio Valley Conference coaches' meeting began yesterday with the usual exchange of slapstick remarks about the upcoming season.

The conference coaches picked to repeat as the OVC champion this year, as Murray State finished with 47 points to Eastern Kentucky's 41, with Western Kentucky third with 35.

Murray State placed four players on the preseason all-conference defensive team but did not have a single player on the offensive team. Last year, the Racers did not have a player on the preseason defensive team.

Tennessee Tech's Don Wade tipped off the program by sarcastically assessing his own's pick as the last place team this year.

"This is the first time in seven or eight years the coaches did everything right," Wade said, "by picking us to finish at the bottom. I think we are going to win them all, but I will be damned if I know how."

Middle Tennessee State's Boots Donnelly returns another young team, but he offered the confidence in his team that the other coaches supplemented to envision the OVC as a vastly improving football conference.

"It dawned on me last year that I couldn't overcome the weaknesses because Custer fought with the same ones," Donnelly said. "I had thought we could win with enthusiasm."

"I am not going to tell you how good we are going to be. Potentially, we have the next best free safety (James Griffin) in the league as soon as the 'animal' (Murray State's All-American Terry Love) leaves.

"We are still too young. We are not going to ruffle any feathers for the conference championship.

"I have never seen a guy do what Mike (Gottfried) did at Murray State (in completely rebuilding a program in such a short time)."

Morehead State's Tom Lichtenburg said his team's offense will depend on senior tailback Dorrin Hunter.

"We will try to get him the ball and see if he stays in one piece," Lichtenburg said. "Last year, we ran the wishbone because we could not throw."

"We will have to rebuild a big part of our defense. The kids went home with a good attitude. I feel we will have a better team. We will just have to see the wins and losses turn out."

The next coach to speak was Watson Brown, the youngest in the league at 30-years-old. Brown's confidence for the talent he has returning almost equaled Gottfried's when he spoke later.

"I strongly believe we can win the conference," Watson said. "Of course, the Eastern Kentucky bus will have to break down somewhere and the Murray State horse will have to run over a couple of their players after one of their touchdowns."

"I think we will be a much more talented team this year. I think we have the best defensive end in the conference in Brett Williams (a senior at 6-foot-2, 225 pounds), who is a big play man."

"We have Calvin Griffin, a 6-1, 270 lb. transfer from Georgia, and Pat Clements, who gained 1,000 yards in seven games as a tailback at Jacksonville State."

But Brown saved his best for his senior quarterback, Sonny DeFilippis.

"He is probably the most talented quarterback in the conference," Brown said. "The only problem is that he tries to throw through people — he believes in his arm so much."

"He could be the person to turn the team around if he stops throwing interceptions. I hope we throw because we want to, not because we have to."

Purcell Upsets 2nd Seed Solomon In Heat, Humidity

By STEVE HERMAN AP Sports Writer

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — Extreme heat and humidity affects different tennis players in different ways. Terry Moor and Wojtek Fibak were able to handle the problem, but top-seeded Gene Mayer and No.2 Harold Solomon weren't as fortunate.

Moor turned in the biggest upset in the U.S. Open Clay Court tennis tournament Thursday, beating Mayer 6-2, 6-3 under stifling conditions at the Indianapolis Sports Center. Fibak, seeded No.8, ousted former champion Zjelko Franulovic 6-4, 6-3, to advance to today's quarterfinals against another giant-killer, Mel Purcell.

"He played well, and the heat was unbearable," Mayer said of the third-round loss to 16th-seeded Moor in 90-plus degrees. "After four or five games, I just don't feel right. The heat is very tough to get used to. I didn't handle the heat as well, and I lost."

Purcell, a 21-year-old first-year pro out of Murray, Ky., turned in another stunning upset Thursday night over Solomon.

"It's the best win of my life," Purcell said of the 4-6, 6-0, 6-2 victory. "But I've got to get used to playing these guys. It's going to help me in the long run as far as confidence, but I've got to put it aside and get ready for the next one."

"It was hot, and I was getting tired. But it was a matter of who could last longer," said Purcell, whose quarterfinal opponent is Fibak.

"It was like somebody was standing on my chest," Solomon said. "It was very difficult for me to breathe. It's just one of those things."

The No.1 women's seed, defending champion Chris Evert Lloyd, had to play twice on Thursday because of a rainout Wednesday night. She reached today's semifinals with easy victories over Dianne Evers and Anne White. No.2 Evonne Goolagong, runnerup here last year, also advanced with a 7-5, 6-3 victory over Regina Mariskova.

In other matches Thursday, No.6 Ivanna Madruga ousted Hana Strachonova 6-1, 6-2, to advance to today's round against Lloyd. Goolagong was matched against 15-year-old Andrea Jaeger, a 6-1, 6-1 winner over Mary Lou Platek.

Lloyd's 6-1, 6-0 victory over Evers lasted less than an hour. Lloyd also made quick work of White, winning 6-0, 6-2.

Eighth-seeded Jose-Luis Clerc of Argentina won twice Thursday, beating Ricardo Ycaza 6-1, 6-2, and No.13-seed Kim Warwick 6-2, 6-1. Clerc was to face Moor in today's quarterfinals.

No.3 Eddie Dibbs, ousting Sweden's Per Hjertquist 6-1, 6-1, was matched against Bolivia's Mario Martinez.

Also on Thursday, fifth-seeded Jose Higuera had to go three sets to beat John Hayes 7-5, 3-6, 6-1; No.10 Elliot Teltscher beat Christophe Freyss 6-2, 6-4, and the defeated Martinez defeated Jose Damiani 6-2, 6-2.

Stadler Likes Position After First Round PGA Lead At 3-Under 67

By TOM SEPPY
AP Sports Writer
ROCHESTER, N.Y. (AP) — Craig Stadler, despite what he described as an erratic day, believes he's in fine position to capture the 62nd Professional Golfers Association championship.

"I've only shot under par four times on a Thursday and I either won or finished high," said Stadler who had a 34-33-67 opening round Thursday, over the 6,964-yard par 70 Oak Hill Country Club course. "That sort of pumps me up. I'm looking forward to tomorrow."

The 27-year-old Stadler, a five-year touring pro who won the Bob Hope and the Greensboro, said he was fortunate because he had to scramble to have pars Thursday. But, he added, every time he made a shot to get the par, he came right back with a birdie on the following hole which enabled him to take a one-stroke lead over a group of five - Howard Twitty, Bobby Walzel, Curtis

Strange, Gil Morgan and Bob Murphy.

"I didn't play real well at times but then I play awfully good at times," said Stadler a winner of $183,297 this year, good enough for fourth place on the money list. "Every time I made a bad shot, I made a good shot to save par. That made the day."

"It was a fun day," said Stadler, the only player in the second half of the field who played in the afternoon to break par.

Favorites Tom Watson and Lee Trevino, who also played in the afternoon, came in at 75 and 74, respectively, while Jack Nicklaus, another considered in the class of the field, shot an even par 70.

However, Watson and Trevino showed no outward concern for their plight.

"I still believe that over par will win," said Watson, who couldn't recall the last time he played a round without at least one birdie. "I have to think 280 is still a good target for me. And it is usually easier to play in the morning. By the afternoon, all the greens are spiked up."

Trevino, who won the U.S. Open here in 1968, said he also believes a morning round, which he and Watson have today, will enable him to get back into the hunt.

"I had to fight very hard for the 74," he said. "I had a lot of crucial putts. But there will be one round where the winner of this tournament will shoot a 73 or 74. It is impossible for a person to play four rounds and keep it in the 67 or 68 range."

In all, 19 players in the field of 150 shot par or better, including Nicklaus.

At 1-under par, two strokes behind Stadler, were defending champion David Graham, Ben Crenshaw and Hale Irwin.

In addition to Nicklaus, nine others shot par on the humid Thursday, including Lee Elder, Johnny Miller, Jack Renner, Ray Floyd, Lon Hinkle, George Archer, Japan's Tohru Nakamura and club pro Morris Hatalsky of Daytona Beach, Fla.

Twelve players came in at 1-over par with John Mahaffey, Tom Weiskopf, Bill Rogers, Gibby Gilbert and Bruce Lietzke among the more prominent on the tour.

In the group of 12 who are five behind Stadler at 72 were Andy Bean, Jerry Pate, Gary Player and Andy North.

Crowd favorites Arnold Palmer had a 74, Sam Snead, Billy Casper and Don January 82 and Chi Chi Rodriguez 83.

Orioles Face Sinking Or Swimming At New York

By GORDON BEARD
AP Sports Writer
BALTIMORE (AP) — For a long time, the Baltimore Orioles were treading water in pursuit of the New York Yankees. Now it's time for the defending American League champions to sink or swim.

A 2-1 victory over the Chicago White Sox Thursday night pulled the Orioles within 5½ games of the first-place Yankees in the AL East, the closest they've been to the top since May 20.

But starting with the opener of a three-game series in New York tonight, the Orioles face the Yanks eight times in the next 11 days and play three against Kansas City's West Division leaders.

"Those next 11 games are going to be nasty," said Manager Earl Weaver. "If we come out of that last Yankee game as much as four or five out on the loss side, I'll still like our chances."

Baltimore's 33-14 record since June 15 is the best in baseball. Yet, only a current 13-2 string has enabled the Orioles to close ground on New York. During a 23-12 stretch at the start of their streak, the Orioles actually lost one-half game in the standings.

In other AL games Thursday night, the Cleveland Indians nipped the Toronto Blue Jays 7-6, the Boston Red Sox defeated the Milwaukee Brewers 7-3 and California edged Minnesota 4-2 in 15 innings.

The Orioles extended their winning streak to six games, their longest of the season, with the help of some charitable fielding by the White Sox in the decisive sixth inning.

Three routine grounders to the right side of the infield produced the first of two unearned runs and Ken Singleton's two-out double drove in the tiebreaker.

First baseman Lamar Johnson ranged far to his right for Kiko Garcia's leadoff grounder, fielding the ball in front of second baseman Jim Morrison. Johnson's throw was a bit low and when pitcher Steve Trout fell as he crossed the bag Garcia continued to second on what was scored as a throwing error.

Rich Dauer, giving himself up to advance Garcia, hit a weak tapper toward Morrison, but again Johnson fielded the ball. This time, Trout slipped on the mound and didn't even cover first. It went as a hit.

Garcia moved to third on the play and scored when Al Bumbry grounded into a double play started by an unimpeded Morrison. Rick Dempsey followed with a single and scored on Singleton's double.

Trout, 6-12, took the blame for the fielding mistakes. "The throw was down, but I should have caught it," he said. "After I slipped on the second grounder I conceded the hit because I felt I wouldn't get there in time."

Scott McGregor, 13-5, allowed seven hits, including a third-inning homer by Harold Baines.

"We had the defense and they didn't," said Singleton, who said he was looking forward to the New York series. "Let's see," he said, "it's Jim Palmer against Ron Guidry in the first game. If I weren't playing, I'd pay to see that one myself."

Red Sox 7, Brewers 3
Veteran slugger Carl Yastrzemski triggered a four-run seventh inning with a bunt single. Yastrzemski, who will be 41 in two weeks, surprised the Brewers by putting down a bunt to the left of the mound which Milwaukee pitcher Paul Mitchell was unable to handle.

"Starting it off was the key," Yastrzemski said. "I motored down that first-base line like a 22-year old."

"The reason I didn't field the bunt is because my contact lens came halfway up my eye and I didn't have any depth perception on the ball," Mitchell said.

Burris, Shirley Hurl First 1980 Complete Games

By HERRCHEL NISSENSON
AP Sports Writer
New York's Ray Burris, back after more than a month on the sidelines, and San Diego's Bob Shirley, a relative newcomer to the starting rotation, pitched their first complete games of the season Thursday.

Burris, out since July 3 with a broken thumb, fired a six-hitter as the Mets downed the Montreal Expos 7-1. It was his 18th starting assignment. Meanwhile, Shirley, making only his fourth start after working out of the bullpen until July 18, allowed only four hits as the Padres whipped the Houston Astros 5-1.

In other National League action, the Pittsburgh Pirates flattened the Chicago Cubs 11-3, the Atlanta Braves edged the Los Angeles Dodgers 4-3 and the Philadelphia Phillies shaded the St. Louis Cardinals 3-2. Cincinnati and San Francisco had the day off.

"I haven't had to wait this long for a win since there was a blackout in New York in 1978," said Burris, who notched his first triumph since June 8. "I had to wait two months for that game to finish."

Burris was pitching for Chicago against the Mets in New York when the game was suspended because of a citywide power failure and resumed on the Cubs' next visit.

This time, the Mets supplied some power in the form of home runs by Jerry Morales and Joel Youngblood off Fred Norman while Burris blanked the Expos until Rowland Office's homer in the seventh inning.

Yanks Juggle Rotation To Start Guidry Against Orioles

NEW YORK (AP) — The New York Yankees juggled their pitching rotation to have ace left-hander Ron Guidry ready for tonight's opener of the three-game weekend series against the Baltimore Orioles, but even Guidry isn't sure if it was the right move.

"It's not my decision. It came from the top. Therefore, I can't do anything about it," said Guidry, who came to Yankees Stadium Wednesday night ready to pitch against the Texas Rangers, then was told to take the night off and rest up for tonight's game against the second-place Orioles.

"I don't know if it'll have any effect on me, waiting a couple of more days to pitch, but obviously I would like to pitch when I'm supposed to pitch," added Guidry. "What concerns me most is that I've only pitched twice now in 16 days. I really wanted to get back out there."

Guidry, 12-6, will get his chance tonight against Baltimore veteran Jim Palmer, 11-8, in the first of eight meetings between the two clubs in the next 11 days.

The Yankees have occupied first place in the American League East since May 14. But Baltimore has been a hot team of late, winning its last six in a row and 13 of its last 15 to trim the Yankees' lead to 5½ games. That's the closest the Orioles, defending A.L. East champions, have been since May 20.

"We're admitting this is a big series," said Yankees General Manager Gene Michael, when asked why the club shuffled its pitching rotation. Rudy May stepped in for Guidry Wednesday and beat Texas 2-1 with last-out relief help from Rich Gossage, but that was only the first half of the gamble. The second half comes tonight.

"We felt it would be better to have Guidry pitch against the Orioles twice instead of only once, as it had been originally planned," explained Michael. "We also didn't think Tommy John would want to pitch three times, once with three days rest."

The Yankees will send Luis Tiant to the mound against Baltimore's Steve Stone on Saturday, with John pitching against the Orioles' Mike Flanagan. A crowd in excess of 150,000 is expected to attend the three games.

Then come three night games against the Chicago White Sox at Yankee Stadium before New York travels to Baltimore for a five-game series starting Thursday night.

"This is the time," said Yankees outfielder Bobby Murcer. "The games in August and September are the ones in which you can win or lose pennants."

"Rudy's win gave us a great psychological boost," said New York slugger Reggie Jackson, "and also made for a nice day off. But now it's up to the rest of us to go out and win this thing."

Weber Hopes Break Gives Him Perspective

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — University of Louisville football Coach Bob Weber hopes that getting away from it all for a couple of days will put everything in its proper perspective.

Cardinals and his staff returned Tuesday night from two-day boat trip up the Ohio River to concentrate on football strategy. The "staff retreat" was to make sure the entire staff is ready for practice, which begins Aug. 15.

Weber, who was named head coach last April when Vince Gibson left for Tulane, is optimistic that his staff will see positive results from the river trip.

"The idea of a retreat is to get away from the phone," said Weber, who served as offensive coordinator under Gibson the last three seasons. "And it's camaraderie between the staff members. I have a lot of new coaches, so we have new philosophies, we want to get on the same track."

Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.

DEAR DR. LAMB — I'm writing about my mother-in-law who is 78. She's had a sleeping problem for the last 20 years. Lately she has started taking Meprobamate 500 mg nightly. This worked for a time and then it had to be increased. Now she's taking more than three a night and sleeps maybe two hours and then she's awake for four hours. The medication doesn't seem to help anymore. She's tried to stop taking the medicine but she gets sick without it. Her doctor says she has some high blood pressure and a little emphysema along with other ailments that people have as they get older. We're most concerned about her condition and would appreciate any suggestions you can offer.

DEAR READER — Your letter is an excellent testimony to the fact that sleeping pills, even those prescribed by physicians, often lose their ability to induce sleep in a matter of weeks. The usual pattern is as you've described — to increase the dosage. And those sleeping pills that are tranquilizers or include phenobarbital can be habit forming or cause drug dependency. That's certainly true with Meprobamate, which is also known as Equanil and Miltown. Now you've got two problems. Your mother-in-law's dependency on Meprobamate and her insomnia.

Anyone who has been taking relatively large amounts of Meprobamate for an appreciable length of time will need to be gradually withdrawn from the medicine if they're going to stop it. The withdrawal should occur over a one to two-week period of time. The dose should gradually be reduced until it can be discontinued without causing side effects from stopping the medicine.

I'm sending you The Health Letter number 10-6, Sleep and Insomnia. It will give you a better appreciation of the problem and what might be done for your mother-in-law. Other readers who want this issue can send 75 cents with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for it. Send your request to me, in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019.

I've included information on what you can do to help induce sleep in the Health Letter. I'm sending you. Your mother-in-law might do better temporarily by using one of the antihistamines such as Benadryl. This can gradually be started as the Meprobamate is discontinued. Hopefully, she will be able to get off all medicines and sleep naturally.

Insomnia is sometimes a symptom of an underlying depression and depressions are fairly common in older people. Unfortunately, they sometimes go unrecognized because they don't present the symptoms of a complete withdrawal from social contacts or a masklike face and copious weeping that many people associate with depression.

A person can have a depression and appear to be relatively normal. It's only when one looks at other symptoms, such as insomnia or fatigue, and understands what's really causing them that the presence of the underlying depression becomes recognized.

Brother Waits For Birthday Cards To Go Through
ODIN, Minn. (AP) — Arvid Laingen is hoping that his brother, Bruce Laingen, a hostage in Iran, was able to receive the cards Odin residents sent him for his 58th birthday.

"It's going to be real interesting to see how many of them get through to him," said Arvid Laingen, a farmer. "Practically everyone we talked to sent him a birthday card."

Bruce Laingen, who is from Bethesda, Md., celebrated his birthday Aug. 6. He was the U.S. charge d'affaires in Iran and was being held at the foreign ministry along with two other hostages.

Arvid Laingen said he received a letter from his brother last week and said he seemed to be in good spirits.

Pro-Khomeini Iranians Protest At White House

By H. JOSEF HEBERT Associated Press Writer WASHINGTON (AP) — With pro-Khomeini Iranians back again protesting in front of the White House, top Carter administration officials are worried that a possible outbreak of violence between the demonstrators and angry Americans might mean trouble for the American hostages in Iran.

About 200 Iranians gathered Thursday to protest the treatment of the 192 Iranians arrested 12 days ago during a violence-marred celebration of the death of the deposed Shah of Iran. More demonstrations were scheduled today.

Meanwhile, President Carter ordered an investigation into charges that the Iranians arrested July 27 were released before they should have been and before their visa status could be thoroughly checked.

He ordered that investigation while Thursday's four-hour demonstration was going on outside. Angry Americans, separated from the Iranians by scores of police, made clear their anger and frustration.

Hundreds of Washington residents and tourists gathered around the protesters, taunting and pelting them with eggs and garbage. One man took a tomato from his lunch sack and heaved it at the Iranians and another spat on an Iranian woman.

Administration officials are worried about a possibly violent confrontation and its potential effect on the 52 American hostages in Iran.

"We would hope that these demonstrations can be confined to peaceful expressions of view. Iranians in this country will continue to receive... the full protection of U.S. law," State Department spokesman David Passage said.

Another State Department official said in an interview that it is "obvious" that a violent confrontation between Iranian demonstrators and increasingly angry Americans — or with police — could severely complicate efforts to get the hostages released.

"That's exactly what the (protesting) Iranians would want," he added, referring to violence. "The ramifications of (a violent confrontation) is really nothing that has to be pointed out. It's obvious... (It) would make gaining the release of the hostages in Iran more complicated."

Thursday's protest demonstrated a potential for violence. Police had to escort the protesters to chartered buses after the demonstration and some Americans nearby said if it were not for the police, they would have physically attacked the Iranians.

The investigation of the July 27 arrests was ordered after some officials of the Immigration and Naturalization Service complained that the Carter administration pushed for the premature release of the Iranians. The Iranians, many of whom took part in Thursday's rally, were freed Wednesday.

INS spokesmen denied that the releases came before the identity and visa status of the Iranians had been fully checked.

Billy Subcommittee Still Looking For Top Lawyer

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate's Billy Carter subcommittee, which says it wants to have most of its work done by month's end, is still looking for a top-flight lawyer to lead its investigation. Thursday, the panel's first choice said no.

And one of the second choices says he might not be able to do it, either.

James F. Neal, the former Watergate prosecutor who was offered the job, said he can't spare the time from his Nashville, Tenn., law practice to be special counsel for the investigation into Billy Carter's Libyan connection and White House involvement in it.

A subcommittee source said the search now is concentrating on Philip A. Lacovara of Washington, who argued the Watergate tapes case before the Supreme Court, and former U.S. Attorney Robert B. Fiske Jr. of New York.

But Lacovara said that while he "might be interested," he could be available only part time as an outside counsel to oversee the probe.

The subcommittee already has completed two days of background hearings and is expected to start work in earnest after next week's Democratic National Convention.

Methodist Council In England Asks For Justice, Peace

TRURO, England (AP) — "As we have been challenged, so we challenge others to receive God's friendship, and seek God's will for a world of justice and peace and wholeness."

So declared the concluding message of an international conference of more than 1,000 youths organized by the World Methodist Council. Pledging to "struggle against poverty, racism and violence," the youths said:

"God longs for us to join with Christ in breaking down all barriers which separate people and set them against each other... We call for a change in our lifestyles, values and structures to bring about a redistribution of the world's resources."

Leanne Martin will direct the choir as the group sings "Let All Things Now Alive" with Pam Dixon as organist.

Church School for all ages will begin at 9:30 a.m. Peggy Phelan will lead the discussion on "Assertiveness and Christian Humility" for the adult class.

A nursery is provided for Church School and worship. The session meeting will be held Wednesday at 7:30 p.m.

FRANKFORT, Ky. (AP) — Robert Kellogg, acting executive director of the Air Transport division of the state Finance Department, says the state may spend as much as $99,000 to make improvements to its new $1.8 million helicopter.

Two bids were received to change the seating, add air conditioning and install more two-way radios in the Baptist Leader Says Overseas Inflation Threatens Missions

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP) — A Southern Baptist leader says a combination of overseas inflation and devaluation of the dollar is threatening to squeeze the financial life blood out of foreign missions.

The Rev. R. Keith Parks, head of the denomination's foreign missions board, notes that while contributions last year increased 7.8 percent, worldwide inflation, compounded by dollar devaluation overseas, averaged 27 percent.

Thus, he adds, missions operations in one year lost about 20 percent in buying power worldwide.

helicopter, which was purchased in mid-June.

Trans Avionics of Garden City, N.Y., submitted the $99,000 bid and Heliflight Systems Inc. of Conroe, Texas, had a bid of $87,000. Kellogg said a third company was asked to submit a proposal, but declined to do so.

The biggest difference in the bids is the price of air-conditioning equipment, where Heliflight Systems proposal of $18,000 was about $10,000 less than Trans Avionics, said Kellogg.

He said the cheaper air-conditioning equipment has not been certified for use in the new helicopter, a Sikorsky Spirit.

The helicopter, which was originally intended to ferry workers on short flights to oil-drilling operations, has two rows of bench seats designed for four persons each. The seating arrangement would be changed by replacing the front bench seat with two swivel seats and a work table, Kellogg said.

The bid for remodeling the interior is $50,000, but Kellogg said it has the lowest priority and may never be done.

The air conditioning and radio system will probably be installed later this summer or fall, according to Kellogg.

Presbyterian Church Invites Three Others To Join Membership

SAVANNAH, Ga. (AP) — The 77,500-member Presbyterian Church in America, formed by a split from the million-member Presbyterian Church U.S. (Southern) seven years ago, has invited three other smaller Presbyterian bodies to join it.

Its General Assembly issued that invitation to the Orthodox Presbyterian Church, the Reformed Presbyterian Church Evangelical Synod and Reformed Presbyterian Church of North America, which together have a total membership of about 35,000.

Richmond Cable TV To Poll Customers About Changes

RICHMOND, Ky. (AP) — Richmond Cable Television will poll its subscribers before deciding whether to reverse recent programming changes, according to company spokesman Joe Taylor.

About 50 residents met with Taylor Tuesday night and urged the cable service to restore channels from Cincinnati and Louisville.

They had been replaced by five independent channels, including WTBS in Atlanta and ESPN, a 24-hour sports network.

An unidentified man in the audience told Taylor the changes had been "nothing but a disaster" and noted ESPN programming included such obscure sports as professional volleyball and squash.

"I like yellow squash, cook, but I don't want to see it on television," the viewer said.

Martin Sheen Choosey About Roles

Two years ago Martin Sheen told us what he prizes most as a working actor and devoted head of a family: "Bring something about the job home to the kids."

He made his first impact on the stage in the Pulitzer Prize-winning play, "The Subject Is Roses." Now he is tempted by offers from television and movies. "It's not the medium," he told us (he holds them both in esteem, scoffs at any rivalry), "it is the role" — and if it promises something his children get a kick out of and shows them what he does for a living — so much the better.

Two years ago Martin (remembered for such major opuses on TV as "The Missiles of October" and "Blind Ambition" — portraying respectively the martyred John Kennedy of the 1960s and the Watergate key figure John Dean of the 1970s) playfully tossed a heavy object that defied catching. No rubber ball, this. Rather it was a heavy-something that turned out to be the meter used in "Taxi," an admirable television movie starring him and which kept him on location in Toronto for nearly two months.

But considering the nature of his latest opus, here's hoping that the Sheens have outgrown their souvenir phase. He will be appearing in a big-screen film, "The Final Countdown" as a trouble-shooter for small defects who boards a present-day nuclear aircraft-carrier, the "USS Nimitz" (five acres of landing strip, 32 stories high ... and all of it for real), and whirrs through a time-warp. Could this carrier, highly futuristic on Dec. 7, 1941, have aborted the Pearl Harbor trigger to World War II?

ABC Walks Away With Top Spot In Niensens

LOS ANGELES (AP) — ABC placed just three shows in the top 10 television programs for the week ending Aug. 3, but still walked away with first place in the A.C. Nielsen ratings.

Some reruns helped the network score strongly in the midrange of the rankings to finish with an average rating of 14.1.

The network that has dominated the summer ratings, CBS, had 13.4 and NBC had 12.2 after a first-place finish a week earlier. The Nielsen rating measures the number of TV-equipped households in the country tuned into at least part of a particular show.

CBS captured the first two places in the listings with "The Jeffersons" and "Trapper John, M.D.," while ABC's topranked show, "Three's Company," was in fifth place.

CBS' "60 minutes," which has been a regular fixture in the top 10, sank to 12th place and was topped by such ABC shows, in addition to "Three's Company," as "Taxi," "Fantasy Island" and "Hart to Hart."

Almost half of the shows in the top half of the ratings were ABC reruns.

It was not a good week for original programming.

ABC's "20-20" newsmagazine nipped at the heels of the "60 Minutes" rerun with a 13th place ranking, but the next highest new show was ABC's "Nobody's Perfect," in 33rd place. Other new shows fell in the bottom half of the list, including four of the last five.

Here are last week's top 10 shows and their ratings: "The Jeffersons," 21.6, CBS; "Trapper John, M.D.," 21.3, CBS; "Airport '77," Part II, 21.3, NBC; "Alice," 19.8, CBS; "Three's Company," 19.6, ABC; "MASH," 19.0, CBS; "Taxi," 18.7, ABC; "Fantasy Island," 18.3, ABC; "The Dukes of Hazzard," 18.2, CBS; "Dallas," 18.0, CBS.

The second 10: "Hart to Hart," 18.0, ABC; "60 Minutes," 17.8, CBS; "20-20," 16.8, ABC; "The Love Boat," 16.4, ABC; "WKRP in Cincinnati," 16.3, CBS; "Flo," 15.6, CBS; "Laverne & Shirley," 15.4, ABC; "Facts of Life," 15.4, NBC; "Real People," 15.3, NBC; "House Calls," 15.3, CBS.

The bottom five: "CBS Reports: What Shall We Do About Mother?," 8.3, CBS; "The Prince of Central Park," 7.8, CBS; "Brothers," 7.4, CBS; "Six O'Clock Follies," 7.0, NBC; "Good Time Harry," 6.9, NBC.

Willie And Phil Study Of Human Relationships

WILLIE AND PHIL is another study in human relationships by the astute Paul Mazursky. This time he plays the triangle — two young men and a woman who love each other deeply, the males platonically. Their mutual romances take them from New York to Kentucky, Malibu, Maui and India and through many relationships over nine years.

Mazursky is a master of dialogue and comic situation; his only trouble is with the finish. The one he chose causes a massive let-down, like being on an adventurous journey that leads to nowhere.

Michael Ontkane (Willie) and Ray Sharkey (Phil) are winning personalities, but the revelation is Margot Kidder as their amour.

The rating is R with a degree of nudity and expletives, some acid and pot, lots of talk about sex and some action. Still, it is a good-hearted movie, the kind that Mazursky always makes.

Battle Between Commerical, Pay Television Continues

By PETER J. BOYER
AP Television Writer

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The Federal Communications Commission recently ruled to lift some restraints from the burgeoning cable television industry, prompting the expected howls from the "free" television industry.

If nothing else, the FCC ruling illuminated the "sky is falling" argument against pay TV, revealing it to be nothing more than a smokescreen.

The commercial broadcasters have spent the past few years arguing that cable television's growth comes at the expense of local communities' good. The reasoning went something like this: When cable TV entered a community, bringing with it new viewing alternatives, the local broadcasters lost viewers. Lost viewers meant lost revenue, lost revenue meant lower profits, and thus, less money to spend on local public interest programming.

A nifty argument, if you didn't get hung up on that part about less profit leading directly to less local public service. The prime time access rule, remember, was established to give local broadcaster more time for just such programming, and they promptly turned the extra time into the Chuck Barris hour.

The FCC saw that broadcasters were asking the commission to protect commercial broadcasting, presumably on the premise that commercial stations are the only ones that can serve the public interest.

The FCC decided that the public interest is served by the variety and freedom of choice that cable brings, and lifted two rules limiting cable TV — one rule limited the importation of distant signals, the other prohibited a cable operation from showing a syndicated program in a market where a local station owned rights to it.

What's amazing is that the FCC ever imposed those rules to begin with. The FCC isn't in the business of carrying broadcasting's hod.

The commission now seems to be in a general deregulation mood, one that doesn't hold to the premise that what's good for broadcasters is good for the community.

Andy Litky of the National Cable Television Association says an FCC inquiry leading to its recent ruling showed that broadcasters' profits are not adversely affected by cable.

Yet, you can be sure broadcasters will fight the decision. It boils down to this: Cable, with its imported signals, its paycable sports and news programs and, especially, its commercial-free movies, is competition that broadcasters would rather not have to contend with.

Two Hours Not Too Long To Stand In Line For Singer Kenny Rogers

By MATT SANDERS
Staff Writer

Whoever it was that said "Hell hath no fury as a woman's scorn" possibly never saw Kenny Rogers in concert.

On July 31 in Hopkinsville, "the Gambler" put on two shows before a total crowd of near 14,000, about 11,000 of which were women.

For Alice Rouse, the anticipation about seeing Rogers perform began about two months ago when she bought reserve seat tickets. Then the anticipation grew greater as she got an idea. As an employee of the Murray Ledger & Times, why not get an interview with him?

But the anticipation was short-lived. After a call to Tom Snow, the Western Kentucky State Fair chairman, Alice learned that Rogers was not giving interviews before or after the show. What's more, all seats were going to be on a first come, first serve basis. But Alice decided then she would not be denied seats close to the stage.

Accompanied by husband Bill and two friends, Polly and Gary Hohman, they arrived about two hours before the 9 p.m. show. Still plenty of time to maybe sneak into Kenny's dressing room for an interview. However, with about 60 police and security guards, the possible interview grew dimmer by the minute. So, with pen in hand, she walked away disappointed.

But disappointment is not a proper adjective for a woman who is about to see Kenny Rogers in concert.

The line for the second show began to form, so with cameras from three

New series

"Hour Magazine," hosted by Gary Collins with Pat Mitchell as co-host, has started production in Hollywood. The new Group W Productions syndicated daytime information-entertainment series, already sold in 76 markets with more to come, is scheduled to premiere on Sept. 8.

Greek legend

James Mason has been signed to host "The Search for Alexander the Great," a four-part docudrama on the life and times of the man who conquered the known world by the time he was 27, to be seen on PBS early next year.

The programs will explore the character of the short-lived Greek legendary leader who died in 323 B.C. at 32.

friends hanging around her neck, Alice got in line.

Bill suggested they walk around the fairgrounds for a while since two hours was too long to wait in any line.

"If you can sit in a duck blind all day, I can stand in a line for Kenny for two hours," Alice replied.

So she waited. And waited. Then it came time for the concert. With "You Decorate My Life" in her heart and despite her towering wooden high heels, Alice came out of the gate like Secretariat and landed in the center of the fifth row.

And then THE man came out — decked in grey pants that complimented his hair and beard, an open shirt and vest.

As the lights on stage came on, the rugged-looking figure vocalized "You Turn The Lights On." The singer appeared to be a bit heavier than his pictures on the covers of the 8-track tapes that covered the floorboards of Alice's car. But to the men, it was just a sign that even superstars are just like everyone else. But to the women, it was just that much more of Kenny Rogers.

It seemed like Rogers become one with the crowd, singing his hits like "The Gambler," "Lucille," "Coward of the County," "Grey Beard," "She Believes In Me," and, with his special guest Dottie West, "Don't Fall In Love With A Dreamer" and "Anyone Who Isn't Me Tonight."

In between the songs, Rogers threw out about five of his tambourines and several Frisbee flying discs to those in the back of the grandstands.

Then the singing appeared to be over as Rogers began to walk to the back of the stage. The crowd was standing and screaming as he touched the back wall and came back for more.

"That's just a little game I play. I go over and touch the wall," he said with smiling eyes as he walked back on stage.

What woman wouldn't have wished that she was the wall?

After a few more songs and to a standing ovation, "the Gambler" bid the crowd good-bye, turned and slowly walked off stage from a performance that did Kenny Rogers proud.

And then all that remains is nothing more than photographs and memories.

New Daytime Drama Not From Primetime Series

NEW YORK (AP) — Paul Rauch is well aware that his new daytime drama on NBC, called "Texas," might get an inadvertent boost from a supersuccessful primetime series on CBS set in the same great state. He insists it wasn't planned that way.

"No one really believes me when I say that," Rauch says, "though I do hope we will benefit from everything that's happened with 'Dallas' and 'Urban Cowboy' and the many other things in the media that relate to Texas."

"That didn't figure in our planning," he says. "We did want to do something with the Southern culture. Houston today is not really Southern culture, though we do feel close to the South."

In fact, for the first month or so, "Texas" will have a much closer relationship with "Another World," which will precede the new series in NBC's daytime lineup. Rauch has been executive producer of "Another World" since January 1972, and will produce both hour-long series.

NBC has reworked a good part of its daytime schedule to make room for the new soap. "Another World," which has run 90 minutes a day since March '79, will be cut back to an hour when "Texas" premiered Aug. 4.

If Actors' Strike Continues

Golden Age Shows May Help NBC

By PETER J. BOYER
AP Television Writer

LOS ANGELES (AP) — I'm afraid that without some help, Fred Silverman won't be able to keep his promise about making NBC No. 1 by Christmas, which is only 140 days away.

Some help has arrived, in the form of the actors' strike. NBC's chances for success in the fall season are considerably enhanced by the possibility that there will be no fall season, at least not the one that was planned by the three networks.

Reordering of the status quo is best accomplished in a maelstrom, and the Screen Actors Guild-American Federation of Television and Radio Artists strike could provide the necessary turbulence. It is up to NBC to seize the moment.

Here's the plan, Fred: If the strike continues, the networks will be scrambling for programming to fill strike-emptied schedules. The obvious answer would be to schedule programs not affected by the strike — "Real People," "That's Incredible" — along with a lot of movies.

But instead, NBC could assemble a fall schedule comprising great series from its past. While the other two networks were sputtering along, NBC could be reliving television's Golden Age.

A sample NBC All-Star schedule:

—SUNDAY: "Esso Newsreel," a little feature from NBC's 1946 season, which could compete with "60 Minutes" for the news-information audience. "I Love to Eat," another favorite from that vintage year, with James Beard cooking. "Campus Hoopla," a variety show from the '47 season that was set in a campus soda shop.

—MONDAY: NBC could borrow from NBC's various Mondays through the years, starting the evening with "What's My Name?" with Paul Winchell and Jerry Mahoney. "Voice of Firestone," a selection of documentaries on such subjects as vocational guidance and diary farming, could follow, or "Arthur Murray's Party."

—TUESDAY: I'd like to see these shows from NBC Tuesdays past: "Nat King Cole," "The Bob Cummings Show" (remember Schultzie?) "Dragnet," and, of course, "My Mother the Car."

—WEDNESDAY: An all-star night in NBC's history.

"Wagon Train," "Father Knows Best," "The Virginian" and "I Spy."

—THURSDAY: The best show NBC ever had on Thursday, maybe any night, was Groucho Marx's "You Bet Your Life." But there were others. "Jefferson Drum," frontier editor; "Bachelor Father," one of my personal favorites; and "Dr. Kildare."

—FRIDAY: For old times' sake, let's start the evening with "The Herman Hickman Show," from 1952. Mr. Hickman was a former Yale football coach, who talked about his days on campus and read poems. It would be a nice lead-in for "Life of Riley," to be followed by "The Thin Man" and "Thriller." A perfect Friday schedule.

—SATURDAY: Start with "People Are Funny," starring Art Linkletter, followed by "Brains and Brawn," a 1958 selection pitting audience teams comprising someone with intellectual skills and someone with athletic skills (it lasted three months). "Flipper," "Get Smart" and "My Little Margie" should follow.

Television Executives Look To Spin-offs For Successful Seasons

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Had a television executive created this world, there would be nothing but Mondays. He would have stopped after the first day, assessed his work, and copied it six times to fill out the week.

In television, a new product is unique for just as long as it takes to imitate it. The captains of television, dedicated competitive capitalists for the most part, become absolutely communal in the matter of original ideas.

And so it is that CBS' "Dallas" has multiplied into so many likenesses of itself. CBS cut "Knots Landing" and "The Secrets of Midland Heights" from the "Dallas" prototype. NBC borrowed the idea for its "Fleming Road."

It is noted that "Dallas" itself was not an original idea, deriving from television's daytime soaps. They, in turn, extended from radio's soap operas, which could probably be traced back to some prehistoric original thinker who was promptly devoured by his neighbors, the antecedents of modern TV executives.

The latest incarnation of the "Dallas" idea is NBC's "new" daytime soap opera, shamelessly titled "Texas." It is about lust and greed among the Texas gentry — oilmen, land barons and the like.

To complete its incestuous pedigree, "Texas" is not only a derivative of "Dallas," but is a spinoff from one of NBC's own soaps, "Another World." So, in the matter of its lineage, "Texas" is a television blueblood, created completely from extant ideas.

As dictated by its position on the NBC schedule, "Texas" resembles "Another World" more than "Dallas" in that it requires from its viewers that special daytime soap opera state of mind. That is, the patience of a jigsaw puzzle addict and the dexterity to juggle dozens of character and plot pieces at once.

And a willingness to indulge clumsy exposition devices — the favorite being the whispered soliloquy — doesn't hurt.

The series opened on an airplane, where we see one Iris Bancroft (Beverly McKinsey), a faded flower who, sources tell me, was a witch on "Another World." She is surprised to learn that the plane is turning around and returning to Houston on her behalf.

It seems that a long-ago boyfriend, penniless charmer Alex Wheeler, has become a rich Texan. So rich that he can order an airline to turn around and deposit his long-lost lover into his arms.

Steve Porter Stars In Outdoor Drama

The leading role of Phenius Pickett in "The Liberty Cart" outdoor drama will be portrayed in the 1980 season by Steve Porter, a former high school All-American football player, and a four-year member of the University of Tennessee football team. He is son of Margaret Boone and William M. Porter of Murray.

Upon graduating from high school, Porter received scholarship offers from over eighty schools, before signing with the University of Tennessee, where his theatrical interests earned him the nickname Shakespeare from head coach Johnny Majors.

Porter says his first taste of theatre came after the suggestion from a dormitory conversation with a UT wrestler, who suggested he audition for a one-act play being produced by the Theatre Department. After performing his ten-line stage debut, Porter auditioned for future shows and he was cast in several University productions and productions by the professional Clarence Brown Company, an Equity run operation.

Between seasons with the Volunteer football squad, Porter acted in Hunter Hills outdoor theatre, and for the past two years he has performed in "The Legend of Daniel Boone" in Harrodsburg, Ky., playing the title role in that production last summer. At auditions held in March at the Southeastern Theatre Conference in Nashville, Porter was offered employment by over 30 professional theatre companies, after he had signed with "The Liberty Cart." When "The Liberty Cart" ends on August 24, he will travel to Galveston, Texas, where he will act with the Strand Street Theatre.

In "The Liberty Cart,"

Porter plays the role of Phenius Pickett, the narrator and central character in Randolph Umberger's historical outdoor drama. At six-feet, five inches tall, Porter would be the central character in almost any play in which he appeared. Director Rich Boyd feels that the size and talent of Steve Porter will help make the 1980 production of

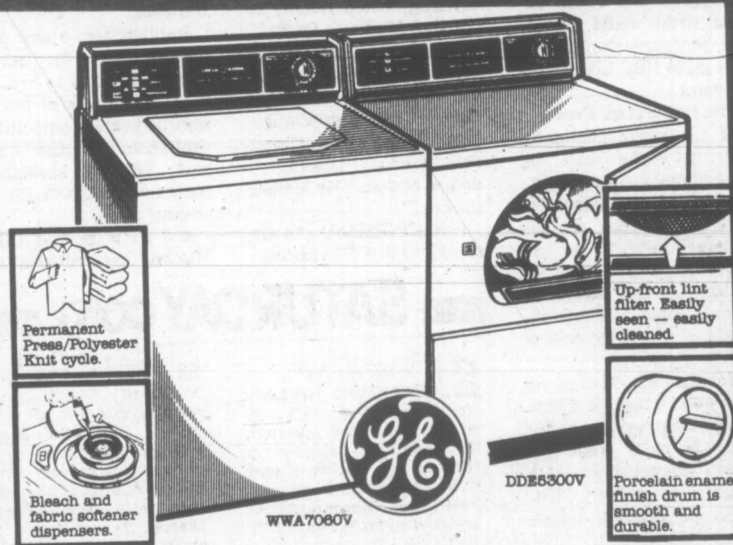

"The Liberty Cart" the best ever. "Steve looks like I always thought Phenius should look." "His size and voice, and natural stage presence, make him the perfect actor for Phenius Pickett." "We feel fortunate to have Steve with us, and hope that audiences will agree that he will be the best Phenius in the history of "The Liberty

Cart."

"The Liberty Cart" opens July 18, and runs every Thursday through Sunday night through August 24. Special rates for Senior Citizens and groups are available. For further information, contact Kerry Maher at (919) 296-0721, or write: The Liberty Cart, P.O. Box 470, Kenansville, NC 28349.
