Conservatives Vote On Financing Of Abortion

By MIKE SHANAHAN
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) —
Conservatives are forcing a vote on the emotional issue of federal financing of abortions for the first time since Republicans took control of the Senate in January.

Sen. Jesse Helms, R-N.C., has proposed that only if a mother's life is endangered by the delivery of a child should tax dollars be used to pay for an abortion under the federal Medicaid program.

Current rules say federal funds can be used only if a woman became pregnant through rape, incest or if her life would be endangered.

The amendment, set for a vote today as part of a $12.8 billion supplemental appropriations bill, is another in a series of anti-abortion proposals which conservatives hope will succeed in the Republican-dominated Senate.

Meanwhile, eight doctors and scientists attacked another anti-abortion bill during testimony Wednesday before a Senate Judiciary subcommittee.

The legislation, also sponsored by Helms, would define life as beginning at conception and would give a fetus full constitutional rights, thus effectively prohibiting abortions.

Dr. Lewis Thomas, chancellor of the Sloan-Kettering Cancer Center, said the question of when life begins "is not a scientific question and cannot be answered by scientists."

He said there are no criteria for accurately determining when life begins.

Similarly, Dr. Clifford Grobstein of the University of California at San Diego said the time when life begins "is not a precise date which could be written into law."

Dr. Mary Ellen Avery, a pediatrician from Harvard Medical School, said a fetus has no "viability" before the 24th or 26th week of pregnancy because before that time, the unborn child cannot survive outside the mother.

Dr. Avery and other specialists also said that if the proposed legislation became law, the growing practice of diagnosing major hereditary and congenital diseases and defects would probably be stopped.

Women who suspect that their unborn children may have major defects can now be tested, and if the test is positive, they can elect not to have the child.

"Women should have the option of knowing the risk of abnormalities in the fetus they bear," Dr. Avery said, "and they should also have the right to choose whether they wish to continue the pregnancy."

Sen. John East, R-N.C., the subcommittee chairman, said the idea that doctors or scientists can set arbitrary times after conception but during pregnancy when life begins "is morally and ethically repulsive."

Dr. Avery replied, "I cannot accept the idea that every woman's pregnancy must be carried to term just because there was conception."

"Senator East," she said, "that is nonsense."

Cryts Claims Soybean Selling Is 'Tyranny'

PUXICO, Mo. (AP) — Farmer Wayne Cryts says it's "tyranny." A judge has decided to sell soybeans that Cryts stored in a grain elevator that later went bankrupt.

Cryts says he'll try to avoid a confrontation.

"I'm trying to work things out so I won't have to take any physical action," he said Wednesday after a federal judge ordered the grain sold to pay debts owed by the bankrupt elevator owners.

"I'm doing everything I can to avoid it," he said.

Bailiff Is Convicted

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — A former court bailiff who made money by telling accused criminals he could bribe judges was convicted in U.S. District Court at Louisville Wednesday of racketeering.

Charles L. Cissell, 62, a former special bailiff in Jefferson Circuit Court and special deputy for the county sheriff's office, faces up to 20 years in prison and a $25,000 fine.

FBI undercover agents presented tapes at the trial that recorded Cissell's assurances to defendants that he could bribe judges to fix cases. Testimony revealed that Cissell then pocketed the money.

On tape, the former bailiff offered a "guaranteed" moneyback deal, promising to return the bribe if the judge failed to deliver.

Defense attorney Frank Haddad admitted that Cissell had defrauded people. But he said his client never offered any judge any money, and as such, he was not guilty of racketeering as charged.

Ballantine had dismissed the charges against Cissell earlier this month because of an appellate court ruling, then reconsidered after learning the 4th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals planned to review that decision.

Cissell is set for sentencing on May 28.

Education Association Asks For Board Policy

ELIZABETHTOWN, Ky. (AP) — The Elizabethtown Education Association has asked that the Elizabethtown school board formulate a policy controlling the information placed in school personnel files.

EAA president Larry Bergeson said in a prepared platform at the Monday meeting that his association is "deeply concerned" that current personnel file practices do not "enhance positive communication, moral and professional standards."

Bergeson said some teachers are concerned that there may be information placed in their files without their prior knowledge. He said the teachers want an opportunity to respond to any "derogatory remarks intended for personnel files."

Miss New York To Go To Court To Get Into Miss USA Contest

NEW YORK (AP) — Miss New York State, ejected from the Miss USA pageant for padding her bathing suit top, was going to court today in a last-ditch effort to get back into tonight's contest. Deborah Ann Fountain ar-restants have enlarged their breasts with silicone transplants and as many as 20 others also used padding. Miss Fountain said she would tape two talk shows before returning to Biloxi, Miss., for tonight's pageant, which will be televised nationally beginning at 9 p.m. EDT on CBS.

After Miss Fountain stepped off a plane at LaGuardia Airport, her red, white and blue pageant sash draped over her shoulder, attorney Gerald Posner said he would file a petition in court asking that his client be reinstated. "As far as I'm concerned, this pageant has been poisoned," he said. The court papers are to name Kayser-Roth Corp., Miss Universe Inc., sponsors of the pageant, and Harold Glasser, pageant president, Posner said.

President's Oldest Son Resigns Company Post

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Michael Reagan, President Reagan's oldest son, has resigned from his executive sales position with a manufacturer of airplane and missile parts following a controversy over his use of his father's name in a business letter.

The younger Reagan said Wednesday he resigned because he felt his presence with the small Burbank company, Dana Ingalls Profile Inc., might damage its chances of winning future bids and contracts.

Reagan said he and Dana Ingalls, the firm's president, were concerned that any military bids or contracts the firm won would be subject to intense press scrutiny as long as he remained in his job.

Miss Fountain, who is from The Bronx, was disqualified Tuesday after pageant officials said she broke a promise not to discuss charges that she used foam rubber padding in the top of her swimsuit during competition.

Journalism Discussed

ATLANTA (AP) — Journalism education in the United States is as relevant to the profession as a horse and buggy is to the Columbia space shuttle, the president of the International Newspaper Promotion Association said Wednesday.

Reagan, 36, complained last week that the attention given a letter he wrote had dogged his business activities.

Miss Fountain replied, "I'm a Christian. I'm a Catholic. I did not date men until I went to college. I have a lot of character, and you will never see me in Playboy magazine."

It said in part: "I know that, with my father's leadership at the White House, this countries (sic) Armed Services are going to be rebuilt and strengthened. We at Dana Ingalls Profile want to be involved in that process."

Women Picked Up In Connection With Food Stamp Abuse

COVINGTON, Ky. (AP) — Two women, accused of soliciting for prostitution, were picked up May 8 in connection with a state investigation of food stamp abuses, according to Capt. Paul Eifert.

Deborah D. Wilson, 20, and Glenda Sue Abney, 19, were charged with solicitation for prostitution and unauthorized use of food stamps.

The Kentucky Attorney General's office said a statewide investigation is under way. Eifert said the state department has also discovered cases of federal food stamps being used to purchase guns, cars, drugs and television sets.

White House Hits Congress Social Security Snag

By CHRISTOPHER CONNELL
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — The Reagan administration is running into a virtual insurrection in Congress over Social Security, sternly rebuffed on stiffer early retirement penalties and challenged to justify cutting all benefits twice as much as necessary.

Wednesday's rebukes by the Republican-controlled Senate and House Democrats came even before the administration could make its first official pitch on Capitol Hill in defense of the cuts that President Reagan proposed nine days ago.

That task fell today to Health and Human Services Secretary Richard S. Schweiker, the chief architect of Reagan's package, who was called before a hostile House Select Committee on Aging.

The panel's chairman, Claude Pepper, D-Fla., opened the first congressional hearing on the plan today by blasting the Reagan proposals, saying, "The magnitude of these cuts is staggering."

Pepper noted that a White House spokesman had called the package "bold and courageous."

"I think it's cold and outrageous," declared the 80-year-old dean of the Congress. "Their Social Security amendments are a defeatist, negative response to a serious but solvable problem."

Pepper added that he hopes the package is merely a "trial balloon (that) gets shot down before it reaches 100 feet." Before formally opening the hearing, Pepper heard three workers on the verge of retirement at age 62 testify about how the Reagan cuts would impinge on their retirement plans.

Reagan did win one round Wednesday. Senate Republicans defeated a Democratic-sponsored resolution to condemn the proposed cutbacks as "a breach of faith" with older Americans. The margin on that one, though, was a single vote, 49-48, and it was to be Reagan's only Social Security victory of the day.

The Senate followed by voting unanimously to assure older workers "that Congress shall not precipitously and unfairly penalize early retirees" or reduce benefits more than "necessary to achieve a financially sound system and the wellbeing of all retired Americans."

On the other side of the Capitol, meanwhile, the House Democratic Caucus unanimously adopted a resolution branding the stiffer early retirement penalties as "an unconscionable breach of faith with the first generation of workers that has contributed to Social Security for their whole lives."

Pepper, a Florida Democrat, released a 57-page staff study that provided the first estimates of how many Americans would be affected by each of Reagan's proposals to slash $81.9 billion in Social Security benefits over the next five years.

Pepper said the administration's own figures show that over the next 75 years, the Reagan plan amounts to a $37 billion-a-year reduction in benefits, more than twice the system's long-term deficit of $18 billion a year.

In addition to sharp cuts in early retirement checks and disability benefits, the Reagan package would reduce benefits for all future retirees an average of 10 percent by 1987.

Pepper's staff study said 18.1 million persons now aged 56 to 61 who retire over the next five years would be hit by that cut. And it said more than 7 million workers and spouses would lose one-third of their promised benefits by 1986 under the early retirement penalties.

budget victory took their ideas for a tax cut to the White House, where they met Wednesday with administration officials.

Some of those familiar with the meeting said the president's advisers were prepared to accept a smaller tax reduction that would begin three months later than Reagan proposed. The delay, they said, was designed to hold down the federal deficit.

One of the congressmen, Rep. Phil Gramm, D-Texas, termed the meeting "an effort to understand just what the White House will negotiate on and what is not negotiable."

Another participant, Rep. Kent Hance, D-Texas, said he was surprised at how little the president's advisers were willing to give at Wednesday's meeting. "If we get a compromise, they're not going to give much," Hance said.

Joining Hance and Gramm at the meeting, were Reps. G.V. Montgomery, D-Miss., and Charles Stenholm, D-Texas. After the session, the four met with Rep. Dan Rostenkowski, D-Ill., chairman of the House Ways and Means Committee, who is expected to play a major role in development of any compromise.

John Sherman, press secretary for the Ways and Means Committee, confirmed that the conservatives met with Rostenkowski. "They repeated the position they've held all along — that they want to work with the Ways and Means Committee on writing a tax bill."

Sources familiar with the White House meeting said the four congressmen agreed among themselves on a package of tax cuts and that the president's advisers seemed ready to pursue such a compromise. It was not clear whether all the elements of the package would be included in the main tax bill or some of them delayed until a second measure is considered.

Their proposed compromise would include:

- A 5 percent cut in personal tax rates on Oct. 1, and additional cuts of 10 percent on July 1, 1982, and July 1, 1983.
- A significant reduction in gift and estate taxes designed to improve the economic position of family farms and small businesses.
- A one-step reduction from 70 percent to 50 percent in the maximum tax rate on such investment income as interest and dividends. The administration had been proposing a three-step reduction.
- Increased tax incentives for individual savings.
- A business tax cut based on the faster depreciation plan recommended by Reagan.

Earlier Wednesday, Murray Weidenbaum, chairman of Reagan's Council of Economic Advisers, indicated that any individual tax cuts might have to wait until next year, thus delaying the resulting loss of revenue and easing fears that the tax reduction would be inflationary.

"We are open-minded on the starting date and exact size of the cut," Weidenbaum said.

UMW Council Convenes For Strategy Meet

By MERRILL HARTSON
AP Labor Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — The United Mine Workers bargaining council is convening for a crucial strategy session with the coal strike in its 56th day and union president Sam Church delivering a harsh verbal attack against the top industry negotiator.

Church summoned the 39-member bargaining council, the top union contract policy-making body, for consultations following a recess in intensive contract negotiations.

The council was to meet at the union's international headquarters here today.

When management and labor agreed Monday that a recess was needed, Church said he wanted to get input from council members on the direction in which the UMW negotiating team should move.

The two sides are hung up over the volatile issue of union security. They spent several days haggling over language in a scope and coverage provision that pertains to the hiring by unionized coal companies of outside, non-union workers.

It is one of two union security issues that Church vowed to clear up when rank-and-file miners rejected an earlier tentative three-year accord on March 31 by better than a 2-1 margin. The other issue is the union's demand for restoration of a contract provision which, in effect, penalizes coal operators covered by the national contract whenever they purchase non-union coal for processing and resale.

Although both sides maintained Monday that the recess was agreed to jointly, Church issued on Wednesday a scathing denunciation of the stance taken in the talks so far by Bobby R. Brown, president of Consolidation Coal Co. of Pittsburgh and chief bargainer for the Bituminous Coal Operators Association.

He accused Brown of "unnecessarily prolonging the current strike by nearly 160,000 of this country's coal miners just so his oil company bosses can make bigger profits and push up the price of coal."

As has been the case in the past, the BCOA declined Wednesday to respond to Church's accusations.

"This isn't the first time he's said this," said a spokesman for the association, which negotiates the national coal contract for 130 member companies and some 980 smaller, independent companies.

Consolidation Coal Co. is a subsidiary of Continental Oil Co.

Meanwhile, strike-related violence broke out anew in eastern Kentucky.

Two separate rock-throwing incidents were reported Wednesday in Kentucky, which has been hit hard by strike-related violence.

In Maryland, state police offered a $25,000 reward for information leading to the arrest of those responsible for last week's destruction of power poles leading to the Metikki mine near Oakland, Md.

When the contract talks recessed abruptly on Monday, Brown said the industry bargaining team would remain on call for a resumption of negotiations.

Referring to repudiation of the earlier contract, Church said Wednesday, "The members of this union spoke with one voice ... but apparently Brown just couldn't — or wouldn't — listen."

The only possible reason for Brown to refuse to recognize the realities of the situation and bargain in good faith is so the big oil companies can squeeze every last dollar out of the coal they've stockpiled," he charged.

The Wall Street Journal reported earlier this week that the price of coal on the spot market had soared as the coal strike entered its seventh week.

Church said, "I have been informed by state authorities in West Virginia that more than 30 small, independent coal companies are currently going through bankruptcy proceedings in that state."

When the talks broke off Monday, Church told reporters that the industry was unwilling to improve its proposal on a volatile union security issue. The question involves the extent to which UMW-covered coal companies can hire outside, non-union personnel.

The group's goal is to establish Kentucky's only Ronald McDonald House, where families can live while the children undergo treatment for cancer and other illnesses at Lexington's four hospitals.

Those who can't afford rented rooms or area motels often sleep in hospital waiting rooms or parked cars, which officials at the University of Kentucky's Albert B. Chandler Medical Center say is a growing problem.

"It can be devastating, emotionally and financially, to have to travel great distances for treatment, sometimes for three weeks at a time," Beverly Freeman of Scott County said in an interview Wednesday. Her son, Alan, 15, receives leukemia treatments at UK.

The organization is awaiting government approval of its application for tax-exempt status and has not found a site for the house, Mrs. Cronin said.

The group hoped to find a large house near the four hospitals, she said. "It would be best to find one that could be remodeled or expanded, but we may have to buy a piece of land and start from scratch."

The $500,000 estimate would "drop drastically if we were fortunate enough to have a house donated," she said.

Jerry Pendergrass:

- "I care about the people and the land in Calloway County and will work to make it a better place to live."
- "I will be a 24 hour sheriff, available to assist in any way."
- "My office will be open, honest, and will serve the public fairly."
- "I will enforce the law to make Calloway County safe, comfortable, and a place we can all be proud of."

TVA Poor Computer Planning Criticized In Report Of GAO

KNOXVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — Poor planning was responsible for many of the Tennessee Valley Authority's inefficient computer practices criticized in a General Accounting Office report, a private consultant hired by the federal utility says. But the study by John Diebold & Associates, a New York management consultant, also criticized some of the GAO's planning recommendations, saying they were contrary to accepted industry methods and would cost more than they were worth. The consultant's study began last October, a month after the GAO, a watchdog arm of Congress, completed a report saying TVA wasted several million dollars by ignoring advice and buying too many computers. TVA Chairman S. David Freeman said that while he agreed with many of the GAO's findings, the GAO omitted details and ignored its own advice in its report to the House Committee on Government Operations.

The report, issued on request in December to committee chairman Rep. Jack Brooks, D-Texas, was written by Elmer Staats, comptroller general and GAO chief. TVA released the GAO report, its response and the consultant's study Wednesday.

Referring to TVA's use of Automatic Data Processing equipment, Staats said, "Since October 1978, TVA has spent more than $9.1 million for supplemental commercial ADP services and additional ADP equipment.

"TVA could have avoided these costs. However, existing policies and procedures have limited the ability of TVA's computer management officials to use the agency's resources efficiently.

"The additional ADP equipment increased TVA's computing capacity to more than twice that needed to meet TVA's projected requirements for late 1981," Staats said.

He also criticized TVA for buying or leasing equipment without seeking bids, and excluding from bids equipment that would need conversion components to work with its computers.

Freeman said GAO investigators ignored policies adopted last year by the General Services Administration. The policies were cited in a June 1980 GAO study that questioned the financial benefits of buying cheaper equipment that needed costly conversion components.

The Diebold & Associates study, conducted from October through January, said TVA's data processing system was inefficient because of several planning errors.

"Initial planning objectives were varied and unclear," the study said, adding that the utility's decentralized information structure and lack of businessplanning experience made data processing planning difficult.

The study also said TVA didn't take enough time to work out a data processing plan, and the plan lacked cost-benefit analyses for specific computer projects.

The consultant said the GAO's recommendation that production and storage requirements for each computer system be forecast individually would cost more than it's worth. It recommended what it said was the accepted industry practice of forecasting specific requirements only for major computer systems or groups of systems.

'60 Minutes' Creator Says Show Is Reality Programming

(EDITOR'S NOTE — The 70 faculty members who reporter, Frank Blodgett, recently attended a national Murray State University conference of broadcast assistant professor and executives.)

By FRANK BLODGETT

DONATION — Tony Wallace (right), president of the Murray-Calloway County Jaycees, presented at check to Bill Hutson with the JROTC unit at Calloway County High School. The donation will help send a cadet to JROTC camp for two weeks.

GLEN COVE, N. Y. — CBS's "60 Minutes" is reality programming by very special reporters, says its creator and executive producer, Don Hewitt.

Speaking to a group of radio and television faculty and students at the Ninth Annual International Radio and Television Society Faculty/Industry Seminar and College Conference in Glen Cove, N. Y. recently, Hewitt said the reason "60 Minutes" stays in the Nielsen ratings top ten consistently — and is often number one — is that the emphasis is on four special reporters. Stories are not told by unknown producers merely using reporters to do the narrative, he said.

Hewitt said also that most "60 Minutes" stories are small ones. "People can't digest a big issue, like ecology. But they can understand the effect of pollution on one town," he said.

The often outspoke and controversial Hewitt is a veteran of CBS News. He was a director on many of the Ed Murrow programs, producer of the "CBS Evening News with Douglas Edwards" and executive producer of the "CBS Evening News with Walter Cronkite."

Hewitt also produced and directed the first Nixon-Kennedy presidential debate and was named the Broadcaster of the Year by the International Radio and Television Society in 1980.

Beginning with two reporters, Mike Wallace and Harry Reasoner, "60 Minutes" has, according to Hewitt, always been based on the "right chemistry" between the reporters. He said that the right reporters are needed to do this. Hewitt's definition of a good broadcast journalist is "someone who can find out and communicate what they found out."

Hewitt said the reason that "60 Minutes" has not been duplicated is people. "People make television shows — not ideas," he said, indicating that he means writers, producers and directors, as well as persons seen on the air. Hewitt said he feels the 20 producers on the "60 Minutes" staff are the best in the business and play an important part in the program's success.

Hewitt said "60 Minutes" will eventually have a woman reporter. His interest, he said, is in finding good reporters regardless of sex, race or minority group affiliation who will fit with the others. This was the criterion, he said, he used in selecting Ed Bradley, a black, to replace Dan Rather.

Hewitt said Barbara Walters presently is the only woman whom he feels is ready to join the "60 Minutes" team.

In answer to the frequent charge that "60 Minutes" reporting is slanted and sensationalized, Hewitt said that there is no slanting and there are no preconceived notions.

Hewitt said that his staff adheres to former CBS president Frank Stanton's rule that, "Everything must be what it purports to be."

Harkin Makes Last-Ditch Effort For Code On Infant Formula

By JANET STAIHAR Associated Press Writer WASHINGTON (AP) —

An Iowa congressman, saying he doesn't believe President Reagan wants babies to die, is making a last-ditch appeal to the White House to support an international code on the marketing of infant formula in developing nations.

Rep. Tom Harkin, a Democrat, was joined by other congressmen in denouncing the United States' vote against the code, which seeks to limit the sale and advertising of infant formulas in poorer nations.

The U.S. delegation to the World Health Assembly in Geneva, on instructions from the Reagan administration, voted Wednesday against the voluntary code. A final vote is expected Friday.

Advocates of the international code say the marketing of infant formula has caused a decline in breastfeeding, recognized by the medical authorities as the best nutrition for babies.

Most formulas must be mixed with water and many argue that the water supply in Third World areas is unsanitary, leading to diarrhea and other illnesses. They also contend that the high cost of the formulas in poorer nations encourage mothers to overdilute the formula or to dilute it with dirty water, thus causing higher infant mortality.

"I do not believe that President Reagan wants to see babies die," Harkin said at a news conference. "I believe if Reagan knew the facts he could instruct his delegates to vote for it."

He said Reagan had rejected a meeting with the congressmen before the vote. "I find it absolutely incredible that the president did not have 10 minutes of time to spare with us," Harkin said.

Rep. Ron Dellums, D-Calif., said he will reintroduce a bill that would regulate the sale, distribution and export of infant formula products to developing nations.

Rep. Frederick W. Richmond, D-N.Y., chairman of the House Agriculture subcommittee on nutrition, said he will conduct hearings in June to investigate infant formula sales techniques.

In response to a Reagan decision, two officials at the Agency for International Development announced their resignations before a Senate forum on infant formula.

Eugene Babb, AID's deputy assistant administrator for food and nutrition and Stephen Joseph, AID's chief health officer, said they notified the AID administrator by phone of their decision to resign.

Elliot Abrams, the State Department's assistant secretary for international organizations, testified at an House Appropriations hearing that it would be "hypocritical" to support the code since the United States has no intention of implementing its terms at home.

He said the decision on the code was "especially difficult here because of the absence of adequate evidence demonstrating that the practices at issue have an adverse impact on breastfeeding or infant health."

Atkins Said He Must Accept Challenge On Cutting Costs

FRANKFORT, Ky. (AP) — Declaring he does not want to start a fight with the legislature, Finance Secretary George Atkins adds that it must accept a challenge on reducing costs without taking it personally.

He was referring to his earlier remarks about the growing payroll of the Legislative Research Commission and House Speaker William Kenton's critical response Tuesday to those statements.

My comments were simply in the context that all of us who are funded with public monies have to evaluate how we can save," Atkins said Wednesday.

The number of LRC employees has grown from about 100 to 182 in the past four years, and Atkins had implied this was out of line at a time when the administration of Gov. John Y. Brown Jr. is cutting governmental expenditures.

Kenton, a Lexington Democrat who is LRC chairman, replied that the General Assembly would not be intimidated by Atkins' comments and would pay no heed to them.

Kenton attributed the LRC payroll increase to additional responsibilities of keeping watch on state spending.

"We in the executive branch also have constitutional responsibilities and we've cut spending 10 percent," Atkins said.

He said that the state auditor's office "in no way can meet their responsibilities with the current staff size" and cited the attorney general's office as another severely understaffed agency.

"There has never been any branch or constitutional office so adequately staffed that it could meet all its responsibilities," the finance secretary said. "Plus, I don't think the taxpayer can afford it."

Atkins said he does not think the legislature "as a whole" was offended by his comments about the LRC payroll.

"I've always tried to be honest with them, I've never stonewalled them," he said.

Atkins recalled that legislators came to his rescue in the 1978 session when then-Gov. Julian Carroll tried to strip most funding from Atkins' office when he was state auditor. The Brown administration has cut spending $125 million this fiscal year and plans to reduce it by $185 million next year in the General Fund.

Those economies can be ordered within the executive branch, but the legislative and judicial branches draw up their own budgets and need not adhere to what the governor seeks.

Synfuels Corp. Began Operation With Little Regard For The Law

By WILLIAM KRONHOLM Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — A House committee has concluded that the Synthetic Fuels Corp., created last year to help ease the nation's dependence on foreign oil, has begun operations with little regard for the law upon which it is based.

In a report being released today, the House Government Operations Committee said testimony by corporation officers "suggests a misguided belief on their part that their mission is so important that they can — at their discretion — dispense with compliance with the law." The report said the corporation attitude "indicates a disturbing lack of understanding of the corporation's role as a federal entity with corresponding responsibility to the public."

The committee recommends that the corporation's board of directors, now being appointed by President Reagan, review key decisions by their predecessors in the Carter administration and correct major defects.

Minority Republicans on the committee, in a dissenting statement, say the majority report "raises a number of significant issues and problems that warrant the attention of Congress."

But the Republicans said the report was based on only one congressional hearing plus a series of staff inquiries, and cannot be regarded as a thorough, unbiased and objective study.

"Generally, the report is highly adversarial in nature, unnecessarily painting a very bleak picture of the management of this important government undertaking," the Republican dissent says. "Greater study is a necessary prerequisite for such a severe position."

The Synthetic Fuels Corp. was created to help develop commercial plants to turn coal or oil shale into synthetic fuel. It was given an $18 billion appropriation, to be used for loans, loan guarantees and purchase agreements.

Official of the Synfuels Corp. were unavailable for comment Wednesday evening.

The committee report said the corporation got off on the wrong foot immediately by approving salaries for its officers far beyond anything paid other federal employees or envisioned by the Congress.

Former Board Chairman John Sawhill's salary was set at $175,000 a year, while Senior Vice President John McAtee Jr. was hired at $150,000 a year, with other senior officer salaries at similar levels.

LEGAL NOTICE

To the People of Kentucky
Honorable John Y. Brown, Jr., Governor
Honorable Robert O. Miller, County Judge/Executive and Members of the Calloway County Fiscal Court:

We have examined the Statement of Assets, Liabilities and Fund Balances Arising From Cash Transactions of Calloway County as of June 30, 1980, and the related Statement of Cash Receipts, Cash Disbursements and Changes in Fund Balances for the year then ended. Our examination was made in accordance with generally accepted auditing standards and accordingly included such tests of the accounting records and such other auditing procedures as we considered necessary in the circumstances. We also conducted tests of compliance with state and federal laws and regulations including federal revenue sharing requirements enumerated in the Audit Guide and Standards for Revenue Sharing and Antirecession Fiscal Assistance Fund Recipients issued by the Office of Revenue Sharing.

As recommended by the State Local Finance Officer, pursuant to KRS 68.210, the accompanying financial statements are prepared on a cash basis. Consequently, certain revenues and the related assets are recognized when received rather than when earned, and certain expenses are recognized when paid rather than when a liability is incurred. Accordingly, the accompanying financial statements are not intended to present financial position and results of operations in conformity with generally accepted accounting principles.

In our opinion, the accompanying financial statements present fairly the assets, liabilities and fund balances arising from the cash transactions of Calloway County at June 30, 1980, and its cash receipts and cash disbursements during the year then ended, in conformity with the accounting system described above, applied on a basis consistent with that of the preceding year.

The supplemental information presented in this report is not necessary for a fair presentation of the financial statements, but is presented as additional supplementary data. This information has been subjected to the tests and other auditing procedures applied in the examination of the financial statements mentioned above, and in our opinion, is fairly stated in all material respects in relation to the financial statements taken as a whole.

Recommendations and areas of noncompliance are as follows:

Our study of compliance disclosed no conditions which we consider matters of noncompliance.

Respectfully submitted,
James B. Graham
Auditor of Public Accounts

May Primary Election Candidates Set Final Hectic Campaign Pace

Candidates in the May 26 primary have been setting a hectic campaign pace during the final few days leading up to the Tuesday election.

Sixty-five candidates have entered the 18 races that will be listed on the ballot locally. Only two candidates — Charles Hale for Property Valuation Administrator and Tommy Walker for Coroner — are unopposed.

Squaring off in the battle for mayor of Murray are present Mayor Melvin B. Henley, vying for a second term, and former mayor Holmes Ellis. Ellis served as mayor for four terms from 1958 through 1973.

Calloway County judge-executive Robert O. Miller is opposed for re-election by George Weaks, who ran unsuccessfully for the office in 1977.

Four persons are vying for the sheriff's office. Councilman Bill Bailey, deputy sheriff David Balentine, Jerry Pendergrass, and former sheriff Maurice Wilson are in the race.

Circuit court clerk Ann Paschall Wilson is being opposed by James L. Johnson, former executive vice president of the Murray-Calloway County Chamber of Commerce, and sheriff Max Morris. Mrs. Wilson, who was formerly deputy clerk, was named clerk after the April death of clerk Frances Shea.

County clerk Marvin Harris is receiving opposition in his re-election bid from Billy Joe Kingins.

Two local attorneys are opposing Calloway County attorney Max Parker for that office. Steve Sanders and Mark Blankenship will face Parker in the Primary Election.

Incumbent Huel "Wimpy" Jones is facing opposition from Dan Bazzell in the race for jailer. Bazzell is presently a Calloway Fiscal Court magistrate.

In the race for Fifth District state representative, incumbent Freed Curd of Murray is being opposed by Harvey Ellis of Murray. The Fifth District covers Calloway County and a portion of Trigg County.

Three attorneys, two from Murray and one from Benton, are seeking the post of District Judge in the 42nd Judicial District, which includes Calloway and Marshall counties. Sid Easley, who now holds that post, decided not to seek re-election.

Assistant county attorney David Buckingham of Murray, city attorney J. William Phillips of Murray and Marshall County District Court trial commissioner Pal G. Howard of Benton have filed for the judicial position.

The district judge's race, unlike any of the other races, is non-partisan. Democrats, Republicans and Independents may select a candidate from the three who have filed. The top two candidates selected in May will then oppose each other in the November General Election.

The commonwealth's attorney post for the same judicial district is being sought by incumbent commonwealth's attorney Ron Christopher of Murray and former assistant commonwealth's attorney Michael D. Ward of Benton.

Nineteen persons are in the race for the 12 positions on the Murray City Council. Two of the 19 are Republicans.

Council incumbents who have filed in the Democratic primary are Loyd B. Arnold, Mac Fitts, William R. Furches, Ruby Hale, Howard Koenen, C. C. Lowry, J. Hardiman Nix and Steve Sammons.

Former councilmen in the race are Billy J. Balentine and John Ed Scott, who also served as mayor from 1974 to 1977.

Newcomers vying for the posts are Robert Downs,

Keith Hays, David Hill, Art Jewell, Ralph McCuiston, L. D. Miller and Gary Rowland.

Two Republicans, Jan Heller and Tommy Sanders, will face the 12 Democratic council primary winners on the November General Election ballot.

The four magisterial positions are being sought by 19 candidates. Six persons are running in District 1, four in District 2, three in District 3, and six in District 4.

Tommy Bogard, present District 1 magistrate, is being opposed for re-election by Willis Odell Colson, Clyde B. Hale, James R. Hornbuckle, Roger D. Hudson and L. W. "Dub" Lyons.

In District 2, incumbent Gil Hopson is opposed by Ralph Durwood Lovett, Woodrow Rickman and Louie B. Valentine.

Ralph Bogard and Paul W. Redden are facing incumbent Billy Erwin for magistrate of District 3.

The magisterial post of District 4, now represented by Bazzell, is being contested by Charles Coleman, T. L. Eckerdt, Jim D. Irby, Dan Miller, Jamie Potts and J. H. "Josh" Tabers Sr.

The 11 city precincts and corresponding polling places are: No. 1 — courthouse; No. 2 — city hall; No. 3 — Murray Middle School; No. 4 — Dwain Taylor Chevrolet; No. 5 — Murray State University fieldhouse; No. 6 — MSU Pogue Library; No. 7 — Robertson Elementary School; No. 8 — Murray Area Vocational School; No. 9 — Army Reserve Building (Center Drive behind Boston Tea Party); No. 10 — Navy Recruiting Office (Bel-Air Shopping Center); and No. 11 — House of Thousands (Fox Meadows Trailer Court).

Please Elect LOUIE B. VALENTINE MAGISTRATE- DISTRICT 2

I want to take this opportunity to thank everyone that has helped me during my campaign.

My reason for running for Magistrate is, that I feel that District 2 has not gotten its share of funds they deserve. They haven't had half the roads built, nor have they got half the hot mix on the gravel roads. Calloway County Road Department built 2 concrete bridges in District 2, when the other three districts have gotten two or three times that many.

I have been employed with the Calloway County Road Department for 7 years, have operated a road grader and other heavy equipment and have had 8 years experience in building and maintaining roads, having worked previously in Henry County, Tennessee for their road department.

I will be actively involved with programs that will be beneficial to everyone.

Working together, the people and I, can get our fair share of the tax dollars we deserve, or I will let the people know why.

Thank you.

★ SHERIFF ★

We the people of Calloway County will be going to the polls on May 26 to elect our next Sheriff. We feel that you should consider the importance of our Sheriff. He needs to be an experienced, qualified and fair person. We feel Maurice Wilson meets all the requirements and would be the best man for our next Sheriff.

Maurice was appointed Deputy Sheriff for 4 years and also, served as our Sheriff for 4 years in Calloway County. We believe Maurice treated everyone with fairness in the 8 years he was in the Sheriff's Department. Also, during this period there were no major crimes that went unsolved. During Clyde Steele's term as Sheriff, Maurice was the county's only full time Deputy.

He is a person that is broad minded and would try to understand and help with any problem you may have. He is dependable when it comes to needing him, regardless of how serious or minor your problem may be.

He seems to know how to take control of bad situations and yet avoid anyone getting hurt. He never asked for praise or publicity for his good deeds to the people of Calloway County.

Maurice is the type of person that can accept the responsibility of Sheriff and would give his full time to this job.

We are supporting Maurice because we believe he is the best qualified candidate for our next Sheriff. There is a big difference in being a leader and a follower. So please, join in our support and influence to elect Maurice Wilson as our next Sheriff of Calloway County.

Voters who reside within the Murray city limits are reminded that they vote for not only the mayor and city council but also for all county offices.

Prepared by the Murray-Calloway County League of Women Voters.

To The Voters of Calloway County

The Choice is Yours

I realize that Calloway Co. is a growing community and that all of you do not know me, nor have had the need to call me at the sheriff's office. I would like to meet you and talk personally with each resident of the county, but knowing this would be impossible I would like to take this opportunity to speak with you.

As you know I am one of many candidates asking for your vote and support. If you listen to all of us it will require a great deal of time. I believe, however, that you should as a concerned citizen of Calloway County take time to consider the qualifications of the candidates in the sheriff's race.

It is most important that you have the most qualified, the most experienced sheriff and one who would be the most productive in leading law enforcement forward in Calloway County for the next four years.

I believe you as taxpayers deserve a sheriff that will be working for and with you to make Calloway County a better place to live.

You may think your vote is not necessary or appreciated, but let me assure you that EACH VOTE is important and will be GREATLY APPRECIATED.

The Choice Is Yours Let Me Be Your Choice

I pledge to you my time and talent as I represent the 4th District and the people of Calloway County in the Fiscal Court.

To the people of the 4th District I would like to see every road in the district paved. However this is not possible at this time. I do not know how much money can be spent for paving. My promise to you is to grade and gravel the roads in the district. I also promise to represent each person in the district fair and honest without respect of person because each of you pay taxes and deserve a fair share of the money spent in the district. As your representative I have helped to bring the government back to the people.

By voting for the bill to give city and county governments two cents of all revenue collected from the gas tax, Murray and Calloway County received over $210,000 for the months of January, February, and March. This is more than twice the amount ever received from the state.

In the Cities Committee, I voted to give home rule back to the cities, which means giving more power to the local people and less to the state.

I co-sponsored the bill repealing the Model Procurement Code which relieved city and county governments and school systems of unnecessary red tape, saving thousands of dollars for clerical work.

In the Agriculture Committee and on the House Floor, I helped pass the bill limiting foreign ownership of land to ten acres. This again keeps our land with our local people.

I used my influence as a member of the House of Representatives to persuade the Department of Transportation to open Highway 641 several months earlier than previously planned.

I will oppose Multibank Holding Companies because the net result would be higher interest rates and loss of local control.

This community is vitally concerned with crime, juvenile delinquency and the general disregard exhibited toward the rights of respectable citizens and property owners.

The hue and cry of individual liberty is raised most loudly by those who are the least concerned with the rights of their neighbors.

The burden of responsibility for one's own actions cannot continue to be shrugged off onto parents, the school system, society and police.

The District Court is the first line of defense in this war on criminal behavior.

I believe that I have the experience and maturity to dedicate myself to this cause.

Voting Is A Privilege...

Naturalized citizens, as a rule, make better citizens than those of us born in this Country. It only lends credence to the belief, man never truly appreciates what he doesn't have to earn. Are you registered to vote? Do you know all the issues, and will you make an honest effort to get to the polls for this Election Day? If you but knew the truth about the majority of those behind the Iron Curtain . . . How much they would appreciate the opportunity to vote in a free Election . . . But Communism knows no majority rule. So . . . as the wise men have said for so many centuries, "You never realize the value of something until someone takes it from you." If you fail to vote enough times . . . Someone might show you how valuable it was . . . The hard way.

Voters Will Find Large Ballot

May 26 is Primary Election Day in Kentucky. The ballot will be large. Party candidates for the state legislature, for district court judges, circuit court clerks, commonwealth attorneys, for all county offices and for city mayors and council members will be nominated.

This is the year that begins implementation of changes provided for in one of the constitutional amendments which we passed in November 1979. All members of the legislature, both Senate and House, elected in November 1981 will have one year added to their term of office for this one time only.

Members elected to the House of Representatives will serve three-year terms and beginning in 1984, they will be elected in even-numbered years. The nineteen seats to be filled in the Senate this year will carry five-year terms. Beginning in 1986, senators too will be elected in even-numbered years.

This is also the year for re-districting, as mandated by the constitution, and based on population growth and population shifting, as reported by the Census Bureau. The re-districting could not be achieved by the April filing date. In order to re-district before the primary, it would be necessary for a special session of the legislature to be convened to move the primary election date to some later month, providing time for district boundaries to be re-drawn.

A change in the provision for registration of 18-year-olds may provide for them some increased interest in taking part in this year's election process.

Every public high school in the state is now required by law to have a designated person, appointed by the principal or assistant prinicipal, whose responsibility shall be to provide on-site voter registration for the student body. The above requirement was added to the election laws by the 1980 legislature.

Let your vote be counted on May 26 and help improve Kentucky's low voter turnout. Only 51.2 percent of those eligible in Kentucky voted in the 1980 Presidential Election.
