All of the above cases appearing before the September Grand Jury were rescheduled for March trials except the case of Gregory Bassett which was set for Nov. 30, 1982.

In a report to James M. Lassiter, Calloway County Circuit Judge, the 1982 Grand Jury made some of the following recommendations: the size of the county jail was inadequate to meet the needs of the prison population; the grand jury room was too small when the grand jury was in session; and an elevator in the Miller Courthouse Annex would greatly benefit elderly and disabled persons.

Renovated Wrather Museum to be dedicated Wednesday

Murray State University will officially become the historical hub of the area on Wednesday with the dedication of the restored and renovated Wrather West Kentucky Museum on the campus.

A 2 p.m. ceremony in the building that is itself a piece of history will come almost nine years after the effort was organized in late 1973 to convert the campus landmark into a museum to preserve and to exhibit the history of the area.

The $1.2 million project to restore and to renovate the oldest building on the campus was finally begun in the fall of 1979 and took about two years to complete.

To be followed by an open house, the dedication ceremony will be highlighted by a tribute by Dr. Harry M. Sparks, president emeritus, to the late M.O. Wrather, a close friend of Sparks and the executive vice president in whose honor the 58-year-old building is named.

Other speakers include Martha L. Guier, museum director, and Dr. Kenneth Harrell, dean of the College of Humanistic Studies and chairman of the steering committee for renovation.

Dr. Constantine W. Curris, university president, will preside during the dedication program and Dr. Ray Mofield, professor of journalism and radio-television, will give the invocation.

The afternoon program is the second half of a day devoted to the history of Murray State. Dr. C.S. Lowry, who taught 43 years at Murray State before his retirement in 1968, will deliver the fourth annual Founders' Day address at a 10:30 a.m. convocation in Lovett Auditorium.

Wrather Hall, originally known as the Normal School Building, was completed and occupied in 1924. Funding for construction was provided from $117,000 contributed by people in Calloway County in the successful effort to have Murray designated as the site for a new state normal school in West Kentucky.

Originally, the building housed classrooms, laboratories, academic and administrative offices, the post office, and the bookstore as well as other facilities. It continued to serve as the administration building until the fall of 1967 when the facility now known as Sparks Hall was completed and occupied.

In July of 1975, Wrather Hall was listed in the National Register of Historic Places by the U.S. Department of Interior.

Restoration and renovation work on Wrather Hall included a restructuring of the interior, a new roof, a sprinkler system, sanding and tuck-pointing, installation of a security system, a special heating and cooling system with humidity control, addition of a kitchen to service museum-related social functions and a workshop for repairing items.

Among the security measures are a closed-circuit camera system with a monitor in the main office, doors which are opened and closed electronically, and three vaults, once used to house records, which now will be used to protect historical material.

Stained-glass windows in the auditorium, often referred to as The Little Chapel, have been cleaned and resealed and broken pieces replaced.

Wrather, who was a member of the first graduating class in 1926, served the university in a wide variety of roles from 1938 until his death in 1970. Besides executive vice president, he was interim president on three occasions and for many years was director of public relations, secretary of the Alumni Association and secretary-treasurer of the Murray State University Foundation.

He was generally conceded to be the person who knew more alumni on a first-name basis than anyone else.

When the effort was begun on the museum project in 1973, Walter Apperson, publisher of the Murray Ledger & Times, and A.W. Simmons, then executive vice president of the Bank of Murray, were named co-chairmen of a Wrather Hall Museum Committee.

People from each of the eight counties in the Jackson Purchase were appointed to the committee and became involved in a fund-raising effort. As the proposal gained support in the area from many individuals and a number of organizations, Gov. Julian Carroll pledged state support in 1975.

Kentucky author Jesse Stuart, who has many close ties with the university, gave local fund-raising efforts a substantial boost. He autographed and permitted collector's copies of his book entitled "My World," which is dedicated to Murray State and the people of Murray, to be presented as gifts to charter patrons who donated $100 or more to the museum project.

Murray State, which opened its doors to 202 students on Sept. 24, 1923, held the first year of classes at old Murray High School before the Normal School Building became the center of campus activity the following year.

Dragging continues for boating victim

Dragging procedures for James Pyle, a 63-year-old Hopkinsville man believed to have drowned approximately 15 miles south of Kentucky Dam Friday night, will continue today, according to a spokeswoman for the Kentucky State Police, Mayfield.

Ruth Brame, 65, Hopkinsville, escaped serious injury when the boat in which she and Pyle were riding made a hard turn throwing both in the water. The boat was still going in circles when Kentucky Water Patrol authorities arrived at the scene.

Kentucky Water Patrol is in charge of the dragging operation and investigation into the incident.

Brame was pulled from the water by two nearby fishermen. She was taken to the Marshall County Hospital for observations.

According to a spokeswoman for the Marshall County Hospital, Brame is resting well in satisfactory condition this morning.

The incident occurred at 6:10 p.m.

Faculty regents, trustees in state release statement

(EDITOR'S NOTE — The following statement, developed as a result of several conferences and telephone calls, received approval from and was issued by Faculty Regents and Faculty Trustees of all universities in Kentucky. The text is to express concern that Gov. John Y. Brown's request that all Murray State University Regents resign might set a precedence to make boards quite political. The statement was submitted to the Murray Ledger & Times Friday afternoon by Steve Smith, Louisville, retired faculty trustee at the University of Louisville.)

Universities can best serve the needs of the citizens of Kentucky when they are removed from the state political arena. Research and teaching cannot most effectively be carried on under the tension of external politics. External political interference with the operation of universities in the long run is likely to be even more distributed than extended internal conflicts. One value of the boards of regents and trustees in Kentucky is to help remove the universities from state politics. The state law which provides for removal of regents and trustees only for good cause helps to insure the political independence of the boards.

The governor's call for the resignation of the regents at Murray, therefore, is a matter of concern to all faculty regents and trustees. The governor's actions might be used by future governors as a precedent for requesting the resignation of boards of regents and trustees of other Kentucky universities. In the future such requests might be made for political reasons — because a governor disagrees with the decisions of the board. The Boards of Regents and Trustees should never become the personal representatives of governors.

We therefore commend the decision of several regents at Murray not to resign from office and recommend that the independence of the boards of regents and trustees be ensured. We commend the governor for not requesting the resignation of the faculty regent and we request that governors not seek the resignation of regents or trustees unless legally adequate cause can be demonstrated.

We likewise call on our faculty colleagues to seek the resignations of faculty regents and trustees only for the most compelling reasons and only after a full and fair consideration of all relevant issues.

A look at the past

Faded manuscript recalls Murray Institute

By GREG TRAVIS
Staff Writer

The pages were yellowed, and the cover a little worn, but the small, faded handbook announcing the 1892-93 session of the Murray Institute was still quite intact. "Seven teachers from the best schools of the country" boasted the front of the volume. "Expenses exceedingly low," it continued.

As one turned the pages, it was obvious the writer took great pride in the production of the pamphlet. A quick glimpse of the material included, and its relevance to the students needs, were overwhelming.

The third page of the manuscript was impressive. There between a listing of the Board of Trustees and the school's calendar were six basic, yet brief, points entitled "Our Platform."

After reading the issues, a person could easily understand how a similar list might benefit many of today's students (and teachers alike) in their quest for education, and self-identification. For a closer examination — especially in today's world of constant turmoil and confusion — the list is reprinted in its entirety. (Perhaps the points should apply to more than just students and teachers).

(1) The great object of education is to develop the highest types of noble manhood and womanhood.

(2) Mental and physical training to the neglect of the moral nature is a curse rather than a blessing.

(3) Knowledge is not power unless the student is trained to use it in his relations with the practical affairs of life.

(4) Brute force is the lowest type of government. The best cultivates self-control and leads the individual to do right because his moral convictions will not suffer him to do otherwise.

(5) The ordinary course of study should be so modified as to be brought within the reach of all and adapted to the needs of daily life.

(6) "Wisdom is the principal thing," and the true teacher daily strives by precept and example to impress the teachings of Christian religion as a refining and inspiring influence.

As one continues to flip the pages, information about both the school, and the community, seemingly leaps from print to the reader's eyes.

"Murray is beautifully situated

MURRAY INSTITUTE — The Student Body of Murray Male and Female Institute around 1900 is shown below. This includes Miss Reubie Wear and Stanley Pullen, teachers. The school was located at Eighth and Main Streets and this building burned in 1904. It was replaced by another building which also burned. It was replaced by another building which is the east portion of the present Murray Middle School. Above is an original picture of the institute, owned by Pat Wear of Berea. These pictures were supplied to the Murray Ledger & Times by Auburn Wells.

near Clark's River," opened the second paragraph of the introduction. "Its population is 1,500 and its citizens are hospitable, intelligent, generous and earnestly in sympathy with the College," it continued.

"THERE ARE NO SALOONS HERE... There are three growing churches, holding regular services, with efficient pastors and interesting Sunday Schools," it plainly stated.

Descriptions of the faculty, the building, its rules, societies, degrees, and testimonials followed, as students were provided the necessary information for becoming a part of the Murray Institute.

The first schoolhouse (built on the present site of the Murray Middle School) was erected in 1871. The building was funded through the concerted efforts of several public-minded citizens of the time. As a result of their work, a stock company was organized, and some $17,500 raised for the erection and equipping of a "seat of learning."

The first group of citizens to serve as trustees for the institute were Capt. W.J. Stubblefield, a confederate army officer, and local attorney. Capt. Stubblefield

'It was said to have been the best school building in western Kentucky.'

Dr. Hugh McElrath

was the father of Nathan B. Stubblefield, the man many believe to be the actual discoverer of radio.

R.L. Ellison, county officer and local businessman, as well as R.C. Beckham, Thomas R. Jones and Squire William Holland served as trustees for the school. Also included in that first list of trustees were William Ryan and John Calvin McElrath.

Originally called the Murray Male and Female Institute, the school held its first session in a completed structure in Sept. 1872. The principal chose to oversee activities and enforce those items of the school's rules and platform was Prof. Henry Nold. He and three other teachers constituted the first faculty there.

"It was said to have been the best school building in western Kentucky," wrote Dr. Hugh McElrath in a history of the institute some years after its opening.

Four large, first-floor classrooms — along with two spacious classrooms and a large chapel on the second floor — made-up the building's interior. "Two large pot-bellied stoves in the chapel and one in each of the other rooms furnished ample heat," commented McElrath. "In the southwest upstairs classroom there was a stairway leading to the belfry," he added.

A gentleman by the name of Louis Peyton served as a faithful janitor for many years. Toting coal used for heat, splitting kindling, sweeping, caring for the oil lamps, going for water at a nearby well, and keeping the grounds were but a few of his many chores at the school. In addition to his work there, Peyton was sexton of the First Christian Church.

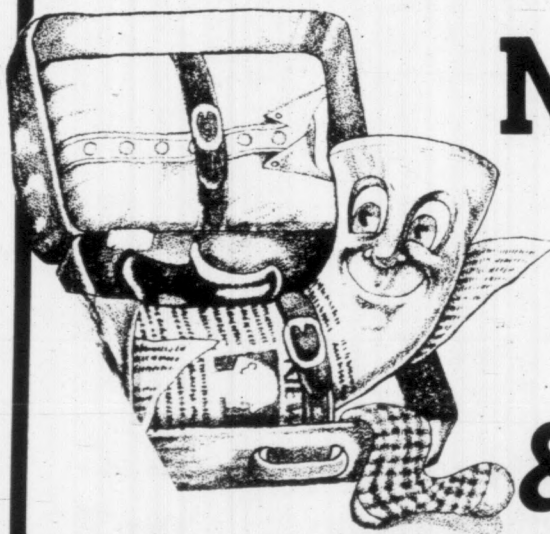

It was in the fall of 1904 that the Murray Institute burned. Although the building was gone (later replaced by a newer structure at the same location) the memories of happier days at the Murray Institution would live forever in the minds of students attending the facilities.

A second fire also destroyed the institute, causing classes to be held for some time in a factory near the railroad on the east side of town.

Indeed, the Murray Institute was a unique facility of education. The moral fibers presented there are entwined in the culture of Murray and Calloway County even today. The students were taught more than reading, writing and arithmetic. There they not only received and education for life, but about life as well.

Billington UK cheerleaders' co-captain

Julie Billington, 20, of Murray, is co-captain of the University of Kentucky 1982-83 Wildcat cheerleading squad.

The daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ted Billington, 2015 Gatesborough Circle, she is a junior majoring in marketing.

This will be her second year as a Wildcat cheerleader, but cheering is not new to her. The Kappa Kappa Gamma sorority member has cheered seven previous years. She also spent summers working as an instructor for camps sponsored by the Universal Cheerleaders Association.

This summer she also traveled to Japan escorting the UK basketball squad with fellow female cheerleaders from last year's squad.

"Our goals this year include relating more with the crowd and working closer with the UK band," the co-captain said. "This is a great school to be a cheerleader because of the warmth and friendliness of the people."

UK's 1982-83 squad will make its first appearance today as the Wildcat football team will face Oklahoma in Commonwealth Stadium.

CHEERS FOR WILDCATS — Julie Billington, 20, co-captain of the 1982-83 University of Kentucky Wildcat cheerleading squad and a junior marketing major from Murray, practices with her partner Jimmy Mortimer, 22, a senior industrial administration major from Glasgow, for UK's opening home football game today against Oklahoma.

Work for peace in Middle East begins

Now the hard work begins. Israel's expulsion of the Palestine Liberation Organization from Lebanon and the dispersal of the guerrillas around the Arab world creates new possibilities for a broader approach to peace in the Middle East. While the immediate objective is the restoration of Lebanon's sovereignty, the overriding question is whether Israel and the United States will seize the improved opportunity for a solution to the Palestinian problem.

Both the Reagan administration and the Begin government have begun what they describe as new plans for Palestinian autonomy. Secretary of State Shultz indicates Washington wants to enlarge the Camp David process to include new initiatives, while Prime Minister Begin insists upon adhering strictly to the Camp David formula. There thus remains the danger of continuing deadlock over the way to achieve some form of home rule for the Palestinians on the West Bank and Gaza Strip and, ultimately, a homeland for Palestinian refugees.

Thanks to the admirable peacemaking role of Philip Habib and Washington's efforts to restrain Israel during the siege of west Beirut, the United States enjoys a larger presence in the region and retains its position of honest broker with most Arab moderates. If there's any prospect of moving Begin toward genuine compromise over the occupied lands and checking his territorial ambitions, Washington must induce those Arab nations — particularly Saudi Arabia and Jordan — to take part in a new peace process that would also bring in Palestinian representatives.

The opportunity now at hand manifestly requires more than negotiations by the United States, Egypt and Israel. If the moment is not to be lost, those moderate Arabs must at least overcome their refusal to accept Israel. That concession might take the form of renewing the overture a year ago by Saudi Arabia's Prince Fahd — now King Fahd — which was quickly dropped when it was undermined by the radical Arabs and the PLO. With the PLO's threat less visible, will the new King Fahd summon the courage and foresight to try again? Will Jordan's King Hussein, whose decision will be pivotal, now agree to join the peace process?

Encouraged and supported by Washington, their declared readiness to make peace with Israel, who security would thereby be assured, would president Begin with a different calculus at home, one that might compel him either to bend on the autonomy issue or face political defeat. For it's clear that despite the high domestic popularity he gained from the action in Lebanon and the dispersal of the PLO, an important debate awaits Israel. There, the growing peace movement and political moderates in all parties reflect the depth of the national yearning for an end to the occupation of the West Bank.

That emerging debate will very likely present the Reagan administration with additional, possibly decisive, leverage. It must be careful, however, that in putting pressure on Begin it does not move to coercively as to reawaken security fears which would alienate Israeli moderates. Since there are, in any event, no swift single-stroke solutions, Begin's government may not be the final determinant of Israel's course over the coming years. And since U.S.-Israeli relations will depend increasingly on cooperation over the Palestinian issue, the tedious, complex diplomatic efforts that lie ahead require that both be reliable partners.

Given the widening tensions in that part of the world and the growing threats to the Persian Gulf, which endanger not only Arab monarchies but Israel's security as well, the spur to success should be the realization on all sides of the ominous consequences of failure.

McLain Family brings Bluegrass to the world

by Larry McGehee

Whoever moaned that families don't seem to do things together anymore never met the McLain Family of Kentucky.

It would have been hard to miss meeting them. In the last two years they have driven 125,000 miles in their van, and have flown at least that many more miles. Part of each year they spend setting toes to tapping and hands to clapping in and around Berea, Kentucky, and the rest of the year they are on the road, taking Bluegrass and mountain music to the world.

They appear regularly on television and radio, have released ten record albums, have performed with a number of symphony orchestras (performing a "Bluegrass Concerto" written especially for them by Phillip Rhodes), have toured the world several times as ambassadors for the State Department, and have strummed and sung their way into the hearts of hundreds of thousands of fans.

On April 26, the McLain Family Band performed at Carnegie Hall. Next month they played at the World's Fair, and stopped in Oak Ridge for another concert on their drive home. With frequent dates in between, they return to the World's Fair Sept. 16 through 18. On Aug. 13, 15, they hosted their annual festival (their fifth) at their 73-acre farm, Big Hill, on US 421 southeast of Berea. In their spare time, they compose, rehearse, make individual appearances, teach — and spread their gospel of family love to a world of people hungry for the sound of harmony.

The group really is a family. The performers include father Raymond K., son Raymond W., son Michael, daughter Nancy Ann, daughter Ruth, and Ruth's husband, Michael Ripiel. Raymond K.'s sister, Rosemary, down in Jackson, Miss., comes in frequently to join in the fun, and composes often for the group. Raymond K. and Rosemary's mother, Beatrice (Bicky), spends as much time with the band as she does in her home in Tuscaloosa, Ala., where she continues her lifelong collecting of international folk music. Betty McLain coordinates appearances and keeps homefires burning. Alice and her husband, Al White, leave Albuquerque, N.M., frequently to re-join the group. Another generation of McLains is practicing in the wings already.

Missing from the group, although certainly there in the enthusiastic sound and humble manner of the family, is grandfather Raymond F. McLain, Bicky's husband and Raymond K.'s father. One of the most beloved of American educators, Raymond F. McLain served as president of Eureka College (President Reagan's alma mater), of Transylvania College, and of American University in Cairo, and then as academic vice president at The University of Alabama. A musician himself, he often played with the family group and, in his retirement, attended many of their performances. When the family sang at his funeral in 1981, one could feel the envy of angels.

Hearing and watching the McLain Family Band is a description-defying experience. From the moment they strike their first chords, the listener feels they have struck chords in the soul, and that the entire family has opened up to adopt the audience as new kinfolks in an intimate and loving family.

Not all their music is old Bluegrass. Some is authentic, some is their own modification of older works, and some is new. Just as their family circle remains unbroken across five generations, so their music is an unbroken chain that links past, present, and future naturally and smoothly. People used to study Appalachian and Bluegrass music in order to "preserve" it, not realizing that music has to be played and added to if true preservation is to occur. One gets from the McLain Family Band a sense that folk music is still a live and lively art, still linked to live and lively families and fertile soil, and not just an historical curiosity somewhere in a museum.

Raymond K. McLain describes the sensations and meaning of his family's work pretty well. He says, "Bluegrass music first and last is fun...the sincerity of the Anglo-Saxon ballad, the sociability of the singing game and the square dance, the hoopla of the minstrel show, the loneliness of the cowboy life, the sass of ragtime, the fervor of the camp meeting, and the pathos of the blues."

All this, and more. "Bluegrass music embraces all these components with the warmth of a family reunion...The popularity of bluegrass betrays the yearning of the public for simpler times."

To find out when the McLain Family Band will be passing you way — and into your life — contact them for a schedule at CPO 1322, Berea, Ky. 40404, or call 606-986-8111.

Protests change

To The Editor,
This is a letter of protest in regard to changing the issuance of the local TV Guide from Friday to Saturday. I live in Panorama Shores and work all week in town. What about all the people who live out of town and do not get into town on the weekend. Normally, those people, including myself, pick up a paper on Friday in order to receive the TV Guide. This Monday morning I came into town hoping to find a Saturday newspaper, but to no avail.

I feel the Murray Ledger and Times is insensitive to the people who live out of town regarding this issue.

Sincerely,
Penny Hormann

Editor's response

The T.V. guide was changed for reasons of make-up and printing requirements. We have copies of all editions at the Ledger and Times office and you may obtain a copy of any issue of the paper on any day. Thanks for letting us know that our Saturday paper was a "sell out" in the community. We know this and are glad to have the best circulation ever on Saturday and all other days.

You would have to purchase three T.V. Guides to get the information we provide in the T.V. Section of the paper. This would be cost of $78.00 yearly (50¢ per copy), while a subscription would cost you $24.50 in Calloway County. We are not insensitive but providing the best source of listings possible and including this with no additional costs as part of the newspaper.

If you are a subscriber the Saturday edition, including the T.V. section will be in your mail box on Monday morning.

The listings will run through the next Sunday so you miss nothing.

Dear Abby

Marriage Teaches Wife That Love Can't Be Learned

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: We just celebrated our 10th wedding anniversary, and I'm terribly depressed. I was 20 and "J." was 33 when he swept me off my feet. He proposed on our third date with a 5-carat diamond ring in his pocket. I was stunned, and asked for a week to think it over. I knew I didn't love him and told my mother so. She said I would learn to love him. She was wrong.

J. was (and still is) crazy about me. I have a beautiful home and more clothes, furs and jewelry than I can wear. J. is a very homely man. He's short (I never wear heels), overweight, bald and wears very thick glasses. (Contacts don't work for him.) He is kind, considerate and faithful, and he tells me he loves me every day. He owns a business that paid him a $175,000 salary last year, and he's generous beyond belief. He's been wonderful to my family, too.

I admire J., respect him and appreciate him. But I don't love him. Sometimes I dream of leaving him, but I could never do it. We have two beautiful children I could never give up. Besides, it would be unfair of me to take them from their father.

I feel terribly guilty — as though I'm playing a part. I want to see a psychiatrist, but J. would ask me what was troubling me and I could never tell him. Please help me. DEPRESSED

DEAR DEPRESSED: See a psychiatrist. Tell J. you have some thoughts and feelings you need to sort out. (It's true.) Life is a series of trade-offs. If you've made a deal you can't live with, you will have to come to terms with yourself. With competent professional help, your chances for making a decision you can live with are infinitely better. Good luck.

DEAR ABBY: For the past year or so, my husband of 30-some years (we're both in our 50s) has been smitten by a 19-year-old waitress at a local diner. (He drops in to see her every day.)

When I voiced my objections to these daily flirtations, he assured me it was just an innocent father-daughter relationship. (She calls him "Dad.")

He asked me to go with him when he gave her a little birthday gift. In gratitude, she laid a lip lock on him that would put Dolly and Burt to shame. If my father and I ever exchanged a kiss like that, we'd have been arrested for incest.

Why did my husband take me along to watch? What should I do? CANT' COMPETE — WON'T CONCEDE

DEAR CANT': He took you along to watch because he was probably proud that a 19-year-old girl would have any interest in him. What should you do? Tell him honestly that (a) he's making a fool of himself, (b) hurting you, and you feel threatened and humiliated, and (c) he's much too young to be entering his second childhood.

DEAR ABBY: I don't know who wrote this, but it could offer a chuckle to some of your readers. S.R. IN BEL AIR

DEAR S.R.: You could be right; it's worth a run:

HOW TO TELL WHEN YOU'RE OVER THE HILL. Everything hurts, and what doesn't hurt doesn't work.

You need your glasses to find your glasses. Your back goes out more than you do. Your little black book contains only names that end in "M.D."

You have too much room in the house and not enough in your medicine cabinet. Your children begin to look middle-aged. The policemen look too young to be policemen. The little gray-haired woman you help across the street is your wife.

You can't take yes for an answer.

What you don't know can hurt you. For Abby's booklet, "What Teen-Agers Ought to Know," send $2 and a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope to Teen Booklet, P.O. Box 38923, Hollywood, Calif. 90038.

Shoe Shack moves to Central Center

Although The Shoe Shack has a new look, the philosophy behind the business remains the same — to offer a good selection of better quality shoes at the best prices anywhere.

"We're all certainly excited about our new location," commented Emmy Edwards, owner of the attractive ladies store, now in the Central Shopping Center.

With an increase of nearly 75 percent more floorspace, the beautifully decorated shop offers a wider variety of shoes, purses and accessories for the customers' preference, Edwards added.

"Throughout the course of this move, we have been able to reflect back over the past four years at our modest beginning and realize how a small, locally-owned business can grow along with a community," she recalled. "We've just had great support from the community," she said.

Frank and Emmy Edwards employ five people at their business — Tammie Parker Hoover, Linda Parker, Starr Jones, Jennie Smith and Kim Oakley.

The store also offers many name brand items including Candies, Duck Shoes and Boots by Sporto, Soft Spots (as advertised in Woman's Day), Cover Girl and Easy Street.

In addition to these and many other name brands, The Shoe Shack also carries luggage by Tano.

New hours for The Shoe Shack will be Monday-Saturday, 9:30 a.m.-9 p.m. and Sundays 1-5 p.m.

According to Edwards, the store is also capable of special ordering certain shoes.

Other services include the acceptance of MasterCard, Visa and layaways.

Carburetor trouble leads Kansas residents to Murray Honda shop

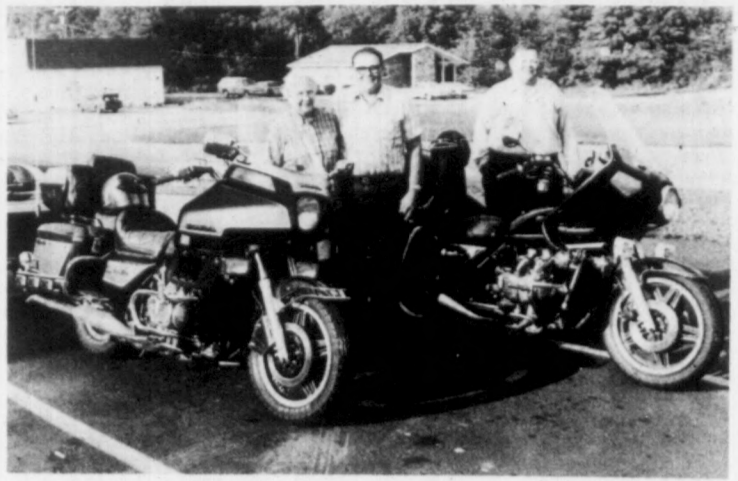

Robert Overby can give testimony that a little carburetor trouble can do wonders for your business. It gave him three customers for life.

A few years back, Wichita, Kan., residents Gary Anderson and Ruth and Dallas Day were on a motorcycle trip when Dallas' Honda developed carburetor trouble. After checking with Honda dealers in Paris, Tenn., and Mayfield, both recommended Overby Honda of Murray.

The trip to Murray proved to be more satisfying than the trio expected. It was a busy day at the Murray Honda shop so Robert Overby loaned Dallas a similar model bike so the three could ride through Land Between The Lakes while the bike was serviced. It wasn't until after midnight when Dallas' bike was fixed so Robert and his wife Reda asked the Kansas natives to stay the night and that's when a close friendship and working relationship started.

"They (the other Honda dealers) sent us to Robert and now he's our Honda dealer," Anderson said. Dallas purchased the first 1982 Honda received by Overby Honda — a Honda Gold Wing. Anderson has agreed to buy the first 1983 model.

The Kansas threesome plans two long trips and travels approximately 15,000-20,000 miles a year on their bikes. "We route all our trips through Murray. The dealer's nicer and so are the people," Anderson said.

Dallas agreed. "We could never find a better Honda dealer than Robert. He loaned us a bike and even took us into his home." Their bikes are equipped with a special sound system that, when plugged in, will play the radio or CB radio into the rider's helmet. Overby Honda is one of four major Honda outlets in the country to feature such an item. The Overbys also equipped their bikes with an outlet for plug-in electric suits, to be worn in colder weather.

A NEW SET OF KEYS — Sammy Bradshaw delivers the keys to a new, American-made Renault Alliance automobile to Mrs. Doug Sharp, Murray. The Sharps are the first family to take delivery of the new car with quality and affordability. The Alliance is designed in Europe, but built in the United States. Check one out today at Cains AMC-Jeep-Renault, Inc., U.S. 641 North, or by telephoning 502-753-6448.

TABLETOP DISPLAY — On Friday, June 10, in Sally Crass' class at Murray High, a contest for tabletop display was judged on creativity with the use of a theme. It was sponsored by The Showcase of Murray. Winners were Denise Eversmeyer (top right), first place; Jennifer Grogan (bottom right), second place; and Kiki Karvounis (top left), third place. Winning entries will be on display at The Showcase. The judges were (bottom right, from left) Don Kremp, sales representative for Noritake Co., Inc.; Dr. Alice Koenecke and Dr. Mary Conover, professors of home economics at Murray State University; and Bobbie Smith, assistant manager of The Showcase. The prizes were awarded to the girls that day, after votes by the judges and student body. All prizes consisted of Noritake tableware. A popularity award was given to Diane Ridley. FAWKES SEIZED

Guy Fawkes was seized in 1605 in an attempt to blow up the British House of Parliament on opening day and kill King James I. The "Gunpowder Plot" involved a number of Roman Catholics who were protesting the king's repressive measures against their faith. Fawkes was found in the cellar with 36 barrels of gunpowder which he planned to touch off. The plot is commemorated annually in Britain with bonfires and fireworks on Guy Fawkes Day.

The Duck Call

By Charlie McKenney

If you have not sent in your duck survey card from the early duck season do it today. You should mail it back even if you didn't harvest any ducks.

The response that the department receives might determine if we continue to have this early season.

I wrote in this column about three weeks ago that West Kentucky goose hunters could expect a shorter season this year and for several seasons to come. Well, I was only about half right. Those hunters in far West Kentucky are getting a shorter season, but for those of us who hunt the lakes the opening date will be Nov. 12.

The state has been divided into two zones, the boundary between the two zones begins at Fulton, Ky. This line runs up along the Purchase Parkway to I-24, it then follows the interstate North to U.S. 641, where it travels to U.S. 60. From U.S. the line extends to U.S. 41 and from U.S. 41 the line continues all the way to the Kentucky-Indiana borders.

Duck season opens Dec. 2 and continues through Jan. 20, 1983. There are a couple of dates for local sportsman to remember. One of course is the date for this year's Ducks Unlimited Banquet. It is Nov. 13 and tickets are on sale now. You can purchase them from most of the local D. U. Members.

The other important date to remember is Sept. 25. On this date Ducks Unlimited presents the first annual Waterfowl Day. It will be held at West Ky. Wildlife Mgt. Area. There are going to be so many interesting things happening that everyone should find something of interest.

There will be Retriever demonstrations, a trap shoot from a duck blind, a new D. U. film "Greenwing" will be shown, and most important the state Duck and Goose Calling Championships will be held that day.

There will be many displays, prizes will be given away and also a drawing for a D. U. greenwing shotgun.

Don't forget the local chapters D. U. meeting Tuesday night Sept. 21. It will be held at the Sirloin Stockade and starts at 7:00 p.m., visitors are always welcome.

Oh, yes, we have another Ducks Unlimited sponsor; Hugh Massey has joined the elite group that make up the D. U. sponsor program.

If you haven't bought a duck stamp yet, don't forget that they expire June 30, of each year, so you will need a new one before Nov. 30.

west kentucky outdoors

by wade bourne

It's opening day. Doves have been swarming the silage field for the past week, despite the heavy rains. Some 30 hunters are now parked on the lane, watching their watches for the countdown to noon — the hour when the season starts.

I've been here so many times, maybe not in this exact spot, but in other dove fields and years with many of the same people and expectations. A little fear gnaws in my stomach. What if I've lost the touch? My old Browning has been in the closet since last year. I've got two boxes of shells in my shell belt. Will I need more?

Ten minutes to go, and hunters are starting to leave the cars and slog through the mud into the field. Usually doves wouldn't feed until later, but today it's threatening rain. Everything is covered by the shadow of a big cloud back in the west, and waves of birds are flying in on a brisk wind.

Lane Lyle and I start along the north fencerow. Five minutes to go. I've had my eye on a knoll the doves seem to favor.

Boom, boom! Pop, pop, pop! Either my watch is wrong, or somebody's gained a couple of minutes on the season. But now everybody's deployed around the field, and several birds are stirring in a typical opening day confusion. It won't take them long to learn what's happening and pick up some speed. Three shells slide into the Browning. I like the sound when I jack the second shell up into the chamber. Lane also loads up by breaking down his old double and poking two shells into the barrels.

Now the shooting has picked up, and nothing much has changed. Some hunter runs through three quick shots down in the corner. His buddy shoots twice and the next hunter twice more. A thoroughly frightened dove darts for the woods.

Somebody back up the hill yells, and another volley erupts. This time the bird is caught full square, and it falls to the ground at a hard angle. A big Chesapeake retriever bounds out to fetch it to its master, who may or may not have been the successful shooter. But who's going to argue with 100 pounds of determined canine?

I look back over the pasture across the fencerow, and I see four doves swinging right for the spot where Lane and I are hidden. "Take 'em if they come on your side," I say, and we're both ready. They cut back past me, and I lead the second bird. Get ahead of him! Boom, boom. The dove puffs and falls, and I have 11 more to go. Maybe the touch is still there.

Next it's Lane's turn, and it also takes him two shots to down a bird flying parallel to the fence out over the pasture. I get a line on the dove's fall while Lane goes through the fence. Thunder starts rumbling from the big cloud, mixing with the staccato noises of the shotguns. The breeze picks up, and it's cool. We seem headed for a drizzling or for a dash back to the car to avoid lightning. We can see bolts zigzagging to the ground several fields over, and if they get closer, I'm heading in.

But the doves don't seem to mind. The shooting is very regular now, and I have birds two, three, four and five. I've made a couple of good shots and missed some gimme's. It usually takes opening day just to get the eye back.

The hunter up past Lane suddenly stands up and waves his arms. "Don't shoot those low birds!" he yells. Somebody across the field has peppered him, and he's not overjoyed by the feeling of spent shot against his cheek.

The storm looks like it'll just miss us. Now the doves are coming in flights of four to twenty. When they get close to the fencerow, we stand up, and they scatter and go crazy. It's hard to pick one bird and stay on it, but that's what's needed for any consistency. We know that, but it's still difficult. Now I've got nine, but I've shot nearly a box of shells.

Lane complains about the doves' speed and flying acrobatics. "They're acting like they've been shot at for two weeks," he bemoans. "I think shooting over the years has caused them to be selectively bred, taking away the slow flyers and leaving only the ones that fly fast and turn sharp."

Who am I to argue? The storm slides by, and suddenly the sun pops out. So does the perspiration! The field feels like a steam bath, and I don't have any water. The big Chesapeake is now laying by its master and panting.

Dove number ten wings down the fencerow, and I get it on the third shot. Number eleven is easy, but twelve seems like it'll never come. I take some long shots, trying to finish out, but they're all fruitless.

Finally, though, I connect on the dove which makes a dozen. It's taken an hour and a half and 34 shots, not real good in the shooting department, but I'll take it. Lane needs three more birds, and I stay and take pictures while he finishes.

Hopefully these same sequences will be repeated several more times during September. Dove shoots are a big part of this area's hunting tradition, and if there's one thing I like to do, it's hold tradition up!

fishing line

Carlos Black really had a good day Saturday. He was fishing a club tournament (Murray Bass) and took a limit of bass that won him the first place trophy!

Several other fishermen have been catching some mighty good bass also.

The water has cooled a few degrees causing the fish to turn on and really get right!

However, it can change overnight with a cold front or high pressure system moving into the area like it did Thursday.

I have been doing well, on both the white stripes and the black bass early in the mornings and again in the late evenings, since the first of August.

But, whenever we have a strong front, nearly everything shuts down or develops a common disease I call "lockjaw."

You can catch small fish and occasionally a big one will strike, but the majority will not.

There are several different ways to look at this and with some people I'm sure it is very frustrating because they don't get to fish very often. You just have to chalk it up as a day to enjoy being outdoors or being with a friend.

Getting back to bass, we have been taking them on a variety of crankbats, buzzbaits and jigs.

Whenever you fish all day, you will encounter slack times and this is when the lure changing starts.

A person can always hope that such and such lure will be the magical one and it just might!

With the water elevation near 356 and falling slowly, a person can find a million good looking places to fish, but keep in mind where the bait fish are going to be and work those areas hard.

The crappie are still moving onto the dropoffs along creek channels or cuts next to deep water. They can be found between 10-18 feet with some of the smaller ones coming up to 5-6 feet depths close to brush piles.

Minnows and white jigs both can be effective so hang in there.

The white stripes are still hungry and on the prowl so be alert around the bars and islands.

They should work the surface all fall or depending on the minnow supply until cool weather forces them down.

Many areas "hold" stripes during the non-feeding periods watch your locators for large concentrations of fish around 10-15 feet.

Should you find a school, drop a lure straight down into them and I believe this will provoke or trigger a strike.

The sauger are beginning to move again so be careful, the water is low and the stumps are tall!

Baker FG caps Calloway's comeback victory, 22-21

By JIM RECTOR
Sports Editor

A 42-yard field goal by sophomore Greg Baker capped a Laker comeback resulting in a breath-robbing, 22-21, road victory over district opponent Lone Oak, Friday.

Baker said he wasn't sure what would happen when coach Sam Harp gave him the go-ahead to boot the ball with 35 seconds to go and Calloway County behind, 21-19.

"I just told them to lay it down and let go. I didn't know where it was going," Baker admitted amid jubilant fans and players on the field.

Although the second-year player hadn't been very consistent from beyond the 35-yard line in practice, Harp said he had confidence in Baker's leg. "I knew his leg was strong enough," Harp said, "and with the extra adrenalin flowing he kicked a beauty."

Baker's kick ended the scoring and Laker defensive back Jeff Butterworth intercepted a Tony Cipolla pass only seconds later to insure the Lakers' third victory in five games.

The game promised to be a barnburner from the beginning as Lone Oak marched 72 yards with their opening drive and Cipolla hit Jeff Conkright with a 10-yard pass for a 7-0 lead.

Calloway retaliated immediately, capitalizing on a flea-flicker, pass-pitch from quarterback Tim Brown to receiver Craig Darnell, who flipped the pigskin to tailback Jeff Garrison on a 34-yard play.

A play later Brown again found Darnell with a scoring strike, this time the senior end was all alone on a post pattern and scored from 33 yards out with 4:02 left in the first period. Baker's extra-point kick tied the game at 7-all.

Then the momentum switched to the host Purple Flash and for the next quarter the Lakers struggled to stay in the game.

Kevin Hinkle scored on a one-yard plunge to start the second period and 1:05 later the Flash scored again when the Lakers' Mike Pratt coughed up the kickoff and the hosts carried the ball to the Calloway six yard line. From there Scott Elkins carried twice, the second time he crossed the goal from one yard out.

Facing a 21-7 deficit, the Lakers were deeply in trouble in a "do or die situation," said Harp. "We knew we had to open it (offense) up against Lone Oak. We knew we had to do something in the air because their defense is so tough."

Depending on Brown's arm and the Lakers' slew of glue-fingered receivers, Calloway started at its own 41 and inched towards the Flash end zone.

A 12-yard pass to Darnell, a 14-yarder to Mark Duncan, and finally a 10-yard scoring toss to Darnell cut the Lone Oak lead to 21-13 with :57 left in the half. Cipolla slipped through and blocked Baker's place kick and the half ended with the hosts ahead by eight.

The second half almost became a replica of the first as the Flash blocked a Laker punt and recovered on the Calloway 32. Feeding the ball to Hinkle time and again, Lone Oak converted twice on fourth down situations and were knocking on the Laker door.

With 5:30 remaining in the third frame, Harp said his defense "finally got some pride" and stopped the Lone Oak penetration on Calloway's 10 yard line. "They (Laker defenders)

SWEET SUCCESS — Calloway County's Sam Harp can hardly contain himself after his Lakers rallied to beat Lone Oak, 22-21, on a 42-yard field goal with 35 seconds left. The victory kept Calloway's hopes alive in both the district and conference races. Staff photo by Jim Rector found that extra something, that adrenalin or whatever you want to call it, and then we went to war," Harp said.

The Lakers began gambling with passes to Jeff Garrison and runs of 13, 15 and 12 yards by sophomore Tod Contri.

With help from a face-mask penalty on Lone Oak, the Lakers marched to the hosts' one-yard line where Brown flipped an option pitch to Contri who crashed in on the left side.

Brown's conversion pass was intercepted by Hinkle and the partisan crowd was anticipating a two-point victory by the Oakers.

However, Tim Pittman recovered a Lone Oak fumble on the Flash 33 and the Lakers drove to the one-foot line before Garrison fumbled on a controversial play at the goal line.

Lone Oak recovered, but in the remaining 5:35 the Lakers were aided by four Lone Oak penalties — two for not having mouthpieces in — and with a fourth-and-six situation on the Lone Oak 25 yard line, Harp gambled and Baker's kick did the rest of the talking.

For the night Brown unofficially connected on 13 of 17 passes for 160 yards, three touchdowns and one interception. The Lakers rushed for 117 yards, 68 in the second half while the Flash rolled up 163 yards on the ground, but only 25 came in the second half.

Cipolla threw 16 times for 13 completions, 53 yards and one touchdown and one interception. He also lost 16 yards on two sacks.

Racers back in saddle tonight against Mules

By JIM RECTOR
Sports Editor

In a race between a thoroughbred and a mule, one would naturally be inclined to put money on the shorter-eared animal.

However, a reminder of the tortoise and the hare fable should make even the most avid better cautious, especially when the thoroughbred is the Murray State Racers and Central Missouri sports the Mules.

Both animals in this case are high-strung collegiate football teams with a 7:30 p.m. gate time tonight at Roy Stewart Stadium.

The contest will be the first meeting ever between the two schools, both having won their season opener this year.

Al Molde directs the Mules in this his third season at CMSU and 12th overall as a head coach. In his previous two years as the Mule team driver, Molde displays 11-6-4 success.

Frank Beamer will be at the Racers' hitching post, aiming to notch another win despite being idle last weekend. Hampered by injuries to starting linebacker Vince Tucker and defensive tackle Calvin Thompson, both questionable for tonight's game, Beamer will be calling on two sophomores Alfonso Mather and Danny Coleman to pick up the slack.

Winston Ford should return to the Racers starting quarterback slot after sitting out the second half of Murray State's 16-6 victory over Southeast Missouri with a shoulder injury.

The Mules will be slowed somewhat by an injury to offensive tackle Tom Herold who was sidelined with a knee injury suffered in last week's Central win over Missouri Southern, 20-17.

Central sports an outstanding offensive weapon in place kicker Barry Doty, who kicked a 32-yard field goal to beat Missouri Southern. Also, Jeff Horned anchors a solid Mule specialty team, having returned three punts for 102 yards, including a 51-yard touchdown last week.

Besides playing Murray State for the first time, the Mules will experience another rarity in tonight's matchup. Central has played on artificial turf only four times prior to tonight's contest on the newly re-turfed Roy Stewart Stadium.

The last time the Mules hoofed it on anything other than natural grass was in 1981 when they played at Missouri Southern.

Braves' Torre turns attention to dormant Atlanta batting CINCINNATI (AP) — Atlanta Manager Joe Torre is looking for the Braves' bats to come alive again after a fourth straight loss — this time to the Cincinnati Reds.

"This team has proven it has the capability to win five to seven in a row," Torre said after the Reds' 5-2 victory Friday.

"Our problem is a lack of offense. We need a stretch like the 30 runs we scored in three days against Los Angeles," he said of the team that leads the Braves in the National League West pennant race.

Although the Reds are mired in the basement in the National League, winning pitcher Mario Soto still has at least one milestone on his mind.

"Right now, I at least want to get 266" strikeouts for the all-time

Reds record, Soto said.

Soto, 33-11, fanned nine Braves and gave up five hits to win the game. Going into the game, he led Philadelphia's Steve Carlton by five strikeouts to pace National League pitchers.

"I know this strikeout thing is on his mind," said Reds Manager Russ Nixon. "And I'll go the extra mile with him. But I think he's also starting to realize his potential as a pitcher."

"Maybe everybody got so keyed up for the two games with LA last week that we still haven't recovered," lamented Rick Camp, 11-9, the losing pitcher.

Dan Driessen hit his 15th home run in the first inning after the Reds had managed a 1-0 lead.

The Braves scored one in the second, but the Reds answered with two more in the bottom of the inning.

"Soto is tough. You hope to get on the board first, but he got on top by three and it makes the job tough," said Torre of the Reds' early 4-1 lead.

"Soto is the best righthander in the game," said Chris Chambliss, who had one run batted in for the Braves. "When he is on — and he was tonight — he's tough. He can't be overpowered."

Johnny Bench slammed his 13th home run in the eighth inning, giving him 377 for his career.

McCuiston ravages 'Dogs, scores four touchdowns

By JOHN SALERNO
Sports Writer

Murray High tailback David McCuiston rushed 13 times for 277 yards and four touchdowns in just over one half of action Friday night to lead the Tigers to their third victory in four games, a 42-7 rout of Fulton City.

It took only a short time for visiting Murray to get its offense on track before McCuiston started breaking through gaping holes for scores of 26, 68, 54 and finally an 89-yard sprint through the Bulldogs' sluggish defense.

"David McCuiston has become the emergent leader on this ball club," a reserved head coach Tim English said after the game. "He is really some ball player."

When the senior tailback took a well-deserved break in the second half, the Tigers showed their offense is more than a one-man show. English expressed concern in the first half when an early scoring drive stalled when a nicely thrown Mark Boggess pass ricocheted off a receiver's hands in the end zone.

"The team is not used to mental preparation," he said later. "If we're going to be successful we can't sit back on our laurels." About the passing game, he said, "I knew it was there. We just have to have as much repetition as possible."

Spinks overlooking Davis for chance to unify titles

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J. (AP) — Michael Spinks, who defends his World Boxing Association light heavyweight crown Saturday, is looking far beyond challenger Johnny Davis.

Spinks, 22-0 with 16 knockouts, has been an active champion. And he is pushing hard to prepare for a title unification match against World Boxing Council champion Dwight Braxton, a bout that could earn each fighter more than $1 million.

If Spinks beats Braxton, he plans to move up to the cruiserweight division, where his brother Leon now is fighting. His goal is to continue adding poundage until he can fight for the heavyweight title.

Most light heavyweights who have fought for the title against heavyweights were either too small physically or over the hill," said the 26-year-old Spinks. "I'm just coming into my prime."

Davis, meanwhile, is a converted southpaw from North Carolina who has a remarkable upset record, although he lacks punching power.

Davis, 29, is the only fighter to beat Braxton as a pro and he defeated heavyweight Gerry Cooney twice in the amateurs.

"I faced 6-foot-5 Cooney and spotted him in every physical category," said Davis, who supplements his sporadic boxing income by mowing lawns in Hempstead, N.Y. "He held me, he leaned on me and he tried to outmuscle me, but I prevailed."

Davis has a 17-3 record with eight knockouts.

So Murray returned to the air in the second half and the passing game redeemed itself as Boggess connected on two passes before lofting a 12-yard scoring strike to tight end Jeff Downey late in the third quarter.

With the offense having proved itself, it was time for the defensive team to get in the scoring act in the final quarter.

Desperate to generate some kind of offense, Fulton went with a shotgun formation headed by Mike Bransford. Working from his own end zone on first down with 2:34 remaining, the Fulton QB came under immediate pressure and lofted a lame duck into the outstretched arms of Murray's Kritt Allbritten. The senior defensive back waited 15 yards to paydirt to cap off a big night of Tiger scoring.

The Tiger coaching staff took advantage of the big lead to shuffle players in and out and English said Tom Schwettman looked "sharp" moving in from wide receiver to tailback. The senior rushed six consecutive plays, picking up 25 yards and one first down in the fourth quarter.

In the third quarter, Murray missed a field goal attempt but kicker David Denham was perfect otherwise as he converted six extra points and his deep kickoffs prevented any long Fulton returns.

The Bulldogs took advantage of Murray's only sizeable mistake when they recovered a fumble at the Tiger 33 in the second quarter. Five plays later they pushed it into the end zone to make the score 14-7 in the game's lone tense moment. Fulton's record drops to 2-2, while Murray is now 3-1.

Next week the Tigers continue their district schedule when they host Fulton County at 8 p.m. at Ty Holland Stadium.

NCAA request refused

MISSION, Kan. (AP) — A federal judge refused to postpone a ruling he made earlier that would strip the NCAA of its control over college football's television contracts.

The NCAA is appealing an injunction granted Wednesday by the judge, U.S. District Judge Juan Burciaga of Albuquerque, N.M., at the request of the University of Oklahoma and the University of Georgia.

Both colleges have said they want to negotiate their own contracts for television broadcasting of football games and have argued that NCAA restraints regarding television rights are illegal. NCAA officials added that neither school would be damaged if the injunction isn't put into effect immediately.

NFLPA drops demand

NEW YORK (AP) — The National Football League Players Association dropped its demand for a percentage of team gross revenues and asked instead for half the league's $2.1 billion TV package. The owners quickly rejected the proposal as a strike deadline loomed four days away.

The union's plan would total $1.6 billion over four years, $1,068 billion from TV and $532 million from other team revenues. It was the first time in seven months of negotiations that the union had moved from its demand for a percentage of the gross.

AIRWAVES — Murray High quarterback Mark Boggess (21) lofts an aerial as two Fulton City Bulldogs close in for the kill. Boggess found tight end Jeff Downey for one touchdown covering 12 yards in the third period.

Cancer Hopeline

This question and answer column is provided as a public service by the McDowell Cancer Network. Questions are answered by appropriate specialists associated with the Network. These questions represent some of the inquiries made by callers who use our Hopeline. Hopeline is a toll-free consultative telephone service (1-800-432-9321) provided free of charge to any Kentuckian with a cancer-related problem. Qualified counselors answer every call Monday thru Friday, 9-5 p.m. Hopeline counselors do not diagnose cancer or recommend treatment for individual cases.

Q: I'm recovering from cancer surgery. The doctor is talking about a year of chemotherapy. Where can I find out about it? How expensive is chemotherapy?
A: The Cancer Hopeline has two very helpful brochures on chemotherapy. One, "Chemotherapy and You: A Guide to Self-Help During Treatment," is published by the National Cancer Institute. The second is "You and Cancer Chemotherapy" by Jean Abner, RN, MSN and Margaret Poole, RN, MSN, who are nurses at the Lexington Veterans Administration Hospital. Both brochures are available free.

Chemotherapy costs vary with the drugs being used, the frequency, and where the treatment is given.
 Contact your physician before treatment begins and discuss whether your chemotherapy will be in pill or injection form, cost of the drugs, frequency of treatment, cost for visits to the physician and for necessary tests, and the charges for administering the drugs if given by injection.

 All of the above are vital to you. The various tests with interpretation by the physician are needed to make sure your body is ready for a round of treatment. If you are to receive chemotherapy drugs by injection, not just anyone can administer them. It requires special training and great skill. If the drugs used are given in pill form, the latter costs are eliminated.

 Some insurance policies cover chemotherapy. In Kentucky, basic Blue Cross-Blue Shield policies do not pay for chemotherapy administered in a doctor's office or at a clinic. It will pay for chemotherapy injections given to hospital inpatients or in the outpatient department. A Blue Cross-Blue Shield major medical policy might cover chemotherapy at a doctor's office or clinic, depending on the policy. Be sure to check with your insurance company on this matter before discussing costs with your physician.

Do you have questions about cancer or its treatment? Is the reality of living with cancer every day overwhelming you and your family? Call the counselors at the Cancer Hopeline toll free at 1-800-432-9321 from 9-5 weekdays. They really care, and they often can provide practical help to make coping easier. No one is ever hurried, and all assistance is free. Written requests can be sent to us at 915 South Limestone Street, Lexington, KY 40536.
Note: Insurance information checked with Blue Cross-Blue Shield.

Depressions are dangerous disorders and can be life threatening. The only proper course is to get professional help, and the sooner the better.
 Part of the confusion stems from the broad spectrum of depression. Everyone has moods. The degree and duration is the important point. In fact, those disappointments in life and mild depression or mood swings are part of developing a mature personality — growing up. But these are vastly different from the West congratulated himself early for his accurate opening lead; he found partner with the perfect diamond holding. However, what he gained by the lead he gave away later and declarer made off with his unmakeable game.

 West's diamond-king won the first trick as East signaled encouragement with his nine. Another diamond went to East's jack and East's diamond ace was ruffed with South's jack. West overruffed in haste and then wondered where the setting trick might be. Too late. Regardless of what West did now, declarer had a trump entry to dummy and could manage 10 tricks.

West exited with a low spade to dummy's ace and declarer drew the outstanding trumps. Another spade was led to dummy and a low spade ruff left two spade winners in dummy. Dummy was reached via the trump eight and dummy's good spades provided for two club discards — making four hearts.

West did well to lead a diamond. Without a diamond lead, declarer can play one high trump and then discard a diamond on one of dummy's spades. Later, he manages a club ruff and can hold his losses to one club, one diamond and one trump.

However, West goofed when he overruffed the third diamond. Had he discarded instead of overruffing, declarer would have had no chance.

 Without the trump entry to the North hand to establish spades, the defense would collect two diamonds, a club and a trump and the game would fail by one.

Spectrum of depression
 By Lawrence Lamb, M.D.

DEAR DR. LAMB — I am a manic-depressive. I know plenty of others in the same boat, some better some worse. One of the biggest injustices to us is the overemphasis given to will power. Will power is fine. It is important in patients with heart problems, diabetes or any other chronic physical problem.

My psychiatrist and I agree that chronic depression is a physical disease caused by a chemical imbalance. Many news stories and even medical columns seem to say our problem is mostly weakness, that we "don't strive to help ourselves." What a put-down. No one should be told that will power will heal. We don't need a guilt trip added to our other problems.

By taking medicine faithfully and trying to diversify my activities I function normally. Twelve years and a long fight back from a complete mental breakdown have given me insight into this disease. Please urge anyone in a depression that lasts beyond a few days to seek help. If I had found help I would not have had such a long fight back.

DEAR READER — Thank you for sharing your thoughts. You are mostly right in your remarks. You can add to "will power" the frequent comment that a friend you can talk to will solve the problem. It won't, and that is dangerous meddling.
 Depressions are dangerous disorders and can be life threatening. The only proper course is to get professional help, and the sooner the better.

Part of the confusion stems from the broad spectrum of depression. Everyone has moods. The degree and duration is the important point. In fact, those disappointments in life and mild depression or mood swings are part of developing a mature personality — growing up. But these are vastly different from the

By CAROLYN LESH Associated Press Writer MONTE CARLO, Monaco (AP) — Old Hollywood friends, Europe's royalty and loving subjects bid farewell today to Princess Grace of Monaco in somber song and prayer.

The former American actress was being laid to rest beneath the floor of the Monaco Cathedral, where 26 years ago, as Grace Kelly, she was wed to her prince, Rainier III.

'Lord, we weep for our princess Grace and the brutality of her death adds to our pain,' Archbishop Charles Brandt proclaimed in the homily at the requiem Mass.

'God has called her to live with him in his glory for centuries and centuries,' he said. She is now enjoying 'a fuller and happier life' than she knew on Earth, 'although that was a happy life indeed,' he said.

The royal family sat a few feet to the left of the altar and the casket, which was draped in the white princely flag of Monaco and crowned with bouquets of pink roses. The great vaulted cathedral filled with Bach chorales and Gregorian chants.

Rainier wept, head bowed, bemedaled chest heaving. To his right his tearful daughter, Princess Caroline, watched with a tortured look.

Eight hundred mourners were gathered in the century-old cathedral — movie stars, nobility, government dignitaries.

U.S. first lady Nancy Reagan, her face shadowed by a wide-brimmed black hat, sat in a front pew next to Princess Diana of Wales, wife of the heir to the British throne, and Mrs. Daniel Mitterrand, wife of the French president.

Members of the princess' family from the United States, including her older brother, John B. Kelly Jr., and her two sisters, Margaret and Elizabeth, sat near the coffin.

'Here we all are united deeply in pain,' Brandt, in red vestments, told the mourners. 'Princess Grace has now been given access to the company of the saints, where she will live eternally with God our Father.' The burial was taking place privately later in the day.

Grace died at age 52 Tuesday night after an automobile accident. Her family decided to disconnect her from a life-support system, four hours after her brain ceased to function, two physicians who were at her deathbed said Friday. Her younger daughter, 17-year-old Stephanie, hospitalized with a spinal injury suffered in last Monday's automobile accident, was not attending the requiem Mass. She was reported in good condition.

The casket had been carried by 12 cassock-wearing pallbearers from the sand-pink royal palace, on a rocky promontory high above the famous Mediterranean harbor. The procession wended through narrow streets and under a cloudless azure sky in this tiny principality, to the cathedral a few hundred yards away.

Rainier walked behind, dabbing his grim face with a handkerchief, flanked by his children Prince Albert, 24, and Caroline, 25. The stunned-looking Caroline wept. Hundreds of other mourners followed.

Grace's tomb is in the crypt of the cathedral next to Rainier's three immediate predecessors: Prince Charles III, who ruled from 1856 to 1889, Prince Albert I, who ruled from 1889 to 1922, and Rainier's grandfather, Prince Louis II, who ruled from 1922 to 1949.

McCuiston elected chairman of tobacco board

LEXINGTON, Ky. (AP) — Pat McCuiston, a state representative and a Trenton, Ky. banker, has been elected chairman of the Kentucky Tobacco Research Board.

McCuiston, who recently stepped down as president of the Planters Bank of Todd County, was named Friday to replace Tom Harris, former Kentucky agriculture commissioner, who has chaired the board since its establishment in July 1970.

The board directs the work of the University of Kentucky's Tobacco Research and Health Institute.

McCuiston retains the title of executive vice president of the Planter's Bank. On the motion of current agriculture commissioner Alben W. Barkley II, the board consented to a reorganization by Gov. John Y. Brown Jr., placing the tobacco board in the commerce department.

Commerce Cabinet Secretary George Clark attended the meeting and said the move coincided with the placement of several other agriculture-related boards under the commerce cabinet.

Chairman McCuiston introduced four new members of the board, recently appointed by Brown. They are: Dr. William Anderson of the University of Louisville School of Medicine, Lexington businessman O.A. Bakhaus, Clair Vough, with IBM in Lexington and Dr. Frank R. Pitzer of Hopkinsville, who is on the staff of the Jennie Stuart Memorial Hospital.

During the meeting, the board chairman often called for motions by old board members in addition to those of new members to guard the action against legal challenges relating to the Legislative Research Commission's recent challenge of Brown's appointments.

But the Federal Reserve Board on Friday reported the seventh straight weekly rise in the nation's money supply, hurting prospects for relief in the next few weeks from high interest rates.

The U.S. Treasury's plans to sell nearly $23 billion in bonds, notes and bills next week also will keep upward pressure on interest rates by increasing the competition for money to borrow.

Interest rates dropped sharply in July and August before stabilizing this month as the nation's money supply started growing steadily.

The Federal Reserve said M1, a measure of funds readily available for spending, surged $4.3 billion in the first week of September.

New housing starts suffering sharp decline

By The Associated Press Housing starts fell by 16.2 percent last month, the sharpest drop in 18 months, and an industry economist says interest rates have failed to decline enough to revive the depressed home sales market.

Building permits for future construction also fell 16.6 percent in August to an annual rate of 886,000 homes, the Commerce Department reported Friday.

It said slightly more than 1 million home-construction projects were started last month, a drop of 16.2 percent from the month before. That reversed July's big surge and raised new questions about the prospects for a housing recovery.

'We must get interest rates down further before we get any kind of recovery,' said Michael Sumichrast, chief economist for the National Association of Home Builders.

'Mortgage rates must drop to 12 percent and stay there before a sustained recovery can get under way," added the association's president, Fred Napolitano.

New orthopaedic surgeon to present scientific papers

Dr. Mark Lorenz, an orthopaedic surgeon who recently joined the Murray-Calloway County Hospital staff, will be among those presenting scientific papers Sept. 22-26 at a meeting of the prestigious Scoliosis Research in Denver.

Dr. Lorenz's paper will deal with clinical research involving a review of patients in Toronto, Canada, and which led to improved techniques in spinal and back surgery. It is entitled, 'Surgical Correction of Adult Round Back Deformity.'

The Society, which has fewer than 100 members worldwide, is made up of orthopaedic surgeons with interest in spinal research and deformities, particularly scoliosis, or curvature of the back.

A native of Innsbruck, Austria, Lorenz, 31, came to Murray from Toronto General Hospital, where he had completed a six-month fellowship in spinal surgery.

He maintains offices in the Mason Medical Arts Building along with Drs. John Golberg and Raymond Charette, practicing in general orthopaedics and back surgery.

A.O. Smith
CONSERVATIONIST® water heaters offer a great return on investment for your residential customers.

More plumbing contractors than ever before have begun recommending and installing residential Conservationist water heaters. Why?

The reasons are simple. First, consumers are truly interested in purchasing energy-saving products if the pay-back period is fast enough.

Second, more contractors are beginning to stress the return on investment concept in selling Conservationist water heaters. They point out that the average extra cost of $100 for a gas Conservationist water heater will ordinarily save the customer about $33 a year or more. And that's a 33% annual return on the extra $100 investment. Better than money in the bank.

'Lou Grant' ends five-year run on CBS Monday night

NEW YORK (AP) — The Los Angeles Tribune has folded, and this newspaper's demise is a national loss. The city editor was Lou Grant.

"Lou Grant" was put out of work earlier this year because of low ratings and, according to some, the political activism of star Ed Asner. It ended its five-year run on CBS Monday night.

Although "Lou Grant" could get preachy, the topics it tackled both in the journalism world and outside were substantial: age discrimination, Vietnam stress syndrome, drunken driving, the right of privacy, to mention a few.

The final episode was typical. Managing editor Charlie Hume was faced with an alcoholic staffer, reporter Billie Newman's conflict between career and family, and assistant city editor Art Donovan's fears that his girlfriend was pregnant and keeping the news from him.

It was a day-in-the-life story that allowed actor Mason Adams to illustrate that a good man can have a wart or two. He lost his patience. He sent the alcoholic into early retirement, only to be overruled by the publisher.

Although it wasn't planned that way, the final episode was a testament to how this well-constructed program realistically examined people's feelings and lives.

It also showed that the star doesn't have to own the franchise on good lines and insights. The final episode of "Lou Grant" wasn't a showcase for Lou Grant, but for "Lou Grant."

Monday night's episode was not a rerun. It was produced before CBS shocked the television community by canceling the Emmy-winning program. The show's three top executives — Allan Burns, executive consultant; Gene Reynolds, executive producer, and Seth Freeman, producer — said in a letter:

"When this show was shot we had no idea it would be our final episode, so there are no bands playing at the end and our cast does not go marching off into the sunset hand-in-hand."

So now we are left with the image of Lou Grant sitting at his desk with his tie pulled down and the sleeves of his shirt rolled up.

We are also left with memories of the rivalry and interplay between the sensitive Billie Newman (Linda Kelsey) and the aggressive Joe Rossi (Robert Walden), of the courage of publisher Margaret Pynchon (Nancy Marchand).

Next Monday, CBS rushes onto the air its movie about the courtship and marriage of Prince Charles and Lady Diana Spencer.

The following week, Lou Grant's timeslot is turned over to "Cagney and Lacey," a cop show,

The new short story series "A Family Affair" will enthrall you with the tales of O. Henry, Bret Harte and others. Peek into the future, travel back into the past and view the natural wonders of today's world on National Geographic specials and other science and history features. And "Not Necessarily The News" with spoofs of today's headlines and other comedy series will have you rolling on the floor with laughter.

You'll see fabulous HBO productions of acclaimed Broadway plays. Super sports coverage of the US Open Tennis Championships, NFL action and the "Race For The Pennant" will keep sports fans glued to the TV set. Musical specials and extravaganzas from Las Vegas, Paris and other exotic international entertainment capitals are your ticket to fun and adventure.

So, sit back in your favorite easy chair or curl up on the couch and enjoy the fantastic programming this Fall on HBO and Cablevision.

SOAP SCOOP

By Nancy M. Reichardt

After six months of dating, Lisa Loring (Cricket Montgomery) on "As the World Turns" and Doug Stevenson (Lee Sentell on "Search for Tomorrow") have decided to take the proverbial walk down the marital aisle. After exchanging tokens of their love (a gold watch for Doug and an engagement ring for Lisa), the couple have decided on a spring 1983 wedding date.

Lisa Loring

Judith Blazer (Ariel Dixon on "As the World Turns") is not only a talented actress, she's a singer as well. An operatic soprano, Judith can be heard singing the title role on a Smithsonian Institution recording of the well-known operetta "Naughty Marietta."

Elizabeth Allen (Victoria Bellman on "Texas") took time out from her busy schedule on the soap to study wood-working and refinishing. "I've acquired a house in upstate New York which I'm remodeling. I want to be able to refinish my antique furniture or even make a bookcase... if I feel like it," says Allen, who has always been creative. Elizabeth studied to be a fashion designer, helped design stage sets and has even decorated her own Beverly Hills boutique.

If something about Scott Bryce (Craig Montgomery on "As the World Turns") seems familiar, it just might be the striking resemblance he bears to his actor/father, Ed Bryce. Ed is well-remembered by "Guiding Light" viewers for his long-time portrayal of Bill Bauer.

In the casting department: Patty Weaver has once again departed her role of Trish Banning on "Days of Our Lives," this time to promote her new record album, "Patty Weaver," on the Warner Bros. label. Written out of "As the World Turns" were Jay Acovone (Cliff Matson) and veteran actor Don MacLaughlin (Chris Hughes). Meanwhile, "Search for Tomorrow" has lost the talent of Wayne Tippit whose character of Ted Adamson quietly faded into the sunset. A welcome addition to "One Life to Live" is Marie Masters (ex-Susan Stewart on "ATWT") who plays lawyer Helen Murdoch. Keith Gordon has joined "Edge of Night" as Troy Bannister; Mary Keller plays Amanda Kirkland on "Ryan's Hope"; on "Days of Our Lives," Leann Hunley plays Anna Brady and Andrea Barber is Carrie Brady.

NBC lists top show; CBS regains first from ABC network

LOS ANGELES (AP) — NBC's live telecast of the Miss America Pageant from Atlantic City, N.J., was No. 1 in the A.C. Nielsen Co. television ratings for the week ended Sept. 12.

The annual pageant Sept. 11 was the first win for NBC since May 25, when "Television's Greatest Commercials" finished on top.

CBS returned to first place in the network ratings, after having been displaced the week before by ABC, with a Nielsen rating of 15.3. ABC was second with 14.2 and NBC was third with 13.0.

The networks say this means in an average prime-time minute, 15.3 percent of the nation's homes with TV were tuned to CBS.

NBC's first-place win was its only slot in the Top 10. CBS took six places, led by No. 4 "60 Minutes." ABC had three in the Top 10.

ABC's "Too Close for Comfort" was second and the network's "Three's Company" was third.

Reruns of the two-part miniseries "Scruples" placed No. 5 and No. 9 for CBS, while "M-A-S-H," its perennial frontrunner, was in tenth place.

The week also saw two usually high-rated shows, CBS' "Magnum, P.I.," and NBC's "CHiPs," finish among the five lowest rated.

Here are the Top 10 shows: The Miss America Pageant, a rating of 23.3 or 19.4 million households, NBC; "Too Close for Comfort," 21.3 or 17.7 million, ABC; "Three's Company," 21.0 or 17.7 million, ABC; "60 Minutes," 20.8 or 17.3 million, CBS; "Scruples," Part II, 19.6 or 16.3 million, CBS; "The Jeffersons," 19.3 or 16.1 million, CBS; ABC Sunday Night Movie, "The Fog," 19.1 or 15.9 million, ABC; "Scruples," Part I, 18.8 or 15.7 million, CBS; "M-A-S-H," 18.5 or 15.4 million, CBS.

Here are the next 10: "Hart to Hart," ABC; "Laverne and Shirley," ABC; "Happy Days," ABC; "Hill Street Blues," NBC; "One Day at a Time," CBS; "Twenty-Two," ABC; "The Love Boat," ABC; NBC Monday Night at the Movies, "Madam X," NBC; NCAA Football, Clemson vs. Georgia, ABC; "Real People," NBC.

Here are the five lowest-rated shows: "Magnum, P.I.," CBS; "Walt Disney's 'Gus,'" CBS; ABC News Closeup, "The Monastery," ABC; "Catalina Sea-Lab," NBC; "CHiPs," NBC.
