Leap Day: getting the calendar back on schedule with nature

WASHINGTON (AP) - Like Olympiads and presidential elections, Leap Day comes but once in four years.

Except for owners of some day-date watches, of course, most people don't have to make any actual calendar adjustments.

Others endous for adulthood struggle to prove that five birthdays makes them old enough to vote and drive a car.

For both the fun and frustration of this added day, render unto Julius Caesar the blame that is his.

The day is designed to compensate for the fact that calendars count in whole days, 365 or 366 depending on the year.

Adding an extra day every fourth year helped compensate for that difference of about a quarter day, but problems became obvious as the Romans' inaccurate calendar got three months out of line with the seasons.

So, in 46 B.C., known ever since as the "Year of Confusion," Caesar added 67 days to the calendar to set it right again.

That reform, suggested by the Roman astronomer Sosigenes, became part of what is known as the Julian Calendar and remained in use for centuries.

There was one small problem: Sosigenes had done a little too much rounding off.

Sosigenes had estimated the year at 365.25 days, while it really was 365.2422 days.

Although Caesar and his astronomer were long gone before anyone noticed it, some 1,500 years later, 11 minutes per year had added up to a whopping 10 days.

That prompted the current calendar, instituted by Pope Gregory in 1582, who dropped the offending 10 days - a change that took a while to be accepted in non-Catholic countries.

That's why many history books refer to dates during the transition period as either "old style" or "new style" depending on whether a country was following the Julian or Gregorian calendar at the time.

In addition to dropping the added days, Pope Gregory ruled that not every fourth year would be a leap year.

Gore says he won't rule out borrowing to back campaign

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) - Sen. Albert Gore Jr. has not borrowed to help finance his Super Tuesday campaign, but spokesman Mike Kopp says he won't rule it out.

Kopp was asked to comment on a report in the Nashville Banner that the campaign is considering borrowing $1 million, in the form of 10 Tennessee bank loans of $100,000 each.

"We haven't ruled anything out," Kopp said by telephone from Washington. "At this time, we haven't borrowed any money."

He called later to repeat that the campaign has not ruled out any borrowing, but "there is no way we can confirm a report that we are borrowing $1 million, in 10 loans or any other way."

Gore, who spent next to nothing in Iowa after withdrawing his campaign from that Midwestern

Legislators eye changes in education plan

FRANKFORT, Ky. (AP) - Gov. Wallace Wilkinson's school improvement-incentive package will be refined next week to make it more palatable to legislators, said Sen. Majority Leader Joe Wright.

Wright, who sponsored the bill outlining the programs, said he discussed the revisions with Wilkinson on Thursday. "I think he understands that it may substantially enhance the bill's ability to pass," Wright said.

Senate Bill 256 would create an incentive program that includes bonuses for teachers and staff at schools that show a certain level of improvement. It also would establish 21 "benchmark" schools where new technologies and teaching techniques would be used.

Wilkinson's budget allocates about $10 million over the next two years to fund the program. (Cont'd on page 2)

Wilkinson to school board members: resist taxes

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) - Gov. Wallace Wilkinson urged 1,000 local school board members gathered in Louisville on Friday to support his education plan and resist calls for higher taxes to fund Kentucky schools.

Boards Association, Wilkinson attempted to capitalize on the praise his education plan received from experts he brought to the state for Wednesday's Governor's Symposium on Education in Lawrenceburg. "They sang unanimous praise for the education plan that we put forth and none of them at that symposium mentioned anything about taxes," Wilkinson said. A KSBA official offered his own praise for Wilkinson's proposals, but voiced concerns over the funding for the current elementary and secondary education system. "His programs have promise, but we can't short-change what we're doing right now, the basics," said David Keller, executive director for the KSBA. "It takes so much money for classrooms, it takes so much money for teachers salaries - (Cont'd on page 2)

Surrogate parenting bill passed by House Friday

FRANKFORT, Ky. (AP) - A disputed bill to declare surrogate parenting contrary to Kentucky's public policy won final passage in the House and was headed for the governor's desk.

Proponents of surrogate parenting, including the Louisville physician who pioneered its commercial practice, contended the legislation would have little practical effect, if any. It would not impose a penalty for violations.

There was no debate on Senate Bill 4 as the House passed it 83-2. The bill was sponsored by Sen. Joe Lane Travis, R-Glasgow.

The state Supreme Court ruled last year that surrogate parenting was permissible because the General Assembly had never outlawed it.

Travis' bill would declare surrogate parenting contrary to public policy and would make any contract involving artificial insemination that results in legal termination of parental rights void and unenforceable.

Dr. Richard Levin, who founded Surrogate Parenting Associates Inc. in Louisville, had contended in testimony to a Senate committee that his contracts do not men-

Noriega: U.S. behind failed effort to end his military rule

PANAMA CITY, Panama (AP) - Gen. Manuel Antonio Noriega accused the United States on Friday of instigating the failed effort to end his military rule and said Washington waged a campaign of "psychological warfare" against him.

Eric Arturo Delvalle, ousted by the legislature after trying to fire Noriega, refused to accept defeat and told reporters at his home, "I am the president of Panama this morning."

He called later Friday for a national strike to repudiate Noriega's leadership. "I don't have a seat of government, or military support, but I do have two million Panamanians who are tired ... of living under a regime that one man has governed capriciously," he told reporters.

Noriega held a rally of his supporters and told them Panamanians who consider "betrayal, because they are born traitors, meet a bad end here."

Delvalle's bid to remove Noriega as head of Panama's 15,000-member Defense Forces was thwarted Thursday night when the military closed ranks around the general and said no officer would replace him.

In Washington, the State Department said it would still recognize Delvalle as Panama's president instead of Manuel Solis Palma, the former education state, entered the Super Tuesday campaign with $2 million in cash-on-hand and no debts. Only Massachusetts Gov. Michael Dukakis, who won the New Hampshire primary, emerged from the New England race with more cash, $4 million.

Super Tuesday is March 8, when 20 states — 14 of them in the South — conduct presidential primaries. Gore has staked his campaign on hopes that he will win big in the Super Tuesday states.

Kopp said the cash-in-hand had grown to about $3 million, thanks in part to a $750,000 fund-raiser in Dallas.

Kopp was asked to comment on a report that Gore's campaign finance chairman, Johnny Hayes, was trying to obtain the $1 million in loans from 10 banks.

"We haven't ruled anything out," Kopp said. "When you campaign in 20 states for Super Tuesday, you want to make sure that you have the resources you need to get your message out."

"It's no secret that we're spending money to get that message out," Kopp said. "I would not rule that (loan) out but at this time, we haven't borrowed any money."

An extra $1 million would be an effort to overwhelm two other Democratic candidates, Richard Gephardt and Jesse Jackson.

Gephardt reported $200,000 in cash-on-hand but $800,000 in debts at the end of January and Jackson had $500,000 on-hand but owed $400,000.

Gephardt has disclosed that he borrowed to finance his successful campaign in Iowa.

Gore has pledged to outspend all of his Democratic opponents in the Super Tuesday states.

He spent Thursday in Houston filming TV commercials. It was at least the third round of television commercials that Gore has filmed, most of them aimed at the 14 Southern states which conduct Super Tuesday primaries.

Arlie Schardt, another Gore spokesman, said the new commercials probably would be broadcast "fairly early next week and more as the week wears on."

years to start the programs. However, money was not allocated for the actual bonuses, because those payments would not begin until the following biennium.

Wright, D-Harned, said the changes expected to be made in the bill by the Senate Education Committee are:

—Selection of benchmark schools would be made by the State Board of Education after being recommended by the governor and superintendent of public instruction. Under the original plan, Wilkinson would have the final say.

—The specific size of the bonuses to teachers and staff will be deleted from the bill. Those amounts would be established in the 1990 legislative session, when funding would presumably be put in the budget. Currently, the bill calls for teachers at chosen schools to get a minimum of $1,800 for that year.

—One of the criteria for choosing incentive schools would change slightly. Currently, the bill says student achievement-test scores would account for at least 40 percent of the criteria to determine improvement. It will be changed to at least 40 percent but no more than 60 percent, Wright said.

—The test used to evaluate student achievement would be the normal state achievement test, not a separate test.

—"We don't want to spend money for two tests," Wright said.

Also Friday, Senate Education Committee Chairman Nelson Allen, D-Greene, introduced a bill attaching some strings to the $13 million Wilkinson wants for aid to disadvantaged school districts. Under SB437, the state school board, and not the governor, would decide which poor districts get the money.

Resist taxes...

that's the muscle and bone," Keller said. "And when you put all the rhetoric aside, you've still got to have those things and you've got to fund those well."

The governor's education legislation lays the groundwork for an incentive program that would pay $70 million a year in bonuses to employees of schools that meet performance standards. The legislation also calls for the designation of 21 Kentucky schools as "benchmark" institutions to showcase state-of-the-art equipment and instructional techniques.

His proposed budget for education includes only the start-up costs for some major programs, including performance bonuses, which would not begin until the 1990-92 biennium.

Wilkinson proposes in his budget to increase General Fund spending for elementary and secondary education by a comparatively meager $114 million over the next two years, totaling just over $1.5 billion in fiscal 1990. He defended that plan Friday, saying that the state and the schools must find ways to be more productive with the money that is available.

"It's not that we're not spending enough, but rather that we're not spending it smart enough," Wilkinson said.

He warned the audience not to be taken in by the "old guard" and "entrenched interests" who wish to perpetuate "a system designed 100 years ago that said there was one way and only one way to educate our kids."

"They'll tell you it's got to be more taxes," Wilkinson said. "We're going to tax our kids for more learning before we tax their parents for more money."

Wilkinson predicted a tough fight to push his proposals through the General Assembly, but he promised to use "every ounce of persuasive ability" he had to win support from the KSEA membership.

He may need more than one appearance before the KSEA to win that support — there was little applause during his sometimes fiery speech, and Keller described the audience's response as "respectful but reserved."

Keller said more money may be needed to fund basic educational needs, such as facility construction and teacher salary increases, in addition to Wilkinson's initiatives.

KSEA members could get a different viewpoint on Saturday, when the chairmen of the Senate and House appropriations and revenue committees are scheduled to explain their proposals for increasing taxes.

Molly Donnelly to head publicity for Adults Belong in College Workshops

Molly Donnelly of Murray has been named publicity chairman for the third annual Adults Belong in College Workshop sponsored by the Center for Continuing Education at Murray State University and the Bank of Murray and People's Bank of Murray.

Ms. Donnelly, a junior at Murray State University, is majoring in public relations.

"I am looking forward to the opportunities this experience will afford me. I am especially honored to be associated with a program that so effectively meets the needs of adults who return to college."

Ms. Donnelly returned to school in August 1985 at age 28. She has a 4-year-old daughter, Stephanie.

Named as an Outstanding Young Woman of America in 1986, Ms. Donnelly is a member of Gamma Beta Phi and Omicron Delta Kappa, both national honor societies at Murray State University.

She is the daughter of Mary K. Watson of Murray Route 7.

"Returning to school has helped me reach my full potential. This opportunity is available to everyone. I think most people just don't know how to go about getting started," she said.

"Being involved with the workshop is exciting for me because it represents the untapped potential of adults who have never had the benefit of a college education. Who knows, sitting there in the workshop could be a future Dean's List student, a future Outstanding Young American, or a future campus leader who will impact the university in ways yet unknown. I find it very exciting to think of the possibilities when I see adult students."

Fleming to chair St. Jude's skate-a-thon

The Central Regional Office of St. Jude Children's Research Hospital has announced that Mrs. Kathie Fleming has agreed to chair the St. Jude Children's Research Hospital Skate-A-Thon in the Murray area, on Feb. 28, from 2-4 p.m. at Circus Skate of Murray.

St. Jude Children's Research Hospital was founded by entertainer Danny Thomas. The institution opened its doors to the public in 1962 to combat catastrophic diseases which afflict our children. St. Jude Hospital is non-sectarian, non-discriminatory, and provides total medical care to over 4,200 patients.

At St. Jude, scientists and physicians are working side by side seeking not only a better means of treatment, but also the causes, cures and prevention of these terrible killers.

The campaign this year is dedicated to Brian McCollister. A native of Louisiana, he was diagnosed with leukemia in October, 1984. Since that time, he has come to St. Jude every six weeks for treatment, and every 12 weeks for a bone marrow test and spinal tap to make sure his cancer stays in remission. While at home, Brian receives oral medication daily. He is a living example of the progress and success of the research, patient care, and educational programs of this internationally recognized hospital.

"We sincerely appreciate the concern that Mrs. Fleming has for our work and we hope the citizens of Murray will support the Skate-A-Thon to help provide the funds that are needed to preserve the world's greatest asset...our children," a spokesperson for St. Jude's said.

THE BIBLE SPEAKS...
by: Gilbert Gough

BIBLE IS GOD'S WORD - Pt. 1
The Christian's belief that the Bible is the divine word of God is based upon strong evidences. This belief is not a blind faith for God has "left not himself without witness" (Acts 14:17). There is plenty of evidence for believing the Bible to be God's revealed will for man.

THE AMAZING UNITY OF THE BIBLE is beyond man's power and ability and proves the Bible to be from God. The Bible was written in three different languages by about forty different men. These men were scattered over three continents and were from different countries. A period of about fifteen hundred years elapsed from the time the first book was written until the last book was written.

Despite its many writers from various backgrounds and its span of sixteen centuries, there is an astounding unity to the biblical plot, purpose, subject matter, development and doctrine. Can this type of unity be expected of human nature? Who would reason that any group of men could write with perfect agreement on any one subject over a period of even sixteen days? This evidence leads one to believe the Bible to be inspired of God rather than mere scrawl of humanity.

Christ Himself is the central person in this unified word of God. From Genesis to Revelation (66 books) the scheme of redemption progresses from "someone is coming," to "someone has come," to "someone will come again."

It is impossible for chance or even deliberate fraud to account for this magnificent unity. Inspiration of God is the only explanation. God's divine guidance over the approximate forty men is the only way to understand the Bible's amazing unity. Paul the apostle explains that "All scripture is given by inspiration of God, and is profitable for doctrine, for reproof, for correction, for instruction in righteousness: That the man of God may be perfect, thoroughly furnished unto all good work" (II Tim. 3:16, 17).

Dear Abby

Parents' Past Betrayal Makes Son Hesitate to Help Them Now

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: Six years ago, "Gina," my wife (then girlfriend), became pregnant. I was 19 and she was 20. When I told my parents, they took it rather well. We talked about my options — abortion or adoption. I loved the girl, but when I mentioned our keeping the baby, they said it was out of the question, then moved to another subject.

Two months later, I told them at breakfast that Gina and I had decided to keep the baby. They let that pass without saying a word. When I came home from work that night, I found all my belongings on the lawn and the lock on the door had been changed. They left a note on the door saying, "You are no longer our son. You will receive no aid from us, and you are no longer welcome in our home."

Abby, I had never asked for money; all I wanted was their emotional support.

Today I received a letter from my dad saying his company had gone bankrupt, and could I send them $500 a month — "for a while!"

I love them both, but they deserted me in my time of need, and now they need me (rather, my money). Do I send it to them? Or should I tell them to go jump in the lake?

MY TURN IN MINNESOTA

DEAR MY TURN: Since Minnesota is the land of 10,000 lakes, to tell them to go jump in one may be tempting. But meet with them instead to discuss how you can help them. Forgiveness is the fragrance of the violet on the heel of the shoe that crushed it.

DEAR ABBY: My husband and I have been married a year. We both work, and I have a child by a previous marriage. My problem is that my mother-in-law lives a few blocks away, and she drops in, unannounced, during week nights. She visits anywhere from 15 minutes to two hours. Abby, I may be tired, busy or both. My husband and I may be in the middle of a quarrel — or making love. Whatever it is, I feel it's an invasion of my privacy when she comes over without phoning first. Lately I find myself hiding in the laundry room "doing laundry" so I won't have to visit with her.

My husband doesn't mind her unannounced visits, but he knows that I do, and he gets angry when I ask him to speak to her about it. He doesn't want to hurt her feelings. I don't either — but calling first is not asking too much. Or is it?

I just learned that I am going to have a baby — my husband's first. We are thrilled, but when the baby comes, I'm afraid his mother will be dropping in even more often. Please help me.

HIDING OUT IN EL CAJON

DEAR HIDING: I think your mother-in-law should be asked to please phone to find out if it's convenient for her to drop in. Ideally you and your husband should ask her together. If he refuses, then it's up to you to handle it kindly, respectfully, diplomatically and promptly.

AMENDED RETURNS

Terry Powell, local H & R Block manager, in Murray, urges all taxpayers to take a close look at prior year's returns. If you discover that you have missed some valuable deductions or that you make a mistake on one of your past returns, the situation is not irreversible. It is possible to amend past returns as far back as three years. Many people overpay their taxes without even knowing it, and that means giving money away. Mr. Powell says, "Taking a look at your past returns may put extra dollars back in your pocket."

Employer-Employee-Contractor

The Internal Revenue Service realizes that businesses prefer to use "independent contractors" rather than employees. The savings come through the elimination of social security taxes, other payroll taxes, and employee fringe benefits.

Some important IRS definitions are as follows:

*An employer is an individual, corporation, partnership, a trust, an estate, or other entity including tax-exempt organizations for whom an individual performs services of whatever nature as an "employee."

*An employee is an individual who performs services subject to the control of an employer both as to what services shall be performed and as to how they shall be performed.

*Independent contractor has no clear definition. Congress has not yet enacted legislation to clarify which workers will be independent contractors and which will be employees. In the meantime, a taxpayer can treat an individual as an independent contractor if: (1) there is a "reasonable basis" for not treating the worker as an employee, (2) you did not, and you currently are not treating an individual as an employee, and (3) you file your tax returns on the basis that the worker is not an employee.

In general, an independent contractor has his own tools, may work on his own premises, is subject to incurring a loss on the project, determines how the work is to be accomplished, hires his own help, works on his own schedule, and probably works for others besides you.

An employee, on the other hand, has his hours and his method of work supervised, is probably trained by the employer, probably works only for the one company, and has an ongoing relationship with the employer.

MAYFIELD, Ky. (AP) — A $500,000 lawsuit has been filed against the city of Mayfield, its mayor, police chief and three police officers in connection with last year's shooting death of a woman at the local police station. The lawsuit filed in U.S. District Court in Paducah on behalf of Carol Sherrill claims that her death on Feb. 22, 1987, was the result of the defendants' negligence in protecting her from Mark Sherrill, who is not related. Sherrill, 22, walked into the Mayfield police station and shot Ms. Sherrill, 26, to death while she was filing an assault complaint against him. AQUARIUS (Jan. 20 to Feb. 18) Collaborative efforts aren't especially favored now. Money could be a bone of contention with a close tie. Rivalry is keen in business. Stay on your toes.
PISCES (Feb. 19 to Mar. 20) Friends could distract you from the job at hand now. Don't expect miracles of progress now, but with effort some accomplishments can be effected.

Killing A Business In Ten Easy Steps

1. Don't advertise! Just pretend everybody knows what you have to offer.

2. Don't advertise! Tell yourself you just don't have time to spend thinking about promoting your business.

3. Don't advertise! Just assume everybody knows what you sell.

4. Don't advertise! Convince yourself that you've been in business so long customers will automatically come to you.

5. Don't advertise! Forget that there are new potential customers who would do business with you if they were reminded and urged to do so.

6. Don't advertise! Forget that you have competition trying to attract your customers away from you.

7. Don't advertise! Tell yourself it costs too much to advertise and that you don't get enough out of it.

8. Don't advertise! Overlook the fact that advertising is an investment in selling - not an expense.

9. Don't advertise! Be sure not to provide an adequate advertising budget for your business.

10. Don't advertise! Forget that you have to keep reminding your established customers that you appreciate their business.
