TOKYO — Scandal and an unpopular sales tax cost the long-governing Liberal Democratic Party voter support but it held on to its majority in Parliament's lower house and with it the right to name the prime minister.

WASHINGTON — U.S. experts on Eastern Europe admit they were caught napping by the speed of the move toward German reunification, and many say Mikhail S. Gorbachev's unpredictable moves are what took them by surprise.

BUCHAREST, Romania — Trying to touch off another revolution, hundreds of demonstrators bent on ousting President Ion Iliescu forced their way into government headquarters, smashing windows and roughing up a Cabinet minister.

FRANKFORT — The General Assembly's 60-day session reaches midpoint this week with the governor's budget and $1 billion tax bill already in the mill and lawmakers awaiting what could be the most important school legislation in Kentucky history.

LA JOLLA, Calif. — Dan Forsman needed only a final round par-72 for a two-shot victory Sunday in the Shearson Lehman Hutton Open played in blustery, showery weather on the South course at Torrey Pines.

DAYTONA BEACH, Fla. — Dale Earnhardt blew a tire with one mile remaining Sunday in the Daytona 500, giving unheralded Derrike Cope the biggest upset in stock car racing history.

TAMPA, Fla. — Chuck O'Connor, management's chief negotiator in the baseball talks, said Sunday he had trouble convincing some owners to drop their revenue sharing and pay-for-performance proposals.

WASHINGTON — A surprisingly large 30 percent trade-balance improvement in December allowed the nation to close out 1989 with a $108.6 billion deficit, the smallest in five years, the government said.

Private economists noted, however, that while U.S. exports hit an all-time high last year, so did imports, driven upward by America's growing dependence on foreign oil.

Regents accept Kurth; negotiations begin

By MARK COOPER
Murray Ledger & Times Staff Writer

The Murray State University board of regents formally accepted Rear Adm. Ronald Kurth as the school's next president Saturday, authorizing Regents Chairman Kerry Harvey to negotiate a contract with him.

The board had announced its selection of Kurth Wednesday after reports of his appointment were publicized earlier this week.

Kurth, who serves as the president of the Naval War College in Newport, R.I., is expected to arrive home today from a vacation and begin talks with Harvey within the week.

Harvey said Wednesday the contract's "major points" such as length and salary have already been worked out and no snags are expected before the process can be completed.

Kurth, as president, will have more control over the formation of the university budget due to an administrative change also approved during Saturday's session.

The board approved the transfer of the budget office to the office of the president, a move that is hoped to provide Kurth and the university a more "hands-on budget process," according to MSU acting President Dr. James Booth.

"The move will tie budgeting to institutional planning," Booth said, and link the two "not only philosophically but physically."

The change was proposed last year as part of administrative restructuring considered by the regents who decided to forego final approval until the new president came on board.

Airport Board, farmers discuss use of land near Kyle-Oakley Field

By TODD O. ROSS
Murray Ledger & Times Staff Writer

The Murray-Calloway County Airport Board met Saturday in its quarterly meeting at city hall.

The board accepted proposals from area farmers wanting to farm the crop land at the airport.

"We received five bids," said Hugh Oakley, board chairman, "and they are being reviewed and evaluated at this time."

"No decision has been made yet," he said, "but one will be reached sometime within a week to 10 days."

The board also voted to update the airport master plan.

"The master plan is study done by competent engineers to determine the projected needs of the airport and to review the needs of the community," Oakley said.

The current plan has not expired yet, he said, but most of the projects on it have been completed.

Because of that, Oakley said the board has begun formulating the new plan.

Say salutes Arafat, recounts frustration

By MICHAEL GOLDSMITH
Associated Press Writer

TUNIS, Tunisia — Peggy Say paid tribute Sunday to PLO Chairman Yasser Arafat for his efforts in trying to free the 18 Western hostages in Lebanon, including her brother, the longest-held of the captives.

In an hour-long meeting Saturday, the leader of the Palestine Liberation Organization told Mrs. Say that he was doing his "very best" to win the release of the hostages but did not go into details.

"I was pleased to meet him after waiting such a long time to come face to face with him," Mrs. Say told The Associated Press. "I was encouraged that he said he would do his very best, which is all I could ask of anybody."

Mrs. Say is the sister of Terry Anderson, the chief Middle East correspondent for The Associated Press, kidnapped in Beirut on March 16, 1985 and believed held by Shiite Moslem extremists with close ties to Iran.

"I am sure (Arafat) will do whatever he can if he should find himself in a position to do something," Mrs. Say said. "Unfortunately, he has no direct influence on the kidnappers, but he is a player in the Middle East and it's my job to approach anyone who might help."

Mrs. Say is on a "humanitarian pilgrimage" to gather international support for the release of Anderson and the other hostages. Thus far, she has met U.N. Secretary-General Javier Perez de Cuellar, Pope John Paul II and leading officials of the European Parliament in Strasbourg, France.

Mrs. Say is accompanied on her tour by Don Mell, the AP photo-

General Assembly reaches midpoint, lawmakers awaiting school legislation

By CHARLES WOLFE
Associated Press Writer

FRANKFORT, Ky. — The General Assembly's 60-day session reaches midpoint this week with the governor's budget and $1 billion tax bill already in the mill and lawmakers awaiting what could be the most important school legislation in Kentucky history.

"We still ... have a lot of work to do, but we can at least see the light at the end of the tunnel," said House Speaker Don Blandford.

The Kentucky Task Force on Education Reform "will probably wind up its work and actually have a bill ready within the next two weeks," Blandford said.

Companion bills probably will be filed in both chambers, allowing simultaneous hearings, with the respective education and appropriations committees doing most of the work, said Senate President Pro grapher who was with Anderson when he was abducted, and Larry Heinzerling, a deputy director of the AP which supports Mrs. Say's efforts financially and logistically in pressing its own efforts to win Anderson's release.

A group calling itself Islamic Jihad, or Islamic Holy War, is believed to be holding Anderson and Terry Waite, special envoy of Archbishop of Canterbury Robert Runcie, who disappeared Jan. 20, 1987 while trying to negotiate the release of the hostages.

Arafat received Mrs. Say during a luncheon with a group of friends and supporters in his luxurious, well-guarded mansion overlooking the Mediterranean in suburban Gammarth.

The Palestinian leader invited Mrs. Say to sit next to him at the long table and showed her the Arab fashion of eating roast lamb with his fingers.

"I liked him personally," Mrs. Say declared. "He was very charming and sympathetic, particularly in listening to my problems, which may seem small when compared with the many problems he must have to contend with himself."

Mrs. Say leaves Monday for Paris, where she will meet UNESCO Director General Federico Mayor, later heading to Damascus for a meeting with Syrian Foreign Minister Farouk Al-Sharaa and then Canterbury, England to meet Runcie.

"What is discouraging is that I've been making this trek for five years now," Mrs. Say said, "and I never met anyone who said he could solve it. It is always a complicated circuit through a series of other people."

Arafat told her the man with the greatest possible influence would be President Hashemi Rafsanjani of Iran, but that his room for maneuvering is limited by hard-liners in his government.

Mrs. Say said she still hoped to get permission to visit Iran, although her many visa applications have gone unanswered.

In all, eight Americans, four Britons, two West Germans, two Swiss, an Italian and an Irishman are believed held captive.

Midpoint...

Tem John "Eck" Rose.

The task force — 16 legislators and six aides to Gov. Wallace Wilkinson — was created to design a new public school system after the Kentucky Supreme Court last year declared the present system unconstitutional.

There were two apparent breakthroughs last week.

Wilkinson and two task force leaders — House Democratic Whip Kenny Rapier and Senate Democratic Floor Leader Joe Wright — reached agreement on how a new commissioner of education and members of a new state school board should be selected.

Also, one of the task force's committees wrapped up a plan for rewarding good schools and imposing sanctions on poor ones.

Today is a legislative holiday. Issues on the horizon this week include a bill pushed by the Humana Inc. hospital and insurance company to deregulate hospitals in Jefferson County.

The bill was passed by the Senate, but has been stuck in the House State Government Committee. Blandford said it was likely to break free with an amendment that would also loosen regulatory control of rural-area hospitals.

Blandford said he wanted "to get that ... bill out of the way."

"It is causing a lot of friction here, a lot of tension," Blandford said. "It is my intention to get that resolved and move that bill one way or the other in the next week or two."

Also simmering this week are a

Senate-passed bill to resurrect a runoff primary election and a House-passed bill to pull Kentucky out of the Super Tuesday presidential primary.

The Senate also passed and sent to the House bills to establish a code of ethics for the executive branch and to weaken the governor's control of university board appointments.

Wilkinson opposes the runoff bill, saying he would veto it. He also said he would veto an ethics bill that did not apply equally to all branches of government, and he said he intended to try to halt an "erosion" of gubernatorial authority.

Otherwise, the Capitol was awash in olive branches last week as Wilkinson and leaders of the House and Senate pledged a new era of cooperation.

Wilkinson made his first appearance before a legislative panel, testifying in support of his tax bill to the House Appropriations and Revenue Committee on Wednesday.

He promised to try to whip up public support for the tax bill, which has many legislators jittery in an election year.

Meanwhile, Rose, in a speech televised across the state Wednesday night, said the General Assembly wants to protect its independence, but also to cooperate with the governor.

The first "State of the Legislature" address was patterned after the governor's constitutionally required State of the Commonwealth message.

Also last week, a House bill for public financing of gubernatorial campaigns sailed through a House committee last week, much to Blandford's surprise.

"I am not enthused about that bill and I was surprised when it got out of the Elections and Constitutional Amendments Committee," Blandford said.

The bill still must go to Appropriations and Revenue — the acid test — and that probably explained the bill's initial ease, Blandford said.

Attorney General Fred Cowan is pushing the bill. Wilkinson said he will veto it, but Blandford said he might not get the chance.

"I can't see public financing, with taxpayers' dollars, being something that is going to move very far in the session," Blandford said.

MSU Wind Ensemble to salute band leader John Philip Sousa

John Philip Sousa

A Program of toe-tapping, soul-stirring turns in the tradition of "The March King," John Philip Sousa, will raise the rafters in Murray State University's Lovett Auditorium on Friday evening, Feb. 23.

Presented by the MSU Wind Ensemble, the concert is scheduled at 8 p.m. Tickets are $4 for adults and $2 for students.

In addition to Sousa's "Pride of the Wolverines" and "Hands Across the Sea" the program will include "Raz-zazza Mazzazza" by Arthur Pryor, "The Bride of the Waves" by Herbert L. Clarke and "Carnival of Venice" by Del Staigers.

Born in Washington, D.C., on Nov. 6, 1854, Sousa's association with bands began at the age of 13 when he joined the United States Marine Band. Discharged in 1875, he answered a second call to the Marines in 1880 as director of music.

He toured with the 49-member Marines Band until 1892 when David Blakely, a wealthy printer, offered to finance a new civilian band for Sousa. The first concert by Sousa's Band was on Sept. 26 that year.

The band was a success, both at home and abroad: between 1900 and 1905 it toured Europe four times and made a 13-month world tour in 1910-11.

Although 62 years old when the U.S. entered World War I in 1917, Sousa offered his services and was appointed to organize bands at the Great Lakes Naval Training Center.

On March 5, 1932, Sousa was in Reading, Pa., for a guest appearance with the Ringgold Band. Following a rehearsal and dinner in his honor, he suffered a fatal heart attack. Appropriately, "Stars and Stripes Forever" was the last piece he had rehearsed that afternoon.

Ticket information for the concert may be obtained by calling the MSU Department of Music, (502)762-6339.

Mayfield model Beth Ann Clark to grace cover of March's Swimwear Illustrated

By JULIE AGNEW

The Mayfield Messenger

MAYFIELD, Ky. — The face and figure of Mayfield's best-known working model, Beth Ann Clark, grace the cover of the March issue of Swimwear Illustrated.

The appearance was previewed on the syndicated television series "Entertainment Tonight" on Jan. 29. Clark also models bathing suits in Inside Sports this month.

The daughter of Morris and Joann Clark of Mayfield, Beth Ann was selected for the cover in international competition with 61 other women.

In addition to the cover photo, she is featured in a six-page layout in the front of the magazine. Other prizes included a private tour of Burbank Studios, a diamond cluster ring, a full-length fur coat, a seven-day Caribbean vacation and even a speaking role in a movie.

Ms. Clark said she didn't know what the movie would be about or what exactly she would be saying in it, but that she would be checking on it this summertime.

Paducah photographer Todd Ferren took the pictures for Swimwear Illustrated on a three-day shoot all over the state of Florida last November. Ms. Clark said, "We really had to keep traveling because of bad weather."

Ferren works regularly with the magazine on a free-lance basis, and had taken other photos of Ms. Clark in the Bahamas for the June 1989 issue.

"Beth Ann is a true professional in the fact that she is very versatile in her look," Ferren explained. Her usual all-American wholesome appeal was changed to fit the magazine's sexier, more New Wave image, he said.

Ms. Clark estimated that 60 percent of her income in 1989 came from modeling, "but it was a good year," she explained. She was selected from five other finalists to be the official Miss St. Patrick's Day for Guinness Stout, an Irish brewer. The contest netted her about $40,000 in cash and prizes.

In the article accompanying her Swimwear Illustrated photos, Ms.

Clark admits that she would like to model full time. The former Miss Kentucky-USA also works as Kentucky's sales representative for a cheerleader supply company headquartered in Dallas, Texas. She is a graduate of Mayfield High School as well as the University of Kentucky's communications program.

A trip to Ireland was included in the Guinness prize package, but this St. Patrick's Day Ms. Clark will be vacationing in Florida with her new husband, former UK basketball standout Brett Bearup.

Despite the fact that Ms. Clark spends a lot of time on beaches and in bathing suits, some of the photos in the Swimwear Illustrated layout are more risqué than she had anticipated.

"I'm used to the beaches, but when the magazine came out, I was a little embarrassed," she said.

She'll be back on the beach in April, this time in Jamaica, for another photo shoot. They also will be filming for a videotape for Ujena, the San Francisco swimwear manufacturer that produces Swimwear Illustrated.

Incidents keep law enforcement officials busy

By DAN LOUDY

Murray Ledger & Times Staff Writer

A report of shots being fired at houses, two raids and numerous other incidents kept the Calloway County Sheriff's Department busy over the weekend.

At approximately 8:15 p.m. Sunday, several calls were made to the sheriff's office, each call concerning someone allegedly shooting at their residence from a vehicle. The calls originated from the New Concord-New Providence area. All four calls indicated that a vehicle drove by and shots were fired at their homes.

The report stated a member of the sheriff's department saw a vehicle answering the description of the one involved traveling west on Shoemaker Road of Hwy 893. He followed the vehicle over to U.S. 641 South, where the vehicle headed north toward Murray. At that time, another member of the sheriff's department arrived from Murray and the two boxed the vehicle in.

William Ross Dunn, 18, Great Lakes, Ill., and a juvenile were each charged with four counts of wanton endangerment and three counts of criminal mischief. The report stated that more charges may be pending. Law enforcement officials reportedly removed firearms from the vehicle. Dunn was taken to the Calloway County Jail and the juvenile was taken to the detention center in Paducah.

In other reports, law enforcement officials obtained a warrant Sunday and raided the residence of Harold (Sunny) Tucker in the Penny area. Officials said 55 cans of beer and assorted liquors were taken in the raid.

On Saturday, members of the sheriff's department entered the residence of Raymond Darnell in the Shiloh community. Law enforcement officials confiscated 240 cans of beer in the raid. Both Tucker and Darnell were arrested and Tucker remains lodged in the Calloway County Jail.

At 6 p.m. Sunday, Bret Welch, 22, Route 3, Murray, was stopped on Ky. 121 preparing to make a left turn onto Butterworth Road when Michael Black, 25, of Mayfield, apparently failed to see the Welch vehicle and struck him in the rear.

Welch was not reported injured. Black had to be removed from his vehicle by the Jaws of Life. He was treated and released from Murray-Calloway County Hospital. The report stated neither driver was wearing a seat belt.

On Saturday, Lloyd Ellis, 35, 407 N. 4th St. Murray, was traveling north on U.S. 641 at 11:50 p.m., approximately two miles south of Murray when Deputy Timmy Manning got behind the Ellis vehicle.

The report stated the Ellis vehicle allegedly crossed the center line three times and that Ellis later failed three field tests administered by Manning and Alvin Parham of the Murray Police Department. Ellis was arrested and lodged in the Calloway County Jail.

Sometime between 12:30 p.m. Saturday and 8 a.m. today, someone took items valued at approximately $9,000 from J.D. Eq. Center on U.S. 641 South. Items taken included a $7,000 lawn mower, a $1,800 trailer and an undetermined number of log chains and boomers.

Richardson considering entering Lt. Gov. race

FRANKFORT, Ky. (AP) — Rep. Bobby Richardson said he is considering a run for lieutenant governor — an office he once tried to abolish on the grounds that is cost $1 million a year and served no purpose except as a steppingstone to governor.

Richardson, 45, a former speaker of the Kentucky House who is not seeking re-election this year, said he may run "because if you're elected lieutenant governor, you obviously aim to run for governor."

"Timing is the most important factor in a successful political race, and it appears to me that the timing is right," he said. "One of the things is the geographic distribution of the potential candidates."

Richardson, of Glasgow, would run for governor in 1995 if he seeks the lieutenant governor's job next year.

He has already picked up the qualified support of House Speaker Don Blandford, who defeated him in the House Democratic Caucus vote for speaker five years ago.

Blandford and Richardson said it's again time that a governor came from the General Assembly, which has not produced one since 1974, when former speaker Julian Carroll became chief executive.

"I think it is important that a governor have governmental experience," said Richardson, who has been in the House since 1972 and was speaker from 1982-84. He is the only House member not seeking re-election this year.

Universal garbage pickup bill to meet with resistance in Frankfort

By BRUCE SCHREINER
Associated Press Writer

FRANKFORT, Ky. — Supporters of legislation to make sure garbage is dumped in landfills instead of tossed in streams or hollows may have to fight just to keep the proposal from being thrown onto the trash heap.

Rep. Mark Brown said the proposal by Gov. Wallace Wilkinson's administration to require universal garbage collection will be introduced this week in the House, where its chances of passage are "questionable at best."

Concerns about the proposal's costs, plus the distaste Kentuckians usually have for mandated programs, may lead to efforts to junk the proposal, said Brown, a Brandenburg Democrat who will be House floor manager of the bill.

"When you start telling people out in the state that you will do this, they have a problem," he said. "If it costs more to get your garbage picked up than to get your cable TV hooked up, you're going to see an uprising."

The measure, if enacted, would require every county by 1992 to provide residents a means of disposing of their solid waste.

Counties could meet the requirement either by providing door-to-door collection or establishing manned stations where people could dispose of their garbage, Brown said.

One lawmaker who may want to bury the proposal is Sen. Greg Higdon, chairman of the Senate Agriculture and Natural Resources Committee.

Higdon, D-Fancy Farm, said he had no objection to county-planned efforts to ensure that garbage is placed in approved landfills, but he predicted strong opposition to a state-mandated approach.

U.S. SENATOR FOR KENTUCKY Mitch McConnell

CRACKING DOWN ON MONEY LAUNDERING

As the Senior Republican member on the Senate Subcommittee on Narcotics, Terrorism and International Operations, my highest priority has been fighting the war on drugs. Two years ago, I worked with Senator John Kerry (D-MA) to pass the International Money Laundering Control Act that gave our law-enforcement community the tools they needed to trace and seize money drug cartels collect from their illegal operations. The Justice Department has praised this legislation because it increases their ability to investigate illegal money laundering activities.

However, a report I released on February 8th details measures that must be taken in order to bring the full force of this legislation to bear on the problem of money laundering.

Because drug traffickers deal exclusively in cash, the ability to turn their illegal profits into financial assets which appear to have legitimate origins is a key chokepoint in the drug trade. According to our best estimates, a staggering $100 billion in U.S. funds are smuggled overseas and laundered through the international banking community each year.

The report I issued, looks at several different areas where increased attention is necessary to turn up the heat on the drug cartels:

- The Treasury and Justice departments must increase their cooperation with the banking community to reach an understanding of each others, requirements and abilities;
- The federal government needs to increase the amount of resources that are devoted to monitoring cash record transfers (CRTs). These records are required to be filed with the Treasury Department whenever a transaction over $10,000 in cash takes place;
- Banks should "know their customer" so they have a better idea where depositors, funds are coming from. For example, bankers uncovered a money-laundering operation when a small pizza shop was found to have a multi-million dollar bank account; and
- President Bush should hold a banking summit to solicit top-down support from international bankers to crack-down on money laundering activity.

The report also points out the increasing sophistication and creativity on the part of the cartel in laundering narco-dollars.

Non-financial and unregulated financial institutions such as check-cashing stores and currency transmitters are playing an expanding role in sending illegal drug profits overseas as part of the "wash cycle". Federal regulations of these money houses must be devised to insure transactions are properly recorded so agents can follow a paper trail in the event of a laundering investigation.

Cutting off the flow of narco-dollars to overseas banks is an extremely effective tactic in waging war on the drug lords. Over the next several months I will be working with my colleagues in tightening the noose on money-laundering operations and denying drug kingpins of their ill-gotten gains.

Today In History

Today is Monday, Feb. 19, the 50th day of 1990. There are 315 days left in the year. This is Presidents Day.

Today's highlight in history:

On Feb. 19, 1803, Congress voted to accept Ohio's borders and constitution. (However, Congress did not get around to formally ratifying Ohio statehood until 1953.)

On this date:

In 1473, the astronomer Copernicus was born in Torun, Poland.
In 1807, former Vice President Aaron Burr was arrested in Alabama. (He was subsequently tried for treason and acquitted.)
In 1846, the Texas state government was formally installed in Austin.
In 1878, Thomas Edison received a patent for his phonograph.
In 1881, Kansas became the first state to prohibit all alcoholic beverages.

In 1942, President Franklin D. Roosevelt signed an executive order making possible the wartime internment of Japanese-Americans.

In 1945, during World War II, U.S. Marines landed on the Japanese-held island of Iwo Jima in the Western Pacific.

In 1963, the Soviet Union informed President Kennedy that it would withdraw "several thousand" of an estimated 17,000 Soviet troops in Cuba.

In 1983, 13 people were found shot to death at a gambling club in Seattle's Chinatown district. (Two Chinese immigrants were later convicted of the killings.)

In 1988, a group calling itself the "Organization of the Oppressed on Earth" claimed responsibility for the kidnapping of U.S. Marine Lt. Col. William R. Higgins in Lebanon.

Ten years ago: Iran's Ayatollah Khomeini turned over supreme command of the country's armed forces to the new president, Abolhassan Bani-Sadr. Speed skater Eric Heiden won the third of his five gold medals at the Winter Olympic Games in Lake Placid, N.Y.

Five years ago: 148 people were killed when an Iberia Air Lines Boeing 727 crashed in Spain while flying from Madrid to Bilbao.

One year ago: Iran's Ayatollah Khomeini rejected the apology of "Satanic Verses" author Salman Rushdie, exhorting Moslems around the world to "send him to hell" for committing blasphemy.

Today's birthdays: Former jockey Eddie Arcaro is 74. Singer Smokey Robinson is 50. Britain's Prince Andrew is 30. Tennis player Hana Mandlikova is 28. Actress Justine Bateman is 24.

Thought for today: "There are two ways to slice easily through life; to believe everything or to doubt everything. Both ways save us from thinking." — Alfred Korzybski, Polish-American linguist (1879-1950).

Twenty million dollars hardly worth it for Ivana

the babe is getting all that money, she ought to be doing backflips instead of saying she's going to sue him for more."

And what is the big picture? "For starters, this Trump is supposed to be worth at least $1.7 billion, maybe more. You know how much money that is?"

Lots. "It's more than that. I figured it out. I'd have to work for 66,666 years to earn $1.7 billion."

With mandatory retirement, you'd never make it.

"Right. So I took my calculator and I figured out what percentage of his bundle this Trump is giving his wife. With the big house and everything, it barely comes to 1.5 percent. He probably makes that much in interest in two or three months, the cheapo. So what do you think a judge would say if a guy walked into Divorce Court and said: 'Your honor, I'm worth $200,000. So I figure that I'll give my wife here $3,000 and we'll call it quits.'"

I think the judge might tap him on the head with his gavel.

"Sure. But here's Trump running around with different dolls and now he's trying to stiff his old lady with a measly 1.5 percent."

Ah, but you overlook the fact that she entered into a prenuptial agreement -- a contract that established the sum she would receive.

"I know that. But if he was any kind of a guy, he wouldn't hold her to it. Just because he's a rat don't mean that he can't be a fair rat. What about all those golden parachutes big companies give executives when they get the boot?"

Well, what about them? "Some of those guys get millions. But did any of the executives ever go through nine months of labor like Trump's wife did three times? Did any of them get stretch marks from anything except eating big lunches on their expense accounts?"

You have a point.

"Sure. There she was waddling around in a maternity dress, with water on her ankles and all that stuff, while he was downtown getting some steam and a massage at his private gym. And don't forget, she just didn't sit around the house looking at People Magazine. She was at his big casino in Atlantic City. From what I read, she was running the joint, watching the bottom line, making sure the dealers weren't pocketing chips, and giving a big smile to the high rollers. She kind of reminds me of my Aunt Stella."

Who? "My Aunt Stella. When my little Uncle Chester was a neighborhood bookie, and a guy didn't pay, Aunt Stella used to go see the guy and threaten to stick both her thumbs in his eyeballs. She had big thumbs so they always paid. You can bet that Uncle Chester wouldn't have tried to dump Aunt Stella with only 1.5 percent. Not if Chester didn't want to wear two eye patches the rest of his life. But to get back to the Trumps, you can tell she was devoted to the guy and was trying to please him. She even had her mug hoisted to look young."

Her what? "Her mug hoisted. You know, one of those Joan Rivers jobs."

You mean cosmetic surgery? "Yeah. And that can't feel good. The doc has to stick needles in your head and grab your skin and yank on it like a pair of tight stockings. I almost pass out when the dentist cleans my teeth. But Trump's wife goes through that so that when they go to a party she don't look like a dog and embarrass him. Just having a doc stick needles in her head ought to be worth 1.5 percent."

Well, these profound questions will all be resolved in court, as well as in the National Enquirer. And I commend you for your enlightened views.

"Thank you. And I got one piece of advice for Trump's girlfriends."

What is that? "If he marries one of them, and the preacher says, 'Do you take this man to be your lawful wedded husband,' she ought to say, 'Yeah, and I want at least 20 percent.'"

In our current get-rich-quick era (hardly the first in the history of the United States, something few newspaper columnists have bothered to note), it might be well to remind ourselves of these words from the folk-hero comedian of another era—Will Rogers. "I would rather be the man who bought the Brooklyn Bridge than the man who sold it."

The right way to pick a university president

BY FRAN ELLERS

The writer is chief of the Courier-Journal Western Kentucky Bureau in Paducah.

MURRAY, Ky. — Only time will tell whether the Murray State board of regents picked the right person to lead the university into the next decade.

But by picking that person the right way, the board has shown what the maturing university has learned from two controversial presidencies in the 1980s: Murray State can lead itself.

The board announced last week that Ronald Kurth, president of the Naval War College, will succeed Kala Stroup in mid-July.

A year ago, it would have been hard to imagine that Murray State's disjointed, inexperienced board would have had the confidence to make such a bold choice.

When the board voted 8-2 not to renew Stroup's contract last May, only two of the regents had been on the board more than two years, and the various members' individual motives for replacing the president were unclear, even to each other.

Because Gov. Wallace Wilkinson recently had named half of the regents and had a friend who wanted the presidency, one assumption was that petty politics had ruled the day, as it has so many times in Kentucky's educational system.

And because several of the regents lived close to Murray, there also was the assumption that they wouldn't have enough distance to see the big picture, but would focus instead on popular local causes — like a new basketball arena — and a local president who could promote them.

But then a curious thing happened. Gradually, but perceptibly, the board began to come together. The regents negotiated a face-saving departure for Stroup. They crafted an open search for her replacement, involving all university constituencies. And they began addressing the academic side's most vocal and costly complaint, low salaries.

Finally, they passed over presidential candidates who had strong ties to the governor and the community to choose, of all people, an international diplomat with an intellectual bent who has negotiated with the Soviets.

And to beat all, the catalyst was a Wilkinson appointee who lives 20 miles from Murray State — Regents Chairman Kerry Harvey.

Harvey, who is beginning his second term as county attorney in neighboring Marshall County, is young — 32 — and smart — a first-generation Murray graduate who was first in his law school class at the University of Kentucky and practiced with Brown Todd and Heyburn in Louisville before becoming a partner at a hometown law office in Benton. Harvey wasn't a Wilkinson activist but supported his candidacy and, like the Governor and many Western Kentucky Democrats, is politically conservative.

But Harvey has been a liberal leader, listening carefully to his colleagues on the board and reasoning through his decisions, an approach that has caught on. In private as well as public, regents say, Harvey has encouraged each board member to express his opinion. And, over time, regents ranging from a scholarly Baptist minister to an unabashed athletics booster have begun to shape each other's thinking. There are still philosophical divisions on the board — but the regents also have found that they often agree.

"More than once I went into a meeting with a

Dear Abby

By Abigail Van Buren

'Happy Birthday, Gorby!' Is Greeting for Soviet Leader

DEAR ABBY: Mikhail Gorbachev will be 59 years old on March 2, 1990. I am in the process of making a birthday card for him that will measure 2 1/2 feet high by 59 feet long. It will bear the signatures of some 2,000 well-wishers, mostly from San Diego.

Perhaps some of your readers would like to send him a birthday card, too — not as large as the one I'm sending, but just a regular-size card, or even a postcard, to let him know that we Americans and Canadians think he's doing one terrific job of trying to turn things around in Eastern Europe. I think the least we can do is wish him well on his 59th birthday. What do you think, Abby?

His address is: Mikhail S. Gorbachev, President of the Soviet of the U.S.S.R., The Kremlin, Moscow, U.S.S.R.

Thank you very much, Abby.
DAVID C. GRAHAM,
SAN DIEGO

DEAR DAVID: I think it's a great idea! Your birthday card is sure to make a big impression, and if thousands of others send birthday greetings, it will make an even bigger impression! I'm sending "Gorby" my card today.

DEAR ABBY: My husband is a waiter in a five-star restaurant in a large city. Last evening a party came in just as the restaurant was closing. They were seated, and served graciously by my husband. Five courses and two hours later, when the host was given his check, he looked at my husband and said, "I hope you don't mind staying around a little while longer — this is such a nice place." Then he proceeded to sit there for another hour.

Of course, my husband couldn't answer honestly — so I will. My husband had been there since 4 p.m. He gave you first-class service for which you gave him a 12 percent tip, when it should have been 20 percent. My husband is a student who has early morning classes.

Don't you realize that when you come into a place of business five minutes before closing time, the person serving you has been there for many hours — so you shouldn't stay any longer than is absolutely necessary?

My husband also thinks the restaurant is a lovely place — but so is his home. Too bad you don't feel the same way about yours.

TONY'S WIFE,
ANYWHERE, USA

DEAR WIFE: I hear you, and I hope millions of others will too. People who show the greatest consideration for waiters, waitresses and salesclerks are those whose feet have walked 100 miles in your husband's well-worn shoes.

People are eating them up! To order your copy of Abby's favorite recipes, send a long, business-size, self-addressed envelope, plus check or money order for $3.95 ($4.50 in Canada) to: Dear Abby, Cookbooklet, P.O. Box 447, Mount Morris, Ill. 61054. (Postage is included.)

Marcia Cunningham Angle uses device to catch caller

By JO BURKEEN
Murray Ledger & Times Staff Writer

Even though she did not desire to be interviewed on television or be featured in newspaper articles in Nashville, Tenn., a former Calloway County High School and Murray State University graduate agreed to cooperate after the request was made by law officials of the city.

In a telephone call to the Murray Ledger & Times on Friday, Marcia Cunningham Angle said she and her husband, Brian Angle, had been harassed by more than 300 obscene telephone calls in the past 18 months.

The Angles purchased a new South Central Bell device, available in the Middle Tennessee area since Feb. 1, on Feb. 7 in order to detect her harasser.

The device allows the person receiving the call to see the phone number of the caller on a small screen, along with the time and date of the call.

On Thursday Cameron Walker, 27, was arrested on two counts of harassment and released on $1,000 bond, according to story in Nashville newspapers. Sex Abuse Detective Lucy DiBella said "several calls were traced to Walker's business number on Feb. 12 and 13, when the couple were away from home and the caller left his message on their answering machine."

The Nashville law officials asked Mrs. Angle to be interviewed by Channel 2 TV stations and she appeared on Friday at 5 p.m. news-cast. Stories appeared in both the Nashville Banner and Nashville Tennessean and also went out on the Associated Press News Wire.

Law officials made the request to publicize the new device available to detect the harassment of telephone calls. The device is not available in Kentucky.

Mrs. Angle is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Dan Cunningham of Rt. 1, Almo.

Tuesday, Feb. 20

Family YMCA will have Tots in Motion at 4:30 p.m. at Carter Elementary School and Aerobics at 6:45 p.m. at Robertson Elementary School. For information call 759-YMCA.

Collegiate shooting

MURRAY — Murray State's Deena Wigger set a collegiate and women's air rifle record over the weekend at the MSU shooting gallery at Stewart Stadium, scoring 397 out of a possible 400 to lead the MSU "Gold" team to a second-place finish in the Collegiate Sectionals. Wigger also accumulated an 1170 score in smallbore to finish second while Gold teammate Lance Goldhahn was sixth in smallbore individual standings.

• Wigger and Goldhahn were joined on the Gold team by Spencer Coe, Anne Tully, Don Martin and Karen Harbaugh. The match was won by Tennessee Tech University; Murray State will compete next weekend at the University of West Virginia in Morgantown in their final competition before the NCAA nationals in March.

Golf

LA JOLLA, Calif. — Dan Forsman needed only a final round par-72 for a two-shot victory Sunday in the Shearson Lehman Hutton Open played in blustery, showery weather on the South course at Torrey Pines. Forsman scored the third victory of his eight-year PGA Tour career with a 275 total, 13 under par. He won $162,000. Tommy Armour, who shared the lead after eight holes, finished second at 277 with a final round of 72. Tom Byrum was third at 278.

NAPLES, Fla. — Lee Trevino held off a late challenge by Bruce Crampton on Sunday to win the Aetna Challenge by one shot, his second senior tour victory. Trevino, who won $60,000, had a final-round 67 for a 16-under-par 200 over three rounds at the 6,719-yard, par-72 course at The Club at Pelican Bay. Crampton finished with a 66 and total of 201 and won $35,000.

Auto racing

DAYTONA BEACH, Fla. — Dale Earnhardt blew a tire with one mile remaining Sunday in the Daytona 500, giving unheralded Derrike Cope the biggest upset in stock car racing history. Earnhardt led at times by nearly 30 seconds and could have cruised to his first Daytona victory except for a caution flag with nine laps remaining in the $2 million race at Daytona International Speedway. Geoff Bodine spun in turn two on lap 192 of the 200-lap event, bringing out the yellow flag and sending all of the leaders, except Cope and Bobby Hill Jr., to the pits for tires and gas.

Cope and Hill were ahead of Earnhardt when the green flag waved for the start of lap 196, but the three-time Winston Cup champion quickly took the lead, and seemingly the race, in the third turn on the high-banked 2.5-mile oval. As the leaders drove into the third turn on the final lap, Earnhardt's black racer suddenly darted to the top of the banking, with Cope and the rest moving past. Cope, driving a Lumina, hung on to beat Terry Labonte to the checkered flag by 1 1/2 car lengths and win $188,150. Bill Elliott was third, Ricky Rudd fourth and Earnhardt fifth.

Earnhardt, who steered clear of the biggest (23-cars) crash in 30 years at Daytona International Speedway, outdueled Harry Gant and Greg Sacks to win Saturday's Goody's 300. Earnhardt went the final 50 laps of the 120-lap Busch Grand National stock car event at Daytona International Speedway without stopping for gas and drove his Chevrolet Lumina across the finish line 0.17 seconds ahead of Gant's Buick.

Baseball

TAMPA, Fla. — Chuck O'Connor, management's chief negotiator in the baseball talks, said Sunday he had trouble convincing some owners to drop their revenue sharing and pay-for-performance proposals. Commissioner Fay Vincent last week substituted the original proposals with a nine-point plan that calls for a 75 percent cap on salary increases in arbitration. O'Connor and players association head Donald Fehr spoke Sunday during a forum on baseball collective bargaining at a meeting of the Associated Press Sports Editors. Fehr was in Tampa and O'Connor participated from New York by telephone. As the lockout enters its fifth day, negotiations resume in New York with two sessions on Monday. The morning session is scheduled to be devoted to non-economic issues and the afternoon meeting to the central areas of contention.

BELLEFONTAINE, Ohio — Larry Cox, the Chicago Cubs' bullpen coach for the past two seasons, died unexpectedly Saturday while playing racquetball. He was 42. Cox, a native of nearby Lima, spent 17 years as a player in the minor and major leagues and five years as a manager in the Cubs' organization.

Boxing

COLUMBUS, Ohio — James "Buster" Douglas will defend his heavyweight championship against Evander Holyfield this fall, forcing Mike Tyson to wait a year for a rematch with the man who took his title, Douglas' manager said Sunday. Holyfield, the top-ranked challenger, and Douglas will fight in September under an agreement manager John Johnson said he reached on Saturday with Holyfield's promoter, Dan Duva. Duva, however, said he advised Johnson to hold the fight earlier in order to generate the best payday, and added that no deal has been finalized.

General

Joe Montana, who had the best season of any quarterback in NFL history in leading the San Francisco 49ers to their fourth Super Bowl victory, has been named The Associated Press' male athlete of the year for 1989. Montana began the year by capping a 92-yard drive with a 10-yard touchdown pass to John Taylor with 34 seconds left to beat Cincinnati for the 49ers' third Super Bowl. He compiled the best-ever quarterback rating during the 1989 season, throwing for 26 touchdowns and only eight interceptions in leading San Francisco to a 14-2 record. Although it didn't count in the balloting because it occurred in 1990, he threw five TD passes in the 55-10 Super Bowl win over Denver.

• Montana beat out Bo Jackson, who plays both baseball and football. He had 36 first-place votes in the national balloting by sports writers and editors and 253 points. Jackson received 33 first-place votes and 228 points.

Tennis

TORONTO — Top-seeded Ivan Lendl beat sixth-seeded Tim Mayotte 6-3, 6-0 in the final of the SkyDome World tournament Sunday. It was Lendl's 17th victory in 17 matches against Mayotte.

CHICAGO — Martina Navratilova captured her 10th Virginia Slims of Chicago singles title with a 6-3, 6-2 victory over Manuela Maleeva on Sunday.

Streaking Racers complete three-peat

Murray's Greg Coble holds the net high in celebration after the Racers clinched a share of their third-straight OVC title with a 71-63 win over Tennessee Tech on Saturday. Coble's all-around play against Tech was a big factor in Murray State's 14th straight win.

The improbable became reality Saturday afternoon in Racer Arena. The Murray State Racers, picked fifth in the conference pre-season poll, finished off their last foe for the OVC crown, with a 71-63 victory over Tennessee Tech, clinching at least a share of a third-straight OVC title, and wrapping up the host role for the OVC Tournament.

The Racers upped the nation's longest winning streak to 14 games in improving to 9-0 in the conference. They will try to improve on the streak, and win the OVC crown outright when they host Middle Tennessee tonight at 8 p.m.

All this for a program that was supposedly in a rebuilding season, and appeared to be mired on a muddy track heading to the clubhouse turn, tripping to a 1-5 mark before turning it all around.

"We couldn't be prouder of a group of guys," Racer coach Steve Newton said. "They've exemplified a team effort and what it takes to win. When you talk about team, you're talking about the 10 guys we've had this year."

And while the skeptics were common, Newton said the Racers never lost track of the top spot.

"They have always believed," Newton said. "They never quit playing for the OVC title. There's been a lot of improvement as a team, and we've had guys who have played their roles for us."

The final step in Murray's 10th conference crown did not come easy, as the Racers fought off the final challenger, handing Tech their third conference loss. TTU fell to 17-8 overall and 7-3 in the OVC.

The ninth conference win came much like the previous eight, with Racer balance, boardwork and defense creating havoc for Tech.

"I thought we had a good effort," Tech coach Frank Harrell said. "But we didn't play well. You have to give Murray credit. They dominated us in every way."

Lady Racer upset falls short in 78-70 loss

By DAVID RAMEY

Ledger & Times Asst. Sports Editor

The Murray State Lady Racers almost pulled off the upset, but had to watch Tennessee Tech clinch the OVC title with a 78-70 win Saturday in Racer Arena.

MSU closed within two of the 20th-ranked Golden Eaglettes in the final seconds, but couldn't overcome 33 points from Angela Moorehead as Tech improved to 19-3 overall and 10-0 in the OVC.

The Lady Racers fell to 14-10 overall and 6-3 in the conference. The Tech victory means that the OVC women's tournament will be at the Elben Center in Cookeville on March 5-6.

Lady Racer coach Larry Wall spent most of the week at home under the weather.

"I commend the coaching staff for their preparation," Wall said. "It couldn't have been handled any better."

"With a couple of key baskets here or there, we might have pulled it off," assistant coach Kelly Breazle said. "You have to give them credit, they hit the big ones when they had to."

The Lady Racers stayed close in the first half, but a 3-pointer by Mitzi Rice gave Tech a 10-point halftime lead. Behind a balanced effort, the Lady Racers tied it at 54, but Moorehead put the Golden Eaglettes back up by seven.

Two free throws by Julie Pinson with 24 seconds left made it 72-70, but Moorehead hit four free throws in the final 15 seconds, and Rice capped the victory with a driving score.

Michelle Wenning led four Lady Racers in double figures with 17 points, and also pulled down 17 boards. Tawnya Pierce had 15, while Melissa Huffman and Karen Johnson pitched in 14 each.

"We're playing for position now," Wall said. "We want to finish up the year on a good note, and go into the tournament on a roll."

Tide sinks UK streak

TUSCALOOSA, Ala. (AP) — Alabama's record-setting win over Kentucky left the Crimson Tide one game behind Georgia and Louisiana State in the Southeastern Conference, a showing that pleased coach Wimp Sanderson.

"I am tickled to death to still be hanging by a thread in the conference," Sanderson said following the 83-58 victory Saturday.

The 25-point margin was the biggest Tide win over the Wildcats since 1956, when Alabama beat Kentucky 101-77, and left the Tide at 9-5 in the SEC, behind the Bulldogs and LSU, both at 10-4.

Melvin Cheatum, with 18 points, led a balanced Alabama attack against a misfiring Kentucky team for the win, which Sanderson called "one of our better games."

Alabama (18-7) has the best defense against scoring in the conference, 62 points a game, and it showed against Kentucky (13-11, 9-6), as the Wildcats averaged only 34.6 percent from the field.

"It wasn't a very good night for us, but Alabama played very good defense," said Kentucky Coach Rick Pitino, whose Wildcats were led Deron Feldhaus, with 18 points.

Lady Lakers fall at Todd Central

Staff Report

Ledger & Times Sports

After a solid first half, the Calloway County Lady Lakers were chased out of the Fourth Region Saturday night.

Calloway dropped a 58-39 decision at Todd County Central Saturday night.

"We played a pretty good first half," Lady Laker coach Rose Elder said. "But they put a chaser on Cynthia (Garland) and their press really bothered us in the second half. We just ran out of steam, and they are a very good basketball team."

Garland, who had tossed in 18 points in the first half, was held without a field goal in the second half, but still led the Lady Lakers with 20 points.

Calloway had trailed by four at halftime, with the Lady Rebels taking a 30-26 lead. TCC upped their lead to nine entering the fourth quarter, and put the contest away in the final period.

"We just had too many turnovers," Elder said. "We had eight in the first half, which is not good, but we doubled that in the second half. We turned it over 16 times in the second half."

The Lady Lakers also had trouble getting the ball to go in the basket. Calloway hit just 34 percent of their field goal attempts, and connected on four of 10 free throws.

"We didn't shoot the ball well, and I think we got a little intimidated," Elder said.

Todd County Central didn't shoot well from outside either, but the Lady Rebels had 64 attempts, and were also 15 of 21 from the free throw line.

Calloway, now 7-12 overall, returns home to host Fulton County tonight, travels to Graves County on Thursday, and closes the regular season Friday night at Jeffery Gym when they host Hickman County.

8th grade Lady Lakers win title

Staff Report

Murray Ledger & Times Sports

The Calloway County Middle School Lady Lakers have won seven of the last ten Fourth District 8th-grade tournaments — but none have been any closer than Friday night's 41-40 decision over South Marshall in the finals played at Benton Middle School.

Calloway held the lead throughout the game until the Lady Rebels, who upset tournament favorite Benton to reach the finals, tied the game with two minutes to go.

Vanessa Bucy then stepped up the rescue for the Lady Lakers, sinking three of four free throws in the final minute of play to push CCMS over the top.

Bucy's free throws supplied a 41-38 lead with 12 seconds left; South missed a 3-point shot that would have tied the game and scored on a putback at the buzzer for the final margin.

"Vanessa did a good job," said CCMS coach Pete O'Rourke, who has seen his Lady Lakers in the championship game for ten consecutive years. "But it was total team effort; the girls really did a good job this year." CCMS finished the year at 13-3, with one loss to South and two to Benton.

Valerie Shelton led the Lady Lakers with 15 points in the championship game, while seventh-grader Linda Stubblefield came off the bench to knock in ten points with eight rebounds. Jamie Pigg added six points and Bucy had five.

Calloway held a five point lead through most of the game but was hampered by foul trouble, O'Rourke noted. Bucy's 3-of-4 showing at the free throw line in the final minute pushed the Lady Lakers to 50% on the night, hitting seven of 14 while South canned 14 of 28 shots from the stripe.

PART I LADY TIGERS

It's now or never for Murray's 1,000-point girls

By DANIEL T. PARKER
Murray Ledger & Times Sports Editor

To commemorate their six-year on-court partnership and off-court friendship, Murray High Lady Tiger senior guards Ann Greenfield and Jennifer Parker would like to give each other a gift they know the other badly wants — a trip to the First Region tournament.

Parker, the Lady Tigers' all-time career leading scorer, and Greenfield, No. 2 on the list, have been recognized by many as the best guard duo in the region — but they've never been to the regional tournament.

"Very bad," Parker said when asked how she felt about the shutout. "I don't even know what it (participation in the regional) feels like, but that's what everybody talks about."

It's what she and Greenfield have talked about as well. Both girls have posted individual milestones this year by surpassing the 1,000-point mark — becoming only the second and third Lady Tigers to do so — but each seems ready to give up the individual honor if it would ensure a team trip to the regional.

"One thousand points just came," Greenfield said. "It wasn't one of my goals. The regional is something we've wanted since our freshman year — and, this being our senior year, we don't get another chance."

"It's getting to the crunch time," Parker said. "March madness..."

In previous years, March has been maddening for the Lady Tigers. In each year of the Parker-Greenfield partnership, Murray High has been seeded fourth in the Fourth District tournament and have faced nine-time defending regional champion Marshall County in the first year of the tournament.

Biff, bam, boom. First-round eliminations in each year, determinations to do better the next. In their sophomore and junior seasons, Murray needed to beat Mayfield in the final regular-season matchup of the year in order to tie for third place in the district. The Lady Tigers won the game they had to win each year...but lost the coin-flip immediately afterward to be shunted back into the fourth-seed position.

This year, Murray will not face Marshall County in the first round of the district tournament. The Lady Tigers finished second in the district race, giving them a first-round matchup with Mayfield to determine who goes into the district championship...and automatically earns a berth in the regional.

"Each year we get a little closer," Greenfield noted. "Now, we don't have to play Marshall in the first round...I think that we'll be there (the regional)."

She then nodded her head slowly. "We'll be there."

The two girls have "been there" for each other since teaming up in the seventh grade at Murray Middle School. The plot was ripe for jealousy, but friendship has blossomed instead.

"We're best friends off the court," Parker said, adding that she wasn't aware of either having hard feelings when the other did the scoring or grabbed the headlines. "I don't think so — I don't think she feels that way, either. As long as we win, that's what matters."

Greenfield agreed. "We have almost all our classes together, we go to ballgames together, play softball together in the summer. We've been friends forever, it seems like. There's no jealousy at all — that's what tears a team apart."

Each was willing to critique the other's game. "She's become a lot better ballhandler," Parker said of Greenfield. "Court awareness — she reads the court a lot better. If you're open, she's going to get the ball to you."

And Parker? "She's a great shooter," Greenfield enthused. "When she gets hot, you have to get the ball back to her. And she keeps her cool in the game...she's a smart player."

Combining the duo's talents have resulted in a backcourt buddy system that is a coach's dream, MHS head coach Jim Harrell said. Aware of how publicity can be turned against a team, Harrell declined to name the two as "the best" guard combo in the region. "I think that they're as good of a pair as I've seen in the region," Harrell said. "I'm not trying to brag about them, but they complement each other so well."

"We know how to win," Greenfield said. "We tell ourselves that we have to go out and do what it takes."

"I don't even have to look at her," Parker added. "I just know where she's going to be."

Both hope the other is going to be where they've never been before...on the court at Marshall County High School when the First Region Girls' Tournament begins on March 5.

Lady Tigers 'have another goal to take care of'

By DANIEL T. PARKER
Murray Ledger & Times Sports Editor

Saying his team is "confident, but not cocky," Murray High Lady Tiger coach Jim Harrell is looking forward to the first round of this year's Fourth District tournament.

Not that he sees Mayfield, Murray's first-round foe (Wednesday, Feb. 28 at Murray) as a pushover — the two teams have met twice this year and swapped four-point wins at the other's home court. But for the first time since 1983, the Lady Tigers won't be facing powerhouse Marshall County in the first round.

That means the Lady Tigers have a chance to enter the First Region tournament...for the first time since 1983. "We've got two goals we set before the year," Harrell said. "We've assured ourselves of a winning season (at 13-6 with two games left)...now we have another goal to take care of."

Both Murray and Mayfield are heading into the tournament with a full head of steam. Murray upset Ballard Memorial last Thursday night by a whopping 91-62 margin...while, at the same time, Mayfield was whipping Fulton County 100-40. "They had gone through a little slump over the previous three-four games," Harrell said. "Now it looks like they've bounced back."

The Mayfield-Murray contest will be a game of contrasting styles, with the Lady Tigers having the best guard duo in the region with seniors Jennifer Parker and Ann Greenfield, while Mayfield has a strong inside game, directed by Lori Beth McCullar and Susan England.

"We have to control McCullar," Harrell said. "You can't stop her completely, but just limit what she does against you."

"We have to play our game," he added. "Our game is a full-court game; we like to get out and run. We have people who are capable of doing that, and that's what we like to do."

"Now it's crunch time," Jennifer Parker said as post-season basketball tournament competition approaches. Crunch time means the return of "Crunch Month" to the sports section of the Murray Ledger & Times, with daily looks at our local high school and college teams' season highlights and post-season hopes. This week, we spend time with the high school teams, beginning with Murray High's Lady Tigers. Next up is the Tigers of Murray, to be followed by the Calloway County Lady Lakers (Wednesday) and the Lady Racers (Thursday). Murray State's Racers and Lady Racers will be featured next week.

We hope you like these looks at your favorite team(s) — but, more importantly, we hope you go out and support them when the tournaments begin.

Soil conservation videotape available to county farmers

A videotape featuring tips to help Calloway County farmers do much of the soil conservation work needed to keep them eligible for USDA program benefits is now available.

The eight-segment videotape, "Conservation On Your Own," shows farmers how to measure and manage crop residue, how to lay out contour lines and use field borders, how to lay out contour buffer strips, points to consider in contour stripcropping, how to use grass to control small gullies, and how to keep terraces working.

Each of the segments discusses points to consider before beginning, tools needed, how the practice works, and "how-to" details. The information is told to farmers from a farmer's perspective. It is intended to help farmers carry out basic soil conservation practices. All of the segments, none of which will be longer than 10 minutes, are packaged on one VHS tape. The tape was produced by the Soil Conservation Service in cooperation with the National Association of Conservation Districts.

The videotapes are available for loan from the Calloway County Conservation District and Soil Conservation Service's office located at the Bel Air Shopping Center.

"We hope farmers in this county will take advantage of the tapes and written materials to do as much of their own soil conservation as they can," says Albert Wilson, Chairman of the Calloway County Conservation District.

Farmers with highly erodible cropland who want to remain eligible for USDA commodity programs already have prepared conservation plans that outline how they will reduce soil erosion from that land.

The soil conservation practices included on the videotape have been chosen by many Calloway County farmers as ways to protect their highly erodible land. Farmers must complete the soil conservation practices outlined in their conservation plans by January 1, 1995, to stay eligible for USDA program benefits.

"The tapes include basic information for anyone interested in taking better care of the land, but they will be especially useful for farmers who want to stay eligible for USDA programs," Wilson says.

The tapes were produced, Wilson says, because many SCS offices do not have enough technical specialists to help all farmers complete their conservation work. More than 1500 farmers in Calloway County need to install conservation practices on more than 92,000 acres within the next five years. The tapes will help farmers do many of the simpler practices on their own.

The tape can be purchased for $7.50 from the National Association of Conservation Districts, 408 E. Main Street, P.O. Box 855, League City, Texas 77574-0855 telephone number 713-332-3402.

Young Farmer Association to hold annual convention

The Kentucky Young Farmer Association will hold its 32nd annual state convention on Feb. 23-24, at the Hyatt Regency Hotel in Lexington. The convention will be hosted by the Woodford County Young Farmer Chapter.

The convention will feature two days of breakfast, lunch, and dinner meetings, plus swine, beef, sheep, and dairy production awards; grain, alfalfa, and tobacco production awards; leadership awards; sponsor recognition activities and exhibits; demonstrations; and special events.

These Calloway County YFA members were recognized as the Purchase Regional Winners at the YFA Regional banquet on Feb. 13. Billy Dale Smith was the first place winner of the White Corn and the Burley Tobacco Production Contests. Steve Caraway won first place in Soybean Production in the Bottomland Division. Marty Caraway won first place in the Canola Production Contest. Mark Paschall will represent the Purchase Region in the YFA Rural Leadership Contest. These regional winners will be participating against other regional winners for the first place state award, to be presented at the state convention.

One of the convention's activities, a "Spokesperson for Agriculture Contest" will feature Young Farmer Association members from around the state speaking on five different issues that concern the modern farmer and consumer.

U.S. Representative Larry Hopkins will be the keynote speaker on Friday, Feb. 23. Kentucky's Outstanding Young Farmer Member of the Year will be named at the Association's banquet on Saturday the 24th.

The Kentucky Young Farmer Association (YFA) is a leadership development organization for those students enrolled in young farmer classes. Mike Burchett is serving as Vice-President for the Kentucky YFA this year. The Calloway County YFA meets at the Calloway County High School Agriculture Department with Johnnie Stockdale as advisor.

Cattle producers could see step up in long-term profits with lower production costs

Beef cattle producers who lower production costs by improving forage utilization, reproduction and genetics will see higher long-term profits, according to John Johns, a University of Kentucky Extension livestock specialist.

"Set goals to improve forage utilization, reproduction and genetics as part of a long-term strategy to lower production costs," Johns said. "Each goal must be part of a comprehensive management system. It is necessary to work on them together to capture benefits of lower production costs."

Forage utilization is the weakest area for many Kentucky beef cattle producers, according to Johns.

"The average operator uses only 30 to 40 percent of the grass he raises," Johns said. "By using available forage resources more efficiently, operators can raise more cattle without major capital outlays."

To improve forage utilization, Johns said, farmers should provide adequate amounts of forage at all times and be sure quality is sufficient to meet animal nutritional needs.

"With Kentucky 31 fescue as the predominate pasture grass, forage utilization can be improved by renovating with legumes and using intensive, rotational grazing," he added.

"Controlled grazing is the primary method to improve forage utilization. It will increase production per acre by either improving animal performance or allowing more head to be carried on the same area. The more intense the rotation, the better the forage utilization."

As a measure of reproductive efficiency, Johns said, producers should set a goal of a 90 percent calf crop weaned per cow exposed to the bull. To achieve this goal, it is necessary to have a good health management program to control disease and a quality feeding program to provide adequate nutrition.

Forage testing on stored feeds must be a part of a quality feeding program, Johns added. Forage test results tell producers about nutrient content, so the forage can be matched to the animals' nutritional needs.

While improving genetic efficiency is a long-term effort, it is necessary to complement improved forage utilization and reproductive efficiency, Johns said.

1990 tobacco production topic of Hazel meeting

Tobacco production will be the topic at the Hazel Adult Farmer Class on Tuesday, Feb. 20, at 7 p.m.

Area farmers are invited to hear a discussion on "Tobacco Production for 1990." Varieties, herbicides, fertilization and production techniques will be discussed.

The meeting will be at the Dees Bank meeting room. All interested farmers are encouraged to attend.

Fire-cured tobacco sales ending with slight drop

Fire-cured tobacco sales in Murray dropped off slightly in the fifth week of sales last week with a decrease of nearly $7 per hundred pounds in the average.

Will Ed Clark, general manager of the grower's association, said the decrease was because the fire-cured sales are almost complete.

"We're on the tail end of sales right now," Clark said. "We're getting down to the end. I don't figure we have more than 600,000-700,000 pounds left in Murray and Mayfield combined."

According to records at the Western Dark Fired Tobacco

Grower's Association for the week ending Feb. 16, average total sales dropped from $186.50 to $179.58 per hundred pounds and the number of pounds decreased by more than 62,000.

Mayfield fire-cured average sales dropped nearly $5 per hundred and the number of pounds also dropped by more than 61,000.

The drop in sales did not affect the season totals too much. The average dropped from $188.86 to $186.88 per hundred with total sales reaching 2,111,932 pounds.

Clark said dates for remaining sales and the closing date will be announced soon.

Newspapers make good animal bed

Remember the long, hot summer of 1988? The fields were brown, crops didn't grow and not only hay but also straw got scarce and expensive.

Animal farmers in Wisconsin turned to their newspapers for help — not in advertising for straw for bedding, but in shredding the newspaper and using it for bedding and found themselves not only paying less for bedding but with a superior product.

Actually, the technology began to be developed several years ago when farmers in Wisconsin and Minnesota found that straw and wood chips to be used for bedding were becoming both costly and scarce. After a few years of research, farmers there indicated that shredded newspaper had several distinct advantages over straw and other bedding material.

Most obvious, perhaps, is price. In addition to being more durable than straw, prices per 50-70 pound bale run from $1.50 to $3, or $40 to $60 per ton. Straw costs as much as $100 per ton at times and is subject to scarcity, while there is always an abundance of discarded newspaper to shred.

Studies indicate that shredded newspaper, kept free of colored inks, is non-toxic to animals and plants. Levels of heavy metals and trace elements found in newspaper, with the exception of copper in colored newspaper, are well below maximums recommended for livestock feeds and are therefore acceptable in the unlikely event the animal nibbles the bedding.

The farmers who have used the newspaper for bedding say it lasts up to twice as long as straw (and that this factor alone made possible a 40 per cent cost saving) and that when the used newspaper was spread on the field for disposal — just as straw or hay are disposed of — it broke down faster and was also free of weed seed.

The only negative factor, they said, was that if it gets dry enough to blow it does not look good.

Shredded paper is a relatively sterile product and has a lower level of breeding flies than any other bedding product. It seems to be virtually dust and mold free, therefore causing fewer respiratory problems. Farmers who have used it also report a reduction in diseases such as mastitis.

Research data is available not only for use with cattle, but also for use with pigs, horses, sheep, chickens and even worms.

In areas where programs have been developed to shred newspaper into bedding, both private and public facilities have been developed. Both have been successful. Shredded newspaper can be baled with any of several commercial hay-balers.

A community of 5,000 persons will generate enough old newspaper to provide bedding for 2,500 head of cattle per year.

Additional reported advantages are that it reduces barn odor and is easily transported and disposed of by conventional manure handling systems.

While shredded newspaper has been used in northern states for some years, it is a new technology in Kentucky, and one which offers not only some advantages for animal health but also can help abate a growing problem of waste disposal.

Your veterinarian is not only interested in your animals and their health, but also in the community and its problems. Ask about this technology and its availability in your area.

ELECTRICITY... Today's Way to the Future

It's amazing how much children can do. And there are some things only electricity can do for them, like run the computer that helps them learn and grow.

You know electricity is clean, safe and reliable. Perhaps you think about it when you use your appliances, set the thermostat for your comfort, or turn on the TV.

Electricity is also the first choice to fuel new ideas, new technology. As our future and that of our children unfold, electricity is there for all of us.

Electricity is today's way to the future... today's way to learn.

National FFA Week to be promoted across the country, Feb. 17-24

FFA members all over the country will promote FFA, Week, Feb. 17-24.

FFA members in thousands of chapters across the U.S., and in the District of Columbia, Puerto Rico and the Virgin Islands will organize events and activities to create awareness of and support for agricultural education and the FFA.

FFA activities and programs will be promoted by FFA members and through public service announcements on the local, state and national levels. This year's theme is FFA—Leading the Challenge.

Agricultural education classes stress hands-on experience in diverse areas of agriculture. FFA activities provide leadership development, career training and award incentives for young people.

Donnell Brown, national FFA president from Throckmorton, Tex., said FFA Week is the chance for members and communities to recognize achievements and activities available through FFA and agricultural education.

"We're proud of this commitment to young people and agriculture. As FFA members and students in agriculture classes, we are receiving the business, science and leadership skills we need to prepare for the diverse and challenging careers in agriculture," Brown said.

Each year FFA Week is held during the week of George Washington's birthday (traditional) to recognize his leadership and commitment to American agriculture. The National FFA Center is located on part of Washington's original Mt. Vernon estate near Alexandria, Va.

FFA is a national organization of 397,115 students in 7,705 local chapters preparing for agricultural careers. FFA activities and award programs complement instruction in agricultural education by giving students practical experience in the application of agricultural skills and knowledge gained in classes. Developing agricultural leadership, cooperation and citizenship is FFA's major objective.

MAGNUM 7140

And the first all-new tractors from Case IH

Case IH put more into the new MAGNUM Tractor line than any farm tractors developed in over twenty years. Here's why you'll get more out of it:

MAGNUM means more. Outstanding field performance from a new 505-cubic-inch turbocharged engine with reserve power. MAGNUM power.

The MAGNUM Tractor's powershift puts 18 speeds of shift-on-the-go workpower at your fingertips — standard. And only MAGNUM Tractors offer a full powershift creeper transmission with six additional speeds from 5 to 2.1 mph for more control and performance. MAGNUM performance.

The MAGNUM Tractor's new larger cab has 48 square feet of window area — virtually unobstructed visibility — and a roomier interior for extra comfort. MAGNUM comfort.

It all adds up: The Case IH MAGNUM 7140 Tractor sets new standards for the 195 hp (145 kW) class — and for you. See us for details.

MAGNUM means more.
