State lawmakers head for home following hectic final day's work

By BRUCE SCHREINER
Associated Press Writer

FRANKFORT, Ky. — State lawmakers took full advantage of their last scheduled chance to pass bills until 1992, giving final approval to proposals to improve health care, punish drug dealers and restrict lottery games.

A bill to let veteran legislators retire early with full benefits also was included in a torrent of legislation sent Friday to Gov. Wallace Wilkinson.

After a frenzied, daylong push to clear the decks of straggling bills, lawmakers went home until April 12. They'll return to Frankfort at that time for two days to consider whether to override vetoes by the governor.

House Speaker Don Blandford said he was satisfied with the session, saying lawmakers had addressed key issues such as education reform.

Don't forget — Daylight Savings Time returns Sunday

By RANDOLPH E. SCHMID
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON — America will shed some light on its evenings starting Sunday.

That's right, it's time once again to switch to Daylight Saving Time.

That means moving the clock ahead one hour — you remember, "spring forward."

The change means later sunsets, so people can enjoy working on gardens or outdoor projects, playing sports, having barbecues or just idly relaxing outside.

For the record, the official change occurs at 2 a.m. Sunday, local time.

Most folks are scofflaws, though, making the change before retiring or in the morning.

The law calls for the change to be the first Sunday in April. Since Sunday is April 1 this year, the switch is as early as can be, under current rules.

While it's known as daylight-saving time, the change doesn't really save any daylight. It just moves it from morning to evening.

That means that some children wind up waiting for school buses in the dark in exchange for more time after school to play ball or join the family in backyard cookouts.

The idea has been attributed to various people, including Benjamin Franklin, but it was William Willett of England who launched the eventually successful campaign for the idea in 1907.

More time for evening recreation, less need for costly artificial lights and a possible reduction of evening crime were cited as major advantages.

It was the energy saving that prompted first use of daylight-saving time, in Germany in 1916. Other countries followed during World War I, returning to standard time afterward and resuming daylight time during World War II.

It was the confusion of a crazy-quilt pattern of time differences that finally led to the adoption of the U.S. uniform time system in 1966. Before then local communities decided individually for or against daylight time.

Today, daylight time is in effect in all areas of the country except Arizona, Hawaii, Puerto Rico, the Virgin Islands, American Samoa and the part of Indiana in the Eastern time zone.

Surveys have found that daylight time is generally more popular in urban areas, where the afternoon and evening leisure time is appreciated.

Rural areas seem to be the focus of opposition, largely because of the loss of morning light for travel to work and school and adjusting to the change in dealing with livestock, since animals don't observe differences in clocks.

The actual affect on people seems to vary considerably by geography.

The standard time zones were set up to be about an hour wide. That means it should be the same time throughout an area covered by the apparent movement of the sun in about an hour.

But, even though the clocks display the same times, sunrise and

Gov. Wilkinson now gets to review budget plans

By MARK R. CHELLGREN
Associated Press Writer

FRANKFORT, Ky. — There are dozens of items in the budget to place various buildings, projects and other construction around the state.

But there is really only one budget plum that has to do with taking something away.

Buried in the budget passed by the House and Senate Friday is a $125,000 appropriation for "sunken barge removal" and riverfront development in Ludlow.

Rep. Martin Sheehan, D-Covington, said four or five barges that sank along the Ohio River frontage area in Ludlow years ago are a safety hazard. Two children have drowned while playing on the barges in the past 20 years and they also can hinder river traffic.

They are also something of an eyesore and the city wants to deve-

Court agrees to decide flag law constitutionality

By JAMES H. RUBIN
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON — The Supreme Court, at the urging of the Bush administration, agreed today to decide by early summer the constitutionality of a new federal law making it a crime to burn the American flag.

The court put the politically charged issue on a fast track that will allow it to announce a decision by July in cases from the District of Columbia and Seattle. Lower courts struck down the law in both cases.

The justices will hear arguments in the cases May 14.

Today's action is extraordinary. The court traditionally holds its last argument sessions in April.

The last time the court heard arguments after April was June 24, 1981, when it studied the legality of the agreement that ended the Iran hostage crisis.

The Justice Department has urged the court to uphold the flag-burning law despite the department's misgivings and statements by President Bush that a constitu-

Bill Kopperud was awarded the Silver Beaver award from the Four Rivers Council of the Boy Scouts of America on March 22 for his "distinguished service to youth," according to a council spokesperson. The award is one of the highest awards given by the Boy Scouts. The award's winners, nominated by a Boy Scout member, goes to individuals in or out of Scouting which have demonstrated a dedication to "community involvement, noteworthy service and exceptional character."

Jimmy Oakley, MSU Central Stores manager

Oakley: service to MSU, community important

Service with a smile - and sometimes a gentle ribbing - are the bywords of Jimmy Oakley, Central Stores manager at Murray State University.

A self-confessed "big tease," Oakley said serving the university and local community is the most enjoyable part of his work.

"I really like meeting and working with the students, faculty and staff at Murray State. The folks I get to work with give the job plenty of variety," the store manager noted.

Oakley joined the university staff in 1973 as part of the Central Receiving crew, and moved to his present position in 1980. Tami Dandeneau assists him in the store, and Mike Finley, a buyer in the purchasing department, helps out on occasion.

In addition to meeting the office supply needs of the MSU campus, Central Stores also sells to local school systems and city and county offices through the University Store.

Murray State University STAFF EXCELLENCE

Oakley noted. In his 10 years in the store, he said the increase in computer-related supplies has been the biggest change.

He has been on campus for other changes as well, including the opening of the West Kentucky Livestock and Exposition Center, renovations of Waterfield Library and Wells Hall, and the addition of the Curris Center and Roy Stewart Stadium.

The mention of football brings up a subject close to Oakley's heart - the Los Angeles Raiders. Visitors to his office area in Central Stores can easily note his loyalty, evidenced by wall plaques, paperweights and the like. "I slip sometimes and call them the Oakland Raiders," he admitted with a grin. "I guess I always will."

Another favorite subject is 2-year-old grandson Brandon, who lives in Mississippi. The proud grandfather said that he and the youngster enjoy visiting by telephone when they can't see each other in person.

Oakley and his wife, Barbara, have two children - Cheri, Brandon's mother, and James. Other pastimes include following the Boston Celtics and Cincinnati Reds, and working in his garden.

Robinson finds time to balance her school work with art career

For most Murray State University students, just going to class and balancing college activities can be difficult, but Cathy Robinson of Paris, Tenn., a junior art major, balances class work with her career as a functional artist.

Mrs. Robinson is a non-traditional student who returned to Murray State in the spring of 1986 to complete her degree and to gain more experience as a functional artist. She goes to class in the mornings and works in the functional art laboratory when not in class.

Her pieces are wood works ranging from a box with a texture of feathers to a chair. Her most recent project is a jewelry box.

She said her interest in functional art began when she started carving small animals such as birds. After returning to college, her interest grew to include vases, chairs, boxes and jewelry boxes.

For her artistic achievements, she received a $20,000 grant this year from the Kentucky foundation for Women. She also received a $4,600 grant in 1987 from the foundation, which assists women pursuing a career in art.

For inspiration she looks at magazines and catalogs for ideas. One of her tables made of maple is decorated in hot pink, with flamingos to accent it.

"I try to get in 35 to 40 hours of work a week," Mrs. Robinson said. "Whenever I'm not in class, I'm usually in the lab. One piece usually takes 500 hours or almost a whole semester to complete."

She is usually able to complete two pieces a year, and sometimes a third piece, because her work is so detailed. Wood-carved feathers have become a trademark of many of her carvings.

When she decided to return to school, Mrs. Robinson found it difficult to adjust to classes and to the lifestyle.

"I had to learn how to study again," she recalled.

Before enrolling at Murray State, Mrs. Robinson was carving a Samoian bust and asked for help from Paul Sasso of the Murray State faculty. Through that experience she became interested in MSU.

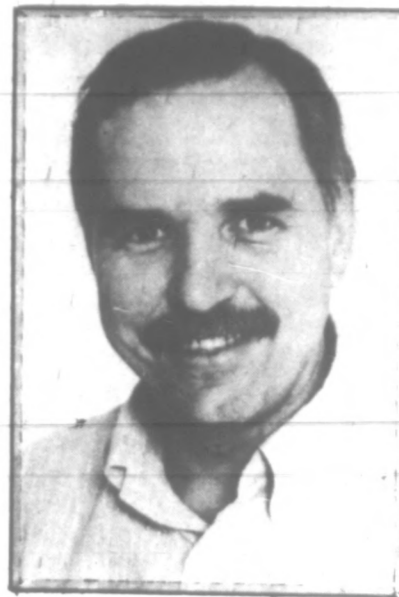

"I wanted to go beyond what I was doing for craft shows," she said.

Two of her pieces, a chair and a vase, are being shown in New Harmony, Ind., and she hopes to have some of her work exhibited in New York because that is "where you want to go." Two tables of hers are also on display at the Kentucky Arts and Crafts Gallery in Louisville.

"It helps that my work is different, setting it apart from everyone else," she believes.

Prices for her artwork range from $1,000 to $3,000, depending on the hours involved in the process and supplies. She said she hopes to have enough pieces priced to provide income after graduation.

"I'm doing what I love. That's why I can spend so much time at it," she said. "The market is out there for people who have skill, desire and devotion and who are concerned about craftsmanship."

History from the Stubblefield family

Our nation is at peace. But on April 7, 1862, a western Kentuckian's thoughts were on what would be America's bloodiest war.

He had an inkling. "This has been perhaps the bloodiest battle of the continent," he wrote. "...I offer myself as a sacrifice, though I never desired to be a warrior and do it on principle only."

Captain W.J. Stubblefield of Murray penned those words after Shiloh, one of the fiercest battles of the Civil War. They're preserved in his diary in the Forrest C. Pogue Special Collections branch of the Murray State University Library.

Hundreds of western Kentuckians fought at Shiloh. Many were killed or wounded in the Confederate defeat. The Southern side suffered 10,500 dead or wounded; the North, 13,000.

Stubblefield and his gray-clad soldiers were lucky. None were killed. While some other Civil War diarists glorified combat and the call to arms, Stubblefield didn't after Shiloh. "...I do not wish my sons to be hasty to join the service nor to do so till they have made long consideration of it."

He joined the Rebel army in the fall of 1861 and was elected captain of his Calloway County company. The men became part of the Seventh Kentucky Infantry, a Jackson Purchase outfit.

Shiloh, fought near the banks of the Tennessee River, was Stubblefield's first major battle.

The Confederates, under Gen. Albert Sidney Johnston, attacked Union forces under Gen. Ulysses S. Grant on April 6 Johnston was killed; the bluecoats fell back toward the river, rallied and held. The next day, Yankee reinforcements arrived and the Confederates were driven away.

Stubblefield wrote that his men rushed to battle on the sixth "...marching through thickets of blackjack and rough timber, through brooks, jumping over ditches...on the double quick time."

A Yankee cannonball missed. A bullet hit a fellow officer in the foot.

The western Kentuckians reached a camp abandoned by fleeing Union troops. "One Yankee had his head shot off a little over half way down and others of both sides were wounded variously," Stubblefield wrote. "I spoke to one Yankee, a Dutchman named Mitch who was wounded and he desired me to move him to shade which I was about to do when I was ordered forward and had to leave him."

Yankee cannon fire grew hotter and "made terrible havoc of horses, timber and every thing it could reach." The seventh was ordered to charge a Yankee artillery battery 300 yards away across an open field.

"My 3rd scout and 3rd sargent (sic) and Private Mallory got wounded and five or six were killed in some companies," he wrote. "The balls jumped on each side and in great profusion during the charge and after...they continued to pass us."

The regiment retreated, then made another run at the guns. There were more casualties, but the Seventh took the cannons.

The regiment's commander, Col. Charles A. Wickliffe, had his horse shot from under him and a major "received wounds supposed to be mortal," Stubblefield wrote.

On April 7, the western Kentuckians "fired with irregularity but vigorously and made one good charge...we rallied and made some other movement but broke when it came to charging, in which our own Col. Wickliffe...wounded on the head...was carried from the field."

Slowly, the Yanks shoved the Rebs back through spring woods. "Morgan W. Martin was shot about the elbow and fell over by me," Stubblefield recalled. He concluded that nine men were wounded in his company, "none fatally I think and none killed."

Stubblefield also complained that "I was not well from the time I had the ague in March till I started this fight but I felt better and continued very well through the rains, hard marching and fighting..."

Illness eventually forced the captain out of the army and he went home. But he recovered, got married and the couple reared a son named Nathan B. Stubblefield, a pioneer in the development of radio.

Wilkinson praises lawmakers for their work; says session will end with a new Kentucky

FRANKFORT, Ky. (AP) — Gov. Wallace Wilkinson has told lawmakers they wrote the most important chapter of Kentucky history in nearly a century.

Wilkinson told the House and Senate on Friday that the 1990 session was the most important one since 1891, when lawmakers signed the state Constitution.

"We began this session with a dream, we began it with a vision, and we're going to end it with a new Kentucky," Wilkinson told the Senate. "History will record the 1990 session as your finest hour."

He made similar remarks minutes later to the House, before both chambers adjourned until a veto session next month.

Wilkinson was referring to final passage this week of a bill to revamp Kentucky's public education system.

The governor noted it was probably his last appearance before the two chambers. He said he wished he could be more eloquent, but could only say "good-bye and thank you for all you've done."

Wilkinson received standing ovations from lawmakers in both chambers, reflecting a big shift in their relationship.

Early in the session, Wilkinson drew lukewarm responses when he delivered his budget and State of the State addresses to legislators.

DISTRICT COURT SUMMARY

The following is a summary of the DUI and Felony cases brought before the Calloway County District Court this week. DUI cases are only listed after final disposition and only if a plea or verdict of guilty has been entered. Unless otherwise noted, a court cost of $47.50 was automatically paid by the party mentioned. (A "fee" refers to a sheriff's fee). In the event of any type of suspensions, figures listed represent those fines or sentences after the suspended portion has been subtracted. Those parties appearing before Judge Lealie Furches may have either paid a fine, fee, court costs, made restitution or received a sentence, or any combination. Some cases may have been continued, passed on to another court date or dismissed for a variety of reasons. Misdemeanors, including minor traffic violations, and offenses involving minors are not included in the following list:

From March 28
Terry Duane Rule; driving under the influence of alcohol (third offense), driving with suspended license; entered guilty plea: 90 days, $500 fine, $150 DUI fee, court costs, CVP fee and bond fee. 60 days suspended, 30 days to serve during weekdays beginning April 1.

Scott Wallis; driving under the influence of alcohol (1st offense), entered guilty plea: $200 fine, $150 DUI fee ($50 suspended), court costs, CVP fee and license surrendered.

Kenneth D. Carraway; driving under the influence of alcohol (2nd offense), entered guilty plea: $350 fine, $150 DUI fee, court costs and CVP fee, seven days in jail (credit one day served) and one year outpatient treatment.

Chester Miller Garner; driving under the influence (1st offense), entered guilty plea: $200 fine, $150 DUI fee, court costs, CVP fee and license surrendered.

Patricia Ann Zuleit; driving under the influence (3rd offense), no license, no insurance, no registration; entered guilty plea: 90 days, 60 days suspended, complete 30-day alcohol treatment, complete one-year outpatient treatment, $500 fine, $150 DUI fee, court costs and CVP fee.

Alice Y. James; driving under the influence of alcohol; entered guilty plea: $200 fine, $150 DUI fee, $50 suspended, court costs, CVP fee and license surrendered.

Tony B. Williams; driving under the influence of alcohol (1st offense), entered guilty plea: $200 fine, $150 DUI fee, court costs and CVP fee.

A sampling of state editorials

The following is a roundup of editorials published or aired by Kentucky newspapers and broadcast stations. The editorials comment on a variety of issues of interest to Kentucky residents. Some editorials are not to be mistaken as representing a position taken by the Associated Press.

Daily News, Bowling Green: Health-insurance coverage is crucial in these days of mounting medical bills, but several moves this session of the General Assembly seem to ignore the fundamental stumbling block that keeps many from maintaining proper coverage: affordability.

Lawmakers this session have proposed legislation that would mandate three additional avenues of health-care coverage: mammographies, mental health care and TMJ surgery.

We are not denying that each of the three areas covered in legislation are plausible concerns. But where does the list end?

There have been laudable strides made in some sections of health care by lawmakers this session — the omnibus health care bill, for example, which tries to provide for universal health-care coverage utilizing state, federal and private funding. The plan, which has won the endorsement of Blue Cross and Blue Shield of Kentucky and the Kentucky Hospital Association, would help smaller employers through the establishment of an insurance pool.

But to have lawmakers decide for what ailments coverage must be provided is a disturbing trend that could actually do more to threaten proper health-care coverage.

Some businesses have seen health-insurance costs skyrocket by as much as 75 percent during the past two years alone. The more coverage mandated, the more it is likely to boost the cost of providing coverage.

The best way to provide proper health-care coverage for workers in Kentucky is to keep it affordable for both business and employee. Mandating more and more coverage will accomplish the opposite.

The State Journal, Frankfort: "We're not broke yet, but we're getting close to the edge."

The people of Kentucky, who will be paying $1.26 billion in higher taxes the next two years, very well may wonder at the above statement by Rep. Joe Clarke, chairman of the House Appropriations and Revenue Committee. Isn't the largest tax increase in the commonwealth's history supposed to keep the state from going broke?

The problem, it seems, is that some of the changes made in the mammoth education reform bill, the tax compromise with Gov. Wallace Wilkinson and the spending spree necessary to gather enough votes in the House to pass the education and tax bill, mean that a few years down the road the $1.26 billion in new taxes may not be enough to pay the costs.

Some major expenses involved in the education reform bill won't kick in for several years. A higher guaranteed minimum increase in state funding to wealthier school districts than proposed by the Task Force on Education Reform and higher annual salary increases for teachers add big-time costs to an already expensive education bill. The 1-cent increase in the sales tax is not expected to grow as much as the 5-cent tax on many services originally proposed by the governor. And, the tens of millions of dollars added to the budget for buildings and public-works projects across the state in exchange for votes for education reform will burden the taxpayers for the life of the bonds that will be sold to pay for them.

What we have is the ominous possibility of the next governor or the one after coming before the General Assembly and asking for higher taxes to pay for school reform for the rest of state government.

Messenger-Inquirer, Owensboro: The so-called "smoker's rights" bill winding its way through the Kentucky General Assembly would prohibit employers from discriminating against smokers in hiring and firing, just as employers are prohibited from hiring and firing on the basis of sex, race, religion, age and national origin.

To equate smoking with such a basic right as non-discrimination on the basis of sex, race, religion, age and national origin, would make problems for employers and for state government, several legislators have pointed out. Sen. David LeMaster, D-Painville, asked if employers shouldn't have the right to be concerned about workers who smoke, saying smoking can affect companies' health insurance costs.

Sen. Gerald Neal, D-Louisville, expressed concern that the bill would burden the Kentucky Commission on Human Rights with extra duties. The agency, which investigates claims of discrimination on the basis of sex, race, religion, age and national origin, can barely keep up with its caseload. Adding discrimination on the basis of smoking would decrease investigation of all discrimination cases or require the hiring of additional staff members.

Protecting so-called "smokers' rights" has a lot of political support in this tobacco state. But it is an ill-conceived piece of legislation, a parody of serious anti-discrimination laws. Kentuckians, smokers and non-smokers alike, should demand that the legislature reject it.

Letters to the Editor

Shekell's poem tells parents that they should encourage their children's education

Dear Editor,

It is our nature to want kids to be good and smart. Is there something we can do to give one a good start?

Do you attend PTA? or do you say I am not going, they will not miss me anyway.

Do you work with their principal and teachers? or when he plays a ballgame do you sit on the bleachers.

Do you encourage him to do better? or when he makes bad grades do you write his teacher a letter.

Do you let him watch TV until midnight? then say well at least he can write.

Do you approve of the books he buys at the corner store? or do you sometimes tell him you are quite a bore?

The learning a child misses in his young days, he most likely will not acquire a quality education in his later days.

I can think of nothing that can be more rewarding than to train a young brain. If a child is deprived of a quality education, I am sure you would not want to think you were to blame.

This generation will govern our country some day. So as adults we should watch what we have to say.

Sincerely,
Joe Shekell

Reader applauds efforts of Racer Coach Newton

Dear Editor,

Those of us who love M.S.U. basketball should be very thankful that we have a man such as Coach Steve Newton leading and directing the basketball program. Coach Newton is an outstanding individual who has great integrity. He has proven a winning college basketball program can be accomplished without dishonesty and cheating. I see no reason why any basketball recruit would not choose Murray State University to continue their education and play basketball under such a man as coach Newton.

Sincerely,
Gearl Suiter

Our daughter has discovered the wonderful world of allusions.

An allusion is a word, a phrase, or an image which can be used as a capsule for a wide range of ideas.

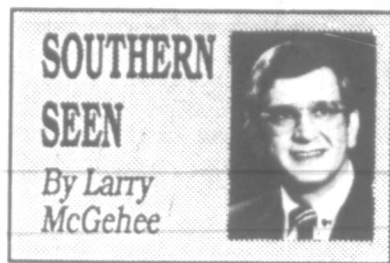

For example, we can allude to Shakespeare's famous line, "all the world's a stage," and get instant communication of the world as a theatre stage upon which we act our parts, or get the notion of role-playing to remind us that we all play many differing parts during the course of a lifetime or even of a day, or get the sense that life comes in stages, an evolving and changing of our appearances and identities from infancy to old age.

Among the allusions in which our daughter is taking special delight in her English themes these days are those that involve Greek and Roman gods and myths.

Prometheus is the story of the man whose curiosity and ambition to be godlike drove him to steal fire, one of the first symbols of man's power, from the gods. To call some character in a story Promethean is a great way to impress a teacher.

Recently this daughter had a difficult poem to analyze. When she decided that its main character was really Pan—the half-animal, half-human field and forest creature who delighted in playing a flute and chasing nymphs—she broke the code and scored a hit in class.

Mything the point

By Larry McGehee

Antaeus is a good allusion for southerners. This character drew his strength from the soil. As long as he kept his feet on the ground, he was unconquerable. Hercules defeated him by lifting him off the ground until his strength was drained away. Antaeus is a great allusion to throw into a history paper on why Lee lost the battle of Gettysburg.

Proteus is a bit more obscure. Proteus had the ability to change shapes, but the weakness of having to tell the truth when shackled. This allusion is useful for describing how persistence pays off. Things are seldom what they seem on the surface—or even several layers beneath the surface. But if one sticks to the subject and digs deep enough, one will finally get to the truth.

The current favorite in our household is Procrustes. It has reference to the human tendency to force equality on to a situation. A "Procrustean Bed" was a torture rack which would stretch short people or cut off the legs of tall people to make everyone the same size. When the queen in Alice in Wonderland runs around shouting, "Off with their head," she is saying that someone is "too big for his britches" and needs to be "cut down to size."

There are similarities between Prometheus and Procrustes, who both had to pay penalties for aspiring to be above average.

I had the good luck during my first six years of schooling to have an aunt as my grade school principal. She made a point of letting me pick out a book each Christmas from the school book fair. The one I recall the most pleasure—and still own—was a little yellowback called Chariots of the Gods.

I have discovered better and more complete mythology books since then, but I know that I would never have developed an appetite for them if that aunt—actually, a great-aunt (truly a great one)—hadn't made me taste the stuff first. By the time another teacher—Mrs. Montgomery in the sixth grade probably—uncovered the history of Greece and Rome for us, I was ready and willing to dive in.

The same importance can be attached to other sources of allusions. All of us quote the Bible, Shakespeare, and probably Thoreau and Emerson, without knowing it.

Maybe a good prescription for making sure "the twig is bent" (where does that phrase come from?) in a person's youth is to give them a few good books, "101 Best Loved Poems" and Bartlett's Quotations among them. They make following the plots or answering the quiz questions on television more fun.

Someone has said that the purpose of education is to destroy our illusions. I don't share that philosophy. But if it is what education is about, then let it at least leave us with our illusions.

Outstanding appointment

James Daniel named president of KEF

LEXINGTON, KY - James R. Daniel, brigadier-general, U.S. Army National Guard, today was named president and chief operating officer of the Kentucky Educational Foundation, Inc. (KEF).

The announcement was made by G. Ted Smith, chairman of the KEF board.

"It is an outstanding appointment," Smith said. "We are fortunate to find an individual who is so well versed with public education and with the world in which our young people must compete."

The Kentucky Educational Foundation was established in 1984. It is a private, non-profit foundation dedicated to bringing academic excellence to Kentucky's schools. Daniel's newly created executive position is a major step in the organization's commitment to expanded activity in meeting this objective.

"From the beginning, KEF has sought to bring to our schools a quality of teaching and learning that is simply not possible without private resources," Smith said.

"We want to encourage academic excellence through private sector initiatives," he continued. "And we don't just mean 'pretty good.' We want to build super quality instruction for our kids."

Since its inception, KEF has raised more than a million dollars for projects to benefit schools. They include classroom grants for teachers, the Commonwealth Institute for Teachers, the Commonwealth Institute for Instructional Leaders, Flags of Excellence, and the Kentucky Writing Institute.

Gilbert C. Grosvenor, chairman of National Geographic Society, describes KEF as "the first partner in the nation selected by National Geographic to develop a new geography curriculum for fourth, fifth and sixth graders. We are extremely pleased to welcome Jim Daniel as chief operating officer of our Kentucky partner."

"This is an exciting time to be joining KEF," Daniel said. "The Kentucky General Assembly is preparing to enact a comprehensive education reform package. New patterns of leadership will result from it."

We are entering a new era, Daniel noted. The need for private sector interest and participation in the effort will "grow by quantum leaps," he added.

"Kentucky is reaching for quality in its schools," Daniel said. "KEF can help make it happen for our youngsters."

Daniel, who received his B.A. in English from Clemson University, earned his M.A. in education and his M.Div. from the Southern Baptist Theological Seminary and a doctorate from Louisville Presbyterian Theological Seminary and a doctorate from Louisville Presbyterian Theological Seminary. He did doctoral work in adult education at Pennsylvania State University.

He has served as deputy adjutant general, Kentucky National Guard, and as assistant division commander, 35th Infantry Division, Fort Leavenworth, Kansas. He was promoted to brigadier-general in 1988.

"Daniel has had extensive experience in development of leadership and management skills and resources," Smith said.

"As an educator, with training in adult education, he is also very sensitive to the dreams of families for their children's futures and the importance of schools in making those futures possible. Through his leadership, KEF will extend its reach in helping Kentucky's young people excel as they compete in the global society of the 21st century," Smith said.

Rep. Freed Curd, D-Murray, recently addressed his colleagues in the House of Representatives. Curd serves on the House Appropriations and Revenue Committee, the House Transportation Committee, and the House Education Committee. Curd represents portions of Murray and Calloway Counties.

LEO
 (July 23 to Aug. 22)

Interruptions could interfere with the completion of a self-appointed task. Daytime hours are your best time for socializing. Tonight you may opt for some privacy.

VIRGO
 (Aug. 23 to Sept. 22)

It may be hard to get through to a child today. You may try your hand at an artistic endeavor or home decorating now. Luck and good times come through friends after dark.

LIBRA
 (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22)

It's the same old problem at home, but you'll have good news today about a career matter. Sharing feelings makes you happy with yourself and your relationship.

SCORPIO
 (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21)

Do it yourself projects are favored now. You'll be hearing some good news from afar today. Travel is a plus, but get an early start as the unexpected could interfere with some of your plans.

SAGITTARIUS
 (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21)

It's a day when money could come in and quickly go out. Make a point of saving. You're feeling creative now and will enjoy an artistic activity or a cultural entertainment.

CAPRICORN
 (Dec. 22 to Jan. 19)

Be attentive to what a family member has to say. You'll add a touch of beauty to the home now. Partnership interests are highlighted tonight. Meet others half way though.

AQUARIUS
 (Jan. 20 to Feb. 18)

A breakthrough comes now about a job interest. Welcome new chances to get ahead. Creative activity is also a plus for you now. Safeguard health and diet tonight.

PISCES
 (Feb. 19 to Mar. 20)

You may be receiving a gift today or someone is especially thoughtful. But one friend burdens you with his problems. Tonight, however, favors going out on the town.

YOU BORN TODAY are independent and self-reliant. You're a dynamic person who often has more than one thing going on at the same time. You keep yourself busy, and are both ambitious and restless. You're at your best when you learn to do your own thing. You can succeed in business for yourself and have a pioneering spirit. At times, you need to learn to finish what you start.

FOR MONDAY, APRIL 2, 1990

ARIES
 (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19)

It's not the best day to have company over. You may revise your opinion about an investment or a property matter. Signals remain unclear about a career concern.

TAURUS
 (Apr. 20 to May 20)

Impatience may make it difficult to get your ideas across today. Some misinformation is likely now. A partner remains your best confidante and collaborator.

GEMINI
 (May 21 to June 20)

Beware of deceptive business propositions today. Be on your toes in financial dealings with others. A career project is brought to a successful conclusion now.

CANCER
 (June 21 to July 22)

You and a partner may be out of synch today. Guard against an excessive use of credit. A career matter remains on hold. Tonight favors going out for good times.

LEO
 (July 23 to Aug. 22)

Daydreaming could interfere with job efficiency today. Try to keep your mind on your work. Undercurrents affect your relationship with a close tie. Home activities are best tonight.

VIRGO
 (Aug. 23 to Sept. 22)

Keep your feet on the ground in romance. You may be overly impressionable or too trusting now. Financial dealings with others aren't recommended. Socialize tonight.

LIBRA
 (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22)

Try not to let your personal life distract you from career concerns today. You'll make important headway now if you'll concentrate your efforts on getting ahead.

SCORPIO
 (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21)

Not everything you hear today will be the truth. A family matter requires your attention now. You may be making plans for travel before the day is through.

SAGITTARIUS
 (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21)

Be careful you don't end up on the short end of a financial deal today. Deceptive trends warn against precipitate moves. Re-evaluate your position.

CAPRICORN
 (Dec. 22 to Jan. 19)

You're liable to keep someone guessing now. Make sure that others don't misinterpret your indecision. Tonight is your best time for making a good impression.

AQUARIUS
 (Jan. 20 to Feb. 18)

There could be some false starts where business interests are concerned. Still, the day will end on a successful note. But you may have to prod yourself to get on track.

PISCES
 (Feb. 19 to Mar. 20)

A friend refuses to make a commitment at present. It's not your best day for recreational interests, but the late p.m. brings a turn for the better in your affairs.

YOU BORN TODAY are more cooperative than the typical member of your sign. You're sensitive, imaginative and often drawn to a career in the arts. You have a strong need for financial emotional security. Still, in the pursuit of these goals, you shouldn't allow yourself to get into a rut. Always keep striving to make the most of your potentials.

"Don't lose your sense of wonder. Celebrate the sounds of life with Beltone."

Eddie Albert
 Beltone hearing aid wearer

The laughter of your children, your wife and friends, your favorite music. When you are losing your hearing, even if it is a small hearing loss, some of the magic in our lives can disappear. It doesn't have to.

Do what I did. Call Beltone. Ask for your personal hearing evaluation given by a trained specialist who will tell you if you can be helped by quality Beltone hearing aids. I myself wear these tiny Beltone Petites. Even the camera can hardly see them.

It Beltone can help you, your Beltone specialist will use a master hearing aid, so you'll actually get to hear what you've been missing. There's no obligation, and it's free during this special 50th Anniversary Celebration.

Mrs. Cryslar is a member of the Murray Art Guild, Paducah Art Guild and Kentucky Artists and Craftsmen in Berea. She works in oils using brush and palette knife as well as watercolors. Her work reflects a variety of subjects, including watercolors from West Ireland. Lyn has studied under artists in Texas, Florida and Massachusetts.

Mrs. Gardner, a member of the Murray Art Guild, works in acrylics and watercolors. Her barns reflect periods of the past. Her flowers reflect a boldness in color and spirit. She has studied under Jerry Speight and Dick Jackson.

Mrs. Snyder works in oils and enjoys sketching scenes on location. She has studied under Revell Taylor, Harold DeFord, Jerry Speight, and is presently taking classes in art design at Murray State. She is also known for her talent in teaching decorative painting in Benton. Her painted scenes on wood represent many historical buildings in Murray.

Dear Abby

By Abigail Van Buren

The Best Highway Drivers Are Always Prepared for the Worst

DEAR ABBY: I am asking for your help to educate 161 million American motorists on some basic emergency roadside tips. It is tragic that many of the 48,000 deaths last year on our highways were not due to careless driving, but to roadside accidents following a breakdown.

Every year, thousands of inexperienced drivers enter our crowded highways with little or no knowledge of how to handle a roadside breakdown. Being caught in a roadside emergency is dangerous — but knowing what to do once that breakdown occurs can allow motorists to respond safely and quickly, dramatically reducing the chances of injury or death.

That is why the National Safety Council, the American Automobile Association and the Automotive Safety Foundation have started the Enlightened Driver Program. Through the program, motorists are urged to equip their cars with the basic safety tools — a working flashlight and extra batteries, a fire extinguisher, jumper cables, spare tire kit, first aid kit, tool kit and flares or warning triangles. A well-equipped car with these breakdown basics will help drivers get back on the road safely and quickly. Motorists are also urged to learn the "breakdown rules of the road" — safety tips on what to do once trouble occurs.

Thanks, Abby, for helping us to get the word out to the 161 million motorists who need to be prepared. Being prepared can be as easy as knowing how to get passengers out of the vehicle and away from traffic. For additional tips, people can request a free "Enlightened Driver" brochure by sending their name and address to Enlightened Driver, P.O. Box 8797, St. Louis, Mo. 63102.

CHARLES F. LIVINGSTON, AUTOMOTIVE SAFETY FOUNDATION

DEAR MR. LIVINGSTON: I'm sure your brochure will be a real eye-opener for anyone with the philosophy of being prepared, as well as the parents of teenagers interested in safeguarding their adolescents. Since an enlightened driver is a safe driver, I'm including a few of those safety tips:

- RULES OF THE ROAD
- In the event your car breaks down on the road:
 - Do get the vehicle as far off the road as possible.
 - Do get passengers out of the vehicle and away from traffic.
 - Do set up flares or warning triangles at least 250 feet behind the vehicle.
 - Do stand on the shoulder at least 100 feet behind the vehicle to signal for help.
 - Do keep your seat belt on if you must remain inside the vehicle while waiting for assistance.
 - Do walk on the shoulder facing traffic if you must walk for help.
 - Do keep a working flashlight and emergency kit in your car at all times.

DEAR ABBY: You were asked, "What is the difference between saying you will do something and promising to do it?" You replied: "If the person's word is good, there is no difference." Abby, I submit, if the person's word is no good, there is no difference, either.

DONALD REDDY, LAKE ORION, MICH.

DEAR DONALD: Touche. Either way, there is no difference.

Dear Abby's Cookbooklet is a collection of favorite recipes — all tested, tried and terrific! To order, send a long, business-size, self-addressed envelope, plus check or money order for $3.95 ($4.50 in Canada) to: Dear Abby, Cookbooklet, P.O. Box 447, Mount Morris, Ill. 61054. Murray woman honored

Cleo Cherry Grogan, right, Murray, was honored for her many years of outstanding service and leadership in the Relief Society, the women's auxiliary of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints, at a special banquet held March 17 to commemorate the 148th anniversary of the organization's founding at area headquarters of the LDS Church, Hopkinsville. Members from Middle Tennessee and Western Kentucky attended. Grogan has been a contributor to the organization and presently serves as a teacher and a visiting teacher, as well as the branch's magazine representative, librarian and genealogical examiner. Catherine Steinfeldt, left, Relief Society president, presented Grogan a handsewn ring of hearts to symbolize the love and sisterhood which exists among members of the society. Grogan was one of 15 members from the area honored. The Relief Society was organized on the national level in 1842 in Nauvoo, Ill., to help women and their families come unto Christ and to administer relief to the sick and the needed, and today the society has a worldwide membership of more than one million women, according to a church member.

1990 Tax Numbers Adjusted

Though the 1990 tax rates are not scheduled to change, the tax brackets, personal exemption amounts, and standard deduction amounts have been adjusted for inflation. Be aware of these new numbers as you begin your 1990 tax planning.

1990 Tax Rate	Taxable Income
	Single	Married Joint
15%	$1-19,450	$1-32,450
28%	$19,451-47,050	$32,451-78,400
33%	$47,051-109,100	$78,401-185,750
28%	Over $109,100	Over $185,750

The tax benefit of the 15 percent tax rate and the personal exemption is phased out with a 5 percent surtax on higher incomes. That creates a 33 percent tax rate on income that falls into this higher range. The 33 percent tax rate in the table given here is based on one personal exemption for singles and two exemptions for marrieds filing jointly. For each additional exemption, the range of income to be taxed at 33 percent must be increased by $11,480.

The 1990 standard deductions are as follows:

Married filing jointly	$5,450
Married filing separately	2,725
Head of household	4,750
Single	3,250

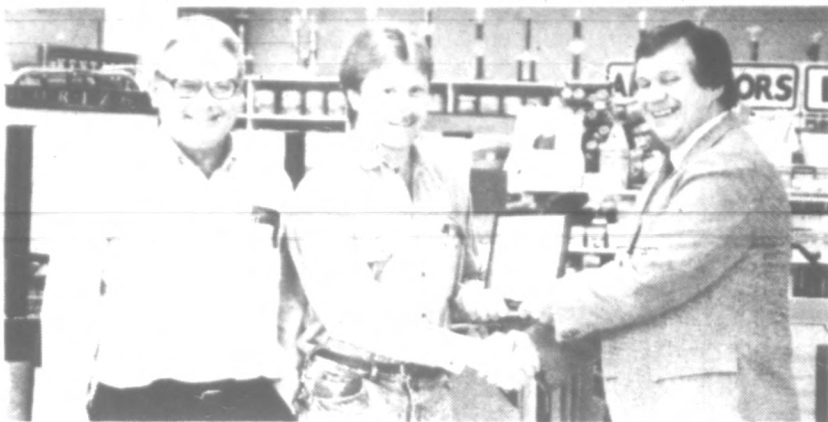

Married taxpayers who are 65 or older or blind are entitled to an additional $650 of standard deduction ($1,300 if both 65 and blind). Single taxpayers who are 65 or older or blind get an additional $800 of standard deduction ($1,600 if both 65 and blind). Each personal exemption in 1990 is worth $2,050.

Social security taxes go up in 1990. The new tax rate for employers and employees is 7.65 percent on a maximum wage base of $51,300. Self-employed taxpayers will pay social security tax at a 15.3 percent rate; but, for the first time, they'll be able to take an income tax deduction for 50 percent of the social security tax paid. 900330

Kopperud Realty welcomes Dodd

Max Dodd

Max Dodd has joined the staff of Kopperud Realty as a full-time broker associate. Broker Bill Kopperud announced recently.

"Max brings years of sales, marketing and real estate experience to our firm," said Kopperud. "We feel he will be a great asset to our home team."

Before joining Kopperud Realty, Dodd has been associated with Roberts Realty for the past four and a half years; where he was named as top selling agent for 1989 and also honored as a million dollar producer for 1989. He is a graduate of Calloway County High School and received his real estate education at Murray State University. He was successful in obtaining his broker's license in 1988.

Dodd is the son of Deric Dodd and is married to the former Karla Mitchell, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James C. Mitchell.

Dodd is a member of the national, state and local real estate boards and has been active in the local board, serving on numerous committees, board of directors, and was elected as treasurer of the board for 1990.

Max would like to invite his friends and anyone else with real estate needs to call or visit him at the Kopperud Realty Office, 711 Main Street, 753-1222, or at his home, 753-3204.

Gallimore named driver of the year at PTL banquet

Paschall Truck Lines, Inc. of Murray, Kentucky held its Annual Driver Recognition Banquet at the Executive Inn, Paducah, Kentucky, on Feb. 24. There were approximately 250 people in attendance who enjoyed a buffet dinner and entertainment by Dr. Trey and Dr. Vee.

The Annual Banquet recognized PTL's Drivers for outstanding performances during the calendar year. Seventy-four drivers received safe driving awards representing from one to 13 years of safe driving. The 12 Drivers of the Month and the four teams of the Quarter for 1989 were recognized and presented with customized PTL "rig-in-motion" watches. The Drivers of the Month for 1989 were — J. Paul Jones, J. O. Hale, Don Myers, Aury Vandyke, Andy Gallimore, Myron Taylor, J.B. Ladd, Kenneth Penoleton, Jeff Harrison, Buddy Harris, Barry Thomas, and Paul Franklin. The Teams of the Quarter for the 1989 were Arthur Lee and Chuck Richardson, Gary McCarthy and Ron Richardson, Gene Humphries and George Thomas and Norma Scheller and Rhonda Gates. Former Drivers of the Year and their spouses were also recognized. Former Drivers of the Year are Michael Patrick, Nonnie McCord, Aury Vandyke, Gene Franklin and Joe Mathis.

Paschall Truck Lines also honored the top milers for 1989. The award is based on paid miles for the year. The 20 drivers who received this award are — Darrell Butler, George Capron, Ronnie Chadwick, Gordon Cooper, Tommy Creason, Phil Diz, Andy Gallimore, Jeff Harrison, J. Paul Jones, Wayne Larson, Arthur Lee, Gary McCarthy, Nonnie McCord, Steve McCormick, Kenny O'Brien, Charles Richardson, Craig Robertson, Butch Sanderson, Tony Saturley and George Thomas.

Paschall Truck Lines realizes what an important role wives play in trucking. Mr. Waller recognized not only the value of our drivers to the company but also the role they play in the success of Paschall Truck Lines. As a small token, each woman in attendance was presented a long stemmed red rose.

A special presentation was made by Jerry Smith, Traffic Manager of the WCI Microwave Division in Dalton, Georgia. Paschall Truck Lines was presented with the "Carrier of the Year" award for exceptional on-time performance.

The big moment of the evening was the announcement of the Driver of the Year for 1989. He/she is chosen not only by company office representatives, but also by the other Drivers of the Month. The 1989 Driver of the Year is Andy Gallimore of Almo, Kentucky. Andy received several items as part of his award including a gold watch, a microwave oven, a gold and ruby ring with PTL encrusted in the ruby, and $1,000 cash.

Kerns becomes local distributor

Kevin L. Kerns of Farmington, Kentucky has become an independent distributor for the Conklin Company, a Minneapolis-based marketer of agricultural, building, and consumer products.

Kerns joins a national network of more than 20,000 independent Conklin distributors who sell a diverse line of over 100 Conklin products—including acrylic latex and Hypalon roofing systems, lubricants, fuel conditioners, liquid fertilizers, multipurpose cleaners, nutrition and personal care products, and a new water purification system.

The company's manufacturing, research and office facilities are located in Shakopee, Mn.

Higgins announces backhoe service business opening

Businesses giving to Youth Center

Mr. Tuxedo is contributing a percentage of their revenue for each tuxedo rented for prom to the Main Street Youth Center, according to Mr. Tuxedo Manager Lori Kirks. Sharilyn Wischart, owner of The Flower Basket has agreed to give one dollar to the Youth Center for every bouquet sold for prom. And Harry Allison, owner of Allison Photography has also agreed to make a contribution to the Youth Center of one dollar for each Prom Photo package sold. These businesses need community support to make this program a success.

The Main Street Youth Center is a non-profit organization supported by local churches, businesses, civic organizations and concerned citizens.

Lab Associates offering drug screenings

Lab Associates is now offering drug screening services to the west Kentucky, southern Illinois and Tennessee areas.

Drug testing typically involves the analysis of a sample of urine to determine whether the person has recently used drugs. A number of testing procedures are currently used which are extremely accurate.

Lab Associates specializes in working with companies to help them obtain a safe drug-free workplace.

Drug testing is one of the many tools available that can be used to reduce drug abuse in the workplace. Companies may use drug testing to send a strong message to applicants, employees and supervisors alike, that drug use in the workplace will not be tolerated. The work atmosphere created by this message may actually encourage non-drug using employees to remain drug free and encourage occasional users to stop.

Because of drugs, workers are losing their jobs and their self-respect and American productivity is suffering. By ridding the workplace of drugs, we can restore our pride and health, individually and nationally.

According to statistics, employees caught up in substance abuse tend to be absent from the job up to 16 times more often, claim three times as many sickness benefits and file five times as many workers' compensation claims.

For more information regarding Lab Associates drug screening services, please contact Ms. Kinsey at (502) 898-7755.

Artlines hoping to serve local artists

Artlines, located at 1409 Main Street (formerly Hungry Bear), is now open for business. With an increasing inventory weekly, Artlines is attempting to satisfy the needs of graphic designers, architects, engineers, fine artists, children and school systems and anyone who has any interest in art.

Artlines has many features including a left-handed novelty section and special ordering for merchandise not in stock. Other features include hand lettering certificates and athletic game balls.

The newest service to Artlines is a complete framing and matting service — Joe's Frame Shop. The department has been added as a result of Artlines purchasing all framing and matting inventory from Betty Hinton of Framers Gallery. The inventory will also include collector prints, decorator prints and many more. As a grand opening special through the month of April, anyone who purchases a print and has it framed at Artlines will receive the print at a wholesale price.

Hinton, a certified framer, has trained and will continue training through the month of April members of the Artlines staff.

Artlines is owned and operated by Linda Hartline Orr and Joe Beal Orr. Joe will be handling most of the framing with the assistance of full time employee Sheri Seeders. Joe has been a professional carpenter for the past six years and for the past two years, has contracted his own custom work afternoons and weekends. His reputation, job accuracy and professional skills will ensure that the services of the framing are continued in the same manner as previously known at Framers Gallery.

Hinton said "that of all the framers I've ever trained, I have never worked with anyone who has as much precision as Joe." The son of Faye and Dewey Orr of Murray, Joe has lived in Calloway County all his life and has done specialized work for many area residents.

Linda, a graphic designer at Murray State University's Publication and Printing Services, will be overseeing most of the art supplies and inventory. She has an associate degree in fine arts from Elizabethtown Community College and a bachelor of science degree in journalism from MSU.

The idea for an art supply store began a year ago after discussing the need with several people in the area. Many people expressing an interest have been buying supplies in Louisville, Memphis, St. Louis and other cities outside Murray.

The daughter of Jim and Evelyn Hartline of Radcliffe, Ky., Linda used her maiden name to incorporate into the business.

Special thanks go to Tom Rushing and Joe Dick, Bank of Murray; Ed Davis, MSU West Kentucky Small Business Development Center and Betty Hinton of Framers Gallery for making all the plans come together.

The Ors invite you to visit Artlines and discuss your art and framing needs Monday through Thursday, 10 a.m. to 6 p.m., Friday 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. and Saturday 11 a.m. to 4 p.m.

Cherry promoted to vice president

Robert G. Burton, President of ABC Publishing, a division of Capital Cities/ABC, Inc., announced today that Dean E. Cherry has been promoted to Vice President, Finance and Operations ABC Publishing.

"Dean's performance has been outstanding in every assignment he has had during his tenure at ABC Publishing. He has been associated with ABC Publishing for almost six years, starting as an MBA intern working with our Agricultural and Consumer Publications. He has also served as Manager/Financial Reporting, Director of Field Operations, and most recently as Director/Finance and Operations for ABC Publishing. During that time I have been consistently impressed by the fact that Dean always does a top quality job—no matter how large or how small the task at hand," noted Mr. Burton.

As Director/Finance and Operations, Mr. Cherry has been actively involved in many key areas of ABC publishing, such as: Acquisitions; the Divisional financial budget; monitoring the operations of the field operations; preparation of financial and capital plans, and administering the capital budget. In addition, he has chaired "Partnership for a Drug-Free America" for the Division.

Mr. Cherry holds a Master of Business Administration from Murray State University in Murray, Kentucky and a Bachelor of Science in Finance from the same school. He is the son of Bill and Gean Cherry of Murray. Bill Cherry is the mayor of Murray.

Hill announces opening of new backhoe business

Roy Hill Backhoe Service and Portable Structures has opened for business.

Roy Hill has announced the opening of a new business, Roy Hill Backhoe Service and Portable Structures, located at Midway approximately 2.5 miles south of Murray on U.S. Hwy. 641.

Services offered include backhoe or dump truck work, gravel and dirt hauling and installation and repair of septic systems, driveways and foundations.

"No job is too small or too large," Hill said.

Hill also offers carport and utility building sales, a 24-hour phone service and free estimates.

Hill employs Junior Thorn, a backhoe operator with over 30 years experience.

Enoch selected as Student of the Week March 5

Jeff Enoch, a junior at Calloway County High School, was selected as Student of the Week for the week of March 5 through March 9.

Enoch is the son of Rob and Carolyn Enoch of Rt. 1, Box 123-A Murray.

Jeff Enoch, center, was presented the Student of the Week award by Century 21's Marion Brown, left.

Enoch is a member of the academic team, math team, Beta Club, Future Business Leaders of America chapter, soccer team and has been involved in many church activities.

The award is sponsored by Century 21 and WSJP.

Burton named to Eagle Hill School board

Robert G. Burton, President of ABC Publishing, a division of Capital Cities/ABC, Inc., has been appointed to the Board of Trustees of the Eagle Hill School, located in Greenwich, Connecticut.

Mr. Burton said, "I am both delighted and excited to be part of this outstanding institution. The student body at Eagle Hill is a group of youngsters whose intelligence ranges from average to very bright but have difficulty with neurological processing. Eagle Hill School works with these children to overcome a broad range of learning disabilities and then return the students to main stream education."

Eagle Hill School is a residential and day school which was organized in 1975 by a group of parents. The grades range from kindergarten through tenth grade.

Teenage Mutant Ninja Turtles taking K-Mart, nation's theaters by storm

"Attention 'Dudes', 'Ninja Nuts', 'Turtle Troopers' and.....K-Mart :shopper."

K-mart's familiar customer greeting might sound a little different next month. That's because the retailer will go "Totally Turtles" with a promotion surrounding the release of the new live action release "Teenage Mutant Ninja Turtles."

Fans of these heroes in a half shell can shop for turtle paraphernalia, win Mutant Munchies for a year, sign up as an official fan club member and gaze at store banners with photos of these stars from the sewer as they shop their local K-mart.

The Turtles, created in 1984 as comic book characters, have enjoyed a success story that has generated the highest rated animated television series, a Nintendo video game cartridge and more than 75 different licensed products including games, food and clothes.

Between April 1 and April 15, Turtle Fans can enter to win a grand prize trip for six to California which includes airfare, hotel accommodations, spending money and of course, a pizza party. Other winners will receive "Teenage Mutant Ninja Turtle" frozen pizza for a year, collectible sets or official "Teenage Mutant Ninja Turtle" bandannas. Entry forms for the sweepstakes and applications for the "Turtle Force" fan club will be available at K-mart service desks.

K-mart will be the headquarters for official licensed Turtle merchandise including clothing, toys, jewelry, the movie soundtrack and a sports squeeze bottle.

The live action motion picture will be released nationwide on March 30, 1990 in more than 1200 theatres.

Ribbon cuttings

City and county officials and other friends gathered at the grand opening of Bob Perrin Real Estate in Suite A of the National Hotel Tuesday. Perrin has been a licensed real estate agent since 1963 and has been licensed in Kentucky since 1974. For more information, contact Perrin at (502) 759-1881.

Members of the Murray-Calloway County Chamber of Commerce gave a ribbon-cutting ceremony and reception for Crafts Galore located at 204 S. 4th Street. The business is owned and operated by Emma and Dianne Bucy (center). With them is granddaughter Audrey Bucy.

Headquarters Hair Care welcomes Maxey to staff

Headquarters Family Hair Care Center is proud to announce that Patricia "Tricia" Maxey has joined its staff of Hair Care professionals. Tricia is a graduate of Murray High School, has attended Murray State University and is a graduate of the Ezell Beauty School of Murray.

She was previously employed at the First Methodist Church in Murray and started with Headquarters in March.

Tricia resides here in Murray with her mother Carol.

Headquarters is excited about hiring Tricia and would like to invite everyone to call for an appointment and ask for Tricia.

College hockey

DETROIT — Chris Tancill scored both Wisconsin goals to lift the Badgers to a 2-1 win over Boston College in the semifinals of the NCAA hockey tournament. Wisconsin advanced to Sunday's title game against Colgate, which defeated Boston University 3-2 in the earlier semifinal at the Joe Louis Arena.

Golf

SCOTTSDALE, Ariz. — Jack Nicklaus shot a 1-under-par 71 and was two strokes back of the co-leaders in his first start on the Seniors PGA Tour. Nicklaus birdied the 18th hole to move among the leaders in the day-late start of the storm-delayed Tradition at Desert Mountain. With two rounds to go in the tournament that was reduced to a 54-hole format when Thursday's play was rained out, Mike Hill, Bruce Crampton, Al Geiberger and Phil Rodgers shared the top spot at 69.

THE WOODLANDS, Texas — The Independent Insurance Agent Open was reduced to a 54-hole event after two rain delays and P.H. Horgan III retained a 1-shot lead with a 6-under-par 66 after the first round finally was completed. Horgan held his slim lead over seven players at 67.

RANCHO MIRAGE, Calif. — Betsy King shot a 2-under-par 70 to open a four-stroke lead midway through the Dinah Shore tournament. King moved to 5-under-par through two rounds at Mission Hills Country Club. Rosie Jones, with a second-round 71, and Laurie Rinker, with a 70, were tied for second with 1-under-par 143 totals through 36 holes. Lenore Rittenhouse, the first-round leader with a 67, struggled to a second-round 78 to slip back into the pack.

Tennis

CHICAGO — Fifth-seeded Jim Grabb fought off Tim Mayotte's big serve to score a 6-3, 6-3 quarterfinal victory at the Volvo Chicago tennis tournament. The sixth seed, Richey Reneberg, also advanced to Saturday's semifinal, outlasting Malavai Washington 7-6 (7-4), 6-4.

HOUSTON — Top-seeded Martina Navratilova won her first round match in the $250,000 Virginia Slims of Houston, beating Bettina Fulco, 6-0, 6-1. Matches resumed Friday at Westside Tennis Club after two days of rain delays. No. 3 Arantxa Sanchez Vicario, Mary Lou Daniels and Laura Gildemeister also advanced to the second round.

SAN ANTONIO — Monica Seles of Yugoslavia advanced to the semifinals of the U.S. Women's Hardcourt Championships with a 6-4, 6-4 victory over Hana Mandlikova. In other quarterfinal action, Lori McNeil beat Gigi Fernandez 6-2, 6-0; Manuela Maleeva beat Carrie Cunningham 6-1, 6-1; and Ros Fairbank beat fourth-seeded Jana Novotna 6-1, 2-6, 7-5.

Football

MINNEAPOLIS — The NFL, sued by the players' union following the 1987 strike, countered with its own suit in an attempt to get players back to the bargaining table. The suit was filed in U.S. District Court, where the players filed their antitrust action following an unsuccessful 24-day strike. It asks the court to declare that the NFL Players Association remains the bargaining representative of the players despite its attempts to decertify following an appeals court ruling that throws out most of its claims. However, Gene Upshaw, the NFLPA's executive director, said the suit simply was the NFL's way of trying to ensure it has an antitrust exemption forever. Upshaw continued to maintain the union has decertified and no longer represents the players.

Basketball

PORTLAND, Ore. — A federal judge ruled that the NBA lawsuit challenging the Oregon Lottery's Sports Action betting game can go forward. U.S. District Judge Malcolm Marsh said some of the state's arguments against the lawsuit were valid, but that the case could proceed based on other points raised by the National Basketball Association. Marsh rejected the league's challenges to the game based on provisions in the federal and state constitutions and on federal and state antiracketeering laws. Nine of the NBA's 11 claims were left intact, however. They include allegations that the part-mutual betting game infringes on NBA trademark rights, tarnishes the league's integrity and enriches the defendants at the NBA's expense.

Magic Johnson used his sprained ankle to give the Portland Trail Blazers a swift kick. Last Tuesday night, Johnson sustained a sprained ankle against Portland, forcing him to sit out Wednesday night's game against the Los Angeles Clippers. Friday night, however, Johnson managed 25 points, 10 rebounds and 14 assists as the Los Angeles Lakers atoned for a blowout at Portland three days earlier by routing the Trail Blazers 135-106. It was the 121st time that Johnson reached double figures in three offensive categories, and was the Lakers' highest point total of the season.

Elsewhere, it was Philadelphia 149, Denver 131, Boston 123, Detroit 111; Phoenix 126, New Jersey 119; Chicago 107, New York 106 in overtime; Minnesota 84, Dallas 82; Seattle 139, Golden State 108; Atlanta 122, the Los Angeles Clippers 118 (Jeff Martin scored 14 for L.A.); Cleveland 105, Miami 104 and Washington 143, Orlando 115.

Hockey

TORONTO — Six players have been nominated for the 1990 inductees into the Hockey Hall of Fame. The hopefuls are Bill Barber, Guy Lapointe, Eric Nesterenko, Gilbert Perreault, Bob Pulford and Steve Shutt. A maximum of three players will be elected to the Hall when the selection committee meets and votes in Vancouver on June 17. Three former players have also been nominated for the veterans category, which honors players who have been retired for at least 25 years. Only one will be inducted. The nominees are Woody Dumart who played 18 years with Boston; Fern Flaman, who played 17 seasons with Boston and Toronto; and Edgar Laprade, who played 10 years for the New York Rangers.

Learning not to care...

were. "I probably overworked some of my early teams, moved them away from the things that got us to the tournament," Wooden continued. "By overworked, I don't mean physically, but mentally and emotionally. And there's no question the kids pick this up. They're an extension of the coach."

"You want each one, but none so much as the first," he added. "And it's hard to get that kind of perspective when you're in the middle of it."

Lewis had Elvin Hayes and Don Chaney when he made the first two of his Final Four visits, but he had the misfortune to run into Wooden and the then less-exotically named Lew Alcindor on both occasions.

There was considerably less clutter on his last three visits (1982-84), and the team sandwiched in the middle of that stretch, the Phi Slamma Jamma bunch headed by Akeem Olajuwon and Clyde Drexler, figured to fly over those few teams that didn't lay down in advance.

"The day before we played Louisville (in the Final Four), we had one of the most incredible practice sessions I'd ever seen. I stopped it before it ran an hour because I didn't want to leave that game on the floor."

"The next day, we played Louisville and won what a lot of people still call one of the greatest games ever," Lewis recalled.

"But the next day at practice, the team was so down. I never had a team so lethargic in all the years I'd been coaching. ... We had nothing left and I worried all the next day about the game."

With good reason. Lorenzo Charles of North Carolina State put in an airball shot by teammate Dereck Whittenburg as time expired to send Lewis home a loser for the fourth time.

"In a week's time, things were so different from one game to the next, but no matter what you do, you may not be able to get them into peak condition. And the thing about the tournament is every coach loses his last game unless he wins the national championship."

"But I would have gone back 10 times, lost," Lewis said, "and still loved it."

Wooden believed just the opposite, but took care never to let his players know that. He didn't think it dangerous to walk an emotional high-wire himself, but knew that if the players got on, everybody was likely to fall off.

"The thing you should dread as a coach is a team that plays too high," Wooden said, "because for every peak there is certainly going to be a valley."

Mike Krzyzewski has spent enough time in the valleys of college basketball, and right about now nothing would feel better than to stand at its peak.

But if he's looking for an omen, he might check the atlas. Even in the foothills of the Rockies, Denver actually lies in a valley.

come here, wherever you go — we'll beat you. It wasn't a threat, it was a promise."

Excited about being at the Final Four? Not Georgia Tech coach Bobby Cremins, who has become disillusioned about the state of his vocation.

"It's not that big a thing to me anymore," he said. "In 1985 when we had a chance to get here, it was the biggest thing in the world to me. The next year LSU defeated us in the third round. Since then, life has been miserable for me. In the last three years, we have not gotten past the first round in the ACC tournament and we've made it past the first round of the NCAA only once."

"I've watched what has happened in our business. You get to the point where you wonder how important winning is, how important the Final Four is. There have to be more important things. With my dad's death this year, and with what's happening in this business with good coaches going by the wayside, it's scary. I think a lot of it has to do with trying to get to the Final Four, trying to win a national championship. You get caught up in that rat race, you're going to get burned."

Duke players know when it's tournament time.

"You start to see a bounce in coach K's step, a new-found fervor when it gets to tournament time," center Alaa Abdelnaby said.

"He ups his tempo at tournament time," said Robert Brickley. "He gives you his all and he expects the same from the players."

No wonder Duke has reached the Final Four in four of the last five seasons.

Psychological clinicians attend national seminar about child sexual abuse

Clinicians from Muehleman Psychological Consulting services recently attended the Sixth National Symposium on Child Sexual Abuse sponsored by the National Children's Advocacy Center. The three-day symposium, attended by more than 1,000 persons, was held in Huntsville, Ala. Topics included treatment of adult survivors of sexual abuse, child victims, non-offending parents of victims, perpetrators, and families. Other topics included prevention of sexual abuse, and methods for treatment of juvenile offenders and juvenile victims. Attending were Dr. Thomas Muehleman, clinical psychologist, Ms. Cynthia Becker, clinical psychologist, and Dr. Mike Elliott, pastor and clinical psychologist.

Muehleman Psychological Consulting Services has an ongoing treatment program for adult, juvenile and child victims of sexual abuse. Services are also provided for parents and siblings of victims as well as the extended family. Sexual abuse perpetrators are treated at the center as well. The treatment program is partially funded by CHAMP, Inc., Calloway County's official task force on child sexual abuse, missing, and exploited children, a United Way agency.

Also attending the symposium from Calloway County were David Harrington, county attorney; and Ronald Wischart, Murray Police Department. All were sponsored by Children's Health and Mental Protection, Inc., (CHAMP) with funds received from Child Victim's Trust Fund administered by the Victim's Advocacy Division of the Kentucky Attorney General's Office. Muehleman said that coordinated efforts among police, social services, the criminal justice system, and specialized treatment programs are needed within the community to insure protection and treatment of victims and appropriate treatment for offenders.

Fern Terrace coloring contest

"Who says coloring is just for children?" Was what running through the residents heads of Fern Terrace Lodge as they had their own Easter Coloring Contest. They colored some of the pages from the Easter Coloring Contest that was enclosed in "The Murray Ledger & Times". The contest was held on Friday March 30. The staff of Fern Terrace Lodge did the judging, for which "was a very difficult task to do, as all the entries were very good" says Janie Underwood, day care and activity coordinator of Fern Terrace Lodge. Winners of the contest were from left: Ruby Brewer, 2nd place, Gracie Herndon, 1st place, and Lucille Walker, 3rd place.

Westvaco president to speak at business banquet at MSU

John A. Luke, president and chief executive officer of Westvaco Corporation, will speak at the 12th annual Distinguished Lecture in Business Administration banquet at Murray State University on Tuesday evening, April 10.

He will deliver a lecture titled "The 1990s. Westvaco looks Ahead" following a 6:30 p.m. buffet dinner in the ballroom of the Curris Center.

Tickets are 412. Reservations may be made by calling Kendall Rezbeck at (502) 762-6970 no later than Friday, April 6.

Luke joined Westvaco at its Charleston, S.C., plant in 1949. In 1955, he was transferred to the Fine Papers Division and was named manager of the division — Westvaco's largest business unit — in 1960.

He was named senior vice president of Westvaco in 1974 and served as executive vice president from 1976 to 1980. In June 1980, he was elected president, and in July 1988, he was named chief executive officer.

Luke earned the bachelor's degree at Yale University and an honorary doctor of laws degree from West Virginia University. In 1989, he was named a TAPPI Fellow by the Technical Association of the Pulp and Paper Industry board of directors for his leadership and contributions to the paper industry.

Luke will be introduced by Dr. John A. Thompson, dean of the

John A. Luke

College of Business and Public Affairs at Murray State. Richard K. Boyd Jr., public affairs manager for Westvaco Corporation in Wickliffe and president of the Four Rivers Manufacturers Council, will be master of ceremonies.

The Distinguished Lecture in Business Administration at Murray State was started in 1978 and is co-sponsored by the Waterfield Center for Business and Governmental Research on the campus and the Four Rivers Manufacturers Council, a group of approximately 60 managers of manufacturing and processing firms in western Kentucky, western Tennessee and southern Illinois.

THE ACES ON BRIDGE BOBBY WOLFF

"People are usually more convinced by reasons they discovered themselves than by those found by others."

— Blaise Pascal.

There was quite a discussion after today's slam went down. North argued for the diamond finesse. South defended his actual play. From a purely theoretical view, which side do you take?

Since South couldn't look at all four hands, he had a big problem at trick one. Should he allow the diamond lead to ride to his queen, or should he try to discard a diamond on the third high spade?

South didn't like the idea of losing his slam at trick one, so he delayed matters by winning dummy's diamond ace and trying to cash three high spades. West ruffed. East eagerly took his trump ace and the slam failed by one trick.

"You chose the wrong percentage play," argued North. "The diamond finesse offers a 50 percent chance while the 3-3 spade break offers only 36 percent."

"West made the only lead to give me a problem," lamented South. "With any other lead, I would have ruffed a club for 12 tricks, needing neither the spades nor the diamond finesse."

"Who was that sitting West?" asked a friendly kibitzer. And that gave South his true answer.

Had West been a novice (they hate to lead from kings), South's actual line would have been best. Since West was an expert (they know that a lead from a king against a small slam can be most promising), South should have stuck with the odds and gone for the diamond finesse.

Street's Department Store closing after 150 years as Cadiz business

CADIZ, Ky. (AP) — Street's may be Kentucky's oldest family-owned department store, and that unique honor is forcing it to close.

"There's nobody left in the family to take it over, and I couldn't find anybody interested in buying it as a department store," said Agnes Street, who is retiring at 67.

Her husband, E.R. Street Jr., died in December. He was the last descendant of John L. Street, who opened the store in 1840.

Mrs. Street said that prior to her husband's death, they began looking for someone to buy the store. "Those with the interest to do it lacked the money, and those with the money ... they aren't interested in coming to a small town."

The couple's only child, Diane

Cates, is a remedial reading teacher in Charlotte, N.C., and the two grandchildren are too young to run a business.

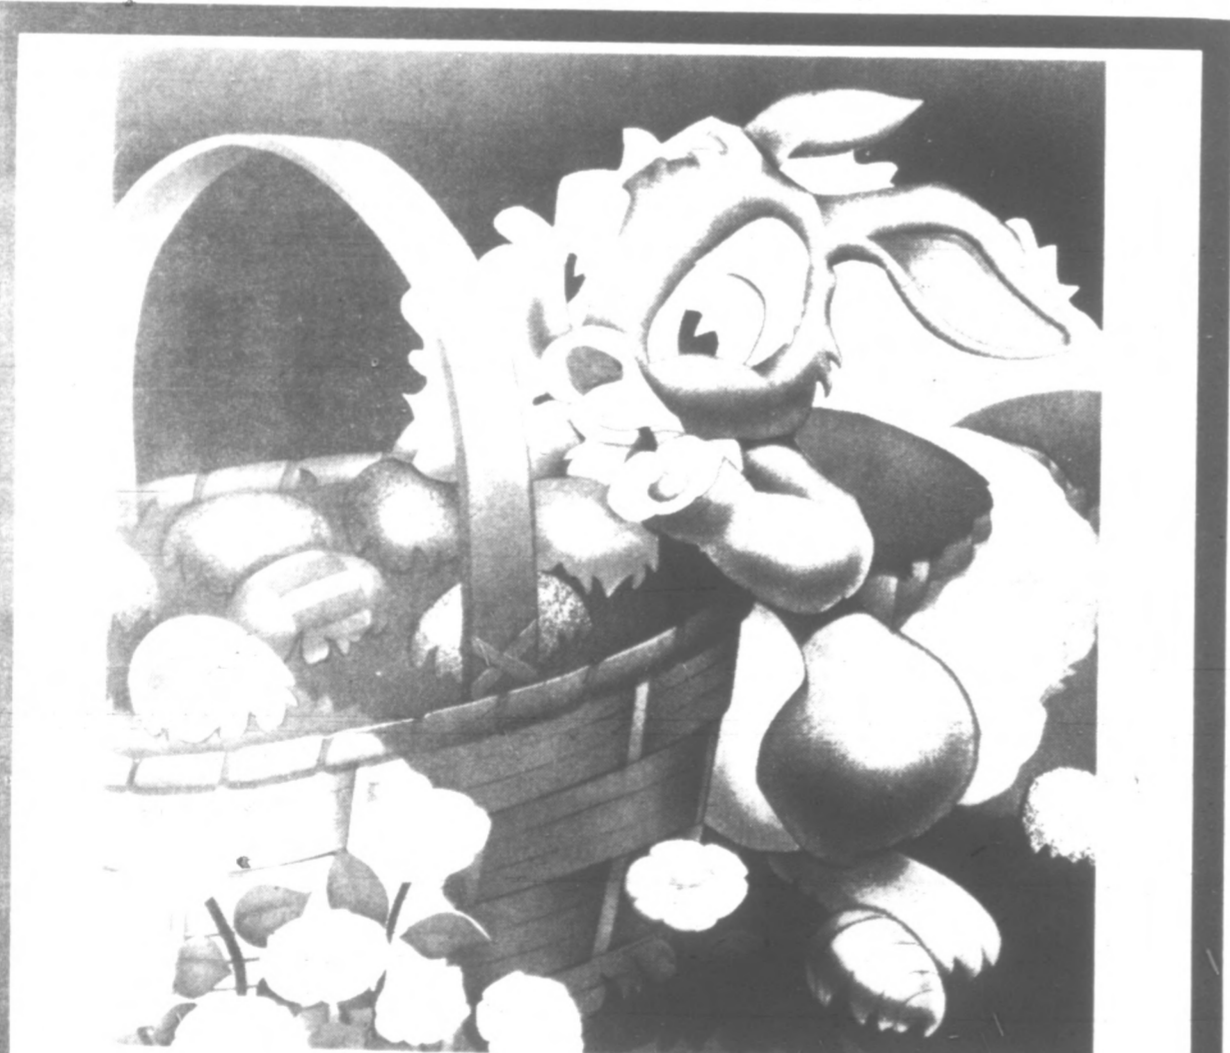

"I haven't been to see my daughter in years," Mrs. Street said. "I'm going to travel. North Carolina is my first stop, then I'm going to Hawaii, and then next year to Alaska, if I can afford it. At my age, I figured if I was going to travel, I'd better do it."

Six weeks ago, Howard Stovall, a local businessman, walked into the store and explained that the three-story building would be ideal for an antique mall that he was planning to open.

Mrs. Street said a deal was struck on the spot.

Does Easter make you sick at your stomach?

If Easter only means pretty eggs, chocolate bunnies, and jelly beans, then you've missed the whole idea. Even if you don't spend Easter in church, it is still a celebration of the rebirth of the earth and of all living things.

If you have the slightest belief that Jesus was resurrected following His crucifixion, then doesn't it make sense to worship Him on Easter Sunday and every other Sunday in the year?

At the Christian Church (Disciples of Christ) membership requires only that you profess your belief that Jesus is the Christ, the Son of the living God and that you accept Him as your personal Savior.

But you don't have to join to worship with us. We welcome you to join us in worship and communion on Easter Sunday and every Sunday.

Easter is more than just sweets, it's sweet realization.

 lop that particular piece of riverfront.
 Sheehan said the Army Corps of Engineers has refused to remove the barges because they are not in the channel.
 The money was included as a reward for Sheehan's vote on the $1.26 billion tax and education bill, one of dozens of such rewards contained in the $8.9 billion budget.
 After the session-long construction of the budget, there was little debate when the final votes were taken Friday. The Senate voted 37-1 to pass the spending plan and the House voted 86-11 a few minutes later.
 Gov. Wallace Wilkinson now gets to review the plan. He has the authority to veto specific items in the budget, but the legislature returns on April 12 to consider any vetoes.

It contains dozens of construction items and funding of pet projects for legislators who cast ballots for the education and tax bill.
 The conference committee of House and Senate members who put the final version together Thursday night kept up that practice.
 Added to the list were $1.5 million for a city hall at Southgate, $1.5 million for park lighting in Newport, $1.1 million for the Tucker-Guthrie Airport in Harlan and $826,000 for the Williamsburg-Bon Jellico Park.

The legislature also took advantage of some new authority to control road-construction projects to move some projects up on the priority list.
 Projects were bumped up in Floyd, Caldwell, Hopkins, Whitley and Hardin counties.
 The budget ends on June 30, 1992, with a $45.5 million reserve and a tiny, $1.4 million balance.

FRANKFORT, Ky. (AP) — Here is the final roll-call of the vote on House Bill 799, the executive branch budget. The House passed the bill 86-11, the Senate 37-1.

ledged that Bush allowed the law to be enacted Oct. 28 without his signature because he questions its constitutionality and prefers a constitutional amendment to assure the same protection for the flag.
 Bush said he has "serious doubts (the law) can withstand Supreme Court review" and said "a constitutional amendment is the only way to ensure that our flag is protected from desecration."

David Cole, a lawyer representing the defendants in both flag cases, accused the administration of seeking expedited high court review so flag burning will be an issue in this year's campaign for House, Senate and state legislative seats.

Cole, an attorney with the Center for Constitutional Rights, said a high court ruling striking down the law would lead to immediate introduction of a constitutional amendment.

Leaders of the Democratic-controlled House of Representatives also urged the court to review the law but did not support the administration bid for speeded-up review.

The justices, voting 5-4 last June, struck down a Texas law barring desecration or destruction of the flag. The court said burning the American flag as a form of political protest is protected by the Constitution's free-speech guarantees.

The high court's June ruling touched off a political firestorm and led to enactment of the flag-protection law.

HUD awards grant to Murray Housing Authority Friday

Sen. Mitch McConnell has announced a $110,683 grant for the Murray Housing Authority.
 The grant will be an operating subsidy to help the authority provide decent, safe and sanitary housing for 206 families, according to a McConnell spokesperson.
 The grant comes from the federal Department of Housing and Urban Development.

Hectic final day...

 "I think we've arrived," he said. "The General Assembly has show that we can tackle the job."
 The House and Senate spent most of Friday battling several bills back and forth as conferees dickered over their final versions.
 One bill that breezed through the Senate would improve medical care for the poor and expand health insurance coverage. After accepting a House amendment, the Senate voted 34-0 for final passage.
 Sen. Benny Ray Bailey, a Hindman Democrat who sponsored Senate Bill 239, noted that it cleared both chambers with no opposing votes.

To expand health care for the poor, the bill would impose a fee of 1 percent of gross receipts on all hospitals. State and federal Medicaid funds would match that money to repay hospitals the full cost of treating the poor.
 The bill would create insurance pools in area development districts. The pools would let small employers provide lower-cost coverage to workers.
 It would set up a method to attract doctors to rural areas. A new type of health-care professional to assist doctors also would be created.

Another bill headed to Wilkinson's desk would let authorities confiscate drug dealers' property. Lawmakers amended House Bill 272 to protect landowners if they were unaware of drug activity on their land.
 Proceeds from the sale of property would be divided between local law enforcement and state agencies. The funds would be used for drug enforcement and rehabilitation and prevention programs.
 Lawmakers also voted to prohibit the Kentucky Lottery Corp. from starting games based on professional sports. That action was prompted by an attempt to launch a lottery game last fall based on National Football League games.
 Lottery executives dropped the game at Wilkinson's request before it ever started. The horse racing industry had filed suit to stop the game.
 The lottery still can have games associated with the Kentucky Derby.

The lottery proposal was attached to a bill to create a Cabinet for Workforce Development. The cabinet will coordinate state government's efforts to offer vocational assistance for Kentuckians.

In one of their last votes, lawmakers improved their retirement system. Senate Bill 312 would let legislators retire one year before the age of 65 for every five years of credit in the legislative retirement plan.

An attempt to repeal Kentucky's inheritance tax for immediate family members died when the Senate removed such an amendment from a House bill.

The Senate then passed the bill, which will allow race tracks to pay the primumuel tax to the Revenue Cabinet in one lump sum rather than daily.

A bill to prevent spotlighting of wildlife for poaching also cleared the General Assembly. The measure was amended to ease concerns that it might entrap farmers who use spotlights to check on their animals.

Daylight time...

 sunset actually take place on the eastern edge of a time zone about an hour before these events arrive at the western edge of the zone.

For example, while the time is the same in Portland, Maine and Detroit, the sun will actually rise considerably earlier in Maine.

Since-sunrise is already later, by the clock, in places like Detroit that are close to the western parts of time zones, shifting it another hour later in the summer can cause a certain amount of discomfort.

The result is that the annual shift to daylight time is generally more popular in places close to the center or eastern edge of time zones, such as New York, Washington, St. Louis, Chicago and San Francisco.
 It may be less appreciated in cities located farther to the west in their respective time zones, such as Atlanta, Dallas, Detroit, Cincinnati, Fargo and Boise.

Mississippi State names Garrison for honor

Mississippi State University today named seven distinguished alumni as its first MSU Alumni Fellows.

President Donald Zacharias said the seven and their successors will carry the new titles permanently, as authorized by the MSU Alumni Association. Each will represent the college or school from which he graduated.

"They are honored in recognition of the ultimate measure of a university — the quality of its alumni," the president said.

The first group includes:

- James E. Garrison of Murray, retired president of Ryan Milk Co., College of Agriculture and Home Economics. He received his undergraduate degree in dairy manufacturing in 1949. He is a Pontotoc native. In Murray, Garrison is very active in several community and church related activities.
- Dr. Joe A. Haynes of Jackson, Miss., deputy superintendent for operations, Jackson Public Schools, College of Education.

- Richard H. McNeel of Jackson, Miss., senior project manager of Dean/Dale and Dean Architects, School of Architecture.
- Carlton N. Owen of Herndon, Va., director of timberlands wildlife programs, Champion International Corp., School of Forest Resources.
- Ron J. Ponder of Memphis, Tenn., senior vice president for information and telecommunications, Federal Express Corp., College of Business and Industry.
- Dave C. Swalm of Houston, Texas, chairman of the board of Texas Petrochemicals Corp., College of Engineering.

"The Alumni Fellows program is designed to acknowledge the achievements of alumni who have distinguished themselves in their respective careers," Zacharias said. "They will be invited to campus on a regular basis to meet with students and faculty and share their expertise both in the classroom and informally."

The fellows will make their first visit to campus April 9-12.

In addition to being distinguished guests, Zacharias said the fellows will share "as friends, as mentors and as counselors" to the campus community.

Humana Inc. wins freedom from regulators on last day General Assembly passes bills

FRANKFORT, Ky. (AP) — On the last day the General Assembly could pass bills, Humana Inc. won its freedom from state regulators.

A compromise version of Senate Bill 68 — the "Humana bill" — passed the Senate 20-18 and the House 57-36 on Friday.

It would deregulate hospitals in Jefferson County and loosen controls on other hospitals in the state. It also would deregulate some senior citizen boarding homes and treatment facilities for Alzheimer's disease patients.

Sen. Benny Ray Bailey, an opponent of the bill, said Humana wanted it only to free its existing Louisville hospitals from state control. The company never intended to build a $300 million medical center, as news reports said, the Hindman Democrat charged.

George Atkins, a Humana vice president and lobbyist, said the hospital chain would make a $300 million "investment" in Louisville. The company never actually said it would build anything, Atkins said.

Atkins, Humana Chairman David Jones and others lobbied intensely for the bill and said the company would pull 3,000 employees of its insurance subsidiary out of Louisville without it.

The bill survived five separate votes on the Senate and House floors.

Proponents picked up crucial support from northern Kentucky lawmakers after language was added to exempt Alzheimer's centers completed by July 15, 1991, from requirements to obtain a state certificate of need.

The state in September turned down an application for construction of a 140-bed Alzheimer's center in Fort Thomas.

The bill also would exempt senior citizen boarding homes that do not accept payment from Medicare or the state. And it would exempt on-site hospital expansions up to $600,000 — down from $1 million in an earlier version of the bill.

The final vote on the bill came in the Senate, where Bailey, who fought against the bill as chairman of the Health and Welfare Committee, made another attempt to defeat it.

Sen. Patti Weaver, D-Walton, cast what proved to be the deciding vote.

Weaver opposed SB68 the first time, but voted to pass it Friday. Another "no" vote would have caused a 19-19 tie.

Final rites for James A. Parker were today at 11 a.m. in the chapel of J.H. Churchill Funeral Home.

The Rev. Dossey Wheatley and the Rev. Susan Alsop-Atkinson officiated. Music was by the Choir of Goshen United Methodist Church with Mrs. Carolyn Pool as organist.

Active pallbearers were Tim Scruggs, Edward Palmer, Ronnie Hutson, Rheamond Wright, Richard Palmer and Allen Rose.

Honorary pallbearers were Raymond Pyle, Hugh Palmer, Baron

Palmer, Lennis Hale, Shannon Ellis, Hasten Wright and J.B. Watson, members of Friendship Sunday School Class of Goshen Church, along with Grover Burkett, Harry Lee Potts, T.C. Collier, Tom Scruggs and Jim Darnell.

Entombment was in mausoleum at Murray City Cemetery.

Mr. Parker, 78, of 1629 Catalina Dr., Murray, died Thursday at Murray-Calloway County Hospital.

Expressions of sympathy were requested for the Memorial Fund at Goshen United Methodist Church.

Killing A Business In Ten Easy Steps

1. Don't advertise! Just pretend everybody knows what you have to offer.

2. Don't advertise! Tell yourself you just don't have time to spend thinking about promoting your business.

3. Don't advertise! Just assume everybody knows what you sell.

4. Don't advertise! Convince yourself that you've been in business so long customers will automatically come to you.

5. Don't advertise! Forget that there are new potential customers who would do business with you if they were reminded and urged to do so.

6. Don't advertise! Forget that you have competition trying to attract your customers away from you.

7. Don't advertise! Tell yourself it costs too much to keep reminding your established customers that you appreciate their business.

8. Don't advertise! Overlook the fact that advertising is an investment in selling — not an expense.

9. Don't advertise! Be sure not to provide an adequate advertising budget for your business.

10. Don't advertise! Forget that you have to keep reminding your established customers that you appreciate their business.
