Police arrest three involved in area break-ins

By MARK COOPER
Murray Ledger & Times Asst. Editor

Three residents were arrested early Wednesday morning — and more arrests are expected later today — following an investigation into a string of burglaries in the Hardin-Dexter area by the Calloway County Sheriff's Department. Police arrested three suspects, including a Dexter juvenile, for the burglaries which occurred mainly at churches in and around the Dexter area, according to police.

Arrested were Charles (Chuck) Edward White, 18, of Rt. 6, Murray, who was charged with four counts of theft by unlawful taking over $100 and four counts of third degree burglary; and 18-year-old Brad Ahart, of Rt. 1, Dexter, who was charged with theft by unlawful taking over $100.

The juvenile was arrested and charged with six counts of third degree burglary and five counts of theft by unlawful taking over $100. He was lodged in the Paducah Detention Center, according to police.

At least two other adults and one more juvenile are wanted in connection with the crimes and could be arrested today, according to police.

Police said they also expect to recover most of the stolen property today as well. About half of the property has already been recovered.

The burglaries included recent break-ins at the Hardin-Dexter Methodist Church, Brooks Chapel Methodist Church, Dexter Church of Christ, Dexter Community Center and a building owned by Roger Pritchett near Dexter, police said.

Toyota VP tells what makes their system work

By MARY LAYTON
Murray Ledger & Times Staff Writer

Dr. Dan Harrison, Assistant Dean of the College of Business and Public Affairs at Murray State University (left), presents Alex Warren, Jr., Senior Vice President of Toyota Motor Manufacturing, U.S.A., with a gift for serving as the guest lecturer at the 13th Annual Distinguished Lecture in Business Administration. Warren is the Senior Vice President of Toyota Motor Manufacturing, U.S.A. The lecture was held Tuesday night at the MSU Curris Center and was preceded by a banquet.

Area business executives have been challenged to examine their human resource systems to determine if they sufficiently support their companies' needs and goals.

Alex Warren, Jr., Senior Vice President of Toyota Motor Manufacturing, U.S.A., voiced this challenge in a lecture titled, "The Toyota Production System — What Makes It Work?" Tuesday night at Murray State University's Curris Center.

Warren served as the guest lecturer at the 13th Annual Distinguished Lecture in Business Administration, sponsored by the College of Business and Public Affairs at MSU and the Four Rivers Manufacturers Council. Over 100 area business executives and representatives from the university attended the lecture and banquet.

Warren informed his audience that their companies can improve their human resource systems by doing the following:

- Take more time (and perhaps more money) in the selection and hiring process;
- Better communicate to your employees the company's expectations;
- Instill mutual trust between management and non-management personnel.

During the selection or hiring process, Toyota determines if the candidates have a good general aptitude or ability to learn, and if they have the ability to work together as a team, Warren said.

"We believe it's very difficult to train these two standards," he said. "If we select people with these two criteria, it's easy for us to teach them the technical aspects of building a car."

Toyota candidates often spend up to 16 hours during the selection process for which they receive no pay. They receive technical and interpersonal skill assessments, interviews, and a physical exam, among other things.

Warren also emphasized the necessity of a company to clearly communicate the company's expectations of all its employees.

"At Toyota, we have learned that our team members can do much more than we might ever have expected, if they are given proper training and directions," Warren said.

Toyota's employees are encouraged to voice suggestions which would improve production, he said. Last year the company received 8,000 suggestions which resulted in substantial savings to the company. As a result, Toyota spent thousands of dollars on awards for employees.

Perhaps the most important aspect of an efficient human resource system is "mutual trust" between management and non-management personnel, Warren said.

"Listening to our employees' concerns and taking effective action when required are ways to build trust," he said. Toyota has installed a hotline in which employees can ask questions or voice concerns to management, which can be done anonymously.

These employees are guaranteed that answers to their questions will appear on the bulletin board within a week, he added.

In conclusion, Warren pointed out that "the American human resource system can be as competitive as that in any other nation in the world" if companies pay attention to their hiring process, communicate their expectations and instill mutual trust.

Registration deadline for interested local voters nearing

By MARIANNA ALEXANDER
Murray Ledger & Times Staff Writer

Kentuckians who have not yet registered to vote have until April 29 to do so in-time to vote in the May 28 primary elections.

Currently, statewide voter registration is down, but Secretary of State Bremer Ehrler expects the trickle of newly-registered voters since the last election to increase as Kentuckians begin turning more attention to the primary elections. Kentucky has 2.5 million people of voting age, according to the Urban Studies Center at the University of Louisville. Of those, 73 percent are registered to vote.

There are 15,867 registered voters in Calloway County, according to deputy clerk Marianna Stubblefield, based on current records dated October 16, 1990.

Broken down by parties, 13,737 were registered Democrats; 1,619 registered as Republicans; 137 voters registered "no preference" and 374 voters classified themselves as "other."

Compared to the 17,430 registered voters as of October 16, 1989, last year's voter registration was down in Calloway County. Stubblefield said some of the decrease could be attributed to the purging of voters in Frankfort.

Murray State University students also have not been registering in Calloway County as much this year, Stubblefield said.

In the most recent count taken by the State Board of Election in February, 1,854,392 registered voters were recorded statewide, only 77 more than in November.

Faculty Senate disapproves of proposed MSU creed

By MARK COOPER
Murray Ledger & Times Asst. Editor

A proposed creed for Murray State University, which has met at least preliminary approval from student government, was rejected as written by the Faculty Senate

Tuesday. The proposed document, taken from the University of South Carolina, is hoped by university administration to help alleviate many of the on-campus "behaviors that just are not legally regulated," according to Senate Vice President

Nancy France. The creed mentions hazing, cheating and other on-campus problems and would be used "mostly as a guide" for students, faculty and staff to live by, France said.

"If it's in the creed, students know what is expected of them," she said.

The document has already been approved by the Student Government Association and the Undergraduate Studies Committee of the

Cheap painting hides copy of Declaration of Independence

NEW YORK (AP) — A pristine copy of the Declaration of Independence printed on July 4, 1776, was discovered tucked behind a painting bought for $4 at a flea market and may fetch more than $1 million, an auction house says.

A Philadelphia financial analyst bought the old, torn painting of a country scene two summers ago in Adamstown, Pa., because he liked the wood frame, said David Redden, vice president of Sotheby's, which authenticated the document.

When the man removed the painting, the frame fell apart and he found a folded-up document, Redden said.

"When we discussed the value, he was completely stunned," Redden said. Sotheby's estimated the copy is worth $800,000 to $1.2 million. The auction house will offer it for sale June 4. In January 1990, another copy of the Declaration of Independence sold for a record $1.59 million.

The owner wishes to remain anonymous and turned down an interview request relayed by Sotheby's.

Redden said the document is one of 24 known surviving copies of the Declaration of Independence made by a Philadelphia printer, John Dunlap, on the day the Continental Congress adopted the declaration. The document is 15 1/2 inches by 19 1/2 inches of slightly yellowed rag paper printed in black ink.

Redden speculated Dunlap printed 200 copies for distribution to government leaders, the Army and throughout the 13 colonies.

How do you feel about the increase in the minimum wage?

Gary Dobbins
"It doesn't affect me but it's a good thing it's gone up. The increase has been a long time coming. Other workers — ones making a little more than the minimum wage — should have an increase too."

Roger Forrester
"I'm employing another man and I feel it's about time people start making some money. But I feel other people, like ones making $5 or $6 an hour, should also get a 45 cent raise. It's not fair to someone who has been there longer."

"I think it's great. I just wish it were a little more. People need it. With the economy the way it is, everything's so high."

Jimmy Weathers
"It doesn't affect me because I'm self-employed. I think the minimum wage is still too low myself. There's a lot of people out there making minimum wage who aren't making a living."

MSU Academic Council.

Other senators, however, questioned the need for a creed and pointed out discrepancies within the text including a mention of the entire university community at one point but an emphasis of only students at another.

Another senator called the proposed creed "toothless" and indicated that hazing, cheating and the other things mentioned by the creed have all been regulated by other university documents.

"I don't know why another document is needed," said one senator.

A creed, if adopted, should "grow out of the community" as well and not be taken from another university, according to senator Dr. Dieter Jedan, who proposed the writing of an original creed for Murray State.

In other news, the handbook and personnel committee was urged to submit a proposal by the May meeting for a Faculty Club on campus as MSU President Dr. Kurth and Provost Dr. James Booth are supportive of the idea, according to Senate President Dr. Ray Conklin.

Possible sites for the club include the home economics house located on N. 15th Street, Conklin said.

Countdown proceeds for Atlantis liftoff

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) — NASA today quietly counted down the seconds to Friday's launch of Atlantis with a 17-ton gamma ray observatory.

The five-day mission will also feature the first spacewalk by Americans in more than five years.

The countdown, which began Tuesday, proceeded uninterrupted toward a 9:18 a.m. liftoff. It will be the first shuttle flight of 1991.

Atlantis' five-member crew will release the observatory midway through the flight. It is the heaviest scientific spacecraft ever carried by a space shuttle and takes up about half of Atlantis' 60-foot cargo bay.

Immense collection devices are needed because of the relatively rare and random occurrence of gamma rays, the most energetic radiation known. These rays, emitted from pulsating and exploding stars and other violent objects, are invisible from the ground.

The $600 million observatory will survey the entire sky during its mission of at least two years.

"We are very excited about what we know we're going to see based on previous missions and theoretic-

Swiss official fuels hostage release talk

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — The foreign minister of Switzerland, the intermediary between Iran and Washington, has arrived in Tehran amid continued speculation that Western hostages held by pro-Iranian groups in Lebanon could be freed.

The Beirut newspaper Ad-Diyar claimed today that Washington has reached an agreement with Iran on the release of the hostages before April 15. The newspaper has been inaccurate on hostage reports in the past.

Ad-Diyar, quoting unidentified sources in Christian east Beirut, said the settlement would involve U.S. aid to Tehran and was reached "in direct contacts carried out by an American diplomat who paid a secret visit to Tehran last week."

The newspaper did not elaborate.

Tehran radio, monitored in Nicotia, said Rene Felber would meet during his three-day visit with Iranian President Hashemi Rafsanjani and Foreign Minister Ali Akbar Velayati.

Most of the hostages are believed held by pro-Iranian Shiite Muslim factions. They include six Americans, four Britons, two Germans and an Italian. The longest-held is Associated Press correspondent Terry Anderson, who was kidnapped six years ago.

During the Gulf War, Rafsanjani made repeated contacts with Washington through the Swiss Embassy in Tehran, which has handled U.S. interests since Tehran and Washington severed diplomatic ties in 1979.

Sources in Tehran, who spoke on condition of anonymity, said Iranian officials sensed an unprecedented "seriousness" in Washington to solve the hostages issue in a "comprehensive way."

On Monday, British businessman Roger Cooper was released from a Tehran prison after nearly 5 1/2 years in prison on espionage charges. Cooper's release was seen as a further sign that Rafsanjani was ready to help secure the hostages' release.

Cooper said he expected the hostages in Lebanon to be freed "within the next few months."

LAOS

BANGKOK, Thailand — U.S. and Laotian officials today began investigating the fates of Americans missing from the war in Laos, the U.S. Embassy said. An embassy spokesman, speaking on condition of anonymity, said the inquiry was expected to last nine days. The current investigation centers on so-called discrepancy cases in which U.S. officials say the Laotians should have information. They include airmen who were known to have survived crashes but were never heard from again. The spokesman did not know how many cases were to be investigated. As of March 5, the Pentagon listed 2,282 Americans as missing in action from the war, which ended in 1975. Vietnam and Cambodia. Of those, 1,665 were listed missing in Vietnam, 528 in Laos, 83 in Cambodia and six in China's coastal waters. U.S. officials say they have no evidence that any of the missing Americans are alive. Many of those captured are thought to have been killed, in some cases by civilians enraged by the aerial bombardment.

Two Murray women were arrested and charged with illegal transportation of alcoholic beverages in a dry option territory Tuesday near Fairdealing, according to a report from the Kentucky State Police.

Linda Brandon, 49, and Louise Hill, 62, both of Rt. 3, Murray, were arrested following a routine traffic stop on U.S. 68 at Fairdealing, police said.

Tobacco allotments released for Calloway

Tobacco allotments have been released from the Calloway County ASCS office. Increases were made on Burley quotas and Dark Fired Cured Tobacco Allotments. The office has begun leasing tobacco and will continue to do so until June 1, 1991. Persons wishing to lease tobacco must know the farm where the tobacco will be grown before signing the lease.

There are new regulations concerning Burley quotas for 1991. Beginning with 1991, the lease and transfer limitation has been increased to 30,000 pounds per farm, and it will be possible to sell burley pounds.

The new owner of purchased burley must designate the tract where he wants to put the new pounds, and the pounds will stay with this tract for contribution purposes. The purchaser must also grow, or share in the risk of production, for three years or lose the purchased pounds.

Purchased burley pounds must remain on the buying farm for three years before it can be leased away or resold. Beginning in 1994, burley quotas which have not been leased away or grown during two of the three preceding years will be forfeited.

The new legislation also provides that when a farm is divided through reconstitution, the quota which transfers with the resulting farm shall not be less than 1000 pounds. The new owner can either purchase pounds to increase the allotment to 1000 pounds, combine the land with other land owned by the purchaser so that the resulting farm has at least 1000 pounds of quota, or sell the pounds.

The enrollment in the 1991 Wheat/Feed Grain Program is still ongoing and will continue until April 26, 1991. Producers may elect to grow a percentage of their base or enroll in the 0/92 program.

Persons enrolling in the program may elect to receive an advance payment of 40% of the projected payment, with the final payment being issued later in the year.

Persons farming in more than one county will be required to sign an AD-1026 (sod-buster) in their control county before receiving any type of price support. If you have a question concerning your control, please contact your county ASCS office.

State police officers, civilians participating in drug testing

Kentucky State Police drug testing began in January 1991, a voluntary program for all civilian employees and sworn personnel hired prior to May, 1984. The program is mandatory for officers hired after May 1984 (drug testing for those officers was a condition of employment) and certain specialized sections, namely the Aircraft Section.

KSP Post 1 at Mayfield has a total of 55 employees, including 12 civilians and 43 sworn officers. There are eight supervisors, seven detectives and 28 troopers. All employees at the Mayfield post except two are signed up for the drug testing program. Post 1 commander John E. Witt said, giving the Mayfield post a 96% participation rate in the program.

The state police has a sworn complement of 932 people, with 96.13% signed up for the drug testing program. The civilians for the department number 687, and 68% of those are signed up to participate. With the two categories combined, 84.18% of state police employees are participating.

To date, four posts and several sections have 100% participation. All those who have signed up to be tested are entered into a computer and the computer generates a list of between 50-100 names every other Monday. Once an employee is selected, their name is marked and it will not be selected again for thirty days. After that time it is re-entered into the system and may be drawn again. No one will be tested more than twice within two years.

To date approximately 350 names have been generated; eight people have had their names selected twice. All 16 posts, DE/SI and a large number of the sections have had their employees tested. Also, the entire state police command staff has been tested.

Norwegian daredevil runs ski hill on bed of nails

OSLO, Norway (AP) — A daredevil slid down a ski slope while lying on a bed of nails, news reports said Tuesday.

Inge Vådar Svengen, 41, claimed to have survived the run without suffering a puncture.

For the Saturday stunt, Svengen removed his shirt and lay on the bed of 270 six-inch nails, mounted on skis. He then slid 500 yards down the children's hill of a ski run in southern Norway.

"I am no masochist," Svengen told the Dagbladet newspaper. "Abroad I am treated like a big entertainer. Here at home, I'm seen as a half-wit."

Svengen had predicted a 62 mph top speed, but his device moved slowly.

Cave explorer receiving help

CARLSBAD, N.M. (AP) — Experts trying to free an explorer who broke her leg inside the nation's deepest known cave organized a bucket brigade of rescuers to carry her today through a treacherous passage known as The Rift.

Emily Davis Mobley, who was part of a mapping expedition into Lechuguilla Cave, was injured Sunday about two miles inside the cave.

On Tuesday, with her leg in a splint, she was hoisted on a stretcher up the 250-foot Great White Way, a rock wall with a series of ledges, said park Ranger Jeff Denny.

Rescuers talked to her by telephone after stringing a line into the cave, and she asked for a pizza and a hairbrush. Rescuers have been sending food and painkillers to Mobley, and a doctor was among several people with her.

Remember the 10th For City Newspaper Carriers

The 10th of each month is a very important day to your city newspaper carrier. Your carrier must receive your payment by the 10th of the month in order to pay their bill.

You see, these carriers are independent business men and women. They buy their papers from us at wholesale cost and sell them to you at the retail delivery rate. When you don't pay them by the 10th they have to dig down into their own pockets to make up the difference.

Please pay your carrier promptly before the 10th of each month. They depend on you to write their pay checks.

Collection time can be an inconvenience for you and your carrier.

So, paying by mail is a simple way to avoid the bother of monthly collection.

Letters to the editor

Why not competency testing for candidates?

Dear Editor:

Perhaps my cynicism is unfounded. Until recently I had been totally convinced that nothing really worthwhile has ever come from a political television commercial.

Then I saw it. Before I could find the remote control or get to the television set to change the channel, there it was.

Half an idea.

Now that's not the ultimate, but it's undoubtedly headed in the right direction. And, as I brace for the unceasing bombardment of my senses until May 28 with the video vignettes of candidates with more money than merit, new hope swells within my breast. Maybe a whole idea will emerge before primary election day.

The half idea? Many of your readers have seen it but perhaps failed to recognize it because of a clever disguise. It's concealed in the proposed "competency testing for teachers" advocated by one of the gubernatorial hopefuls.

Not that some kind of test for teachers is a bad idea, but the truly redeeming social value in the concept of "competency testing" lies elsewhere — in the potential for simplifying the campaign by drastically thinning the ranks of that crowded field on the ballot.

Competency testing for political candidates. That's how to double the value of the aforementioned semi-idea. But I doubt that we see it surface as a campaign issue.

Writer recommends two for Superintendent post

Dear Editor:

The state office of Superintendent of Public Instruction has been stripped of its power, budget, and responsibility; however, there are twelve candidates running for the defunct office. Twelve thousand dollars per administration will be paid to the winning candidate, who has no responsibilities. That's better than the lottery!

I have personally researched each candidate and their platform. It is for this reason that I am endorsing a Democratic and Republican candidate. Both are more than qualified and both have credible platforms. I have spoken at length with both.

Democrat Eben Henson's goal for the last several years have been to create a self-esteem commission in the Commonwealth. He is a charter member of the California self-esteem commission. In other words, Eben Henson wants to take the $3,000.00 per year and reinvest it in our children's self-worth. Eben Henson has been the mayor of Danville, Kentucky as well as he has served in many other capacities.

Republican W.S. Kroghahl also is concerned with Kentucky's school children's self-worth; however, Dr. Kroghahl wishes to raise self-esteem by combating illiteracy. He too will use — not waste — our tax money by reinvesting it in illiteracy programs. Dr. Kroghahl is retired from 42 years of teaching; 28 were at the University of Kentucky.

I urge all Kentuckians to vote for W.S. Kroghahl, Republican, or Eben Henson, Democrat; Superintendent of Public Instruction.

Two Calloway Countians in Desert Storm support

Dear Editor:

Two men from Calloway County are taking part in Operation Desert Storm support at Ft. Stewart, Georgia in March and April. They are Sergeant Morris Prescott, Box 157, New Concord and Specialist Steve Massey.

Sgt. Prescott is a veteran of the Vietnam War and a member of the Delta Co. 100th Division in Murray for a total of 17 years army and reserves, combined. He is a graduate of Murray State University and retired from the Murray City Fire Department.

Specialist Massey is also from Calloway County. He graduated from Calloway County High School and has spent four years in the military, part of which he was in Germany. He has a total of seven years in the military combining regular army and reserve. Specialist Massey plans to attend MSU in the fall.

Both men are reported to be doing an outstanding job helping our heroes adjust and get back home especially with their loved ones. If all goes well both men will be home sometime in April.

Today In History

Today is Wednesday, April 3, the 93rd day of 1991. There are 272 days left in the year.

Today's Highlight in History:

On April 3, 1860, the legendary Pony Express began service between St. Joseph, Missouri, and Sacramento, Calif. The service lasted only a year and a half before giving way to the transcontinental telegraph.

On this date:

In 1776, George Washington received an honorary doctor of laws degree from Harvard College.

In 1783, Washington Irving, author of "Rip Van Winkle" and "The Legend of Sleepy Hollow," was born in New York City.

In 1865, Union forces occupied the Confederate capital of Richmond, Va., during the Civil War.

In 1882, the notorious outlaw Jesse James was shot to death in St. Joseph, Mo., by Robert Ford, a member of his own gang.

In 1936, Bruno Hauptmann was electrocuted in Trenton, N.J., for the kidnap-murder of the Lindbergh infant.

In 1946, Lt. Gen. Masaharu Homma, the Japanese officer responsible for the Bataan Death March during World War II, was executed.

In 1948, President Truman signed the Marshall Plan, which allocated more than $5 billion in aid for 16 European countries.

In 1979, Jane M. Byrne became the first woman to be elected mayor of Chicago, as she defeated Republican Wallace D. Johnson.

In 1982, Britain dispatched a large naval task force to the south Atlantic to reclaim the disputed Falkland Islands, which had been seized by Argentina.

In 1985, the landmark Brown Derby restaurant in Hollywood closed its doors after 56 years in business.

Ten years ago: President Reagan, recovering from the attempt on his life, suffered a setback when he developed an intermittent fever.

Five years ago: President Reagan condemned the previous day's bombing of TWA Flight 840 over Greece that left four Americans dead, calling it a "barbaric, wanton act of international terrorism."

One year ago: A delegation from the rebellious republic of Lithuania met with an adviser to Soviet President Mikhail Gorbachev. The U.S. Senate overwhelmingly approved comprehensive clean-air legislation. Jazz singer Sarah Vaughan died in suburban Los Angeles at age 66.

Thought for Today: "The difference between gossip and news depends on whether you hear it or tell it." — Anonymous.

It is no bad thing, I submit, to mark major anniversaries as they come along. I am marking one now, and ask your indulgence in a sentimental journey.

Early in March of 1941, as a senior in Missouri's School of Journalism, I learned that I had accumulated sufficient credits for graduation. There seemed to be no point in hanging around Columbia, Mo. Time to earn a living!

Because I am a Southerner, as distinguished from a Midwesterner, and because I am day people, as distinguished from night people, I wanted to work on an afternoon newspaper in the South. So I wrote letters of application to the Atlanta Journal, the New Orleans Item and The Richmond News Leader.

Those letters of application arouse some embarrassment. Ahem! I was 20 years old and looked to be about 14. In an effort to assure prospective employers of my maturity, I modestly noted that I was "as familiar with the streets of Paris as I am with those of New York." This was the truth. It was, in fact, quite literally true: I had never set foot in either Paris or New York.

In any event, I cast my bait and on Tuesday, March 25, a telegram came from Charles Hamilton, city editor of the News Leader. It read:

MY VIEW
By James J. Kilpatrick

"Would you be interested in job as general reporter, starting $35 a week?" On winged feet I fled to the Western Union office. With trembling hand I drafted my reply: "Will arrive Monday, Kilpatrick."

So it all began. I took a Wabash train to St. Louis, then a C&O by way of Louisville to Richmond, and on the morning of Sunday the 30th I arrived at the old Main Street Station. I showered in the Railroad YMCA, got into my best herringbone brown suit — it had a double-breasted vest — and walked into the newspaper office on Fourth Street. The building was closed, but the heavenly scent of printer's ink hung in the balmy air. Bliss, what bliss! And the next morning I presented myself to Hamilton and went to work.

He greeted me with a querulous inquiry: "Where did you learn to read? All I asked was whether you would be interested in a job." I could not have been an impressive prospect, even in the suit with the double-breasted vest. I weighed barely 130 pounds. I audibly wheezed. The aura of untried youth hung palpably around me. A fresh haircut had emphasized my loving-cup ears. I was very wet behind them. But Ham took a chance.

These were happy days. It was the custom at the time to start cubs on what was termed "rewrite." This wasn't "rewrite" by the standards of New York or Chicago. We rewrote obituaries from the morning Times-Dispatch, but otherwise we mostly took dictation on our two-piece telephones from reporters who were out on their beats.

Soon I was graduated to a beat of my own, covering business news and the federal courts. Ham thought I had the makings of a feature writer. He would wander over to my desk, bearing a clipping that had amused him. Could I develop a local angle? "Be funny, Kilpatrick." No assignment is more difficult than to be funny on command.

My closest friend was another novice on rewrite, Stan Kennon. On a Sunday morning eight months after I came to work, we decided on impulse to drive down to Duke University. An old friend from the university, a cellist, would be playing in a performance of Handel's "Messiah." We went to Duke's great gothic chapel for the afternoon concert. Afterward, in the deepening twilight, lugging Mary's cello, we started across the campus. A newsboy came running toward us, hawking an extra edition of the Durham Herald-Sun. It was Sunday, Dec. 7. The Japanese had bombed Pearl Harbor.

Stan and I rushed back to Richmond and sought to enlist as flying cadets. He made it. I didn't. Chronic bronchial asthma did me in. He died as a bombardier over Hamburg. I stayed at home and wrote the weekly Servicemen's News, and as other reporters drifted off to war I covered police, hospitals, fires, City Hall, the state General Assembly, the governor's office and the Virginia Supreme Court. I was variously drama critic, movie reviewer, business editor, even outdoors editor. "Every man a tiger," said Hamilton.

The ensuing 50 years have passed as lightly as the blowing leaves of March. Newspapering never has lost its enchantment. To cover the world from a press box is a privilege given to only a few of us. To know the key players, to write against a deadline and to see one's work in print an hour later, hot off the press, is a thrill that imbues a lifetime. Half a century later I still smell the printer's ink of 1941. I reckon I always will.

Kuwait emir just doing what he can

Despite my better instincts, I am becoming a big fan of the emir of Kuwait. The spicily old fellow really knows how to live. He's sort of the Hugh Hefner of the Arab world, except on a much grander scale.

As I mentioned the other day, the emir didn't return to his war-torn country until the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers had restored one of his several palaces to its former opulence.

Only when new furniture had arrived, gold-plated toilet fixtures were restored, the air conditioners were humming and the gigantic indoor waterfall bubbling did the emir join his fellow Kuwaitis, most of whom are still enduring shortages of water, electricity, food and other essentials.

Somehow that he's back in his palace, King's Kuwait's ruler doing? Is he leading a life using his wisdom to guide his war-weary people through their troubled times?

Not his out of sight and probably looking to have a good time, according to a prominent Kuwaiti merchant quoted in The New York Times.

All the emir does is get married, the merchant said.

By that, he meant that for many years the emir's main interest has been young maidens.

As the emir explains, under Islamic law an emir can have four wives. An heir is his eldest.

But he is a shy emir. He has only three wives who are his permanent spouses. It is said that they live splendidly. After all, the billionaire sheikh is no cheapskate.

So that leaves a vacancy for one wife. And that's the emir's loophole.

As the Times story says: "At regular intervals — sometimes weekly — sheikh Jaber is said to marry a young virgin on Thursday night — only to divorce on Friday."

Obviously, the emir couldn't do that every time he got married and divorced and had to hire a lawyer and a judge to divorce and go to court to testify. Your honor, she has been carrying on, shamelessly with a rock musician and I have the photographs to prove it.

But under Kuwait's laws, all he has to do is get up on Friday morning, yawn, scratch, have a gulp of coffee, and say, "I divorce you, I divorce you, I divorce you." That's it — he says it three times, and the one-day marriage is kaput.

It's perfectly legal, although some Arabs say it really isn't sporting. He's following the letter of the law, but not its spirit," a Chicago Arab-American told me.

The Chicagoan, who has studied the emir's exploits, said there is no shortage of young maidens for the sheikh to deflower. He said some come from the Bedouins, the nomadic tribes that wander the desert and don't have much property that they can't load on a camel. Others are from Kuwaiti families that want to improve their standard of living.

The virgin brides get money, goods and gifts. I'm not sure if their families get in on the graft as well, but I suspect some do.

Future marital prospects are not affected for these young women. A legally divorced woman can marry again, so her reputation is not tarnished.

Some of these girls and their families consider this a great honor. They might hope that they will be selected as the permanent fourth wife.

Fat chance. At 65, with years of experience at this sort of thing, it's unlikely that the emir would oversleep or wake up with a hangover and forget to say those three magic words three times.

So that may be one of the reasons you won't be seeing much of the emir in the news. One of his sons, the crown prince will be trying to run the government, soothe the many angry and hungry Kuwaitis who couldn't flee to luxury resorts when Saddam invaded, and get the all-important oil wells pumping again.

I'm sure that there are some prudes who are offended by the emir's lifestyle. But look at it from his perspective. If you've seen his picture, you know that he has a long honker, an unsightly mustache and the general appearance of a swarthy basset hound. Put him in a group photo with Groucho, Chico and Harpo, and you'd swear that he was Sheikho.

Nature didn't make him a Warren Beatty. So he makes do with what he has, which is all a guy can do. And what the emir has, even after the war, are all those billions of gallons of untapped oil under his palaces.

If most men were honest — especially those with droopy faces — they'd admit that if they happened to be born a billionaire sheikh, they'd be tempted to use their royal positions to turn the pretty heads of some impressionable young things.

So the amorous emir shouldn't be scorned for hot-footing it out of his country when the first shot was fired. And for not returning until we had chased the bad guys away and his royal boudoir had been prepared.

Who knows? It's possible that the emir has been influenced by American culture. Back in the 1960s, he was a youngish guy. Maybe he picked up on a popular slogan from those days. Remember it? "Make love, not war." He's just an aging flower child.

Border patrol agents are busy

WASHINGTON (AP) — Alien and drug-smuggling traffic along the U.S.-Mexican border may go undetected because Border Patrol agents are busy enforcing sanctions on employers or their battered cars are in the shop, a report to Congress says.

The General Accounting Office said a decrease in the number of agents patrolling some sections of the border from Brownsville, Texas, to San Diego may be due to attrition, the use of agents in non-border activities and the patrol's aging fleet of vehicles.

Along one stretch of the South Texas border, seven agents patrol 66 miles of the Rio Grande. But for three hours each night, all seven agents are involved in other duties and the area is abandoned, the GAO said.

L.A. mayor gives view

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Mayor Tom Bradley finally came out and said what he's been hinting at for weeks — that Police Chief Daryl F. Gates should resign over the videotaped beating of a black motorist. Gates refused.

At a news conference Tuesday, Bradley appealed to Los Angeles' police chief of 13 years to step down, saying, "Chief Gates, now is the time for you to do the right thing for your officers, for your department, for the public you serve."

Gates has civil service protection and can be fired only by the Police Commission, a five-member civilian panel.

Iraqi rebels hope for help by Bush

WASHINGTON (AP) — Iraqi rebels hope to persuade the Bush administration to change its hands-off policy on their struggle against President Saddam Hussein's forces.

A Kurdish representative said in an interview Tuesday that U.S. policy may be based on such "unfounded fears" that the Kurds seek to set up an independent state or that Iranian-backed Shiite Muslims would take control of the country if Saddam were toppled.

"All we want is democracy and territorial integrity and respect for Kurdish rights within the borders of Iraq," said Najmaldin Karim, a Washington neurosurgeon. "That's what we want. The fear that Iraq is going to disintegrate is just unfounded."

Karim will represent both the Kurdistan Front and the Kurdistan National Congress of North America in talks with Assistant Secretary of State John H. Kelly and other U.S. officials later in the week.

Nuclear rocket may be used

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Star Wars project wants to use a radically new propulsion system, a nuclear reactor, to boost anti-missile weapons into Earth orbit, according to an arms control group that opposes the idea.

The nuclear rocket, dubbed Project Timberwind, could be used to put "directed energy" weapons in orbit to attack incoming missiles with particle or radiation beams. Steven Aftergood of the Federation of American Scientists said Tuesday.

The short-notice launches of such weapons would need rockets of enormous power. A nuclear rocket — carrying no crew that would need heavy shielding — could probably triple the payloads of conventional rockets, Aftergood estimated.

"Any existing system could really be souped up," he said in a telephone interview.

Mayor Daley is elected to full term at Chicago

CHICAGO (AP) — Mayor Richard M. Daley was elected in a landslide to his first full term after one of the dullest campaigns in Chicago's down-and-dirty political history. But to Daley, that was a good sign.

"This campaign was a milestone for all of us," Daley, 48, told cheering supporters Tuesday night on winning a four-year term. "We've shattered the myth that with a Chicago election must come bitterness and name-calling."

The son of Chicago's legendary Boss — the late Mayor Richard J. Daley — crushed R. Eugene Pincham, a former judge running on the Harold Washington Party ticket; Republican George Gottlieb; and James A. Warren of the Socialist Workers Party.

Daley was elected in 1989 to complete Washington's second term after the city's first black mayor died. The coalition of blacks and progressives that put Washington in City Hall splintered at his death and never recovered.

By Trudy Baker

April has always been my favorite month. Not only does April bring beautiful weather and glorious blooms that perfume the air, and the feeling that the grey dullness of winter is behind us, but April also brings my birthday! It is absolutely without doubt the best month for a birthday. My husband agrees, as his birthday is five days after mine.

We didn't have birthday parties when we were young at McDonald's or Show Biz, just usually the family at home and Mom made a cake and had your 'favorites' for dinner.

Because Easter was usually close to my birthday, we'd often go visiting my Springfield, Ill., relatives and since we are prone to be a zany group when we get together, some sort of birthday extravaganza usually occurred. One year we loaded into cars and drove to St. Louis for a tour of the botanical gardens and dinner at Stouffer's revolving restaurant high atop their tower overlooking the Mississippi. We had a French waiter who made over us like new puppies, and I felt extremely grown up and sophisticated at the grand old age of 12.

The year I knew I was really grown up, my older cousins took me out to a new eatery, The Attic Tearoom. It was a small quaint place over a dentist's office, in an old building. The menus were handwritten on old slate boards and the waitress recited a litany of the various teas available. It was all very lovely and sophisticated and I was quite impressed. Now my cousins (remember, I said zany) had decided if we were going out for tea, we all needed to wear hats, so they'd dug up three huge straw sun-shades and decked them out with flowers and scarves and, with all that tea, our English heritage kicked in and, as we always enjoy each other's company immensely, with constant chatter and much laughter, I'm sure we were quite overwhelming.

Luckily, our afternoon arrival was at a slow period and as few other customers were present, we eventually ended up with the waitress, hostess and cook at our table, singing ditties, my cousin had learned in England. This party naturally processed downstairs to the dentist's lobby, where the dentist enthusiastically joined us and sat down and played roll after roll on his player piano while we sang along. Other customers came in the door and joined in (I can only imagine their first thoughts after opening the door — we were quite overwhelming) and we ended up with a crowd of people having a tremendous time on a beautiful spring afternoon. It was quite a birthday party.

The food at the Attic Tearoom was good and on that occasion, the dessert we chose was a Linzer Torte. Cousin Jan produced birthday candles from her purse (that's when all the singing started) and topped it off when it arrived. It was delicious. They also had a unique dish of chicken with cherries, and really good herb bread, served with fresh butter curls. Although I don't have the Attic Tearoom's own recipes, over the years I've come across some that are close and especially good if eaten while wearing a huge hat.

Linzer Torte

- 1 3/4 c. sifted flour
- 3/4 c. sugar
- 2 teas. dry cocoa
- 1 teas. baking powder
- 3/4 teas. ground cinnamon
- 1/4 teas. salt
- 1/4 teas. ground cloves
- 1/2 c. butter, softened
- 1 egg, beaten
- 1 c. ground blanched almonds
- 2 Tbls. kirsch or cherry brandy
- 1/2 teas. grated lemon rind
- 2 Tbls. lemon juice
- 10 oz. red raspberry preserves

Powdered sugar.
Sift together flour, sugar, cocoa, baking powder, cinnamon, salt and cloves into a medium size bowl. Cut in butter with a pastry blender or 2 knives. Stir in egg, almonds, kirsch, rind and juice until mixture is well blended. Chill 1 hour or until firm. Cut dough in half and press one half to fit the bottom of a 10-inch springform pan. Spread 1/2 c. preserves over dough. Sprinkle a pastry board lightly with flour and roll finger thick strips of dough. Arrange strips, lattice fashion, over preserves. Bake at 350 degrees, 50 minutes or until pastry is firm. Cool in pan on wire rack. Remove cake from pan. Fill lattices with additional preserves. Sprinkle with powdered sugar.

Chicken with Cherries
1 broiler-fryer (2 1/2 lbs.) cut up salt and pepper

- flour
- 2 Tbls. butter
- 1 can (16 oz.) water packed pitted red sour cherries
- 1/3 c. sugar
- 1 unpeeled orange, sliced and quartered
- 1/4 c. toasted slivered almonds.

Season chicken with salt and pepper, roll in flour and brown in the butter in skillet. Cover and cook gently 35 minutes or until tender. Remove from skillet and pour off fat, leaving about 1 Tbls. in pan. Stir in 1 Tbls. flour. Add cherries and liquid and the sugar and cook, stirring gently, until thickened. Add orange and almonds. Put chicken in skillet, spoon sauce over pieces and simmer a few minutes. Serve over rice. (4 servings).

Beer Herb Loaf

- 2 pkg. dry yeast
- 1/2 c. lukewarm water
- 1 - 12 oz. can beer, heated to lukewarm
- 1/4 c. sugar
- 1 Tbls. salt
- 1/4 c. butter, melted

- 2 eggs, lightly beaten
- 1 teas. sage
- 2 teas. thyme
- 3 teas. savory
- 1 small onion, grated
- 6 1/2-7 c. white flour

Sprinkle the yeast over the lukewarm water and stir to dissolve. Mix beer, sugar, salt and butter with the yeast. Add the eggs, spices and onion and 4 c. of flour and beat until smooth. Add enough flour until mix becomes difficult to beat, turn onto lightly floured board and begin kneading, adding enough of the remaining flour so that the dough does not stick to your hands or the board. Knead until dough is smooth and elastic, 5 minutes. Place dough in a lightly oiled bowl, cover with a damp cloth and let rise in a warm place until doubled, 1 1/2 hours. Punch down and let rest 10 minutes, divide dough into two pieces and shape each into a round loaf, or place in loaf pans. Cover and let rise again, until doubled. Bake at 400 degrees for 35 minutes, or until loaves sound hollow when thumped. Remove from pans and let cool on wire racks. Serve warm with butter.

Diamond-filled book found by librarian

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (AP) — They say you can't tell a book by its cover.

Here's proof: Kansas City librarian David Conway last week was sorting through thousands of books donated to the library when he came upon one that didn't feel quite right. It wasn't.

Conway opened the cover and was stunned by the glitter of diamonds.

"It made noise when I picked it up and it was light," Conway said. "I opened it and all these rings were inside. I said, 'These can't be real.'"

But they were. It was the book that was false — a box given the look of a book cover in the hope of fooling thieves.

Conway turned the rings over to library marketing director Mary Ann Van Vooren. She returned them to the executor of an estate she wouldn't identify.

"I'm not a jeweler, but they were awfully nice," she said. "Two were at least a carat. They were bigger than anything I have."

Two Murray optometrists, Dr. James Courtney and Dr. James Byrn, participated in the Kentucky Vision Project's Give-One-Day during March, designated as "Save Your Vision Month."
Dr. Courtney and Dr. Byrn are two of nearly 150 optometrists who set aside one day in March to donate hours of professional services to provide eye health care to the needy of Kentucky.
The doctors said that over 400 adults and children were examined and if needed prescribed prescription lenses. The optometrists also found people with undiagnosed eye disease and provided treatment or arranged for treatment to be provided without charge.
"We are glad to be able to help these people and we plan to continue this effort year round as we have for the past seven seven years. Over 9,000 people have already been given free eye examinations since the program started, but the need remains great," said Dr. Courtney and Dr. Byrn.
Also involved in the program were the Salvation Army and Community Action Centers which established individual's eligibility and optical laboratories across the nation who donated frames and lenses. Murray Lions Club has worked with sight conservation for many years.
The Kentucky Vision Project was the pilot project for Vision USA, a national program sponsored by the American Optometric Association. The project has been the recipient of the American Public Health Association's Distinguished Service Award and the Presidential Citation for Private Sector Initiatives for the past two years.

Study suggests high-fiber diet helps in fight for breast cancer.

By PAUL RECER
AP Science Writer

WASHINGTON — Eating foods high in fiber may help protect against breast cancer, researchers say in a study suggesting broader benefits for a substance already thought to help in preventing colon cancer.

In the study, published April 3 in the Journal of the National Cancer Institute, the researchers reported that laboratory rats fed high-fiber diets developed many fewer breast tumors than rats who received little or no fiber.

"We found that by doubling the amount of fiber in a diet that is similar to our Western diet, you can significantly reduce the amount of mammary cancer, down to the level of a low-fat diet," said Leonard Cohen, a research scientist at the American Health Foundation in Valhalla, N.Y.

"It shows that the fiber itself contains substances which, when they get into the blood stream, will inhibit the formation of a mammary tumor," he said. "What seems to be happening is that fiber by some magical means that we don't understand is creating changes in the hormone system which protect against breast cancer."

The researchers' report said the way fiber might work against breast cancer seemed different between rats and humans, but they still said the new findings "suggest that dietary fiber may function as an antipromoting agent in human breast cancer."

Cohen said there have been many studies that suggest fiber in the diet can help prevent colon cancer but none to see if a high-fiber diet would have any effect on breast cancer.

He and his team used four groups of 30 rats each and gave them injections of a drug that causes breast cancer.

Three days later, the groups of rats were started on four diets with different levels of fat and fiber. One group got a high-fat diet and no fiber, another got a high-fat diet with fiber, a third got low fat and low fiber, while the fourth got low fat and high fiber.

Cohen said the fat used was corn oil and the fiber was a white wheat bran.

Fifteen weeks after the study started, 90 percent of the rats on high-fat diets without the fiber supplement were found to have developed breast cancer, compared with 66 percent of those on high-fat, high-fiber diets. Sixty-three percent of the rats on low-fat diets without fiber supplements had tumors compared with 47 percent for those on low-fat, high-fiber diets.

Numerous studies have indicated that high-fat diets, such as those of many Americans, tend to promote breast cancer.

Cohen said, "There have been studies that show fiber contains a lot of chemicals that could have effects beyond the digestive system," but he still called the new findings "a great surprise."

He said it was not known which were the protective chemicals in fiber, but that important changes were found while the scientists were studying the blood of the rats.

"We found some of the chemical changes that we see in the animals have also been picked up in humans who eat a high-fiber diet," he said. Cohen noted that breast cancer is known to be rare in groups that eat a large amount of fiber in their diets.

The journal that printed the study is published by the National Cancer Institute, one of the National Institutes of Health.

Return of Gulf War troops sends area lingerie sales soaring

CLARKSVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — The return of troops from the Persian Gulf War — and the anticipated homecomings of soldiers still in the Middle East, are sending lingerie sales soaring.

Sales of silky underthings are especially high in Clarksville. Frederick's of Hollywood reports a 300 percent sales surge boost at its store in the city near Fort Campbell, Ky.

"We have other stores that are doing well with 200 percent and 100 percent increases, but nothing like Clarksville," said Ellen Appel, a Frederick's spokeswoman. "It completely took us by surprise."

The 180-store lingerie chain based in Los Angeles has had to restock the Clarksville outlet with lingerie from nearby stores, said manager Peggy Bedard.

Sales started soaring at all of the chain's 66 stores located near military bases when President Bush said troops would begin returning home, Appel said.

Sales are up 206 percent at the Frederick's of Hollywood in Plaza Camino Real in Carlsbad, Calif., near the Miramar Naval Air Base in San Diego.

"It's spread like wildfire," Bedard said. "We'll have ladies come in and the next day they'll come back with two or three of their friends. Price doesn't seem to be an object now. I think they're so happy to have their loved ones home and safe, that price just doesn't enter into it."

Scout Museum exhibit salutes patriotism

A special exhibit of symbolic paintings by five prominent American illustrators salutes the spirit of patriotism at the National Scouting Museum in Murray.

According to Mark Hunt, museum director, the paintings are being displayed for the first time in the museum's six-year history at Murray. "Although they are part of our permanent collection, they have not been displayed before," says Hunt.

The five artist/illustrators represented in this exhibit include J.C.

Leyendecker, who, like Rockwell, illustrated covers of the Saturday Evening Post and also created the Arrow Collar Man. Leyendecker's work includes the original painting reproduced as the World War I Liberty Bond post in 1918. The work features images of Miss Liberty and a Boy Scout.

Other artists represented include Dean Cornwall, an illustrator and muralist; Howard Chandler Christy whose mural, "The Signing of the Constitution" is located in the Capitol Rounda in Washington, D.C.; Joe Csatori, a man who worked closely with Norman Rockwell at BSA and later took Rockwell's place as BSA's chief artist/illustrator; and James Bingham who animated Army Air Force films during World War II. He later illustrated the "Perry Mason" stories and other serials in the Saturday Evening Post. In all, a total of six new paintings are part of the patriotism exhibit.

"We thought this would be a good time to salute patriotism through these inspiring artists," Hunt told an opening-day audience at the Museum. "Love of country, regardless of political belief, has always been an important part of Scouting," he said.

1991 is the first time that the Museum has opened in March. It will remain open until Nov. 30. Hunt says that, while the new exhibit is probably temporary, there are no immediate plans to replace it in 1991.

The patriotism exhibit is only one of five additions or expansions to the Museum for 1991. A new display of recently-acquired Scouting memorabilia, special education programs for school groups, newly-discovered bronze statuary, and a special set of stories by the museum's live storytellers, have been added to older favorite exhibits and activities. The museum also features 28 original oil paintings by Norman Rockwell, America's best-loved artist. Five of these paintings are also being exhibited in Murray for the first time.

Hunt said that the Museum has plans to celebrate the bicentennial of the Bill of Rights by circulating portable exhibits to schools in the region. "We're working harder to support area schools and arts groups with education programs," he said. "You don't have to be a Scout to enjoy this Museum, and we are always looking for ways to help other groups learn about American youth and their values."

The Museum is open to the public from 9 a.m. to 4:30 p.m., Tuesday through Saturday, and from 12:30 to 4:30 p.m. on Sunday. For information call 762-3383.

Report on development of deaf babies released

WASHINGTON (AP) — In a significant report on the development of language in infants, researchers have found that deaf babies "babble" with their hands in the same way hearing babies string sounds together before they learn to speak.

The study found deaf babies begin forming repetitive signals with their hands before they are 10 months old, about the same age hearing infants begin trying out the sounds that evolve into spoken language.

The study, for the Department of Psychology at McGill University in Montreal by Laura Ann Pettito and Paula F. Marentette, was published March 21 in Science magazine.

They wrote that deaf infants exposed to sign language at home experiment with several repeated motions, just as hearing infants babble such noises as "dadadada." The studies of children who could not hear spoken words in their infancy showed "the maturation of the human language capacity may not be uniquely tied to" speech, they wrote. That suggests language is learned in steps regardless of whether it is through speaking or the use of signs.

"For centuries, people thought that speech is language and language is speech," Pettito, a psychologist, told The New York Times in an interview published.

In showing that deaf babies babble with their hands in the same manner as vocal babbling, "we've decoupled language from speech," she said. "We've torn them apart."

Pettito and Marentette, her graduate assistant, studied five babies, videotaping them at ages 10, 12 and 14 months. Two of the infants were the deaf children of deaf parents who use the American Sign Language and three were hearing children of hearing parents.

The hearing children used unorganized hand gestures — even as their vocal ability grew — but the deaf children showed evidence of repetition and growth in their hand signals.

The researchers identified 13 frequent hand motions that made up most of the manual babbling and that between the 12th and 14th months the infants began stringing meaningless sequences together that resembled sentences. The hand signals resembled elements of sign language.

"Babbling is thus the mechanism by which infants discover the map between the structure of language and the means for producing this structure," the study said.

by Jeane Dixon

THURSDAY, APRIL 4, 1991

HAPPY BIRTHDAY: IN THE NEXT YEAR OF YOUR LIFE:

Your determination and honesty will help you attain certain long-cherished goals. Once you decide on your priorities in June, you will be off to a flying start! Your finances should be in excellent shape by late fall. Travel for business and pleasure in November and December. A stable, long-lasting romantic relationship could turn permanent early in 1992. Your love for the limelight could lead to a career in show business or politics by this time next year.

CELEBRITIES BORN ON THIS DATE: actor Craig T. Nelson, author William Manchester, actress Nancy McKee, biographer Kitty Kelley.

ARIES (March 21-April 19): Your visionary ideas have great appeal today. Influential people will make a money offer. Your social life may be too hectic. Be honest with other people and they will follow your lead.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20): Someone's facts and figures could be in disarray. Avoid taking anything at face value. By acting independently, you will score a major victory. Do not crowd or you could lose admirers.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): Keep a low profile until you see how the land lies. Communicating your long-term plans is not a good idea. A shopping trip could prove timely if you can afford to buy in bulk.

CANCER (June 21-July 22): Make sure you show team spirit today. Success is assured if you do your share. A candid chat with your colleagues leads to new rapport. Loved ones will share their secrets. Be supportive.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): You have a flair for decorating. Use your artist's eye to choose lively colors to brighten your living quarters. Forge ahead with party plans. Your friends are eager to see you.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): Go ahead and shop but avoid running up credit card bills. Timely correspondence is the key to improved profits. Visits will put you where you want to be. Romance blossoms anew.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): A private conversation with an influential person gives you an entirely different perspective. Financial support is available for a pet project. Loved one makes things happen. Show your gratitude!

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Be alert to unusual financial offers and shopping values today. Your versatility lets you accomplish great things at work. A voice from the past reminds you of a lost love. Get in touch!

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Any service you provide today could bring startling results. Be conscientious. Seniors can find new personal fulfillment through community work. A teen-ager will make you proud.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): Keep your emotions in check when conducting business negotiations. Work the phone lines and write letters. A friendship provides a healing balm if your ego has been wounded.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Self-reliance is essential now. Do not count on receiving assistance. Your colleagues could offer valuable tips, however. Reflect carefully before making a romantic commitment.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20): You can be a mover and shaker today. Phone calls and face-to-face meetings help you negotiate a better deal. Ask for top dollar and you will get it! Attend group functions.

TODAY'S CHILDREN are bright and exceptionally articulate. With the right encouragement, they can reach great heights. Curious and energetic, these Aries have a tendency to scatter their energies too widely. Encourage them to finish one project before launching another. True "party animals," they love to socialize and be in the limelight. They thrive on competition and will delight in vanquishing their romantic rivals.

Wall leaving; Breazeale named Lady Racer coach

By DAVID RAMEY
Murray Ledger & Times Sports Editor

Kelly Breazeale shook the interim label this morning.

Breazeale was promoted to head coach of the Murray State Lady Racers this morning, as the university announced the resignation of Larry Wall, who spent a year and a half in charge of the women's basketball program.

Wall has "indicated a desire to return to men's coaching and will be leaving the MSU program at the end of his current contract," said a statement released by the university this morning.

"We appreciate the efforts of both these coaches in guiding the team through last year's season," MSU athletic director Michael D. Strickland said. "We wish Larry Wall the best as he seeks to return to his true love of men's coaching. Meanwhile, we're happy to have someone as qualified as Kelly Breazeale available to step in and take the head coaching job."

Breazeale becomes the fourth coach in Lady Racer history. She took over from Wall on an interim basis on January 26, when Wall returned to South Carolina to be with his dying mother.

After five straight winning seasons, the Lady Racers slumped to 9-18 this year. Breazeale had a 3-7 mark as interim coach, including victories over Eastern Kentucky and a season-closing rout of Middle Tennessee.

"It certainly is a perfect opportunity for a young coach," said Breazeale, who is 32. "Being the head coach at a university like Murray State and in a league like the Ohio Valley Conference has always been a dream of mine."

Breazeale came to Murray in the summer of 1989 from East Texas State where she was the head coach for four years.

The 1990-91 season was a rough one for everyone involved and Breazeale went through some soul searching about taking the top job in the Lady Racer program.

"It was a tough situation," Breazeale said. "I didn't want to gain at someone else's expense. I care a lot about Larry Wall. And I care so much for the kids and for the program that I wanted to stay. I want to put pride and enthusiasm back in Lady Racer basketball."

Breazeale had interviewed for the vacancy at Memphis State, but pulled out of the running to stay at MSU.

"The girls are really excited," Breazeale said. "We're going to get mentally and physically tough and be ready for next season. One thing we didn't take advantage of this year was our confidence. I'm an up-tempo coach, and the kids are very excited and I think that the adversity that we've been through will pay off for us. They say adversity makes you strong, and if it does our girls are going to nine times stronger this season."

Breazeale's first task is recruiting, as the signing day is April 10. The Lady Racers inked Purchase Player of the Year Rochelle Cudwell, from Marshall County, in the fall and Breazeale says MSU is going to continue to sign local players.

Larry Wall makes a point in the huddle during Murray State Lady Racer action earlier this season. Wall stepped down after two years as Lady Racer coach and was replaced by assistant coach Kelly Breazeale (at left) this morning. Breazeale filled in during Wall's leave of absence this season.

"There is a great deal of talent in western Kentucky and the surrounding areas," Breazeale said. "We don't want to miss the player in our own backyard. There are a lot of diamonds in the rough right here. We also want to get that franchise player from across the nation as well."

"We're excited about the future of the team," Strickland said. "Kelly is well-suited to lead the program toward its goal of a conference championship."

Sports Writer
Kip COONS
Associated Press

INDIANAPOLIS — The NCAA doesn't plan to have a permanent site for the Final Four anytime soon. But if it did, some say Indianapolis and the Hoosier Dome could top the list.

The day after Duke's Blue Devils claimed college basketball's biggest prize with their 72-65 win over Kansas, tournament organizers were saying that Indianapolis did nothing to hurt its standing as a sports town while playing host to the NCAA's annual basketball bash this past weekend.

NCAA officials and media members agreed that it would be hard to top Indianapolis as a Final Four site.

Bob Ryan, basketball writer for the Boston Globe, said the NCAA shouldn't consider holding the tournament anywhere else.

"Several people from the NCAA said, 'Wouldn't it be nice if it were (the permanent site)?' said Maribeth Smith, executive director of the local organizing committee. "But there was no commitment on their part."

"I don't think they'll ever have a permanent site," said James W. Shaffer, one of three local organizing committee chairmen. "But it's nice to know that if we had a permanent site, this would be it."

The only commitment from the NCAA so far is a recommendation from the Division I basketball committee that the Final Four return to Indianapolis in 1997.

The recommendation will be acted upon by the NCAA Executive Committee in May. Said Tucker DiEdward, another co-chairman.

"We're very optimistic it will go through with no problem," he said. "I think we'll get an A-plus report."

Co-chairman David R. Frick said it was important for Indianapolis to put on high-profile events such as the Final Four. "We're a branch town," Frick said, noting the absence of ownership of many of Indianapolis' major businesses. "You don't often have a chance to showcase your community nationally this way. For four weeks, all eyes were focused on us. You can't buy that kind of public relations."

Duke receives heroes' welcome on return to Durham

DURHAM, N.C. (AP) — When Duke returned from the Final Four this time, there were no unspoken apologies and no held-back tears. But there was a trophy.

Seniors Greg Koubek and Clay Buckley held it aloft so 10,000 fans in Cameron Indoor Stadium could see a prize they'd chased through nine Final Four appearances and 53 years.

"We did it!" Koubek shouted at Duke's homecoming celebration Tuesday. "Who believed we would win the tournament? We believed it. And you believed it. You guys are incredible!"

Buckley, during the team's arrival at Raleigh-Durham International Airport, said the victory over Kansas meant a lot to everyone, including the fans.

"I know that they've been dealing with it the same as we have," he said. "They may have wanted this win as much as we did."

And Koubek said it meant a lot to coach Mike Krzyzewski, who engineered four straight Final Four appearances. "No one deserves it more than Coach K," he said.

The trophy all but eliminated the bittersweet nature of earlier homecomings, where Krzyzewski recalled fighting back tears while confronting the Duke faithful.

"Excuse me, but I can't stop smiling," he told the crowd. "It feels damn good, doesn't it?"

Krzyzewski said the fans deserved a lot of credit for Duke's streak of home victories.

"As happy as we are about winning, this makes it complete, sharing it with our sixth man," he said.

Krzyzewski reminisced about the contributions of each member of the team, how guard Bobby Hurley brought them back from a five-point deficit against UNLV, how freshman Grant Hill drove for key buckets, how Koubek scored Duke's first five points and Christian Laettner, "looking so nervous on the line," hit all 12 of his free throws in the final.

"My best memory, though, is of all these guys playing as tough a game of basketball for 80 minutes as any team has ever played to win a national championship," he said.

Krzyzewski and Duke players were generous with their time from the moment they returned to Raleigh-Durham International Airport, signing hundreds of autographs, slapping high fives and talking freely with fans. The return was greeted with giant cakes in the shape of basketball courts and full-page ads in local newspapers, including an ad that read "Congratulations, Mike," the ad said. "Now the Coach, Krzyzewski and the Duke Blue Devils have just won the 1991 NCAA Championship, perhaps it's time we all did a little celebrating."

In Cameron, the fans were attentive one moment, rowdy the next, chanting "Hurley, Hurley" and "Kooobbs," in reference to Hurley and Koubek.

Dignitaries not directly affiliated with Duke basketball spoke quickly and at their peril.

"Duke has had some exceptional teams and some exceptional coaches," said Duke president Keith Brodie. "But this is the team. And this is the coach."

And there's already talk that this may be the team of 1992 as well.

At the airport, Koubek said Duke was in a good position to repeat as national champion. Only Koubek and Buckley will be leaving the team.

"I think they're gonna be very talented," he said. "They're gonna have some great leaders in Brian Davis, Christian Laettner and Bobby Hurley."

Laettner said Duke has thrived on expectations that they reach the Final Four. But when pressed on the issue of a Duke dynasty, he said only, "I'll be able to answer that question better in the fall."

Later, Krzyzewski eyed the vaulted ceiling of Cameron Indoor Stadium, sizing it up for the 1991 championship banner.

"Where do you think we should hang it?" he mused to the crowd. "We don't want it to take up too much space, because maybe it won't take 53 years to get another one."

Jackson signs with White Sox

By ALAN ROBINSON
AP Sports Writer

SARASOTA, Fla. — Bo Jackson signed a one-year contract with the Chicago White Sox today, less than two weeks after it appeared that a serious hip injury had ended his baseball career.

Jackson's agent, Richard Woods, said there was nothing in the contract that would limit him from playing football again in the future. Jackson still is under contract to the Los Angeles Raiders.

Jackson was released last month by the Kansas City Royals. Financial terms were not disclosed.

"I feel like a caged animal," Jackson said at a news conference at the White Sox's spring training camp.

He said it was hard for him to get up each morning and pick up his crutches, which he calls "my other set of legs."

"I'd like to throw them in the garbage, but my doctor won't let me," he said.

The White Sox said they would try to determine by the All-Star break if he would be able to play this year. The contract also includes two option years for 1992 and 1993.

Woods said Jackson picked the White Sox "because they were willing to be patient with him. Their attitude is if they get him this year, that's OK, but if they get him down the road, that's OK too."

It was not immediately known how much Jackson would get or how he would be paid if he did not play. But White Sox general manager Ron Schuler said the contract represented "a shared risk for both parties."

Woods said Jackson could have gotten more money, but that was not the deciding factor.

"We could have gotten a hell of a lot more money if we had shopped him around like a free agent type of thing," Woods said. The Atlanta Braves were one team interested in signing Jackson, but Braves general manager John Shuerholz said today Woods told him Jackson wanted to stay in the American League.

Woods said other factors in the decision to sign with the White Sox were the medical staff and the team's on-field improvement last year. The White Sox were second to Oakland in the AL West in 1990.

"Of all the teams in the league, the White Sox have the best chance of going out and getting the ring," Jackson said. "It's not the fame, it's not the money, it's the chance to go out and get the world championship ring."

Woods said Jackson and his wife, Linda, decided last weekend on the White Sox. They came to Woods and said, "We want the Sox," Woods said.

Jackson was released by the Royals on March 18 when team doctor Steve Joyce determined the 28-year-old outfielder's football-related hip injury would not allow him to play baseball this season.

After being released by the Royals, Jackson expressed interest in playing in a major market.

Joyce had also expressed doubts about Jackson's ability to return to the baseball or football field ever again.

But Dr. James Andrews, a leading orthopedic specialist in the athletic field, examined Jackson and did not rule out a return.

The 80,000 fans bought just about everything else related to the Final Four, however.

Debbie Blackwell, who chaired the media assistance committee and the Indianapolis Convention & Visitors Association estimated the economic impact of the tournament at $32 million.

"The Indianapolis City Center (across the street from the Hoosier Dome) did more business in two days than it did all last year. (Monday) night, the staff slept on the floor to be here early," Blackwell said.

DiEdward said he ventured into Union Station following Saturday night's semifinal games in search of dinner at 1:30 a.m. "I asked (a waiter), 'When do you close,' and he said, 'Midnight,'" DiEdward related. "But it was 1:30 and they were still serving."

If there was a concern on the NCAA's part, it would be the lack of an anti-ticket scalping ordinance in Indianapolis. Although 47,185 fans attended Monday night's championship game, some 288,000 people applied for the 24,000 tickets offered for public sale last summer.

As a result, ticket scalping was open, and it apparently bothered some NCAA officials, Frick said.

Actions & Reactions

BASEBALL

NEW YORK — Roger Clemens was found guilty again by American League president Bobby Brown, so now the two-time Cy Young Award winner takes his case to commissioner Fay Vincent. In a three-page decision, Brown upheld Clemens' five-game suspension and $10,000 fine. "There is not a special set of rules or regulations for superstars or award winners," Randy Hendricks, Clemens' agent, said. Brown's decision would be appealed to Vincent on Nov. 20, will be stayed until Vincent renders a decision. All spokeswomen Phyllis Manning said the incident occurred in Game 4 of the playoffs, when Clemens was ejected by umpire Terry Cooney, who said the pitcher uttered profanities at him. Clemens charged Cooney and umpire Jim Evans after the ejection.

PHILADELPHIA — Major league umpires filed an unfair labor practices charge against the American and National leagues, claiming they plan to lock out umpires from opening day games unless they reach a contract agreement six days before the start of the regular season. Union chief Richie Phillips called an agreement unlikely "if baseball maintains its present posture." Phillips' handwritten filing to the National Labor Relations Board said the leagues' "unilaterally changed the terms and conditions of employment" by withholding April pay from the 60 umpires. Phillips also complained about the assignment of replacement umpires to games, but did not include the charge in the filing.

Tigers, 'Breds post wins in baseball action

Staff Report

Murray Ledger & Times Sports
 The Murray High Tigers won their season-opener thanks to Allen Rayburn.

Rayburn drove home the winning run in the top of the seventh, and then held off Madisonville from the mound in the bottom of the inning as the Tigers took a 9-8 win Tuesday.

Singles by Bart Crum and Chris

Bailey set up a sacrifice fly by Rayburn in the top of the inning that snapped an 8-8 tie. In relief of Doug Payne and Chad Bazzell, Rayburn picked up the victory by holding off the Maroons in the home half.

Michael Lovett and Bailey each had two hits while Payne drove in two runs for the Tigers. Murray takes on South Hopkins in a doubleheader starting at 1 p.m. Friday. Meanwhile, the Murray State Thoroughbreds improved to 11-8 as Rick Grogan won his third straight complete game pitching performance as the 'Breds beat Arkansas State 7-6.

Grogan struck out eight and got offensive help from Bobby Schoen, Jon Grzanich, Jeff Brown and Shane Witzel — all who had two hits.

Murray faces A-State again today before hosting UT-Martin Thursday afternoon at 2 p.m.

Six percent of American teens have tried to commit suicide

NEW YORK (AP) — Six percent of American teen-agers say they have tried to commit suicide and 15 percent say they have come close to trying, according to a Gallup poll released Monday.

DEAR ABBY

by Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: Is there any reason why an obituary must state that a person has died of AIDS? I notice that it is never stated that a person has died of steriods, yet steriods attack the system in a similar manner by destroying the immune system.

Due to ignorance, many people think AIDS is a general disease, which it is not. Please consider the anguish that loved ones must endure when this kind of information appears in the statuary. I can remember when people were just afraid of cancer. They wouldn't go into the home of one so infected lest they, too, become infected.

By the way, I do not have AIDS nor am I HIV positive. Thanks, Abby, for letting me have my say.

HELEN IN KY

DEAR HELEN: When the cause of death is AIDS, and that fact appears in the obituary, it is very often the wish of the deceased. It is nothing to be ashamed of; we have lost some of our finest people to AIDS. However, if the family of the deceased chooses to omit (or disguise) the cause of death, the family will have the last word. Literally.

DEAR ABBY: My husband calls telephone sex numbers when I'm not around. I never know how many calls he's made until our telephone bill comes. Every month, these calls are more numerous, and they are running into a lot of money. He knows how much it hurts and upsets me, but he continues to do it.

Abby, I am a good-looking woman, and he tells me I'm great in bed, but if he doesn't quit making these sex calls, I am going to leave him. Please tell me how to handle this new habit of his.

NOT GOOD ENOUGH

DEAR NOT GOOD ENOUGH: You are not responsible for what turns your husband on. This "habit" has nothing to do with you — unless he's spending more time on the telephone than he spends with you. You and your husband need to talk this out together with a marriage counselor. If he refuses to go, go alone. You are not the only wife who feels she is not "good enough" because her husband discovered telephone sex.

DEAR ABBY: When a person visits a relative in a different state, and one party prefers to stay up late and sleep late the following morning, and the other one is in the habit of getting up early in the morning and retiring early, who should adjust his or her schedule — the visiting guest or the host?

There have been no disagreements over this, and all visits have been most congenial, but I would like your opinion as to which one

Of those who tried or considered suicide, 47 percent blamed family problems or problems at home, 23 percent cited depression, 22 percent cited problems with friends, 18 percent cited feeling worthless and 16 percent cited boy-girl relationships. Some gave more than one reason.

Twelve percent said a member of their family had attempted suicide. Five percent said a member of their family had committed suicide. Sixty percent said they knew a teen-ager who attempted suicide, and 15 percent said they knew a teen-ager who succeeded in taking his or her own life.

Thirty-nine percent said no one knew how upset those teen-agers who tried suicide really were. But 31 percent said the person who tried suicide had exhibited warning to die.

The poll was conducted nationwide between November and January among 1,152 people ages 13 to 19. It has a margin of error of plus minus 2.9 percentage points.

Forty-one percent of the teen-agers polled said their school was providing counseling or seminars on suicide prevention. A fifth said their community offers a suicide hotline, counseling or seminars. Twenty-eight percent said their church or synagogue had suicide prevention programs.

More than 80 percent felt that communities, schools and religious institutions should offer programs to help teen-agers handle their problems.

Gary Hoeltke, Gallup's senior analyst for the poll and a former school psychologist and guidance counselor, said the poll's results "are very consistent with everything else we know" about teen-age suicide.

He said experts who reviewed the data concluded that if anything, the poll underestimates the problem because the respondents represented a higher income group and included more white teen-agers than the population at large.

Desert Storm soldier visits fifth graders at Southwest

Desert Storm pen-pals were able to meet their hero last week when SPC Eddie Lovins of the 21st Chemical Company, 82nd Airborne Division stopped by the fifth-grade classes of Pam Cherry, Dora Pittman and Gail Turner at Southwest Elementary.

Lovins, a Calloway County native, had spent eight months in Saudi Arabia as part of the Desert Shield/Desert Storm forces.

During that time, the classes at Southwest began writing him letters, and Lovins stopped in to meet his young friends upon his return to the United States.

"The children were very excited when he came home and visited their classes," said Cherry. "The students at Southwest are very proud to know SPC Eddie Lovins as their American hero."

Nearly 11 percent of students have not received vaccination

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — A state official says he's encouraged by a survey that found 10.9 percent of Kentucky's sixth-graders haven't received a second measles and rubella vaccination as required by law.

"In our experience, for a new requirement, that's pretty good," said Dr. Clarkson Palmer, who oversees the immunization program as manager of the communicable-disease branch of the Cabinet for Human Resources.

This school year is the first in which children were required to get a second measles and rubella vaccination before entering sixth grade.

The rule was adopted because measles returned to Kentucky in 1988 after several years in which no cases were reported. There were 36 cases reported in 1988, 47 in 1989 and 43 last year.

Under the new rule, schools are not supposed to let sixth-graders attend school without evidence that they have received a second vaccination, but Palmer said, "It is up to schools to enforce it, and they do seem to vary."

Seven counties — Hickman, Jackson, Nicholas, Rockcastle, Simpson, Trimble and Washington — reported that all sixth-graders had been vaccinated.

All but a handful of counties reported that more than 70 percent of sixth-graders had been vaccinated. But only 48 percent had received the required second shot in one county, which Palmer refused to identify.

The second vaccine is necessary because the initial shot, given at 15 months of age, is effective in only about 95 percent of recipients, he said.

It had been thought that with only 5 percent of the population unprotected, measles would not spread. But it is a highly contagious disease, and its reappearance made it clear that more needed to be done.

The rubella vaccine is combined with the measles shot because it also is not 100 percent effective initially, and it is economical to give both together, Palmer said.

He suggested that instead of waiting until August, children should get their second vaccine in the month of their last birthday before entering sixth grade.

"Start early. Don't get caught in the crowd," he said.

Key points of council's cease-fire resolution listed

UNITED NATIONS (AP) — Here are the key conditions that Iraq must agree to under a new draft Security Council resolution declaring a permanent cease-fire in the Persian Gulf War:

- Iraq must destroy its chemical and biological weapons and ballistic missile systems with a range of more than 150 kilometers (93 miles) under U.N. supervision and forswear future development or acquisition of such arms or of nuclear arms to nuclear materials that could be used for weapons are to be destroyed or removed by the International Atomic Energy Agency
- An arms embargo on Iraq remains in effect
- A decision to relax bans on sending food to Iraq is confirmed but the wider trade ban remains in effect until Iraq has complied with the disarmament provisions
- Iraq is held liable for damage, including environmental havoc, resulting from its invasion and occupation of Kuwait. A fund drawing from Iraq's oil revenues will be

- Military observers provided by the UN to monitor a demilitarized zone reaching six miles into Iraq and three miles into Kuwait. U.N. deployment would allow allied troops to withdraw
- Iraq must declare that it will not "commit or support" international terrorism or allow terrorist groups to operate from its territory
- Iraq and Kuwait are called on to "respect the inviolability of the international boundary" agreed upon in a 1963 treaty signed by both nations
- Iraq is called on to cooperate with the International Committee of the Red Cross in repatriating Kuwaitis and others detained during the war

Congressional pensions increase 29.5%

WASHINGTON (AP) — House members who spurn another term — or simply get defeated next year — can leave Congress with a substantial pension increase, thanks to the 29.5 percent pay raise lawmakers gave themselves for 1991.

And House members who began serving before 1980 can walk away with a second benefit: they can convert any leftover campaign cash to personal use.

The pension increase is triggered by the raise that boosted House members' salaries from $96,600 to $125,100 this year.

Pension calculations for House members are based partly on the average of the lawmaker's three highest-salaried years. Thus, the salary increase for 1991 and 1992 provides a big jump in the pension to which they are entitled.

Members of Congress can start collecting a pension at any age with 25 years of service and at age 50 with 20 years of service. At age 62, members can collect with five years of service.

The right to convert unspent campaign money to personal use is available to House members who were in office before Jan. 8, 1980, and applies to money in their coffers as of Nov. 30, 1989.

That means 165 senior House members are eligible to convert $41 million in campaign surpluses to their personal use if they leave Congress by Jan. 3, 1993.

Departing senators will receive much smaller pension increases because their salaries rose just 3.5 percent this year to $101,900. And senators never have been permitted to keep leftover campaign money for themselves.

FBI wants to recruit women, minorities

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — Women and minorities are wanted by the FBI, which is trying to shed its tradition of being a white, male-dominated agency.

"Our objective is to bring in as many women and minority agents as we can," said Terry O'Connor, special agent in charge of the FBI in Kentucky.

The local effort mirrors the FBI's effort nationwide, said Jimmy C. Carter, the bureau's national recruiter in Washington.

Although it has no fixed goals, the bureau is under orders from FBI Director William Sessions to recruit agents who better reflect the population they serve, Carter said.

THE TERMITE SWARM SEASON IS COMING SOON!!!!

Beware of door to door salespeople offering termite inspections.

If you suspect your home may be infested with termites or have a moisture problem, do yourself and your home a favor by calling us for an inspection. Our trained technicians will inspect the necessary areas of your home and tell you the results. Then, if by chance you do have a problem that needs correcting, our technicians will give you a complete and exact estimate of treatment and explain the treatment procedures. Then, if you're not certain, get a second inspection and estimate.

We are certain that after comparing not only price, but also the service and the guarantee (which we back 100% and in writing), that you will be sure about having the corrective measures performed by our company. Do not let yourself be pressured into a treatment that you do not need to begin with, or that is extremely too high priced for what you do need. We have been serving the West Ky. area since 1958. We are an established company, locally owned and operated, and we can service your pest control needs better than anyone else.

SCUBA DIVERS BEWARE

What does scuba diving have to do with dentistry? If you are a scuba diver, be sure to mention this to your dentist. Ask how the treatment you are having could affect you as a scuba diver. It could save you a lot of unnecessary pain and problems. For example:

If a scuba diver is being treated for root canal therapy which is temporized partially with cotton and he goes diving, complications can result — and most probably will. In diving, the atmospheric pressure changes. In fact, the pressure increases tremendously with each foot you descend. When air is trapped within the cotton fibers in a root canal, the air will expand when the diver surfaces resulting in a whopper of a toothache.

Even a filling which may have an air pocket can cause the diver problems on descent. The pressure is decreased (relative to the outside pressure of the water) and the air pocket is compressed. This could cause pain — and even result in a burst tooth. In either case, the diver is going to need a dentist in a hurry. This may be a problem, especially if you like to dive off remote islands.

Prepared as a public service to promote better dental health. From the office of Joe Mason, D.M.D., 204 S. 6th St., Phone: 753-2642.

Partially dissected human heads accidentally dumped on the streets of New York

NEW YORK (AP) — A doctor's mistake. Car thieves. A protective and curious cabbie. Put them together in Manhattan's East Village and you've got an errant box of partially dissected human heads.

The six heads, facial features intact, were found in a box in a gutter early Monday, said Officer Scott Bloch, a police spokesman. The story begins with Dr. William Portney of New York Eye and Ear Infirmary, who decided to leave the sealed carton of heads in the back of his hatchback when he parked in the East Village.

Big mistake. The second error came when thieves broke into Portney's car and stole what they apparently thought was marketable booty.

And the hero in this ghoulish tale? Cabbie George Casas, who shooed away a bevy of rubbernecking street people and stashed the stolen heads in his trunk until police showed up.

"This stuff only happens in New York," said Bloch, relaying the bizarre string of events.

Portney was transporting the partial heads — the backs were cut away but the faces left intact — from New York Medical College in Valhalla to his New York hospital for a class in medical dissection. They were from bodies donated for research.

The heads, preserved in formaldehyde and sealed in plastic bags, were packed inside a high-high, sealed carton marked "sinus endoscopy class."

Portney "was supposed to bring them to a refrigerator in the temporal bone lab," said infirmary spokeswoman Jean Thomas. "But he thought they wouldn't fit in the refrigerator so he kept them in the car until the morning."

Hours later, someone broke into the car and took the box. "They got about a block away," Bloch said, "looked inside and hopefully went stark raving mad."

The unsuspecting thieves dropped the carton in the gutter at Second Avenue and St. Mark's Place — an unofficial mecca for artists, musicians, students, drug dealers and bohemian wanna-bees — and fled.

Emier Casas, a 48-year-old Manhattan cabbie whose curiosity was piqued by a cluster of street people crowding around the spilled box just after 3 a.m.

"I asked someone what it was and when they told me I thought it was some kind of a joke but this was no joke," said Casas, who knew right away this was no ordinary box of heads.

"I thought they must be very important to someone," Casas said, adding that he pushed everyone away and locked the box in his trunk.

He then called police. "I told them I found a box of heads in the street and they just said, 'Oh really.' They didn't believe me until they saw it for themselves," Casas said.

The heads were taken to the medical examiner's office where they were declared authentic and police began searching for their owner. About the same time, Portney woke up, went down to his car and discovered his faux pas.

"He was, of course, very upset," the hospital-spokeswoman said.

Bloch said the heads would be turned over to the doctor once "he proves he had legal ownership."

Casas said he was proud of the part he played in recovering the stolen parts and added he won't forget the event soon.

"I took a picture of it," he said.

DR. GOTT

by Peter Gott, M.D.

DEAR DR. GOTT For over two years I've been on medication for high blood pressure. Currently I'm on Vasotec, Hytrin, Clonidine patches and Maxzide for water retention. I've been researching the benefits of taking cayenne pepper for its apparent ability to lower blood pressure and have been able to cut my medication in half and lower the pressure as well. What is your opinion of cayenne pepper capsules for hypertension?

DEAR READER I have no experience with cayenne pepper for hypertension. As a general rule, natural substances, such as cayenne and garlic, are inappropriate substitutes for prescription drugs. Although some patients with high blood pressure can lower their readings by a few points, moderate/severe hypertension is usually not affected by vitamins or natural food supplements. I advise you to proceed carefully, under your doctor's supervision, and be ready to modify or eliminate your cayenne treatment as indicated.

Having said this, I want to emphasize that many hypertensives can achieve enormous benefit (without drugs) by modifying their lifestyles and adopting prudent diets. For example, exercise, meditation, weight loss, avoidance of salt, calcium supplements and stress counseling are valuable non-drug therapies for hypertension. In many instances, these alternative treatments may enable hypertensive patients to achieve normal blood pressures without prescription medicine. As with any chronic disease with serious consequences, hypertension should be monitored by medical personnel who can adjust therapy to each patient's needs.

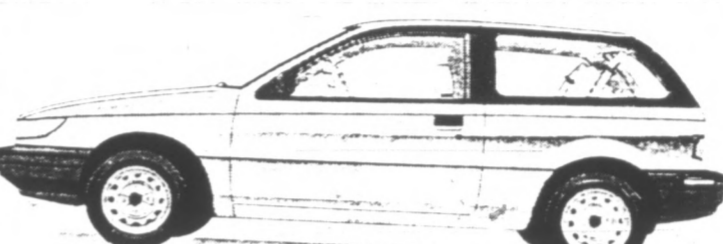

To give you more information, I am sending you a free copy of my Health Report "Hypertension." Other readers who would like a copy should send $125 with their names and addresses to P.O. Box 9369, Cleveland, OH 44101-3369. Be sure to mention the title.

DEAR DR. GOTT Would you please discuss tinea versicolor?

DEAR READER Tinea versicolor is a skin infection caused by the ubiquitous fungus called Pitryosporum. The multiple, scattered, whitish brown lesions cause no symptoms or health problems. Treatment with selenium sulfide shampoo, applied at bedtime (and washed off) for four days, is ordinarily effective. The disorder tends to recur, despite therapy.

Two representatives of the IBM Corporation in Evansville, Ind. make their official presentation of a $257,430 grant to Murray State University to establish a Mid-America Multimedia and Technology Center for Persons with Disabilities, which will be on the MSU campus. Shown left to right are David Eichert, systems engineer; Chuck Bauer, marketing manager; Dr. Alan Beane, professor of special education who prepared the grant proposal and will serve as center director; Dr. Ronald J. Kurth, MSU president; Dr. Ian Weaver, dean of the College of Education; and Dr. Betty Blodgett, chair of the Department of Special Education.

MSU receives grant to aid disabled

By DWAIN MCINTOSH
Murray State University Information

A grant of $257,430 has been awarded by the IBM Corporation to the College of Education at Murray State University to establish a Mid-America Multimedia and Technology Center for Persons with Disabilities.

To be housed in the Department of Special Education of the College of Education, the center will provide services to disabled individuals and their families, as well as training programs for those working or preparing to work with the disabled.

Dr. Alan L. Beane, a special education professor, prepared the grant proposal and will serve as director of the center, which is designed to serve the MSU service area.

Four of the six rooms in the center will be equipped with IBM hardware and software and the use of adaptive assistive devices and computer technology. The center also provides for additional services for staff development.

Facilities will include several adaptive device assessment and training stations, an individualized learning center, information data base station, an IBM EDLAN network laboratory, a multimedia center, several laser-disk stations, a hardware/software loan center and more.

Training and services at the center will be "time-sensitive," according to Beane, but will be responsive, flexible and dynamic and include follow-up activities.

"For effective training and services to occur, cooperative efforts and communication among teachers, administrators, parents, disabled persons and employers are vital," he said. "Such involvement will be used in every phase of the project."

Dr. Ronald J. Kurth, Murray State president, said IBM is performing a valuable service for Murray State and the citizens of its service region by providing funds to establish the center.

"It relates directly to our mission to support educational institutions in our region, since it will provide state-of-the-art training programs for school personnel," he said. "In addition, the center is relevant to our general service mission, since it will provide services directly to handicapped children and adults in the region. Our special education majors will also benefit from its proximity."

Kurth expressed gratitude for IBM's generous support for this project on behalf of the many people who will derive great benefit from it.

Beane emphasized the importance of human service personnel, parents and the business community knowing that IBM computers are accessible to individuals with all types of handicaps from learning disabilities to severe physical problems.

Beane added that the need for such a facility in the area has existed for several years and he believes it will have a positive impact on the lives of many individuals and families.

Following a remodeling project, he expects to have the center active in the Special Education Building sometime in the fall.

PAROLE REVIEW

Actions taken recently by the Kentucky Parole Board in LaGrange included:

Parole Recommended:
Jerry Wayne Starks — must attend A.A. or alcohol treatment program. To highest level of supervision available.

Barry Thacker (early ISP consideration) — must attend comp. care center or a treatment program set up by the parole officer in lieu of the comp. care program until released. To highest level of supervision available.

Jerry Miller (SNCRI/40) — Parole recommendations are conditional upon continued good institutional conduct. Also, parole certificates will be issued only upon approval for proper employment or for maintenance and care. If placement in Kentucky, a supervision fee of $10 per month must be paid while on active supervision (unless other amount is specified under special conditions).

Weight Loss Surprises Researchers

WASHINGTON — A nutrition organization was hopeful that a nutritionally complete "hi-tech" food tablet would help erase world hunger problems, until a study revealed that one of the ingredients could cause significant weight loss without dieting.

Researchers in Europe found that an ingredient in the aptly named product Food Source One actually caused people to lose weight, even though specifically instructed not to alter normal eating patterns, according to one study published in the prestigious British Journal of Nutrition. Researchers in an earlier study had speculated that the weight loss was due to a decrease in the intestinal absorption of calories.

While the development of Food Source One, a project of National Dietary Research, would not be used to successfully fulfill its original goal, the discovery has been a windfall for overweight people. A Daytona Beach, Florida woman fighting a weight battle for 12 years used the product on the recommendation of her physician and lost 30 pounds. She stated, "Not only have I lost 30 pounds but my cholesterol has dropped from 232 to 143. I have two closets full of clothes which have not fit me in two years that I can now wear." In a separate report, a telephone interview revealed that a Wilmington, North Carolina pharmacist lost 14 pounds in 15 days on the product and was never hungry.

Food Source One is available through physicians and pharmacies without a prescription because it is not a drug and contains only natural ingredients already known to be safe. Copies of the referenced study are available free from National Dietary Research, Suite 553, 1377 K St., Washington, DC 20005, however please include $2 postage & handling for each request.
