U.S. joins in deploring Israel over deportations

UNITED NATIONS (AP) — Calling Israel's deportations of Palestinians an obstacle to peace efforts, the United States has joined the rest of the U.N. Security Council in a unanimous vote deploring the actions.

The council resolution approved Friday said the recent expulsions of Palestinians violated international law and were "to the detriment of efforts to achieve a comprehensive, just and lasting peace."

The emergency session was the second time since late March that the United States joined the other 14 council members in opposing deportation of four Palestinians who were expelled last weekend and taken to southern Lebanon.

Israel says the deported men are terrorists and PLO operatives. Two of them were convicted killers, one of whom strangled a fellow Arab in prison and gouged out his eyes with a kitchen spoon, Israel says.

But U.S. Ambassador Thomas R. Pickering said after the meeting: "Deportations are not acceptable under the Geneva Conventions.

They do not contribute to efforts for peace. The United States again calls on the government of Israel to cease deportations."

President Bush and Secretary of State James A. Baker III this week complained about what U.S. officials consider obstacles to the peace process, especially Israel's defiant expansion of settlements in the disputed territories which it captured in the 1967 Mideast war.

The resolution says the council "deplores this action and reiterates that Israel, the occupying Power, refrain from deporting any Palestinian civilian from the occupied territories and ensure the safe and immediate return of all those

California? Or bust?

Stubblefield grandson declares war on those who don't believe.

By MARK COOPER
Murray Ledge & Times Asst. Editor

Troy Cory has been angered by local and statewide reaction to his campaign for recognition for Nathan B. Stubblefield as the inventor of radio, according to his agent Chris Harris, who said the pop singer will try to have his grandfather's invention recreated at a California university.

Harris, in a telephone interview Friday, said Cory will attempt to stop an experiment at Murray State University which is trying to recreate Stubblefield's two turn-of-the-century wireless inventions by using his notes, authentic equipment and other data.

In addition, Cory will request all Stubblefield artifacts, research and memorabilia — including a marker on campus indicating Stubblefield's homeplace — be removed from the school.

All items are to be sent to Cory's home in Pasadena where either Pasadena Tech, University of Southern California or University of California at Los Angeles faculty will investigate Stubblefield's work and hopefully authenticate him as the founder of radio, Harris said.

The move comes one day after an angry confrontation with leaders of the Kentucky Broadcasters Association during a conference in Pikeville Thursday which recognized Stubblefield as a pioneer in the radio field but not as its founder.

"Troy is beyond outraged," Harris said. "Why can't the people in his own state recognize the importance of Nathan B. Stubblefield's work? If what Stubblefield did was not radio, I don't know what it was."

Cory is equally upset with reactions in Murray, where residents have been "lazy" in promoting Stubblefield's work since his death in 1928. Markers and plaques have been put up in town, yet no one until now has been willing to fight for his reputation, Harris said.

"It's going to be a war now and it's going to be directed to those people who don't believe Stubblefield invented radio wherever they may be," he said.

Dr. Bob Lochte, who began the Stubblefield experi-

'It's going to be a war now'

— Chris Harris

ment along with Larry Albert last year, said work on the two wireless systems is in the preliminary stages. Tests have already been conducted, however, that prove that they will transmit and receive broadcasts, he said.

Lochte said Cory will have little luck in obtaining Stubblefield's materials from the university which received the items — including experiment notes, letters, patent application information, newspaper accounts and a large quantity of photos — as gifts many years ago, he said.

"They can request the items but I don't think they'll get anywhere," Lochte said. "They have no way to legitimately claim title to that."

The project includes a magnetic induction system, which was demonstrated in Murray by Stubblefield in 1892 and patented in 1908, and a ground conduction system which was not patented.

Stubblefield's patent expired in 1925 and is public domain, according to Albert.

The two systems, when completed, will be demonstrated at the university and worldwide in 1992 and then placed in the Wraether West Kentucky Museum at MSU.

Lochte said there is little doubt that Stubblefield produced one of the world's first wireless broadcasts with his invention in 1892 — three years before Marconi — but he hesitates to give Stubblefield credit for inventing radio.

"No one will ever be able to establish that one man invented radio, at least not to my satisfaction," he said.

Stubblefield died penniless in Murray in 1928 after being bilked of his royalties and patent in a stock swindle, Lochte said.

This marker, located near the Business Building at Murray State University, honors Nathan B. Stubblefield's achievement in 1892 and indicates his home's location. Stubblefield's grandson now says he wants to move all of Stubblefield's memorabilia out of Calloway County.

Gandhi met secretly with Tamils suspected in slaying

NEW DELHI, India (AP) — Slain former Prime Minister Rajiv Gandhi recently had a secret meeting with a Sri Lankan Tamil guerrilla organization now suspected in his assassination, a respected newspaper reported today.

An unidentified representative of the Liberation Tigers for Tamil Eelam sought the meeting in a bid for reconciliation with Gandhi, considered one of the group's worst enemies, said The Hindu, a national daily based in the southern city of Madras.

The paper said the meeting cast some doubt on the suspicions by Indian police that the Tigers were behind the suicide bombing that killed Gandhi at an election rally last Tuesday near Madras, the capital of Tamil Nadu state.

The Tigers have denied responsibility.

A spokesman from Gandhi's Congress Party was not immediately available to comment on the newspaper report. A spokesman for the Tigers in London did not answer his telephone.

The paper said the Tigers, expecting Gandhi to return to office in the elections that were interrupted by his death, were looking to him as "the only leader who could do something effective for the Tamil issue."

The Hindu, known to have good sources with the Tigers' supporters in India, said Gandhi met the guerrilla representative on March 5 at his New Delhi home.

The paper gave few details of the meeting, but said both sides appeared satisfied with the renewed contact.

The Tigers are fighting a bitter war for a Tamil homeland in parts of Sri Lanka.

When he was prime minister in 1987, Gandhi brokered a peace accord to end the Sri Lankan civil war and sent Indian peacekeeping troops to enforce it.

The Tigers refused to disarm, and the Indian army became bogged down in a 2½-year battle. Gandhi's successor, V.P. Singh, withdrew the force and ended India's involvement in March 1990.

Report says no U.S. aid until hostages freed

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — The United States is blocking badly needed aid to war-ravaged Lebanon until Western hostages are freed, a newspaper reported Friday.

The leftist newspaper As-Safir newspaper, however, gave no description of the type of aid allegedly blocked and did it say how the United States was forcing Arab and Western nations to withhold financial support.

The State Department has denied it is withholding aid. The United States halted aid to Lebanon in 1987, but recently shipped the nation $4 million worth of spare military parts.

Thirteen Western hostages, including six Americans, are missing in Lebanon and are believed held by militant Shiite Muslim factions loyal to Iran. The longest held captive, AP chief Middle East correspondent Terry Anderson, was kidnapped March 16, 1985.

The newspaper quoted an unnamed Cabinet minister as saying: "The United States is still banning Arab and Western aid to Lebanon. It refuses to permit such assistance until the American and other Western hostages held in Lebanon for several years are released."

15,000 protesters fighting police in South Korea capital

SEOUL, South Korea (AP) — More than 15,000 protesters screaming "End suppressive regime!" poured into central Seoul today and fought running battles with riot police on downtown streets.

Thousands of students and workers hurling rocks and flaming fire-bombs battled riot police firing tear gas so thick visibility was limited to only a few feet along several city blocks. Heavy rain did not deter fighting.

There was no immediate word on injuries or arrests. Protesters were demanding President Roh Tae-woo replace a new prime minister seen as a hard-liner, fire the Cabinet and make sweeping political and economic reform.

Roh's choice of Chung Won-shik for prime minister Friday signaled his refusal to give in to protesters and placed the government on collision course with critics demanding reform.

"If the current confusion continues, the future will not be benevolent to the country," Chung told Korean reporters during a stopover on his return plane trip from Africa.

Nationwide protests were triggered by the April 26 fatal beating of a student by police. Official figures say at least 3,000 protesters and police have been injured in 75 cities.

The demonstrations have created one of the most serious political crises for Roh's government since he took office in 1988 and come as the nation faces a series of national elections in the next 18 months.

In Kwangju, 160 miles south of Seoul, more than 10,000 students and citizens chanting "Oust the Roh regime" attended funeral services today for the first student to commit self-immolation to protest the police slaying of the student.

About 3,000 students wore black headbands and white shirts with a picture of the dead self-immolation victim, a young woman. Many brandished iron pipes and clubs. "Inherit the martyr's spirit," they chanted.

The president's office said today that a Cabinet reshuffle would be announced Monday, but news reports indicated it would involve only about five of 22 ministers. Opponents have demanded Roh fire the entire Cabinet.

Longtime observers warned the choice of Chung Won-shik, aimed at reassuring middle-class Koreans weary of prolonged protests, could backfire by triggering broader demonstrations.

Roh has carried out wide democratic reforms since taking office in 1988, but critics say he has backtracked in the past year.

Negotiations can start on U.S.-Mexico trade pact

WASHINGTON (AP) — U.S. trade negotiators can start working out an agreement with Mexico to eliminate tariffs between the two countries now that Congress has given President Bush the go-ahead he sought.

"We are going to move very rapidly in negotiations," said Sen. Phil Gramm, R-Texas, shortly after the Senate agreed Friday to extend Bush's so-called "fast-track" authority for two years.

The Senate's 59-39 vote followed by a day a similar House decision.

Bush said he needed the fast-track authority to start talks with Mexico and other trading partners. His opponents had argued that fast-track — and a free trade zone with Mexico — would cost the United States jobs.

"I am very, very happy indeed," said Bush, who had lobbied intensely for the negotiating power.

Bush called Mexican President Carlos Salinas de Gortari and told him he "was very pleased" by the Senate vote that completed congressional action on the matter, said his spokesman, Marlin Fitzwater.

Under the fast-track concept, trade negotiators complete agreements with foreign countries and submit the full package to Congress. Lawmakers have one take-it-or-leave-it vote; they are prohibited from changing individual sections.

Friday's vote was actually on a motion to end that arrangement. The president's authority will remain in place until June 1993 because Congress did not eliminate it.

Although trade officials from the United States and Mexico have held informal discussions, they have not formalized the process. That will come soon, Gramm predicted.

He said a pact could be in place by the end of 1992. That time frame compares with the decade it took for the United States and Canada to negotiate a free trade zone.

Supporters of a free trade agreement said a North American free trade zone would create the largest consumer market in the world, with an annual output of $6 trillion.

But opponents — including labor unions, environmentalists and consumer groups — predicted job losses and degradation.

'King of the night' to abdicate throne

BURBANK, Calif. (AP) — And now, heeereere's ... Jay? Johnny Carson, the king of late-night TV, will step down next year and no one's saying who will replace the seemingly irreplaceable star of "The Tonight Show Starring Johnny Carson."

Jay Leno, 41, the show's permanent substitute host since June 1987, is the most likely successor, but NBC-TV officials made no immediate announcement. Carson, 65, told network affiliates in New York on Thursday that May 22, 1992 — the end of his 30th season as the show's regular host — will be his last.

"Obviously, the 'Tonight' show will continue and we'll be spending the immediate future reflecting on Johnny's announcement," NBC spokesman Curt Block said Friday.

One thing's certain. The next host won't have Ed McMahon to laugh at his jokes. The affable sidekick, who's been kicking off the program with his trademark "Heeereere's Johnny" since Carson took over in 1962, said Friday he's also calling it quits.

"When he goes, I go," McMahon said. "I knew this had to happen. The question was when."

Carson had talked of leaving before. In April 1979, he threatened to quit, saying he was emotionally drained. He relented when NBC renegotiated his contract.

That deal required him to work only four nights a week and shortened "Tonight" from 90 minutes to an hour, its present length. He currently works three days a week and has a multimillion-dollar contract that gives him 15 weeks of vacation a year.

"I want to point out something, and this is just advice, not a suggestion," Carson told affiliate executives at the end of their meeting Thursday.

"I hope there's always a show like the 'Tonight' show on television."

There are not many shows like that anymore, where new, young performers can come and have a platform and a place to get exposure on national television.

Last February, the New York Post reported NBC wanted Carson to step down so it could replace him with Leno, who gets a younger audience that is more attractive to advertisers. NBC denied the claim.

Carson's show consistently has won the late-night ratings race, but there have been exceptions, the most notable and recent in the first quarter of this year when the Gulf War made ABC News' "Nightline" the top program.

His style — cool, affable, a mix of worldly sophistication and mock Midwestern innocence — has helped make the show one of NBC's top money-makers over the years.

He's also outlasted a score of late-night rivals, including Joey Bishop and Dick Cavett on ABC and Carson's own former substitute, Joan Rivers, who had a short-lived show on the Fox network a few seasons ago.

Rivers, whose friendship with Carson chilled when she quit as his show's substitute host for her own program, issued an acerbic two-sentence statement Friday: "I haven't watched the show in three years. I thought he was gone."

But former "Tonight" show host Jack Paar spoke admiringly of his successor.

"I don't know how he did it that long," Paar said in an interview from his Connecticut home. "I guess because it's really important to him."

Carson was born in Corning, Iowa, and raised in Nebraska. He first appeared as a "Tonight" guest host in 1958, taking over on Oct. 1, 1962, when Paar quit. The show was originally broadcast from New York, but the star moved it to Burbank in 1972.

NEWS OF THE WORLD

By The Associated Press

ETHIOPIA
ADDIS ABABA — The United Nations began evacuating its employees and their families from this besieged capital today, joining an exodus of Ethiopian Jews as fears of civil disorder heightened. Eritrean rebels captured Ethiopia's second-largest city, Asmara, but Tigray insurgents today appeared to be holding themselves at bay on the outskirts of Addis Ababa pending peace talks scheduled to open Monday in London. An estimated 1,500 dependents and employees of 16 U.N. agencies were being airlifted to Nairobi, the capital of neighboring Kenya, in chartered aircraft and planes beginning today. They joined an estimated 16,000 Ethiopian Jews being flown to Israel in a round-the-clock operation that began Friday as rebels fighting a three-month-old offensive closed to within 12 miles of Addis Ababa from the west and sent patrols probing even closer. Scattered gunfire echoed through the capital during the night, but it was no heavier than on previous nights and appeared to be the nervous firing of hundreds of militiamen and neighborhood security patrols. "They're shooting at shadows," said one Western diplomat. "But it's best to be on the streets at night lest it's your shadow they shoot at."

CRETE
KHANIA, Greece — World War II veterans gathered on this Mediterranean island today to mark the 50th anniversary of the battle of Crete. The veterans, most of them in their seventies, from Britain, New Zealand, Australia, Germany and Greece, came to exchange old war memories, renew friendships and attend solemn ceremonies over the weekend. German Chancellor Helmut Kohl, Greek Premier Constantine Mitsotakis and officials from the three Commonwealth nations were also to pay tribute to the more than 20,000 soldiers who died during the 11-day siege of the island in 1941. Historians depict the battle of Crete as one of the hardest fought of World War II. About 20,000 elite German troops backed by paratroopers landed on Crete starting May 20, 1941, in an effort to choke allied supply routes. Eleven days later its defenders were overwhelmed. The island was liberated in 1944 after the Germans surrendered to Greek resistance forces in 1944.

ANGOLA
LUANDA — With a cease-fire in its second week, Cuba was to pull out the last of its soldiers after 16 years of backing the Marxist government in a war with U.S.-backed rebels. Their departure, ending a chapter in Cold War superpower maneuvering, would come a week ahead of the scheduled signing of a peace accord between the UNITA rebels and the Luanda government. Fighting ended with a provisional cease-fire May 15. Angolan Defense Minister Pedro Maria Tonha said the last of about 2,000 troops in Angola this week would fly home today. Tonha was quoted by news reports as saying in Washington on Friday, State Department spokeswoman Margaret Tutwiler said the United States welcomed the Cuban decision. "The departure of Cuban forces will mark the end of three decades of Cuban military involvement in Africa," said Tutwiler. "This positive development will contribute to the end of international ideological tensions in Africa and help promote further conflict resolution in the region."

JAPAN
TOKYO — Japan's most powerful business group has urged the government to end the country's long refusal to allow rice imports, in order to help restart crucial global trade talks. Japanese businessmen fear a protectionist backlash by the United States and Europe if their country fails to open up the domestic rice market. On Friday the Federation of Economic Organizations (Keidanren) adopted a resolution pressing the government to allow rice imports to restart the stalled Uruguay Round of talks held under the General Agreement on Tariffs and Trade. "The rice issue could become Tokyo's trump card, and Japan's decision (to open its market to rice imports) will have no small impact internationally," said the group's chairman Gaisi Hirawa.

CAMBODIA
PHNOM PENH — The fragile U.N. cease-fire that stopped the killing in this war-torn nation earlier this month will soon be tested by peace talks in which the government will press to keep its stalling army. Since the truce went into effect May 1, security in the capital has relaxed and the curfew has been lifted. But Cambodia's first truce in 12 years could be short-lived as various sides in the civil war meet June 2-4 to discuss divisive issues that reach to the heart of their bloody power struggle. The talks, to be held in Jakarta, Indonesia, will focus on Phnom Penh's reservations over the U.N. peace plan that the guerrillas have fully accepted. In particular, the Phnom Penh government wants to maintain its army. The two non-communist rebel groups say they are ready to discuss the differences, but the powerful communist Khmer Rouge rebels have said they "certainly will not allow" Phnom Penh to alter the plan. In fact, Khmer Rouge radio has said the cease-fire will end June 5 if a peace agreement is not reached by then.

IRAN
NICOSIA, Cyprus — A moderate earthquake rocked the outskirts of the northeastern Iranian city of Quchan late Friday night, but there were no immediate reports of casualties or damage, the Islamic Republic News Agency reported. IRNA said Saturday that the quake struck at 11:30 p.m. Friday. Quchan, in Khurasan Province, is 400 miles northeast of Tehran. The quake measured 5.5 on the Richter scale, according to the Geophysical Center of Tehran University, said the news agency, monitored in Nicosia. Several tremors hit southern Iranian cities on Wednesday. IRNA said there were no casualties but that damage in the city of Khonj was estimated at $20 million. Khonj is about 175 miles northwest of the Persian Gulf port of Bandar Abbas. The Richter scale is a measure of the energy released by an earthquake. A measure of 5 or above can cause considerable damage in urban areas.

SPAIN
MADRID — An estimated 175,000 Spanish workers held strikes for higher pay Friday, canceling airlines flights and rail service and disrupting telephone service. Spain's two key Socialist and Communist unions organized the one-day strikes to press for a 9 percent pay raise. The strikes coincided with the first day of campaigning for city and regional elections set for Sunday. Managers at state-run companies have sought to hold pay raises to near the Socialist government's target of 5 percent. Spain's 16 percent unemployment rate is among the highest in the 12-nation European Community.

BRAZIL
RIO DE JANEIRO — Prisoners killed an inmate to protest overcrowding in their cells, and the warden said he feared a return of "death lotteries" to clear space in the jail. Celso Antonio da Silva, 25, a convicted murderer, was chosen for sacrifice by inmates Wednesday, said Cidinho Martins da Cunha, warden of the jail in Uberlandia, 600 miles northwest of Rio. "They all agreed, and before we could do anything they got him," said Cunha. "He was stomped, beaten and smashed against the bars." The prisoners are upset because 135 of them are crammed into a space built for 40. In 1985, similar conditions led to a series of "death lottery" killings in a prison in Belo Horizonte, about 200 miles north of Rio. Seventeen prisoners were killed — some of them chosen by lottery. The inmates rioted and set fire to mattresses Thursday in the prison in Uberlandia, a city of 240,000 people.

YUGOSLAVIA
BELGRADE — The army briefly arrested two Slovenian militiamen Friday, and a Slovenian demonstrator outside an army barracks was crushed to death by an armored personnel carrier. The release of the two officers hours after they were seized while trying to negotiate the withdrawal of troops surrounding a training camp appeared to have resolved a potentially dangerous standoff between the army and the Slovenian militia. But tensions continued as anti-army protesters massed in front of the militia's camp, blocking the path of federal army vehicles. The camp is near Maribor, second-largest city in Slovenia.

LESOTHO
MASERU — Soldiers and police patrolled today after at least 19 people died in race riots sparked by the beating death of a black woman, who was accused of stealing in a shopping center run by Indians and Chinese. A spokesman at the U.S. Embassy said an American professor was among scores of foreigners attacked the week by angry mobs in this tiny country inside South Africa. The U.S. Embassy identified the American attacked as Roger Swagler of Athens, Ga., a professor of economics at the National University of Lesotho. He escaped serious injury when his car was attacked and the windows shot at. It was not known when the attack occurred.

Elias Hrawi and his Syrian ally have been seeking to regain control of the nation after reaching agreement with guerrilla factions to end a 16-year civil war.
Syria has about 40,000 troops in Lebanon. On Wednesday, Hrawi and Syrian President Hafez Assad signed a mutual assistance treaty in Damascus. Israel and some Lebanese Christians fear the treaty gives Syria too much influence.

deported."

Over the years, the United States traditionally has voted in the council to support its Israeli ally and to veto any criticism. But that pattern is changing. Since last October, the United States has voted against Israel or abstained on five measures in eight months, some of them on deportation.

Israeli Ambassador Yoram Aridor told the council that its session only demonstrated the council's bias against Israel. The Israeli government rejects council resolutions over the years, including those demanding sacrifice of captured territory, as meaningless.

Never once, he said, has the Security Council explicitly and evenhandedly condemned an attack by Palestinians upon Israelis during the intifada uprising which began in December 1988.

Arab speakers denounced Israel for what they called persecution of Palestinians and said the Security Council must not allow Israel to consider itself above the law and must protect Palestinians, as it defended Kuwaitis in the Persian Gulf War.

The Security Council includes five permanent members with veto power: The United States, Britain, China, France and the Soviet Union, and 10 members serving two-year terms: Austria, Belgium, Cuba, Ecuador, India, Ivory Coast, Romania, Yemen, Zaire, Zimbabwe.

NASA researchers hurt by explosion

GREENBELT, Md. (AP) — Two researchers were injured when a volatile chemical they were experimenting with exploded at NASA's Goddard Space Flight Center.

Louis Speiff, 58, was listed in good condition at Washington Hospital Center's burn unit, the hospital said. Fred Nesbit, 44, was in fair condition.

The men were burned in a chlorine dioxide explosion that occurred Friday afternoon in an isolated area of a building housing small labs and offices about four blocks from the center's main entrance, said NASA officials and Prince George's County firefighters.

They were flown to the hospital by helicopter.

City and county offices to close in observance of Memorial Day

All city and county offices, including the city and county clerks' offices, will be closed Monday in observance of Memorial Day.

Fire and police units from the city and county will be on call Monday in the event of an emergency.

Also closed on Monday will be the offices of the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service and the Farmers' Home Administration.

The Calloway County Public Library will close Monday, as will the post office. Any express mail deliveries received Monday will be delivered, but the inside window will be closed all day, a spokesman said.

The Murray Ledger & Times will publish a Monday edition with the business office opening at 8 a.m. and closing at noon.

Due to the Memorial Day holiday observance on Monday, customers of the Murray Sanitation Division are asked to place their garbage out on their regularly-scheduled day, even though routes may run a day late in some areas.

Poore releases documents linking Jones to early release of persistent felon

By MARK R. CHELLGREN
Associated Press Writer

LEXINGTON, Ky. — Lt. Gov. Brereton Jones, who has based much of his campaign on a revival of high ethical standards in state government, is having his own conduct called into question.

Dr. Floyd Poore on Friday released documents that show Jones requested early parole consideration for a persistent felon and his farm had to settle a discrimination case against a black former employee.

"I suggest to you in all of these documents that there's a pattern evolving of deception, of half-truths, of using an elected office of the state of Kentucky to influence decisions that otherwise might not even be made," Poore said.

Jones said Poore was slinging mud and misrepresenting the cases.

Jones said he never actually asked for early parole, but suggested that it would be a good idea if it was given. Jones also said the letter was written at the suggestion of a staff member.

Poore produced a series of letters exchanged between Jones, Parole Board Chairman John Runda and Fayette Commonwealth's Attorney Ray Larson in late 1988 regarding parole for Dale A. Baynes.

Baynes is serving two consecutive 10-year sentences for being a persistent felony offender from Fayette County. Runda said Friday that Baynes is a "con artist." Baynes' first felony conviction was in 1965 and he has had numerous felony and misdemeanor convictions since then. He has also violated parole twice and probation once.

Jones' letter in September 1988 said he had received requests for early parole consideration for Baynes from numerous people. The letter goes on to say that Jones' staff had investigated Baynes' conduct while he was confined and found he had "conducted himself in a responsible manner."

The letter concludes that the Parole Board would be justified in granting early parole to Baynes.

When Baynes was considered for parole in August 1990, he was denied.

Runda said the letter from Jones was the only such request he has ever received from a statewide official.

The other issue Poore raised had been publicized previously.

In 1987, Jones' Airdrie Stud Farm in Woodford County paid $2,500 to settle a race discrimination case brought by a former employee. In a settlement with the Human Rights Commission, the farm also agreed to hire more black workers until the minority work force reached 5 percent.

Jones spokeswoman Diana Taylor said the case was not against Jones individually and that a supervisory employee at the farm was dismissed as a result.

But Poore said Jones continually seeks to blame others for his problems. Poore also raised a touchy subject of a barn fire of mysterious origin at Jones' Airdrie Stud Farm that killed several valuable thoroughbred horses.

"Everything that happens in this campaign, he's blamed it on his wife, (campaign manager) Steve Miller, maybe the barn, the tin roof, probably one of the horses. If the campaign goes on much longer he'll run out of people that will sit idly by and take all the blame for these things," Poore said.

Poore had an ethical question posed to him on Friday as well. Poore was taken around Lexington on a campaign tour by former state Rep. Jerry Lundergan, who resigned from the House after his conviction for illegally accepting a state contract.

Lundergan was fined $1,000 for that violation.

Poore said Lundergan had "paid his dues."

Meanwhile, Lexington Mayor Scotty Baesler has blasted the National Rifle Association for issuing ratings that gave all the other candidates for governor an "A" and him an "F."

During a news conference Friday on the steps of the Jefferson County Courthouse, Baesler said he will not back down from his stand to ban the use of semi-automatic weapons. He was joined for the conference by Fayette County police officers.

Baesler said 87 percent of the people his office has surveyed in Jefferson County oppose the sale of semi-automatic weapons such as the AK-47. He said he will not be threatened by the National Rifle Association's rating.

"Assault weapons are for the battlefield and not for Kentucky," Baesler said.

The NRA endorsed U.S. Rep. Larry Hopkins for governor because of his voting record on weapons issues, according to the group's rating letter.

The letter says Baesler's rating is based on his responses to a candidate questionnaire and his statements calling for a ban on semi-automatic firearms.

Forgy prepared for negative campaign

PIKEVILLE, Ky. (AP) — Larry Forgy told supporters to get ready for some messy campaigning by opponent Larry Hopkins in the final days of the Republican governor's race.

"You'll see a lot of negative, you'll hear a lot of negative," Forgy told about 35 supporters Friday who met him at the Pike County Airport.

Forgy, an attorney from Lexington, is attempting a low-budget upset in Tuesday's primary over Hopkins, the well-financed congressman from central Kentucky's 6th District.

"They've got some $500,000 in an account down there, and they're going to take the garbage pail and just pour it over my head. Count on it," Forgy said.

He said this has been the dirtiest Republican campaign since 1967, when Louie Nunn defeated Marlow Cook in a bruising primary and went on to win the general election. The Republicans have not won a governor's race since then.

Forgy asked his supporters to defend him to the public. "All I can say is that you all know me, you know what I stand for, you've known me for years," Forgy said. "Just tell people it's not true."

Hopkins, in Frankfort, noted Nunn's prominent role in Forgy's campaign.

"Here's the guy (Forgy) who went to the home office of dirty campaigns to head his campaign," Hopkins said. "We've been trashed pretty good out there — not so much by Forgy but by his operatives."

Both candidates were in the air Friday, flying to a score of cities to give pep talks to their boosters and attract as much television coverage as possible.

Forgy had other stops in Paintsville, Paducah, Hopkinsville, Madisonville, Owensboro and Henderson.

Hopkins visited a hospital in Richmond and Kentucky School for the Deaf at Danville. Besides Frankfort, he also had brief visits scheduled at Cynthia, Paris, Mount Sterling, Winchester, Berea, Harrodsburg, Nicholasville, Versailles, Shelbyville and Georgetown.

Landing by helicopter in Frankfort, Hopkins climbed part way up a floodwall to talk to about 60 supporters. Pointing in the general direction of the Capitol, he quipped: "Tell 'em relief is on the way."

In Pikeville, Forgy stood in the bed of a pickup truck, his jacket off and sleeves rolled up, and talked confidently of victory over Hopkins.

Picking up the support of a state senator from McCreary County would help greatly in Kentucky's most Republican congressional district, the 5th, Forgy said.

State Sen. Landon Sexton, R-Pine Knot, signed a letter of endorsement for Hopkins in January. He appeared at a news conference with Forgy to announce he had switched because of disillusionment with Hopkins' position on taxes, among other things.

Forgy said Friday that 75 percent of the voters in Sexton's southern Kentucky district were Republican and that Sexton got 70 percent of the vote there.

Attorney general's office withdraws from investigation

By The Associated Press
FRANKFORT, Ky. — The state attorney general's office withdrew from a grand jury investigation of political campaign contributions.

A special prosecutor will be appointed to carry on the state-federal investigation with the U.S. attorney's office in Lexington, Deputy Attorney General Brent L. Caldwell said Friday.

The action came 10 days after a grand jury witness said Attorney General Fred Cowan, a Democratic candidate for lieutenant governor, sought a $2,000 campaign contribution from him while he was under subpoena.

Letters to the editor

'Scotty Baesler is a real farmer'

Dear Editor:
I'm J.R. Rhoades retired Calloway County Farmer. Based on my experience through the years I have found that only farmers understand farm problems. There is only one real farmer running for Governor, that's Scotty Baesler. As a retired person I understand the problems of people on fixed incomes. Scotty Baesler has lowered property taxes for his people, four straight years. He obviously understands. Scotty Baesler is a real farmer, with real feelings, for real people like me and you. Please vote for the peoples real candidate. Scotty Baesler a real Kentuckian, with real solutions, to real problems. Paid for by friends of Scotty Baesler.
J.R. Rhoades
R-1 Box 456, Murray

Jones' 'high standards and strong morals'

Dear Editor:
One candidate in the upcoming governor's race is truly concerned about Kentucky's senior citizens. Brereton Jones is a friend of mine, and I know he will help older Kentuckians. I am 84 years old, and I have talked with him on several occasions about the issues and concerns facing older Kentuckians.
Brereton Jones founded the Association for Older Kentuckians (AOK) to give senior citizens a louder voice and has raised millions of dollars to improve health care in this state. In one case, he helped raise $22 million for the Cancer Research Center at the University of Kentucky. He also wants to change the inheritance tax system to ease taxes on Kentuckians which will help keep the family farm in the family.
Brereton Jones has pledged to make sure senior citizens can afford health insurance and make quality health care available to everyone. Rarely do you find a person who has the qualities of Brereton Jones. He is a man of high standards and strong morals. He wants to make Kentucky a better place for all of us.
Please join with me in voting on Tuesday, May 28, for Brereton Jones as our next Governor.
Mr. Luck Burt
Rt. 7, Murray

'Baesler's leadership and foresight'

Dear Editor:
Tax paying, law abiding West Kentuckians want to be proud of the governor of their state. We now have the opportunity to elect a candidate with an outstanding record of unblemished administration. Scotty Baesler's leadership and foresight have assured prosperity in one major city in Kentucky. He will take the same effective strategies to the state level when elected governor. This means more jobs, effective law enforcement, proven drug education programs and fiscal responsibility that are needed and expected all across Kentucky.
Scotty Baesler is a farmer, businessman and city executive who can bring professional leadership to Frankfort and pride to all of us. I would like to see a good man become an excellent governor and I believe that Scotty Baesler is that man.
Tom Auer
Rt. 7, Box 758, Murray

'Very impressed' by Jones' message

Dear Editor:
I have met Brereton Jones several times during his many trips to Calloway County. I have been very impressed by his positive message. He is a man of both compassion and ability. He is for our children, and he supports education. Brereton is the first candidate for governor to receive the unanimous endorsement of the Kentucky Education Association. In the area of health care, he founded the Kentucky Free Care Program. This program has provided free medical care at no cost to the taxpayers to 37,000 poor Kentuckians. Physicians that are a part of this program, donate their services to those in need.
Brereton Jones was recognized last year as the lay person in America who had done the most to provide health care for the poor. This is a good example of the compassion and the ability that this man possesses. When we go to vote Tuesday, we should take time to think about what this man has done for the less fortunate. Also, think about what he will be able to do for our children in education by working with the legislature and our teachers.
Brereton Jones for Governor — "This time all of the people come first."
Paulette Borders
Rt. 6, Murray

Cowan has 'all the skills necessary'

Dear Editor:
In the process of bringing new companies to Kentucky, many of us would like to see the quickest process possible take place. It will be a much easier task if we begin today to educate our children better, keep them in school, and then more companies will come to Kentucky.
Attorney General Fred Cowan has demonstrated all the skills necessary to be a great lieutenant Governor. He knows Kentucky's future depends on his children. That's why he worked to improve education with smaller classes, remedial programs and programs that serve as education and economic recruitment tools. He has made it tougher on those who can pay child support but don't. Collections are up by nearly forty percent. He has consistently fought for our children who are sexually abused, improving prosecutions an investigations.
Fred helped in Kentucky's war against drugs. He helped local prosecutors receive more funding to battle the war on drugs and crime. He has served on the Governor's Marijuana Eradication Strike Force, the commission for a Drug-Free Kentucky and Champions Against Drugs.
It may be hard for us to see it now, but twenty years from now we will all be proud of the great things Fred has done for Kentucky.
Loretta Jobs

'Give Scotty Baesler an opportunity'

Dear Editor:
Next Tuesday the voters of Calloway County will go to the polls and select the nominees for the various state offices for the incoming four years.
My husband headed the bus transportation for the Calloway County School System for a number of years. I have seen him out at 4 a.m. checking the rural roads to see if the school buses could run their routes. Therefore, I am vitally interested in our rural road program.
Scotty Baesler has committed himself to the people of Calloway County to a sound and sensible rural road program for the next four years.
Mr. Baesler has served for 10 years as mayor of one of our largest cities in Kentucky without breaking a campaign promise. Taking this into consideration, I am fully confident he will fulfill his promise to Calloway County regarding the rural road program.
For many years we have seen too many of the highway employees from Frankfort traveling the state trying to find a good location to fish with their brief case STUFFED with Sears-Roebuck catalogues to cover up their missions. Let's give Scotty Baesler an opportunity to demonstrate honesty in state government.

Says Weaks obeyed 'marching orders'

Dear Editor:
A few weeks ago a political advertisement appeared in the Ledger & Times concerning the race for governor in the upcoming primary. In evaluating the Democratic candidates, the author made the following statement: "Scotty Baesler, although I don't know him very well, has been Mayor of Lexington for three terms, and is there any doubt in your minds that his loyalties will be to Lexington and Fayette County? If you think not, you are dreaming."
The author of the above statement was our own George H. Weaks, Judge/Executive of Calloway County. And now, Judge Weaks is strongly supporting Scotty Baesler in the Democratic Primary Tuesday. How did this all come about? Despite some $3,500,000 plus in her campaign fund, Martha Wilkinson (strongly supported by Judge Weaks a few weeks ago) could not get her campaign off dead center, her negative ratings continued to rise, and so the Wilkinsons dropped out of the race a week ago.
For four years we have had the spectacle of a Governor and a Lt. Governor having nothing to do with each other because Brereton Jones would have nothing to do with Wallace G's strong arm methods. In this race from the start it was obvious the Wallace/Martha campaign was designed to win, or at the least defeat Brereton Jones.
With Mrs. Wilkinson out of the race, the call came through to all Wilkinson supporters, "back Baesler." So Judge Weaks dutifully followed his marching orders, even though it meant backing a man he believes has his loyalties in Lexington and remember, you are a dreamer if you don't believe that.)
Brereton Jones is an excellent candidate for governor, as is evidenced by the strong editorial support for him by the Murray Ledger & Times, The Paducah Sun, and the Louisville Courier Journal among others.
Just as important for the state, the Republicans are having a real horse race in the Republican Primary as the two Larrys (Forgey and Hopkins) fight it out for the right to be the candidate of the Republicans in the fall election. Although the Republican chances in the fall are considerably diminished with the failure of an opportunity to run against Martha Wilkinson, it should develop into an interesting 1991 campaign in November.

Thoughts about the Vietnam vets

Dear Editor:
I wrote some poems about the Vietnam War during that time, I will submit them at a later date. At this time, I would like to share some thoughts about the Vietnam veterans and about the Iraqi war. I would like to see the Vietnam Veterans get the recognition, benefits, respect and all of the other things that they justly deserve. By the way, where were a lot of you during the Vietnam War, where were all of the yellow ribbons being tied around the old oak tree, as well as the red, white, and blue, where were all of the support the Vietnam conflict banners, buttons, shirts, caps, stickers, and you name it. Where were all of the flag waving, back slapping, kissy smack, ticker tape parades and homecoming parties, where was all of the letter writing from the young and the old, and all of the support in general. I don't remember the Vietnam Veterans getting very much of the above, but I'm glad to see that most of the American people have apparently come out of their patriotic coma. I believe that most of the American people supported our troops in the Middle East, as they should have, whether they support all of the President's decisions or not. I'm glad to see most of the American and allied troops have come out of this war alive, so far. I believe that if you ask Gen. Schwartzkopf sometimes in the future if the war was stopped too soon, he will admit that it was indeed stopped too soon. A couple or three days might have made a big difference. With the Kurds and Shiites, thousands of lives might have been saved. As it stands now Saddam Hussein is still in power. The war is supposed to be over, but in the words of the immortal Yogi Berra, it ain't over until it's over, and it might be deja vu all over again.

Criminals will get guns they want

Dear Editor:
I am writing concerning candidates, certain of our elected officials in Congress, and leaders of certain organizations playing on human emotion about guns.
This AK-47 that is portrayed as such an awesome weapon, has the styling of something people are not familiar with. It looks like a Rambo-type weapon. It has a lot of firepower, but not nearly the killpower of a good 30-06 hunting rifle, or the World War II era M1 rifle, or even a 30-30 deer rifle. The statistics are available in any gun and ammo magazine. If Baesler is going to rid us of this gun he better get rid of the Uzi also, and make sure to get the ones the Mafia has access to.
People don't seem to research anything anymore. Some supposedly important person in the country can put out some information and a lot of people will jump on the bandwagon.
We need some reliable check on people buying guns. Brereton Jones has a good plan in my opinion. If I am not mistaken, President Bush backs the same idea, instead of the Brady Bill, but he may sign the Brady Bill to get something tacked on that he wants. "Politics."
I think we about as well face the fact, criminals for a long time yet, will get all the guns they want, and any kind they want. I know people given the proper tools could make a good gun in less than the seven-day waiting period.
Folks, we don't need to let "them" legislate us out of our country. Look at Russia, China, Nazi Germany. Every Socialist government, dictatorship, etc. must first get rid of the guns. Are we keeping up with this "New Order"?
One of the early leaders of this country, after the constitution came about and the country had adopted a government of the people, by the people, and for the people, said, this democracy will stand until its leaders find out they can vote themselves rich. Has that time about come?

We did the only thing we could do — we straddled the fence

Another birthday is at hand. Celebrating enough birthdays entitles a person to re-write history the way one wants it to be, rather than as it really was. The good thing about getting older is getting selectively forgetful at the same time.

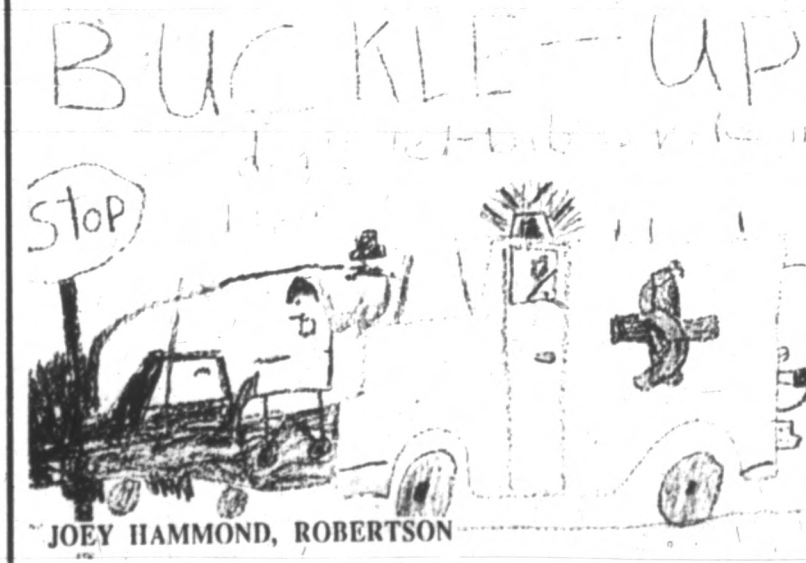

Southern SEEN By Larry McGehee

The same is true of one's hearing. One begins, with age, to hear what one wants to hear.
Habits are a long time in forming, but it takes even longer to break them once they are in place. Take writing with a fountain pen, for example.
Every grown-up I knew in my youth wrote with a fountain pen. Changing from using pencils to writing with a fountain pen was a mark of adulthood, like changing from short pants and knickers to long pants.
In my case, my pencil writing days coincided with the end of the Depression and with World War II. Pencils were appropriate then, both because of my age and because there wasn't much other choice. The big deal was to get a Bulova or Elgin watch or a Sheaffer, Parker, or Waterman fountain pen for high school graduation.
I was in the Class of 1954 (which gathers for its 37th reunion this July). About the time I graduated, the whole universe was shaken by scientific revolutions. The atomic bomb is the major discovery of that era that most people would recall if asked, but for me it was but a minnow compared to the whales of 1) the ballpoint pen and 2) the shock-resistant waterproof watch.
The arrival of ballpoint pens and unstoppable watches on the market was a major community event. Watches were dropped out of airplanes onto fields at fall football nights to demonstrate their amazing resistance. Jewelry stores had mass demonstrations of ballpoint pens writing under water and on butter. We ogled these new mechanical marvels with the same awe we had shown a few years earlier for half-time demonstrations of flame-throwers and parachutes.
The arrival of the ballpoint pen set our generation apart forever from that of our parents. Terribly difficult choices had to be made about what kind of adults we wanted to become. Would we go with the new ballpoints and be liberated modernists, or stick with the fountain pen and be traditionalists?
We straddled the fence.
We are the lucky generation. We could pick and choose, a bit of something old-fashioned here and a bit of something new and innovative there. We have been blessed by being able to live in both worlds at the same time. And though the changes bombarding us are oftentimes dizzying, we have muddled through pretty well as a generation.
This essay is written on a personal computer. (There's little "personal" about it, since almost everyone around me has one just like it.) However, just before I switched it on and started typing, I wrote three thank-you notes by hand — in permanent jet-black ink from my tortoise-shelled Waterman with its 14K golf point.
I wouldn't have it any other way than this — having it both ways.

Letter to the editor

Why vote for railroad commissioner?

Dear Editor:
 A few questions please?
 Does Kentucky have a Railroad Commission?
 If so, what does a Railroad Commission do?
 Do I even care?
 Should I pull lever three and vote for Larry Tierney?
 The answers are; yes, not much, you better, and please.
 The Railroad Commission is a left over constitutional office which has outlived its usefulness, but is still being funded by our tax dollars. The Railroad Commission had a very important part in turn-of-the-century Kentucky with duties like those conferred by KRS 276.430; seeing that all passenger terminals had water closets or privies at all depots in cities... and that those were kept in decent order; or, that the company will keep its ticket offices open 30 minutes prior to a scheduled departure of each passenger train and keep it comfortably warmed in cold weather.... I think you can see this type of office has little or no use in modern day Kentucky. While the salary of a Commissioner is at its Constitutional minimum of $3,000 per year which, by today's standards, does not sound like much, we the taxpayers are funding this commission to the tune of $88,000 per year plus health insurance and retirement benefits for the Commissioners and any staff. We all know where it's coming from but where is this money going? Well, for the last several years it has gone to the chairman of the Commission to attend "regulatory conventions" in places like Los Angeles, California and Orlando, Florida. Pretty good locations to learn about Kentucky, I would say.
 I realize this is not much in the overall State Budget, but, I was always taught to watch your pennies and the dollars would follow. I further believe that we should get what we pay for and I do not think this office is even close to providing its worth of service to us every two years. Let's spend this money on schools, roads or anything else where we can get some good out of it.
 Larry is a newcomer to politics and has no "ties" to the political machine having had no PAC contributions made to his campaign, so when elected to this post he will lobby the Legislature to place a Constitutional amendment on the ballot to end this ripoff and abolish this leftover office.
 Railroads in this state currently are heavily regulated by federal and other bodies of state government. Any remaining duties of this commission could easily be assumed by any number of other agencies like the Transportation Cabinet, Public Service Commission, etc.
 To me it's simple. Vote for Larry Tierney and let the legislature know we the taxpayers are concerned about our tax dollars and how they are spent. Or, vote for the other candidates and send the message that our tax dollars do not matter.
 If you feel our tax dollars are being wasted, and I think they are, then vote and support Larry Tierney in the May primary.

Campaign raises other public policy issues

By MARK R. CHELLGREN
 An AP News Analysis

FRANKFORT, Ky. — Amidst all of the wailing and gnashing of teeth that accompanies this year's elections, some long-simmering public policy issues are being revisited.
 The prospect of party nominees winning with 30 percent of the vote or less has raised the profile of runoff elections. The heavy hand of the Wallace Wilkinson administration in the campaign of Martha Wilkinson has renewed debate over succession.
 And the cavalcade of candidates for lesser offices — especially superintendent of public instruction — has revived the question of whether the state needs or can afford eight constitutional officers.
 The question of a runoff comes up periodically. And the point is well-taken. Does it truly make for a representative nominee if that person can only attract a bare plurality of people voting in a party primary?
 Runoffs are usually criticized on racial, sexual or geographical grounds. The question is whether a minority candidate, a female or an eastern Kentuckian ever would be able to win a statewide race if a runoff were in place.
 The example most often given is the case of the 1983 campaign with Martha Layne Collins, Harvey Sloane and Dr. Grady Stumbo. Opponents of a runoff say Collins would never have won a runoff if she had to run against Sloane one-on-one.
 But the alternative that almost never comes up when discussing the general topic is an open primary, where people can choose which primary to participate in when they go to vote, regardless of their registration. Democrats, who hold an overwhelming registration advantage of Kentucky and want to keep it that way, start to stutter when discussing an open primary.
 Questions about succession come up at least every four years, when candidates are asked if they support the concept. This year's stock answer is for candidates to endorse succession, but not for themselves.

 Succession has always been a favorite of the "good government" crowd as one of the solutions to Kentucky's government quagmire. The theory goes that by bringing some continuity, the urge of those in office to plunder while they can would be dimmed somewhat.
 Some of those same people are reconsidering that opinion. Wallace Wilkinson, never one of their favorites, has caused it. The image of the Wilkinsons' exercising the power of incumbency has forced many of the good government types to wonder if one term isn't enough.
 Even with the departure of Mrs. Wilkinson from the race on Friday after she acknowledged she could not win, her conduct of the campaign has prompted more consideration of a single, six-year term for governors.
 The cavalry charge of candidates for titles that have no apparent jobs is especially apparent this year.
 After all, there are 12 people running for the job of superintendent of public instruction, a post that has no duties and will be paid only $3,000 per year. But it beats working.
 The only office to attract more interest is the job of commissioner of agriculture. In that race, 13 people are running for a post with few readily apparent duties beyond contradicting people who say bad things about tobacco. But commissioner pays more than $60,000 per year and you get a car.
 Another nine people want to be treasurer, who gets the same amount of money. The really surprising thing about this year's elections is that only five people are running to be secretary of state, the best-paid clerk in Kentucky.
 There is one other issue that should be discussed but isn't.
 Why is it that Kentucky needs an election every six months, anyway?

Florida enacts tough campaign reform bill

TALLAHASSEE, Fla. (AP) — Gov. Lawton Chiles, who campaigned against big money in politics by taking only $100 donations, signed legislation Friday that imposes the nation's toughest limits on contributions and creates a public fund for statewide races.
 The law, which sets a new $500 contribution limit, was hailed by national advocates of campaign finance reform, but drew criticism from political consultants who claimed it would do little to change the influence of cash.
 "There is no question that this is one of the most far-reaching reforms to be accomplished at the state or national level in years," said Fred Wertheimer, president of the Washington-based Common Cause citizens' lobby. "This is a fundamental change."
 Chiles, a Democrat who served three terms in the U.S. Senate, styled his 1990 campaign as a crusade against the influence of big-money interests by limiting contributions to $100. The campaign reform bill, a hard-fought compromise in the Legislature, was his top priority in the just-completed spring session.
 "We're making Florida the leader in campaign reform," he said at a bill-signing ceremony. "It levels the playing field for fund raising."

 Existing contribution limits for campaigns are $3,000 for statewide races and $1,000 for others. Those limits apply separately to each primary, runoff and general election, for respective totals of $9,000 and $3,000.
 The new law, which takes effect in January 1992, lowers both limits to $500 — or $1,500 for all three elections if there is opposition.
 An analysis provided by the governor's office shows that no state has lower limits for statewide candidates, although South Dakota, Montana and Connecticut each have tighter limits for legislative candidates.
 The bill also sets up a public campaign finance fund through a 1.5 percent tax on filing fees paid by candidates and contributions from political action committees — the so-called "PAC tax."
 The financing will flow only to statewide candidates who voluntarily cap total expenditures at $2 million for the independently-elected Florida Cabinet and $5 million in gubernatorial races.

DR. GOTT

by Peter Gott, M.D.

DEAR DR. GOTT In 1988 my doctor prescribed radioactive iodine to control my over-active thyroid. I'm presently taking Synthroid daily. Can anything be done to prevent my eyeballs from bulging?

DEAR READER Based on the limited information you provide, I conclude that you had Graves' disease (prominent eyes associated with an overactive thyroid gland) that was treated with radioactive iodine in 1988; this was followed by an under-active thyroid condition for which you have been prescribed thyroid hormone (Synthroid).

Hyperthyroidism (thyroid overactivity) is treated in three ways: radioactive iodine (which destroys over-functioning thyroid tissue), surgery (which removes part of it) or medicine (which prevents the excess formation of thyroid hormone).

The first two methods are quite effective — but they are permanent. Also, it's often difficult for the doctor to judge how much of the radioactive iodine to administer or how much of the gland to remove. Thus, a major complication may be over-treatment, which leaves the patient with hypothyroidism (thyroid under-activity) that must be indefinitely treated with supplemental thyroid replacement.

To make matters worse, the eye symptoms of Graves' disease may worsen after successful treatment. The reasons for this are not precisely known and there is no test to determine which patients will experience this unpredictable, iatrogenic (physician-induced) complication.

On the other hand, therapy with medicine is not necessarily permanent; in fact, the dose of medication (such as Tapazole) can be altered to prevent increased exophthalmos (eye-bulging). This is why I never recommend surgery or radioactive iodine in patients with Graves' disease until I am sure that the exophthalmos doesn't increase after drug therapy.

There are two possible reasons for your problem: Either you have post-treatment exophthalmos, as I mentioned, or your hyperthyroidism was not brought under control with the radioactive iodine.

You should have blood tests to evaluate your thyroid function. If the tests indicate your thyroid is overactive, you should stop the Synthroid and undergo further therapy for Graves' disease.

If, on the other hand, the tests confirm normal thyroid function, attention can be directed to your eyes. In this instance, the temporary use of cortisone often reduces the exophthalmos — but you will need close supervision by (and advice from) an eye specialist.

To give you more information, I am sending you a free copy of my Health Report "Medical Specialists." Other readers who would like a copy should send $1.25 plus a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope to P.O. Box 91369, Cleveland, OH 44101-3369. Be sure to mention the title.

School lists activities

Elaine Burn of Christian Fellowship School at Briensburg has released the following information concerning events at the school.

For Grades K-6, a basketball camp for boys with Scott Wagner as director is planned this summer. It will be held at the school on Thursday, July 25, from 5 to 8 p.m.; on Friday, July 26, from 5 to 8 p.m.; and on Saturday, July 27, at 1 p.m. On Saturday the boys participating in the camp will be divided into teams and play a tournament beginning at 1 p.m. The cost will be minimal and will be determined by the number of boys participating. Each participant will receive a t-shirt and some awards will be given after the championship game on Saturday.

For Grades 1-6, a Little Cheerleader Camp for girls will be held from 4 to 6 p.m. on June 24, 25, 27 and 28. The cost of the camp will be $20. Each girl will receive a cheerleader t-shirt at the camp to be conducted by the D.F.S. Varsity Cheerleaders under the direction of their sponsor, Wanda Garland. Last year's camp was a huge success and we look forward to an even better camp this year. Daily awards, a spirit-stick and lots of other surprises will be given. If any boy or girl is interested in coming to C.F.S.'s Cheerleader or Basketball camp this summer, please call the school office, 1-527-8377, and talk to Wanda Garland for further information.

On April 30, Mrs. Hettie Ward's U.S. History Class visited Admore, a historic house at Princeton. They took a tour of the house and saw a portrait of Katherine Garret, the previous owner of the house, who set up a trust to make the house a museum. The house was decorated for an engagement party for one of the daughters, Miss Selina Garret, held in the early 1900s which is the same time period that the class was discussing. The entire U.S. History Class seemed to enjoy the field trip and would like to go back.

Larry Nichol's class took a field trip on May 2 to WPSD Television Station at Paducah and WHM Radio Station at Hardin. The students studied the effect of mass media upon our lives. They were able to see first hand the operation of a television and radio station.

Mrs. Eva Miller's Second and Third Grade Class had been busy as bees working on Science projects. Each child had a bug collection. Girls and boys alike caught insects and spiders and arranged and labeled them. Mrs. Wanda Peal's First Grade Class and Mrs. Cindy Nichol's Kindergarten Class made visitors to see the collections. The Second and Third Grade Class also did some gardening by digging and planting a flower garden in front of C.F. School. Each child took home two cups containing planted seeds to watch them to start pushing through the soil.

DEAR ABBY

by Abigail Van Buren

DEAR READERS: Most occupational and public office titles originated when only men performed these jobs. Today, women are involved in all occupations, making sex-labeled titles discriminatory.

Occupational titles should describe the job—not the person doing the job. Some examples: Forget "lady doctor"—she is a doctor (who happens to be a woman).

No more "woman lawyer"—she is a lawyer.

Forget "waitress"—the correct form is waiter or server.

No more "meter maid"—meter attendant is correct.

An "authoress" is simply an author.

A "housewife" is now properly called a homemaker.

Perhaps it won't surprise you that these updated terms come from "The Practical Guide to Non-Sexist Language," courtesy of the National Organization for Women in St. Louis, Mo.

While the titles "Miss" and "Mrs." originally were used to distinguish female children from adult women, the titles identify marital status: A "Mrs." is married, a "Miss" is not.

The dissatisfaction of many women with this labeling system led eventually to the use of "Ms." (The American Heritage Dictionary defines "Ms." as "a title of courtesy used before a woman's surname, without regard to her marital status.")

A woman's professional or academic title takes precedence over a social title: Chancellor Jane Roe, or Jane Roe, Ph.D., not Ms. Jane Roe.

And when writing a memorandum to one's office staff, it is correct to say, "Everyone is expected to do the (not his) job well."

Finally, as the guide notes, "Neither sex has a monopoly on jobs, with two exceptions: wet nurses and sperm donors."

DEAR ABBY: My 3-year-old grandson hits almost everyone he associates with, especially his father. His baby brother is now 4 months old, and "Big Brother" has become more abusive since the baby arrived.

My daughter and her husband do not hit him back; they try to reason with him, but they are afraid he will harm another child with a stick, etc., which he likes to have in his hands most of the time.

In my day, I would have sat him in a chair and delivered a firm lecture, and I would have forbidden any "weapons" for him to play with until the hitting stopped. But this advice does not seem to fit into "today's" upbringing.

I live 1,000 miles away from them, so I'm not around enough for my feelings (or any part of my body) to be hurt from my grandson's aggression. But I sure would appreciate a solution. Thank you.

FLORIDA GRANDMA

DEAR FLORIDA GRANDMA: "Big Brother" is acting out his feelings of jealousy with regard to the new baby, which is only natural. But your daughter and son-in-law should take a lesson from you and nip the child's aggressive behavior before it gets out of control.

And if the aggression persists, the parents should consult a professional for guidance.

People are eating them up! For Abby's favorite recipes, send a long, business-size, self-addressed envelope, plus check or money order for $3.95 ($4.50 in Canada) to: Dear Abby, Cookbooklet, P.O. Box 447, Mount Morris, Ill. 61054. (Postage is included.)

Divac leads Lakers to game 3 victory over Portland

By KEN PETERS
AP Sports Writer

INGLEWOOD, Calif. — Vlade Divac didn't play very well in the first two games of the Western Conference final, but he made up for it with an inspired six minutes in Game 3. "Vlade was very active; he was a spark on both ends of the court," the Lakers' Magic Johnson said. "He was very aggressive."

Divac scored 10 points, blocked three shots and had a steal during a third-quarter run Friday night as the Lakers pulled away to beat Portland 106-92 and take a 2-1 lead in the best-of-7 series.

"I was a different player in this game," said Divac, who finished with 16 points, seven rebounds and three blocks after totaling just 21 points and four rebounds in the first two games.

"I played soft in Game 2. In this game, I concentrated and did a good job."

"Vlade has a lot of heart and desire and he's the most resilient player I know," Los Angeles coach Mike Dunleavy said of Divac, who had drawn some criticism for his play in the first two games.

Dunleavy said it wasn't fair to blame the Lakers' Game 2 loss on Divac, saying, "We lost as a team, not as Vlade Divac."

The coach added, however, that he thought his players were determined to be more aggressive in Game 3.

"They took it to us in Game 2 and I don't think our guys liked it," Dunleavy said. "They had to read about it, and basically it was the truth."

Portland coach Rick Adelman said the Trail Blazers, who shot just 37 percent from the field to the Lakers' 49 percent, simply had an off-night.

"We were missing wide-open shots, everything," Adelman said. "It just seemed to happen to everybody at once."

"I can't remember when we shot so poorly," Portland's Terry Porter said. "Shots just didn't fall."

Blazers center Kevin Duckworth had a particularly frustrating game, going 2-for-14.

Game 4 is Sunday at the Forum. The series then switches to Portland for Game 5 Tuesday night.

Los Angeles led just 43-40 at halftime, but built its advantage to 61-47 midway through the third period as Divac dominated on both ends of the court during that stretch.

Michael STRICKLAND

MSU athletic director

As the school year has ended, college athletics, the OVC and Murray State break for the summer and prepare for the challenges that face us all in the fall and in the years ahead. The challenges are great and seem to grow larger each year, but let's put those off for awhile and take time today to revel in the accomplishments of Murray State athletics during the spring.

First, our men's and women's tennis teams, made challenging runs at the conference championships. While the women finish third and the men a tough second, there is great hope for 1992. The women's team, led by Heather Donovan, OVC champion at No. 3 singles, returns the entire team. Combined with promising recruits, Sherry Rouse and the team will be in prime position to bring home the trophy next year.

The men's team took second for the second straight year. Rest assured that all of us from the athletic director to the newest freshman are dedicated to restoring Bennie Purcell and the team to their rightful place as the best tennis team in the OVC. With Doug Hawthorne, Scott Yarbrough, Jimmie Brooks and Andy Poore and other returning, count on this group to win in 1992.

The OVC track championships were held on the new MSU track at Stewart Stadium. Both the track and the meet were successful as our men's team easily won the OVC title and the women, with a stirring victory in the 4x400 relay won the championship in the last event. We had our share of OVC champions — for the women, Dede Jackson (shot put), Wendy Atkinson (discus/javelin), Felicia Upton (100 meters, 200 meters), Stephanie Saleem (400 meters) and Greg Deaves (shot put), Dave Stone (high jump), Nelson Williamson (discus), Carl Dillard (1500 meters), Mike Edwards (110 meter hurdles), Steven Roberts (400/800 meters), Dan Zaneski (javelin) and Mickey Skaggs (400 hurdles) for the men.

To close the spring, two outstanding performances from the golf and baseball teams. The golf team's stirring victory in Nashville (which clinched the all-sports trophy), was one of the highlights of the year. Jeff Sanders, Dirk Brinker, Chris Wilson, Todd Sims and Price Coakley went hole-to-hole with Austin Peay and Eastern Kentucky, prevailing by four strokes. Coach Buddy Hewitt had an outstanding season and could well have a better team next year.

As for coach Johnny Reagan and the baseball team, what better way to close the year than winning the regular season title, hosting the OVC Tournament, and having five players (Kirke Rueter, Kent Wallace, Jon Grzanich, Jason Haner, and Danny Alfeldt) named first-team OVC? An outstanding effort from the dean of baseball coaches and a confident, hard-nosed team.

For the year, Murray State athletics participated in 14 conference sports, winning championships in men's basketball, men's golf, baseball, men's outdoor track and women's outdoor track. Our cross-country (2nd and 3rd), volleyball (3rd), indoor track (2nd and 2nd) and tennis (2nd and 3rd) gave us a success rate of 12 of 14 in the top three. These efforts resulted in a men's all-sports trophy and a third for the women. These trophies represent all around

Clubhouse crises aside, Mets pick on Cardinals

By JIM DONAGHY
Associated Press Baseball Writer

NEW YORK — The New York Mets' clubhouse isn't the most pleasant place to be this weekend.

The players aren't quite sure what crisis will be lurking near their lockers each day. A couple of days ago, Ron Darling sent an open letter to the press. On Friday, Gregg Jefferies had one for the fans.

Is anybody happy?

Jefferies thinks he's being picked on by some of his teammates and says he's not a crybaby.

David Cone picked on St. Louis Friday night. He struck out 12 and drove in two runs with a single while pitching an eight-hitter to lead the Mets over the Cardinals 6-2.

Because of Jefferies' letter, the Mets held a players-only meeting before the game and Cone took part.

Jefferies, who missed the game because of the flu, said he was being buried in the press by some of his teammates and wasn't going to take it anymore.

"I never said I would hit .340," Jefferies said. "I never claimed to be Mickey Mantle. You can only take this so long."

Cone said the meeting was called by veterans Rick Cerone and Darling. Darling refused to talk to the media on Thursday because he thought some of his comments about Jefferies' play were taken out of context.

"It was a good time to have it," Cone said of the meeting. "I really haven't had time to digest Gregg's letter. If we have something to say to Gregg, we should go right to him. Not these off-the-record quotes."

The Cardinals came into the series minding their business and doing quite well, having won four straight series. But after taking a 2-0 lead in the third inning on RBI singles by Ray Lankford and Pedro Guerrero, they couldn't do much with Cone (4-3).

Keith Miller, starting in place of Jefferies at second base, doubled home a run in the third off Bryn Smith (4-2). Cone singled with the bases loaded in the fourth to give New York a 3-2 lead.

The Mets loaded the bases on Howard Johnson's single, Mackey Sasser's double and a walk to Kevin Elster. Cone then broke an 0-for-15 streak this season when he hit Smith's first pitch into left-center.

"That was a big lift," Cone said of his hit. "We needed this game. It's no secret we can't fall too far behind Pittsburgh like we did last year."

Cone struggled the first three innings, but settled down to snap a personal three-game losing streak. At one point, he retired 11 in a row en route to his first complete game this season.

"It was Cone's show," St. Louis manager Joe Torre said. "His hit didn't heat us, his pitching did."

Miller gave the Mets a 4-2 lead in the fifth with his first homer, New York, which had 16 hits, added two runs off rookie Tim Lincecum in the seventh on RBI singles by Johnson and Kevin McReynolds.

"Everything Smith threw was up," Torre said. "He couldn't get his ball down."

Perez hitting, base stealing give Florida State 6-3 win

By The Associated Press

Eduardo Perez had four hits and four stolen bases, including a steal of home in the fifth inning, as top-seeded Florida State eliminated Florida International 6-3 Friday at the NCAA Atlantic Regional.

Perez, whose .380 average leads the Seminoles (55-12), had three singles and a double and scored twice. The 6-foot-4, 215-pound first baseman has a team-high 29 steals.

Bryan Harris (7-2) carried a no-hitter into the seventh inning in the game at Tallahassee, Fla., before Gary Haight singled to lead off. In the eighth, the Golden Panthers' Eric Cruz had a two-run double. Cruz's hit snapped a string of 16 scoreless innings by Florida State pitchers in the tournament. Florida International finished its season with a 43-23 record.

In other games in that regional, Georgia Tech eliminated Coastal Carolina 11-7, and Alabama defeated St. John's 5-2.

In the West I at Los Angeles, Minnesota took Hawaii 5-3, and Southern Cal beat OVC representative Middle Tennessee State, 7-5.

In the West II at Fresno, Calif., it was Cal State-Northridge upset-

Hershiser unhappy with minor league outing

SAN ANTONIO (AP) — To Orel Hershiser, a disappointing minor-league performance was a matter of poor mechanics and being human.

"It's just a bad day that happens in baseball. You're human, and you go out and you have bad outings," the Los Angeles Dodgers' right-hander said after taking the loss Friday night in San Antonio's 3-0 loss to Shreveport.

But Hershiser insisted his performance in the Class AA Texas League game won't delay his return to the big leagues following reconstructive shoulder surgery. And he said the outing was a success endurance-wise, even though he allowed three runs and 11 hits in his seven-inning stint.

Hershiser is on a 30-day rehabilitation assignment in the minor leagues. He had surgery on his right shoulder 13 months ago and hasn't pitched in a major league game since.

Friday night's start was his fourth this month and his rockiest so far. It gave Hershiser the chance

Pole-sitter Mears defies norms at Indy

By STEVE WILSTEIN
Associated Press Sports Writer

INDIANAPOLIS — In an age of specialists, when most drivers leave the engineering to the experts and never get grease on their fingers, Rick Mears is at once a throwback and a herald of the future.

The three-time Indianapolis 500 champion and Sunday's pole-sitter monkeys around in the garage like the oldtimers by day, then taps the night away on his laptop computer to give him a high-tech edge.

No ordinary nerd, Mears is simply fascinated by all the details of designing and building the cars he drives. But instead of just slipping under the chassis, Mears downloads the data from the sensors in his car and pores over charts in the silence of his suite.

Punching up graphs, crunching the numbers, Mears analyzes the arcane minutiae that could make just enough difference to win his fourth Indy.

Wheel travel. Suspension movement. Shock velocity. Ride height. Corner roll. Wheel bearing temperatures. Mears overlays the figures of each lap, looking for clues that could smooth his trip a fraction or spot trouble before it happens.

"I love it. It's fun and fascinating," Mears says, his eyes beaming like a true hacker. "I like working with a chassis. A lot of drivers don't want to mess with it. They just want to drive the car and say, 'Fix it.' I enjoy finding a better package, working with suspensions and geometries to try to make it better. This is another step that

He never went to college, but then neither did Steve Wozniak or Steve Jobs before they invented the Apple computer.

"I've always had a sense of what takes place in the car when I'm running," Mears says. "It's one of my natural abilities, knowing a car's limits. I learned a long time ago you can outrun your equipment very easily, so you have to listen to what the car's telling you. The car will talk to you. If you're abusing the car in a certain area, just by feel and noises and sounds the car will tell you. We're working in areas beyond our feel."

Years ago, the Indy 500 field was sprinkled with cars featuring different engines, body styles and tires. The 33 cars in this 75th running of the race are so similar in equipment and design that each team must search for tiny things to stay ahead.

"We're out to the corners of the envelope," says Mears, who hadn't discovered the joys of the computer age when he won here in 1979, 1984 and 1988. "There are no more areas for large improvements. So the only way to make improvements is to get into the small areas that are difficult for a driver to feel. That's why we started measuring everything. It takes four or five little gains to make one gain that you can feel."

Indy-car racing has gotten to the point where engineering specialists are part of most teams.

"As we've gotten into carbon fibers, wind tunnels, computers, we've had to bring in a lot more outside people and teach them the racing business, instead of the other way around," says Mears, whose Marlboro Racing Team Penske is packed with experts from different disciplines.

"The number of hours we spent in the wind tunnel is incredible," he says. "I enjoyed that, trying to picture where the wind is moving, how it's affecting the car."

All the teams have used electronic sensors and computers to analyze the condition of the cars for the past several years. In the pits, computer cables are attached to the cars for a quick readout that might catch an impending problem. During the race, signals are beamed back to the computer via radio telemetry.

But more than any other driver, Mears combines the computer data with his own sense of the car and track and changes his tactics accordingly.

"I can't put a number on it as far as what kind of gain it made but I know there have been times it helped," he says. "It also helps me understand more, so I don't worry about things before or during the race."

"But what I'd really like to do is walk down the garage area and get a computer disk from every team. See what they're doing. Keep an eye on the competition."

Hershiser, the 1988 Cy Young Award winner, began his rehab assignment with five shutout innings for Bakersfield in the California League on May 8. He pitched five more shutout innings May 13 for the Albuquerque Dukes of the Pacific Coast League.

On May 18, he pitched six innings for Bakersfield, giving up two runs, one of them earned.

It has not been decided when Hershiser will return to the Dodgers, but his 30-day rehab period ends June 7.

For Mr. Gatti's, Chris Faughn and Reid Johnson each had three hits, while Matt Oakley, Justin Boggs, Rhett Clark and Brett Nance each had two hits.

BASEBALL
KANSAS CITY, Mo. — Hal McRae, whose aggressive, hard-nosed style personified Kansas City baseball during its glory years, was named Royals manager, succeeding John Wathan. McRae becomes the fifth black manager in major league history, joining Larry Doby, Maury Wills, Cito Gaston and Frank Robinson, who was fired as Baltimore's manager Thursday. The Kansas City Star reported that McRae had accepted a two-year contract worth $400,000. Wathan's salary this year was about $175,000. McRae, 45, was offered the job when Billy Gardner was fired in August 1987, but took a trial basis for the final 36 games. He turned it down, insisting he would need more time to turn things around, and Wathan was elevated from Omaha, where he had been managing the Triple-A club for less than a year.

GOLF
FORT WORTH, Texas — Chris Perry shot a second-round 5-under 65, giving him a 36-hole total of 131 and a one-shot lead over Wayne Lee, Stan Utley, Gene Sauer and former Colonial winner Keith Clearwater at the Colonial tournament. Mark Calcavecchia, seeking his first victory since the 1989 British Open, scrambled to a 68 despite what he called "idiotic mistakes," and was at 133, tied with Loren Roberts and Fred Funk. Roberts shot 66 and Funk 68.

ELIZABETHTOWN, Ky. — Andy Morse of Needham, Mass., shot a 6-under-par 65 to take the first-round lead in the $100,000 Ben Hogan Elizabethtown Open. Morse had seven birdies and a bogey to take the lead at the par-71, 6,454-yard Pine Valley Country Club. Morse needed only 25 putts for the round, overcoming his recent putting problems. One shot behind Morse was Jerry Foltz of Tucson, Ariz., who birdied five of the last six holes to finish at 66.

TENNIS
STRASBOURG, France — Top-seeded Judith Wiesner and second-seeded Lori McNeil were caught up in the wave of upsets that knocked the last three seeded players out of the Strasbourg Open. # Major league opponents warned by L.A., Rangers

By The Associated Press

Warning! Warning! Los Angeles manager Tom Lasorda has a warning for the National League, while an 11-game winning streak prompted Texas reliever John Barfield to sound even more confident about the Rangers' American League season.

"We have a good hitting ballclub ... even when we weren't getting much from Darryl Strawberry and Kal Daniels. Wait until they start hitting the ball," Lasorda said after Friday night's rout of the defending world champion Cincinnati Reds.

While it's true that Strawberry and Daniels have not hit well — both have hovered around the .220 mark for the first quarter of the season — the Dodgers have parlayed the exploits of Eddie Murray and Juan Samuel and great pitching into a 1½-game lead in the NL West.

Murray and Samuel, both above .300 virtually all season, have combined for 11 homers and 48 RBIs. They each had two hits and Murray drove in four runs as the Dodgers' offense overshadowed the eighth victory of major league leader Ramon Martinez in an 11-3 drubbing of the Reds on Friday night.

"Everybody's contributed," Lasorda said. "That's what I like about our team."

Winning on a night when your ace doesn't have his good stuff is very comforting. The most grateful Dodger of all was Martinez (8-1), who allowed eight hits in 6-2-3 innings. He struck out three and walked one while winning his seventh straight decision.

"When you get a lot of runs, all you have to do is hang in there and throw a lot of fastballs," Martinez said.

He threw enough of them to impress Cincinnati manager Lou Piniella. "They came out swinging, and Martinez did his job," Piniella said. "We hit the ball well off Martinez, but he's a good pitcher. He's 8-1, what more do you have to say?"

Barfield had more to say. "If we keep playing like this, there's no doubt in my mind we'll be playing in the World Series," Barfield said Friday night after the Rangers extended their club-record winning streak to 11 games with a 7-3 victory in Seattle.

Steve Buechele hit a three-run homer in a five-run third inning as Texas prolonged the longest winning streak in the major leagues this season.

"I knew in spring training we'd surprise a lot of people," said Barfield, who pitched two perfect innings for his first save this season and the second of his career. "Now we're even surprising ourselves."

Kenny Rogers (4-3) won his fourth straight start, allowing nine hits in seven innings, striking out three and walking two.

"This was a pitching performance we really needed," Texas manager Bobby Valentine said. "My bullpen was real short tonight. Rogers knew that and gave us the effort we needed."

Elsewhere in the National League, it was Atlanta 3, San Francisco 2; Houston 1, San Diego 0; Chicago 4, Montreal 3; Pittsburgh 9, Philadelphia 1, and New York 6, St. Louis 2 (see related story, page 12).

In other American League games, Oakland beat Chicago 6-5, New York beat Baltimore 7-1, Minnesota beat Kansas City 3-2, Toronto beat California 3-2, Milwaukee beat Cleveland 1-0 and Boston beat Detroit 10-9.

AROUND THE HORN

National League
•Ron Gant singled with two outs in the last of the ninth inning to lead Atlanta and streaking Tom Glavine to a 3-2 win over San Francisco, which lost its seventh straight game. Glavine (7-2), matching a career-high 10 strikeouts, got his fifth consecutive victory with his third complete game. He allowed six hits and no walks. The streak is the longest the Giants have endured since dropping 10 in a row in 1985. It was their 11th loss in 13 games and 23rd in 29.
•Casey Candaele's RBI single in the bottom of the ninth enabled Houston to beat visiting San Diego 1-0. Houston's Pete Harnisch allowed two hits in eight innings, striking out six and walking four while lowering the opposition's batting average against him to .193. Curt Schilling (1-3) pitched the ninth, striking out the final two batters he faced.
•Bob Scanlan allowed three hits in 7-2-3 innings and Ryne Sandberg and Shawn Dunston had solo homers as Chicago won its third straight game since Jim Essian replaced Don Zimmer as manager, 4-3 over the Expos, who lost their third straight.
•Pitcher Zane Smith's tie-breaking hit set off a six-run rally and he continued his dominance at Three Rivers Stadium as Pittsburgh beat Philadelphia 9-1. Smith (6-2) doubled to breaking a 1-1 tie in a sixth-run fifth inning against Terry Mulholland (5-3). Bobby Bonilla's sixth homer, a three-run shot, capped the inning as the Pirates won the first game this season between the teams. Pittsburgh won the last six meetings in 1990.

American League

•Bobby Thigpen (2-1) gave up a game-tying two-run homer to Mark McGwire in the eighth at the Oakland Coliseum, loaded the bases in the ninth with two intentional walks, then walked Terry Steinbach and forced in the winning run as the A's edged the White Sox 6-5. In the ninth, Thigpen walked leadoff hitter Rickey Henderson, who stole second and was sacrificed to third. One out later, White Sox manager Jeff Torborg decided to intentionally walk Harold Baines and Dave Henderson. Thigpen then walked Steinbach on a 3-1 pitch.
•The Orioles had a new manager but experienced the same old results as the Yankees spoiled Johnny Oates' debut in a 7-1 lullaby. Scott Sanderson (5-2) threw five no-hit innings at Memorial Stadium before leaving with a stiff right shoulder. Greg Cadaret kept the Orioles hitless until the seventh, when Cal Ripken led off with a double and scored on Joe Orsulak's double. Lee Guetterman and Steve Farr pitched one inning each, completing the three-hitter Jeff Robinson (2-3) was the loser.
•Hal McRae's managerial debut was also unsuccessful as Minnesota defeated Kansas City 3-2 won in the Metrodome behind four hits from Chili Davis. McRae, named earlier in the day as the replacement for John Wathan, was managing a major league game for the first time.
•Chuck Finley walked Pat Tabler with the bases loaded, forcing in the go-ahead run as visiting Toronto rallied for three runs in the eighth inning for a 3-2 win over the Angels. Finley (7-2) gave up a two-run double to Roberto Alomar, intentionally walked Joe Carter and followed with walks to John Olerud and Tabler on 3-2 pitches, pushing home the tie-breaking run.
•Jaime Navarro pitched a four-hitter for his first career shutout and Robin Yount singled home the only run at City Stadium as the Brewers nipped the Indians, 1-0. Navarro (4-2), whose previous best was a seven-hitter against Baltimore on Sept. 26, 1989, struck out six and walked none. Rod Nichols (0-3) pitched a five-hitter for the Indians, his first complete game this season.
•Carlos Quintana had four hits and drove in four runs as visiting Boston took a 9-3 lead and hung on for its fourth victory in five games, 10-9 over the Detroit Tigers.

FISHING LINE by Jerry Maupin

In last week's Fishing Line, Jerry Maupin told us about "Buster" Seeling (above) from Destin, Fla., who lost his hat on a "first-catch" bet to Maupin but claimed a hefty consolation prize in this four-pound largemouth.

No, it isn't the same fish — George Seeling, also of Destin, nabbed this five-pound largemouth bass as the visitors from Florida were on their last day out on the lake.

Staff photos by Jerry Maupin

Conditions in this area change so quickly this spring I am hesitant to forecast what the fish will do.

Most anglers are doing very well when they can get the bass on a pattern. One of the problems has been the "holding fish" are in a very small space and a little luck is needed to hit on these places.

The tournaments which have produced heavy limits were won by anglers with such a spot or pattern. The milfoil is growing rapidly and as most of you know by now, this creates perfect habitat for the predator bass.

The fluctuation of the lake level does more to cause the bass to move than anything right now. Later on as the water temperature continues to climb, the bass will move to the deeper drops and should be fairly easy to find.

Of course the constant changing fronts coming through here now will make or break your day. If the water would come back up to at least 360 feet, flipping or casting the bushes and willows would be a perfect place to start.

Some of the areas we fished this week seemed to be holding bedding bass which indicates this is the second or third wave of bass coming in to spawn.

Plastic worms, lizards, grubs, jigs with pork or plastic trailers, spinnerbaits and a wide variety of topwater baits all produce strikes if worked properly.

One thing for sure is if you fish the moss you will find some bass. If you're looking for big bass then you must be more refined and do a little searching for the "hot spots" and find out what makes them so. Do this and the next place should be easier to find.

The bass are very healthy and when a major feeding period occurs they are super aggressive.

I noticed Thursday that thousands of minnows were spawning in the matted moss and most of them looked like the golden shiners used by crappie fishermen.

The carp and gar were wallowing in the moss, also.

Crappie fisherman Bobby McCuiston found some big slabs last weekend and had a cooler full. They were deep but willing as most post-spawn crappie are. Some tube jigs will work deep but the best is the minnow!

The bluegill and shellcrackers are getting better as the water warms. J.T. Nesbitt and daughter Missy caught over a hundred last week. J.T. has done this several times this year already.

Crickets and worms are the live bait to use and if you like to cast artificial, use a mepps black fury or a roostertail spinner. These fish use the moss for cover also but when spawning they can be found out in the open flats.

Big holiday coming up so be careful and have fun.
Happy fishing!

May's the month for state fishermen to play the blues

By BEN D. HALL
For The Associated Press

HENDERSON, Ky. — May is the traditional month to begin serious bluegill fishing in Kentucky and there's a good reason for that.

Although weather varies a little from spring to spring, water temperatures in most lakes and ponds will rise to the upper 60s by mid-May. When that happens, the bluegill begin to spawn.

Although avid "bream" fishermen will say that there isn't any bad time to go after these little scrappers, they'll also say that when the bluegill are spawning the action is at its peak for the year.

When the water reaches about 67-68 degrees, the male bluegill set up housekeeping by fanning out nests with their bodies and tails. The nests, two to six inches deep and a foot or two across, are usually found in water from one to four feet deep with a sandy or gravelly bottom.

When the work is completed, the male fish finds a ripe female and induces her to deposit her eggs in his nest. Then he fertilizes the eggs with milt. The female goes her own way, but the male stays behind to guard the nest.

About 18,000 eggs per nest is average, but not all are necessarily from the same female. Single nests, presumably built by especially persuasive males, have contained nearly 70,000 eggs.

The circular nests are built in colonies and the colony itself is usually circular. Almost from the time the first egg is laid, the colony is ringed with predator fish waiting to rush in if the protective male lets down his guard.

He must be on the lookout for predators such as bass and crappie, carnivorous insects and crayfish, and even other bluegill which are not involved in the present spawning cycle.

The aggressiveness with which bluegill defend their territories almost guarantees that the angler's lure will not be ignored if he drops it into a nest colony.

Biologists say that during the two-to-five-day period required for the eggs to hatch, the guarding male doesn't eat; he's too busy attacking whatever enters his domain. Most experienced bream fishermen don't bother with live bait at this time, but cast artificials for the little fireballs to smash into.

They will assault just about anything the angler throws their way, but the best bets are poppers, wet flies, streamers, curlytail and other grubs, small spinners or spoons. Color and action don't seem to matter much; about the only requirement is that the lure be the right size for the fish to grab with their relatively small mouths.

The best tackle is the lightest you have, ultralight spinning or spincast gear or a fly rod with the lightest line or leader you feel comfortable with. The lighter the tackle, the more exciting the action will be.

Depending on the weather and local conditions, bluegill may continue to spawn into July, since not all hen fish ripen at the same time. This assures a couple of months of really lively fishing this year and plenty of bluegill for next year.

Don't wait too long for (or forget) hunter education classes

By RUSS KENNEDY
Kentucky Afield Writer

If you want to hunt in Kentucky this year and were born on or after January 1, 1975, completion of a state-approved hunter education is required. The requirement applies to residents and nonresidents.

There seems to be some confusion over exactly what the requirement means.

Some folks have been led to believe they must complete the hunter education course before purchasing their hunting license.

Not so. The law simply says hunters, "shall, while hunting, carry a valid course completion card in addition to the appropriate Kentucky hunting license." (301 KAR 2:185) The key words here are "while hunting."

Simply put, a hunter education course completion card must be in the hunter's possession while hunting. Hunting licenses may be purchased anytime, whether or not the buyer has completed the hunter education requirement. But, if the hunter's birthday falls on or after January 1, 1975, that person needs to earn a course completion card before going afield.

Children under 10 may hunt without a course completion card, provided they are accompanied by an adult in a position to take immediate control of the child's firearm or bow. Also, persons not required to have a hunting license are exempt from the hunter education requirement.

Hunters who need to complete the hunter education program are advised to do so as soon as possible. The free courses are being offered throughout the summer months at locations around the state. Officials anticipate a "rush" on classes this fall, just ahead of deer season.

Remember, after successfully completing the course, it takes approximately two weeks for the required card to arrive in the mail. So don't wait until the week before deer season to take the course.

For more information or to find out when a hunter education course will be given in your area, contact the Kentucky Department of Fish and Wildlife Resources, Division of Information and Education, #1 Game Farm Road, Frankfort, KY 40601, phone (502) 564-4762.

Many wild animals are cute and cuddly when they're young, but as the animals grow older they often become obnoxious — even dangerous — and quite difficult to handle. That's when they're brought to facilities such as the Kentucky Department of Fish and Wildlife Resources' Game Farm in Frankfort.

"People often try to keep raccoons, for example, and it's easy to do — when they're small," according to Game Farm manager Danny Watson. "But as the animals mature, they can become really contrary, especially the males. Once mature, most wildlife raised in captivity are too wild to be kept as pets and too domesticated to be released.

Some well-meaning people even believe themselves to be doing a kind and wonderful deed when they bring home what mistakenly appear to be an "abandoned" young animal. This often happens with fawns.

"A doe will hide her fawn while she goes to look for food, and folks thinking the young animal has been abandoned will pick it home," said Watson. "They shouldn't do that. Even a two-month-old fawn is capable of taking care of itself, if indeed something has happened to the mother."

The ideal thing to do if you find a young, seemingly abandoned animal in the wild is to leave the area immediately.

Another aspect of this scenario also has to be considered. In most cases, in the absence of difficult-to-obtain licenses and permits, keeping wildlife is illegal and can result in fines or imprisonment!

What's the best advice for people considering taking a wild animal as a pet? Don't!

The "Art and Wildlife in Kentucky" exhibit opens Sept. 5, 1991, at the Soaper Arts Center in Henderson, Ky.

The Kentucky Department of Fish and Wildlife Resources is joined by first time co-sponsor, the Henderson Arts Council, in presenting the popular wildlife art show. Artists from Kentucky and bordering states are being invited to participate.

Works will include any and all media of undomesticated wildlife (no dogs or cats, please) including wild mammals, birds, fish, and other aquatic life, reptiles, amphibians, and scenes depicting hunting and fishing activities. Submitted art must be relevant to the states represented — an African safari scene would be unacceptable, for example.

The biannual exhibition, which runs through Oct. 18, 1991, is funded in part by grants from the Kentucky Arts Council and the National Endowment for the Arts.

For more information contact the Henderson Arts Council, P.O. Box 234, Henderson, KY 42404; or the Kentucky Department of Fish and Wildlife Resources, Attn: Art & Wildlife, #1 Game Farm Road, Frankfort, KY 40601.

LBL biologist pleased with eaglets' progress

Biologists at TVA's Land Between The Lakes (LBL) are pleased with the progress made thus far by nesting bald eagles in LBL.

Four of the five nests identified in early spring have now hatched eaglet(s). Only one of the five nests was abandoned and that did not surprise LBL biologist Steve Bloemer. "The Rhodes Bay nest was new and eagles often do not nest in the first attempt," said Bloemer.

Banding of the young eaglets began May 2 with the Hughes Bay nest on Kentucky Lake. Eaglets in the Mammoth Furnace and Prior Bay nests will be banded within a few weeks. The Fulton Bay nest is in a tree that cannot be climbed safely so no banding attempt will be made there.

Anglers should not that all bays except Prior (South Fork) will be open for fishing after July 1. The eaglets in Prior hatched later than the other birds.

Industries help prepare students

Students in the Murray State University Department of Occupational Safety and Health are getting some practical experience, with help from several area industries. About 50 students recently toured the Air Products and Chemicals Calvert City Plant to get a feel for what they will be doing after graduation.

"This is an introductory class in safety and health," said David Kraemer, who is job placement coordinator for the department. "It is a survey course where we expose students to many different areas of safety, health, hygiene and environmental science," he said. Kraemer said he believes it is important to bring students into contact with a variety of industries so they can become acquainted with what will be expected of them when they go to work. He said the exposure to the working world will help students focus on their classroom studies.

"Our idea in the department is to give as much hands-on experience as we can to the students. Rather than just talk about things in the classroom, we're bringing them out in the real world," Kraemer said. "Many of them haven't had a chance to go inside a manufacturing facility like Air Products, Westvaco, Emerson Electric or Briggs and Stratton," he said. "Early in their college career, we want them to learn what it will be like when they get out in the real world."

During their visit to Air Products and Chemicals at Calvert City, some students were surprised to find that the company considers an aggressive preventive maintenance program part of the plant's safety and environmental protection effort.

"By preventing mechanical or process problems we can prevent spills, improve safety and reduce the environmental impact of our operations," said Maintenance Engineer Paul Kloth of Murray. The Department of Occupational Safety and Health is now the third largest department at Murray State University.

The department has between 400 and 500 undergraduate students, about 50 to 60 graduate students and is one of only a hand full of departments to be accredited.

Air Products and Chemicals is among several area companies participating in an internship program that allows students to get practical job experience.

"Last summer we had 66 interns placed in 19 states and one foreign country," he said. "This summer we're expecting to have another 70 or so students placed."

"We have people placed in various types of industries, as well as with insurance companies, government agencies such as the National Institutes of Occupational Health and Safety Department, as well as some consulting firms," he said.

Kraemer said without question there is plenty of demand for the department's graduates. Almost daily he receives calls from employment agencies and executive search firms trying to help companies locate people for environmental and industrial hygiene positions, as well as jobs in safety and health.

Tatlock has recently met the provisions of licensure for the Commonwealth of Kentucky Insurance Commission in the Health and Life Division. ## Stock market action predictor of economy

By BETTY BOSTON
Certified Financial Planner

How do we measure the stock market? How do we get a feel for which way it is moving, or if it is moving at all?

In 1896, Charles H. Dow decided that the action of the stock market was a good predictor of the action of the economy. That was the basis for the original Dow Theory.

To measure the action of the market, he simply averaged the prices of some of the leading stocks on the New York Stock Exchange. Thus the Dow Jones Industrial Average (DJIA) was born.

It has become so widely known and is used by so many people that when someone asks, "What's the stock market doing?" the expected answer really tells what the Dow Jones Industrial Average is doing.

For years, the DJIA has consisted of 30 stocks of leading companies. Incidentally, they are not all "industrial" companies. Some stocks are dropped and others are added when it is considered necessary. This happened again recently. Dow Jones and Company, owner of the average, wants to keep its makeup a good reflection of the economy.

There are also two other Dow Jones averages. The Transportation Average consists of 20 rail, airline and trucking stocks. And the Utility Average has 15 stocks.

How well does the Dow Jones Industrial Average measure the market? Some people say it does fine, especially for long-range forecasting. Others say there is no way an average of only 30 stocks can measure our whole stock market. So other, more extensive, measurements have been devised.

Still, the DJIA is the most popular and certainly a useful place to start. But does any measure of market movement give you a complete picture? Not really. There are other things to look at.

One is trading volume, that is how many shares were bought and sold. Another is advances and declines, the number of stocks whose price has gone up and the number whose price has gone down. A variation of this is the number of stocks making new highs for the year and the number making new lows.

The New York Stock Exchange figures how much the average share of common stock has moved up or down. Somehow that figure, in dollars and cents, seems a clear, simple way to understand what is happening.

Technical market analysts have other measures that they use. But the ones listed here are the best known. Hopefully now you will understand what is meant when you hear, "What's the market doing?"

Reichmuth appointed to provincial position with national fraternity

Dr. Roger Reichmuth, assistant dean of the College of Fine Arts and Communication at Murray State University, has been appointed Province 15 governor of Phi Mu Alpha Sinfonia music fraternity.

His appointment was announced by Dr. T. Jervis Underwood, national president of the 93-year-old fraternity which has chapters on college campuses across the nation. Province 15 consists of chapters in West Kentucky and West Tennessee.

As governor of Province 15, Reichmuth joins presidents of active chapters, members of the fraternity's National Executive Committee and collegiate province representatives as delegates to the Phi Mu Alpha National Assembly. He will also serve on the Province Governors' Council.

Reichmuth was inducted into Phi Mu Alpha in 1958 while a student at Murray State and, upon graduation, became a life member.

At the time Reichmuth was a Murray State student, Price Doyle was the executive director of Phi Mu Alpha and the national office was located in Murray. Doyle headed the Department of Fine Arts at Murray State from 1930 until his retirement in 1957 and was executive director of Phi Mu Alpha from 1950 until his death in 1967 when the national office was relocated to Evansville, Ind.

Native of Louisville, Reichmuth served as band director at Paducah

ROGER REICHMUTH

Highland High School from 1961 to 1970. He became marching band director and a member of the music faculty at Murray State in 1970 and then served as chairman of the Department of Music from 1977 to 1990. He has been in the dean's office for the past year.

Currently president of the Murray Civic Music Association, Reichmuth is a past-president of the Kentucky Music Educators Association, the Kentucky Association of College Music Departments, the Kentucky Arts Administrators and the First District Music Educators Association.

Students, faculty attended 1991 Study Conference in San Diego

Three Murray State University students and two faculty members from the department of elementary and secondary education attended the 1991 Study Conference of the Association for Childhood Education International held recently in San Diego.

Attending the conference were Cheryl Pratt of Eddyville, student representative to the association's executive board, Julie Bostic of Paducah, past president, and sponsors, Dr. Jim Carlin and Dr. Sue Gifford. Titled "Priorities for Children: Agenda for the 90s," the conference featured workshops, concurrent sessions and research dealing with the needs of children through adolescence and other related topics. Carlin, a professor in the Murray State department of elementary and secondary education, presented a session titled "Recognizing, Rewarding and Reinforcing Stages of Growth in Spelling Abilities." This session presented a non-traditional approach to improve spelling skills by rewarding a child's progress and strengthening visualization development.

Ms. Pratt and Ms. Bostic presented a session titled "It's Our World - Let's Use It," featuring the use of hands-on activities to reinforce content-area concepts outside the classroom.

The next conference is scheduled for March 1992 in Chicago.

YOUR HOROSCOPE

by Jeane Dixon

SUNDAY, MAY 26, 1991

MONDAY, MAY 27, 1991

HAPPY BIRTHDAY! IN THE NEXT YEAR OF YOUR LIFE: As your responsibilities increase, so will your income! A business deal negotiated this summer will come to fruition in September. Those around you might not be as trustworthy as you believe. New alliances will bring greater security in December. Count on romance to be especially fulfilling next January. Family members are likely to play a large role in your affairs once 1992 begins.

CELEBRITIES BORN ON THIS DATE: singer Peggy Lee, actor Robert Morley, baseball's Darnell Evans, sportscaster Brent Musburger.

ARIES (March 21-April 19): Take a break from your usual routine. A visit to the countryside or shore helps you see the world through new eyes. Loved one could make a startling disclosure. Offer support.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20): Sharing a spiritual experience with your loved ones will strengthen domestic ties. Welcome opportunities to confer with influential people. Mutual resources hold up well, but guard against extravagance.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): Not a good day for business discussions. Keep your friends and your finances in separate compartments. Tact and patience will help you deal with a child's problems. Postpone major household changes.

CANCER (June 21-July 22): Explore your spirituality and you will discover an important secret about yourself. Record your dreams for future reference. You need to keep an open mind in discussions with teenagers.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): A loved one's health problems could require immediate attention. Take things quietly. You will feel completely in tune with your partner tonight. Look forward to a memorable evening.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): Be more discreet. Even well-intentioned friends could reveal the things you tell them. A fresh love interest may be part of the picture. Show more confidence in yourself.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): A sermon or lively discussion provides you with plenty of food for thought. Ask a special favor of an older relative. Avoid getting involved in your mate's private squabbles.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Tiny tots could play a major role in your plans today. An unexpected visitor adds gaiety to a family reunion. Sports events hold special appeal for some of you but will irritate others.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): A change of scenery will rejuvenate you. Commune with nature while walking in the woods or by a lake. Take along a picnic. Share happy, upbeat thoughts with loved ones.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): If a long-standing problem persists, heed your intuition. Get together with friends and family members. Your generosity and concern for a loved one's welfare are contagious.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Share a family tradition and attend a church service. A spiritual upsurge will put you in a fabulous mood. Take a walk or ride a bicycle. An older relative may seek your advice.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20): Enjoy the benefits that domestic life offers today. Do not act on impulse. Busy yourself with small jobs around the house. Visit a loved one confined to a hospital or nursing home.

TODAY'S CHILDREN: These fun-loving Gemini's thrive on change! Although these youngsters' quest for the new and untried will land them in hot water at times, they will never lose their love for adventure. Wise parents will be understanding but firm, taking swift disciplinary action if their children disobey safety rules. Affectionate and loyal, these Gemini's will rarely give up on a personal relationship. They are sympathetic listeners who know how to keep a secret.

HAPPY BIRTHDAY! IN THE NEXT YEAR OF YOUR LIFE: This summer looks both productive and fun. Do your best at work and keep in touch with important contacts. In August, powerful and protective influences will safeguard your funds. A new business enterprise should make giant strides forward by November. Happy romantic adventures lie ahead. Remember that physical attraction alone is not an adequate basis for a long-term relationship. Next spring, choose a mate who shares your strong sense of purpose.

CELEBRITIES BORN ON THIS DATE: diplomat Henry Kissinger, dancer Isadora Duncan, golfer Sam Snead, actor Louis Gossett Jr.

ARIES (March 21-April 19): Concentrate on working out any professional or personal problems. Family members are cooperative. Make a special effort to keep in touch with those who live far away.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20): Careful planning will help you stretch your paycheck. Take your co-workers' comments with a grain of salt. Trust your hunches! Mix and mingle with new people this evening.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): If financial waters remain turbulent, do not approve any major expenditures. Discuss your plans for the future today. Romantic partner will respond favorably to more TLC.

CANCER (June 21-July 22): Meeting your family responsibilities should be a top priority now. Losing your cool could make you look immature. Be patient with an inexperienced person and you will win a friend for life!

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): Funds channeled into your home should bear sweet fruit today. Higher-ups could be eyeing you for a special project. Do not let your anxiety show! Social contacts are important to your business success.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): A new cast of characters may be taking over at your place of employment. Sweeping changes could be in the works. Your patience and adaptability will be put to the test. Stay alert.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): The best way to get acquainted with new neighbors is to let nature take its course. Avoid coming on too strong. Remember that your obligations to your mate and family come first.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Try not to get entangled in your friends' problems. Money suddenly becomes available for investments. Stay on your toes. Read the fine print before signing contracts. Widen your social circle.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Stick to your principles! Exercise greater caution in financial negotiations. Although an older person is happy to help you, there could be strings attached.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): Influential people could be hard to please today. Concentrate on projects you can complete alone. Financial matters are more confusing than dangerous. Seek experts' help.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): A change of style may alert others to your true potential. Financial concerns must be dealt with in a mature manner. Be candid when recruiting family's support. Romance should be divine!

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20): Do not get discouraged if the job outlook is unpredictable. Be prepared to take on temporary assignments. Your mate's encouraging words will lift your spirits. Relax at home tonight.

TODAY'S CHILDREN are loquacious, adventuresome and ambitious. Eager to test their talents, these Gemini's refuse to take a backseat to anyone. Imaginary playmates are very real to these youngsters. These children are such a whiz at mathematics and science that they could become the astronauts of tomorrow! They pride themselves on their honesty and can be painfully frank at times. Concerned parents will point out that tact can make the truth more palatable.

Alyson McNutt, daughter of Ron and Debbie McNutt and Jason Shelby, son of Wesley and Robbie Shelby, students at Murray Middle School will be honored for their academic achievement at a statewide ceremony May 31 at Western Kentucky University.

The recognition ceremony is sponsored by the Duke University Talent Identification Program (TIP) to salute seventh graders from Kentucky who qualified in TIP's 11th Annual Talent Search.

All students invited to the ceremony have earned scores on the Scholastic Aptitude Test (SAT) or the American College Testing Assessment (ACT) comparable to the average scores of college bound high school seniors.

McNutt, has also been selected to participate in Duke University's 1991 Summer Residential Program for academically gifted students.

McNutt scored in the top one percent academically of students in middle and high schools, comparable to college-bound 11th and 12th graders on the Scholastic Aptitude Test (SAT) or the American College Testing Program Assessment (ACT).

The Summer Residential Program provides an opportunity for talented young students to study intensive, fast-paced courses in several areas including mathematics, science, writing and language.

Jason Shelby and Alyson McNutt will be honored at a ceremony May 31 at Western Kentucky University.

Grant awarded to MSU

A $96,945 research grant has been awarded by the National Institutes of Health (NIH) to the Department of Biological Sciences at Murray State University for a three-year study of a bacterial enzyme that produces a light-emitting reaction.

Titled "Molecular Characterization of Bacterial Luciferase," the study by Dr. Tim Johnston, associate professor, is funded through April 30, 1994. Besides Johnston as the principal investigator, the grant also supports two graduates and one undergraduate research assistants. The grant is funded through a program specifically for institutions that do not offer the Ph.D.

Luciferase is the generic name for enzymes found in several forms of life, including the common firefly, that catalyze a reaction that results in light emission.

Johnston said scientists have studied bacterial luciferase for about 40 years and know chemically what happens to molecules in the reaction. However, he explained that little is known about how the enzyme actually produces the reaction.

"Our work will help to identify the parts of the enzyme that actually catalyze," he added, "and give us greater understanding of how enzymes work generally, including human enzymes."

The research, according to Johnston, has the potential for providing information that can be used for designing better diagnostic tools for different diseases.

His grant from the NIH, which is housed in the U.S. Department of Health and Human Services, is his second from that agency to study bacterial luciferase. He has also had a grant from Research Corporation, a private foundation, to study luciferase.

Judge threatens to jail public defender

McCracken County Circuit Judge Bill Graves has threatened to begin contempt of court proceedings against chief defender Paul Isaacs for not obeying orders to speed up the Nelda Chumblor capital murder case. According to published reports, Graves ordered Isaacs to appear in court June 10 to explain why he should not be held in contempt. The defendant, Michael Kariakis is charged with murdering Chumblor last December. His wife, Holly, and Chumblor's husband, Charles, are accused of complicity to murder. In a hearing Friday, David Norat, director of defense services for the public defender system, said the state has not found a lawyer for Kariakis. He said there are no public defenders available, and private attorneys will not take the case unless they are promised supplemental pay from the county. Norat reminded Graves that contempt proceedings require prior notice. Graves scheduled the matter for June 10, adding the various complications make it impossible to try the case June 17 as scheduled. The contempt matter arises from a law requiring counties that adopt a public defender "plan" to supplement the maximum $2,500 paid by the state to private lawyers acting as public defenders. On Friday, Graves denied County Attorney Fred Grimes' motion to set aside the ruling. Grimes then said the county would appeal.

Quake prophet Browning sets sights on global warming 'rumors'

ALBUQUERQUE, N.M. (AP) — The man who projected even odds last year for a major Midwestern earthquake that didn't happen is contradicting what he calls a "rumor" of global warming, saying Earth is actually getting cooler. Iben Browning, 73, a biophysicist who studies climatic cycles, told the Albuquerque Rotary Club on Thursday that atmospheric cooling would double Albuquerque's average 8.12 inches of rainfall over the next 30 years. "By 2020, you will be able to grow corn anywhere sagebrush grows," Browning said.

The climatic changes will stem from volcanic eruptions and tidal factors, he predicted. "There is a rumor that it is getting warmer," Browning said. "It is a false rumor. We are getting colder." Global warming is the theory that carbon dioxide, methane and such manmade gases as chlorofluorocarbons will raise Earth's temperature through the "greenhouse effect" with catastrophic results. University of New Mexico biologist Paul Risser said evidence generally suggests Earth is warming. "And in this part of the country, this probably means we are going to experience some reduction in rainfall," said Risser, vice chairman of the U.S. National Committee on Global Change for the National Academy of Sciences. Browning, who lives in nearby Sandia Park, projected a 50-50 chance for a major earthquake late last year along the New Madrid Fault, which extends from northeastern Arkansas into southern Illinois. That projection, based on tidal changes, was dismissed by other scientists, but some schools and businesses along the fault closed. On May 3, a quake measuring 4.6 on the Richter scale was felt in Missouri, Arkansas, Illinois, Tennessee, Mississippi and Kentucky. The U.S. Geological Survey in Golden, Colo., said the quake was centered about 10 miles west of New Madrid, Mo., and 150 miles south of St. Louis. Two communities reported minor property damage. Seismologists say the fault zone, the site in winter 1811-12 of the country's most powerful earthquake ever, has dozens of tremors each year.

Fire causes minor damage to local furniture store

A fire at Purdom Furniture at Fifth and Maple streets Friday morning caused minor damage, according to a report from the Murray Fire Department.

An overheating light ballast was blamed for the fire which damaged several ceiling tiles at the west end of the building, according to a department spokesman. The fire, reported at approximately 9 a.m., was quickly extinguished and fans were used to clear smoke from the building, a spokesman said.
