Soviet hard-liners fly the coup

Yeltsin says coup leaders heading for airport

By BRYAN BRUMLEY
Associated Press Writer

MOSCOW — The coup against Soviet President Mikhail S. Gorbachev appeared to be collapsing today, with reports that the coup leaders left Moscow by plane for Central Asia and military units deployed after the takeover were being withdrawn from the capital.

The news followed a series of dramatic developments pointing to the coup's disintegration. Tanks and armored personnel carriers were seen moving away from the Russian Parliament, which served as the headquarters for Boris Yeltsin, leader of the resistance to the eight hard-liners who staged the coup.

State-run media dropped the previous official line on the 3-day-old takeover. One lawmaker said: "The coup is collapsing."

Thousands of people kept up their vigil at the Russian Parliament building following overnight clashes with Soviet troops that left at least four dead.

They roared with approval when the announcement of the committee's departure came over a loudspeaker.

The plane reportedly carrying the coup leaders was heading to the city of Bishkek, formerly called Frunze, the capital of Kirgizia, 2,100 miles southeast of Moscow, according to Radio Russia. The station speaks for Yeltsin, the president of the Russian Federation.

The radio said officials of the Russian republic know the plane number and its destination and would try to intercept it and have its passengers arrested.

Contrary to earlier news reports, none of the coup leaders was arrested before leaving Moscow, the radio said, quoting Russian government leaders.

The chairman of the Supreme Soviet legislature, Anatoly Lukyanov, flew to the Crimea today to meet with Gorbachev, the official news agency Tass reported. Earlier in the day, the Russian Parliament voted to send a Russian delegation, headed by its prime minister, to the Crimea to meet with Gorbachev.

It was not immediately clear if any members of this delegation were on the plane with Lukyanov, who earlier this week issued statements sympathetic to the coup leaders.

The German Foreign Ministry said representatives from Germany, the United States, France and Great Britain were to accompany the group headed to see Gorbachev in the Crimea.

Tass also reported that the Soviet Defense Ministry decided to withdraw the hundreds of tanks and troops that had poured into Moscow to enforce emergency decrees after the takeover Monday.

Despite that show of force, the coup leaders were unable to dislodge Yeltsin from the Russian Parliament, where he rallied the opposition, to enforce the curfew, or prevent large

Kurth: overthrow predictable

By MARK COOPER
Murray Ledger & Times Asst. Editor

Mikhail Gorbachev's apparent overthrow was predictable, according to Murray State University Dr. Ronald Kurth, who said the Soviet Union is not prepared for gradual democratic reformation.

"There is nothing in Russian history to provide the institutional base upon which to build a democracy while dismantling the old system," Kurth said. "The Russians are cutting a new pattern out of new cloth. Or were."

During his 36-year career with the U.S. Navy, Kurth served both as Naval and Defense Department attaché to the Soviet Union and in 1971 helped negotiate the U.S. Incidents at Sea agreement with the U.S.S.R.

He also served as politico-military advisor to the Secretary of Defense for the Soviet Union and taught Russian at the U.S. Naval Academy.

From his experience, Kurth said he believes that the social and economical problems in the Soviet Union may take "a generation to dissolve."

Kurth said he was not surprised by the coup, only "dissatisfied that it took the form that it did."

"My thesis is that it would have been better if Gorbachev had stepped down or been replaced at least six months ago," he said.

"Gorbachev has made contributions of immeasurable value but his contribution has seen its limits."

Parks Board discusses proposals for master plan, capital improvements

By CYRUS AFZALI
Murray Ledger & Times Staff Writer

Members of the Murray Calloway County Parks Board discussed proposals for a master plan outlining capital improvements at its monthly meeting Tuesday.

Two weeks ago, Murray City Planner Don Elias, Mac Pitts, the city's engineer, Parks Director Gary Hohman and Parks Board Chairman Dr. Rob Williams met with a Nashville, Tenn. engineering firm which specializes in parks. The firm told the board members the plans could be completed for a price not to exceed $5,500.

The firm's price included planning and designing improvements for the entire park and helping with the project.

"If we get local people to do it, it would cost less, but would take longer. The most positive thing about (the firm's proposal) is it would be over after $5,500," Williams said.

"I'm against the total package. If they can get it down to the entrance to the parking areas, access areas and decorative fencing, I think it would be well spent, but if they could reduce it in detail and give a reduced figure, we could tell any group that would like to be involved what it looks like and how much it costs," Hohman said.

Members of the board failed to approve the $5,500 because they felt the money would be better spent on physical improvements.

The board did authorize getting the land along Bee Creek cleaned out to examine developing it for soccer fields and to begin design stages of the new park addition.

"A soccer complex will affect the most people," Hohman said.

Members also decided to take the list of improvements, tour the park and prioritize them before undertaking any other projects.

In other business:

•Parks Board members also approved the construction of a gate at the front entrance of the park which will be closed after the park's operating hours.

•The city has applied for a $10,000 grant to plant trees in the park. The grant is administered by the Small Business Administration. The trees will be purchased from a local individual who will plant the trees.

Commission talks about subdivision regulations, takes no action Tuesday

New subdivision regulations may be in the works for city developers after discussion of changes Tuesday night by the Murray Planning Commission.

The changes are geared mainly to improve street design and construction and water drainage in city subdivisions, according to City Planner Don Elias.

"The subdivision regulations have not been updated since 1971 and this is an attempt to get them caught up to today," Elias said.

Elias said requests for subdivisions within the city have increased substantially since 1971.

The commission discussed the first three articles of the regulations — including purpose and policy, definitions and general provisions — and will continue discussions for perhaps the next four meetings, Elias said.

No action on the regulation changes, which will require a public hearing and City Council approval, was taken.

Judge wants financial reports from Operation Rescue members

WICHITA, Kan. (AP) — A federal judge is trying to find out how much money Operation Rescue has so he can set fines and bail for the group's militant anti-abortion protesters accordingly.

Operation Rescue Randall Terry has boasted to reporters that the group and its leaders hide assets. The organization officially disbanded to avoid fines and judgments in other cases.

U.S. District Judge Patrick F. Kelly on Tuesday ordered the arrests of six Operation Rescue leaders for failing to post a $100,000 bond he required two weeks ago as insurance against any property damage. Two Operation

Rescue leaders were in custody, two were expected to surrender today and two were out of state.

Kelly told the federal magistrates who were to arraign the defendants to collect financial data to help him determine possible fines or future bond amounts.

"You are entitled to ascertain the role each carries in this association, as well as each one's own mode of compensation, if any," Kelly said in a letter to the magistrates.

In 1989, Operation Rescue acknowledged collecting nearly $800,000 in contributions in one year. But numerous legal challenges have reduced the non-profit group's resources.

Meanwhile Tuesday, protesters blocked the driveway of Women's Health Care Services after storming its gates and fences in a rush U.S. marshals said was the most aggressive in 37 days of demonstrations at Wichita abortion clinics.

Authorities said 130 people were arrested on trespassing charges. "I never contemplated what I hear happened out there today. Federal marshals were assaulted and property was damaged," Kelly said. "From what I was told, there was utter chaos."

Police and U.S. marshals have made more than 2,400 arrests since the protests began. Many protesters have been arrested more than once. Kelly has ordered the protesters not to block the clinic but has been defied repeatedly.

Of the six members named in Kelly's order for a peace bond, two were arrested in Wichita: the Rev. Pat Mahoney of Boca Raton, Fla., and Keith Tucci of Charleston, S.C., the group's executive director.

Members Wendy Wright of Binghamton, N.Y., and Joe Slovenc of Cleveland were to surrender today, federal authorities said.

(Cont'd from page 1) demonstrations nationwide. The state of emergency was declared after hard-line elements in the military and Communist Party ousted Gorbachev. Also today, the Communist Party said the Soviet coup was unconstitutional and demanded a meeting with Gorbachev, their party chief, Tass said. The statement was a clear attempt by the party to salvage its own credibility after the coup that appeared to be collapsing. The party renounced any connection with the coup leaders. Today's developments followed reports that at least two of the coup leaders had stepped down, because of alleged illness. The developments also followed mass anti-coup demonstrations in Moscow, Leningrad, Kishinev and other cities, as well as strikes by coal miners in Siberia. The junta had seemed unable to cope with tens of thousands of people who erected barricades around Yeltsin's riverfront stronghold in the Parliament. Columns of tanks and armored personnel carriers moved around central Moscow early today. One patrol of the armored vehicles was trapped by furious demonstrators just after midnight as it tried to break through a barricade. Two people were confirmed shot or crushed to death as the vehicles tried to fight their way through, and witnesses said a third person was killed. A Russian republic official, Col. Viktor Samailov, told the independent news agency Interfax that four people were shot or crushed to death in the clash. There were unconfirmed reports of more deaths elsewhere in the city. Demonstrators disregarded a nighttime curfew in Moscow. Coal miners struck in Siberia and hundreds of thousands of people demonstrated in Moscow, Leningrad and Kiev. The presidents of many of the 15 Soviet republics joined world leaders in demanding Gorbachev's release.

Baker welcomes news of coup collapse

BRUSSELS, Belgium (AP) — Secretary of State James A. Baker III, denouncing leaders of the coup that ousted Mikhail S. Gorbachev as conspirators, said today he welcomed reports from Moscow the Soviet Union may be returning to "constitutional government." "The whole world is watching," Baker said in his address to the NATO ministers of the military-KGB coalition that overthrew Gorbachev last weekend. "Legitimacy in 1991 flows not from the barrel of a gun but from the will of the people." In a separate statement distributed to reporters, Baker commented on reports the coup was failing. There was no explanation what information had reached Baker that he found credible. "It would appear that events are moving in a positive direction," Baker said in the two-paragraph statement issued while he was urging the NATO foreign ministers to denounce the seizure of power. The statement said "we do not have confirmation of all these reports" that came from Moscow while he met with the NATO foreign ministers. One report said that the leaders had fled to a Moscow airport. "We are heartened by reports that events in the Soviet Union may be leading to a return to constitutional government — something, of course, that we and our allies are here today to strongly support," Baker said in his brief statement issued to reporters. "History cannot be reversed. Sooner or later, your effort will fail," Baker said of the Soviet coup at a special meeting of the NATO foreign ministers. On arrival at the NATO headquarters, Baker told reporters earlier, "I think we should make clear our support for democratically elected officials in the Soviet Union."

Developments in the Soviet Union

MOSCOW (AP) — Here are some of the latest developments across the Soviet Union: RUSSIA: The eight-man committee that overthrew Mikhail Gorbachev left Moscow today by plane and was heading to Soviet Central Asia, according to the radio station of opposition leader Boris Yeltsin. The Soviet Defense Ministry meanwhile began withdrawing military units that were dispatched following the coup on Monday, the official Tass news agency reported. Officials of the Russian republic know the plane number and its destination in the republic of Kirgizia and will try to intercept the plane and have its passengers arrested, Yeltsin's radio reported. The apparent collapse of the 3-day-old coup came hours after at least two people were killed early today when opponents of the coup trapped a military vehicle beneath an underpass near Yeltsin's headquarters in Moscow and soldiers inside the vehicle opened fire, witnesses said. The Soviet Communist Party today condemned the coup, the state news agency reported. BALTICS: Soviet troops seized several TV stations and transmitters overnight. Telephone lines from all three republics, Latvia, Lithuania and Estonia, to other parts of the Soviet Union and the rest of the world were cut Tuesday. LATVIA: Soviet troops early today disarmed Latvian Prime Minister Ivars Godmanis' guards and arrested his security chief. LITHUANIA: Prime Minister Gedimas Vagnorius on Tuesday declared that the resolutions issued by the emergency committee that seized power were invalid on Lithuanian territory. One border post was reportedly seized. ESTONIA: The Estonian parliament on Tuesday declared the republic's outright independence, going a step beyond actions lawmakers took last year. MOLDAVIA: Hundreds of thousands of anti-coup demonstrators rallied in the republic's capital, Kishinev, on Tuesday. Prime Minister Valeriu Muravski banned the publication of the nine newspapers that the emergency committee has allowed to appear. UKRAINE: About 8,000 people on Tuesday staged a peaceful rally protesting the coup. Two columns of tanks were reported entering the city. KAZAKHSTAN: President Nursultan Nazarbayev on Tuesday condemned the state of emergency committee's decisions as illegitimate. He demanded that Gorbachev be allowed to make a public appearance and that the national legislature be convened within the next 10 days. ARMENIA: The capital Yerevan was calm on Tuesday and President Levon Ter-Petrosian appealed for calm and peace.

News of the World

YUGOSLAVIA BELGRADE — Mortar fire hit a major city in rebel Croatia again today, reportedly killing a policeman and wounding six civilians, as leaders of Yugoslavia's quarreling republics sought a political solution. The leaders resumed talks in Belgrade today after they agreed Tuesday to respect each other's sovereignty and right to secede, raising hopes for an end to nearly two months of violence that left more than 250 dead. The talks were expected to focus on ways to ensure the functioning of the federal administration until an agreement on the country's future structure is reached. ISRAEL JERUSALEM — Israel began expanding a Jewish enclave in the West Bank city of Hebron today by moving 10 mobile homes into a former Arab bus terminal. The move came despite repeated urgings by President Bush for a halt to Jewish settlement-building, which the United States considers an irritant in Middle East peace negotiations. Defense Ministry spokesman Dan Naveh confirmed Israeli reports that trailers were being moved to the site. But Naveh said, "this is not a settlement but temporary housing inside a military area for religious seminary students, until their building is renovated." Palestinians throughout the occupied lands today observed a general strike — planned before today's developments — as a protest against Jewish settlement building. LEBANON BEIRUT — Shiite Muslim leader Sheikh Mohammed Hussein Fadlallah today praised efforts by the U.N. Secretary-General Javier Perez de Cuellar to solve the issue of hostages in Lebanon. "The United Nations' role is the practical role that provides all sides with a face-saving solution to this issue," Fadlallah was quoted by the pro-Syrian newspaper Ash-Sharq. Islamic Jihad, or Islamic Holy War, sent a letter to Perez de Cuellar with freed Briton John McCarthy on Aug. 8 proposing a swap of the hostages and missing Israeli servicemen for Shiites held by Israel and Western nations. Israel has said it is prepared to make some "gestures" if factions holding its seven MIAs in Lebanon released reliable information on them.

MEXICO MEXICO CITY — Opposition gubernatorial candidates in two states Tuesday urged supporters into the streets after the ruling party claimed a commanding lead in elections marred by allegations of cheating. Election officials in both states said partial returns from Sunday's balloting show a clear victory for the Institutional Revolutionary Party, or PRI. Meanwhile, results from nationwide voting for a new Chamber of Deputies and half the Senate continued to trickle in. The election had been seen as a test of a new election law the government hoped would give credibility to Mexico's scandal-plagued electoral process. SOUTH AFRICA JOHANNESBURG — Two white men were convicted Tuesday of murdering a black man by beating him and setting him on fire with a rubber tire around his neck. Deon van Deventer, 25, and Evert Boonzaaier, 23, were convicted of murdering Johannes Masango on Sept. 14. A motive for the killing was never clearly established, but local news reports indicated the men had right-wing pro-apartheid sentiments. The "necklace" method of killing people by burning them with tires around their necks is sometimes used in black townships to punish suspected collaborators with the police and government. In another case, a judge acquitted a right-wing white extremist Monday on a charge of murdering a black man, ruling the defendant was unaware of his actions due to a severe diabetic condition. Prosecutors alleged Frederick Jacobus Viljoen, 29, deliberately stabbed to death a black man. Viljoen is a member of the Afrikaner Resistance Movement, a neo-Nazi white extremist group that supports apartheid. A diabetic specialist testified at the trial that Viljoen suffered a severe lack of glucose the day of the killing and was unaware of what he was doing. MAURITANIA ABIDJAN, Ivory Coast — Amnesty International accused Mauritania's military government Wednesday of killing at least 339 political detainees, and urged it to conduct an open and impartial investigation into the deaths. The London-based human rights group released a list of those killed, describing the majority of them as army officers or civil servants from black ethnic groups who originate in the country's south. The Amnesty report said at least 140 of those killed had been executed, many by hanging. Many others died from torture, including electric shock, burning and being buried in sand for hours. Amnesty said November when hundreds of people, mostly blacks, were picked for alleged involvement in a coup attempt in this North African nation of 2.1 million residents. "In reality it appears that they were picked up simply because of their ethnic origin," the report said.

Mail-bomber Moody gets 7 life terms

ST. PAUL, Minn. (AP) — A man convicted of killing a federal appeals judge and a civil rights lawyer with mail bombs was sentenced Tuesday to seven life terms plus 400 years in prison with no possibility of parole. Walter Leroy Moody Jr. "struck viciously" at the principles of judicial independence and minority rights, U.S. District Judge Edward Devitt said as he imposed the toughest sentence allowed. Moody stood quietly during the 15-minute sentencing hearing, deferring to defense attorney Edward Tolley when the judge asked if he wished to comment. "This case reflects a great tragedy to a great number of people," Tolley told the judge. Tolley said a notice of appeal was filed immediately after sentencing. Moody, 58, of Rex, Ga., was convicted June 28 by a jury. He was charged in a 71-count indictment with mailing pipe bombs in December 1989 that killed 11th U.S. Circuit Judge Robert S. Vance at his home in Mountain Brook, Ala., and lawyer Robert E. Robinson at his office in Savannah, Ga.

The trial was moved to St. Paul partly because of extensive publicity in the Southeast. Prosecutors said Moody had a vendetta against the court system because of a 1972 conviction on charges of possessing a pipe bomb — a conviction that was upheld on appeal by the 11th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals — and because he thought blacks got preferential treatment in the courts. The pipe bomb involved in the 1972 case was of the same unusual design used in the 1989 bombings, prosecutors said. "There's no doubt in my mind he's a very dangerous man," the slain jurist's son, Robert Vance Jr., said from his law office in Birmingham, Ala., after Moody was sentenced. "We wanted him behind bars for life." Acting U.S. Attorney General William P. Barr called the sentence "a just, successful conclusion to the investigation and prosecution of heinous crimes that shocked the nation." Prosecutors in Alabama and Georgia have indicated they might pursue murder charges that could carry death sentences for Moody, but Tolley said "the only reason to do it would be pure retribution." "I felt ... given Moody's background, education and obviously high level of intelligence, that if he indeed is guilty of these crimes as the jury has now said, that it was a great waste of a human being," Tolley told reporters.

JAPAN TOKYO — Heavy rain linked to Typhoon Gladys pelted the Tokyo area, triggering mudslides and flooding today that killed at least nine people and damaged more than 1,800 homes. Some areas received as much as 28 inches of rain between Monday and Tuesday night, the Central Meteorological Agency reported. National television said police in the Tokyo region reported more than 1,800 houses had been flooded and almost 200,000 travelers stranded because of rain-related train delays. Gladys is the 12th typhoon in the region this year. Each year, about 30 typhoons are spawned in the southern Pacific Ocean, mostly in July, August and September. Typhoons this year have killed some 2,900 people in China and monsoon rains connected with typhoons have killed at least 12 people in areas in the Philippines already devastated by erupting Mount Pinatubo. CANADA CALGARY, Alberta — Tiny diamonds discovered in southern Alberta came from meteors that struck Earth 65 million years ago, a Canadian government scientist says. "There's no way the micro-diamonds could have been formed in a volcano" or by other geological processes on the planet, said David Carlisle, chief scientist at Environment Canada in Ottawa. Carlisle and Dennis Braman of Alberta's Royal Tyrrell Museum of Paleontology discovered the sub-microscopic diamonds this spring in the Red Deer River valley, about 60 miles northwest of Drumheller.

TURKEY SIRNAK — Kurdish guerrillas killed six soldiers in two attacks in this southeastern province, a government official said Tuesday. Guerrillas using rocket launchers raided a police station near Silopi on Monday night, killing five soldiers. One separatist was killed. Guerrillas also fired on a group of soldiers near Sirt village, killing one. Kurdish guerrillas also killed two villagers in neighboring Mardin province on Monday, local sources reported. Kurds seeking an independent Kurdistan have waged guerrilla war in the southeast since 1984. The Turkish army launched a week-long operation in northern Iraq this month against Turkish Kurdish rebel strongholds to stop cross-border raids by the guerrillas. Iraq asked the Arab League on Tuesday to pressure Turkey to withdraw its troops from northern Iraq, the official Iraqi News Agency said. INA, monitored in Cyprus, said Iraq argued in its letter that the incursion violated international law, the United Nations Charter and Iraqi-Turkish border agreements.

Hopkins' checks issued without payee names

FRANKFORT, Ky. (AP) — During the last week of the Republican gubernatorial primary campaign, Larry Hopkins' campaign issued hundreds of checks totaling about $15,000 that left the payees unnamed, according to a published report.

The checks, in amounts ranging from $30 to $100, ended up in 12 southeastern Kentucky counties, including 11 in the heavily Republican 5th District, The Courier-Journal reported today.

The maneuver raises questions about the effectiveness of a 1988 election-reform law aimed at cleaning up Kentucky's notorious tradition of "vote hauling." Candidates frequently have hired such election-day workers as a legalized form of vote-buying.

Managers of the Hopkins campaign — which listed names of those who supposedly got the money, and the amounts they got, in its post-election finance report — denied this week that any vote-buying was intended or occurred.

The Hopkins strategists said they hired the workers to prop up weak organizations with a voter-targeting and get-out-the-vote effort in some big Republican counties.

The payments were not large enough for the workers to go on a vote-buying spree, said former state Rep. Charles Siler of Williamsburg, who said he hired three workers for Hopkins at $50 each. "That's not a lot of money," he said, adding that votes sold for $20 apiece when he was defeated last year.

The Courier-Journal conducted more than 50 telephone interviews and found that the payees' names on the 298 checks were added later by political operatives in the region.

Hopkins, a seven-term Lexington congressman, beat Larry Forgy in the GOP primary May 28 by only about 1,945 votes out of 161,107 cast statewide.

Democratic nominee Brereton Jones reported spending $3,643 on contract labor during May, all but $900 of it to people who had been paid identical or similar fees earlier in the campaign. The May-only workers were a receptionist at the Ashland headquarters and a man who helped put up signs, distribute campaign materials and open the Hazard headquarters, Jones aide Diana Taylor said.

State Sen. David Williams, Hopkins' former campaign manager, said the Hopkins campaign scrupulously followed state law and issued blank checks only to provide local leaders the "flexibility on election day" to hire and promptly pay last-minute substitutes for no-show workers.

The newspaper interviewed 42 reported recipients of the money. Most said they had earned their wages on lawful, get-out-the-vote efforts, such as phone banks, home visits, transportation of voters to the polls and distribution of leaflets, bumper stickers and yard signs.

"We give a full day's work for what we get," said 61-year-old Chester Powers of Middlesboro, who got $50, as did his wife, Goldie.

But five people named in the report — Ray Feltner of East Bernstadt in Laurel County; Wanda Hoskins of Middlesboro; Lucy Mirick of Knox County; and Dale Philpot and Della Stewart, both of London — said they received no check and weren't Hopkins campaign workers.

However, none of the 42 purported workers who were interviewed said they had sold their vote.

World editorial roundup

'We are back in the USSR'

By The Associated Press

Here's a roundup of excerpts from editorials in newspapers in the United States on developments in the Soviet Union:

The Detroit News:

American policy-makers should realize our ability to influence events in a closed, secretive society like the Soviet Union's is highly limited. The West must pick up its shield once more.

It is not within our power to make or break Soviet chieftains. An era has ended, a new one has begun. We are back in the USSR.

The Albuquerque Tribune, New Mexico:

They said it was a Communist plot. All Gorbachev's whining about how the West had better give him aid, support, concessions, or else Soviet hard-liners would kick him out and take over — it all was a trick, the critics said. He's just trying to prop up a dying Communist regime.

We should be sticking it to Gorbachev, critics claimed — twisting the thumbscrews, forcing him to liberalize more quickly before we give him anything. Proponents of moderation, including President Bush, were naive, they said.

Apparently not. A coup appears to have toppled Gorbachev and put hard-liners in control, just as Gorbachev warned.

The Soviet Union continually surprises the West, more lately than ever. One lesson all "experts" on the Soviets should take from the latest mind-bender is: Study harder, and don't be so smug.

The Record, Hackensack, N.J.:

Make no mistake about it: perestroika, along with Mr. Gorbachev's fumbling yet courageous experiment in democracy, is over. The thugs — gray-looking old men — are back in power in Moscow. What we don't know — and what we won't know for several weeks to come — is whether this is a temporary interruption in the opening of Soviet society, or a long-term return to Russian repression.

The News-Leader, Springfield, Mo.:

What happens now? The rules have been changed irrevocably. The hard-liners may crush reform, but they cannot re-invent an economy that long ago drained its most important resource: people. They may long to be respected as a superpower, but ridicule on the world stage is turning this tragedy into a farce.

Anchorage Daily News:

Soviet leaders have killed millions upon millions of their own people since the 1917 revolution. The leaders of this coup are prepared to follow their path of blood — but let us hope, even pray, that the Soviet soldiers and the police will have the courage not to follow them.

The Miami Herald:

Mikhail Gorbachev has fallen off the tightrope. That much is clear. For the future, everything depends on the motives of the Soviet junta and on the skill of Mr. Yeltsin, Mr. Gorbachev, and their other opponents. Westerners can only do what they have been doing since Mr. Gorbachev began his high-wire act in 1985: Watch, hold their breath, try not to cause vibrations, and pray for the best.

The Anchorage Times:

The long-term reaction will be measured by the cry of despair from a people who had just begun to taste the sweetness of democracy that too many in this nation take for granted.

Our hopes rest in the knowledge that freedom once inhaled is not easily forgotten.

The New York Times:

Everybody knew the Soviet President was walking a tightrope. And there were warnings of a coup, like the one last Friday from Mr. Gorbachev's old ally Aleksandr Yakovlev. But even so, after standing at the nuclear brink for decades, Americans were just starting to trust the forces of change that Mr. Gorbachev set free.

Now, suddenly, the reckless takeover by members of a discredited Communist old guard imperils the surge of progress. They may yet fail, if the Soviet public sweeps them aside and resumes the march to political and economic freedom. But even if the coup lasts, the plotters lack the legitimacy and the vision needed to succeed.

Courier-Post, Camden, N.J.:

People outside Moscow have been far less committed to Gorbachev's promises of reform and far more concerned about the sharply declining standard of living. That means the coup, if it is to succeed, must persuade the majority it can put bread and cheese on the store shelves — and do so without bringing back Stalinism.

Have things changed so much in the Soviet Union that the combined power of the KGB, the defense ministry and the interior ministry — the leaders behind this coup — is not enough to crush any resistance? Yes, they probably have. The tide of history is strong, stronger even than the powers of a police state.

San Francisco Examiner:

The coup brings to a climax the internal resentment that has been building to the reforms that Gorbachev tried to bring about. The conservatives were always there, but Gorbachev underestimated their will and power. Ultimately, he was not able to move from a centrally controlled society to a pluralistic one.

Detroit Free Press:

In contrast to the meticulously planned, large-scale military and police operation that 10 years ago helped Polish communists surprise Solidarity and temporarily regain control, the Moscow coup seems to be improvised.

That Russian President Boris Yeltsin remained free on Monday to call for street protests and a general strike indicates that anything is still possible.

The Phoenix Gazette:

The Bush administration should take (former Soviet Foreign Minister Eduard) Shevardnadze's advice and halt efforts to assist the Soviet government, but there is little any Western Power can do.

If the people respond to (Russian republic President Boris) Yeltsin's call for a general strike, the Soviet republic could be plunged into civil war and eventual disintegration into free republics.

If the hard-liners prevail and a new era of repression begins, the Soviet Union still remain a dangerous adversary, but a dying one. Tanks and guns cannot restore the dying economy or win support for the new government.

PERSPECTIVE

A brief triumph of reason

A CONSERVATIVE VIEW

James Kilpatrick

Syndicated columnist

WASHINGTON — Congress often behaves irresponsibly, and critics of Congress constantly are saying so. A Senate committee pillories an outstanding jurist; a House committee approves a host of pork barrel projects. These things happen.

But we are not so quick to salute an occasional job well done, and such a salute is in order. On July 25 the House did itself proud. Members voted solidly for reason as opposed to emotion. They voted to end the ban on research in fetal tissue transplantation; and they voted to authorize a carefully screened survey of adolescent sexual behavior.

In brief, the House voted in favor of enlightenment and against ignorance. You might suppose that such a vote would be the easiest thing on earth to cast, but you would underestimate the apprehension that Bill Dannemeyer and Bob Dornan can engender. The two California Republicans are evangelical terrorists. They threaten the kind of political damnation that scares timid fellows half to death.

The bill before the House on July 25 was a bill to extend operations of The National Institutes of Health for another three years. It was a comprehensive measure, embracing 17 separate titles dealing with everything from child health to Alzheimer's disease, but two issues dominated the debate.

One of them dealt with the use of fetal tissue in medical research. The controversy goes back to 1988, when a blue-ribbon panel conducted six days of hearings, heard views both pro and con, and recommended that research go forward under certain safeguards.

Regrettably, the president of the United States disagreed. The administration imposed a flat ban on such research, and no experiments have been performed with federal funds. Meanwhile, biologists here and abroad have found encouraging evidence (though not conclusive evidence) that minute tissue taken from fetal brains may be usefully transplanted to the brains of persons suffering from Parkinson's disease and Alzheimer's disease. There is reason to believe that such transplants also may benefit victims of juvenile diabetes, cystic fibrosis, epilepsy and spinal cord injury. The question is whether tissue from induced abortions should be simply discarded, or whether it should be preserved for research and treatment.

Proponents emphasized the safeguards. No one could be paid for providing fetal tissues; no donor could direct the transplantation to a particular individual; transplants would have to be done under strict medical protocols. Henry Waxman, D-Calif., said it would be "unconscionable" for the ban to be continued.

Dannemeyer, leading the opposition, insisted that fetal tissue is "human life." Therapeutic transplants would take our people "down the road to degeneration." Dornan thought the research would be Hitlerian, "medical science at its worst." Other opponents described the proposed research as despicable, indefensible, diabolical, and in the case of Parkinson's patients, unnecessary and dangerous. A woman might rationalize a reluctant decision to have an abortion by telling herself that the tissue might be used to help someone else.

The debate moved on to the second major controversy. This involved an amendment proposed by Dannemeyer: "The secretary of health and human services may not ... conduct or support any national survey of human sexual behavior." Waxman promptly offered a counter-amendment to authorize such a survey subject to certification by the NIH that a survey would be useful in reducing the incidence of sexually transmitted disease.

Dannemeyer and Dornan, among other opponents, cited some highly intimate questions that had been proposed for such a survey two years ago. At the time it was proposed to ask 13-year-olds about their experience with oral and anal sex. It transpired, as debate continued, that the most offensive questions had been dropped. Moreover, the questions cited in debate might be asked only after the answers to preliminary, less-explicit questions indicated a need to follow-up.

Jim McDermott, D-Wash., supporting the study, charged that a vote for the Dannemeyer amendment "is a vote for ignorance." That about summed it up. The House voted 283-137 to authorize a sexual survey. Then it voted 274-144 for the bill as a whole, including the go-ahead for fetal research.

All in all, a good day in the House. We haven't had many such good days lately. If the bill reaches the White House in its present form, George Bush will veto it. A rational interlude will not have lasted long, but that will be something to talk about when the time comes.

'WHY, LOOK — IT'S THE GREAT WHITE HUNTER, AGAIN!'

Politically correct him if he's wrong

ROYKO SAYS

Mike Royko

Syndicated columnist

Despite the admirable quest for political correctness there are still glaring examples of insensitivity in our society. So we must be constantly alert to any words or deeds that might cause an individual or a group to suffer wounded feelings. I was recently exposed to two shocking examples of insensitivity, both of which came out of the world of sports.

While browsing through the sports news, I came across a story about pro football training camps, and how this is the time when failed rookies and over-the-hill veterans are cut from the teams.

The story could have simply said that the coach decides who will be fired and has an assistant coach summon the sad hulks to his office.

Instead, this writer talked about how the players wait for the dreaded visit by "The Turk."

The Turk? I had been vaguely aware that this is how the players and sports journalists referred to the assistant coach who would rap on their doors and say: "The coach wants to see you. Bring your playbook."

But this is 1991. I would have thought that by now, even sports-writers would know that it's a heinous deed to use words that could offend any ethnic, racial, religious, sexual, fraternal, maternal, dietetic or dyspeptic group, except white middle-class heterosexual males (also known as "suits"), who deserve contempt because they have gleefully created all of the world's ailments.

Don't they think Turks have feelings? Would they dare say or write that the players were expecting "the dreaded visit by the Pole?" Or their hearts fell when "the knock on the door came from the Irishman?" Or that "the borderline players could hear the heavy footsteps of the African?"

Of course not. But they obviously believe that they can treat Turks with disrespect.

I was so appalled that I called the Turkish consulate and explained the entire situation, as stated above.

When I finished, he said: "I don't think I understand any of this."

Well, that doesn't matter. Just because one Turk doesn't realize that he is being mocked and held up to ridicule, doesn't mean that those of us who are politically correct can't be filled with indignation.

And I'm sure that if I sought out other Turks, I would find one who shared my indignation. But do you think I have nothing else to do than spend my time calling names in the phone book and saying: "Hello, are you a Turk?"

The other shocking affront was brought to my attention by a reader whose husband is a golfer. She said: "My husband just bought a new driver and it is called 'Big Bertha.' That name is right on the golf club.

"I wonder why they would call it 'Big Bertha'?" It seems to me that they are making fun of overweight women named Bertha. My name isn't Bertha, but if it was, I would be offended."

As well she should be, if her name was Bertha and she was big. There must be tens of thousands of women in America named Bertha, and surely some of them are plump. And I can only imagine the anguish they must feel, knowing that hordes of middle-class white men are flaunting golf clubs called "Big Bertha," thus adding to their long list of sins against humanity.

I called the Calloway Golf Company, which makes the "Big Bertha" club. The company is in California, which surprised me, since Californians are probably the most sensitive and politically correct of all Americans. In my pre-sensitive days, when I wrote that San Diego Padres fans were lethargic beach idlers who ate sushi at the ballpark, they cried that I was a fascist and a boor. I now realize they were right and I have repented.

Anyway, a man at the Calloway company denied that the name was intended to wound the feelings of large women named Bertha.

"We explain it in our catalog. It is named after a famous cannon. It was made in Germany in 1917, by Baron von Krupp, of the Krupp munitions makers. It was the biggest cannon in the world."

"The baron's daughter was named Bertha, and he called it the Big Bertha after his daughter. We thought it was a cute name to describe the world's biggest driver."

I suppose there is some mitigation in that explanation. On the other hand, it could simply show that Baron von Krupp was lacking sensitivity, which wouldn't surprise me, since the man was in the business of making fearsome cannons, which isn't a very sensitive thing to do.

Do we know how this baron's daughter felt about having a cannon named after her? Did she starve herself to avoid being identified as the Big Bertha of cannon fame? Did she spend hours on a shrink's couch saying: "Why couldn't daddy have named me Tiffany? Nobody would ever name a cannon Big Tiffany. And I know that someday they will name a big, fat golf club after me, too."

And if she thought that, she was right. What a swine the baron was.

Wait, I take that back. I don't want to offend pig farmers.

I have to stop now and visit the john. I can still say that because people named John are middle-class white men and deserve all the contempt they get. It is good to have someone we can still kick around.

JO'S DATEBOOK

Jo Burkeen
Murray Today editor

Chris Brandon, a member of Murray Boy Scout Troop 77, will be showing his Eagle project, "Drug Abuse Awareness Display," on Saturday and Sunday, Aug. 24 and 25, in foyer of Wal-Mart, Murray. Brandon, a senior at Murray High School, is the son of Billy Brandon and Glenda Key. His scoutmaster is Larry Painter. Brandon invites the public to his special Eagle project display on Saturday and Sunday.

Alexandra Anna Van Sickle born

Mr. and Mrs. Todd Van Sickle of Murray are the parents of a daughter, Alexandra Anna, weighing eight pounds seven ounces, measuring 21 1/2 inches, born on Sunday, Aug. 18 at 2:28 p.m. at Murray-Calloway County Hospital. The mother is the former Lindy Knight. The father is with Southern Wall Systems, Inc. Grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Richard Van Sickle of Newport News, Va., and Mr. and Mrs. Richard W. Knight of Murray.

Art Guild reception Friday

Works by John Goodell and Trudy Baker are on exhibit during the month of August in the Upstairs Gallery of Murray Art Guild, 103 North Sixth St., Murray. The works are comprised mainly of watercolors, but also pen and ink illustrations and block print stenciling are exhibited. A reception for the show will be Friday, Aug. 23, from 6:30 to 8:30 p.m. Ample parking and handicapped access are available. Goodell and Baker invite all their friends to attend the reception and see the exhibit, both of which are open to the public. The Main Gallery features works by members of Murray-Calloway County Camera Club during the month of August. The Guild is open Tuesdays and Wednesdays from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. and Thursdays from 6 to 9 p.m. Anyone interested in becoming a Guild member or for more information call the Guild at 753-4059.

Lodge plans benefit fish fry

Murray Lodge No. 105 Free and Accepted Masons will host a fish dinner on Saturday, Aug. 24, in the basement area of the lodge building on Highway 121 North, Coldwater Road, at Highway 1660, Johnny Robertson Road. The proceeds will go to assist the scholarship fund for two local students. Serving will be from 5 to 8 p.m. with a donation of $6 each requested. The public is invited to attend, a lodge spokesman said.

W.A.T.C.H. needs cans

W.A.T.C.H. (Work Activities Training Center for the Handicapped) needs aluminum cans for an ongoing work activity. Anyone wishing to donate cans may bring them by the center at 702 Main St., Murray, from Monday through Friday from 8 a.m. to 3 p.m.; or call 753-1965 for pick up.

Clinic dates at Shedd

The Shedd Academy clinic dates have been established. Appointments can be made for the clinic dates which will be held in both Mayfield and/or Paris, Tenn. Shedd also offers programs to help children. Symptoms of students with reading problems are varied. These are students with normal intelligence. In addition to reading and comprehension problems, they often have other characteristics. For information about making an appointment, answering your questions or receiving a packet of information, contact: Nancy Miller, Shedd Academy, 346 Central Ave., Mayfield, Ky. 42066 or call 1-247-8007.

Mother of Year to be selected

The Kentucky Association of American Mothers is in the process of selecting a Kentucky Mother of the Year for 1992. Nominations are being accepted from religious and other organizations. Qualifications for nominees include the following: Must be at least 45 years old; qualified to represent the Mothers of America in all responsibilities attached to her role; a successful mother and homemaker as evidenced by the character and contributions of her children in the religious, educational, civic and governmental or business worlds; an active member of a religious body, active participant in community, state, national and international activities; married and the mother of one or more children, the youngest of which is at least 15 years old. The selection will be made at the meeting of the Kentucky Association of American Mothers on Friday and Saturday, Nov. 15 and 16, at Kentucky Dam Village State Park. Mrs. Gladys Jarrett, 1989 Kentucky Mother of the Year, and Mrs. Datha McCallon, 1990 Kentucky Mother of the Year, both from Calloway County, will be hosting this state meeting. For information call Mrs. Jarrett, 436-2390. Persons may also contact Mrs. Nancy Jo Grobmyer of Carrollton, state president, at 1-732-5786, or Mrs. Carolyn Self of Hopkinsville, chairman of the Kentucky Mother Search Committee, at 1-886-5163, or 1-886-8703.

LBL homecoming on Sept. 1

The annual homecoming of the Land Between the Lakes will be Sunday, Sept. 1, at the Walter Bibrey place, across from the Buffalo Pasture. Anyone is welcome to attend including those people from Land Between the Lakes community (Model, Blue Springs, Nevils Creek, Tharpe, Crockett's Creek, Fort Henry, Bethlehem and any other settlements in the vicinity). Some people bring a picnic lunch and usually eat around 1 p.m.; others eat before coming. No fees or registration are necessary. The number of chairs furnished will be limited, so each one should bring your own lawn chairs.

Cheerleading Clinic Saturday

Murray High School Cheerleaders will sponsor its fifth annual Cheerleading Clinic for persons, 5 and up, on Saturday, Aug. 24, from 9 a.m. to 2 p.m. at gymnasium of Murray High School, Doran Road and Sycamore Street. The clinic will include instruction in cheerleading skills, cheers, sidelines, jumps and pom poms. Awards will be given to all participants. To register call any MHS Cheerleader at 753-6156 or 489-2737. Registration will be from 9 to 9:25 a.m. on Saturday. The fee for the clinic will be $10 per person. Each one is asked to bring a sack lunch and drinks will be provided.

Life House needs items

Life House, Crisis Pregnancy Center at 1506 Chestnut St., Murray, is in need of some items and special services, according to the first edition of "Welcome Life." They include five to six new or used baby beds to be loaned out to clients; summer maternity clothing, particularly sizes 16 and up; counselor trainees and office workers (call 753-7172); and someone willing to come in twice a month to do general cleaning. Phil Kilby is director at Life House.

MHS Class of 1981 plans reunion

Murray High School Class of 1981 is planning a 10-year reunion on Saturday, Aug. 31. An informal breakfast will be at 10 a.m. in the cafeteria of Murray High School. At 8 p.m. a semi-formal dance will be at Executive Inn, Paducah. Any one not receiving the information or for more information call Lisa Clees Darnell, 753-5720.

Brewers reunion planned

A Brewers School Reunion will be Friday, Aug. 30, at 6:30 p.m. at South Marshall Middle School. Any student, teacher or principal or other people associated with Brewers School are encouraged to attend the reunion. Tickets are $6.50 each and are available at Republic Bank, Bank of Marshall County, Bank of Benton, and South Marshall Middle School. "We would welcome any Brewers School memorabilia, but please have your name on the items," said Anna Usrey, a committee member. For more information contact Usrey, Barney Thweatt, Betty Haley or Reed Conder.

Cliff Campbell, left, is pictured as he is being presented a plaque and gifts from Don Lofton, right, president of Magic Chef Corp., at a retirement dinner in honor of Campbell.

Campbell is honored

Cliff Campbell has retired after 71 1/2 years as quality control manager for Magic Chef at Cleveland, Tenn.

He was honored with special events on Monday, July 29, with the Magic Chef marquee saying "Cliff Campbell Day." A limousine arrived at the Campbell home in Cleveland at 6:40 p.m. and were taken to the Chalet for a special banquet with about 100 relatives and friends present. They were greeted on arrival by Bill Auberry of Magic Chef.

Opening remarks were by Dan Luehrs with the invocation by Bob Farris.

Guest speakers were Bill McClure, plant manager; David Dickson, Chattanooga, Tenn.; Oneal Shaw, Dalton, Ga.; Chester Reeder, Dick Arntz, David Leree, Loyd Eismeier, Jerry Ward and Nelson Woodridge, manager, all of Cleveland, Tenn.

Don Lofton, president of Magic

Chef Corp., presented Campbell with a plaque. Each speaker spoke of some of the things that had happened over the past years. Gifts including a gold watch, golf shirt, hat and golf balls were given to him by Magic Chef.

Other out-of-town guests were Jerry Smith, Dalton, Ga., Larry and Pat Campbell, St. Louis, Mo., Bob by Campbell, Asheboro, N.C., and Mr. and Mrs. Joe Johnston and Sam and Susan Underwood, Murray.

Campbell and his wife, Cloia, are now residing at their home in Martin Heights, Murray. They said they are enjoying their two grandchildren, Michelle and Megan Underwood, who live just across the street, and also renewing old friendships and making new ones.

The Campbells moved from Murray to Dalton, Ga., in 1980, and later moved to Cleveland, Tenn., from where he retired.

CCC reunion planned

Kentucky's CCC Alumni, former members of the old Civilian Conservation Corps, will hold their 13th annual reunion Oct. 4, 5 and 6 at Cumberland Falls State Resort Park, built by CCC enrollees on State Road 90 near Corbin.

All former members or their widows and personnel of any CCC camps, regardless in which state they served, are invited, along with their families and friends to attend the reunion.

BAKER'S STEW

By Trudy Baker

Despite the hot, bone-dry July we've just suffered through, the plentiful spring rains and earlier, temperate weather seem to have ensured an ample apple crop. Several friends have mentioned this week that their countertops were covered in apples, and asked if I had any new apple "ideas"?

Of course, new ideas, in my opinion, aren't always the best. I mean, I'm all for lowering the fat, cholesterol and salt intake and try to revise old recipes printed before America became health conscious. Some recipes just aren't the same without those old favorites, however. The best pie crust is still made with lard, I don't care what anyone says, and good ol' fashioned apple pie, apple dumplings, and of course, plain old applesauce are delights that shouldn't be shunned aside as too antique.

One autumn, we journeyed to Rockville, in Parke County, Ind., a fun trip anytime. There are numerous covered bridges throughout the gently rolling hills (a pain and pleasure trip for those of us who suffer from motion sickness, but love the beauty of the wooded countryside).

Parke County also has interesting museums, beautiful Turkey Run State Park, craft centers, art galleries, living history sites and interesting little shops with one-of-a-kind items. But Parke County is best in the fall — the trees explode with color as good, or better than any vistas in New England with warm sunny days and crisp, cool nights.

Each autumn, Parke County has its annual Covered Bridge Festival that draws crowds from near and far. As you approach Rockville, the county seat and center of festivities, the vapors from huge cast iron kettles, set over open fires around the court house, full of hot bubbling and brown apple butter lure you closer with anticipation. Slabs of fresh, homemade bread are passed out, spread with the still warm apple butter, by friendly women in pioneer dress, their cheeks rosy from the fire and reminiscent of the apples themselves.

This time brought me a new awareness of the splendors of the apple, its versatility in use, size, color and shape. The vast orchards of Michigan and Wisconsin with miles and miles of tree lines, all laden with global fruits and families of migrant workers, seemingly happy, chattering back and forth while high atop narrow, shaky ladders gave me a deep appreciation for the labor involved in those pyramids of apples we so easily pluck in the markets.

I've collected apple recipes every since those times and each fall a new "apple compulsion" prompts me to try another recipe.

Here is one old "stand-by" and two newer ideas for you to try.

Old Fashioned Apple Dumplings

- 6 med. baking apples
- 2 c. flour
- 2 1/4 t. baking powder
- 1/2 t. salt
- 2/3 c. shortening
- 1/2 c. milk

Sauce:

- 2 c. brown sugar

- 2 c. water
- 1/4 c. butter
- 1/2 t. cinnamon (more to taste)

Pare and core apples, leave in halves. To make pastry, sift flour, baking powder and salt. Cut in shortening until the size of small peas. Sprinkle milk over mixture and press together lightly, working dough only enough to hold together. Roll dough as for pastry and cut into 12 squares and place half an apple on each. Fill cavity in apple with sugar and cinnamon. Pull dough up around apple to cover it completely. Fasten edges securely on top of apple. Place dumplings one inch apart in a greased baking plan. Pour the sauce over the top (as follows) and bake at 375 for 35-40 mins. Baste occasionally during baking. Serve hot with cream or ice cream. Sauce: Combine brown sugar and water with spices. Cook for 5 mins., remove from heat and add butter, whisking it in until melted and thoroughly mixed.

Apple Vichyssoise

- 3 large Delicious apples
- 2 qts. chicken stock
- 1 c. chilled heavy cream
- salt to taste
- sugar to taste
- fresh lemon juice to taste
- apple skin, zested into small strips small pieces and cook in broth for about 20 mins. or until tender. Force through sieve or whirl in blender. Cool and chill. Add cream and mix well. Add salt, sugar and lemon juice. Make the strips of skin at last minute, or toss with a few drops of lemon juice, so it will not discolor. Sprinkle on top of soup and serve at once (serves six).

Breast of Chicken In Cream With Fresh Apples

- 6 chicken breasts (6 to 8 oz.)
- skinless, boneless and dusted with flour
- 8 tbs. butter
- 4 tbs. minced onion
- 8 peeled fresh apples, cut into 1/2-inch rings

- 1 1/2 c. apple cider
- 1/2 c. brandy
- 2 c. heavy whipping cream
- salt and pepper to taste

Saute chicken in butter with onion over low heat. In separate pan, poach the apple rings in the cider until soft (but not mushy). Add brandy to chicken and (carefully) ignite. Add cider left from poaching apples. Cook at low temperature until chicken is tender, about 10 mins. Add cream and continue cooking until sauce is thickened. Season to taste. Place chicken on serving platter, layer slices of apple over chicken. Pour sauce over all, run under the broiler to brown, serve immediately.

Mt. Sinai has revival

By VELDA ALTON
Murray Ledger & Times Correspondent

We sure enjoyed homecoming services on Sunday, Aug. 4, at Mt. Sinai Baptist Church. The Rev. Pete Gallimore, former pastor, preached, and the fine singing after lunch featured the Allegiance Singers of Dixon, Tenn., and the Buchanan Singers of Mt. Sinai Church. Harold Wilson, a former member now living in Cookeville, Tenn., attended the morning service. Revival services began on Monday night, Aug. 5, with the Rev. Warren Sykes of Puryear, Tenn., pastor of Central Point (west of Paris, Tenn.) as evangelist. He delivered a wonderful message each night. We had lots of visitors, including people from Paris, Fairview Baptist and Central Point, and the Rev. James Garland and a group from Hazel Baptist Church. Donnie Burton and children of Oklahoma have been visiting his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Lelon Burton, and also attended services at Mt. Sinai.

Mr. and Mrs. Norman Jackson and family of Michigan are visiting his mother, Mrs. Hinda Jackson, and other relatives here. They attended the funeral of his brother-in-law, Clifford White.

We wish to extend our sympathy to the families of Farley Raspberry and Clifford White who died the past week.

Gerald Alton and two of his grandchildren of Oak Ridge, Tenn., visited his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Winburn Alton, the past weekend.

Miss Lee Ann Turner celebrated her ninth birthday with a party at Mr. Gatti's in Murray. They played miniature golf later. Those attending were Kayla White, Katrina Johnson, Ted and Shawn Turner, Mother Norma Turner and Grandmother Billie Turner.

Greely Burnett has been taking treatments at a Paris hospital. We hope he will soon be back to good health.

Mr. and Mrs. Glen Hall, Mrs. Virginia White and Mr. and Mrs. Norman Jackson had supper with Mrs. Hinda Jackson and Robert Earl on Wednesday night.

Steven Mark receives Ph.D. at university

Steven Mark of Murray received his Ph.D. in Educational Administration and Supervision in ceremonies on Saturday, Aug. 10, at Bowling Green State University, Bowling Green, Ohio.

The title of his dissertation was titled "Ohio Colleges and Universities During the Gilded Age: Institutional Evolution, Elective Curriculum, Graduate Education and Commercial Programs, 1865-1901."

His faculty advisor was Dr. Malcolm Campbell.

Mark is a member of the faculty of the Department of Office Systems and Business Education in the College of Business at Murray State University.

His wife, Stephanie, is a graduate teaching assistant in the Department of English at Murray State.

Dr. and Mrs. Mark reside on Henry Street, Murray.

Edwards and Steele vows solemnized

Miss Cindy Alice Edwards and Howard Dwight Steele were married in a candlelight service on May 11 at Hazel United Methodist Church.

The Rev. Dan Leslie, pastor, performed the double ring ceremony at 3 p.m. Music was presented by Mrs. Toni Jones and Greg Flowers, pianists, and Cindy Flowers, vocalist.

The candlelit sanctuary featured drapes of tulle illusion with a brass arch decorated with silks in spring colors and greenery. Two heart candelabra flanked the stage.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James W. Edwards of Hazel. She is the granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Q. Burton and Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Edwards, all of Hazel.

The groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth R. Steele of Puryear, Tenn. His grandparents are Mrs. Edna Lynn and the late Henry Lynn of Sparta, Tenn., and Mr. and Mrs. Howard Steele of Wheatland, Tenn.

The bride was escorted to the altar by her father and given in marriage by her parents.

She wore a gown of ivory satin. The bodice, covered with hand-beaded and sequined reembodyered Alencon lace, featured a v-neck in front and a v-dipping to the waist in the back. Leg of mutton sleeves were sheer to the wrist, accented with beaded motif. The full skirt with chapel length train was accented on the front and back with beaded appliques and beaded lace around the bottom. The back of the dress had a large bow centered with a lace applique.

Her headpiece was of ivory flowers and pearl streamers with two elbow-length layers and a short blusher. Her bouquet was a cascade of ivory silks with ivy and pearl sprays.

Mrs. Tracy Pitman of Atlanta, Ga., was matron of honor. Bridesmaids were Mrs. Valerie Clark of Hazel and Tina Thompson of Dickson, Tenn.

Ashley Jackson was the flower girl.

The attendants wore sparkle peacock satin with v-necks and dropped bodices. Straps and bows accented the backs of the tea-length dresses. They carried identical bouquets of spring colored silks with satin streamers and pearl sprays.

Mr. and Mrs. Howard Dwight Steele

Anthony Young of Hazel served as best man. Groomsmen were Micah Edwards, brother of the bride, and Craig Fox, both of Hazel.

Ushers were Benjie Burton, cousin of the bride, and Ernie Hendricks.

Brandon Smith was ring bearer.

The bride's entire ensemble was handcrafted by Lyndas of Puryear. Judy Scruggs designed the sanctuary and floral arrangements. Rita Burton, aunt of the bride, directed the wedding. Angela Halkias of Nashville, Tenn., cousin of the bride, presided at the guest register. A reception followed at the Hazel Community Center. The new Mr. and Mrs. Steele are now residing at Rt. 2, Hazel. Out-of-town guests included Olga Crement of Washington, Miss.; Pat McHugh and Mary Lee Winslow, Mentor, Ohio; Clifton Ray, St. Louis, Mo.

Residential Yard of Month named

The Garden Department of the Murray Woman's Club has selected the Residential Yard of the Month for August. It is the home of Carney and Marelle Andrus at 1303 Sycamore St., Murray. The shrubs, trees and special flower beds around the house give a lovely appearance to the yard, a Garden Department member said. The Residential Yard of the Month is selected almost every month to give credit to the residents for their care of the yard.

We treat heart transplants.

Leaving behind remembered places and familiar faces is one of life's toughest realities. You feel so lost and lonely in strange new surroundings. You're heart sick.

If you have just moved to Murray and are trying to settle into a new life, here's a thought. What better place to begin than with a sympathetic, concerned church family?

The First Christian Church (Disciples of Christ) has a program for nearly everyone of every age and interest. The only thing we don't have that we should is you. But that can be remedied quite easily. Your new life can begin next Sunday when you join us in worship services.

Together we can get to the heart of your problem.

Judge blames government incompetence for $8.5 million settlement

WASHINGTON (AP) — A government foul-up is costing taxpayers $8.5 million to settle a dispute over a building lease, and a federal judge says he hopes someone is held responsible.

"It is for no reason other than the bureaucratic bungling" that the government is having to pay the money to the building's owners, U.S. District Judge Royce C. Lamberth said Tuesday.

Congress or the executive branch should "look at the conduct of government officials here who squandered millions of dollars of taxpayers' money," he said.

However, a General Services Administration official defended his agency's actions. "We do not think it was administrative bungling," said Gary Davis, general counsel of the GSA's National Capital Region.

The judge approved an $8.5 million settlement of a dispute in which the government condemned space in a downtown office building because the Internal Revenue Service couldn't move out of the building in time for it to be sold and torn down for a new development.

The GSA waited too long to look for new office space, Lamberth said.

The government wound up condemning its office space for 20 months, from June 1988 until the IRS could move out during January 1990.

That held up a development project planned by the building's new owners for an entire city block — including the restoration of Washington's old Warner Theater.

"It's the government's either negligence or incompetence" that caused the owners to be stuck with an unwanted tenant that delayed the project, Lamberth said. "There are some government officials who caused this in the first place who should be held accountable."

Davis said it takes up to two years to move a large agency and the plans to sell the building did not allow enough time. Condemning the rental space in such a case is "the very last resort," he said. Lamberth said the building's new owners could have received up to $12 million if they had taken the case to trial, but both sides agreed to settle the case.

The government paid a $3 million deposit on the office space in 1988, so under the settlement it owes another $5.4 million plus interest, and $117,505 for cleaning services.

Richard Duvall, counsel for the Warner Theater Associates Limited

Partnership, said the settlement was "fair and reasonable."

Government attorney Donald Rosendorf told the judge: "I can't really subscribe to all the remarks that you made and opinions you have about GSA's conduct in this case, but enough has been said and the case has been settled."

Governors' health care debate along party lines

SEATTLE (AP) — The nation's governors are demanding an overhaul of the health care system but disagree along partisan lines whether to set a deadline for change.

The National Governors' Association, which concluded its meeting here Tuesday, unanimously endorsed access to health care by all Americans as quickly as possible.

While one leading Democrat said health care will become a key issue in the party's bid to unseat George Bush, Republicans sought to avoid partisan confrontation.

Gov. Lawton Chiles of Florida, a Democrat, pushed unsuccessfully for a resolution to set a Jan. 1, 1994, deadline for action, saying Congress was unlikely to act without one.

"The president set a date for Saddam Hussein to get out of Kuwait," he said. "He drew a line in the sand, and if he hadn't Saddam Hussein might still be in Kuwait. We have an April 15 deadline for federal tax returns. It's only on the 14th that my urgency becomes a hell of a lot more immediate."

Republicans opposed the amendment, with some governors saying the deadline was too far off.

"It would be unfortunate if we left the impression there is a partisan division," said California's GOP Gov. Pete Wilson.

The vote on the Chiles amendment was 19-17, well short of the two-thirds majority required. All 19 votes in favor came from Democratic governors; all the no votes were Republicans. Not all governors attended the meeting.

"The Republicans seem to think they have to protect their president," Chiles said. "We Democrats didn't feel a similar need to protect the Democratic Congress. It's disappointing."

The health care statement called for sweeping changes in a system the governors said costs too much and benefits too few. A centerpiece of the proposal was the recommendation that states act as testing grounds for new health care approaches.

The administration and Congress must act to relieve states of restrictions on how they can spend federal health care funds, the statement said.

Republican Gov. John Ashcroft of Missouri, who succeeded Democratic Gov. Booth Gardner as chairman, urged reporters to focus on the unanimous passage of the policy, not on "this fragment of confrontation."

R.J. McDougal, press foreman at the Murray Ledger & Times talked to a group of high school students from Austria touring the U.S. about newspaper production during a tour last Thursday. The group toured every department and learned about the daily operation of a newspaper. They were to travel to Nashville, Tenn. and New Orleans after their stop in Murray.

Prosecutors say retrial of North unlikely

WASHINGTON (AP) — Prosecutors say it's unlikely they will put Oliver North on trial again in the Iran-Contra affair if a judge refuses to reinstate the former White House aide's previous convictions. Independent counsel Lawrence E. Walsh's office said in court documents filed Tuesday that former national security adviser Robert McFarlane will be its only witness in a Sept. 11 hearing at which the government will try to reinstate North's convictions. "Although retrial of the defendant North on any of the remaining counts is unlikely (if that effort fails), independent counsel cannot at this time definitively rule it out," said the document signed by special counsel Michael Bromwich. North's attorneys were not available immediately to comment, an aide in their office said. U.S. District Judge Gerhard A. Gesell had given Walsh's office until Tuesday to notify him whether it would seek to try North again if it failed to win reinstatement of his convictions. The Supreme Court in May let stand an appellate court's decision to set aside North's convictions. The U.S. Court of Appeals for the District of Columbia Circuit in July 1990 ordered Gesell — who presided at North's trial — to review the trial testimony to decide whether witnesses were influenced by North's forced testimony given under immunity to Congress. The appeals court had said the new hearing "must proceed witness-by-witness; if necessary, it will proceed line-by-line and item-by-item." North was convicted of destroying documents, accepting an illegal gratuity and aiding the obstruction of Congress. The destruction of documents conviction was overturned outright by the appeals court, while the other two were set aside. Gesell, during a June court session to plan for the hearing, told Bromwich there was only a slim possibility that the independent counsel's office could prove that the case against North was not tainted by his congressional testimony. All sides agreed that McFarlane would testify first as a test case at the September hearing because of his involvement in the matter. McFarlane pleaded guilty in 1988 to four counts of withholding information from Congress. At the hearing, McFarlane will be asked whether his testimony at North's trial was affected by North's earlier comments to Congress. Bromwich argued in June that even if it were shown that some witnesses were influenced by North's congressional testimony, the judge could rule that it was harmless to the trial. North was sentenced to two years of probation, $150,000 in fines and 1,200 hours of community service.

Kennedy prosecutors want new judge

WEST PALM BEACH, Fla. (AP) — Prosecutors and the woman who alleges William Kennedy Smith raped her say the judge is giving their side dirty looks, and they want her off the case. In a motion filed Tuesday, the prosecution said Circuit Judge Mary Lupo has shown "obvious prejudice." The prosecutors also said Lupo should step down not to pre-empt any attempt by defense lawyers to seek delays or appeals based on the friendship between Lupo's family and the family of Ellen Roberts, a prosecutor in the case. Lupo "continually expresses her dislike and prejudice against the state and its prosecution through negative facial expressions, i.e., scowling, glaring and frowning," said the prosecution, led by Moira Lasch.

The 30-year-old woman who says Smith raped her March 30 at the Kennedy family's Palm Beach estate submitted an affidavit in agreement, saying live TV coverage of pretrial hearings has convinced her the judge can't be fair. "I have observed Judge Lupo make negative facial expressions towards Moira Lasch, as well as her tone of voice and general attitude appear different toward Ms. Lasch, as compared to the defense," said the Jupiter, Fla., woman. There was no immediate response from Lupo. Prosecutors and Smith's lawyers are under a gag order and cannot discuss the case against the 30-year-old nephew of Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass. "I don't think it's a good tactical move. I don't believe the judge will disqualify herself," said Joe Minberg, a lawyer for a friend of the alleged victim.

Citing the judge's "tone of voice and demeanor is totally frivolous," Minberg said. He added that the other issues are more properly raised by the defense. Smith's lawyers have not raised them. Lupo and Lasch have had tense exchanges at several hearings, particularly since the judge granted a defense request to delay the trial from Aug. 5 until Jan. 13. The judge also rejected prosecutors' demands that the trial be moved. In court papers, the state said Lupo's husband, Edward Ricci, is an old friend and former law partner of Gary Roberts, the prosecutor's husband, and that Lupo's daughter and Ms. Roberts' daughter are "best friends." Ms. Roberts said Lupo resigned from other cases involving Ms. Roberts.

Police win softball game, arrest player

GILBERT, Ariz. (AP) — Police playing softball with a team of young people as a way to improve relations waited until after the game to arrest one of their opponents on an outstanding warrant. Lt. Jack Young said he learned just before Saturday night's game that Jimmy Gomez, 18, was on the opposing team. Gomez is accused in a warrant of misdemeanor charges of criminal damage and trespassing after he and six other people got into a fight nearly a year ago, Young said. "We waited until the game was over because we didn't want to cause a problem," Young said Monday. Gomez was released to his mother's custody. Police won the game 19-13.

Madigan brings Hopkins support

LEXINGTON, Ky. (AP) — Agriculture Secretary Edward Madigan brought support for Republican Rep. Larry Hopkins' campaign for governor with him on a visit from Washington on Tuesday. He studiously avoided bringing anything that smacked of controversy. Madigan dodged a question about the Bush administration's support for tobacco, hedged on whether Hopkins can realistically double farm income in eight years and flatly refused to answer whether grain shipments to the Soviet Union should be withheld during that country's current turmoil.

HAPPY BIRTHDAY! IN THE NEXT YEAR OF YOUR LIFE: Now is the time to grab the brass ring of success. Take a calculated risk. Prominent people will use their influence on your behalf in late fall. December brings a joyful family reunion and happy romance. Changing the direction of your career in early 1992 will result in great financial security. Help a parent who has a health problem. A permanent romantic pairing is likely by this time next summer.
CELEBRITIES BORN ON THIS DATE: author Ray Bradbury, actress Valerie Harper, blues singer John Lee Hooker, slugger Carl Yastrzemski.
ARIES (March 21-April 19): Look before you leap where employment or romance is concerned. Your self-confidence returns. Luck is on your side! Keep your emotions under tighter control at the office. Sidesplit petty squabbles.
TAURUS (April 20-May 20): A wish comes true, but your timing may be off. Try to act less self-conscious when around people of wealth and power. Refuse to pass up a career opportunity because of family problems.
GEMINI (May 21-June 20): Hard work will take your mind off any domestic troubles and bring new financial rewards. Your mate may be in a dark mood. Do not despair. Good things lie ahead.
CANCER (June 21-July 22): Be careful not to overreact to something you learn about a young person. A sense of humor helps you make a family gathering a big success. Loved one lends a helping hand.
LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): Flirting may be exciting but it is also foolhardy if you have already made a commitment to someone else. Do not mistake physical attraction for true love. Catch up on world events.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): Behind-the-scenes maneuvering may bring you the success you seek. Your ego gets a big boost when you are honored in public. Do not let your co-workers boss you around.
LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): Accept someone's evidence for what it is worth but check on any items you do not understand. Give your mind a real workout. Learn more about computer science.
SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Do your duty today but avoid taking unnecessary risks. Attempts to obtain results despite unfavorable conditions could be dangerous. Balance your checkbook before going shopping or taking a trip.
SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Acting in haste leads to waste. It takes advance planning to make your dreams come true. Use good judgment when considering investment proposals. Nurture a close relationship. Greater rapport is possible.
CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): A former love could be dishonest; be careful. Face a difficult situation with confidence. Follow-through will win you a coveted job. Play your cards cautiously in financial negotiations.
AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Others will take to you, even under the most difficult of circumstances today. A financial success gives you new confidence. Your energy level rises when you follow an exercise-diet program faithfully.
PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20): Keep your schedule flexible; last-minute changes will work out better for you. Those who are self-employed should be more assertive. Embarking on a romance with a business partner could be risky. Go slow.

TODAY'S CHILDREN are dramatic, energetic and trusting. Blessed with high intelligence, these Leos can find success in almost any profession. In fact, their leadership skills could steer them toward a brilliant career in politics. However, they tend to take people at face value and sometimes mistake style for substance. They must be very careful when choosing allies and confidants! A strong concern for others makes these Leos interested in people from all walks of life.

Barkley Regional Airport to get new hangar, offices

PADUCAH, Ky. (AP) — Construction has started on a hangar, maintenance area and offices for three air services at Barkley Regional Airport.

The $1.2 million facility, just off U.S. 60, northwest of the main passenger terminal, will house Midwest Aviation, New Ohio Valley Aviation and Flightec Inc., now crowded into facilities that are almost 50 years old.

Airport Corporation Board Chairman Max Ladt said Monday that the new hangar will replace one built shortly after World War II.

Mayor Gerry Montgomery, who spoke at Monday's program, said that in her travels, she has often been a little jealous of the excellent facilities in some of the other cities she has visited.

"This will be the first thing a lot of people see when they first come into Paducah, and we need something nice to give a good first impression," she said.

The airport board tried to build the facility in 1987, but bids for the project came in about 25 percent higher than expected and construction had to be delayed.

Funding for the project is coming from several sources, including $125,000 each from the city and county and a federal grant totaling $533,000.

Conservationists sue to stop big screen theater at national park

SALT LAKE CITY (AP) — Conservationists are suing to prevent a big-screen theater from going up near the entrance to Zion National Park.

The lawsuit filed Tuesday in state court alleges the development is in violation of zoning laws in Springdale, a small community at the gateway to Zion.

California-based World Odyssey Inc. won a permit from Springdale in June to build a 300-seat large-screen theater, a shopping complex and a parking lot near the park entrance.

"Zion's spectacular scenic setting should not be sacrificed so World Odyssey can make a million dollars luring visitors to a theater that intrudes on the park's scenery," said Terri Martin of the National Parks and Conservation Association.

Glen Ellis, Springdale city attorney, said the lawsuit won't delay the complex, which is scheduled to open next summer.

Soviet military planes denied tour of America

CLEVELAND (AP) — The upheaval in the Soviet Union has killed plans to bring a pair of Soviet MiG-29 fighters and an Ilyushin IL-76 cargo plane to seven air shows in the United States, Cleveland National Air Show officials said Tuesday.

Jim Foster, the air show's assistant director, said the planes had landed as planned Monday in Alaska, but were told by the State Department that their clearance had been revoked. The planes returned to the Soviet Union, Foster said.

The Soviet planes were scheduled to appear Aug. 24-25 in Westfield, Mass., then Aug. 31-Sept. 2 in Cleveland. Other September shows were planned for Mankato, Minn.; Harrisburg, Pa.; Topeka, Kan.; Fort Worth, Texas, and Salinas, Calif.

"I would prefer the timing be a little bit different, but we can't dictate these things, can we," air show director Chuck Newcomb said of Monday's coup by Communist hard-liners that ousted Soviet President Mikhail Gorbachev.

Provo, Orem rated best places in the U.S. to live

NEW YORK (AP) — Provo, Utah, and sister city Orem form the heart of the metropolitan area that Money magazine rates the best place to live in America.

Provo and Orem, with a combined population of more than 125,000, topped Money's fifth annual survey of the nation's 300 largest metropolitan areas.

Last year's leader, Bremerton, Wash., slipped to second place.

Most of the top 10 in the 1991 rankings are in the West, the Midwest and Texas, and nine are new to the top 10.

Following Provo-Orem and Bremerton are: Bryan, Texas; Boise, Idaho; Lubbock, Texas; Billings, Mont.; Fayetteville, Ark.; Madison, Wis.; Austin, Texas; and Lincoln, Neb.

Money extols Provo-Orem as "an area known for unabashed fertility — of its farmland, its Mormon inhabitants, and more recently its industrial development."

The area is the home of WordPerfect, the computer software manufacturer, and more than 80 other software companies.

More than 5,000 people have moved to the area since 1988. They were lured by jobs, easy commuting and affordable housing — a typical three-bedroom house costs $81,000, 18 percent below the median price of an American home.

Money describes the bottom five on the list as "a battered cadre of New England cities grievously wounded by the collapse of manufacturing, real estate and financial services."

Will Cards be birds of different feather before next season?

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Forget all that noise about the St. Louis Cardinals' surprise showing in the NL East. Hold up on the Ozzie Smith speculation. There are lots of other pressing matters to worry about.

Like, artificial turf or grass? Shorter fences? Red caps or blue? Pullovers or button-down jerseys?

Whether or not the Cardinals make any personnel changes in the offseason, it's a sure bet that the times, they are a-changing. Even if it's only cosmetics.

"Everything's in the hopper," manager Joe Torre said. "Maybe we'll make an announcement by the end of the season. If you want to do something, you'll find a reason to do it."

First, the Astroturf question. The current rug was installed in 1984 and is due for replacement, which has prompted urgings from traditionalists for the real green stuff.

Busch Stadium has had artificial turf since 1969 and management likes it because it drains so well that there's almost never has a rainout and their far-flung fan base doesn't have to be concerned about making a long drive for nothing.

Then again, whenever the temperature hits triple digits in the summer the turf can bake an outfielder's feet and the pounding can shorten careers.

"Really, I would like to play on grass," catcher Tom Paganzzi said. "It's a lot easier on your body and it's not nearly as hot, and it's easier to throw runners out on dirt, too."

Paganzzi pointed out that in recent years real grass has shown in most cases to be just as resilient and reliable as Astroturf.

"Today's grass has come so far," Paganzzi said. "They have systems where it can rain and it seems like it's dry in an hour."

Another plus for grass is that most big-time free agents, especially the older ones or those with knee problems, want to play on it because there's less wear and tear.

The Cardinals likely will stick with the status quo, but Torre's on the fence at least for now.

"We're still discussing it," Torre said. "I change my mind from day to day."

Perhaps the most sticky issue is the fences. The Cardinals for several years have had the worst collection of home run hitters in the major leagues, and there's some thought that moving in the fences 10 feet or so in the power alleys — which are 383 feet — will help some of their warning-track sluggers.

"I wish the fences were in when I see Craig Wilson hit one to the wall," said Torre, whose team trails the major leagues with 44 home runs and may be hard-pressed to top Roger Maris' record total of 61.

The down side is it'll help everyone else, too, and other teams have more legitimate home run power, a lot more.

Cardinals general manager Dal

Cards, Mets rained out; two scheduled for today

NEW YORK — The Cardinals-Mets game scheduled for Tuesday night was rained out, and will be made up Wednesday as part of a doubleheader, the Mets announced.

David Cone (10-9) and Sid Fernandez (0-3) will be the pitchers for the Mets in the doubleheader, scheduled to start at 5:10 p.m. EDT. The Cardinals will counter with Bryn Smith (10-7) and Rheal Cormier (1-0).

Maxvill said the organization has been considering moving the fences in for about five years, and said it is considering it again.

"We're probably close to making a decision, but I don't know whether we're close to announcing it yet," Maxvill said.

Consider this: It's been tried before, with not much success.

After hitting only 31 home runs at Busch in 1972, the Cardinals installed a shorter, temporary wall the next season that cut the distance 10 feet from home plate to the power alleys. The team responded with 27 home runs in 1973, only four of which were between the temporary fence and the permanent wall.

The temporary fence came down in 1977.

Anyway, the team usually does just fine without a lot of home runs. Emphasizing an aggressive attack, they're in second place in the National League East without a home-run hitter in double figures.

"I think it might hurt us more than help us," Paganzzi said. "We've got fly-ball pitchers. You can do it if you've got guys who are going to punch out 10 batters a game, but we don't have that type of pitching staff."

Relief pitcher Lee Smith is also against it.

"I've pitched in Fenway Park and Wrigley Field, and you can fit both of those outfields into Busch, and I like it that way," Smith said.

Blue caps are almost certainly coming, which should make souvenir vendors happy. The team last wore them in 1965, and who knows why they're in vogue again, but they are.

"I remember we wore them in the 1964 World Series," said Maxvill, a former Cardinals shortstop. "I don't know why we quit wearing them, maybe because they felt it was just time for a change."

As for the buttoned jerseys, it's about time. The present pullover jerseys are one of the last holdovers of the leisure suit era.

"In the last four or five years, we've seen a lot of changes in uniforms by most clubs, trying to become a bit more in tune with what's going on in general," Maxvill said. "The changes are never radical and neither is what we're considering."

Racer quarterback Tremaine Lewis (right) is ready for a question from Reid Howell of TV-46 during the Murray State football press day on Tuesday.

Racers pushing towards opener

By DAVID RAMEY
Murray Ledger & Times Sports Editor

The push is on for the Murray State Racers. They're pushing each other up and down the depth chart, pushing away an old attitude, and trying to push away poor expectations that don't have the Racers finishing much better than their disappointing 2-9 season in 1990.

Three days into practice in pads, the Racers met the media Tuesday, and reflected on the start of practice and the expectations for the 1991 season — which the Racers kick off on September 7 in Stewart Stadium against Southern Illinois.

"It's going good," said defensive back Beau Brown, one of the few bright spots in 1990. "Everyone seems to have a great attitude."

Defensive end Craig Hobson, one of the Racer co-captains, says off-season conditioning has paid off. "We're off to a good start," Hobson said. "We all worked hard in the off-season, and we're working hard on fundamentals right now. We all have a good positive attitude, and that's important."

Right now, the Racers are all battling for jobs. "That goes on, and the more that goes on, the better you are as a football team," Racer coach Mike Mahoney said. "The less you have of that, it's only natural that you're pretty cozy in your job that you don't push as hard. We have some very interesting scenarios at some positions where people better be on their toes everyday, or there's going to be a new guy in their place the next day."

"It makes for great competition — and a better football team. It's human nature not to be motivated highly if no one's position. And it's hard for a coach to keep doing it over and over again. A good player at your position can do more than a coach screaming at you for hours."

Up and down the depth chart, there are battles. Consider the backfield for example:

- At quarterback, Tremaine Lewis remains at number one, but Kevin Proctor is pushing him.
- At fullback, sophomore David Cox, who runs hard and is built like a mini-van, and senior Conrad Reynolds are in a fight for the top spot.

At tailback, Chris Sypho has been slowed by injuries, and is battling redshirt freshman Tim Bland for the number one job. A whole flock of newcomers are battling to see who is the third string tailback, and who might be moved to flanker.

Bland, a 5-11, 190-pounder from King George, Va. wants on the field.

"I want to play as much as I can play," Bland said. "I only played two years in high school, so I want to get on the field. Chris and I are pushing each other, and that's good because we're both making each other better."

Sypho, who has been hampered by ankle troubles, also sees the competition as helping both of them. "We're pushing each other on a day-to-day basis," Sypho said. "We're all trying to put points on the board, and we feel with the offensive line we have we can do that."

The Racers have been able to concentrate on battling for jobs and getting ready for Southern Illinois — instead of working on conditioning.

"We got a break in the weather, but all of them came back in great shape," Mahoney said. "I think that says a lot about their attitude."

The Racer coaching staff put the squad through an intensive off-season conditioning program that they picked up from the Cincinnati Bengals.

"It was a very tough demanding program that Charlie Carpenter got from the Cincinnati Bengals," Mahoney said. "We were only in it for 30 minutes, but we had guys who were vomiting and couldn't walk, and got them in tremendous physical shape. The guys who have been in our program for a few years say that they're in the best shape they've ever been in."

Mahoney hopes that better physical shape pays off in a better mental attitude.

"75 percent of this game is mental," Mahoney said. "You can have a lot of ability, but if you don't have that confidence or that arrogance and don't believe in yourself, you're not going to have a lot of success."

The Racers will scrimmage tonight at Stewart Stadium, and will have a full scrimmage on Saturday, before school starts on Monday and the squad begins preparing for Southern Illinois.

INSIDE SCOOP

David RAMEY
Ledger & Times Sports Editor

Confidence key to Racer season

The freshness that comes from the Murray State Racers is encouraging, but the numbers from last year always bring you right back to Earth.

Here are some to ponder from the 1990 Racer statistics: 23 percent (third down conversion percentage), 449-202 (average yards in total offense, opponents-MSU), 80 (MSU rushing average per game), 39 percent (passing completion percentage), 11 (total touchdowns), 429-95 (total points).

Or just the scores: 68-0, 45-7, 52-0, 42-0, 49-7, 69-6.

There were two plays that summed up Murray State's 1990 season. They were both fake punts.

The first came in the opener against Louisville. With the Cardinals leading 53-0, U of L decided to run a fake, and picked up a first down.

The second came later on against Northern Illinois. With Northern leading, the Racers faced a fourth down at midfield. MSU faked a punt. Murray's Taylor Colby had a wide-open Eric Ingram streaking down the middle of the field, with no one around him.

Ingram — with no one near him, with the ball right in his hands — dropped the ball.

The slate is now clean inside the football team. But they now the rest of the league, the community and the media doesn't believe the Racers will be much better.

The Racers say they've put the 1990 season behind them. They've learned their lesson.

"The first thing is that you take a look at yourself as a head coach," head coach Mike Mahoney said yesterday. Then he grinned.

"Everybody else did."

Mahoney's under the microscope this season, and he knows it. He spent a lot of time in the off-season replaying 1990 in his mind.

"You and your assistants look inside, and say 'What did we do. Did we do something wrong in our planning, or in our preparation?' You go over every little thing that you're doing, and try to correct those things."

And why did all the wheels fall off in 1990?

"I don't know where the whole answer lies. I spent a lot of time talking to the players about what they thought happen," Mahoney said. "One of the things that came out of it was they felt there were a lot of guys who didn't want to be here."

So a lot of those guys are gone. Mahoney isn't putting the blame on a few bad apples, but after a 2-9 season, the Racer mental state of mind is a precarious thing.

Those who have stayed through a grueling conditioning program are confident. How confident they will be on September 8, after they open with Southern Illinois, is another matter.

This team's confidence is more important than any play that's called, any defensive assignment that's made, any shift in coaching duties that has occurred. The confidence factor will determine if this is another 2-9 football team, or if they can get back in the Murray State tradition.

"I didn't see a 2-9 football team when I got here," said

Long returns to Pittsburgh camp

By The Associated Press

Pittsburgh Steelers guard Terry Long joked with his teammates and ran a few plays at his first practice since trying to kill himself following a positive steroids test.

Long, 32, faces a possible four-game suspension for the positive test results. He's allowed to practice pending his appeal to NFL commissioner Paul Tagliabue.

Long declined interview requests at Tuesday's practice, but he said he felt "all right" following his first workout since the second week of training camp.

Offensive line coach Jack Henry said Long looked somewhat rusty. He ran a few plays with the offense at Three Rivers Stadium but concentrated on individual drills.

"He looked quick," Henry said. "And he showed us that he has fresh legs. He's probably still a little rusty mentally. He looks like he hasn't been in training camp, which he hasn't."

"He was joking around, cutting up people like he hasn't missed a beat," offensive tackle Tunch Ilkin said. "That was nice to see."

On July 23, Long learned he had tested positive for steroids. He was hospitalized the next night after he started a car in a locked garage and swallowed rat poison at his house in Franklin Park, a Pittsburgh suburb, according to borough police.

Steelers' doctors cleared Long to return to practice earlier this week.

Another guy feeling pretty good on Tuesday was punter Chris Mohr.

Mohr admitted having trouble getting to sleep Sunday and Monday as Tuesday's cuts loomed. On Tuesday, Mohr, who joined the Bills as a free agent, learned he had survived the mandatory cut to 60 players and will start the season as the club's punter.

"I feel like a ton of bricks has been lifted off me," Mohr said after the Bills made six moves to meet the cutdown deadline.

MIAMI — Miami Dolphins quarterback Dan Marino has agreed to perhaps the richest contract in NFL history. Neither Dolphins management nor Marino would release details of the contract beyond saying it was a five-year extension of his current pact which will pay him $1.6 million this season.

Several newspapers reported that Marino and his agent Marvin Demoff negotiated a contract for $25 million, including a $3 million signing bonus. That would move him past San Francisco quarterback Joe Montana, who makes $3.5 million a year, as the highest-paid player in the NFL.

PITTSBURGH — Pittsburgh Steelers guard Terry Long returned to practice nearly one month after two suicide attempts and a positive steroids test. Long, who faces a possible four-game suspension for the positive test results, is allowed to practice pending his appeal to NFL commissioner Paul Tagliabue.

On July 23, the 32-year-old learned he had tested positive for steroids. He was hospitalized the next night after he started a car in a locked garage and swallowed rat poison at his home in Franklin Park, Pa., according to borough police.

CLEVELAND — A writer who filed a lawsuit against the Cleveland Browns alleging he was abused by players in the team's locker room said he will receive a $21,000 settlement. Ken Myers, 33, who has covered the Browns for USA Today, filed suit Sept. 14 in Cuyahoga County Common Pleas Court claiming he was abused and prevented from doing his job during two incidents in the locker room of the team's former practice quarters at Baldwin-Wallace College in 1989. Myers claimed six players hurled equipment at him and used foul language toward him Dec. 29, 1989, and Jan. 10, 1990. The outbursts came after players learned that Myers had written a story for the Akron Beacon Journal based on an interview with a woman who had been charged in 1988 with promoting prostitution. Bo's rehab big boost to minor franchises

CHICAGO (AP) — Wherever Bo Jackson winds up in the minor leagues, it's going to mean big-league dollars in his pocket — even if he plays only a couple of games as a designated hitter. Jackson has been pronounced fit to return to baseball and will start a minor league rehabilitation assignment at a Chicago White Sox farm club to be announced today.

Jackson's contract calls for him to be paid $10,000 for every major league game in which he's available for in addition to the $700,000 he's guaranteed for 1991.

The White Sox's minor league affiliates all said they wanted Jackson at their parks. Wherever he goes, Jackson is expected to pack the ballpark. "Oh, man, you're not kidding. He'd help us enormously," said Joe Scrivner, general manager of the White Sox' Class AA affiliate in Birmingham, Ala., where Jackson has a home. "I'd love to have him," said Scrivner, whose Barons won the first half of the Southern League season but are currently in last place.

The baseball-football player suffered a hip injury on Jan. 13 while a running back in the NFL playoffs for the Los Angeles Raiders. The White Sox picked Jackson up after the Kansas City Royals deemed the injury career threatening and released the outfielder this past spring.

Dr. James Andrews, Jackson's Birmingham physician, flew to Chicago on Monday for Jackson's monthly checkup, and he and the White Sox medical staff, led by Dr. James Boscardin, agreed Jackson was healthy enough to play.

Since Jackson sustained what was diagnosed as vascular necrosis of the left hip, he has undergone daily treatment and spent several months on crutches.

Jackson has been participating in normal pregame drills and batting practice with the White Sox since mid-July. "He's made great strides and it would be nice to get him back," White Sox manager Jeff Torborg said Monday. "He's a great athlete."

Besides the Barons, two Class A affiliates — South Bend, Ind., and Sarasota, Fla. — have been mentioned for Jackson's rehab.

Clark's blast quiets fans; Reds, Braves split a pair

By The Associated Press

Will Clark had a little incentive against the Astros. He wanted to shut out Houston's fans. "They were all over me," Clark said. "They had a blast."

Clark had the last blast Tuesday night. He hit a game-tying double in the sixth inning, then broke a 3-3 tie with a grand slam in the seventh as San Francisco won 9-3 and ended a three-game losing streak.

"When I came in after the first inning, they were cursing and I told them to keep it clean," Clark said. "Any time you're at a visiting park you expect some of that, but with kids all around I don't like to hear cursing."

With the score tied at 3, Dave Anderson singled and Jimmy Jones (6-8) walked Kevin Bass and Willie McGee. Rob Mallicoat relieved and Clark hit his second pitch for his third career grand slam. It gave him 23 hits in his last 52 at-bats, a .442 average. "After I hit the grand slam, they didn't say a word," Clark said. "They just hung their heads."

Kevin Mitchell homered on the next pitch, chasing Mallicoat. It also was the 24th home run for Mitchell.

"They've got a heck of a lineup," Astros manager Art Howe said. "They are always one swing away from changing the outlook of a game."

In other games, Los Angeles beat San Diego 6-4, Philadelphia beat Pittsburgh 6-5, Cincinnati and Atlanta split a doubleheader as the Reds won 8-2 and lost 5-1, and Montreal beat Chicago 4-2. St. Louis' game at New York was postponed by rain.

Kelly Downs (10-4) won his eighth consecutive decision since June 5, pitching one inning of one-hit relief. Jeff Brantley pitched three innings for his 11th save.

Erickson bounces back with league-high 16th

By The Associated Press

Scott Erickson became the major leagues' first 16-game winner with a little help from his friends. Mark Langston might have 16 wins, too — if he had Erickson's friends.

Erickson, struggling to find the form he had before straining his right elbow in June, gave up five runs; three earned, in 5 1-3 innings against Seattle. But he got more than enough offensive support to improve to 16-5 as Minnesota beat the Mariners 10-5 on Tuesday night.

Langston, pitching on his 31st birthday, was much sharper than Erickson, allowing only five hits in eight innings. But an error led to a pair of third-inning runs and the California left-hander took the loss in Oakland's 3-2 victory.

Erickson (16-5) and the Twins both say he's healthy, even though he has a 6.88 ERA in his eight starts since coming off the disabled list.

"That's the best arm speed he's had since the All-Star break," pitching coach Dick Such said. "I shouldn't have to answer any more questions about his health."

"I got a few balls up and they hit them," Erickson said. "My problems are more mechanical now. I've got no pain, no soreness. I'm happy. The velocity is coming back."

Kent Hrbek had a three-run double for the Twins and Mike Pagliarulo singled in the go-ahead run in the fourth off Erik Hanson (7-6) as the Twins moved 4½ games ahead of second-place Chicago in the West.

In other AL games, it was Baltimore 8, Texas 6; Toronto 3, Milwaukee 1; Detroit 5, Chicago 0, and New York 7, Kansas City 3. Cleveland and Boston had a doubleheader postponed by rain.

Worker says former boss reimbursed his contribution

HITCHINS, Ky. (AP) — A construction worker says he was reimbursed by his former employer when he gave the maximum legal contribution to Martha Wilkinson's campaign for governor last year, but the employer says that didn't happen. David Clevenger, said his ex-boss, Jackie Ruth, president of Ruth Paving Corp. told him to write a $4,000 check to Wilkinson's campaign last September.

Ruth said he did not direct Clevenger to make a contribution to Wilkinson and that Ruth Paving did not reimburse Clevenger. Wilkinson, the wife of Gov. Wallace Wilkinson, withdrew from the Democratic primary on May 10, saying she had no chance to win.

According to a finance report for the Wilkinson campaign, Clevenger's contribution was made on Sept. 13, 1990; his occupation was listed as "foreman."

Another Ruth foreman, Warren Griffith of Grayson, also was listed as giving $4,000 on that date. In all, Ruth family members and employees of companies operated by the family gave $19,000 to Wilkinson on Sept. 13.

State law prohibits political contributions from being made in someone else's name.

Earlier this year, three officers of a Lexington architectural firm were indicted on charges of making contributions to the Wilkinson campaign in the names of employees. Special prosecutors for the state are continuing to investigate possible third-party or illegal corporate contributions to candidates in this year's campaign.

Clevenger said Ruth knew he didn't have the money to make a contribution to Wilkinson. He said Ruth told him that Ruth Paving would write him a check to cover the contribution and the additional income tax he would owe.

Two or three days after their conversation, Clevenger said, he received a check from Ruth Paving.

According to a copy of the check stub, the gross amount was $6,902; the net amount, after money was withheld for taxes, was $4,000.34. The top of the stub says, "paid through 9-1-90."

Clevenger also produced a copy of a receipt showing that he deposited $4,000.34 in his checking account on Sept. 11, 1990. The canceled $4,000 check he wrote to the Wilkinson campaign was dated Sept. 10, 1990.

Ruth said the check to Clevenger represented a bonus for "multiple projects we did out of Olive Hill. We worked on multiple projects that year."

Clevenger said he had never been paid a bonus by Ruth Paving except at Christmas.

The Courier-Journal contacted Clevenger during a survey of road company employees who contributed to Martha Wilkinson's campaign. Clevenger told the newspaper he agreed to talk because "I never did feel it was right to begin with. I'm not trying to start trouble. I'm just trying to tell the truth."

Clevenger also said he was upset because Ruth didn't live up to his agreement to compensate him for the income tax due on the $4,000.

He said he approached Ruth and asked for the $840 he calculated that he would owe. But he said Ruth refused, saying that the total amount of the check, $6,902, fully compensated Clevenger for the donation and any taxes.

Soviets launch rescue mission

CAPE TOWN, South Africa (AP) — A Soviet Ilyushin-76 heavy transport jet left before dawn today to try to rescue more than 170 Soviet scientists and technicians stranded in Antarctica.

The Mikhail Somov research ship, with 222 Soviets aboard, has been stuck since last month in ice about 35 miles from the Soviet research base of Molodetzchnaya. The Soviets cannot return to the base because it is filled to capacity.

The aircraft was expected to arrive back in Cape Town on Thursday with 172 of the ship's passengers, most of whom are Soviet researchers who were headed home after months of research in Antarctica.

A crew of 50 was to remain on the research vessel. Helicopters have been airlifting people from the ship since Monday.

The rescue mission is dangerous for several reasons.

Antarctica has only two to three hours of light each day this time of year, so if the flight is delayed the plane might have to land in darkness.

The aircraft will probably have to land on an icy strip built earlier this week for the rescue. If the weather is bad there, the plane will have to go to another landing strip about 370 miles away.

The plane cannot carry enough fuel to complete the 5,000-mile round trip without refueling.

Soviet scientist Arthur Chilingarov led the flight crew of 15 that included N. D. Talikov, one of the designers of the Ilyushin, which was built to handle polar conditions.

Lake Barkley still popular after 25 years

LAKE CITY, Ky. (AP) — Lake Barkley turned 25 Tuesday, continuing to grow in popularity with tourists.

More than 111 million people have visited the area since Aug. 20, 1966, when Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey joined dignitaries from Kentucky, Tennessee and the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers to dedicate the lock and dam, powerhouse, natural resources office and a canal joining Lake Barkley with Kentucky Lake.

Construction began in 1957, and the lake was ready for use a month before the dedication.

Back then, there were 36 boat ramps. Now, Lake Barkley visitors can use 75 ramps, 370 developed campsites, 317 picnic sites, nine picnic shelters, nine beach areas, 29 restroom facilities, nine shower houses, 13 playgrounds, seven commercial marinas and three visitor centers.

Last year, visitors pumped $54.9 million into the local economy, according to an estimate from the Corps.

Resource Manager Wayne Lanier said no special activities were planned Tuesday but an open house and tours of the powerhouse will be scheduled, probably next month.

Dear Abby

(EDITOR'S NOTE: Abby is on a two-week vacation. Following is a selection of some of her favorite past letters.)
DEAR ABBY: I am a 55-year-old woman with a problem I've never seen in your column.
 I have been going with this man for six years. He is 43, and he says he can't marry me because he promised his mama before she died three years ago that he wouldn't get married until his daddy got married, as she didn't want his daddy to be left all alone. His daddy hasn't got anybody to marry, and he isn't even looking.

 Abby, I am no spring chicken, and I need to know how I can get this man either to let me quit him or marry me.
NO SPRING CHICKEN
 IN ADA, OKLA.
DEAR NO: Only a dumb cluck would coop herself up waiting for her boyfriend's daddy to marry. Get another rooster on the roster.

DEAR ABBY: I have been living with Don for two years. I am 22 and he is 25.
 I hear girls at the office talking about bringing covered dishes to family gatherings, going to his folks' or hers for dinner, or for the weekend or the holidays, and I get more heartsick every day.
 I've begun to realize what marriage is all about. It's really belonging to someone who loves you enough to want to make you a member of his family.
 Don is always telling me what a wonderful arrangement we have and how much he loves me.

 The past several months, I've been asking myself: "If it's so wonderful and he loves me so much, why do we lie, sneak around and let people assume we are married?"
 Why doesn't he ask me to marry him and become a member of his family? They don't even know I exist.
HEARTSICK

DEAR HEARTSICK: Because he doesn't want a legal commitment. And if he is able to get all the benefits of marriage with none of the responsibilities, who can blame him? I am assuming he didn't kidnap you. You agreed to live with him without marriage. You walked into it of your own free will, and you're free to walk out. Why don't you? I think you're ready.
DEAR ABBY: When I first heard about topless swimsuits for girls, I thought it was just a lot of talk, but yesterday I actually saw one for sale in a store!
 If women would consider wearing a topless swimsuit in public, we have reached a new low in our civilization — even lower than the decadence that preceded the fall of the Roman empire.
 Topless swimsuits? Who have we lost all sense of decency? How comes if we are bombed back to the Stone Age? What's left to save?
MOTHER OF GIRLS

DEAR MOTHER: The bottoms.

 Abby's family recipes are included in her cookbooklet. Send a long, self-addressed envelope, plus check or money order for $3.95 ($4.50 in Canada) to: Dear Abby, Cookbooklet, P.O. Box 447, Mount Morris, Ill. 61054. (Postage is included.)

Dr. Gott
 By Peter H. Gott, M.D.
DEAR DR. GOTT: I've been nauseated every day for the past two months. An upper GI revealed my stomach juices backing up into my esophagus for which my doctor prescribed Reglan. The medication doesn't help. Do you have any advice?
DEAR READER: You appear to be suffering heartburn and dyspepsia because of reflux — the backwash of stomach acid into the sensitive esophagus.
 Reglan, a drug that promotes gastric emptying, is suitable only for short-term use; in your case, it's ineffective anyway. Therefore, I recommend the use of antacids (to neutralize the acid before it causes symptoms) or — if this doesn't do the trick — Tagamet or Zantac, two medications that reduce the production of gastric acid. Ordinarily, these medications are quite effective in controlling the symptoms of reflux. Ask your doctor about this.
 If, after trying this therapy, your symptoms are not relieved, seek a consultation with a gastroenterologist. Such a specialist can perform additional tests, such as esophagogastroscopy (looking into your stomach with a tube) to identify the source of your problem and give you further advice.
 To give you more information, I am sending you a free copy of my Health Report "Hiatal Hernia." Other readers who would like a copy should send $1.25 plus a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope to P.O. Box 91369, Cleveland, OH 44101-3369. Be sure to mention the title.
DEAR DR. GOTT: I've been diagnosed with inflammatory bursitis in the left thigh and leg. An orthopedic surgeon gave me a cortisone injection that was unsuccessful, and an internal-medicine specialist gave me Motrin that didn't help. Where do I go from here?
DEAR READER: Back to the orthopedic specialist. If you do have bursitis, a common inflammation of the joint covering, you may be helped by further cortisone injections, physical therapy with special exercises or ultrasound treatments. The orthopedic surgeon can coordinate your care.
 In the event that your hip and leg pain have another cause (such as tendon inflammation or a calcium deposit), the specialist can test you further with X-rays and blood tests and order additional therapy, such as stronger medicine or an operation to remove the inflamed tissue.
