'Sting' targets political corruption

By MARK R. CHELLGREN
Associated Press Writer

FRANKFORT, Ky. — Records of more than a dozen current and former legislators have been gathered in a growing federal investigation of political corruption in Kentucky.

The subpoenas obtained Wednesday demand records of lawmakers' pay, travel expenses, campaign finance and honoraria be turned over to a federal grand jury in Louisville.

And an aide said former Gov. Wallace Wilkinson also received a subpoena to supply records for investigators.

Federal authorities declined comment on the investigation Wednesday.

However, highly placed sources told The Associated Press that a sweep by more than a half dozen FBI agents through the Capitol complex on Tuesday was the end of the investigation rather than its beginning.

The sources, who demanded anonymity, said the sting has involved the work of some 30 agents and produced audio and video recordings and other information obtained through electronic surveillance techniques.

Gov. Brereton Jones said he was told evidence included wiretaps and the investigation involved banking and racing legislation. Jones said he could not recall if legislation enacted in 1992 was included.

Jones, owner of a thoroughbred horse farm in Woodford County, won passage this session of a Breeders' Award Fund for race horses.

Jones said the two U.S. Attorneys for Kentucky, Joseph Whittle and Karen Caldwell, told him his administration was not a target.

Wilkinson spokesman Doug Alexander also said the former governor was told he was not a target of the investigation.

Those whose records were subpoenaed were House Speaker Don Blandford, D-Philpot, Senate President Pro Tem John "Eck" Rose, D-Winchester, Rep. Jerry Bronger, D-Louisville; House Majority Floor Leader Greg Stumbo, D-Prestonsburg; House Majority

MSU offers more immunizations after measles case confirmed

Murray State University students who missed getting immunized for measles on Wednesday will have another opportunity on Friday, April 3.

On Wednesday, 1,103 students were immunized. Another 1,500 doses of the vaccine will be available Friday. The second day for immunizations was scheduled after university health officials confirmed one case of the measles among the student population.

Roberta Garfield, administrator of student health services, said students will be immunized by student health services and the Purchase District Health Department from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. on the third floor of the Curris Center.

She explained that Dr. Clarkson Palmer, communicable disease branch manager in the Cabinet for Human Resources in Frankfort, recommended that MSU provide immunization for its students. Measles is currently at an epidemic stage in Kentucky.

A highly contagious disease, measles can result in serious complications, particularly in young adults. Early symptoms include a red rash, fever, runny nose, red eyes and a cough.

Garfield said college students born after 1956 should have two doses of live measles vaccine in order to be protected. She noted, however, that many have not received the second immunization since that recommendation is a recent (1989) one.

She urged students who have not received a second live measles immunization to report to the Curris Center on Friday "so we can prevent an epidemic on this campus."

Bingo bill passes as lawmakers wrap up

By BRUCE SCHREINER
Associated Press Writer

FRANKFORT, Ky. — The General Assembly has voted to give the attorney general the authority, but not the money, to regulate bingo.

That was from a stack of bills lawmakers passed Wednesday before going home.

Other bills sent to Gov. Brereton Jones included a code of ethics for executive-branch employees and a measure making it a crime to stalk a victim, one of several bills designed to combat domestic violence.

PLO asks for UN protection following clash with Israelis

TUNIS, Tunisia (AP) — The PLO today charged that Israel was "attacking hospitals" to arrest some of those wounded in a bloody clash a day earlier between Palestinians and Israeli troops in the Gaza Strip.

The Israeli military denied the allegations.

A top Palestine Liberation Organization official said the group had asked the U.N. Security Council to meet urgently and protect Palestinians in the occupied territories.

The Gaza clash occurred Wednesday when Israeli troops opened fire in a refugee camp market after being attacked by firebombs, U.N. officials and Arab reporters said.

They said four Palestinians were killed and more than 50 were wounded at Rafah. The PLO charged that at least 10 Palestinians were killed and 50 were wounded.

By either count, it was the bloodiest single confrontation between Palestinians and troops in the occupied lands in three years.

Bassam Abu Sharif, counselor to PLO leader Yasser Arafat, claimed today that the violence was continuing.

'The good earth' vanishing at alarming rate

UNITED NATIONS (AP) — The future of the world's food supply is threatened by damage mankind has done to more than a tenth of the Earth's fertile soil since 1945, a U.N. report says.

That's an area the size of China and India combined. The report, called an "early warning" for a world whose population is expected to double in about 50 years, is the first comprehensive look at the state of the Earth's arable land.

Overgrazing by livestock, inefficient farming practices and deforestation are to blame for the loss of fertile land, the U.N. Environment Program study found. Urbanization and pollution are other factors.

Scientists fear that as the Earth's population grows from some 5.5 billion now to 10 billion by the year 2050, the loss of fertile land will lead to a permanent global food shortage.

"As land becomes scarce, how are we going to make sure that the common man in a developing country is able to get the food that he needs?" Visvanathan Rajagopalan, a World Bank vice president who heads its group on agricultural research, asked Wednesday.

The U.N. Environmental Program study is titled the Global Assessment of Soil Degradation and intends to establish benchmarks so the rate of soil deterioration can be measured more precisely.

"We are going to have to feed an increasingly large population on a finite base of arable land," soil researcher Dirk Bryant said Wednesday.

"A conservative assessment is that you try to save that base," said Bryant, of the World Resources Institute.

About 3 billion acres of land have suffered moderate to extreme degradation since 1945, accounting for 10.5 percent of the planet's fertile land, the study found. Of that land, 740 million acres are severely degraded and will be useless unless a "major international financial and technical" campaign is launched to reclaim them, Bryant said.

"These findings are an early warning that we are losing potential agricultural productivity," said M.S. Swaminathan, an expert on food production who has helped India triple its wheat harvest since 1960.

He also chairs the editorial board of the World Resources Institute.

The damage to arable land is only measured in terms of deterioration since 1945; the report does not even attempt to include lands lost due to the practices of ancient civilizations or most of the colonial era.

The report said the vast majority of the damaged land is in Asia, with 1.1 billion acres, and in Africa, with 792 million acres.

Central America has the highest proportion of damaged land, 24 percent of its total. About 17 percent of Europe's land, 14 percent of Africa's and 12 percent of Asian's soil is degraded.

Only 4.4 percent of North America's soil has been damaged or lost, the report says.

Although the use of fertilizers and high-yield crops has helped offset the loss of agricultural land and prevented food shortages so far, ecologists say the dual trends of declining farmland and increasing world population will eventually lead to a supply crisis.

In addition, those so-called "green revolution" techniques may be losing their effectiveness.

"Some of the scientists are beginning to say that even with all the modern inputs — fertilizer, pesticides, water, making credit available — you are unable to maintain yields at the current level," Rajagopalan said.

About one-fourth of America's cropland is eroding at an unsustainable rate, according to the U.S. Soil Conservation Service.

Water erosion is serious in parts of the Mississippi and Missouri valleys, California's central valley, and in the hilly Palouse of Washington state.

Salinization is a serious problem in parts of the southwest.

Libyan rioters attack embassies

TRIPOLI, Libya (AP) — Libyan students threw firebombs and smashed furniture at the Venezuelan Embassy today and attacked other missions of countries that voted to impose U.N. sanctions on Libya over the bombing of two airliners.

Morocco, nations that abstained Tuesday when the U.N. Security Council for only the second time imposed punitive sanctions on a country for flouting its demands on peace and security. The first was Iraq after it invaded Kuwait. The official Libyan news agency JANA said dozens of protesters were injured in clashes with riot police. Western diplomats said no diplomatic personnel were injured. About 300 students scaled a wall and broke through a gate at the Venezuelan Embassy compound and threw gasoline bombs that burned four rooms inside the main building, Ambassador Miguel Raldi said. Demonstrators also marched out side the embassies of France, Italy, Belgium, Austria and Hungary. All are Security Council members that supported the sanctions. The United States and Britain, which pressed hardest for the sanctions, do not have embassies in Tripoli. But missions that represent their interests in Libya were among those attacked.

Local News Roundup

ACCIDENT RESULTS IN INJURIES

Both drivers of two vehicles which collided on Ky. 129, about five and a half miles south of Dukedom Tuesday at 12:30 p.m., were transported to Parkway Regional Hospital in Fulton for treatment. According to reports, two vehicles, the first a 1977 Toyota driven by Thomas E. Johnson Jr., 18, of South Fulton, Tenn., collided with a 1992 Mercury driven by James K. Emily, 47, of Fulton. Both vehicles were traveling north on Ky. 129. Emily was attempting to make a left turn as Johnson was passing another vehicle and struck Emily in the side. The accident was investigated by Trooper Richard Newsome.

KSP RESPONDS TO TWO-CAR ACCIDENT

Ricky D. Stampler, 35, of Rt. 5 Mayfield was taken to Mayfield Community Hospital with head injuries Monday as the result of an accident on Ky. 121. Stampler, who was driving a 1973 Mercury, was following a vehicle traveling south on Ky. 121. As the vehicle slowed, Stampler applied his brakes. According to reports, the left brake locked, causing him to cross the center line and strike a vehicle driven by Steven Retiha, 72, Rt. 2, Paris, Tenn., who was driving a 1989 Ford northbound on Ky. 121. Retiha, who was wearing a seat belt, sustained no injuries. Stampler was not wearing a seat belt. The accident was investigated by Trooper Richard Newsome.

News of the World

ADMINISTRATION PUSHING AID PACKAGE

WASHINGTON — The Bush administration is pushing its new aid package for Russia and other former Soviet republics to Congress and the public as genuine and also vital for U.S. security. "If we do not do what we can to help democracy succeed in the lands of the old Soviet Union our failure to act will carry a far higher price," President Bush said Wednesday in announcing that the United States would help finance a $24 billion international aid fund. With Russian President Boris N. Yeltsin due to confront his parliament in less than a week, it was extraordinarily important to send him a clear signal of our support," Secretary of State James A. Baker III said. Even as Bush announced the program, however, Democratic challenger Bill Clinton accused him of moving too slowly on economic and humanitarian aid. In a New York speech, the presidential candidate called Bush's approach "reactive, rudderless and erratic."

HOUSE REJECTS S&L CLEANUP FINANCING

WASHINGTON — Bush administration officials and congressional leaders are scrambling to keep the savings and loan cleanup going after the House decisively rejected legislation financing the program for another six months. By a 298-125 vote Wednesday, large majorities of both parties ignored their leaders' advice and defeated a bill that would have given the Resolution Trust Corp., the bailout agency, enough money to operate through September. The RTC still can seize insolvent institutions and keep them open under government control — a tactic it has adopted in similar delays. But it cannot proceed with takeover deals to protect depositors in the failed thrifts without legislation. Rep. Henry B. Gonzalez, D-Texas, the chairman of the House Banking Committee, promised "whatever steps necessary to keep ... insured depositors protected." To buy time, he said he would introduce a stopgap measure to finance the RTC until May 15.

A LONGER LIST OF CHECK ABUSERS

WASHINGTON — After identifying the House's worst bad check writers, the chamber's ethics committee is focusing on naming more than 300 others who wrote at least one overdraft at the members' bank over 39 months. The ethics committee on Wednesday punished 17 current and five former House members by labeling them as abusers of their checking privileges at the now-closed bank. Nineteen of the 22 are Democrats. Two lawmakers on a preliminary list were dropped. The abusers' names were published earlier this month by The Associated Press and other news organizations, most of them identified by congressional sources. The longer list is expected to take several weeks to complete. It could have a devastating political impact, forcing new rounds of apologies from members whose free overdraft protection was not available to their constituents.

MAJOR TAKES AN EGG IN BATH

BATH, England — Prime Minister John Major, to try to avert defeat in the April 9 election, was struck by an egg and braved hecklers as he engaged in a bit of street politics. In the country town of Thornbury on Wednesday, the embattled Conservative Party leader leaped on a soapbox, jabbed his finger at a heckler and shouted, "I'll tell you why we're going to win ... because we have a vision." In Bath, while Major was campaigning with the local party chairman, a young woman hurled an egg at the prime minister, hitting him on the back of the neck. Major, 49, pressed on through the crowd, shaking hands, as an aide wiped the dripping yolk off his suit.

Tsongas die-hards say 'anything can happen'

By KAREN BALL
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON — The Tsongas diehards running a campaign without a candidate dream that the Democratic race stays topsy-turvy. If it does, anything could happen. "If we make enough noise, we think we can get him back in," said Janet Ritchie, an Orlando, Fla., businesswoman who turned her company's toll-free number into a hotline to draft Paul Tsongas back into the race.

"This is such a bizarre election," added Jim Armenakis, a New York lawyer keeping that state's Tsongas campaign alive even though the candidate dropped out two weeks ago. "Nobody has a clue to how this thing will play out."

Tsongas is doing nothing to squelch their efforts. In Washington on Wednesday to speak to a business group, he was coy about getting back in the race.

"I don't know what's going to happen," Tsongas said, telling the group his only immediate plans were to enter a national swimming championship in May in Florida.

"That's my focus — I'm totally an athlete between now and then," he said. He joked later, "If I do well in Fort Lauderdale, I'll reconsider."

Tsongas said he might step up only if enough Democrats wanted him and they grabbed on to his no-pain, no-gain economic message.

"If you asked me today, the answer is no. ... It would have to be under circumstances where I thought I could govern ... that you had a Democratic Party ready to walk down the path I've chosen." Tsongas supporters are waging campaigns in 25 states in an effort to get him back in the race.

Atlantis lands in Florida

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) — Atlantis glided through the dawn and landed in Florida today with seven astronauts who spent more than a week in orbit studying Earth's atmosphere.

The shuttle touched down at Kennedy Space Center at 6:23 a.m., its arrival heralded by the customary twin sonic booms. Commander Charles Bolden Jr. brought the spaceship to a clean stop on the concrete runway.

"Welcome back to the planet, Atlantis. Congratulations on an outstanding flight," Mission Control's Sidney Gutierrez told Bolden.

More than 150 people gathered at Kennedy's landing strip to welcome Atlantis home, including NASA's new chief, Daniel S. Goldin. It was the first time he had ever witnessed a shuttle landing.

"When that Atlantis touched down on the runway, I got teary-eyed. It was just an emotional experience," Goldin said. "God, it was great."

About 300 guests, including the astronauts' families, had to watch from eight miles away because of the wind direction — officials feared shuttle fumes might blow toward the crowd. The sky was hazy at landing time.

Atlantis circled the world 143 times during its nine-day voyage and traveled 3.7 million miles.

Bill Ark, D-Hodgenville; former Democratic Rep. Bill McBee of Burlington; former Democratic Sen. Helen Garrett of Paducah; and Sen. Ed Ford, D-Cynthiana.

LeMaster and Bronger are the chairmen of the Business Organizations and Professions Committees, which deal with issues such as horse racing legislation. McBee is a former chairman of the House committee.

Several lawmakers, including Blandford, Rose, Stumbo and Ford, said they received individual subpoenas for their own campaign finance records.

"It's obvious to me there's been some evidence that's been presented to a grand jury that's substantive, or else the United States attorney would not have taken this action," Stumbo said Wednesday.

Senate Republican Floor Leader John Rogers said his personal campaign records were also subpoenaed.

Agents questioned several people about a 1988 trip to Florida taken with several lobbyists. And records of all seven legislators who took the trip have been subpoenaed.

Blandford said FBI agents asked him "just general questions about horse racing legislation over the past few years" but didn't mention any particular legislation.

Blandford also said agents played an investigative videotape for him during the interview Tuesday. Calling the tape "cloudy and noisy," Blandford said he could not identify anyone on the tape, including himself, and did not recognize any voice.

Blandford said he had done nothing to fear the interest of investigators.

Among the witnesses before the Louisville grand jury Wednesday was former state Sen. Frank Miller, a Bowling Green Democrat. Miller also worked as director of state and local relations for Wilkinson's administration. Miller, now a lobbyist for a mental health group, was chairman of the Senate Banking and Insurance Committee before his defeat for re-election in 1988.

Bingo bill passes...

House 81-7 was devoid of a funding scheme.

"We had a full loaf but now we're down to a tenth of a loaf," said Sen. Dan Seum, D-Louisville and the bill's sponsor. "But a tenth of a loaf is better than no loaf at all."

Whether the bill has any practical effect will depend on voters, who will decide in November whether to legalize charitable gaming. A circuit judge in Simpson County recently declared the state's charitable gaming law unconstitutional.

The bill also would impose a $5,000 daily limit for bingo prizes, forbid charities to hire a management company and require cash and receipts to be handled only by the charity's officers or employees.

Slaying victims' survivor sues police

Says officers ignored murderer's threats

By BOB LEWIS
Associated Press Writer

OWENSBORO, Ky. — The city of Henderson, Ky., its police department and five present or former officers are accused in a lawsuit of violating two women's civil rights by not protecting them from a man who killed them.

William Septer of Henderson alleged in a complaint filed Monday in U.S. District Court that his wife, Lavita Sue Septer, and her daughter, Marla Payne, were deprived of their right to equal protection under the law.

Mrs. Payne's husband, Wendell Payne, shot and killed both women on March 31, 1991, after repeatedly threatening to do so. Payne had even told officers that they would be unable to stop him, the lawsuit contends.

The lawsuit alleges that police ignored not only Payne's explicit threats to kill the women and other family members but also failed to provide Mrs. Payne protection from him when she sought it.

Septer contends police violated the 5th and 9th amendments to the U.S. Constitution "through malperformance and nonperformance of their official duties and through individual attempts to circumvent the due administration of justice."

The lawsuit seeks unspecified damages from the city, its police department, former Police Chief Larry Ivie, Police Lt. Jerry Summers, Police detectives Tony Fanok and G. Frank Williams and officer Bryan K. Abell.

According to the complaint, Marla Payne talked to police twice on March 28, but they failed to explain her rights as a domestic violence victim, or programs and shelters available to protect her. They also failed to tell her she could seek an arrest warrant against her estranged husband and obtain a protective court order, the complaint said.

A Kentucky State Police officer picked up Payne the night of March 28 for questioning by Henderson police. But when he was turned over to city police officers, he was ordered released by Summers — his brother-in-law, the lawsuit said.

In an interview later with police, Wendell Payne threatened to "cut her (expletive) head off," but police did not take him into custody, the suit contends.

After Payne shot the women at the Paynes' home, he killed himself.

The Kentucky Attorney General's office issued a report on the handling of the situation last December which harshly criticized Henderson's police department and Ivie in particular. The report recommended that a grand jury examine Ivie's role in the matter.

A Henderson County grand jury inquiry into circumstances surrounding the slayings ended last month with no indictments.

Jones signs domestic violence bill

FRANKFORT, Ky. (AP) — A bill that expands Kentucky's domestic violence law, extending part of its protection to unmarried couples, was signed into law Wednesday by Gov. Brereton Jones.

House Bill 115 also would make it a crime to violate a court's emergency protective order.

Jones also signed Senate Bill 193, which would allow teachers to use religious references from historical texts.

Other bills signed were:

- SB56, to allow voter approval of solid waste management plans in some counties.
- SB80, to have judges consider evidence of domestic violence in determining child custody and visitation.
- SB219, repealing a two-year limitation on reinstatement of corporations whose charters were dissolved or revoked by the secretary of state.
- HB16, a new open-meetings law.

- HB106, a new open-records law.
- HB256, to authorize shock probation for abuse victims imprisoned for shooting their abusers.
- HB352, to raise the legal age for buying cigarettes and other tobacco products to 18 from 16.
- HB401, to adopt the updated Internal Revenue Code.
- HB465, to set stricter standards for state licensure of a chemical-weapons incinerator.
- HB631, to permit DNA testing of imprisoned sex offenders.
- HB637, relating to paternity affidavits.
- HB652, to create a Kentucky Military Affairs Commission.
- HB738, to establish the West Kentucky Corp., an economic-development agency.
- HB800, to increase membership of the Commission on Fire Protection Personnel Standards and Education.
- House Joint Resolution 130, renaming Kentucky 313 in Hardin County the Joe Prather Highway.

Wilkinson won't fight to keep seat

LEXINGTON, Ky. (AP) — Former Gov. Wallace Wilkinson says he won't fight in court to keep his seat on the University of Kentucky board of trustees.

Wilkinson appointed himself to the board as one of his last official acts as governor.

The current session of the General Assembly, at the behest of Gov. Brereton Jones, passed a bill to dismiss all 92 higher education board members who were appointed without restrictions by governors.

Half of them would be reappointed after the law takes effect July 1.

"I think anyone who decided to challenge that clearly could be successful doing so ... but I do not intend to challenge it," Wilkinson said Tuesday after speaking to the Kiwanis club in Lexington.

Tax refunds pace slower than usual

FRANKFORT, Ky. (AP) — The state Revenue Cabinet says Kentucky income-tax refunds are being processed faster than last year, but the pace is still slower than normal.

Taxpayers who filed their returns by the first week of February should have received refunds by now, assuming there were no errors, said Scott Akers, a cabinet spokesman.

He said taxpayers who filed this week might get refunds in 10 to 12 weeks. That's better than last year's wait of 12 to 14 weeks at this stage, but still behind eight to nine weeks for the end of March.

As of Friday, the state had received 1,034,800 returns, about 23,000 more than last year at this time, Akers said.

About 290,250 refunds have been authorized, he said, approximately 70,500 more than at the same time last year.

Perspective on Politics

Soviet aid package bows to election-year realities

By DONALD ROTHBERG
Associated Press News Analysis

WASHINGTON — The numbers sounded impressive — billions in aid to the former Soviet republics — but the package outlined Wednesday by President Bush was tailored to the realities of an election year. The U.S. share is "not a tremendous amount of money," said the president.

For months, Bush's rhetoric about the urgency to help democracy take root in the republics has been far ahead of his willingness to act.

And that was still the case at his White House news conference. "We have a major stake in the success of democracy in Russia and these other states," he declared. "The cost of doing nothing could be exorbitant."

But there was little new money in what Bush proposed. Most of the package was made up of loan guarantees through international institutions and additional credits to help the former Soviet republics purchase U.S. farm products.

Bush's reluctance to commit the United States to a massive aid program was rooted in concerns that Americans are looking inward this presidential election year and are hostile to sending away money sorely needed at home.

The $24 billion figure represented a commitment from major industrial nations — Germany, France, Italy, Britain, Canada and Japan, as well as the United States. Neither the president nor the Cabinet officials who briefed reporters after him would give a detailed breakdown of the impact of the aid package on the U.S. budget.

When asked what it would cost American taxpayers, Bush replied: "There's not a lot of new money. It's our feeling and the feeling of the partners that we ought to use these international financial organizations."

Pressed on the point, he said, "I'll let Jim Baker give you the details."

Moments later, the secretary of state was asked for the details.

"You're asking me for a number this morning that I really can't give you this morning," said Baker, who promised to come up with a figure later.

The first criticism Bush received after announcing his program came from Democratic presidential candidate Bill Clinton of Arkansas, who accused the president not of being too generous but of being "overly cautious on the issue of aid to Russia."

"Some people will attack you for doing too much, and some for not doing enough," said Bush.

He was right on that score.

Former President Richard Nixon had shocked the Republican administration by calling its effort to help the states emerging from the ruins of the Soviet Union woefully inadequate.

More recently, former Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger suggested in an article in The Washington Post that advocates of massive financial aid to the former Soviet republics were making "excessive claims" of what it could accomplish.

"Given the barren democratic soil," wrote Kissinger "we must avoid the temptation of overselling — to the Western public and to the Russian people — the proposition that aid will produce democracy." He said aid must be carefully targeted.

The biggest single number in the Bush package was a $12 billion increase in the U.S. commitment to the International Monetary Fund. That was not a new proposal. Democrats have held up action on it, demanding that Bush give them political cover by publicly stating the need for the increase. At any rate, the total is for loan guarantees, not a direct appropriation.

Sen. Richard Lugar, R-Ind., a senior member of the Foreign Relations committee, played a key role in lobbying for an aid package. Lugar conceded the IMF debate has often been "extremely partisan" and he said House Democrats "wanted to make certain the president asked for this."

"He is the president and he must lead and we are very pleased that he is doing so," said the Indiana Republican.

World Editorial Roundup

March 29; The Providence (R.I.) Journal-Bulletin on the former Soviet Union:

When observing the travails of the Commonwealth of Independent States, the three-month-old association of former Soviet republics, it might be well to begin noting that the worst fears for the winter were not realized: Massive food riots, crippling labor strikes, generalized ethnic strife, insurrections by the armed forces, further attempted coups by the communist old guard.

Merely avoiding such developments would not be considered a great accomplishment under ordinary circumstances, but it is more than might have been expected in view of the unprecedented vacuum left by the sudden collapse of the communist system, which provided the sole unifying authority over this vast aggregation of disparate people for some 75 years.

March 31; Albuquerque (N.M.) Journal on nuclear reactors in the former Soviet Union:

The United States and the various successor governments of the former Union of Soviet Socialist Republics are making laudable progress on agreements to dismantle hundreds of nuclear warheads. However, the lurking menace of another type of nuclear device deployed on the territory of the former Soviet Union is not being addressed.

Aging nuclear reactors, increasingly short of spare parts and motivated workers, are that menace. As the 1986 Chernobyl disaster showed, Soviet nuclear generating technology was far from foolproof even when the old central government was strong enough to divert the necessary resources to the facilities.

Today, anything is possible, according to experts both here and in the Commonwealth of Independent States. A recent radioactive leak at a Russian nuclear station on the Gulf of Finland gave chilling notice of that fact.

In the short term, nuclear safety experts from this country should be loaned to authorities in the CIS to seek to maintain the best possible margins of safety at which the antiquated reactors are capable of being operated. In the intermediate term, the possibility of converting those power plants to gas-powered steam turbines should be pursued. Natural gas is an older and safer energy source found in abundance in the CIS.

For Europe particularly, the whole world in general, nuclear generating safety in eastern Europe is everybody's problem.

Clinton's trial by fire in New York

By TOM RAUM
Associated Press News Analysis

WASHINGTON — The next six days are shaping up as a trial by fire for Bill Clinton as the faltering Democratic front-runner scrambles to avoid a loss in New York that could imperil his candidacy and shock the party establishment.

There's no road map for what's beyond New York if the Arkansas governor falls to the brash challenge of Jerry Brown. Brown has picked up precious few convention delegates and hardly seems like the eventual nominee.

Scenarios range from Clinton's crossing the finish line bloodied but with a defiant hold on the nomination to a brokered convention and a raucous hunt among Democrats for a new standard-bearer.

New York's most prominent Democrat, Gov. Mario Cuomo, scoffs at the very idea that Clinton and Brown will give way to a "white knight."

Brown's solid victory in Vermont caucuses on Tuesday, coming on top of the former California governor's upset win in Connecticut last week, further complicated Clinton's problems.

He found himself in the rare predicament of having a lopsided 1,018.25 delegates to Brown's 159.25 — but seeing his momentum ebbing.

The next few days will tell whether Clinton's strategy of engaging Brown in a series of debates — a risky tactic for a front-runner — will pay off.

Clinton strategists hope that in agreeing to a string of debates, he will be able to reach out directly to voters and that the additional exposure will work against Brown.

Clinton dismissed the importance of the Vermont outcome, saying "it was a caucus" and that Brown's "supporters came out."

"He inflames people's emotions with simple solutions to complicated problems," Clinton told reporters after the caucus results were posted.

A defeat in New York next week would raise serious new questions about Clinton's electability in November and would set off a period of intense soul-searching among Democrats nationwide.

Some analysts suggest a Clinton loss could end the process and open the way to the kind of brokered convention that hasn't been seen in American politics in generations.

"The answer to this one is not in the rule book," said Ann Stone, a Democratic strategist and former political director of the Democratic National Committee. "It would throw everything into question and we really have no operational guidelines."

There also are contests Tuesday in Wisconsin and Kansas. But New York, with its prize of 242 delegates, is clearly the main event.

Clinton "needs New York as badly as he needed Georgia" after his second-place finish to former Sen. Paul Tsongas in New Hampshire, said Democratic pollster Peter Hart. Clinton took Georgia and went on to mop up on Super Tuesday. But now things are not so easy. "All the polling numbers at this stage are going south on him. Therefore the delegate numbers take on a different meaning. I think that's what makes it so difficult for him," Hart said.

Yet, Hart added, "if Clinton is not going to be the nominee, it's going to be something more than simple arithmetic" that determines who is. "It's going to be some advanced form of calculus."

The obstacles to anyone new getting in at this late date are formidable.

Even so, some strategists have suggested that it is possible — one way would be getting California's secretary of state to add whomever was selected to become the new consensus candidate to that state's June 2 ballot.

Then, there remains a bloc of some 772 legally uncommitted "super delegates," consisting mainly of party leaders, Democratic governors and lawmakers, who might be persuaded to coalesce around such a candidate at the convention.

But such a candidate does not now exist.

Furthermore, Clinton continues to hold onto a huge bloc that consists of roughly half of the 2,145 delegates needed for nomination.

It would be difficult to imagine a new candidate emerging successfully without Clinton relinquishing his delegates and endorsing that individual.

"Could he (Clinton) get the nomination if he loses in New York? Yes, but he would go across the finish line bleeding. It would be a terrible setback," said Bob Beckel, who managed Democrat Walter Mondale's 1984 campaign.

Clinton would be "in real trouble" if the election were held today, Beckel suggested.

But he recalled that Mondale also appeared to be heading for a New York defeat at the hands of then-Sen. Gary Hart but "Hart made a number of mistakes" that worked to Mondale's advantage in New York.

"I don't say Clinton is in trouble. But he better have a good week," Beckel said. "He couldn't have had a worse week."

Bush can have a 'Wonderful Life'

CAL'S THOUGHTS

Cal Thomas
Syndicated columnist

Ever wonder what happened to Clarence, the guardian angel of George Bailey (a.k.a. Jimmy Stewart) in the classic film "It's a Wonderful Life"? Clarence, you'll recall, got his wings by helping George Bailey see how miserable the life of his friends would have been had he not been born.

It can now be reported, on reliable authority, that Clarence has been sent to help George Bush. How else to explain the second chance Bush has been given to resurrect his moribund presidency and leave a legacy of which he can be proud?

Last year, Bush's approval ratings were in the stratosphere. Now they are in the toilet because the President squandered an opportunity following the Persian Gulf War to seize the moment and reshape Congress and the political landscape. Now, thanks to the House of Representatives shooting itself in the foot in the check-kiting scandal, the President has a chance to become St. George the congressional dragon slayer and reformer who wants to clean up Congress and restore the American people's faith in public service.

The President's role model for this should be Harry Truman in the election of 1948.

Then, as now, voters were upset by high taxes, a rising cost of living and revelations of corruption in Washington. Republicans had won control of Congress in 1946 with the slogan "Had enough?" Two years later Truman had had enough, and he determined not only to win the election but to get back the Democrat majority.

Truman called the Republican Congress a "do-nothing Congress," a widely quoted slogan. He decided to take on Congress, portraying the institution as the enemy of the American people. In his tough acceptance speech at the Democratic conventions, Truman announced that on July 26 he would call Congress back into session to pass legislation he believed was good for the country. When Congress did nothing, Truman applied the "do-nothing" label and it stuck. He then began a grueling campaign from Labor Day to Election Day, covering nearly 22,000 miles and delivering 275 speeches.

Truman treated Congress with scorn and ridicule. He said he and his Vice President, Sen. Alben Barkley, would "win this election and make these Republicans like it ... We'll do that because they're wrong and we're right." He charged that the GOP was the party of "special interests."

Truman did what Bush ought to do. He wrote out a 10-point program "for the welfare and benefit of this country." Then he campaigned for his program against the "do-nothing Congress" which failed to pass it.

President Bush should begin his cleanup campaign with the stated goal of restoring confidence in public institutions and pledging to lead reform. He should then ask the American people to give him a Republican majority in the House and Senate and promise that if they don't achieve his stated goals of restored public confidence and integrity within a brief period of time, he believes the people should elect a Democrat president in 1996 and a Democratic majority to Congress. That might get some attention and inspire the voters, who would know what they were voting for and have a specific agenda by which they could hold those making the promises accountable.

The 1948 Democratic convention followed the Republican convention (this summer, the Republican convention follows the Democratic).

In his scathing acceptance speech, Truman dissected the Republican platform point by point, saying that he had proposed the goals the Republicans claimed to want to achieve. He then said he would call Congress back and hold them accountable to their own platform, but with his methods for achieving these goals.

This is precisely what President Bush should do. Why not take a page from "give 'em hell, Harry" and prod Congress into action while it's down? Bush has been given an opportunity few Presidents ever get: a second winning issue.

Will he muster the courage to do it? Will he go against his "nice guy" nature and seek to rehabilitate Congress and, in the process, politics for the foreseeable future?

Clarence hopes so. While he has his wings from the previous visit, I understand he's been told that transforming President Bush would earn him a halo.

No exaggeration — 'Liars' is great book

MAIN STREET

Constance Alexander
Ledger & Times columnist

Before the national author tour, the review in The New York Times, and the crowds lined up for autographs of the talented young writer, audiences in Murray can hear Ann Patchett read from her upcoming book, Patron Saint of Liars (Houghton Mifflin, $21.95), next week.

Patchett, who currently teaches creative writing at Murray State University, will present a literary reading of her work on Tuesday, April 7 at 7 p.m. in the Clara M. Eagle Gallery on the fourth floor of MSU's Price-Doyle Fine Arts Building.

Though Liars is her first novel, Patchett is not a newcomer to the literary world. Her first story was published in The Paris Review when she was just 19 and a student at Sarah Lawrence. That story alone has been reprinted and anthologized from the time it was first published, marking Patchett as an up-and-coming writer before she even entered graduate school.

As described in the press kit from the publisher, Liars is tagged as "a powerful story of sorrow and humor, love and lies — all set in a home for unwed mothers."

Publishers Weekly says the book is about "the search for faith and family" and describes Patchett's debut as a novelist to be "resonant and promising."

The influential Kirkus Reviews talks about St. Elizabeth's as a home for unwed mothers where "a good woman finds she cannot lie her way beyond love."

With all due respect for the compilers of the press kit, I have to say that Patron Saint of Liars goes far beyond the breathy blurbs of the promotional materials. It is a book for people who love a good story, readers who enjoy being swept into a world so unlikely and so believable at the same time, that you don't want the story to end.

"Liars" is also a book for other writers. It is language rich with imagery, humor and originality. Characters are as common as dirt and unique as fingerprints.

The story is divided into three sections, each narrated by a different character. The first is Rose, the subject of the book's title. Her account of events leading up to her flight from the west coast to a home for unwed mothers in Habit, Kentucky, is as straightforward and unflinching as Rose herself. She begins the novel by saying, "I was somewhere outside of Ludlow, California, headed due east toward Kentucky, when I realized I would be a liar for the rest of my life."

Son, who becomes Rose's husband, takes control of the middle part of the book. The way he tells his story, and the role he plays at St. Elizabeth's, are one and the same. Son is the handyman, the solid and steady stranger who showed up one day and stayed forever. He is the only man welcome in a community of young pregnant women who flee the gossip and judgment of the world outside of Habit.

Cecilia, Rose's daughter, draws Liars to its conclusion. She is the real hero of the story, a survivor of abandonment and a bridge between Habit and the rest of the world.

A native of Ashland City, Tenn., Patchett is a contributor to Seventeen and Elle magazines, and has been published in (among others) The Iowa Review, The Southern Review and The Paris Review. Most recently, her work appeared in a collection of short stories, The Henfield Prize Stories.

The national book tour for The Patron Saint of Liars includes stops in Nashville, Memphis, Oxford, Jackson, Little Rock, Chicago, Madison, Cincinnati, Louisville, Lexington, Iowa City, Los Angeles and San Francisco.

Shedd Academy offers special tutorial programs at Mayfield

Presently, it is estimated that 10 to 15 out of every 100 children and teenagers have a reading problem and/or attention deficit disorders. These problems affect their ability to handle school work.

The signs of these problems are poor school grades and difficulties with attention span, concentration, distractibility and low reading abilities.

These are bright individuals in most cases. Often these students have trouble with handwriting, writing skills, organization, reversals, and finishing their work.

Specialized tutorial programs, a summer school, or a full-time school are available through Shedd Academy and its satellite programs.

The first step in the process is for students, ages 6 to 18, plus adults, to be screened to determine if this may be their difficulty. The next screening will be Saturday, April 18, by appointment only.

Shedd Academy is the only school in the Western Kentucky area to offer a specialized summer school for ADD students this summer.

For more information, contact Miss Debbie Taylor, Admission's Office or Dr. Thompson, Director, at Shedd Academy, 346 Central Ave., P.O. Box 493, Mayfield, KY 42066, or call 1-502-247-8007.

Stith, Cavs hold off Irish to win NIT title

NEW YORK (AP) — As he did throughout a brilliant college career, Bryant Stith came through when it counted. Stith, Virginia's career scoring leader, didn't score a single point against Notre Dame in the first 18½ minutes of the second half of Wednesday night's NIT championship game. But he made a clutch jumper and two free throws at the end of regulation and hit five free throws in overtime, leading the Cavaliers to an 81-76 victory and their second NIT title. The 6-foot-5 senior finished with 24 points and eight rebounds, and was named the tournament's most valuable player. The Cavaliers (20-13) overcame a career-high 39 points by Notre Dame guard Elmer Bennett, who sent the game into overtime on a leaping 3-pointer with 3.8 seconds left in regulation. "I struggled in the second half," said Stith, who made six of 14 shots and 10 of 12 free throws. "But at crunch time, I wanted the ball." Stith joined such stars as Ralph Sampson, Walter Frazier, Lenny Wilkens and George Mikan as MVP of the tournament. "I was looking in the guide at some of the MVPs, and I'm in pretty elite company," he said. Sampson and current Virginia coach Jeff Jones played on the Virginia team that beat Minnesota for the 1980 NIT championship. Jones is the first to win the NIT as a player and coach. "It's a great experience to play in a game of this magnitude," Jones said. "It doesn't matter what people say (about the NIT being a second-rate tournament). We feel very good about being in the NIT and winning it." After Virginia took a 69-66 lead in overtime on two free throws by Cory Alexander and one by Anthony Oliver, Notre Dame tied it at 69 on a foul shot by Bennett and two free throws by LaPhonso Ellis. But Virginia took the lead for good at 70-69 on a free throw by Stith with 2:17 left and increased the margin to 79-73 on a pair of foul shots by Oliver with 17.8 seconds remaining. Notre Dame (18-15), which lost to Virginia by 27 points at Charlottesville on Jan. 18, cut it to 79-76 on a long 3-pointer by Bennett with

Kentucky signee Rodrick Rhodes will play in '92

LEXINGTON, Ky. (AP) — University of Kentucky fans had their hopes for next season bolstered with the word that New Jersey high school basketball star Rodrick Rhodes is academically eligible. Rhodes, the 6-foot-7 prep All-American from Jersey City, N.J., scored better than the NCAA minimum of 700 on his latest attempt at the Scholastic Aptitude Test. The score came in the mail yesterday, delighting everyone at St. Anthony's High School.

"We're all fired up," said coach Bob Hurley, who this weekend will be watching his son Bobby lead Duke's defense of the national championship. "We've been on the edge of our seats for two weeks, waiting for the score."

Because Rhodes is eligible, Kentucky gets another bonus because 6-9 Walter McCarty of Evansville, Ind. will also be able to begin classes at UK.

McCarty is an academic non-qualifier who will not be eligible to play next season. The Southeastern Conference allows only one non-qualifier in basketball each year to sit out. McCarty can join the team his sophomore year and have three years of eligibility.

Rhodes averaged 23 points, 10 rebounds, four steals, four assists and four blocked shots per game for St. Anthony's, which finished the season 28-2 and ranked No. 9 in the nation by USA Today.

UK point guard Travis Ford underwent arthroscopic surgery in New York Wednesday to remove part of his left knee cap. Ford injured the knee in October but played on it all season.

Ford will begin rehabilitation immediately and could be back to full strength by June.

Massimino headed for UNLV job

LAS VEGAS (AP) — Seven years to the day after his Villanova team shocked Georgetown to win the NCAA championship, Rollie Massimino was expected to be named Wednesday to take over the powerful but troubled UNLV basketball program. Villanova athletic director Ted Aceto said that Massimino resigned Wednesday in order to go to UNLV.

"I was surprised he took the job," Aceto said. "I thought he would retire at Villanova."

Massimino was to appear at a Las Vegas news conference with UNLV president Robert Maxson later Wednesday.

Massimino replaces Jerry Tarkanian, whose spectacular 19-year run at UNLV ended bitterly last month in a resignation he claimed was coerced by university administrators who wanted him out.

Massimino reportedly got a five-year contract that includes a $106,000 base salary and other benefits and outside deals that could make it worth $700,000 a year.

The 57-year-old Massimino was named the new coach exactly seven years after his Villanova team pulled one of college basketball's greatest upsets by shocking Big East rival Georgetown to win the NCAA title.

Massimino, in the seventh year of a 10-year contract at Villanova, had a career record of 357-241 in 19 years at the university.

Villanova lost to Virginia 83-80 in the first round of the National Invitation Tournament this year, dropping to 14-15, Massimino's fourth losing season in 19 years.

Massimino will be stepping into a program dogged by problems in recent years. The 1991-92 UNLV team was banned from TV and post-season play as a final resolution of a 14-year battle between Tarkanian and the NCAA.

And the school faces some 40 NCAA infractions that will be addressed when a federal lawsuit between the state and the NCAA is resolved. That lawsuit is aimed at testing the constitutionality of the state's new due process law.

UNLV has scrambled to find a replacement for Tarkanian, who announced last June he would resign after a final season coaching the Runnin' Rebels, following the publication of photos showing former Rebel basketball players in a hot tub with convicted sports fixer Richard Perry.

But Massimino is also known as a coach who recruits top student athletes, and whose players graduate on time. UNLV administrators have long chafed over Tarkanian's recruiting of inner-city players and the low graduation rates.

Final Four Follies

Coach K, Bobby share windy stories

MINNEAPOLIS (AP) — They haven't even appeared on the same stage yet and the Bobby and Coach K Show has already begun.

The preliminary act was something of a lovefest. "Duke's probably the best team in the country," Indiana coach Bob Knight said. "Mike's done an excellent job."

"Coach Knight and I are good friends," Duke's Mike Krzyzewski, who played and coached under Knight, said. "He's had a big impact on who I am and what I've become in coaching. We're good friends now and we'll be good friends after the game, too."

Each then declared Duke and Indiana (though not necessarily in that order) as "my two favorite teams."

The teams meet Saturday night in the second semifinal at the Metrodome, following Cincinnati vs. Michigan.

The first official Final Four media function took place Wednesday, with Knight, Krzyzewski, Cincinnati coach Bob Huggins and Michigan's Steve Fisher taking part in national conference calls from their home bases. By today, all four teams will be in the Twin Cities of Minneapolis and St. Paul.

Saturday's opener offers an intriguing matchup of Michigan's "Fab Five" freshmen vs. Cincinnati's "Transfer Ten."

But clearly, Knight vs. Krzyzewski — Bobby vs. Coach K, mentor vs. prized pupil — figures to steal the show.

Dress rehearsal took place Wednesday as the pair sounded like a long-distance comedy team during the conference call.

COACH K: "The best thing that I've taken from coach Knight ... I'm divulging a secret here ... for each one of his captains — I was a captain of his (Army) team in '69 — he gives us a personally autographed book on cerebral, uh ..."

BOBBY: "Reversal."

COACH K: "Reversal. I almost forgot that, coach. Thanks. It's been like the Bible for me. I haven't shared it even with my assistant coaches."

BOBBY: "You can't until Naval Intelligence gives clearance for it to be released."

COACH K: "And I feel bad that they got that out of me and I better not say anything more about it."

And about those famed wind currents in the Metrodome ...

BOBBY: "I think our most important person is the guy who comes in and tests the wind before"

Laker infielder Matt Dennis races into third base ahead of the throw in the first inning of Wednesday's 7-3 loss to Reidland.

Laker opener spoiled after Hounds' big first

Staff Report
Murray Ledger & Times

Calloway County couldn't overcome Reidland's five-run first inning and dropped Wednesday's baseball season opener to the Greyhounds 7-3 at Calloway.

Reidland, last year's First Region champion, pounded out five hits and took advantage of two Laker errors in the top of the first to take a 5-0 lead on starter Jason Greer and the Lakers.

"We came out tight early," said Laker coach Eddie Morris. "We were pushing ourselves to make the plays and missed the routine plays. We gave up two runs you just can't give up to a team like Reidland."

Calloway responded with two runs in their half of the first to cut it to 5-2.

Greer took the loss for the Lakers, while Wesley Cogdell sparked in two innings of relief. Sophomore shortstop Tim McGrew led the Laker hitting attack with a two for three performance.

"One of the bright spots was our hitting," Morris said. "We cranked out six hits against a good pitcher. Last year, I think it took us three games to get six hits."

"The kids are really excited about the season."

Players strike threatens NHL playoff season

TORONTO (AP) — The darkest day in the NHL could turn into its longest year.

That's the prospect facing the league in the wake of Wednesday's players strike that threatened not only the Stanley Cup playoffs, but the beginning of next season as well.

"We were told to prepare ourselves for a long strike," Montreal's Kirk Muller said, "and the guys are preparing themselves."

It became painfully evident that the NHL might be in for a long summer following pessimistic remarks by president John Ziegler on Wednesday night.

Following up Wednesday's strike announcement by the players and four hours of fruitless talks, a somber Ziegler said the sides "are getting close to an impasse. I hope we can avoid it, but we're very close."

Asked to describe an "impasse," Ziegler said:

"Basically, when there's nothing more to talk about ... and that's it."

However, Ziegler did keep the lines of communication open by scheduling a meeting today with Bob Goodenow, executive director of the NHL Players Association.

Ziegler described the meeting as "exploratory."

"If we can find a reason to get the sides back together again, we will," Ziegler said. "I'll be available all day to talk."

Responding to Ziegler's "impasse" remark, Goodenow said: "There's no question we're far apart, but I wouldn't call it an impasse."

Ziegler is scheduled to report to the Board of Governors at a meeting in New York on Sunday.

Wednesday's walkout, the first league-wide strike in the 75-year history of the NHL, came after the players resoundingly rejected the owners' last offer for a new collective bargaining agreement.

At a news conference crowded with players and reporters, Goodenow revealed that the vote had been an overwhelming 560-4.

"The results prove the players' dissatisfaction with the owners' final offer," Goodenow said. "A vote to reject was a vote to strike by 3 p.m. April 1, 1992."

The walkout, which immediately wiped out three games and threatened dozens more, was aimed squarely at the owners' wallets. They make the biggest chunk of their income from the playoffs; the players, with average salaries of about $375,000, get virtually nothing.

Major league baseball and the NFL have had player strikes, but never before has a walkout come so close to the time when a pro sport was about to decide its champion.

"I think what's probably got a lot of people surprised; how can these athletes who played for championships go out at this point and time of the season, heading into playoffs?" said Wayne Gretzky, the league's all-time scoring leader and hockey's best-known player. "The vote was pretty unanimous."

Gretzky, whose Los Angeles Kings had clinched a playoff berth, said he expected the strike to last either "two or three days or we're going to go until November or December."

The strike not only managed to cancel three games on Wednesday night, but cast a pall over the NHL at a time when the league was preparing for the most glamorous part of the season.

There are 27 regular-season games left before the scheduled start of the Stanley Cup playoffs on Wednesday.

Remember the 10th For City Newspaper Carriers

The 10th of each month is a very important day to your city newspaper carrier. Your carrier must receive your payment by the 10th of the month in order to pay their bill. You see, these carriers are independent business men and women. They buy their papers from us at wholesale cost and sell them to you at the retail delivery rate. When you don't pay them by the 10th they have to dig down into their own pockets to make up the difference. Please pay your carrier promptly before the 10th of each month. They depend on you to write their pay checks. Collection time can be an inconvenience for you and your carrier. So...paying by mail is a simple way to avoid the bother of monthly collection.

O'Neal's NBA decision due tomorrow

BATON ROUGE, La. (AP) — Louisiana State's Shaquille O'Neal, a two-time All-America and one of the nation's most dominating college players as both a sophomore and junior, will disclose Friday whether he will play next season in the NBA.

A news conference will be held at 1 p.m. CST Friday at Fort Sam Houston, the U.S. Army base in Texas where O'Neal's father is stationed, said a joint announcement issued Wednesday by LSU and base officials in San Antonio. Army officials said they helped arrange and publicize the news conference, scheduled for the Fort Sam Houston Youth Center, at the request of O'Neal's family.

LSU coach Dale Brown said he met Sunday with O'Neal and his family in San Antonio, where the 7-foot-1 center is spending his spring semester break. "They informed me that they would make a decision within a week's time," Brown said. A few weeks ago, Brown said he advised O'Neal to turn pro because of what Brown perceived as the undue physical pounding O'Neal has received from opposing teams. However, Brown said he remained neutral during Sunday's meeting. "I gave them a list of pluses for staying in school and pluses for leaving," Brown said. "I told them whatever their decision is, I'd back them 100 percent. I wasn't going to say 'Stay.' I wasn't going to say 'Go.' And I won't second-guess their decision."

Also chosen 1990-91 college player of the year, O'Neal averaged 24.1 points, 14 rebounds and 5.2 blocked shots as a junior last season. He celebrated his 20th birthday on March 6.

Rijo impressed with Ryan's pitching despite loss

Even though Nolan Ryan didn't have his best stuff, Cincinnati's Jose Rijo was impressed.

Ryan, tuning up to pitch the Texas Rangers' season opener next week, was hit hard in Wednesday's 8-3 loss to Cincinnati.

"He made me feel bad today," Rijo said after pitching five innings. "You see him throwing that hard. I'm 19 years younger than him and he's throwing harder than me. It's tough to believe it."

St. Louis spark plug

Cards' Torre expecting big things from Ray Lankford

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Ray Lankford is about to start his second full season, and St. Louis manager Joe Torre already is comparing him to Lou Brock and Bobby Bonds.

Lankford finished third in the NL Rookie of the Year balloting last season. Torre says Lankford eventually will make a bigger mark in the majors than the winner, Jeff Bagwell of Houston, or the runner-up, Orlando Merced of Pittsburgh. "It feels good that he looks at me as that type of player, but I just do the best I can," Lankford said. "What that is, I don't know. I'm still trying to figure it out."

Lankford promises things will get better this year. He's had a nice spring; of his first 11 hits, seven went for extra bases, including three triples and three home runs. "I'm happy with my rookie season," he said. "It's something I can build on. I have a clear view of what to expect. I'd rather stay in one spot in the lineup. If I'm leading off, I want to stay there, learn that role, and go from there."

St. Louis expects Lankford to benefit from new batting instructor Don Baylor. "He's going to go up there one-and-a-half times more than the lower part of the lineup, so he has to get some hits," Baylor said. "I want him to be selective and aggressive at the same time, not swinging at pitches over his head or in the dirt so we can get some walks out of it."

points, tying his season low. "Someone said we were underachievers, and I would disagree with that by 5,000 percent," first-year Irish coach John MacLeod said. "Back in December, when we were 1-5, some people said we'd get only eight or nine wins. We had a heck of a year."

Stith, who averaged 24.6 points in five NIT games, was held scoreless in the second half until he hit a short jumper to put Virginia ahead 64-61 with 1:28 left in regulation. Following a timeout, Notre Dame came down court and Bennett tied the game with his 3-point shot. Virginia had a final chance to win in regulation, but Stith missed

How a player fares in bridge over the long haul depends largely on how many mistakes he or she makes. The luck factor is admittedly important in the short term, but in the long run, it is the mistake factor that determines how well or poorly a player does.

When an opponent makes a mistake, it is of course essential to know how to take advantage of it. For example, take this hand where East doubles four spades on the bidding

Scott to be keynote speaker at Internationalizing the Curriculum Conference

Dr. Robert Allyn Scott, president of Ramapo College of New Jersey, will be the keynote speaker at the Internationalizing the Curriculum Conference April 3-4 at the Executive Inn in Paducah.

The conference is sponsored by the Center for International Programs (CIP) at Murray State University. During Scott's seven-year presidency, Ramapo College has gained national recognition for its achievement in internationalizing. Former New Jersey Gov. Tom Kean acclaimed Ramapo a "superstar" of international education, and the National Governor's Association cited Ramapo as exemplary for its leadership in international and intercultural education, scholarship and development.

The purpose of the conference, according to Celia Wall, acting director of the CIP, is to provide faculty from across the country an opportunity to share with others their success stories in internationalizing the curriculum at their home institutions.

In addition to Scott, the program includes presenters from Case Western Reserve University, Purdue University, University of South Carolina, Western Michigan University, Northern Kentucky University and Lamar University.

"The conference organizers believe that we have planned a quality program that will draw attendees not only from the region but from across the nation," Ms. Wall said. "So that Murray State faculty and staff can benefit from the conference, the registration fee has been waived for them."

A founding member of the Advisory Board of New Jersey Center for International Business Education and Research at Rutgers University, Scott directs the America Forum for Global Education and chairs the American Council on Education Commission on International Education.

He serves as leader of the committee on international programs of the American Association of State Colleges and University (AASCU) and is frequently a speaker at AASCU conferences in internationalizing the campus and curriculum. Scott is also a consulting editor for "Change Magazine" and the "Journal of Higher Education."

Interested persons may obtain registration material on the conference by contacting Celia Wall, Center for International Programs, Murray State University, Murray, Ky., 42071, telephone (502) 762-4152.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): Someone close to you may need extra attention now. Avoid those who are ill-natured or reckless. Some gossip you hear could upset you. Consider the source and ignore it.

CANCER (June 21-July 22): Go ahead and revive an old relationship. Things could be much better the second time around! Do not let someone's secret actions put you in an emotional bind.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): Business you have not been able to handle until now can be successfully dealt with today. Loved ones are willing to lend a hand with tasks that would be boring if done alone.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): If your financial position appears sound, let well enough alone. This is not a good time to take unnecessary risks. Call close friends with good news. Try an innovative approach in the arts.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): It is very important you work out a specific plan of action and line up trustworthy allies. Any mistakes in this area could impede progress. Offer wise counsel to your mate and family.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20): You cannot expect things to crack wide open on your first try. Be persistent! The idea of eventual success keeps you forging ahead. Continue to add to your storehouse of specialized knowledge.

Painting presentation

Artist Barbara Thelin Preston (left) is pictured with Betty Lowry and Libby Hart of the Wrather Museum Founders Group, as the artist donates one of her oil paintings to the museum Tuesday. The watercolor and oil exhibit, "An Odyssey in Watercolor and Oil," will be open to the public until April 30th. More than 250 students from area schools have already visited the exhibit.

WKMS fund-raiser underway

WKMS-FM, the National Public Radio affiliate which broadcasts from Murray State University at 91.3 FM, is asking listeners who haven't already pledged to phone in pledges until 850 pledges are made.

WKMS conducts two "fund-raisers" each year, one in the fall and another in the spring. Almost 50 percent of the goal has already been pledged through an early mailing. In Paducah and Murray, volunteers calling friends who have pledged before have also made a significant impact on early pledging.

A Paducah long distance company is providing a toll-free line, 1-800-599-4737, that listeners may use from anywhere in Kentucky. Listeners elsewhere can call 502-762-4737 long distance.

Like other public radio stations across America, WKMS is supported by contributions from individual listening "friends," and from business "underwriters." The donations of friends make up almost 15 percent of the station's annual budget, while underwriters provide another 13 percent. Murray State provided 46 percent of the funds needed in 1991-92. These funds then enable WKMS to qualify for a grant from the Corporation for Public Broadcasting which fills out the remaining budgetary needs.

To enable WKMS to broadcast award-winning NPR shows such as "Morning Edition" and "All Things Considered," in addition to premier NPR music programs, WKMS is scheduled to pay the following amounts in 1992-93: $20,000 for NPR dues; $54,000 for NPR news programs and an additional $11,000 for performance programs.

In addition to NPR music programs, WKMS produces local programs of classical, jazz (including big band, blues and worldbeat music), folk, bluegrass, alternative and other music forms. WKMS news produces regional feature stories and local commentaries, in addition to regional headline updates from the Associated Press.

WKMS has been the public broadcasting voice of the four rivers region for 22 years and broadcasts with 100,000 watts of power from a transmitter located in the Land Between the Lakes. More information on the station is available by calling 502-762-4359.

I have been using the Ledger & Times for my primary means of advertising locally for the past 30 years. I feel that seeing ads in print is one of the best selling tools for our used cars because we list them. It is also a good tool for one of our new car sales ads.

The staff at the Ledger & Times always do their best to be sure we are satisfied with our ad before printing. They are very creative in helping us design our ads. I have never been dissatisfied with a Ledger & Times ad.

We at Purdom Motors appreciate the friendly professional service that we receive from the Ledger & Times and look forward to the future with the same relationship.

Let Fran or one of our other Advertising Representatives help you advertise your business.

Dear Abby

DEAR ABBY: This letter is in response to "Former Smoker." You said, "Please don't blame the tobacco companies; we live in a country where people have the right to choose."
Abby, surely you are aware that the tobacco industry estimates "replacement smokers" from our youth. Please note the following:
Tobacco advertising is aimed at kids. The tobacco industry needs 5,000 children to begin smoking every day to maintain its current market. Statistics show us that 60 percent of smokers begin by age 14, and 90 percent begin by age 19.

Children do not have the cognitive ability that adults have and are easy prey for the tobacco industry. Nicotine, the addictive substance in cigarettes, may be more difficult to quit using than heroin.

Our kids get hooked at an early age, then many spend the rest of their lives trying to stop using tobacco. Yes, we make our own choices, but it takes more than one school health-education class to counteract the tobacco industry's multibillion-dollar blitz. We believe that every child has the right to be protected from exposure to advertising which promotes smoking as part of the good life, or connects smoking with sports or other health-giving activities.

CONNIE ACOTT, PROJECT DIRECTOR, TOBACCO-FREE SCHOOLS, COLORADO STATE UNIVERSITY

DEAR CONNIE: Thank you for some startling facts. I hope my young readers see your letter and take it seriously. It could add years to their lives.

DEAR ABBY: Your response to "Needing an Answer" fell short of the mark. A woman so incredibly shallow that she would turn down a date with a gentleman because he had a tooth missing needs a new value system — not dental referrals. But assuming you have more balanced standards, did you ever consider that the gentleman with the missing tooth may not have been able to replace it?

A number of years ago, after 20 years of struggle — which included repeated pin implants, three crowns, oral surgery, major infections and thousands of dollars — a dentist extracted one of my teeth because there was nothing left to save or to use as a bed for another crown. The adjacent teeth were too weakened from cysts in the jaw to be used as anchors for a bridge, and my sinus canal was too low to accommodate an implant. I investigated every alternative. I even offered to test experimental procedures.

I detest not having a tooth, but if a solution is ever found, I will be the first to take advantage of it.

Until then, I will count myself fortunate never to have met a man so appallingly superficial as to reject me because I have a missing tooth.

I'm surprised you didn't give "Needing an Answer" more mature advice. Either that, or suggest she become a horse trader, where her ultra-strict criteria would be more appropriate.

MARTA GOOSEY, OREGON CITY, ORE.

DEAR MARTA: Thanks, I needed that. I confess, it did not occur to me that there could be legitimate reasons for a person to be walking around with a conspicuous gap where a tooth should be. I had assumed it was due to neglect, ignorance or a lack of pride.

Dr. Gott

By Peter H. Gott, M.D.
DEAR DR. GOTT: My sister-in-law who is 78 years old gets a shooting pain from her groin down her leg every day. She refuses to go to a doctor but has given me the OK to write to you.

DEAR READER: First of all, your sister-in-law is sure to obtain more satisfactory medical care from a doctor (who will sit down with her, take a medical history and perform an examination) than she would from a medical columnist. Therefore, I urge you to persuade her to see a doctor about her problem.

Leg pain can arise from a variety of causes, including thrombophlebitis (blood clots in a vein), arthritis or a slipped disc in the spine, to mention a few. I am certain that a doctor, after examining your sister-in-law, will be able to identify the source of her symptoms.

Sometimes, people avoid going to a doctor because they fear that the physician will find something seriously wrong. More often than not, however, this fear is unfounded. The ailment turns out to be curable or, at least, treatable.

DEAR DR. GOTT: Several months ago I had a crown put on one of my teeth. I subsequently developed canker sores, fever blisters and a sensitive tongue. Zovirax taken internally cleared the sores and blisters, yet the glossitis remains. This is being treated with prednisone 25 mg three times a day for three days twice monthly. It's not working. What can I do to get rid of this annoying condition?

DEAR READER: I'm not a dentist, but I wonder if you could be experiencing an allergic reaction to the metal alloys in the crown — or to the cement used to hold it in place. Ask your dentist if this could be the cause of your tongue irritation (glossitis); if so, you may have to consider having the crown removed or modified.

DEAR DR. GOTT: Can you tell me why Mediprin has been taken off the market? It is the only thing that keeps my arthritis pain in check, yet I wonder if there is a reason I shouldn't take the minimal supply I still have.

DEAR READER: I was not aware that Mediprin had been removed from the market; perhaps it no longer made a profit for its manufacturer. In any case, it makes no difference, because Mediprin is ibuprofen, a non-prescription analgesic that is readily available in other forms, notably Advil and Nuprin.

You can safely finish your supply of Mediprin, then purchase one of the other products I mentioned. Ibuprofen is a safe and inexpensive treatment for mild/moderate arthritis.

Forum on engineer teams for earthquake inspections set

After California's October, 1989, "World Series" earthquake, 1500 volunteer engineers were needed to determine whether damaged buildings which were still standing needed repairs before being used again. The task of inspecting thousands of damaged structures couldn't be handled by local and state building inspectors alone.

Kentucky and its sister states in the Midwest will need such volunteers, too, after a damaging earthquake along the New Madrid Fault zone or other faults in the region. With a huge stock of bridges, the inspection job could take weeks or months, depending on the size of the quake and the amount of damage.

In an effort to begin organizing engineer inspection teams, Kentucky Disaster and Emergency Services and the Kentucky Society of Professional Engineers are sponsoring a forum on April 10 at Paducah's Executive Inn.

MSU public relations students observe Nashville professionals

Six Murray State University public relations students recently observed various Nashville public relations professionals at work as part of the fifth annual Profession/Amateur Day. Students participating in Professional/Amateur Day were April Lane, Bridget Peake, Amy Pickard, Naretha Timberlake, Cherie Walker and Booker Watkins.

Sponsored by the Murray State chapter of the Public Relations Student Society of America and the Nashville chapter, Public Relations Society of America, the project enabled the students to get first-hand exposure to on-the-job professionals.

Hosts for the students included Jeff Hudson of Bill Hudson & Associates; Susan Chapman of Leonard, Goodman & Associates; Susan Hart of the Nashville chapter of the American Red Cross; and Kay McDowell of Dye, Van Mol & Lawrence Public Relations.

The Murray State faculty adviser for PRSSA is Sheila Clough Crifasi.

Parent Effectiveness Training workshop offered by Murray State

A nationally recognized psychologist, Dr. Thomas Gordon, will present a lecture and workshop on parenting at Murray State University April 17 and 18.

Gordon, founder and president of Effectiveness Training, Inc. of Solana Beach, Calif., will present a free lecture on Parent Effectiveness Training Friday, April 17 at 7:30 p.m. in Murray State University's Curris Center Theatre. A reception in the theater lobby will follow the lecture.

He will also hold a free mini-workshop for parents from 9 a.m. to noon Saturday, April 18 in the Barkley Room of the Curris Center. The workshop is limited to 30 people on a first-come, first-served basis. For reservations, call the MSU Department of Speech Communication and Theater at 502-762-4483.

Gordon's lecture and workshop are the initial offerings of the Cindy Sawicki Memorial Series. The series was established in February 1991 as a memorial to Sawicki by her daughter and son-in-law, Teri Prince and Tom Grantz. The Sawicki fund is designed to support workshops and seminars coordinated through Murray State's organizational communication program within the Department of Speech Communication and Theater.

Designed in 1962 by Gordon, Parent Effectiveness Training (PET) is a preventive program that teaches parents essential interpersonal skills and helps resolved family conflicts so no one loses. The program stresses the ineffectiveness of any and all kinds of punishment and teaches parents effective alternatives to punishment. He promotes the concepts of active listening, communication roadblocks and no-lose conflict resolution.

Effectiveness Training, Inc. is one of the largest human relations training organizations in the world. Courses for parents, teachers, managers, supervisors, school administrators, sales representatives and women have been taught to almost one million persons in 26 countries.

He has served as a consultant to numerous business and educational organizations. His leadership course entitled Leader Effectiveness Training has been utilized by several hundred corporations including IBM, Honeywell, Chrysler, General Dynamics, Coca-Cola, Blue Cross-Blue Shield, Exxon and Federal Express.

A past president of the California State Psychological Association, he was a consultant to the White House Conference on Children and an invited speaker to the White House Fellows. He has served on the advisory board of the National Committee for the Prevention of Child Abuse and been a guest on the "Today Show" and "Phil Donahue."

Two of Gordon's books will be on the sale during the workshop.
