Bad news for Bush

Round II: Substance, no slips

By JOHN KING
AP Political Writer

RICHMOND, Va. — With 18 days and one debate to go, President Bush and Bill Clinton return to battleground states today after a forum that was rich in substance but short on sparks, and did not provide the dramatic shift Bush needs to strip Clinton's lead. Ross Perot was airing a new 30-minute commercial.

After a rally in the Virginia capital, Clinton was flying to Baton Rouge, to join his running mate, Sen. Al Gore of Tennessee, for a bus trip through Louisiana. President Bush was heading to New Jersey later in the day.

The third and final debate is scheduled for Monday in East Lansing, Mich.

Two of the questioners from the second presidential debate at the University of Richmond, told NBC today they remained uncommitted. A third said he was leaning toward Clinton.

Marisa Hall, who asked the candidates how they had been personally affected by the federal budget deficit, said Clinton did "a pretty good job" responding. But she called Bush's response "wishy-washy."

Libby Chang, a medical student who asked about health care, said she was concerned Clinton would support "government regulation of medicine."

Denton Waltham, who helped set the tone of the debate by urging the candidates to stick to the issues, said he was impressed by Perot's willingness to steer clear of personal attacks. But he said he was leaning toward voting for Clinton.

All the questions during the 90-minute encounter came from voters selected because they were uncommitted.

The format kept Bush from striking the aggressive tone his aides had promised and Vice President Dan Quayle had set up in the running mates' debate on Tuesday.

When it was over, Bush aides acknowledged privately that the president had done little to help himself or hurt Clinton.

So subdued was Thursday night's forum that Bush was twice shown on television checking his watch.

"The drama in the presidential race up to now has been whether George Bush can turn the election around. But I think there is an equally plausible drama ... about whether George Bush is facing electoral disaster," said Democratic pollster Geoffrey Garin.

There were hints of Republican frustration, too. Bush needed to express some passion and energy — and failed, said William Hudnut, the former GOP mayor of Indianapolis. "He remained above the fray."

Clinton aides left the University of Richmond debate ecstatic, arguing the audience's overwhelming focus on economic and other domestic issues was proof the Bush campaign's character attacks were falling on deaf ears.

"You have to decide whether you want change or not," Clinton said at the close of the nationally televised forum. "We do not need four more years of an economic theory that doesn't work."

In his closing, Bush tried to steer voters to ground barely cov-

Hospital board approves CT scan purchase

By CYRUS AFZALI
Murray Ledger & Times Staff Writer

The Murray-Calloway County Hospital will soon have the most state-of-the-art CT scan machine in the area, at least for a while.

The hospital's board of commissioners approved buying a new computerized tomography machine at Thursday's regular monthly meeting. Although Murray's hospital will be the first in the area to have such a machine, hospitals in Paducah and Nashville also plan to buy one in the coming year.

Approval of the purchase was partly due to a financing agreement between the hospital and Siemens, the machine's manufacturer, which allows the hospital to pay the $990,000 with a $100,000 down payment and defer payment on the remaining portion until April 1993, when the hospital's new fiscal year begins. At that time, $500,000 will be taken from the hospital's liability fund and the remaining $390,000 will be taken from operations.

Computerized tomography is a method of making multiple X-ray images of the body or parts of the body and using a computer to construct cross-sectional views from those images. The hospital's current machine is 10 years old. Dr. John Yezerksi, the board's medical staff representative, said although radiologists are "perfectly happy" with the machine, they also wanted an additional piece of equipment installed which would allow images to be transmitted over phone lines for doctor's to review at their homes or offices, as well as send them to another hospital if necessary.

Hospital administrator Stuart Poston said the company did agree to freeze the price of that piece of equipment.

The board also discussed changes in its by-laws, which were being proposed by the board evaluation committee.

One item that was tabled until next meeting would change the terms of commissioners from the current three years to four years. It would affect only the eight who are appointed by the city and county, each of which appoints four. The mayor and judge/executive are automatic members and the hospital's medical staff elects one member — three who would not be affected.

This, as well as any other changes in the by-laws, is also subject to approval by the Murray City Council and Calloway County Fiscal Court.

Among changes approved were:

- An expectation that board members enroll in one continuing education course each two years.

There would be no penalty if the course was not taken, but board chairman Dr. Melvin Henley said it could have a bearing on a member's re-nomination, although that decision would ultimately rest with the council and fiscal court.

- A requirement for new board members to complete an orientation program.

- Establishment of a board planning retreat, which would be held every two years.

Although changes in West View Nursing Home's by-laws were also brought before the board, those were also tabled to allow for consultation with medical staff.

State can't divine strength of counties' self-insurance fund

By CHARLES WOLFE
Associated Press Writer

FRANKFORT, Ky. — The state Department of Insurance says it can't judge the strength of a self-insurance program for Kentucky counties.

The program's actuary has refused to provide detailed information to back up its claims of well-being, department general counsel Patrick Watts said Thursday.

"At this time, we're uncertain about their financial condition," Watts told the General Assembly's interim joint Banking and Insurance Committee.

The program — the Kentucky Association of Counties' All-

Lines Fund — has only minimal reporting requirements under Kentucky law, Watts said.

And the insurance department lacks authority to exercise any meaningful regulation over self-insurance funds like it, he said.

"We're dealing with them with one hand tied behind our back," Watts said.

John Griggs, executive director of the Kentucky Association of Counties, was out of town and unavailable for comment Thursday. But in a letter he sent to the Banking and Insurance Committee last week, Griggs said private insurance competitors were conducting a "whisper campaign" about the fund's solvency.

However, Griggs' letter also said the fund would not divulge information about its reserve for paying claims.

More than 100 county fiscal courts have joined the association's self-insurance program, the letter said. Its seed money was a $25 million bond issue undertaken in 1987 by Pendleton County.

Private insurance agents claim the All-Lines Fund lists the bond money as an asset, but that it really is a debt.

They also said the fund uses a "pay as you go" accounting method in which claims are reported only after they are paid, not when liability for them is incurred, as a net-worth statement would.

Business leaders speak on ideas and involvement

By GINA HANCOCK
Murray Ledger & Times Staff Writer

There's no such thing as a bad idea, said Jim Winchester, director of quality assurance at Plumley Companies, Inc., in Paris, Tenn.

To prove his point, he gave the following example.

"I can tell you in four words. Teenage-Mutant-Ninja-Turtles. Is there anything more stupid than that."

"The top toy-maker in the country wouldn't touch it, but look now at the popularity and the products generated from it," he said.

Ideas involving employees and empowerment were just a few of the phrases used by Winchester and Dick Fotsch, vice president and general manager of Briggs and Stratton's small engine division, to describe how their companies are making quality products.

Obion deputy fired; Teeters arraigned

UNION CITY, Tenn. (AP) — One deputy has been fired and two others suspended at the small-town jail where an accused child killer escaped and led authorities on a nine-day chase. Howard "Mo" Teeters had his first court appearance Thursday, the day after he was returned to the Obion County Jail. He heard the charges against him and was assigned a public defender.

Teeters, 24, is accused of raping and killing his wife's 12-year-old stepdaughter. He was recaptured Tuesday about 10 miles south of Union City.

Sheriff Ewell Baker said a pair of pliers was left in Teeters' cell and he was improperly watched by deputies.

Investigators have no evidence that Teeters was assisted in the escape or afterward, said prosecutor Thomas Thomas.

Baker said he fired one deputy and suspended two others for two weeks. He did not identify them.

Bad news for Bush...

 ered in a debate dominated by questions about jobs, health care, the deficit, crime and education, and a format more typical of day-time television talk shows than any past presidential debate.
 "If in the next five minutes a television announcer came on and said, 'There is a major international crisis ...' my question is: Who, if you were appointed to choose one of the three of us, who would you choose?" Bush said. "Who has the perseverance, the character, the integrity, the maturity to get the job done? I hope I'm that person."
 Perot's closing echoed his candid debate answers.
 "If they just want to keep slow dancing and talk about it and not do it, I'm not your man," the Texas billionaire said. "I am results oriented. I am action oriented."
 The only personal attack came early, when Bush raised anew Clinton's role in overseas protests against the Vietnam War 23 years ago, in response to a man who asked why the candidates were "trashing their opponents' character" instead of talking issues.

 Bush said character was important and criticized Clinton for taking part in protests, and also, Bush said, for reversing himself on major issues.
 "I do think you can't turn the White House into the Waffle House," Bush said.
 But the discussion turned tame for good when the very next questioner chastised the candidates again: "Can we focus on the issues and not the personalities and the mud?"
 From there, the men politely disagreed as Clinton blamed Bush for the sour economy and a lack of national health care policy, Bush painted Clinton as a tax-and-spend Democrat and Perot blamed both parties for Washington gridlock and for ducking responsibility for the deficit.

Brenda Marquardt, local Red Cross secretary, Dr. Donald E. Jones, chairman, and Peggy Billington, executive director, hold up the Calloway County chapter's original charter.

Dr. Ruth Cole presented a history of the activities of the Calloway County chapter of the American Red Cross. Dr. Cole has been a Red Cross volunteer for 50 years.

Red Cross chapter celebrates 75 years

The Calloway County chapter of the American Red Cross celebrated 75 years of service to people in need Thursday night.
 The local chapter received its American Red Cross charter on June 28, 1917. The local chapter now offers services including military messages, safety courses, youth services (swimming lessons, lifeguard and basic aid training, etc.), disaster preparation and aid, blood drives and referrals.
 Most recently, the Calloway County chapter has sent extensive aid to the people affected by Hurricane Andrew in Florida. Calloway County Red Cross executive director Peggy Billington said she believes $10,000 will have been directed to hurricane relief efforts from the county by Christmas.

 Billington also noted that the Red Cross's goals of service to the community have been helped by becoming a United Way agency.
 "We are being much more productive since we've become a United Way agency," Billington said. "We're able to do a lot more for the community due to the United Way."

 The two were part of the "Commitment to Quality Workshop" at Murray State University Thursday.

Both companies dominate their markets. Briggs and Stratton's small engine division in Murray employs 700 people and is the top producer of small engines. Plumley is the number one manufacturer of rubber tubing and hoses for the automotive industry.

The two companies have come a long way in defining and achieving a level of quality in their products.
 Fotsch said Briggs and Stratton makes 7 million engines a year, with 5 million being produced in the small engine division.
 He pointed out that the definition of quality has changed for the company. Now it embraces the idea that quality is the customer's perception of the product or service relative to his expectations.

"Our objective is to provide products and service that consistently meet or exceed our customer's expectations," Fotsch said.
 Fotsch said that up until 1985 the company's form of quality control was through the inspection system. But by 1989, management realized that quality should be an organization-wide issue.

 Through the work-team concept, the company's goal has been to reduce costs. Fotsch said the company has learned some lessons using this approach.
 The first program was called "The Best Program," but company officials found that supervisors managed around the groups and didn't empower the workers.
 In the newest program — "Business Improvement Teams" — the teams are affiliated with making a product. If their product is a carburetor, the team works to make the best one it can, making improvements along the way.
 Management at Plumley Companies, Inc., believes strongly in involving workers in the manufacturing process. The privately owned company employs 1,200 people.
 Winchester said he had heard of quality defined as never having to say you are sorry.
 "We didn't always have a high standard of quality. We would ship out products that weren't up to standards, but we would hope they would get by," he said.

In the early 1980s, that changed when Plumley lost one of its biggest customers due to such practices. That's when the company turned around.
 "Our goal then and now is to be the best manufacturer of rubber products in the world," Winchester said.
 The company underwent a shift in management focus from decision by command to decision by consensus.
 "Our employees didn't have the best working conditions. But we got away from that when we realized that our people are important," he said.
 He cited three aspects of obtaining quality as being management focus, capital investment and employee involvement.
 Involving workers takes several forms at Plumley, including continuing education, a suggestion program and savings and sharings.
 Plumley workers have gone from spending two and a half hours a year on education in 1982 to a current average of 70 hours a year.
 Winchester said the suggestion program, which provides for cash incentive awards to employees, has saved the company $400,000 to $500,000 a year.

 Teeters' escape angered Union City residents and many said they feared for their own safety while he was free.

The Tennessee Bureau of Investigation looked into the escape and determined no criminal wrongdoing was involved on the part of jail personnel, Thomas said.

Thomas said the pliers left in Teeters' cell were used to operate a shower with a broken water faucet. Also, a window air conditioner in the cell was poorly secured.

Teeters used the pliers to break a padlock on a wire screen over the air conditioner, the TBI said. He then climbed down a 50-foot utility pipe on the outside of the jail.

Teeters is accused of killing Amanda Dawn Rhoades, a Union City seventh-grader.

She disappeared Sept. 30 while walking to school. Her body was found the next day in some woods on the outskirts of town.

Miss Rhoades was raped and then strangled, authorities said. Her killer tried unsuccessfully to dismember her body.

'SIGNALS' RAISE NEW POW-MIA QUESTIONS

WASHINGTON — On Jan. 22, 1988, an unmanned drone flying over northern Laos snapping high-resolution pictures captured an image of a rice paddy near the village of Sam Neua. It was nearly a year before analysts at the Defense Intelligence Agency examined the photograph, and they didn't need their sophisticated imaging equipment to see the letters "USA" etched in the rice. Was it an optical illusion, like a face in the clouds? Or was it a Laotian love note using letters that resemble the English alphabet? Or was it a plea for rescue by a U.S. pilot held captive since the end of the Vietnam War? The Senate Select Committee on POW-MIA Affairs explored those questions Thursday and planned to continue the inquiry in closed session today. DIA analysts quickly confirmed by using their image-enhancing techniques that the 12-by-35-foot "USA" letters were deliberately stamped or cut out of the rice paddy. They were less sure about what looked like a letter "K" nearby. Pilots are instructed to signal using the letter K if they land in enemy territory and forget their specific rescue code number. "The symbol was only observed once," Duane Andrews, assistant defense secretary for intelligence, told the committee Thursday. "By the time it was discovered in December 1988 by Central Intelligence Agency and immediately brought to DIA's attention, it was no longer observable on the ground." The year's delay between the drone's mission and the discovery of the "USA" image left the committee to guess its significance. "The 'USA' symbol remains unexplained," Andrews said. The sighting was only one of dozens collected by U.S. intelligence officials since the closing years of the Vietnam War. Andrews said most turn out to be shadows or random forms in foliage rather than messages from POWs. Only two remain unexplained: the "USA" symbol and a number-letter combination, "1973-TH" photographed in Laos in 1973. As in past hearings of the POW-MIA committee, the testimony sparked disagreement among panel members and between senators and witnesses over the possibility that American POWs may still be alive in Southeast Asia.

'DYING IS NOT SO HARD'

MAHOVLJANI AIR BASE, Bosnia-Herzegovina — The rebels who run the Bosnian Serb air force are determined not to give up their warplanes, a defiant stand that could provoke Western military intervention. "We are all prepared to die," said Col. Ugljesa Paucic, commander of the combat wing of the air fleet based at Mahovljani Air Base in the northwestern Bosnian town of Banja Luka. "Dying is not so hard as some people think." Radovan Karadzic, leader of Bosnia's Serbs, told international peace negotiators in Geneva on Monday that he would allow the rebel aircraft to be moved to neighboring Yugoslavia, where the planes would be monitored by U.N. officials. But on Thursday, air force commander Zivomir Ninkovic said he would not give up the planes.

SURVIVOR FOUND IN CAIRO RUBBLE

CAIRO, Egypt — Rescuers using dogs and electronic equipment today found a survivor beneath the rubble of Monday's earthquake, and pulled him from shattered apartments that had become a tomb for his wife and daughter. The official Middle East News Agency quoted its reporter, Abdullah Hassan, as saying Aksam Sayed Ismail screamed in pain as he was pulled out, and later asked for water. Rescuers also discovered the bodies of his Italian wife and 4-year-old daughter Samira, MENA reported. A round-the-clock search since Monday continued early today at the site, though there was no estimate on the number missing under the 70-apartment building.

Guatemalan activist wins Nobel peace prize

By LAURINDA KEYS
Associated Press Writer

OSLO, Norway — Rigoberta Menchu, an outspoken Indian rights activist from Guatemala and an orphan of that country's civil war, won the Nobel Peace Prize today.

Menchu was awarded the prize "in recognition of her work for social justice and ethno-cultural reconciliation, based on respect for the rights of indigenous peoples," said the Norwegian Nobel Committee, which awarded the $1.2 million prize.

The award came on the 500th anniversary of the arrival of Europeans in the Americas, and the committee indicated this played a role in its selection.

Guatemala's military had denounced Menchu's nomination for the prize, and was certain to condemn the award as well.

The 33-year-old Indian woman fled her homeland in 1981 after her father, mother and brother were killed by security forces. She lives in exile in Mexico.

But she was in Guatemala today as part of her work to coordinate a commemoration of the resistance of Indians in her country, in response to Columbus celebrations.

She learned of the honor from the Norwegian ambassador to Mexico. With tears in her eyes, she hugged a supporter, Zitalino Simlox, and said, "Thank you

Mr. ambassador, the people of Guatemala are going to be very happy with this news."

Simlox told her, "It's all yours, and in honor of your father."

Menchu has said she would use the prize money to further her work for the rights of Guatemalan Indians, who make up 53 percent of the Central American nation's 9 million people.

"Today, Rigoberta Menchu stands out as a vivid symbol of peace and reconciliation across ethnic cultural and social dividing lines, in her own country, on the American continent and in the world," said the Nobel Committee citation.

Menchu (men-CHU) won international acclaim with the 1983 publication of "I Rigoberta," a book translated into 11 languages that recounts Indian persecution as she grew up during the civil war.

Rightist security forces are blamed for the deaths of as many as 50,000 Guatemalans, most of them highland Indians, during the violent anti-leftist campaigns in the 1980s. More than 120,000 people have been killed in the 30-year-old conflict.

Prior to the announcement that Menchu had won, military spokesman Julio Alberto Yon told The Associated Press: "To give her the prize would be a political victory for the guerrillas."

Ford and Bunning leaders in health-care contributions

LEXINGTON, Ky. (AP) — Sen. Wendell Ford and Rep. Jim Bunning lead all other congressional candidates from Kentucky in accepting contributions from health-care interests this campaign, a citizens group reported.

Ford, D-Owensboro, the Senate majority whip, accepted $122,690 between January 1991 and June 30, 1992, according to Citizen Action.

He was No. 23 among all senators. Sen. Robert Packwood, R-Ore., who accepted $317,339, was first.

Bunning, R-Southgate, received $82,785, ranking 13th among all House members. Richard Gephardt, D-Mo., was first with $302,469.

Dr. Floyd G. Poore, who is challenging Bunning in the 4th District, was No. 3 among House members and candidates from Kentucky. He accepted $14,450 from individual physicians and insurance agents.

The amount of money candidates accept from health-care interests is important because it could influence health-care reform, said John Machnic, director of Kentucky Citizen Action, the state chapter of the Washington group.

Here's the Citizen Action list, which does not include candidates who accepted no significant contributions from health-care interests:

—Senate: Ford, $122,690; Mitch McConnell, R-Louisville, $3,875.

—House: Bunning, $82,785; U.S. Rep. Hal Rogers, R-Somerset, $19,550; Poore, $14,450; Lexington Mayor Scotty Baesler, 6th District candidate, $11,350; U.S. Rep. Romano Mazzoli, D-Louisville, $2,600.

Letters to the Editor

Appreciates Heathcott, McIntosh

Dear Editor:

It is the inner-man of Dr. Eldon Heathcott and Mr. Dwain McIntosh that makes them alike. Compassion for their fellow man and woman. The latter I write with tongue in cheek. Dr. Heathcott made every effort while I was a student in his animal science class to include me in all the projects. For instance, on a ranch in Tennessee, he had fellow students lift my wheelchair, with me in it, onto a pick-up truck. He made sure that I did not bounce out of the truck by having two of the "boys" sit on either side of me holding onto the wheelchair. Dr. Heathcott advised me to notice that he always picked the handsome, good-looking fellows to sit with me. Everytime the class visited the MSU cow barns, Dr. Heathcott asked two of the fellows to carry me in my wheelchair like a chaise so that I did not have to wheel through the muck and manure.

I could go on and on, singing the praises of Dr. Heathcott. In his class, I have never had the feeling of being out in left field. I have followed Mr. Dwain McIntosh's "perspective editorials" for a long time. In these I find the same caring qualities that Dr. Heathcott possesses. Mr. McIntosh writes with great sensitivity and understanding. Just recently, the editorial on Herman Roberts, after whom VFW Post 6291 is named, was touching and very sincere. Eddie was only 19 years old when he gave his life for his country. The editorial regarding the POWs and MIAs really tells the citizen of the United States of America (The U.S. government) that they have not done what should have been for the men who gave their all for their country.

With all of his great sensitivity and understanding, Mr. Dwain McIntosh proves in the article written about himself and Dr. Heathcott that he also has a terrific sense of humor.

Wilson family expresses gratitude

Dear Editor:

The family of Hugh Eddie Wilson would like to thank the many friends who have been so thoughtful over the past weeks since his death. We all loved and respected the man and knew that he was well liked and yet the outpouring of sentiments from so many was overwhelming. It was comforting to share our grief and uplifting to hear about the experiences and relationships you all shared with Hugh Wilson. Everybody had a Hugh Eddie story.

On behalf of Hugh's widow Dot, their children Becky and Michael, and the entire family, thanks to all of you who are a part of the community he loved so much.

State Editorial Roundup

The Independent, Ashland:

State Rep. Gregory Stumbo, D-Prestonsburg, has an odd definition of a cheerleader.

In a sharp attack on Education Commissioner Thomas Boyesen, the House majority floor leader said, "I think it's time we get rid of the cheerleader and bring on the quarterback and players."

In our book, a cheerleader is a non-participant who merely roots from the sidelines. That description doesn't fit Boyesen.

It is Boyesen whose action led to the resignation of former Boyd County superintendent Delmis Donta and the removal of former Floyd County superintendent Ron Hager.

It is Boyesen who is putting pressures on numerous school districts to shape up or face state control.

It is Boyesen who authorized a report that sharply criticized the management of the Floyd County school district.

That doesn't sound like the actions of a cheerleader, but of someone who is actively trying to improve Kentucky's public schools. ...

Stumbo, we suspect, was addressing his remarks to his constituents in Floyd County, where Boyesen is less than popular. Some there argue that he has not done enough to effect change, while others accuse him of trying to micro-manage the system from afar.

Boyesen was wise not to respond to Stumbo's remarks. His record speaks for itself. Despite resistance from many quarters, progress is taking place in Kentucky's schools.

Just drop us a line ...

It's been a few years, but it's still all too easy for me to remember the killing rage I was in, standing outside my neighbor's door in my underwear at midnight. And it's all too easy to remember the helpless frustration I felt the next day.

I was living in what can kindly be referred to as a dive. The walls were thin in the four-apartment building, and when I moved in the family below me had kids who played basketball inside the house, the guy next to me played loud video games, and I soon learned how to drown out the thumps, screams, blasts and beeps by turning up my radio or television. Sometimes I would leave the radio on as I went to bed, finding it easier to sleep to rock'n'roll than the overtime period of the NBA finals going on underneath.

That family moved out and another moved in; a guy, girl and daughter. Out of habit, I continued to turn the volume up. And, to this day, I feel guilty about not realizing sooner what was going on.

Because the screams and the thumps continued.

One night I left the radio off. I was jolted awake by the thumping and the screams — and the barely audible begging. Suddenly realizing what was going on, I ran down the stairs, around the building to the front door of the apartment and began banging on the door and yelling.

It got quiet inside, but no one came to the door until I loudly said I would break it in. The guy opened the door. He was drunk. The girl hovered in the back of the room. The child was nowhere to be seen. The guy was friendly: "Hey, what's going on?", as if I was an old buddy come to play cards.

I grabbed him by the throat and squeezed; he grabbed my hands. I told him I knew what was going on; that if I ever heard him beating her again I would first call the cops, then beat the cops to the door, and they could have what was left of him.

I let go, he rubbed his throat and said he hadn't been hitting her. I could see her blackened eye from the door, and his denial angered me and I balled up my fist. He backed away and said okay, that he was sorry. That it was the first time it had happened and wouldn't happen again.

I told him he was lying about it being the first time, but that he'd better be telling the truth about it being the last time. Suddenly sickened, I left, and spent the rest of the night listening.

The next day, I talked to relatives of his who worked with me. They knew what I was talking about, said he was "trash," a frustrated young man, a drinker. I talked to the police, who said there was little they could do unless the girl filed a complaint. They advised me to stay out of it.

That afternoon, I was home when a knock came at my door. It was the girl. Her face was bruised. She was crying. We sat down on my steps and talked.

She begged me not to hurt him. She begged me not to call the cops or say anything to anyone about it.

I couldn't believe it. She said — looking at me out of her swollen eyes — that he didn't really hurt her, that she brought most of it on because she made him mad, that maybe she deserved it.

I urged her to talk to someone who could help her. She said no, that if anything was done about him beating her, they would be separated, and that she didn't want to be alone. She said that he really was good to her in some ways, and that he never ever beat the child. I said he doesn't have to, the child sees him beating her, and that in itself was a form of abuse. She said nothing to that.

Finally she stood up and thanked me for being concerned, then asked me not to do anything else about it. I told her if I ever heard it again, I would do exactly what I had said I would do. She said she didn't want to be alone, and then she left.

Within two weeks, they moved out.

Don't expect any happy endings to this story. It haunts me to this day — thinking I shouldn't have done anything, thinking I should have done more. It came back to me when a girl I care about told me of her past, and how she had once let a boyfriend continually beat her until the night he almost killed her. And it came back to me again when I heard about the rape case in the Southwest recently, where a grand jury refused to indict the rapist because the victim had asked him to wear a condom so she wouldn't risk exposure to AIDS.

I don't know if there is a connection between abuse and rape, but I think there is. I think it has something to do with the perpetrator being unable to deal with feelings, and something to do with the way such actions often go unreported because women have been brought up to see themselves as victims, and something to do with the way our society doesn't quite know what to do about such things.

I hope we're learning. I hope men are learning how to deal with their own inadequacies without inflicting pain on someone else. I hope women are learning that they don't have to put up with anything that victimizes them. And I hope our society is learning that we have to do more to stop these abuses — rape, date rape, spouse abuse, child abuse — or we will never be able to stop the ever-increasing cycle of violence in our world.

I've told this story to a few friends, but have never told it publicly. I've tried to several times, but always backed off. It was not an easy column to write. I'm sure it wasn't easy to read, for many people out there.

Life is too short, too sweet, to spend it being either a victim or a victimizer. If you've been a victim, report it — and follow through. If you've been a victimizer, seek help. It's not easy. But it is crucial.

Debate left Bush in the cold

By TERENCE HUNT
Associated Press News Analysis

WASHINGTON — The second debate showed why President Bush is in real danger of losing the election. He wanted to talk about Bill Clinton's character and integrity while the audience wanted to hear about the economy, crime and health care.

The election isn't shaping up as a referendum about trust, as Bush would cast it, but about economic hope and safe streets, fair trade and better schools. Those are grounds that favor Clinton, who promises change, and it left Bush out in the cold, running out of time for a comeback.

"President Bush didn't have a lot of zip," complained Wisconsin state Senate Republican Leader Michael G. Ellis. "Did he close the gap? I'd say no. Clinton acted like he had the election in the bag."

After Dan Quayle's aggressive performance in the vice presidential debate, many people had expected Bush to turn up the heat and follow suit. It didn't happen; Bush, Clinton and Ross Perot were on their best behavior.

"I was disappointed that Mr. Bush didn't exploit the openings that Quayle gave him the other night," said William Hudnut, a Republican former mayor of Indianapolis. "I really thought he was going to come out firing, and he didn't. I was looking for fireworks and there weren't any fireworks tonight."

Thursday's debate was unique in that the questions came from an audience of uncommitted voters rather than a panel of reporters or a single moderator. And the audience told the candidates to stop trashing each other.

"Can we focus on the issues and not the personalities and the mud?" one questioner asked.

Bush briefly renewed his criticism of Clinton for demonstrating overseas against the Vietnam War in 1969 and 1970.

"You can call it mud wrestling, but I think it's fair," Bush said. "I am deeply troubled by someone who demonstrates and organizes demonstrations in a foreign land when his country's at war."

Bush also accused Clinton of trying to take both sides on issues.

"You can't turn the White House into the waffle house," the president said.

Clinton didn't take the bait. "I've been disturbed by the tone and the tenor of this campaign," Clinton said. "I'm not interested in his character. I want to change the character of the presidency."

The questions focused on problems plaguing the country, although Bush, in his closing statement, asked viewers to consider "who has the perseverance, the character, the integrity, the maturity" to deal with a major international crisis.

Clinton, however, got the last word, reminding the audience that he has been endorsed by dozens of retired generals and admirals and hitting Bush again on the economy.

"We've had 12 years of trickle-down economics," Clinton said in what has become the drumbeat of his campaign.

"George Bush got suckered by accepting this format," said Martin Wattenberg, a political scientist at the University of California at Irvine. "If there's one thing he wanted, it was a foreign-policy debate. By turning it over to the people he got a domestic debate."

James Thurber, director of the Center for Congressional and Presidential Studies at American University, said the "public was the real winner."

More than the others, Clinton appeared comfortable with the give and take — he's been doing it all year. Television viewers saw audience members nodding in agreement as Clinton spoke. And if they watched carefully, they saw Bush stealing glances at his watch.

Perot remained the master of snappy lines, sometimes sandwiched in filibuster-long answers. He promised more detail in his campaign commercials, urging viewers over and over again to tune in for a half-hour and hour tonight and Saturday night.

"Perot is completely non-specific. He speaks in slogans and never tells you how to do it," said Nelson Polsby, director of the Institute of Governmental Studies at the University of California at Berkeley.

"Perot's going to start wearing thin," Wattenberg said.

All three candidates will meet again Monday night for the debate finale in East Lansing, Mich. It will be Bush's last face-to-face opportunity to produce the new offensive that might close the gap with Clinton in the polls. After that, it will be just two weeks until the election.

Paul Light, associate dean of the Hubert H. Humphrey Institute of Public Affairs at the University of Minnesota, said Bush deserved credit for not taking the low road Thursday night despite the bleak prospects for his campaign.

"I think he did a lot of good in restoring some respect and stature to his presidency and to his reputation as an ex-president," Light said.

Two thin men accused of trying to steal barbells

LONG BEACH, Calif. (AP) — Two thin burglars didn't get very far trying to steal six 45-pound barbells from a gym. Police responding to an alarm at the Buffum-Downtown YMCA early Wednesday found the two struggling to push the barbells in a rickety shopping cart that kept tipping over. "They weren't even very big guys," said Tim Hardy, the gym's physical education director. As police approached, the two men hoisted the barbells into a trash bin. The barbells are worth about 60 cents a pound. The two were arrested for investigation of commercial burglary, police said.

Environmental scholarships ready for 1993-94 school year

FRANKFORT, KY. — Environmental Protection Scholarships are being offered for the third year by the Kentucky Department for Environmental Protection. The scholarship program helps fund education for students interested in pursuing careers in environmental fields. It also helps provide employees for critical positions in the department. Each scholarship is intended to cover the approximate in-state cost of tuition, room and board, books and fees. Award recipients must be - or must become - enrolled in one of Kentucky's eight public universities. Those eligible for awards for the 1993-1994 academic year will have completed at least 60 semester hours of college credit. Undergraduates with majors in agricultural engineering, civil engineering, chemical engineering, or chemistry; or individuals who plan post-graduate study in groundwater hydrology, toxicology, or public health are eligible for consideration. Scholarship award recipients are expected to work full-time for the department immediately after graduation. The department expects each award recipient to work the equivalent of one 12-month year for each academic year (two semesters) of aid received. Before graduation, the scholarship students are expected to work in the department when they are not in school. The scholarships were established through the 1990-1992 Environmental Management Plan. Awards were given to nine students for the first year of the program, the 1991-1992 academic year. Four more students received scholarships for the 1992-1993 school year. Recipients are enrolled at Murray, Morehead, Eastern, the University of Kentucky, and the University of Louisville. The scholarship program is administered by the Kentucky Water Resources Research Institute. The advisory board of the Institute, with representatives from universities throughout the state, reviews all applications. Selections are made on a competitive basis. Applications are available at financial aid offices and selected departments of universities and colleges located throughout the state. The filing deadline is Feb. 15, 1993. Students who may be interested should obtain an application and start preparing it now. For more information about the environmental scholarships or to request an application, contact the Kentucky Water Resources Research Institute, 341 Bowman Hall, Lexington, Ky. 40506-0059 (telephone 606/257-1299).

Portrait of Kentucky judge unveiled

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — Family, friends and 12 federal judges turned out for the unveiling of a recently completed portrait of the late Thomas A. Ballantine Jr. Ballantine, who died in February and was a U.S. District Court judge for nearly 15 years, was remembered Wednesday by Ronald Meredith, chief federal judge of Kentucky's Western District, as "one of the finest judges and one of the finest men I have ever known." Meredith, who officiated at the ceremony, said Ballantine's death was a great loss to the court, which appreciated him as a friend and colleague. The portrait, which will hang in a courtroom at the Gene Snyder Courthouse in Louisville, shows Ballantine seated, wearing his black robe. It was painted from family photographs by local artist John Michael Carter. Ballantine, who died at age 65 following an eight-month struggle with lung cancer, was appointed to the federal bench in 1977 by then-President Jimmy Carter. Before that, he served for 13 years as a Jefferson Circuit judge and for two years as a Jefferson County commissioner.

Mr. and Mrs. Stephen Christopher Smith Bailey-Smith wedding vows solemnized here

Miss Elizabeth Ann Bailey, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Gene N. Bailey of Murray, and Stephen Christopher Smith, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Smith of Marion, Ill., were married in a summer ceremony at First Baptist Church, Murray.

The candlelight ceremony was officiated by the Rev. George Smith of Marion, Ill., grandfather of the groom, and Dr. Greg Earwood. Music was provided by Julie Willis, soloist, Belinda Williams, pianist, and Richard Jones, organist.

Vows were exchanged before an altar decorated with spiral candelabra and spring floral arrangements. Windows of the church were decorated with hurricane candles and magnolia leaves. Family pews were marked with white and navy illusion bows and ivy.

The bride was escorted to the altar by her father and given in marriage by her parents.

The wedding gown, designed by the bride, was of tissue taffeta with a v-shaped neckline and was covered with seed pearls and sequins. The fingertip veil, also designed by the bride, was made by her mother.

She carried a bouquet of white calla lilies surrounded with illusion. Mrs. Carrie Paschall Brown of Chicago, Ill., served as matron of honor. Other attendants were Donna Bailey Park and Karen Bailey Harlow, sisters of the bride, both of Memphis, Tenn., Toni Parks, Carrier Mills, Ill., cousin of the groom, and Pat Thompson, McAllen, Texas. Kristie Smith, sister of the groom, was junior bridesmaid.

They wore identical gowns of midnight blue satin. Each carried a bouquet of salmon colored roses.

Flower girls were Rachael Park and Wendy Park of Memphis, nieces of the bride. Their tea length dresses were of peach tissue taffeta, identical to the bridesmaids.

Serving as best man was Greg Mullican, St. Louis, Mo. Groomsman were Dereck Pahl, Champaign, Ill., Doug Clarida, Marion, Ill., Matt Pearboom, Carmi, Ill., and David Bailey, brother of the bride.

The ushers were Robert Lyons of Henderson and Danny Harlow, Memphis, brother-in-law of the bride.

The groom and male attendants all wore black tuxedos. The groom's boutonniere was a white rose and those of the attendants were peach roses.

The guest register was kept by Stephanie Dunn of Covington, Ga., cousin of the bride.

Directing the wedding was Lisa O'Nan. A reception, catered by Vickie Geurin, followed in the Fellowship Hall of the church.

The four-tiered wedding cake was decorated with ivy and calla lilies. Silver and crystal appointments were used, with a centerpiece of white calla lilies. Hors d'oeuvres were served from a table with a centerpiece of peach iris.

Servers were Barbara Heate, Toni Parks, Carol Bailey and Cindy Karl. They were assisted by Jean Lewis and Jean Bailey.

After a wedding trip to New Orleans, La., and Biloxi, Miss., the new Mr. and Mrs. Smith are residing in Murray.

The rehearsal dinner, hosted by the groom's parents, was at Brass Lantern, Aurora. This was for the wedding party and out-of-town guests.

Bridal events given in honor of the couple included a bridal brunch at H.R.H. Dumplin's; a tea given by Betty Lyons, Margaret Terhune and Jean Bailey at the Lyons' home; a bridal shower given by Belinda Williams, Carrie Paschall and Barbara Heate; a miscellaneous shower given by Lisa O'Nan, Paula Bougouis and Missy Demoss at the O'Nan home.

'Remember Morehead' coach urges team

By MICHAEL BANKS
Murray Ledger & Times Staff Writer

Don't gawk at the four giants standing in line at the video store. They may very well hold the key to Murray State's success against Morehead State Saturday afternoon.

Entrenched in the muck of an eight-game road losing streak spanning two seasons, the Racers (2-4 and 1-3 in the Ohio Valley Conference) will be shaking up their regular road routine when they travel to Morehead State's (0-5 and 0-2) Jacobs Field.

Gone are two meals on the road and an early departing time.

In place is a late, Friday afternoon departure and videos for the five-hour bus ride to eastern Kentucky.

"The reason we're doing it is because what we've been doing in the past obviously hasn't been working," said Mike Mahoney, who has won only five of 30 road games in his six seasons as the Racers head coach.

Included in that streak is a 69-6 loss in Morehead during the 1990 season. A loss which Mahoney calls his "worst experience in coaching."

"If you get hit in the head so many times, you've got to change something. This is just going to be a different way of doing it," said Mahoney, who has compiled a respectable 18-11-1 mark in the friendly confines of Stewart Stadium.

A big "Rocky"-esque win Saturday will put an end to the miserable streak, but a loss to the cellar-dwelling Eagles will leave Racers fans wondering if MSU left "The Littlest Mermaid" running before stepping off the bus.

Obviously, Mahoney would like to see a "Road Warriors" performance when the Homecoming game kicks off at 12:30.

"You've got to face reality and Morehead State is reality this week," Mahoney said Tuesday during his weekly press luncheon. "We didn't have a very pleasant experience the last time we went up there. But this week's game is like those guys at the Alamo getting another chance to go back and fight."

The only difference was Jim Bowie and Davey Crockett knew what they'd be up against in Santa Anna and the Mexican Army. Mahoney isn't quite sure what the Racers will face come Saturday.

"They've shown us three different offenses. I don't really know which one is going to show up," said Mahoney, who is 3-2 against the Eagles.

The offensive juggling act has been a direct result of Morehead's inability to score as the Eagles come into the OVC tilt averaging just 7 points a game. Their offensive high came last week when they fell to Tennessee State 24-14. Averages of less than 200 yards a game in total offense and less than three yards a play speak for Morehead's offensive woes.

"They're basically a running team," Mahoney said. "They'll run the veer and they're also an option team."

Morehead State's strength, similar to Murray State's, will be their rushing defense, which is giving up a stingy 119 yards a game.

Junior linebacker Fred Johnson, who Mahoney labels as "one of the better defensive players in the league," heads the Morehead State defense as he's collected 24 tackles, caused two fumbles and recorded a team-high six sacks. "Defensively they're very aggressive. They've got an excellent defense and their rushing defense is their main strength," Mahoney said. "It's been their defense in the past which has created problems for us."

Air Jordan's gambling debts total $57,000

CHICAGO (AP) — Michael Jordan has admitted publicly for the first time that the $57,000 check he gave a North Carolina man was to pay off gambling debts, a newspaper reported today.

"I lost it gambling," Jordan told the Chicago Sun-Times. "That's all there is to it. And that's what I'm going to say in court. I'm going to tell the truth."

Jordan lost the money playing poker, dice and golf in October 1991 while his Chicago Bulls teammates were visiting the White House, receiving congratulations from President George Bush for winning their first NBA title, the Sun-Times reported.

Jordan has been subpoenaed to testify in the trial of convicted cocaine dealer James "Slim" Boulter. The trial is scheduled to start Tuesday in U.S. District Court in Charlotte, N.C.

Jordan and Boulter had said the money was a loan to help Boulter build a golf driving range. Court documents filed by U.S. Attorney Tom Ashcraft allege it was a pay-off for a golf gambling debt.

Like John Elway or Joe Montana, two minutes was all Murray High's girls' soccer team needed.

In a flash: Sammons from Uddberg — Miller from Sammons — Miller unassisted.

In the time it takes to watch back-to-back campaign ads on television, Murray High struck for three goals and held on for a 3-2 victory to dash Calloway's hopes of obtaining its biggest win of the year Thursday night at Murray's Ty Holland Stadium.

"I saw some of them (Lady Lakers) crying after the game," Calloway coach Joy Waldrop said of her team's pain of being so close to a stunning win.

Calloway scored its first goal of the year against the Lady Tigers to take a 1-0 lead midway through the second half, but Murray's quick strike offense went on to hand three on the board before the scoreboard operator could press the buttons.

"Three goals in two minutes," Calloway coach Jeff Enoch muttered afterwards. "They have so many people that can score. Most teams just have a few.

"They're definitely the best team in the region that I've seen," the coach added, having lost to the Lady Tigers twice before this season. "You hate to lose any game, but to get beat by a team like that is nothing to be ashamed of."

Murray coach John Gressler realized his team, while sluggish at times, did what it had to boost its record to 14-0.

"This team just rises to the occasion," the coach said. "They know when to turn it on. It's frustrating for the coach, but they give you that extra effort when they have to."

Tracey West, a junior in her first year of soccer, gave Calloway its first goal and first lead of the season on the Lady Tigers when she broke behind the Murray defense and pushed a shot past goalkeeper Emma Shaw to

HOPKINSVILLE — Christian County was the site of win No. 9 for the Calloway County boys' soccer team, as the Lakers came away with a hard-earned 2-0 victory Thursday.

Calloway's Beau Jones scored both of the Laker goals en route to the victory which bumped Calloway's record to 9-8-2. The score wasn't indicative of how dominating Calloway was. Several shots went off the post during their onslaught of 25 shots.

Calloway goalkeeper Paul Hart had more problems with the flu than with Christian County, especially since the Colonels managed just nine shots.

Jones opened the scoring early in the first half when he took advantage of a mistake in communications by the Colonel defense.

Christian's goalkeeper came out and the fullback came in but neither got the ball as Jones came through and poked the ball into the net.

The Colonels, now 7-9-1, never recovered as Calloway continued relentless pressure, especially in the second half.

Jones picked up the team's second-half goal off a rebound shot from his brother, Brock. Brock Jones, a freshman, played well at forward Thursday night, getting off several close shots.

Calloway finishes off the regular season at home Tuesday night against Trigg County. That night has been designated "Senior Night." The game begins at 5 p.m. with recognition of both the boys and girls soccer players at halftime.

Title within Grogan's reach Top Tiger three strokes back of leaders

Staff Report
Murray Ledger & Times

VINE GROVE, Ky. — Going into the Boys State Golf Tournament, Adam Grogan had his sights set on claiming the state title after finishing fourth in last year's tourney.

The Murray High junior finds himself well within range as he shook off the pressure of the favorite's role and a strong wind in Thursday's first round to stay among the leaders.

Grogan shot a six-over-par 78 to stay within striking distance of North Hardin's Josh Crowley, who shot a 75 to lead after the first 18 holes here at the Lincoln Trail Country Club.

St. Xavier's Jason Black is one stroke back of Crowley, while DeSales' Chad Norrenbrock, St. Xavier's Keith Hoard and Somerset's Ryan Tucker are all tied for third place with a 77.

Grogan, who finished fourth in last year's state tourney, is bunched together along with six other golfers who are three strokes back of the leader.

While Grogan was having a good day, the remainder of the Murray High boys' team was struggling. Senior Todd Thomas, who played in last year's state meet, finished with a 84, while Ryan Haverstock closed with a 87 and Jeremiah Rayburn finished with a 94.

The 343 team score left Murray tied for 13th along with Glasgow and Mason County in the 59th annual event. St. Xavier has a commanding lead over the rest of the pack, as they finished with a 314; 16 strokes better than Tates Creek and Casey County, who are tied for second. Ballard is fourth with a 331 team score. Grayson County and Pikeville are tied at 334.

Calloway County's Jesse Rooker, who won last week's First Region tournament, stumbled Thursday with a 83; leaving him in the middle of the pack of 121 golfers.

The final round got underway this morning at 9 a.m., with the leaders set to tee off around 11 a.m.

McCarver dumps on Deion

NEW YORK (AP) — Tim McCarver says Atlanta Braves outfielder Deion Sanders committed an act of cowardice when he dumped ice water on him three times, and he wants National League president Bill White to do something about it.

Sanders poured the ice water on the CBS announcer after Wednesday night's game, when the Braves beat Pittsburgh 3-2 for the National League pennant. The act was in apparent retaliation for comments McCarver made, criticizing Sanders for playing in an Atlanta Falcons football game Sunday before rejoining his baseball team that night.

"How can he leave in the playoffs and go play in a football game?" McCarver asked during Saturday's telecast. "... The way I look at it, that's just flat wrong and I guess could be construed as a breach of contract."

McCarver said the first time Sanders doused him, he was so shocked he pulled a muscle in the right side of his back. After he was doused a third time while doing interviews, McCarver said he went in search of Sanders in the Braves clubhouse.

"I didn't know what I would do or say, but as I was going toward the middle of the clubhouse, Sanders was creeping up with another tub of water," McCarver said on a conference call (Cont'd on page 11)

Vikings out early to beat Lions 31-14

By PAM SCHMID
AP Sports Writer

MINNEAPOLIS — Four weeks ago, the Minnesota Vikings left the Silverdome smoldering, while the Detroit Lions appeared headed for another season atop the NFC Central.

After Thursday's rematch in the Metrodome, the Vikings (5-1) are smiling, not smoldering, about their playoff chances. Meanwhile, the Lions (1-5) are wondering if it's already too late to salvage the season.

"It's tearing everybody up. We're still looking for answers," Detroit's Chris Spielman said after his team's 31-14 loss. "When you've got big expectations and you don't reach them, it hurts."

The Vikings, who squandered a 17-point lead in the final seven minutes against Detroit last year, never gave the Lions a chance this time. They jumped to a 24-0 lead before quarterback Rich Gannon left early in the second quarter with a hyperextended left knee.

After going 14-18 the last two seasons, the surprising Vikings are now 1 1/2 games up in the NFC Central. The last time they had a better start was 1976, when they went 5-0-1 en route to the Super Bowl.

"Once you start winning, it's kind of contagious," said Vikings running back Terry Allen, who scored one of his team's three first-quarter touchdowns. "Just like losing's contagious. Once you get used to it, it's easier to lose."

Detroit, the defending division champion, has already lost once more than it did all last season. Its fortunes have mirrored those of Barry Sanders, who scored the Lions' first touchdown but continued to struggle, gaining 52 yards on 16 carries.

Sanders, who averaged 4.9 yards per carry while rushing for 4,322 yards in his first three NFL seasons, has averaged only 3.0 yards since opening the season with a 109-yard performance. He was used as a decoy early in Thursday's game and was virtually ignored while Detroit played catchup late.

When he did get the ball, the Vikings were there to greet him. The Vikings used linebacker Mike Merriweather to "spy" on Sanders, daring Rodney Peete to pass. Peete struggled, too, completing 13 of 23 passes for 171 yards before being replaced by Erik Kramer in the fourth quarter.

Gannon completed 8 of 10 passes for 146 yards before his exit.

Murray's traveling boys Under-14 soccer team kept their perfect record intact after eight games as they beat Marshall County 3-1 at Calvert City Thursday night.

Bubba Johnson had all three goals for Murray, while Jeremy Hunt had two assists. Josh Price added the other assist, as Russell Hargrove was praised for his defensive play.

With five games remaining, Murray will next play this Sunday versus Paducah at the Bee Creek soccer complex beginning at 3:30 p.m.

BASEBALL

OAKLAND, Calif. (AP) — Oakland Athletics third baseman Carney Lansford announced his retirement in the aftermath of the A's 9-2 loss to Toronto in Game 6 of the AL playoffs.

Lansford, 35, came to Oakland in 1982 in a trade that sent Tony Armas to Boston. He returned to the lineup this season after missing all but five games last season with a knee injury sustained in a snowmobile accident. He finished with 2,074 hits and a lifetime batting average of .290. He won the American League batting title in 1981 and was part of the A's 1989 World Series championship team.

ATLANTA (AP) — Umpire John McSherry remained hospitalized after leaving Game 7 of the NL playoffs complaining of dizziness. McSherry, 48, was listed in fair condition at Piedmont Hospital, a spokeswoman said. He began Wednesday night's game as the home plate umpire but left midway through the second inning when he felt ill.

BASKETBALL

SHEPHERDSTOWN, W.Va. (AP) — The Washington Bullets were granted a medical exception to exceed the NBA salary cap because of forward Bernard King, who has been plagued by knee problems. The Bullets will be able to replace King on the roster with a player who may earn up to 50 percent of King's annual salary. General manager John Nash said he plans to use the money to offer a contract to No. 1 draft pick Tom Gugliotta, a forward from North Carolina State.

King, who missed the entire 1991-92 season following arthroscopic surgery in September 1991, will continue to be on the roster and will open the season on the injured list.

#1-rated Huskies at bottom of Pac-10 defense

By BOB BAUM
AP Sports Writer

EUGENE, Ore. (AP) — The Washington Huskies built their national reputation on a dominating, attacking defense.

So look who's ranked eighth in the Pac-10 in total defense five games into the season.

The Huskies, who barely held onto their No. 1 ranking in this week's Associated Press poll, have some unusually unimpressive defensive statistics heading into their game Saturday against Oregon.

Washington has given up 317.6 yards per game, ahead of only Oregon and Oregon State in the Pac-10. The Huskies are dead last in the conference in rushing defense at 149.4 yards per contest.

All of which means nothing, Oregon coach Rich Brooks said. "You know the old saying, 'statistics can lie.' I think they're lying big-time," he said.

"They still are a swarming, attacking defense," Brooks said. "They just do a great job. They have not defended the run as well this year, but that's because of two or three big running plays broken against them early in the season. I'm sure by season's end you're going to see their defense up there where they belong."

Washington coach Don James said big plays have been a big problem for the Huskies. He even went so far as to compare his defense unfavorably to Oregon's.

"Their defense played a lot better against USC than we did," James said. "At this stage, just on those two games, it looks like their defense could be better than ours."

James may be guilty of coach's hyperbole. Southern Cal beat Oregon 32-10 and lost to Washington 17-10.

Still, Oregon's defense has been better against the run than Washington's has been, especially in recent games.

The Ducks will need to be effective if they expect to slow down tailback Napoleon Kaufman, who gained 208 yards on 30 carries start in Saturday's 35-16 victory over California, the first start of his career.

Kaufman should get plenty of opportunities to carry the ball against Oregon because Washington's other two tailbacks, Beno Bryant and Jay Barry, are expected to miss the game with injuries.

Expect the Washington defense to pressure Ducks quarterback Danny O'Neil, who was sacked 13 times in last week's loss to Southern Cal.

Brooks put as much blame on his sophomore quarterback as he did on the offensive line.

"He's got to learn there are times when you throw a pass over somebody's head or throw it into the dirt and get ready for the next play," Brooks said.

Oregon fans consider Saturday's game a big one, maybe bigger than the Ducks' season-ending "Civil War" against Oregon State.

Temporary stands have been added at Autzen Stadium, guaranteeing a record sellout crowd of more than 47,000. The Ducks have limited Washington to 4,000 tickets in an attempt to keep the number of purple-clad Husky boosters to a minimum.

Washington hasn't played in Eugene since 1988. The last time they were there, in 1987 and '88, they lost.

James has decided to start Mark Brunell in place of Billy Joe Hobert at quarterback. Hobert, the starter all season and 17-0 in two seasons as the first-string quarterback.

Brooks said it doesn't matter which quarterback starts.

"The media's making a big thing out of the quarterback change, but, as I read Coach James' statements, I don't think it's going to be much of a change," Brooks said.

Lady Laker Jennifer Dowdy tries to control the ball in the first half of Thursday's game at Murray High.

In blink...

make it 1-0.

Murray's "two-minute drill" came shortly after the West score and it came without warning.

Up to that point, Calloway had stymied the explosive Murray scoring machine with the defensive leadership of Kadonna Randolph and the goalkeeping of Mitz Rickman.

Then, like all good teams, Murray saw an opening and seized the opportunity.

Goal 1.

Freshman Ellen Uddberg was moved up to the right wing and the move paid off immediately. She took a ball near the far sidelines and lofted it towards the Laker goal. Vanessa Sammons, back in action after a week out with an ankle injury, was there to head the crossing pass just past Rickman.

Goal 2.

In a blink, Murray was back on the attack after tying the contest 1-1. Sammons, a senior, sent a headball forward to Jill Miller who ran on to the ball and beat the Calloway defense. Murray leads 2-1.

Goal 3.

Miller didn't need any help on the Lady Tigers' final tally. The junior took the ball in the middle of the field and veered around two Lady Laker defenders to set up for the shot, which just eluded Rickman and put Murray up 3-1.

"Our defense played well except for that two-minute stretch," Enoch said.

Calloway, down but not out, was able to pull within one goal, 3-2, when West recorded her second goal of the game. Carrie Bell recorded the assist, but it came with less than 10 minutes to play and Murray's defense, led by Allison Cantrell, held off the Lakers.

"Calloway has really improved," said Gressler, whose team had beaten Calloway 9-0 and 4-0 in the two previous meetings. "They're a good team that's going to give folks some fits come tournament time."

Despite the sadness of defeat, Calloway, now 6-9-1, took Thursday's performance to heart.

"We're getting it all line up for the tournament," Enoch said. "We have to build on this. We'll be in good shape by the tournament."

Each team closes out the season with a game against Henderson County on Saturday, Oct. 24 at Laker Field.

Murray State offense could do without, as the Racers' multiple option attack was bogged down in a 13-7 loss at Tennessee-Martin Saturday night.

"We didn't execute our offense as well as we should have, or as well as we could have," Mahoney said of his offense which goes into Saturday's contest averaging 352 yards a game, with the majority of those yards (235) coming from the rushing attack.

Sophomore running back Timmy Bland keys the Racer offensive game as he's notched 609 yards in total offense. Quarterback Treman Lewis has rushed for 235 yards and thrown for 650 yards and two touchdowns, but has given up seven interceptions and only completed 39 percent of his pass attempts.

Last year's leading rusher, Wayne McGowan, has rushed for just 78 yards on 20 carries; a statistic which Mahoney said needs changing.

"McGowan needs to get his hands on the ball more and so does (fullback Homer) Patton," said the MSU coach.

Take away a 24-point explosion in a Homecoming win against Austin Peay, and Mahoney has an offense which has scored just 22 points in losses to Eastern Illinois, Middle Tennessee and Tennessee-Martin.

Mahoney said, "It's going to be a great challenge for our offense, going up there against their defense."

Sort of like the challenge Bowie and Crockett faced in south Texas. Big difference? Bowie and Crockett were the home team.

Air Jordan's...

Bouler has pleaded not guilty to 12 federal charges accusing him of laundering drug money for the Charlotte cocaine ring led by James Edward "Ned" Johnson. Johnson is serving a 20-year sentence and is cooperating with prosecutors.

Jordan said he kept referring to the money as a loan because "I was caught off-guard by the question and I was too ashamed of what I had done. But when I realized my mistake and discovered the background of the people I had been with, I told the truth and offered a public apology."

Jordan said he told the NBA and federal authorities at a meeting last March that the checks were for gambling debts. In a news conference March 31, he refused to say what he had told the league and federal officials but did offer a public apology for what he called "the biggest and most embarrassing mistake of my life."

Jordan is not under criminal investigation. The National Basketball Association warned him earlier this year to be more careful about his associations.

McCarver dumps...

Thursday. "He said, 'Where's McCarver,' and I said, 'I'm right here.'"

"He tried to hit me with another tub that missed me, and I said, 'You know, Deion, you're a real man, you are a real man.' I thought it was a deliberate, cowardly act."

McCarver said he would talk the matter over with White, who already has spoken about it with CBS senior vice president Rick Gentile.

The Atlanta Journal quoted officials of the Atlanta CBS affiliate, WAGA, as saying that White asked for copies of a tape shot by a cameraman, showing the final confrontation between McCarver and Sanders.

Sanders questioned McCarver's label of coward when he talked to TNT on Thursday night.

"How can you be a coward for throwing water on someone?" Sanders asked. "This guy didn't want us to win and we did. We were throwing water on everybody, he just got wetter than anybody else. It's flat ignorant of him. He's more of a coward."

Weapons team departs for Baghdad, leader describes mission as important

MANAMA, Bahrain (AP) — U.N. weapons inspectors who left for Baghdad today expect a chilly reception, a scenario that worries the Security Council.

Nikita Smidovich, who leads the 50-member team, told reporters today that he was concerned about safety.

Smidovich spoke to reporters before leaving for Baghdad from Bahrain, regional headquarters for the U.N. Special Commission charged under the Gulf War cease-fire with eliminating Iraq's weapons of mass destruction.

In New York Thursday, Security Council President Jean-Bernard Merimee of France noted that from Iraqi President Saddam's comments about U.N. inspectors, "One can deduce that there is a sort of bad feeling toward these people and hence the council expressed concern."

Merimee spoke after a closed council session with Rolf Ekeus, head of the weapons commission.

Merimee said the council hopes "that Iraq will fully cooperate with (the mission) and by that means will seize the opportunity to demonstrate its willingness to comply fully with the council's resolutions."

U.N. officials cited a transcript of Saddam's speech to the Arab Baath Socialist Party, broadcast on Oct. 6. In it he called for mobilizing the party and people "to confront the attempts of the stray dogs that came under the cover of U.N. committees and under the title of inspection teams."

Earlier this week, Ekeus characterized the inspection that begins today as a "moment of truth" test of Iraqi compliance with the cease-fire. Iraq has repeatedly balked at terms of the truce, and interfered with previous inspection teams.

Iraq had sought to postpone today's inspection until after U.S. elections Nov. 3, arguing that the team might seek a confrontation for political reasons that may help George Bush in his uphill efforts to win a second term.

Baghdad then asked that Ekeus himself accompany the team to ensure a smooth visit.

Ekeus turned down both requests.

The 50-member team is the 45th and largest to visit Baghdad. It includes experts on nuclear, chemical and biological weapons and ballistic missiles from the United States, Russia, Britain, France, Italy, Germany and Australia.

The emphasis will be ballistic weapons. The weapons commission has been analyzing information provided chiefly by the United States and Britain about as many as 200 Scud missiles that Saddam Hussein may still be hiding. Iraq says it has declared and showed U.N. inspectors everything related to Scuds.

"Of course if they (Scuds) are there, we will look for them," said Smidovich, a Russian.

Smidovich, an expert in chemical weapons and a top aide to Ekeus, said his team will be conducting several surprise visits. He would not elaborate.

It was not known whether the team would seek entry to a ministry, but Iraq has said that ministries are symbols of sovereignty and are off-limits.

Smidovich said inspectors should be able to enter any site they selected in Iraq, whether it be a ministry building or even the presidential palace.

Smidovich plans to spend about two weeks in Baghdad.

Mrs. Murrell Thornton

Final rites for Mrs. Murrell Thornton were Thursday at 1 p.m. in the chapel of Blalock-Coleman Funeral Home. The Rev. Jerry Norsworthy officiated. Music was by The King's Sons, Ronnie Thornton and Debbie Woodard.

Pallbearers were Steve Owen, Jerry Woodard, Danny Thornton, Robert J. Thornton, Dan Wall and Shane Wall, active; Tilgham Barrow, John Barrow, Rudy McDougal, Jim Fain, Taz Thornton, Red Outland and L.E. Outland, honorary.

Burial was in Blood River Cemetery.

Mrs. Thornton, 77, of 806 North 17th St., Murray, died Tuesday at 5:30 p.m. at her home. Her husband, Joseph Coy Thornton, died July 19, 1982.

Born July 17, 1915, in Stewart County, Tenn., she was the daughter of the late Wavel Outland and Lola Barrow Outland.

Survivors include four daughters, Mrs. Joann Owen and husband, Freddie, Nesbit, Miss., Mrs. Margaret Camp and husband, Jerry, Murray, and Mrs. Sonoma Lamb and husband, Charles, and Mrs. Judy Wall, New Concord; two sons, Robert Thornton and wife, Pat, Walls, Miss., and Ronnie Thornton and wife, Ann, Mayfield; eight grandchildren; nine great-grandchildren.

Also surviving are four sisters, Mrs. Lucille Outland, Niota, Tenn., Mrs. Oneda Thornton, Fort Myers, Fla., Mrs. Geneva Justice and husband, L.C., Memphis, Tenn., and Mrs. Sue Epps and husband, Clifford, Walls, Miss.; two brothers, J.B. Young people interested in politics are urged to attend and to join the Young Democrats of Western Kentucky organization.

Food will be provided and several Democratic leaders, including Kentucky Secretary of State Bob Babbage and area state legislators, will be on hand to make presentations.

Older Democrats are also invited to participate to give support to the organization and to encourage greater involvement by young people in the political process.

Children testify in abuse case against their father

EBENSBURG, Pa. (AP) — A man whose children said he cut their fingers and collected their blood has been convicted of child abuse and neglect.

Rickie Gaddis, 35, was convicted Thursday after some of his seven children testified that they were beaten and burned and that he collected their blood for a ritual that attempted to bring back a dead sister.

Two girls said they were fondled.

Four children, ages 10 to 14, also said their apartment was so filthy that they used knives and scissors to fend off rats when they went into the kitchen.

Gaddis testified nothing was wrong at the apartment and that his wife and children banded against him.

His wife, Debbie Louise Gaddis, 34, faces a separate trial on similar charges.

Gaddis was convicted last month of repeatedly raping a 10-year-old daughter and could theoretically be sentenced to 1,002 years in prison. Cambria County Judge Gerard Long could sentence Gaddis to 175 years in prison for Thursday's convictions.

Hypothermia In The Elderly

Because elderly people produce less body heat than younger people, they are at greater risk of developing hypothermia in the winter. For this reason, indoor temperatures should not be below 65 degrees if an older person is in the house. Initial signs of hypothermia include paleness and uncontrollable shivering, drowsiness, confusion, and difficulty in walking and speaking.

Officers say Clinton's military history shouldn't matter

By ROBERT BURNS
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON — After rising to the rank of Marine Corps brigadier general, Gail Reals retired in 1990 to rediscover the civilian world she'd left nearly 36 years earlier.

Shocked by the economic and social mess she found, Reals eventually concluded: President Bush must take the blame; and Bill Clinton is best equipped to fix it.

Thus it came to be that she joined 20 other retired military officers Monday in publicly endorsing a Democratic presidential nominee who in his youth avoided the draft and helped lead anti-Vietnam War protests.

Judging from comments by several of the officers in interviews Tuesday, the endorsements — and the officers' feeling that Clinton's draft and protest records are irrelevant — may soften Bush's attacks as he lags in the polls three weeks before Election Day.

"How could you be commander-in-chief," Bush said in Sunday's presidential debate, "and have some kid jump up and say, 'Well, I'm not going to go (to war), the commander-in-chief was organizing demonstrations halfway around the world during another era.'"

Michael Dugan, a retired Air Force general who was fired by Defense Secretary Dick Cheney in September 1990 for publicly discussing contingency plans for attacking Iraq, said Bush was trying to divert attention from more important questions.

"I think events of 20-some years ago are an interesting historical footnote, but I think they detract from the real issues that face the country for the future," said Dugan. "I don't hear anybody talking about how Franklin Roosevelt was an inadequate president because he did not serve in the uniform of his country."

Dugan said his endorsement of Clinton had nothing to do with his firing.

"I think the president has done his best," Dugan said. "If he's done his best it's time to move on."

Reals, the first woman to be selected for promotion to brigadier general in the Marine Corps, said she was not interested in politics until she took a new look at society as a civilian.

"I was very disturbed by what I found," she said. "I became less and less convinced that our national leadership understood or recognized the problems that real people were having out there."

Should Bush bear the blame? "I've been in the leadership business a long time, and I always look back and see what the people at the top are doing," she said. "My conclusion was that perhaps we needed a change in leadership."

What about Clinton's draft record and involvement in anti-war protests abroad?

"That played no part at all in my consideration," she said.

Also endorsing Clinton was Thomas Brooks, a retired Navy rear admiral who was director of Naval Intelligence before leaving in 1991 after nearly 33 years of service. He said in an interview that he'd never before endorsed a political candidate.

"I am by inclination more Republican than Democrat," he said. "However, I listened to Mr.

Bush and didn't see any solutions, didn't see anything innovative, didn't see anything that I thought could answer any of the truly monumental problems this nation faces."

Brooks considers Clinton's draft record irrelevant to the campaign. "I'm more interested in what he's proposed for the future than what he did in the past," although he acknowledged that he viewed Clinton's anti-war activities as "distasteful."

Clinton "has a program, he has ideas," Brooks said. "The status quo isn't going to do it."

Stansfield Turner, a veteran of the Korean and Vietnam wars and director of Central Intelligence during the Carter administration, said he has been for Clinton "all along," but is even more opposed to Bush after seeing his attacks on Clinton.

"He has resorted to McCarthyism and the dirtiest sort of campaigning I have seen in my memory," Turner said.

Turner said he was not troubled by Clinton's Vietnam protests and draft record. "That's just nonsense, in my view."

William Odom, a retired Army lieutenant general and director of the National Security Agency during the Reagan administration, said he was endorsing Clinton even though he thinks the Arkansas governor was wrong to evade military service. He suggested his stance was more anti-Bush than pro-Clinton.

"I knew President Bush through the Reagan years and I thought he's a very nice fellow. I never got enough out of him to know whether he's smart or not," he said.

State Department deflects criticism of search for info on Clinton

WASHINGTON (AP) — The State Department is blaming "low-level people" for mistakenly suggesting that media requests for information on Bill Clinton's passport and citizenship files be treated expeditiously.

The disclosure came Thursday as part of the administration's effort to rebut allegations that it tried to use the files to buttress President Bush's contentions that his Democratic opponent had engaged in unpatriotic acts.

State Department spokesman Richard Boucher said speedy handling of Freedom of Information requests should apply only to cases in which a citizen faces the possibility of injury or death if a delay meant a violation of one's constitutional rights.

"Those circumstances clearly did not apply in these cases," Boucher said.

Notations on the requests were made "by low-level people working on the cases, trying to reflect the urgency which the requesters in the media had placed on their requests," he said.

When department lawyers spotted the notations, Boucher said, they notified the office and said it was wrong to expedite the requests because "the grounds weren't met."

Media requests under the Freedom of Information Act were made last month by The Associated Press, Hearst newspapers and ABC. Of the three, only ABC made an unambiguous request for expedited handling.

At issue is material the government may have in its files on Clinton during his years as a Rhodes scholar in England, a period in which he was active in demonstrations against the Vietnam War and spent a week in the Soviet Union.

Boucher said that Assistant Secretary of State for Consular Affairs Elizabeth Tamposi, a former Republican Party fund-raiser, did not try to expedite the process.

He said telephone calls she made about the requests to the U.S. Embassy in London and elsewhere were designed to ensure the requests were properly handled.

"She did not discuss the question of urgency or expeditious handling or speeding them up or slowing them down or anything like that," Boucher said.

Floyd County group praises state education commissioner

LEXINGTON, Ky. (AP) — The Floyd County Education Forum criticized House Majority Leader Greg Stumbo and praised Education Commissioner Thomas Boysen, who wrote a scathing report on management of the county's schools.

Directors of the citizens group issued a statement urging Stumbo, a Floyd County Democrat, "to let the process of reform work."

"Whether he intended it or not, the timing of his remarks makes it appear that he is using his official position to prevent the state's oversight of the Kentucky Education Reform Act's implementation and enforcement in Floyd County," the group said.

The forum has about 200 members, said the Rev. Tim Jessen, who read the statement at a Floyd County school board meeting Tuesday.

At a public hearing in Floyd County last week, Boysen criticized the leadership of the school district. The next morning in Frankfort, Stumbo lit into Boysen, blaming him for delays in putting new technology into schools.

The forum thanked Boysen and his staff for "coming to Floyd County to hear comments of local citizens" on the proposed improvement plan. "We believe that, with the ongoing assistance of his office, the Floyd County school system may be able to address the failings of the past and move into a new era of reform."

Contract Bridge Bidding Quiz

You are the dealer and open One Heart. Partner responds Two Hearts. What would you bid now with each of the following four hands?

- ♠ K106 ♥ KQ763 ♦ AQ5 ♣ 84
- ♠ AJ42 ♥ K86432 ♦ — ♣ A93
- ♠ QJ9 ♥ AQ853 ♦ KJ4 ♣ AJ
- ♠ — ♥ Q976542 ♦ A ♣ AKQ43

1. Pass. Partner's raise shows six to ten points and moderate to good trump support. If partner has minimum values, you'll probably make just two hearts — give or take a trick. If partner has maximum values, you'll probably make nine tricks — but making ten would most likely require a fair share of luck. On balance, the winning action is to pass.

2. Four hearts. This is the percentage bid, the one that figures to do best in the long run. This hand, with only 12 high-card points, is far more promising for game than the previous one with 14 high-card points. The big difference is the distribution, which is very attractive. Thus, you'd surely want to be in game if dummy came down with any of these mediocre holdings:

- ♠ K7 ♥ QJ75 ♦ 98743 ♣ 65
- ♠ Q86 ♥ AJ95 ♦ 9542 ♣ 74
- ♠ 9873 ♥ A975 ♦ J863 ♣ 10

3. Two notrump. This shows 15 or 19 points, and allows for the possibility that three notrump might be easier to make than four hearts. If partner prefers hearts to notrump, he will return to three hearts with a minimum, and bid four hearts with a maximum. If partner does bid three hearts, you should carry on to four. Bidding four hearts directly over two is also a reasonable choice.

4. Five notrump. This is an ideal hand for the grand slam force convention. Hearts having been agreed upon as trumps, the leap to five notrump (which has nothing to do with Blackwood) requests partner to bid seven hearts if he holds two of the three top trump honors, without regard to the rest of his hand. If partner lacks the ace or king of hearts, he simply bids six hearts.

Thanks Boss!

The reforms dictated by KERA have caused many changes in our school system. However, one thing has not changed at Calloway County High School, and that is that Jerry Ainley continues to lead and guide with a finesse equalled by few. We appreciate Mr. Ainley when he supports us, when he is our "cheerleader," and when he encourages us, but most of all, we appreciate his deep concern for us and the students we are educating. On this day set aside for outstanding bosses, no one is more deserving than Jerry Ainley, principal of Calloway County High School.
