Local schools are smiling

By AMY WILSON
 Staff Writer

The 1993-94 KIRIS test results delivered some good news this year to both the Murray and Calloway County school systems. "The day they came out, we immediately sent a memo to the teachers thanking them," said Dr. Bob Lewis, Murray assistant superintendent. "Since KIRIS is primarily performance based, the classroom activities had to make students apply what they had learned rather than use memorization."

The tests, part of the Kentucky Instructional Results Information System, were administered in 1993-94 to 140,000 fourth, eighth and 12th graders. They were tested in mathematics, science, social studies, reading and writing.

The goal that schools work toward is to boost the percentages of students who score in the proficient and distinguished categories while decreasing the numbers of apprentice and novice students.

"We don't have the results from the performance events or the writing portfolios, but we are definitely anticipating rewards for all three of our buildings," Lewis said.

According to the Kentucky Education Reform Act, after the testing program is fully implemented in 1996, successful schools will receive financial rewards from the state.

The other two components of the test will be released in January as part of the entire KIRIS package.

"We feel the kids gave it a really good effort and we are more than pleased," Lewis said.

"We feel that professional development and the really hard work of the teachers and administrators helped the scores."

 (Assistant superintendent)

According to the scores for the Murray fourth graders, Lewis said the overall novice rating went from 30.5 percent to 16.25

'94 seniors lift state scores

FRANKFORT, Ky. (AP) — In football, it's called senior leadership.

Kentucky's high school class of 1994 helped raise test scores in a statewide assessment of how students are being taught and can use what they learn.

Education Commissioner Thomas Boysen said nine high schools in 10 made progress last year. In January, when test results are combined with several other kinds of information, schools will learn whether they progressed enough to win cash rewards.

Schools that failed to meet performance goals set for them two years ago would receive state assistance. In the worst cases, the state could assume a school's direction.

But Boysen, in releasing results of the 1994 assessments Thursday, said "academic achievement is up ... very significantly," and there were gains at every level.

Students are grouped in four "performance levels" — novice, apprentice, proficient and distinguished. There was greater proficiency in each area tested —

Fugitive still at large

By STACEY CROOK
 Staff Writer

An investigation continues nearly three weeks after an unsuccessful manhunt to find an accused killer police believe is in Calloway County.

"We still believe he is in the area," said Chief Sheriff's Deputy Brian Wilburn.

About 75 state and local authorities flooded into the Cypress Springs/Missing Hills area Sept. 10 in hopes of finding 39-year-old Charles Gary Bruce, the Tennessee prison escapee charged with murdering a Camben, Tenn. couple.

Bruce allegedly killed a man and his fiancée, robbed the couple, and then set the house on fire.

CHARLES GARY BRUCE

Wilburn said since the Sept. 10 search, the department has traced a number of leads, but has come up empty handed thus far.

"All indications are that he is still here," Wilburn said

Thursday.

Authorities believe someone in Calloway County may be helping Bruce, who escaped from the McNairy County Jail in Selmer, Tenn. on July 28.

"Obviously he has to have some cooperation," Wilburn said.

Tennessee Bureau of Investigation Special Agent Greg Elliott, the officer in charge of the investigation, said Bruce is extremely dangerous and can survive easily in the woods.

Bruce, a six-foot tall white male with brown or black hair and blue eyes, weighs about 170 pounds. He is a mussel diver by trade, according to Elliott.

Wilburn said the sheriff's

Hazel Day set Saturday

By AMY WILSON
 Staff Writer

Residents of Hazel are gearing up for a rush of visitors Saturday as part of the fifth annual Hazel Day celebration.

"We anticipate anywhere from 5,000 to 7,000 people, which is about 20 times more than our residential population," said Hazel Mayor Dan Farris.

Festivities will begin at 8:30 a.m. with arts and crafts booths.

"We have two bands lined up and an auction, as well as a car show sponsored by the Hazel Woman's Club," Farris said. "There will be plenty of parking available."

Because Hwy. 641 South runs through the center of Hazel, Farris said he has enlisted help to ensure safety.

"We will have two deputies helping us, as well as two constables," he said. "All we ask is that people slow down coming through."

This year, residents are hoping for pleasant weather.

"Last year was rainy and the year before was great," said Sharon Ray, president of the Hazel Woman's Club. "Three years ago it was cold and the year before that we held it in the summer and it was too hot. Hopefully, we will have another great year."

Rain or shine, the celebration will be held. Registration for the third annual car show, which will be held at the Hazel Community Center, will begin at 8 a.m. and continue until noon. Judging will begin at 12:30 p.m. in the 21 classes of cars, trucks and antique tractors, with three trophies given in each class.

Five special awards will be given for the best Ford, best Chevy, best Mopar, Ladies' choice and Mayor's choice.

Door prizes will be given away during the car show. A handmade quilt will be raffled following the trophy presentation.

"People from all across the United States have called about the celebration," Ray said. "We're already beginning to get several entries in for the arts and crafts, jewelry and outdoor crafts."

Farris said the idea for the celebration began through conversations with residents about the need for a community event day.

"This gives the people in Hazel an opportunity to participate and it is kind of a day to share the town," he said.

Saturday will also mark the addition of Tooters, which is an

Soldiers take over media

By JEFFREY ULBRICH
 Associated Press Writer

PORT-AU-PRINCE, Haiti (AP) — American soldiers took over state TV and radio and guarded downtown intersections today to maintain order during a march on the third anniversary of the overthrow of President Jean-Bertrand Aristide.

The Americans met no resistance during the predawn takeovers to silence the anti-American mouthpieces of the Haitian military coup leaders.

Hundreds of Haitians cheered on the Americans at both state TV and state radio headquarters. Employees of the state TV were told to leave and not to come to work today and switchboards were flooded with callers offering praise, said 1st Lt. Clinton Trussell, 30, of North Conway, N.H., who led the 28-member American unit that took over state TV.

"They're saying, 'Good. Finally the Haitian people will get the truth,'" Trussell told The Associated Press. The Haitians outside the TV installation, shadowed by two white satellite dishes, were shouting: "Power to the people."

The stations had accused the Americans of killing people in a grenade explosion and shooting Thursday that broke up a pro-democracy march. American troops were posted along main streets downtown for today's events, which began with a morning Mass attended by thousands at the cathedral.

U.S. Ambassador William Swing characterized the tension and violence of the past few days as "a national experience that Haiti has to get through."

Recent demonstrations, he said, "totally change the political equation and the balance of forces and people began to understand that people can do things in a peaceful, disciplined way and express their view."

Swing said Washington was worried that infiltrators would get mixed up with pro-democracy

Department is still receiving numerous calls from people who said they have seen Bruce.

"We follow up on everyone of them," he said. "It's keeping us on our toes."

Wilburn said there have been a number of residential burglaries in the New Concord area that he believes may be connected to Bruce.

TBI investigators first received information that Bruce might be in the Calloway County area after talking to people along the Tennessee River and near boat docks in Tennessee and Kentucky.

Since then, unconfirmed reports of Bruce's whereabouts have filtered in to law enforcement agencies.

During the Sept. 10 search, officers from at least nine different law enforcement agencies in Kentucky and Tennessee — including three canine units and helicopter — were in the Cypress Springs/Missing Hills area for several hours.

math, reading, science and social studies.

The tests, with open-ended essay questions intended to require critical thinking, were administered in all grades. But the annual comparison was based on scores of the 140,000 schoolchildren in grades four, eight and 12.

Science was the area of least gain in each grade. "Science is an area that concerns us because it's fairly flat," Boyesen said in a news conference.

The 1993 assessments shook Kentucky's education establishment. Senior scores declined markedly from the year before, and more than half were rated novice in reading, math and social studies.

Critics said seniors put little discernible effort into the tests because nothing was at stake for them as individuals.

South Oldham High School seemed typical, suffering an increase — not a decrease — in novices in each subject area.

"I was personally, professionally devastated," South Oldham Principal Joe McWilliams said Thursday. He had been "lulled" by first-year test results and personal certainty that South Oldham had "good kids," McWilliams said.

Now, the assessments have been incorporated in graduation requirements, McWilliams said, and student portfolios of writing and math work are required every year, not just in comparison grades. South Oldham's scores shot up.

At Frankfort High School, which like South Oldham marched backward in 1993, "we tried to instill a lot of school pride," math teacher Cheryl Viel said.

Seniors also were pampered a bit. Instead of being tested as a group in the gym, they were tested in small groups. Teachers brought snacks and treats. There also was a pep rally, complete with cheerleaders.

"I thought that was a nice idea," Viel said. "Why not have a pep rally for academics, as well as the football team?"

It apparently paid off. Twenty-one percent of Frankfort's seniors were distinguished in math — the second-highest percentage in the state. Another 20 percent were proficient. The figures in 1993 were 6 percent and 12 percent, respectively.

There also was improvement at each grade on a "cognitive index" designed to show progress toward a goal of universal student proficiency. It is the average of scores in the four test areas plus writing.

The scale has a theoretical maximum of 140 points, which would mean all students were distinguished. The state's goal for each grade is 100 points, which would mean all students were at least proficient.

The fourth grade collectively reached a third of that goal with an index of 33.2, up from 26.4 in 1993. Index figures were 33.7 for eighth grade, a gain of 6.1 points, and 38.4 for grade 12, a gain of 10.5 points.

Boyesen said the improvement was praiseworthy, but "we need to realize what a long, long way we have to go."

marchers, hoping to provoke violence. Pro-Aristide marchers share the same concern.

Swing told Cable News Network that state radio and TV were refusing to let Aristide be heard and inciting opponents of elected rule. He said they had been in the hands of illegal authorities.

Port-au-Prince appeared nearly shut down this morning. Shops usually open at an early hour were shuttered. Street vendors were not out in their usual numbers. American helicopters flew low over the city.

Crowds gathered in parts of the capital, looting shops.

Though U.S. troops will be present, U.S. Embassy spokesman Stan Schragger said Haitian police would have primary responsibility for controlling the hundreds of thousands Haitians expected to turn out for the march.

"We would like them to be as unprovocative as possible," Schragger said of the police, blamed by many Haitians for much of the killing and other violence that has plagued Haiti since Aristide's 1991 ouster.

Diplomatic sources said personnel at the American, Canadian and French Embassies were told to stay home today because of the demonstration.

Under a deal that averted a U.S. invasion, Haiti's coup leaders agreed to step down by Oct. 15 and allow Aristide to return to office from his exile in the United States.

Continued violence may complicate U.S.-orchestrated efforts to ensure a smooth transition of power.

Aristide has appealed for a peaceful demonstration, and U.S. officials are hoping to avoid a repeat of the carnage and chaos at the Port-au-Prince seaport on Thursday.

The grenade was thrown at a crowd of several thousand who had just witnessed the return of freely elected Mayor Evans Paul to his post in City Hall.

A U.S. official said on condition of anonymity that at least four and as many as nine people were killed. At least 62 people were injured, including a 9-year-old boy and three other children.

The Associated Press and Red Cross officials counted three dead at the scene, including a man who was run over by a U.S. Army Humvee jeep. It was not known whether he was still alive when that happened.

Many Haitians fled after the blast, hands raised over their heads so as not to provoke any of the nervous U.S. soldiers rushing to the scene into shooting.

Several soldiers opened fire after a shot appeared to come from an alley between buildings. They then blasted their way into a warehouse, but found no one inside.

Three Haitian suspects were detained by the U.S. 16th military police brigade from Ft. Bragg, N.C. "We have to still figure out who we turn them over to," said Army Maj. Ken Fugett, a U.S. military spokesman.

After the Americans left, hundreds of Haitians looted the warehouse of bags of cement, wooden pallets for fuel, even iron bars pulled from the foundation and gratings ripped from windows.

A pro-Aristide priest, the Rev. Gerard Jean-Juste, blamed a far-right paramilitary, the Front for the Advancement and Progress of Haiti, for the blast.

"Disarming and arresting the thugs is the main solution," he said. FRAPH has been blamed for many of the more than 3,000 politically motivated killings committed since the Sept. 30, 1991 coup.

The seafloor area has been the site of numerous pro-democracy rallies since American troops began landing in Haiti on Sept. 19. According to the Pentagon, 19,600 U.S. troops are on the ground in Haiti. About 9,200 more are on ships in the region.

Secretary of State Warren Christopher said additional troops will be dispatched through the weekend to make sure potential troublemakers know the United States "dominates the scene."

CBS News, quoting unidentified sources, reported that Port-au-Prince police chief Michel Francois, a leader of the 1991 coup, requested Thursday that he be allowed to move into exile in the neighboring Dominican Republic. Lt. Gen. Raoul Cedras and Gen. Philippe Biandry, the other coup leaders, have vowed to remain in Haiti after stepping down.

Also Thursday, the U.N. Security Council voted to lift its economic embargo against Haiti, but said the measure would only take effect after Aristide returned to office.

On Monday, President Clinton lifted travel, trade and most other unilateral U.S. sanctions against Haiti.

percent, which demonstrates a definite improvement.

Eighth graders also demonstrated improvement in the four categories, as did the 12th graders.

"The seniors really came through for us and our staff pulled together," Lewis said. Parents of Murray students will receive a letter outlining their child's progress.

"What a parent will see is a series of line graphs indicating how the student achieved in relation to other Kentucky students, as well as a national sampling in reading and mathematics," Lewis said.

Some parents had expressed concerns because the reports were unclear and they didn't have a clear idea of how their children had performed.

"We are a scoreboard oriented society and simply saying that your child is a novice doesn't say much," Lewis said. "I think the graphs will make it more clear."

The Calloway County schools may also be in line for rewards from the state.

"We are very pleased with our overall scores and we saw specific improvements at East Elementary and at Calloway County High School," said Dr. Nancy Lovett, Calloway assistant superintendent.

CCHS students scored especially well in social studies, Lovett said. This year, 29 students scored in the upper two tiers, up from only six in 1992-93.

"We feel that professional development and the really hard work of the teachers and administrators helped the scores," she said. "There was a concentrated effort to align the curriculum with the material that the students would be tested on."

One point that Lovett emphasized was that the schools are being compared to themselves, rather than to each other.

"That really gives the schools something to look at and work toward for the next year," she said.

Plague kills first people in New Delhi

NEW DELHI, India (AP) — New Delhi closed all schools and movie theaters today after the plague killed two people in the capital and gripped the city with fear.

More residents are wearing face masks on the streets to avoid pneumonic plague germ. The epidemic began killing people in the western city of Surat on Sept. 20, and the disease has spread widely since hundreds of thousands there fled their homes.

Authorities say at least 56 people, including 54 in Surat, have died in India's first outbreak of the plague in nearly 30 years. Unofficial estimates put the death toll at more than 300.

If caught early, the disease can be cured with antibiotics such as tetracycline, which don't require prescriptions in India. But many pharmacies quickly ran out of the antibiotics and others are selling them on the black market.

Many people reportedly are taking the drugs before they even suffer early symptoms such as coughing and fever.

Pneumonic plague is more virulent than the bubonic plague that devastated Europe and Asia in the 14th century. If untreated, it is almost 100 percent fatal.

Travel to and from India, meanwhile, was being restricted or monitored by countries afraid the plague would spread.

Air, ship and train service to and from India was canceled or monitored by Pakistan, Bangladesh, South Korea and many Mideastern countries. The United States and other countries in Europe and Asia were monitoring air passengers from India.

Ferry lines admit to hiding evidence

STOCKHOLM, Sweden (AP) — A day after more than 900 people died in Scandinavia's worst maritime disaster, Swedish and Finnish ferry lines admitted to hushing up six other times when bow doors leaked.

"Now they seem to have woken up and gotten a conscience," Sweden's maritime safety director, Bengt Erik Stenmark, said Thursday.

He said shipping companies had called to report earlier incidents in which bow gates came loose or didn't close properly, letting water onto vehicle decks. Cars and trucks are loaded on or off ferries through bow doors.

In the worst case, Stenmark said without specifics, a ship was saved only through a very intelligent maneuver by its captain that got the water out.

A leaking bow door is suspected of letting water rush into the hold of the ferry Estonia off southwestern Finland early Wednesday, causing it to capsize and sink within half an hour.

The death toll on Thursday stood at 909, with 140 rescued. Search teams were still picking up bodies bobbing up from the wreck. There were conflicting reports on how many people had been aboard the 515-foot ship, which flew the Estonian flag.

Salvage crews were hoping for calmer Baltic Sea waters today so they could find the six-deck ship with sonar. They then plan to send a camera-equipped robot into the hull, primarily to try to determine the accident's cause.

Ferry traffic is a lifeline in seafaring Scandinavia and for the newly independent Baltic states, so the disaster Wednesday came as a profound shock to the hundreds of thousands who ride ferries regularly.

Stenmark, the maritime safety director, said the catastrophe might have been avoided "if the ship owners had followed the law and reported earlier close calls."

He sent inspectors out immediately to check all Sweden's so-called roll-on, roll-off ferries and said he was considering new restrictions that would bar ferries from sailing in heavy weather without closer inspection.

Measures to keep the plague out of China have been submitted to the Cabinet for approval, but the health ministry refused to disclose what they were, the China Daily reported.

The newspaper quoted a health quarantine official at Beijing's international airport denying rumors that one plague case has already been detected at the airport. There was no way to immediately confirm reports that southwestern Sichuan province also has been stricken.

City workers, meanwhile, were racing through the many squalid shantytowns of New Delhi, home of 11 million people, cleaning up mounds of garbage that lay in the streets and spraying open drains with insecticides and poisons that kill plague-infected fleas and rats.

The city closed all schools and movie theaters indefinitely today to prevent infected people from spreading the disease by coughing or sneezing in crowded places.

But many people still believe the plague will spread further.

Some are calling relatives and canceling their plans to visit New Delhi next month to celebrate the Durga Puja festival.

The five-day Hindu festival, which begins Oct. 10, honors Durga, the 10-headed goddess of protection who many Indians believe once killed a demon who tried to destroy the earth.

"I am really scared of the plague, and I don't want my relatives to come to Delhi," said Parbati Sensharma, 65, a grandmother whose daughter lives in northeastern India.

"I know I shouldn't panic, but the fear is too much," she said in an interview from her neighborhood of Vasant Kunj.

Amita Palit, 50, sounded even more frightened.

"When I read the newspaper today, I became really scared," she said at her home in Mehrauli, a nearby neighborhood.

"I have decided not to leave my home," she said. "Why take the risk? I have stocked up on tetracycline in case I need it."

Two people from New Delhi died of pneumonic plague on Thursday, the first victims in the capital since the disease broke out in Surat and began spreading hundreds of miles away to the states of West Bengal, Madhya Pradesh, Maharashtra and Punjab.

The deaths occurred at the All India Institute of Medical Sciences, the city's largest general hospital, and neither victim had been in contact with Surat or people who fled the city.

Hospital spokesman Bijay Dash identified them as Rajesh Kumar, 5, and Sanjay Kumar, 18, the son of a nursing orderly at the hospital.

The victims, who were not related, were not moved to hospitals that treat plague cases because no one knew they had it until their sputum was tested after they died, Dash said.

A front-page story about the two patients in today's Times of India newspaper increased fears of the plague.

"It is scary to see that these two patients were mistakenly kept in a general hospital," said Dr. Barin Palit, who works in a private nursing home in southern New Delhi.

"Now it is clear that the plague is spreading from man to man in New Delhi, and may even have done that in that hospital."

Family thanks Red Cross

Dear Editor:

In early September, my brother, Charles Sherman Woodruff, Jr., became extremely ill and was in intensive care in a Seattle hospital. Doctors had called our family because his prognosis was not good. We had no money for plane fare for a member of our family to go be with Charles. Then, a member of the Hazel community mentioned the Red Cross.

Thanks to the American Red Cross and their timely handling of the situation, within 24 hours my mother was able to fly to Seattle to be with her son until he expired on September 25th.

Our gratitude is deeply felt and we wish to acknowledge the community and to acknowledge how wonderful our Red Cross volunteers are.

Faye Johnson was the volunteer who worked so diligently to raise the funds for air fare. She is a dedicated volunteer who deserves the recognition for her hard work.

Thank you to all the churches and citizens of Murray who gave freely to help us in our hour of great need.

Thanks to you all for allowing my brother to die peacefully with his mother at his side, not alone with strangers.

Cure for financial fog

Dear Editor:

Recently there was an op-ed piece in the Murray Ledger and Times by Amy Helm Wilson. The headline read "Free Me of Financial Fog." Among other things, she said "I must have missed the classes that provided an introduction to banks and insurance companies. How am I supposed to make decisions for the future without this kind of knowledge?"

Unfortunately, when most of us went to school, there were no classes on these or other financial or economic topics. We learned from our parents, or newspapers, magazines, and books, or from adult friends or relatives.

But she has a good point. Everybody needs to learn these things, and the best place to do it is school. There are programs for today's students, although it may be necessary for us to see to it that they're available in the schools.

Help and encouragement can be found at the Center for Economic Education at Murray State and at other universities throughout Kentucky. Their activities center on providing economic teaching material, games and other resources free to school systems and individual teachers.

They also provide in-service programs and scholarships for summer classes providing six advanced credit hours. The focus is on helping teachers use economic concepts and principles at whatever grade level and in whatever subjects they teach. It's free because there are people who believe this is so important that they contribute money to the center to provide these services.

What Ms. Wilson was particularly referring to is a specialized part of economic education known as financial planning. The College for Financial Planning, in cooperation with the Extension Service of the U.S. Department of Agriculture, makes available a financial planning course for high school students. It's arranged so as to be a week long, although there's enough material for a longer course if the teacher wishes to use it. I believe it would have covered most of Ms. Wilson's points.

This, too, is free. It's designed to be team-taught by a financial planner and the classroom teacher. The only requirement the College for Financial Planning makes is that both teacher and student evaluations be completed and sent back to the college.

I know there are lots of subjects that teachers are expected to teach, I suspect most teachers find it difficult to cover all the things they have to, let alone the additional things they would like to.

But the real advantage to these programs is that they're designed to fit into whatever teachers are already doing. After all, the laws of economics apply to many areas of life. Only Congress seems to have the audacity to try to repeal them, which unfortunately they try to do on a regular basis.

Let's see to it that our children get a better economic and financial planning education than was available to us. It would help them be wiser voters, better employees, and more successful in both spending and investing than our generation has been. Giving each new generation a chance at a better life than our parents had has been part of the American dream for a long time.

Get ready for Hazel Day

WILLFUL THOUGHTS

Amy Helm Wilson
Ledger & Times Staff Writer

Anyone driving through Hazel Saturday will undoubtedly be drawn into the festivities as the fifth annual Hazel Day celebration kicks off.

People of all ages can join in the festivities that will include a car show, an auction and antique specials.

Although the organizers are hoping for a nice sunny day, last year's rainy event didn't stop people from getting out and having a good time.

I remember trudging through the mud to get to the arts and crafts booths and eagerly grasping not one, not two, but four beautiful throw pillows.

I just knew that they wanted to come home with me and be placed on my couch where they would be loved by some affectionate cats.

To top that, the prices were more than reasonable. I will definitely have my eye out again this year to see if I can locate similar bargains.

A country town celebration would not be complete without its very own homemade bake sales. Again, I braved the cold rain to see what goodies were available.

This time, I ended up with a jar of apple butter. I felt very proud of myself for being able to resist the other gourmet delights such as pear jelly and homemade pickles.

The thought of spreading the apple butter on warm biscuits really created a nice image in my mind. In fact, not long after I got home, I opened the jar for a little taste.

But my purchases had not been completed. It was still raining, but the watermelon display seemed to be calling my name. Luckily, the man selling them was kind enough to deposit one in my truck.

I also made a quick pit stop to the flea market area where I rapidly zoned in on some books and a wicker basket. They too were added to my purchases.

As I got back in my truck and prepared to leave, I spotted a beautiful display of mums. I have to admit, while I was sitting there with water dripping into my eyes, I actually considered running out and purchasing one.

If it hadn't been for the thunder, I probably would have done it. Instead, I decided that I had spent enough money and convinced myself that a mum might not survive the trip home.

This year, I am ready. Rain, snow, sleet or shine, I am going to buy a mum and proudly display it on my doorstep. That will be my Hazel Day trophy.

Then again, if I happen to encounter some arts and crafts, they might also find their way home with me.

These kind of celebrations are so much more fun than going to a mall because people are extremely friendly and are definitely willing to bargain.

So as you make your weekend plans, head to Hazel and help the residents celebrate. You may even end up taking something home!

Speaking of weekend plans, there is another place that I can recommend for a visit.

Following a news conference Monday at Kentucky Dam, I took the long way home and drove through Land Between the Lakes. Since it had been years since I had visited, I was amazed at how my impressions as a child were still correct.

It was even better making the trip as an adult because I gained an even greater appreciation. Miles and miles of woodlands stretched out before me, with an occasional sign to mark the way.

There's no doubt that I will be returning when the leaves begin to take on their fall colors. There were some areas that were sporting various shades of brown, but in about three weeks, the whole forest should really be colorful.

I also took time to visit Silo Overlook, which was the site of a picnic by a school group. I have to admit, the sight of all those kids running up and down the ramp made me feel dizzy as I tried to make my way to the top.

There's just something about looking down that makes my stomach begin to turn over. Of course, it could be that I had my dress shoes on and didn't feel very comfortable walking on wooden planks.

The trip to the top was definitely worth the effort because Lake Barkley was beautiful. Unfortunately, rain began to fall right as I drove into the Woodlands Nature Center parking lot.

The rain didn't stop the two school buses from unloading their students. The students ran into the center and were undoubtedly treated to a day of educational recreation.

The next time I go to LBL, I am planning to select a better day when I can pack a picnic lunch. Then, I am simply going to enjoy the scenery.

EDITORIAL ROUNDUP

Sept. 27 — Daily News, Los Angeles, on Haiti/Russia:

Will President Clinton's Haitian adventure inspire imitations? Russian President Boris N. Yeltsin hints that it might.

In his address to the U.N. General Assembly, Yeltsin seemed vaguely to suggest that Russian troops might justifiably be sent to any of the independent republics that comprised the former Soviet Union if there were a need for peacekeeping, protection of Russian security or protection of Russian minorities.

When understood in the context of more blatant threats coming from powerful elements within Russia, such reasoning could become a pretext for the possible establishment of a new Russian empire. And now we have new moral ammunition, courtesy of Washington. The American military occupation of Haiti, justified by only a remote connection to American security, makes it difficult for the United States to argue credibly against similar acts in the former Soviet Union. ...

In other words, what may seem an exercise in democracy-building to this rather naive administration might actually help erode the gains made by democratic forces against Russian domination. The Haiti adventure may help make imperialism respectable again, especially if it's clothed (as it usually is) in high moral purpose.

Sept. 21 — The Kent County Daily Times, West Warwick, R.I., on Jimmy Carter:

As a president, (Jimmy) Carter's grades were not passing. After the presidency, the story is much different.

Jimmy Carter, the peanut farmer, is head and shoulders above the former presidents when it comes to being actively engaged in the well-being of his nation. Carter's lackluster White House years are forgotten in the deeds of this amazing ex-president's accomplishments. Carter has won world respect in his post-presidency years and President Clinton would be wise to use the expertise of ... Carter for the good of the nation.

History will be kind to the man from Plains because he has earned his place for his many deeds since leaving the White House.

U.S. has Haiti policy — for now

Rubbing my eyes didn't help. The incredible image was still on the TV.

There, outside the Pentagon, were the secretary of defense, the chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, and the other big-time American military people.

A band played rousing anthems and troops wore formal uniforms. There were cannons blasting away a 21-gun salute.

And what was the occasion for so dramatic a display? What great national event was taking place?

It seems that this fellow Jean-Bertrand Aristide, said to be a slightly unimpaired Marxist, had consented to come to the Pentagon to make a speech about President Clinton's policy on Haiti.

Assuming, of course, that Aristide understood Clinton's muddled policy, or that the policy hadn't been switched in the past few minutes.

Until recently, most Americans didn't know Jean-Bertrand Aristide from Joe Glutz. He was and is a bit player on the world stage, the exiled president of a poor and dinky nation of little or no importance to the United States.

But there we were, fawning over him and treating his appearance at the Pentagon as if it was a major event in international diplomacy.

How did the United States, the most powerful nation on Earth, get into this goofy bind?

Because Aristide was in a snit over the dippy-do switcharoo that Clinton has pulled on him.

Instead of our troops roaring and kicking out the evil military bosses of Haiti — as Clinton had vowed we would do — we were now-almost pals with the evil military bosses.

And our soldiers had been ordered to just mind their own business when the Haitian troops crushed the skulls of Haitian citizens, including kids and that simple coconut vendor who was whacked to death.

Well, you can't blame Aristide for being a bit out of sorts. After all, he had been told we were going to seize Haiti in order to kick out the military thugs and restore him to the presidency.

It was never clear to most Americans why we would take on that chore, since there are more than enough able-bodied Haitians who could rise up against their oppressors if they wanted to. They aren't so inclined.

But we said we would do it, and a promise is a promise. However, in a twinkling, Clinton decided that all the brutal killers, rapists, cutthroats, and thieves in the military junta should be given amnesty for all of their crimes.

And they should be permitted to remain in Haiti and, in fact, continue running the country until some time next month.

If running the country included thugs beating up on ordinary citizens, so be it. Our thousands of soldiers could just put their hands over their eyes if the cruelty bothered them.

Aristide was not thrilled by Clinton's bizarre double-cross. So he pouted in silence, and that prompted the White House to say something like this:

"We can't have Aristide saying we are wishy-washy jerks, even though we are. So let's butter him up, give him an oil rub. Invite him to the Pentagon. Put on a big show. Full dress uniforms, brass band, and a 21-cannon salute. And put Aristide on CNN making a speech about the glories of democracy. Yeah, if that doesn't confuse the hell out of the viewing public, nothing ever will."

This will surely be recorded as one of the wackiest moments in our history. We started out with the goal of kicking out the bad guys and sent a substantial army to do the job.

Then, we decided that the bad guys weren't so bad after all, and we'd let them keep running things for a while.

So, our soldiers had to stand around helplessly while the bad guys ran amok. And we don't even know what atrocities they were committing in the countryside, where there were no TV cameras.

When the thugs were shown on American TV, some yuppie in the White house said: "Cops, that doesn't look good. Tell some general to do something, quick, before the next presidential approval poll is taken."

So the Pentagon sent word that we should bring in a few hundred military police to keep an eye on the Haitian thugs and make sure they don't do anything that will result in more distasteful TV video clips.

And the crowd that created this situation is going to give us universal health care?

I'd rather take my chances with a veterinarian.

Just drop us a line ...

Local manuscript accepted for publication by board

Of Caves and Shell Mounds, a manuscript co-edited by Dr. Ken Carstens, director of the MSU Archaeology Service Center and anthropology program, has been accepted for publication by the University of Alabama Press board of directors.

Co-editing the book with Carstens is Dr. Patty Jo Watson, distinguished professor of anthropology at Washington University in St. Louis. Carstens said he is particularly pleased that the UA Press has agreed to publish the book, as their reputation for archeological monographs greatly exceeds all others in the eastern United States. The book is due to be released in May of 1996.

Carstens and Watson's book originated from a symposium Carstens chaired at the Southeastern Archeological Conference in November of 1989. The symposium was given in honor of Dr. Watson, who had been Carstens' graduate advisor at Washington University, and who had also been responsible for more than 30 years of internationally-acclaimed archeology in the Mammoth Cave and Bowling Green, Kentucky areas. Carstens has been involved with that research since 1973, and he decided to bring together former students of Watson's and other colleagues who had been influenced by Watson's research to honor her with the symposium and the book. As a result, fourteen papers were included in the present volume, written by researchers from across the United States.

The book is divided into two halves. The first half, containing seven chapters (two of which were authored by Carstens), focuses on the prehistory of the Mammoth Cave area. Highlighted within those chapters is a discussion about some of North America's earliest domesticated plants, prehistoric caving activities, cave art, cave mining, and other specialized archeological studies dealing with Mammoth Cave and the archeology and prehistory of Mammoth Cave National Park.

The second half of the book features a discussion of the famous "shell mound" culture area, located near Morgantown in a region called the "Big Bend of Green River." There, prehistoric cultures which predate those at Mammoth Cave, lived between the sixth through the third millennia B.C., primarily as hunters and gatherers, but also as collectors of wild plants such as sunflower, lamb's quarters, pigweed and sumpweed, which were among the first to be domesticated in the eastern half of the New World.

The shell mounds, which were large oval areas built upon succeeding layers of village garbage, were usually constructed on large broad floodplains of Kentucky's Green River, primarily between Rochester and Morgantown. The prehistoric collection of millions of freshwater mussels, and the disposal of the mussel shell in the village refuse, helped build these "shell" mounds to sizes ranging from 50 yards wide to more than 150 yards long and four yards high. In addition, the people of the shell mound culture were among the first to establish trade routes throughout North America, serving themselves as middlemen in a trade that saw the exchange of copper from the Lake Superior region with unique minerals from Kentucky's caves, such as mirabilite, gypsum, selenite and epsomite. Conch shells from the Gulf of Mexico and quartz crystals from Arkansas and the Appalachian Mountains were also traded.

Carstens joined the Murray State department of sociology, anthropology and social work in 1978. Both his M.A. and Ph.D. focus on the prehistory of the Mammoth Cave area. This book represents Carstens' fourth book to be accepted by a publisher.

Blood River to celebrate 125th anniversary

Blood River Baptist Association will hold its 125th annual meeting on Monday and Tuesday, Oct. 3 and 4. Dr. H. Franklin Paschall of Nashville, Tenn., will be the guest speaker at the session on Tuesday, Oct. 4, at 7 p.m. at Westside Baptist Church, Johnny Robertson Road, Murray. Dr. Paschall served as president of the Southern Baptist Convention in 1966-68, and has preached in every state and held revivals in nearly every church of the association. A graduate of Puryear High School, he received a B.A. and honorary D.D. degree from Union University, Jackson, Tenn., and in 1956 earned the Doctor of Theology Degree from Southern Baptist Theological Seminary, Louisville. He began his ministry in 1941 when he was ordained by Oak Grove Baptist Church near Hazel. He served as pastor there until 1942 when he was called to full-time service at Hazel Baptist Church until 1951. Also during this time he served at Locust Grove from 1943-1946. Other pastorates include First Baptist, Bowling Green, North Fork, Maplewood, First Baptist, Nashville, and Central, Oak Ridge, Tenn.

Dr. Paschall was married to the late Olga Bailey of Hazel and has two daughters. He is the great-grandson of J.C. Spann who held the office of Moderator of Blood River Association for 18 years. This will be the 125th anniversary celebration on Tuesday night. There will be a parade of church flags from each of the Southern Baptist churches in the association which covers Calloway and Marshall counties. Other sessions will be Monday, Oct. 3, at 7 p.m. at New Bethel Baptist Church, located on Highway 58 west of Benton, and on Tuesday, Oct. 4, at 9:30 a.m. at First Baptist Church, Calvert City. A choir of 125 persons, one for each year of the association, will sing with Steve Littlefield, minister of music of First Baptist Church, Murray, as director. Also featured will be an orchestra made of churches members with George Milan of Benton First Baptist as director. The Rev. Glen Cope is moderator for the association. All churches are urged to have representatives at the sessions and the public is invited to attend. At the opening session on Monday, Oct. 3, at 7 p.m. at New Bethel Baptist Church, on Highway 58 east of Benton, the annual sermon will be delivered by the Rev. Jerry Norsworthy, pastor of Blood River Baptist Church. The Rev. Sammy Cunningham is pastor of New Bethel.

The Tuesday morning session will be at 9:30 a.m. at First Baptist Church, Calvert City. The Rev. Ricky Cunningham, pastor of Hardin Baptist Church, will deliver the doctrinal sermon. Dr. Billy Hurt is pastor of Calvert City church. The Rev. Terry M. Sills, director of missions for the association, invites the public to attend all the sessions. He issues a special invitation for all members of all churches of the association in Calloway and Marshall County and the general public to attend the special 125th anniversary celebration at Westside on Tuesday at 7 p.m. Blood River Baptist Association

Simmons gets top award

Randy Simmons of Covington, formerly of Mayfield, received the top award in PADUCAH '94, a regional competitive art exhibition sponsored by the Yeiser Art Center. The exhibition, which opens at the center October 2 with a reception from 2-4 p.m., includes 47 works by artists living in five states.

More than 100 artists residing in the states of Kentucky, Tennessee, Missouri, Illinois, Indiana, and Ohio submitted 185 works for the competition. Entries accepted for the exhibit include: painting, drawing, printmaking, photography, sculpture, and mixed media.

Murray artists in the exhibition are: Teresa Bazzell, Dick Dougherty, Rebecca Glasscock, Barbara Harrell, M.B. Novak, Mary Pateron, Judy Pierce, Eric Warmn.

Cash awards in the amount of $1,500 were selected by the juror.

Juror for PADUCAH '94 was Jerry Speight, professor of art at Murray State University and head of the two dimensional design area. Speight has exhibited in competitions and individual shows in Kentucky, Illinois, Tennessee, and Indiana and has served as a juror for numerous competitions. Speight received a master of fine arts from Memphis State University and a master of arts from Murray State University.

He was assistant professor of art at the University of Kentucky and Brescia College. He has taught design, drawing, graphic design, painting, ceramics, and art history. In the past 11 years, the Paducah '94 competition has attracted 1,400 artists who entered 2,215 works of art. The Yeiser Art Center has exhibited 537 works in the 11 years of the competition.

PADUCAH '94 continues through November 13. The Yeiser Art Center, located at 200 Broadway in Paducah, is open from 10 a.m. - 4 p.m., Tuesday through Saturday and 1 - 4 p.m., Sunday. Admission is $1. Members and children under 12 are admitted free. The center is accessible to persons with disabilities.

League will meet here

The Murray/Calloway League of Women Voters will hold its 1994 membership meeting on Monday, Oct. 3, at 7 p.m., at the MSU Faculty Club, 309 N. 14th Street.

Guest speaker for the evening will be Reva Hart, the State President of the League of Women Voters of Kentucky.

Acting chair, Philis Alvic, noted, "We look forward to having a good turnout at this meeting. Even if you only have a few minutes a month to contribute, there is a place for you in the League."

This year, in addition to its focus on voters service, the Murray/Calloway League will be examining two issues of significant local interest. First, a study group is being formed to look at the changes at Land Between the Lakes in an effort to determine the effect those changes will have on our community. Another group will examine how higher education is financed in Kentucky. This study will be undertaken in cooperation with the Hopkinsville League of Women Voters.

The meeting will begin with dessert and coffee, and all interested men and women are invited to attend. For more information, please call Emily Wolfson at 753-1867.

Hospitals added

CINCINNATI (AP) — An alliance between The Christ Hospital and University of Cincinnati Hospital has expanded to include two northern Kentucky hospitals.

The Cincinnati hospitals said Thursday that the two St. Luke Hospitals in Kentucky have signed an agreement in principle to work with them to establish joint management.

The move will reduce the cost of health care, improve efficiency and strengthen medical care, officials said.

The Christ and University hospitals created their alliance in February. Under that agreement, Jack Cook, chief executive officer of The Christ Hospital, also became chief executive of University Hospital.

As part of the agreement with the Kentucky hospitals, Cook will be chief executive of the alliance. John Hoyle will remain as president and chief executive of the St. Luke Hospitals.

The four hospitals will maintain separate identities while working together to coordinate services.

Officials also are considering the option of merging the hospitals. No job cuts were announced, although officials said they will look for ways to improve cost-effectiveness.

St. Luke East Hospital is in Fort Thomas, Ky., and St. Luke West is in Florence, Ky.

Racers hope to pick on UT-Martin

By STEVE PARKER
Sports Editor

The good news is that Murray State turned in its best performance against Ohio Valley powerhouse Middle Tennessee since 1988. The bad news is that the Racers squad has back problems. "As coaches, we can't treat it as a win," Racer coach Houston Nutt said after the narrow 23-21 loss to Middle Tennessee last Saturday. "A lot of people have been telling our players how well they played and giving them pats on the back, but it was a loss. It's a lot different than 66-0, but it's a loss." Nutt's challenge this week is to take the positives of the Middle game and throw out the negatives to get ready for Saturday's game against UT-Martin at Roy Stewart Stadium. So far, he hasn't had to do much motivating. "We're ready to get back on the field," said fullback David McCann, who had one of the Racers' three fourth quarter fumbles against Middle. "Last week was a hardy loss, it hurt. We came in the next day depressed, because we thought we had it."

MSU looks for rebound

Saturday's game against UT-Martin pits two teams that have one loss in the conference and can't afford a second. "We need a home victory for us and the fans and to get back on track for an OVC championship," said sophomore cornerback William Hampton. "This game is just as big as Middle." Murray State (2-2) defeated UT-Martin (2-1) 28-21 in overtime last year in Martin, Tenn., behind Butch Mosby's record-setting passing performance. For the Racers to make it two in a row over Martin, they'll have to keep the Pacers' passing game from setting records. "Offensively, they throw it everywhere and line up three or four wide receivers," Nutt said at Monday's weekly press conference. "They don't run it much, but I'm sure they can." Led by quarterback Doc Gamble, the Pacers are an all or nothing offense. Gamble threw for 289 yards in a season-opening 35-26 win at Southern Illinois. But in last week's 10-0 loss at Southeast Missouri, Gamble threw five interceptions. Martin is averaging 210 passing yards per game, and only 49.5 rushing yards a game. Martin, which hasn't scored in six quarters, is an all or nothing offense. "We get to see quite a few passes this week," said Hampton. "We've been facing running teams most of the year, now it gives our secondary a chance to step up."

Murray State's secondary will be without starting safety Reuel Shepherd, who injured his knee in the Racers' 23-16 win over Southeast Missouri two weeks ago. Elliott Dunn and Kenny Thomas will have to go most of the game. With Hampton, Nutt need not worry about the left cornerback slot. However, the pass rush is a concern. After Thursday's practice, Racer center Mike Gossett joked with defensive tackle Tim Foster saying

Clash of the titans EKU, Middle could decide OVC question

The Associated Press

If the recent past holds true, the Ohio Valley Conference football race may be decided on Saturday night. That's when No. 17 Eastern Kentucky (2-2, 1-0 OVC) and No. 20 Middle Tennessee (2-1, 2-0) tangle in Murfreesboro, Tenn. Tennessee Tech (3-1, 1-0), which entertains Austin Peay, also is contending for the lead. But it's been Eastern Kentucky and Middle Tennessee that have dominated league play the past 13 years with one of the teams winning or sharing the title. Eastern Kentucky has won eight OVC crowns outright and shared two titles while Middle Tennessee has won three outright championships during that span. Eastern Kentucky has won 14 straight conference games, with the last setback coming at Middle Tennessee (38-7) during the 1992 season. The Colonels are coming off a 27-14 victory over Austin Peay.

"They are aggressive and very well-coached," Eastern Kentucky coach Roy Kidd said of Middle Tennessee. "They usually don't beat themselves. You have to beat them. This is another big challenge for us. We'll have to execute on both defense and offense to stay with them." Kidd also will be going for his 250th collegiate coaching win (249-90-8). Middle Tennessee has put at least 20 points on the scoreboard in its first three contests, averaging 30 points this season and 422 yards of total offense.

REIDLAND — Reidland jumped out to a 3-0 lead Thursday night and never looked back en route to a 4-1 win over Calloway County. Reidland (10-0) is one of two unbeaten teams in the state of Kentucky. After Reidland jumped out to the 3-0 lead, Calloway's Carrie Bell scored for the Lady Lakers on an assist from Tracey West to cut the lead to 3-1 at half. Renee Otte scored the game's final goal in the second half to push the margin to three goals. Calloway (5-6) was outshot by Reidland 29-9. April Freeman scored two goals for the Lady Greyhounds. Calloway will host Lone Oak on Monday at 5 p.m.

Auburn head coach Terry Bowden remained unbeaten in 16 games with the school as the Tigers downed Kentucky 41-14 Thursday night. The win also dropped UK coach Bill Curry to 0-11 against Auburn.

Bowden still unbeaten, keeps Curry frustrated

AUBURN, Ala. (AP) — Terry Bowden still hasn't lost as Auburn's coach. Bill Curry still hasn't figured out how to beat the Tigers. Ninth-ranked Auburn made a successful return to national television, extending the nation's longest Division I-A winning streak to 16 games with a 41-14 rout of struggling Kentucky on Thursday night. All of the victories have come under Bowden, who has yet to taste defeat as a major-college coach. This one may have taken on more importance because it came with the rest of the country looking on and the Tigers hoping to make a big impression for the poll voters. Auburn (5-0, 3-0) was barred from TV last year by NCAA probation, but the blackout was lifted this season. Two of the Tigers' first four games were shown regionally, but the ESPN telecast marked their first national exposure since 1992 — which also was the last time they lost. "I don't think the game was all that impressive in the second half," said Bowden, asked what kind of impact the Tigers made on the rest of the country. "We did win 41-14. We played a lot of people. Whether it was impressive or not, I don't know." Curry, meanwhile, has the Kentucky program headed in the opposite direction. The Wildcats (1-4, 0-3 Southeastern Conference) lost their fourth in a row and Curry's record against Auburn fell to 0-11. "We're a very frustrated team," said Curry, whose team is heading toward its fifth straight season without a winning record under his guidance. "We are a prideful group and we expected a lot out of this season. Ultimately, it is my responsibility to get our players to concentrate. Obviously,

I haven't done a good job." This was Curry's first meeting against the Tigers as Kentucky's coach. He was 0-7 at Georgia Tech and lost three more while coaching at Alabama, a record that effectively sealed his fate with the Crimson Tide and forced him to move to Kentucky in 1990. "People don't want to believe it, but I feel it is a beautiful stadium and a great football atmosphere," he said of returning to Jordan-Hare Stadium for the first time since Alabama's hopes of a national championship ended with a 30-20 loss to the Tigers in 1989. "My parents live here (in neighboring Opelika), and it is exciting to be able to bring a team down here and play." Bowden's father, Florida State coach Bobby Bowden, also was at the game, but his advice wasn't needed. Auburn, in fact,

Thursday night's boys'-girls' soccer doubleheader between Murray High and Caldwell County should have been sponsored by the National Rifle Association. "Everyone Gets A Shot." Murray High rolled to a pair of easy wins against the undermanned and undergirded Tigers, scoring 16 goals and firing a two-game total of 66 shots on goal. BOYS Murray 10, Caldwell 0 Murray High boys' head coach James Weatherly had a simple game plan going into the game: "To not let the score get out of hand." Murray (6-5), coming off an 8-1 win over Lyon County, scored six goals in the second half to breeze to the shutout win. "Having this week to recover from injuries was good," said Weatherly, who takes his team to Marshall County next Thursday. "We get the second half of the season kicked off on the right note." Roman Shapla, who had three goals and three assists at Lyon, scored three goals and had two assists against Caldwell. Stephen Crouch had two goals and one assist and Ryan Vanover picked up two assists. Murray outshot Caldwell 34-7 and played reserves most of the night. Also scoring goals were: Greg Miller, Jason West, Al Plan, Jeremy Hunt, and Ryan Clark. John Key and Adam Meloan picked up assists. Backup goalkeeper Ross Clark, getting his first start of the season, faced only seven shots and made three saves. Murray has a week off before traveling to Marshall for a key Second District game. GIRLS Murray 6, Caldwell 2 Murray High beat Caldwell by four goals, which was expected. But their 6-3-1 record was unexpected. "I thought we'd be 6-4 at this point, so we're a half a game ahead of where we thought we'd be," said head coach Mark Kennedy. "I thought we'd beat Henry County and we tied, and I thought we'd struggle on the road at Fort Knox and we went up there and shocked them." Murray's Mary Kay Howard and Samantha Hogsted each scored two goals in the win. Murray led 4-2 at the half on goals by Howard, Jeanne Maddox, Sara Snyder and Hogsted. Snyder, Howard and Courtney Christopher all had first half assists. In the second half, Hogsted scored on an assist from Taryn Hansen and Howard scored on an assist from Susan Krieb. "We got excellent play from Susan Krieb and our freshmen midfielders," Kennedy said. "And Emma Shaw had an excellent game in goal." Murray's next game will be Monday at Madisonville.

ing, "Tim and I are tied for number of sacks."
Foster, a force on the inside of the Racer defense, hasn't recorded a sack yet this season, but has pressured the quarterback on numerous occasions.
"This is the game defensive linemen dream of," said Foster, an all-OVC candidate. "We get in our sprinter's stance and go."
"We have to tee off and let Bona and Herman Taylor. Although Nutt is expecting more consistent play from both."
"I keep waiting for one of them to say, 'It's mine. I'm going to take the bull by the horns and lead the team down the field and get first downs,'" Nutt said.
"I want one of them to say, 'Coach, you can't take me out,'" Nutt added. "But that hasn't been the case."
MSU's offensive line will likely be without left guard Marcus Kimbrell and right tackle Mike Cutter, both going down in practice this week. Kimbrell injured a knee and Cutter fractured a thumb.

"loose," he continued. "The last couple of games we've been worried about stopping the run, but they don't run that much so we get to tee off on the pass."
Offensively, Murray State's approach in practice has been centered on one facet: "Taking care of the ball," said McCann.
Against Middle, Murray State fumbled five times and lost three. All three came in the fourth quarter and either killed Racer drives or set up Blue Raider scoring chances.
"We shouldn't fumble that much in the season," said McCann, disregarding the rainy conditions. "That's basically the offense's job, protect the ball. If you don't have it, you can't score."
Martin's defense is "stingy" according to Nutt and features linebacker Brian Spano and safety/punt returner Dwayne Harper.
Nutt said he'll continue to go with dual quarterbacks — Benji didn't even need to bring its offense.

Ken Alvis returned an interception 37 yards for a touchdown, his second score of the season and fourth for the Auburn secondary, and Mike Pelton fell on two Kentucky fumbles, one in the end zone for a touchdown, the other at the Wildcats 2 to set up a TD.
Auburn attempted two passes on its first series and failed to gain a first down, then seemed to remember that Kentucky was surrendering an average of 321 yards per game on the ground.
The Tigers ran nine straight times on their next possession, with Stephen Davis gaining 53 yards on five carries and Joe Frazier getting 27 on three rushes before Patrick Nix scored on a 1-yard quarterback sneak.
"It was a game where we took control early and never let go," Terry Bowden said. "By half-time, the way we were running the football and playing defense, I felt like we had the game under control."
Auburn built the lead to 14-0 in the second quarter with a 15-play, 82-yard drive that was extended by a fake punt. Davis finished it off with another 1-yard touchdown run.
Then the Tigers watched Kentucky self-destruct.
On the Wildcats' next possession, Antonio O'Ferrall's sideline pass was picked off by Alvis, who scooted untouched to the end zone. It was reminiscent of Auburn's performance two weeks earlier against LSU, when the Tigers returned three interceptions for touchdowns in the fourth quarter for an improbable 30-26 victory that kept the streak alive. Auburn has now equaled last season's school record for scoring off interception returns.
The defense wasn't through.
Building on the 21-0 halftime lead, linebacker Anthony Harris recovered Damon Hood's fumble at the Kentucky 2 and Joe Frazier scored on the next play, his first touchdown in two seasons.
Then O'Ferrall threw a swing pass that bounced off the hands of halfback Moe Williams. No realizing it was ruled a lateral, Williams made no attempt to pick up the ball, which rolled into the end zone and was recovered by Pelton while Kentucky players stood around.

That was symbolic of the entire evening. The Wildcats had to call one timeout because they weren't ready to defend against an extra point, and wasted another timeout when the defense didn't get on the field in time after a change of possession.
Most damaging, though, was a penalty for too many players on the field when Kentucky had converted a fourth-down play at the Auburn 4. Brian Sivinski then attempted a 37-yard field goal, which was wide left.
Kentucky, which is giving up 40 points a game, finally scored after falling behind 35-0. O'Ferrall hit Leon Smith with a 16-yard pass in the third quarter and Michael Woodfork went over from the 1 with less than three minutes to go.

Calloway basketball seeks coaches

Anyone interested in coaching Calloway County little league girls basketball this year should contact Lady Laker head coach Pete O'Rourke at 753-4182. Tryouts for all girls interested in playing basketball at Calloway County will be held on Oct. 15 at 9 a.m. in the high school gym.

Gooden's drug case to be evaluated

NEW YORK (AP) — New York Mets pitcher Dwight Gooden, serving a drug suspension when it was recently revealed he had failed other tests, will not face additional penalties until further evaluation.
Gooden has 15 days left on a suspension imposed June 28 after he failed two drug tests. Earlier this month, major league headquarters announced Gooden had tested positive at least two more times.

Hockey season start looks unlikely

NEW YORK (AP) — Unless there is a last-minute change of heart by NHL owners, Saturday's 12 season-opening games likely will be postponed by a lockout.
A source told the Associated Press that NHL teams rejected the players' latest offer, in which players agreed not to strike in the 1994-95 season if owners agreed not to lock them out. The decision apparently cleared the way for commissioner Gary Bettman to postpone the start of the season.

Rose joins Denver with $10 million deal

DENVER (AP) — First-round draft choice Jalen Rose officially joined the Denver Nuggets, signing a contract reportedly worth $10.2 million over six years. Rose, a 6-foot-6, 210-pound guard, averaged 19.9 points and a team-high 3.9 assists as a junior at Michigan.

Tarpley's reinstatement looks OK

DALLAS (AP) — The NBA has tentatively approved Roy Tarpley's request for reinstatement, The Dallas Morning News reported today.
Tarpley, the Mavericks' first-round draft choice in 1986, averaged 12.6 points and 10.5 rebounds in five seasons. Tarpley received what was then termed a lifetime suspension on Oct. 16, 1991, when he became a third-time offender of the league's drug program by refusing to take a drug test.

150 mothers can't be wrong, martial arts can help your child get ahead in life!

Celebrate Our 10 Year Anniversary in Murray
Mothers are very selective about the kinds of activities in which their child should participate. That's why more and more are enrolling their children in the Murray Tae Kwon Do for kids program.
Our carefully structured programs are designed to bring out the best in each and every child we teach. Our martial arts programs teaches children balance and coordination that will help them in many other activities. It also teaches them self confidence and self discipline, which gives them the will to say no despite peer pressure when things are wrong. Martial arts improve concentration, which often improves school work and it teaches them useful techniques that will help to protect them from danger.
With so many benefits to our program, it's not hard to see why so many mothers are excited about it here are just a few.

Racers look for rebound, host UTM
Following a tough 23-21 loss to Middle Tennessee, the Murray State Racers face the Pacers of Tennessee-Martin in Ohio Valley Conference action in a rematch of last year's exciting 28-21 Racer overtime in Martin.
Murray State enters tonight's game with a 2-2 record overall, and a 1-1 mark in the OVC, while the Pacers are 2-1 on the season and 0-1 in the OVC.
MSU led Middle Tennessee until late in the fourth quarter, but three MSU fumbles in the final period doomed the Racers to a 23-21 loss over the highly-regarded Blue Raiders.
Murray State running backs Wayne McGowan and David McCann have been a solid one-two punch this season, with McGowan rushing for 231 yards and McCann carrying for 229 yards.
Racer head coach Houston Nutt still wants one of two Racer quarterbacks, Benji Bona and Herman Taylor, to step forward and take command of the squad.
Bona has started all four games this

Pain in the Head
More information has emerged about what causes headaches. Migraines are caused by a firing of nerves that surround blood vessels covering the brain, which triggers pain and releases protein that inflames the blood vessels. The inflammation stimulates the nerves further, which sustains the headache. Cluster headaches, the most severe condition, may be caused by a malfunction of the hypothalamus, the regulator of automatic body functions. Tension-type headaches are associated with stress and may be related to the same nervous system disorder as migraines or to excessive tensing of muscles.

COMMISSIONER'S SALE
 The Commonwealth of Kentucky, Calloway Circuit Court Trustee, versus Emmanuel Manners et al, Defendants.

NOTICE OF SALE
 Case No. 94-CI-00155

By virtue of a judgment and order of sale of the Calloway Circuit Court rendered at the September 20 Term thereof 1994, in the above cause, I shall proceed to offer for sale at the Courthouse door in the City of Murray, Kentucky, to the highest bidder, at public auction on the 17th day of October, 1994, at 12 Noon, or thereabout, the following described property, to-wit:

A 8,715 square foot tract of land as surveyed by the firm of F.T. Seargent Land Surveyors, of Murray, Kentucky, on August 17, 1989, located at 301 North 8th Street and being known as Tract 1 of a minor subdivision (Plat 11, Page 70) of a part of Lot 19, Block 5 of the McElrath Heights Addition to the Town of Murray recorded in Deed Book 31, Page 462) for the Bank of Murray (Trustee of the Winchester Trust No. 70) in Calloway County, Kentucky, and being more particularly described as follows:

Beginning at a #4 rebar (set) on the west side of 8th Street (50 foot right-of-way) (also known as Elkins Street) and on the north side of Sharpe Street (50 foot right-of-way) and being the southeast corner of the herein described Tract 1; thence, South 87° 57' 23" West - 105.00 feet along the north side of Sharpe Street (50 foot right-of-way) to a #4 rebar (set) at the southeast corner of Tract 2, said tract being a part of Lot 19, Block 5 of the McElrath Heights Addition to the Town of Murray; thence, North 01° 30' 00" West 83.00 feet with the east boundary of Tract 2 to a #4 rebar (set) on the south boundary of the J.W. Young property; thence, North 87° 57' 23" East - 105.00 feet with the south boundary of the Young property to a #4 rebar (set) on the West side of 8th Street (50 foot right-of-way); thence, South 01° 30' 00" East - 83.00 feet along the west side of 8th Street to the point of beginning.

Defendants Manners obtained title to this same property by deed from Bank of Murray, as Successor Trustee of the Winchester Trust No. 70, dated August 23, 1989, and which is of record in Book 174, Card 2421 in the office of the Calloway County Clerk.

THIS PROPERTY IS SOLD SUBJECT TO THE 1994 COUNTY AD VALOREM TAXES AND SUBJECT TO THE RIGHT OF REDEMPTION HELD BY THE UNITED STATES OF AMERICA PURSUANT TO 28 U.S.C. 2410.

The real estate shall be sold for cash. Purchaser shall post a bond, with approved securities, bearing legal interest from the day of sale until paid and having the force and effect of a judgment. Bidders will be prepared to comply promptly with these terms.

Jean Miller
 Master Commissioner
 Calloway Circuit Court

Bidding Quiz

You are South, both sides vulnerable, in each of the following three hands. What would you bid where the question mark appears?

1. ♠ 753 ♥ 64 ♦ Q9762 ♣ Q43

East	South	West	North
1 ♠	Pass	4 ♠	4 NT
Pass	5 ♠	Pass	5 ♠
Pass	?
2. ♠ AJ8 ♥ AJ6 ♦ AJ7 ♣ A953

South	North
1 ♠	1 ♠
2 NT	3 ♠
3. ♠ 74 ♥ K9 ♦ K72 ♣ AKQ876

West	North	East	South
Pass	Pass	1 ♠	2 ♠
Pass	2 ♥	Pass	?

1. Six clubs. Partner's four notrump bid is the equivalent of a strong takeout double, and you should assume at that point that he has adequate trump support for at least two suits.

When he next bids five spades, you should assume that he is void of spades and that diamonds is not one of his suits, for otherwise he would either pass five diamonds or bid six diamonds if his hand were strong enough. It follows that partner wants you to choose between the two remaining suits, hearts and clubs, so you should conform to his wishes by bidding six clubs. He may have any one of the following hands to justify his bidding:

- ♦-♥ AKQ83 ♦ A5 ♣ AKJ972
- ♦-♥ KQJ95 ♦ AK4 ♣ AKJ85
- ♦-♥ AKQ752 ♦ AJ ♣ AK986

2. Three diamonds. The presumption is that North is not keen about notrump and prefers to play the hand in either clubs or diamonds. There is no good reason to suppress your diamond support, and you should therefore bid three diamonds. North may have any one of these hands:

- ♦ K3 ♥ 7 ♣ KQ8652 ♦ KJ84
- ♦-♥ Q85 ♦ K9843 ♦ KQ742
- ♦ K975 ♥ 4 ♦ KQ64 ♣ KQ84

in which case the best contract would be a minor suit slam.

3. Three hearts. Despite partner's previous pass, there is a good chance for game and you should pursue it by bidding three hearts. True, you have only two-card trump support, but that should not stop you from raising partner, since he is sure to have either six hearts or five very good ones. Partner may have one of these hands:

- ♦ J6 ♥ QJ8752 ♦ AJ4 ♣ 93
- ♦ K92 ♥ AQ7643 ♦ 85 ♣ J4
- ♦ 83 ♥ AQJ84 ♦ A96 ♣ 532

and you belong in four hearts with each of them.

DEAR ABBY

ridiculous. I hope to change that. Please let me be a voice, so that others can receive early treatment. Thank you for all of your AIDS work.

MARY O. IN LAGUNA NIGUEL, CALIF.

DEAR MARY O.: Thank you for an important letter. At this time, approximately 20 states test semen donors for HIV, but that is still fewer than half the states in this country.

Unfortunately, 10 years ago when you were inseminated, there were no tests for HIV. The Centers for Disease Control issued its first guidelines for semen donors in 1985. They have since been updated twice (1988 and 1994). However, the CDC cannot mandate or regulate enforcement of its guidelines.

The CDC recommends that all semen donors be tested at the time of donation and that their sperm be frozen for six months, at which time the donor is tested again. If his results are negative, his frozen semen is then made available for insemination.

Although some states follow recommended guidelines, they are not always as stringent as those issued by the Centers for Disease Control. Your letter should serve as a warning to other couples. When a sperm bank is contacted, the people there should be carefully questioned about their procedures: Are they using frozen semen? Do they retest their donors after six months before using their semen? Are they accredited? If so, by whom? The state agency that regulates the sperm bank should be contacted, and the records regarding that bank should be reviewed. Finally, contact more than one sperm bank before making a decision on which one to use.

For additional information, I recommend The American Fertility Association in Birmingham, Ala.; the Intergovernmental Health Policy Project in Washington, D.C.; and the Centers for Disease Control in Atlanta.

DEAR ABBY: I have been going with a very nice young lady and I would like to ask her to marry me, but I'm afraid our marriage might not have a chance because of the hours I would have to work.

Should I get married while I'm with the fire department or try to get another job?

DEAR FIREMAN: Ask the guys at the firehouse. Plenty of firefighters are happily married. The flame of love can continue to burn brightly at home while you put out the others.

DR. GOTT

DEAR DR. GOTT: I have numerous questions about thyroid problems. What are hot and cold nodules? I have a tumor growing on my neck or thyroid. Am I over- or under-active?

DEAR READER: When doctors obtain a thyroid scan, they administer small amounts of a radioactive material (isotope) that is concentrated in the gland. Later, when the patient is scanned, the radioactivity produces a "picture" on X-ray film.

A normal gland may show some variation in the uptake of the isotope — the scan may not show a uniform distribution — but there is a basic, homogeneous pattern that corresponds to the size and effective functioning of the gland.

In some instances, however, the scan may show areas of high uptake — or no uptake at all. In the first instance, doctors conclude that the "hot spots" indicate overactivity of parts of the thyroid gland. This is common in certain disorders, chiefly a condition called "adenomatous hyperplasia," a benign condition.

In the second instance, doctors call the area of reduced or absent uptake a "cold" spot or nodule. This is seen in the presence of thyroid cysts (which are filled with fluid) or areas of tissue, such as growths or tumors, that are "non-functioning" (fail to absorb the isotope). These areas are worrisome. In the presence of "cold" nodules, physicians usually order an ultrasound examination, which can distinguish between cysts and solid tissue. Although cysts are less likely to be associated with malignancies, many authorities recommend that cysts be biopsied. Of course, "cold" solid nodules must be biopsied in most cases, because this is the only sure-fire way to confirm whether the tissue in question is malignant.

If you have a growth in your thyroid gland and it is "cold" on the scan, you may have a tumor. "Hot" nodules are never malignant. On the other hand, if you have a (non-thyroid) growth in your neck, it will not usually affect the thyroid scan, because it isn't part of the gland. In general, over- or under-activity of the thyroid gland as a whole is best diagnosed using blood tests. I believe that you need a biopsy to resolve the issues you raise. Ask your doctor about this.

Flood selected as ambassador

After being employed at the same company for 18 years, William K. Brooks of Wickliffe got something he'd never wanted to see — a lay-off slip. It was a blow, but Brooks quickly regrouped.

"It didn't take much time for me to realize that the key to today's job market lies in training and education," he said.

A first term air conditioning/refrigeration student, Brooks is among 15 students recently named as 1994-95 student ambassadors at West Kentucky State Technical School.

School officials announced the selection of 15 student ambassadors Monday. Mark Flood of Murray is studying machine tool technology and is one of the ambassadors.

The students, who are in several different programs at the technical school, were among more than 30 students nominated by their instructors. A three-member committee selected the final ambassadors based on their instructor's nomination, good standing at the institution and commitment to vocational-technical education.

The voluntary student ambassador program was established at West Kentucky Tech last year in an effort to help the community understand more about vocational-technical education, said West Kentucky Tech School Director Lee Hicklin.

"We've made some significant leaps forward in recent years in the community's understanding of the technical education we provide, but there are still those out there who haven't heard our message," Hicklin said. "Our student ambassadors represent some of our top students. They're excited about what's happening here, and we're proud to have them representing us."

Each student has volunteered to represent the school in at least five activities during the school year. Their participation may include acting as guides for visitors to the school or accompanying school counselors to area schools and college fairs.

Adams is certified in family medicine

Michael Adams, M.D., of Murray recently completed board certification in the specialty of family medicine. The American Board of Family Practice administers the certification process for physicians specializing in family medicine. The Board verifies appropriate family medicine training and administers extensive written and oral examinations given after specialty training is completed.

Adams provides continuous, comprehensive care for all members of a family, including children. He is trained to care for the majority of illnesses including dermatologic, gynecologic, heart conditions and pediatric illnesses.

A native of Henderson, Adams earned his undergraduate degree in 1986 and medical degree in 1991 from the University of Kentucky. During his medical training, Adams completed a one-year fellowship in pathology which is offerred to only a few medical students annually. He was also awarded an academic excellence scholarship and the prestigious Cooper Medical Student Award. This award is given annually to the senior medical student who has exhibited excellence in establishing and maintaining patient rapport.

He served his internship at St. Elizabeth Medical Center in Edgewood, KY, where he also completed a three-year residency. He joined the Murray-Calloway County Hospital staff earlier this year. He and his family reside in Murray.

A member of the medical staff of Murray-Calloway County Hospital, Adams is an associate in Primary Care Medical Center in Murray in Suite 480-West of the Medical Arts Building. His office phone is (502) 759-9200 or 1-800-932-2122.

Letter of Appreciation

Dear Editor:

The Murray Woman's Club wishes to take this opportunity to extend sincere appreciation to all those who made the 1994 Calloway County Fair Queen Pageant possible. We know that without the following, there could be no pageant. It would be a shame to overlook anyone, so we hope to avoid that situation by not naming names!

The local businesses who advertised and/or gave gifts to the contestants; the contestants; the out-of-town judges; the talented individuals who entertained with piano, song or dance; the emcee; the floral designer who provided the beautiful staging, at no cost to us; the technical people; the local school system for the lovely auditorium; the civic club who furnished walkie-talkies; the men who served as escorts for the contestants; the local store that furnished the escorts with tuxedos; and all the members of the Murray Woman's Club.

HOROSCOPES

SATURDAY, OCTOBER 1, 1994

(For your personalized daily Jeane Dixon horoscope, based on your own date of birth, call 1-900-988-7788. Your phone company will bill you 99 cents a minute.)

TODAY'S CHILDREN: Despite these Libras' easy-going manner, they tend to be very particular about their surroundings and companions. They have an eye for beauty that makes them turn their backs on the ugly or shoddy. A career in the world of art or music would be an excellent choice for these creative types. They are able to express artistically the emotions that we all share.

HAPPY BIRTHDAY! IN THE NEXT YEAR OF YOUR LIFE:

Your charisma is both a blessing and a complication. You must be very careful when it comes to romance. Someone you want to help may mistake your compassion for love. Be more tolerant of delays at work and career advancement will come faster. A dynamic worker, you shoulder heavy responsibilities without complaint! Early in 1995, your leadership skills will help solve a financial problem. Loved ones enjoy a new feeling of security.

CELEBRITIES BORN ON THIS DATE: actor Walter Matthau, singer Julie Andrews, baseball great Rod Carew, actress Julia Stevens.

ARIES (March 21-April 19): You may have gained the wrong impression from a romantic partner's remarks. Ask for clarification. Someone could try to impose on your good nature. Be polite but refuse to be painted into a corner.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20): Although mixed trends are indicated this morning, by afternoon you should be firmly in charge. If feeling somewhat restless, accept or extend a last-minute invitation.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): A good day for furthering personal aims. No major problems will crop up. Avoid keeping late hours if you want to avert a heated domestic argument. Family members will not be easy to convince.

CANCER (June 21-July 22): Deter to your family's wishes today. They may be thinking about something that has escaped your attention. Have faith! Once you believe in yourself 100 percent, others will be eager to follow your lead.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): You get an opportunity to make an important point to a teen-ager or younger relative. Get an early start if traveling. Adoption of a new route should work well. Improve the quality of key relationships.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): Your opinions pack a punch and could lead to a rousing debate. Curb a tendency to speak impulsively. Discretion pays dividends. Strive for restraint.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): Share your creative ideas with loved ones; their suggestions may help you find even greater success. Be patient if financial rewards come slower than you would like. Eventually you will be on top!

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): The emphasis this weekend is on setting a good example. Discipline your tongue; flashes of irritability may tarnish your image. Browse through your favorite stores if planning to buy new furniture.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Private matters and clandestine meetings require careful handling. Do not let a thoughtless remark compromise your security. Having a heart-to-heart talk with your mate will help you set the record straight.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): Give new ideas and methods a chance to work. Meetings with influential people are once more indicated. Romance does seem sweeter the second time around. Why rush things? Go slow on formalizing a casual arrangement.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Be willing to forge a major undertaking from the ground up. Reducing business and personal expenses will give you more options. Romance beckons tonight. Sincerity will be rewarded.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20): A good weekend to reduce some of the clutter in your life. A new acquaintance may urge you to change your lifestyle. Try not to be overly influenced by this person. Trust your intuition.
