KSP: Speed played role in van wreck

By E.L. GOLD
Staff Writer

Driver Mike Young topped 80 mph before losing control of a Murray State University van, the Kentucky State Police said in a partial report released Friday.

"Investigators have been able to show that the speed of the van at the time of the accident was approximately 82 mph," the report said.

Young, the Murray State cheerleading sponsor, was driving 12 Racer cheerleaders back to Murray from the Nashville airport after the NCAA regional basketball tournament in Tallahassee, Fla., when the wreck occurred on Interstate 24 in Christian County.

One cheerleader, Ginger Adams, 20, of Murray, died six days later from her injuries.

Earlier attention had focused on the role of the driver's side rear tire in the wreck.

However, investigators determined that the tire, on which the tread separated and wrapped around the van's axle, did not lock up or slow its rotation as had been previously speculated.

The tire casing maintained inflation and continued to roll after the tread separated, said Trooper Bryan Pitney of KSP Post 2 in Madisonville, where the investigation was conducted.

Eyewitnesses to the crash said the van started to swerve and then went out of control shortly after the tire separated.

Lucy Newbaker of Fort Leonardwood, Mo., was with her husband in the vehicle the van was passing when it crashed.

"We thought he handled it well for a few feet, but at interstate speeds, things happen so fast," she said.

Newbaker said her vehicle was traveling about 70 mph when the university van passed. She did not believe it was going much faster than that.

"It was a real gradual pass," she said.

Pitney said the investigation is continuing and some laboratory test results are still incomplete.

No charges have been filed in connection with the wreck.

Pitney said Young will not be charged with speeding even though the investigating team determined that the van was traveling 26 percent above the posted speed limit when the wreck occurred.

"In Kentucky, we cannot cite for misdemeanors after the fact," Pitney said.

Such misdemeanors must be witnessed by a law enforcement officer before a citation can be issued. Otherwise, the case has to be sent to a grand jury for indictment.

The final police report will be turned over to the Christian County commonwealth attorney's office, which will decide whether to ask a grand jury to consider criminal charges of manslaughter or negligent homicide against Young, according to an Associated Press report citing Pitney as its source.

Although he may not be issued a citation for speeding in this case, Young has been cited for the offense in the past.

According to Kentucky Department of Transportation records in the Kentucky Driver Information System, Young was cited:

•Oct. 4, 1991, in Marshall County for traveling less than 16 mph above the posted speed limit;

•Sept. 4, 1993, in McLean County for traveling between 16 and 25 mph above the posted speed limit;

•April 3, 1994, in Hopkins County for traveling less than 16 mph above the posted speed limit.

Young also had a citation Sept. 22, 1992, in Calloway County for disregarding a stop sign.

The records did not indicate whether Young was driving a

Alexander sets search for coach

By AMY WILSON
Staff Writer

Murray State University President Dr. Kern Alexander is looking for a coach who can lead the university's basketball program into the big leagues.

"It is very important that we project this position as one that is an opportunity for Murray State," Alexander said in a Ledger interview Friday morning. "MSU is in the big time and we are going to be big in basketball. We want this selection to show that."

The university is seeking a men's head basketball coach to replace Scott Edgar, who left this week to take the head coaching position at Duquesne University in Pittsburgh.

Edgar had compiled a 79-40 record in four seasons with the Racers, including three Ohio Valley Conference Championships, two trips to the NCAA Tournament, including one March 17, and a trip to the NIT Tournament.

While early speculation this week indicated that the search would take less than a week and would focus on an on-campus candidate, Alexander said the university is following set guidelines for the search.

"This won't be a long drawn-out affair, but it will probably be more than 10 days," Alexander said. "At first, we said it would take a week to 10 days and the clock is already ticking. It may be a little longer."

"There definitely won't be a coach hired by Monday," he said. "Maybe we will have one a week from Monday, but we are wanting to be sure that everyone interested has had an opportunity to apply. We are still getting quite a few calls."

The search may have been expanded as a result of the rush of applicants. According to Alexander, about 80 people have applied.

Names that have been publicly tossed around include Racer assistant coach Ken Roth, former University of Kentucky standout

"MSU is in the big time and we are going to be big in basketball. We want this selection to show that."

Dr. Kern Alexander
(MSU president)

Kyle Macy, and two former MSU Racer coaches, Steve Newton and Ron Greene.

"I imagine we have at least 40 states represented on this two-page list of applicants," Alexander said. "There are a bunch of good people on here."

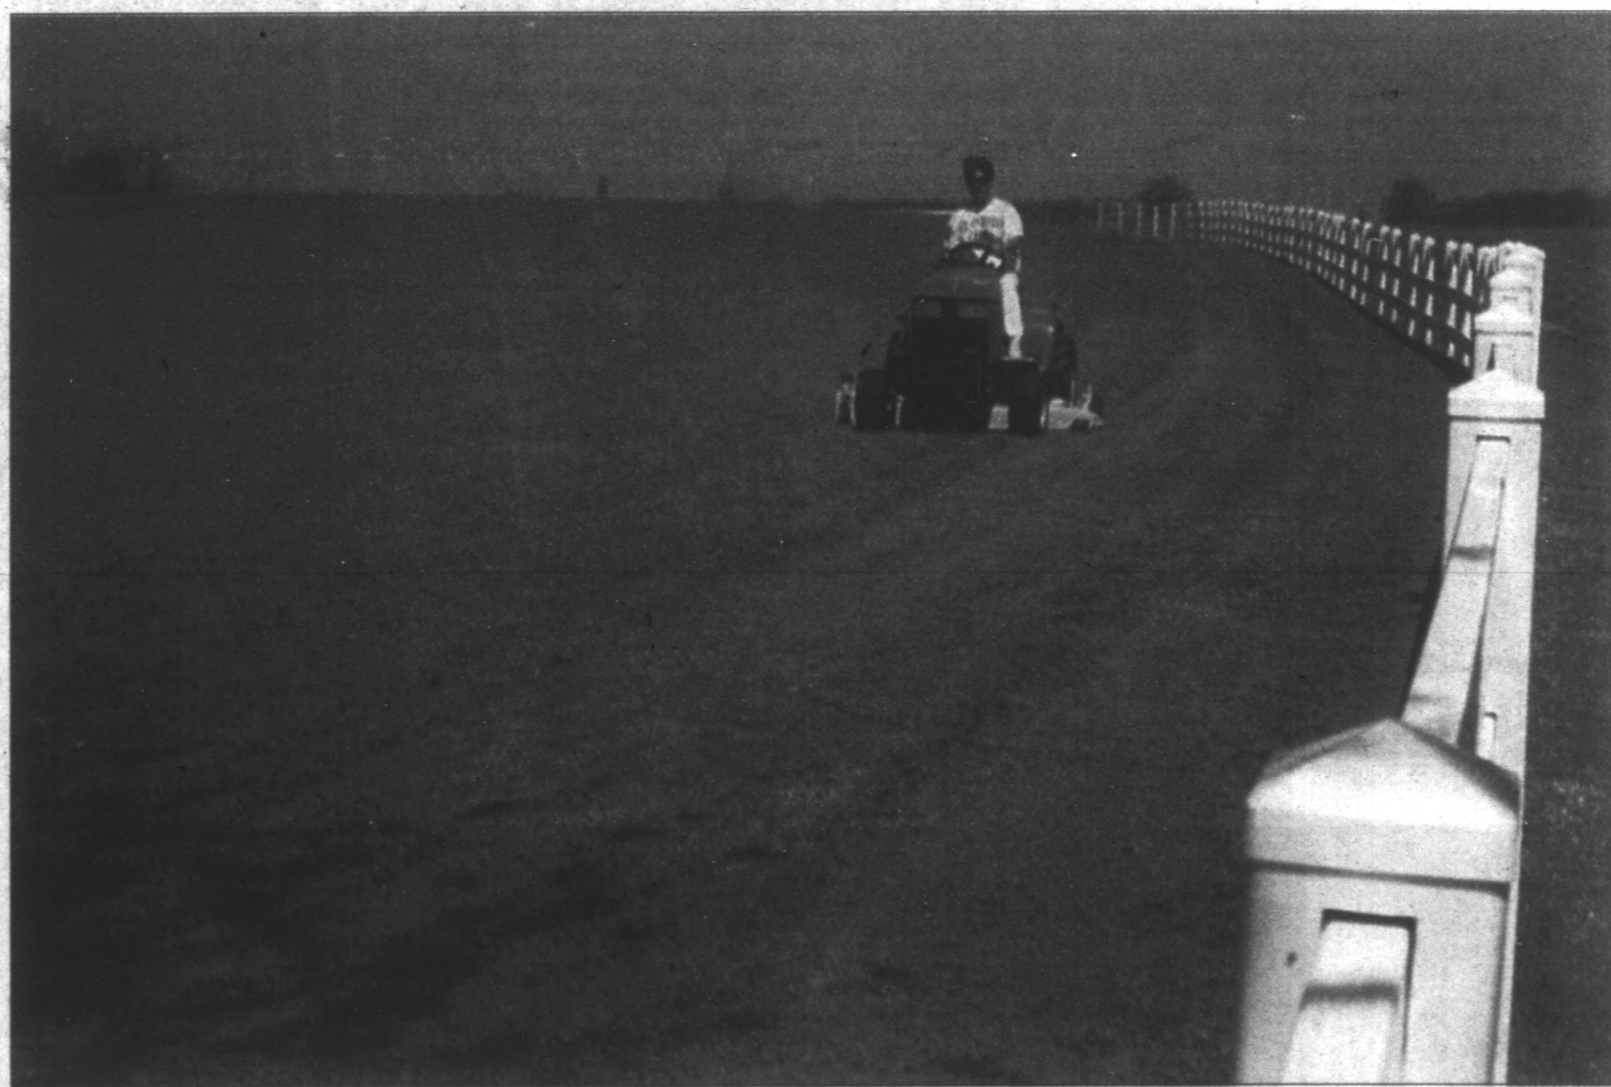

Based on university procedures, the president is responsible for recommending a new coach to the board of regents, which will meet in mid-May.

"The board will do the actual hiring," Alexander said.

Alexander talked with faculty senate representatives Nancy France (president) and James Rudolph (vice president) Thursday afternoon regarding the search.

"I reviewed our procedures with them and they seemed to feel good about the search," he said.

GOP celebrates end of contract

House finished commitment under 100 days

By JOHN DIAMOND
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Weary but elated, House Republicans are celebrating the end of their 100-day sprint — it was 93 days, actually — while promising to return next month to take care of unfinished business. "It was amazing," Speaker Newt Gingrich said today.

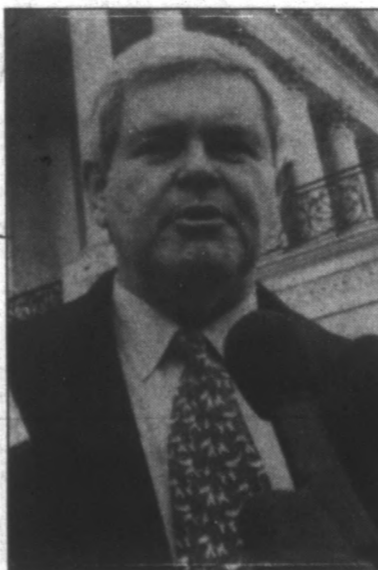

With Washington's cherry trees in bloom, Republicans returned to the west steps of the Capitol, where they launched their "Contract With America" last fall, to underscore that they had kept their promise. It was a message that Gingrich planned to bring home in a nationally televised address tonight.

Gingrich also said he would discuss the Republican drive for a balanced budget amendment to the Constitution. "It's going to be one of the great efforts of modern times to remake the federal government so we can get to a balanced budget," he said on NBC's "Today" show.

"I think the country is with us," Gingrich said.

"I think about 70 percent of the chapter and verse in the 'Contract With America' will be passed by the Senate and House; I think the president will sign more than 50 percent of it into law," House Majority Leader Dick Armey, R-Texas, said on "CBS This Morning."

NEWT. GINGRICH

White House Chief of Staff Leon Panetta grudgingly acknowledged the GOP accomplishments, saying today, "You obviously have to give them credit for their ability to be very disciplined and single-minded about getting the contract accomplished in the House."

However, Panetta said on ABC's "Good Morning America," "the problem is the first 100 days have largely been about Newt Gingrich and the Republicans and the special interests and the privileged who have benefited

Agencies investigating Hazel armed robbery

Staff Report
Murray Ledger & Times

The Calloway County Sheriff's department, with help from the Henry County, Tennessee sheriff's office, are investigating an attempted strong arm robbery at Gallimore's Fruit Stand in Hazel Thursday night.

Sheriff Stan Scott said they are searching for two black males who fled from the store at 6:15 p.m. in a small, dark blue car with $300 and a carton of cigarettes.

Scott said it was originally believed that only a carton of cigarettes was taken, but this morning the owners reported the cash missing.

According to Scott, each of the men entered the store at different times. Finally, one of the men approached the cash register with the cigarettes. He lunged at the cash register. While clerks rushed to the aid of the woman behind the register, the man fled.

Calloway County and Henry County deputies began searching for the men who fled on East State Line Road where Scott said they busted a tire. The driver continued driving on the rim.

Scott said one suspect was wearing a checkered shirt and baseball cap and the other had on a dark shirt and baseball cap.

Rudolph said in a Ledger interview Friday morning that he is comfortable with the search process.

"It meets the affirmative action criteria," Rudolph said. "Athletics is part of the university and the criteria for selecting people in leadership roles in athletics should be the same as the selection process used for other university positions."

Rudolph said from a faculty standpoint, it is important to find a coach who can place an emphasis on academics, as well as play a winning role in athletics.

Alexander said the university plans to widely disseminate news of the vacancy.

"If there are not sufficient minorities, we will solicit them," he said. "We will also have a committee with a good race and gender mix to review the applications. We want to have both inside and outside representatives on the committee."

Although the exact membership of the committee has not been determined, Alexander said regent Beverly Ford will be a member since she is chairman of the board's athletic committee, as well as regent vice chairman.

Alexander will also serve as a committee member.

"We haven't set an absolute deadline on the search at this point and the timeline will depend on the applicants' travel schedules," he said. "We hope to have a committee meeting soon."

Alexander, who served as president of Western Kentucky University from 1985 to 1988, hired a coach during his tenure there.

"It has been a very busy time so far," Alexander said. Since coming to the campus in July, he has handled a campus fire, a university van crash and has tackled various campus issues such as recruitment and retention of students.

As the university prepares to hire its 11th Racer head coach,

Alexander said it is important that the new coach reflect the university's desire for a bigger, better program.

"We are looking for a person who has strong experience in basketball and who knows how to work with students," Alexander said. "We want a good moral person who has connections with other universities to assist in recruitment."

Perhaps most importantly, Alexander said he is seeking a coach "who can play our style of basketball and can enhance our kids' skills."

the most. I think the second 100 days hopefully will be about the rest of America."

The fraying, laminated card in Gingrich's pocket now has 10 holes punched in it — one next to each of the "contract" proposals Republicans promised to vote on within 100 days of taking over the House.

But Democrats managed to punch some holes of their own in the "contract." Only two of its provisions — congressional accountability and unfunded mandates — have been signed into law. Two others — the balanced budget amendment and congressional term limits — were defeated. And a "Star Wars" missile defense measure was knocked out of a national security bill. These setbacks led to a second theme of the Republican week of celebrating: There is more to be done.

"This was the beginning. You made it possible," Gingrich told cheering Republicans Thursday night, including dozens of exhausted congressional staffers. "With your help we passed it. With your help we're coming back in May to even bigger and even more exciting things."

The celebration unfolded under the banner, "Promises Made ... Promises Kept." And it was a theme Republican speakers returned to again and again.

"Republicans have put an end to business as usual in Washington — they have kept their word," said Republican National Committee Chairman Haley Barbour.

While Republicans celebrated their success, they weren't declaring victory. And while Democrats acknowledged their foes had scored a public relations coup, they weren't conceding much more than that.

Senate Majority Leader Bob Dole, R-Kan., still smarting from the narrow defeat of the balanced budget amendment in the Senate, promised, "The next 100 days will belong to the Senate." But he cautioned, "We aren't setting any deadlines, and no one expects the Senate to be a rubber stamp for the House."

Democrats sought to inject their own version of a reality check into the proceedings.

Sen. Robert Byrd, D-W.Va., the dean of Senate Democrats, called the "contract" nothing more than "the wish list of the extreme faction of one political party, packaged to sell better by giving it the legitimacy of the word, 'contract.'"

Byrd mocked the media hoopla surrounding the end of the 100 days, saying "everything about this made-for-TV drama will be somewhat of a fantasy."

And other Democrats continued to hammer their own theme: that the Republican agenda favors the rich at the expense of the needy.

"It's clear that the winners in the Republican roller-coaster ride have been the wealthy, the powerful, the special-interest lobbyists, the defenders of the status quo," said House Minority Leader Dick Gephardt, D-Mo.

Bardstown schools to try year-round calendar

BARDSTOWN, Ky. (AP) — Bardstown Independent schools will experiment with a modified calendar for the 1995-1996 school year, with the idea of going to a year-round schedule the following year.

Tom Isaac, a past president of the Bardstown-Nelson County Chamber of Commerce and a member of the community committee that studied the issue, dubbed next year's plan "year-round lite" in a radio editorial following the board's decision.

Isaac said he personally would prefer a true year-round program — one that stretched the school year beyond 175 days — to keep Bardstown students competitive with their peers worldwide. But Isaac said he realized his committee's more dramatic proposal might have killed the change altogether.

Superintendent Robert Smotherman said Bardstown's school board thought it best to try "a toe-in-the-water approach" instead of an abrupt change. The board will review the experiment in February or March before deciding on a school calendar for 1996-97.

On Aug. 9, Bardstown's 1,550 students will begin the experimental year, attending classes in four sessions of about nine weeks each. Between sessions, students will have two or three weeks off, during which they can work or take classes for enrichment or remediation.

Bardstown's school year will end June 7, 1996, and will equal 175 days, as required by Kentucky law. But the new calendar provides an abbreviated summer vacation: eight weeks instead of the 11 or 12 weeks scheduled by most other Kentucky school systems.

The county's other system, the Nelson County schools, has no plans to change its calendar, Superintendent Victor Johnson said. County students will continue to have an 11-week summer vacation.

Smotherman said he thought the community largely agreed to try the calendar for two academic reasons: It allows a student to take remedial classes immediately after a grading period, instead of waiting until summer, and it should boost students' knowledge retention.

While one might expect resistance from Nelson County's tourism industry to the independent district's plan, Smotherman said "we didn't hear an outcry at all." Instead, some businesses saw opportunities in being able to hire high school students between sessions, especially during the holidays, he said.

Pennington receives sentence

PAINTSVILLE, Ky. (AP) — A judge sentenced Scott Pennington today to life without possibility of parole for 25 years in the 1993 shooting deaths of a teacher and janitor.

Special Judge Samuel Long also sentenced the 19-year-old Elliott County native to the maximum of 20 years for each of 21 counts of kidnapping his classmates following the shootings, and five years for one count of first-degree unlawful imprisonment.

A Johnson Circuit Court jury found Pennington guilty but mentally ill on Feb. 28 of intentional murder in the classroom shootings of East Carter High School teacher Deanna McDavid and janitor Marvin Hicks.

Long went along with the jury's recommendation on the murder counts, but made his own decision on the kidnapping charges.

Public defender Hugh Convery had called the sentence recommendations "unduly harsh," and asked that Long go below those out of consideration for Pennington's mental illness.

Long said the "nature and circumstances" of the crimes required that he give the maximum allowed under the recommendations.

Ben McDavid, the teacher's widower, said he was satisfied with the sentence, for what it was.

"He didn't get the maximum," he said outside the courtroom. "The maximum would have been the death penalty. That's what he should have gotten."

Pennington's mother, Esta, and his sister, Rachel, sat with their heads bowed at the back of the courtroom during the sentencing hearing.

They rushed to a car and slammed the door without commenting.

Convery said he was preparing an appeal.

Convery had argued that Pennington was insane at the time of the shootings and was not in control of his actions.

But Assistant Attorney General Barbara Whaley contended that Pennington, an honor student, carefully plotted the shootings and even manufactured an insanity case through classroom writings and statements to medical experts.

sink, while at the same time hollering for my husband.

He came up to me and stuck my hand under the water and wrapped a towel around it to stop the bleeding. All I could do was stand there with tears rolling down my face.

Luckily, Mike is a safety engineer and he knows how to deal with these kind of things. I was pretty useless because I couldn't even look at the cut without wanting to gag.

After several paper towels and antiseptic cleaner, he proclaimed that I didn't need stitches. He bandaged it with steady hands and talked quietly to me.

Perhaps he realized that I immediately connected the idea of stitches to needles, which translated into pain. For whatever reason, he managed to calm me while he provided medical attention.

On a lighter note, he told me that he's handled a variety of small medical emergencies ranging from metal splinters to cuts, but I was the first crier he has ever encountered.

After bandaging, he sent me to bed, where I immediately curled up with Baby Pillow. Needless to say, I was extremely glad that I wasn't alone when I cut myself.

Independence is a positive quality, but it's always nice to know that there is a shoulder to lean on — especially when you can't stomach the sight of blood.

Teens may act like they want to be left alone, but at the first obstacle, many will be more than happy to rely on their parents.

WASHINGTON TODAY

Big law firm to provide on-site care

By RICHARD CARELLI
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — In this jungle of white-collar workaholics, the most powerful law firms often are portrayed as predators who eat their young. Can it be, then, that the city's richest law firm has gone soft and encourages its people to eat with their young?

Indeed. Arnold & Porter, a legal powerhouse founded by New Dealers, will soon open what may be the nation's first on-site day-care center in a law firm.

"Our decision was really a reflection of the kind of hours people keep around here," says James Jones, managing partner of Washington's highest-grossing law firm last year with revenue of $153 million. "We have longer days than people with normal jobs."

Among the many advantages of an on-site facility are the increased opportunities for parents to stop by and join their children for lunch.

It should be fun for the kids, not to mention a relief for over-worked parents to know their children are nearby.

Full-time on-site centers for the children of government and corporate employees are becoming more common, but large law firms have limited their efforts to providing emergency, or backup, day care.

One of the models Arnold & Porter studied is a full-time day-care center across town at the Justice Department. It's called Just Us Kids.

Margaret Plank, a government trial lawyer with two kids in the center, says having young children so close at hand is the biggest benefit.

Admitting she believes many of the horror stories she's heard about life at large law firms, Plank applauds any sign that they recognize there is more to life than practicing law.

Another prestigious Washington law firm — Wilmer, Cutler & Pickering — is believed to have been first, in 1986, to provide backup child care. Arnold & Porter followed suit in 1988, and soon thereafter started considering the next step.

Its new day-care center will take up nearly 5,000 square feet of the downtown building some 900 Arnold & Porter employees — including 270 lawyers — will be moving into.

The new center will feature state-of-the-art accommodations for the pre-school set, operate daily and serve up to 40 children with a staff of 10.

The hours each child spends at the center will be monitored closely. Center director Mary Ann Lundy says parents who consistently keep their children in the center longer than, say, nine hours a day, will be counseled. Parents who face pressing deadlines can get evening help.

Working parents — moms and dads alike — are being urged to visit their children whenever they can. They can even play with George the hamster and his two lizard roommates if they wish. Mothers of infants are invited to continue nursing their child even after returning to work.

Parents will pay for the tuition at market rates. The law firm cites the increased morale and productivity that come from freeing a working parent of the stress associated with arranging for child care. But the center apparently makes good financial sense, too.

Its backup day-care operation cost Arnold & Porter $170,000 last year, and one estimate pegs at $800,000 the increased revenue — "billable hours" — the law firm realized.

That figure may get other law firms into a family-friendly mood. "It's not a financial drain," Arnold & Porter partner Brooksley Born says. "From a strictly billable-hour point of view, there are advantages."

Still, no such project would have been possible when Born joined the firm 30 years ago.

"It took a lot of social evolution, including more women coming into the profession and the spouses of male lawyers going to work," she says. "Law firms, like all other institutions in our society, are in the process of adapting to the changing demographics of the workplace."

Ask a 17-year-old what he wants and chances are he will say that he wants to have freedom to do what he wants.

That translates into wanting to set his own curfew, handle his own problems, run around with whatever group he selects and be free of nagging parents who seem to dog his every step.

The funny thing about it is that once the teen gets a taste of what it's like to be on his own — paying his own way and being responsible for himself — he eventually realizes that he should have been content with his parents.

From the parents' perspective, they are often so frustrated with having to fight their kids that they are more than ready to let loose of the reins and push their offspring out of the nest.

Just as there are kids who don't want to be kids anymore, there are also parents who never get the hang of parenting techniques.

Rather than considering the modern-day problems facing their children, they continue to use the same philosophies practiced by their parents.

That is why it is so important for parents and those who are planning to be parents to leap through the decades and be aware of what is happening in society.

Many still use the age-old guilt trip of "I walked to school in spite of (pick one):

•Snow, sleet, hail and knee-deep mud."

•Shoes and no lunch money."

•Chores that began at dawn on the farm and ended at dusk.

At one point in our history, these kind of things probably worked. But those kind of techniques are now as outdated as one-room schoolhouses.

Now, the children have entered an era of education where they surpass their parents. Computers are no longer foreign objects that are only seen as part of a technology demonstration. Instead, they are routine tools the students use every day.

Children are gaining skills at younger ages, which makes them open to more pressure. Parents have to realize that while they may not have known about the birds and the bees until they were in high school, their children are much more precocious.

These same children are the ones who badgered their parents about why the sky is blue, why people are different colors and how babies are made.

If their questions aren't answered seriously and factually, these kids will grow up with perceptions about life that are incorrect. A parent's response to a question can make a difference in how a child handles a problem.

Parenting takes a lot of energy and patience. Most of the times, it seems like a thankless task.

What is important is that the children know they can turn to their parents if they need help.

After all, parents are the ones responsible for handling all of life's little emergencies that hit their children. From skinned knees to dreaded school vaccinations, parents are the ones who ease the way.

Children seem to forget these kind of things as they get older. All they see are authority figures who try to keep them from having fun.

What they don't realize is that their parents are trying to teach them responsibility, which goes hand-in-hand with having fun.

Although independence is good, and a quality that I gained since I learned to tie my shoes, there are times when it helps to depend on others.

This week, I had a mini-tragedy and the first thing that popped in my mind was a cry for my mother. Even though daddies are just as important as mommies, females tend to be the ones who kiss the hurts away.

I was busy slicing an onion with a large knife and the knife slipped and cut a nice chunk of my thumb.

It wasn't quite deep enough for stitches, but it was definitely the worst cut I have ever received. The idea of stitches was enough to push my panic button.

As soon as I felt the knife cut through my thumb, I felt a deep sense of fear well up inside and instinctively looked for my mother. Luckily, I made it to the

KENTUCKY EDITORIAL

The Daily Independent, Ashland

Assistant U.S. Attorney Tom Eicher had a fitting comment as former U.S. Rep. Carl Perkins became the latest Kentuckian to be sentenced to prison for crimes committed in office:

"Kentucky is plagued with corruption and criminal activities by its public officials. The people of Kentucky are tired of public officials using their positions to commit crimes while in office."

Tired is right. Eicher said the sentencing of Perkins to 21 months in prison, three years of supervised release and 250 hours of community service should send a message.

For the elected that message should be that no one is above the law and those who abuse their offices will be held accountable, both in a court of law and in the court of public opinion.

Tired of people like former Speaker of the Kentucky House Don Blandford, former Senate Minority Leader John Rogers, former State Sen. David LeMaster, former State Rep. Clay Crupper and others — all convicted of betraying the trust voters had placed in them. ...

Go on, eat your heart out

Michael Jacobson sounded genuinely puzzled and a little hurt.

"It surprises me how the media attacks us for our work," he said this week. "All we do is provide information for people to make smart decisions about their health."

For more than 20 years, his organization, the Center for Science in the Public Interest, has been giving us advice on what we should and shouldn't eat if we want to avoid the discomfort of massive chest pains and the social embarrassment of bulging eyeballs and loud death rattles.

They're the people who told us about the deadly popcorn, the killer egg rolls, the murderous taco, and the savage fettuccine Alfredo and dozens of other homicidal food choices.

Only this week, they came out with a warning about the sadistic deli sandwich, all plump and juicy and slathered in death-dealing mayo.

But how do many of us in the media thank Jacobson for his concerns about our health?

"I've seen a lot of snideness in editorials," he says, "calling us the food police. I find that ironic and shocking."

"It's killing the messenger. A newspaper is a messenger of news, but newspapers are trying to kill the messenger."

"There have been editorials, especially in the Southwest, that said: 'We don't want to hear this stuff. We don't want to know.' But all these same newspapers care about the cost of health care, and if we ate a better diet, we'd save billions of dollars."

Jacobson's puzzlement is understandable. His organization goes to all the effort of telling us not to plunge our heads into a vat of whipped cream, and all we do is tell him to go mind his own tofu. Which isn't a nice way to treat someone who is simply worrying about our arteries getting clogged with bits of pieces of pork shank or Big Mac.

But our reaction is also understandable. For years we've been told by food nags that just about anything that tastes good is really bad and anything that tastes bad is really good.

After a while, it becomes easy to resent someone who pushes a sliced turkey sandwich when what you really want is a bacon and cheddar cheeseburger with fries, and Twinkies on the side.

A shrink might even say that there is more to our hostility. For people of my generation, it might be a dislike that dates back to our formative years and all those hungry children in China.

Yes, those hungry children of China. We heard so much about them, they seemed almost like relatives or neighbors. All we had to do was try to leave something uneaten on our plates — broccoli or cabbage or rhubarb — and our mothers would say: "Finish everything. Remember, all those hungry children in China."

So we'd force the unpleasant stuff down our throats, even though I never understood how my eating some steamed broccoli could make life better for some hungry children in China. I might have understood if it was sweet and sour pork, or even chop suey. But I was sure that even the hungry children in China hated steamed broccoli as much as I did.

But if we said that, we'd be told: "Those hungry children in China would love to have it as good as you do. They'd eat all of their steamed broccoli, and they'd be grateful for it."

I once asked my mother how she knew so much about the hungry children of China. We had never even been to Chinatown, and we couldn't get chop suey from the takeout joint because my father believed that the Chinese cooks used cat meat. Not that my father had any sympathy for cats, but he didn't want to eat them.

But when I raised the question, all my mother would say was: "Don't talk with your mouth full," even when it was empty.

And there was something else I noticed. If my grandfather staggered off to bed and left half a glass of beer or a couple fingers of Old Skullpopper on the table, nobody said to him: "Finish your drinks. Remember all the thirsty old drunkards in China."

Not that it happened very often. Without being told, Gramps had compassion for thirsty Chinese lushes.

Years later, I found myself trying to do the same thing to my children when they wouldn't finish their dinners.

But they were a different generation. They responded: "If they are hungry, it is not my fault. They should blame the failed agricultural policies of Mao and the rest of their oppressive communist leaders."

And when I've tried the same thing with the grandchildren, they say: "Why should I worry about them? They have all those great Mandarin and Szechwan joints to go to and order General Wingwang's chicken or garlic beef, while we have to sit here and eat the same old tuna casserole."

So from now on, when Jacobson tells me not to eat something I really like, I'm going to think about some hungry guy in China who wouldn't dream of leaving a perfectly good pork shank on his plate.

And I'll eat it as an act of compassion.

In 1985, Marigold took cancer and doctors said she would die in 18 months. The Cheshiers' daughter who has served as his children's pastors and whose husband is in the military preparing for the chaplaincy, was attacked and left for dead at a roadside park in southern Louisiana. Racer coaching search slows down

Staff Report
Murray Ledger & Times

The search process for a new men's basketball coach at Murray State has slowed considerably from what was earlier believed. "We probably will not have any finalists on campus this weekend," Murray State Sports Information Director David Ramey said Friday morning. Ramey said the university is still on schedule to name a list of finalists by the end of the weekend to replace Scott Edgar, who left earlier this week to become the new coach at Duquesne University in Pittsburgh.

Murray State President Kern Alexander said Friday it will be at least a week from Monday before a new coach will be in place.

At least a week-long delay

Earlier this week, Racer Athletic Director Mike Strickland said that several finalists would be brought to campus and that a new coach would likely be in place by Monday.

"We had a tremendous amount of people to express interest and we have a wonderful list of candidates," Ramey said. While a list of finalists is not known at this time, former University of Kentucky standout Kyle Macy believes it's time to hang up his microphone and pick up a basketball again as coach of the Racers. Macy said Thursday that he has applied for the job.

The possibility of Macy being hired is uncertain at this time. Only current Racer assistant coach Ken Roth has been promised an interview.

Former Racer head coaches Steve Newton and Ron Greene have publicly shown interest in the job. Other possible candidates are Vanderbilt associate coach Buzz Peterson; UCLA assistant Mark Gottfried, the nephew of former MSU football coach Mike Gottfried; former UK player John Pelphrey; Bruce Pearl, who coached Southern Indiana to the Division II national title this season; and Kentucky Wesleyan coach Wayne Boultinghouse.

Macy, the son of a high school coach, said he's "always had a

Nicklaus contends for seventh jacket; three tied for lead

AUGUSTA, Ga. (AP) — Jack Nicklaus, the Olden, Golden Bear himself, is in position to claim a record seventh green jacket at the Masters.

He's not in the lead. After one round, that's in joint possession of South African David Frost, lefty Phil Mickelson and defending title-holder Jose Maria Olazabal of Spain.

"I don't think this is a one-round deal," Mickelson said of Nicklaus' chances after Nicklaus scored an eagle-2 Thursday in a round of 5-under-par 67, a single stroke back of the leaders.

"I played a practice round with him and he was awesome. Off that, and off the way he played in the Tradition (a Senior Tour playoff victory last weekend), I think he's going to be right there."

Nicklaus, however, was not

"If I can start driving better, if I can start playing the par-5s better, I can be in contention," said Nicklaus, whose first Masters victory came seven years before Mickelson was born.

"You can't be in contention on this golf course if you don't play the par-5's well, and you can't play the par-5's well if you don't drive well," Nicklaus said.

But he convinced Olazabal, who admitted to surprise at his

Expos unloading high-priced superstars with trades

By CHRIS SHERIDAN
AP Sports Writer

WEST PALM BEACH, Fla. (AP) — "The best team in baseball in 1994 has lost its best starting pitcher, its best reliever, its leadoff hitter and its cleanup hitter."

Such is life these days for the Montreal Expos, a small-market team having to cope with life without revenue sharing under baseball's old economic system.

The Montreal Expos, 74-40 last season, traded center fielder Marquis Grissom to the Atlanta Braves on Thursday for outfielders Roberto Kelly and Tony Tarasco and minor league pitcher Esteban Yan.

That trade capped a 31-hour period in which Montreal also sent closer John Wetteland to the New York Yankees and starter Ken Hill to the St. Louis Cardinals.

Free agent Larry Walker, the cleanup hitter last season, was expected to sign with the Colorado Rockies today.

Montreal chose to trade Grissom, Hill and Wetteland rather than risk losing in arbitration and being forced to pay salaries it can't afford.

"Right now I'm close to being at or over my budget," Expos general manager Kevin Malone said, even after ridding himself of players who made $4.025 million (Walker), $3.56 million (Grissom), $2.55 million (Hill) and $2.225 million (Wetteland) in 1994. In addition, the Braves will pay a large portion of Kelly's $3.4 million salary.

The Expos spent about $18 million on player salaries last season and lost about $15 million because of the strike. This year's payroll could be as low as $10 million, and only Kelly and catcher Darrin Fletcher are signed to 1995 contracts. Most of Montreal's other players have less than three years experience and will have their deals renewed.

In Grissom, Atlanta is getting a center fielder who hit .288 in 1994 with 11 homers, 45 RBIs and 36 stolen bases. He will be the fourth player to roam center field for the Braves since 1993, following Otis Nixon, Deion San-

Lakers split twinbill with Christian Co., Reidland Thursday

Staff Report
Murray Ledger & Times

Calloway County split a morning-afternoon baseball doubleheader at home Thursday, losing to Christian County 9-4 in the morning game but bouncing back to down Reidland 3-2 in the afternoon outing.

In the first game, Calloway scored its four runs and collected three of its five hits in the first inning, but was shut down the rest of the way.

After Christian scored two runs in the top of the first, Calloway opened its half of the inning with singles from Brent Anderson, Sam Arnett and Jay Paul Herndon. Herndon's hit scored Anderson and Arnett came across on a fielder's choice. Herndon came home on an error and Micah Bazzell later scored on a sacrifice fly by Scott Earwood.

But from there, Christian County's defense settled down to hold the Lakers scoreless the rest of the way. The Colonels scored three runs in the third inning, one in the fourth and and three more in the sixth for the 9-4 final. Christian County's cause was also aided by six Calloway fielding errors.

Christian out-hit Calloway 10-5. Arnett was 2 for 4 to lead the Lakers. Sean Waller took the loss on the mound, striking out four and walking four in six innings.

Calloway 3, Reidland 2
After falling behind 2-0 in the fifth inning, Calloway rallied with one run in the fifth inning and two in the sixth to gain the win.

The Lakers scored their first run without virtue of a base hit as Ray Stone reached first on an error, took second on another error, went to third on a ground-out and scored on a wild pitch.

In the sixth, Herndon singled before Waller homered to give the Lakers the lead for good.

Calloway out-hit Reidland 5-4. Brent Anderson was the winning pitcher, going two innings in

Cavaliers' Brandon out for season

CLEVELAND (AP) — A steel rod was placed in Terrell Brandon's right tibia, repairing a stress fracture that will keep the Cleveland Cavaliers guard sidelined for the rest of the NBA season.

Brandon injured his leg during the fourth quarter of Tuesday's game against the Boston Celtics.

Brandon, the team's third-leading scorer, played 67 games, starting 41. He was averaging 13.3 points, 5.4 assists, 1.6 steals and 39 percent from 3-point range, all career highs. He led the team in steals and was second in assists.

COLLEGE BASKETBALL

Arizona State's Bennett turning pro

TEMPE, Ariz. (AP) — Mario Bennett, whose knee injuries limited him to 87 games at Arizona State over four seasons, passed up his final year of eligibility and declared for the NBA draft.

Bennett, a 6-foot-9, 230-pound center who set a Pac-10 record with 115 blocks this season, decided after leading the Sun Devils (24-9) to their first NCAA-regional semifinal game in 20 years that he had accomplished what he could in college. He said getting into the NBA ahead of a rookie salary cap proposed for 1996 wasn't a major consideration.

Bennett tore his left anterior cruciate ligament during a summer-pickup game July 30, 1992, and redshirted the following season. He averaged 18.7 points, 8.2 rebounds and 3.5 blocks last season.

burning desire" to coach but hadn't encountered the right situation.

He called the Murray job "attractive" for several reasons. "Obviously, my familiarity with the state," Macy said. "And Murray has tradition. They've had a lot of successful teams in recent years."

Macy said he had spoken with Strickland but had not been promised an interview.

"They just told me there was some interest in me and they'd let me know," he said. "Looking at the MSU job, it would be an excellent opportunity. I've let them know I'm definitely interested."

Ramey said the school won't discuss individual candidates for the job.

"There are a number of candidates we're going to be very interested in who bring a lot to the table," Ramey said.

Macy was graduated from UK in 1980 after helping the Wildcats to the 1978 NCAA championship. He played for the Phoenix Suns and Indiana Pacers before a three-year stint in the Italian League.

Macy has been a radio and television commentator, and for the last two seasons has been the color man for UK broadcasts alongside play-by-play man Ralph Hacker.

ders and Kelly, who was acquired from Cincinnati in the middle of last season.

"I didn't want to trade any players to Atlanta if given the choice," Malone said of his strongest rival in the NL East. "But the quality of players we got in return was much better than anything else out there."

"As I told John (Schuerholz, the Braves general manager) earlier today, I think this basically will bring a world championship to the Braves at some point. It definitely makes them a much better club," Malone said.

Kelly is expected to be Montreal's starting center fielder. He hit .293 for Atlanta and Cincinnati in 1994 with nine home runs, 43 RBIs and 19 stolen bases.

The Kansas City Royals are also trading away their highest-paid players. David Cone was dealt to the Toronto Blue Jays on Thursday, one day after they sent outfielder Brian McRae to the Chicago Cubs.

Calloway's junior varsity squad also split Thursday, beating Christian County 7-3 and losing to Reidland 5-0. Jason Eaves and Josh Morton were both 2 for 3 in the first game while Mitch Ryan doubled. Shane Fox was the winning pitcher while Ryan Domesick got the save. In the second game, Morton was 1 for 1. The JV squad plays at Franklin, Tenn., Saturday.

Person's jumper lifts San Antonio

13th straight win for Spurs

The Associated Press

Thirteen was a lucky number for the San Antonio Spurs.

Chuck Person hit a 20-foot jumper at the buzzer Thursday night for a 96-94 victory over Sacramento, giving the Spurs their 13th consecutive victory.

David Robinson scored 29 points for San Antonio, which overcame a 13-point deficit to match the longest winning streak in franchise history. The Spurs also won 13 in a row last season.

"We've had a lot of success late in games," coach Bob Hill said. "The team has a lot of confidence now."

After San Antonio took a 94-91 lead on a pair of free throws by Sean Elliott with nine seconds left, the Kings tied it on Spud Webb's 3-pointer with five seconds remaining.

However, there was still time for Person, who finished with 16 points.

Despite the loss, Sacramento remained tied with Denver for the eighth and final Western Conference playoff berth. Both teams have nine games left in the regular season.

"This is great stuff. It's playoff basketball," Sacramento coach Garry St. Jean said. "If we put out this kind of effort the rest of the way, we're going to win games."

Mitch Richmond led the Kings with 24 points. Walt Williams, Sacramento's second-leading scorer, left the game in the first quarter with back spasms and didn't return.

Terry Cummings had 15 rebounds for the Spurs, who are 10-0 since NBA rebounding leader Dennis Rodman was sidelined with a separated shoulder.

Elsewhere, Houston beat Golden State 110-102. Phoenix downed Washington 127-123 and Seattle defeated Denver 106-100. Rockets 110, Warriors 102. Clyde Drexler scored 40 points as Houston rallied win at Golden State.

Houston, playing without the ailing Hakeem Olajuwon and Vernon Maxwell, got its 10th straight win over the Warriors.

Suns 127, Bullets 123

At Landover, Charles Barkley scored 25 points, including seven in the final 1:19, as Phoenix broke a two-game losing streak.

SuperSonics 106, Nuggets 100

At Denver, Detlef Schrempf scored 27 points and Shawn Kemp had 21 points and 18 rebounds as Seattle won for the eighth time in 10 games.

own low score.

"He's 55 and still playing golf like that. Amazing," Olazabal said. "I'm 29 and crippled. When I'm 55, I don't know."

Olazabal, still on the mend from surgery on his right big toe, was limping noticeably on the rain-softened course, but turned away questions about the injury.

"It doesn't hurt when I hit the ball," he said.

He chipped in twice for birdies and played the back in 31 in a performance that was not expected.

"Yes, I'm surprised," Olazabal said. "I haven't been scoring well the last few tournaments I've played. My game is not that good. Yes, I'm surprised."

The overall scoring was surprising, too; surprisingly low. It was a product of the day-long rains that ranged from drizzle to shower and softened and slowed the greens.

"The golf course was very susceptible to low scoring today because of the rain," Mickelson said.

Return of Killer Infections
Group A Streptococcus pyogenes, Escherichia coli O157:H7, and tuberculosis are causing not only illness, but death today. The causative pathogens sometimes are mutants that produce toxins that inactivate antibiotics or they simply are resistant to commonly used drugs. Infectious disease specialists recommend seeking immediate medical attention if flu-like symptoms rapidly worsen or if there is a sudden onset of severe symptoms. To reduce the chance of antibiotic resistance, finish any prescribed antibiotic regimens completely and do not reuse or share them.

Bank to seal time capsule

Fifty years from now, Murray residents will read about how young people in 1995 describe life in Murray, Kentucky. The descriptions are part of a time capsule created by Commonwealth Bank in conjunction with the bank's grand opening celebration, scheduled for April 8.

"We wanted to preserve a little bit of history in a time capsule that will be opened in 2045," John Peck, president of United Commonwealth, said. "So we initiated an essay-writing contest for the area middle schools, and we'll include two winning essays in the capsule."

More than 50 students from Murray and Calloway County Middle Schools submitted their interpretations of life in Murray in the year 1995 or projected about life in the community in the year 2000. Five judges evaluated the essays and chose winners for each grade as well as overall winners from each school.

Judges chose Jenny Davenport, a sixth grader, as the overall winner from Murray Middle School for her essay about life today in Murray. Jenny's parents are Sue and Martin Davenport. From Calloway County Middle School, eighth grader Elizabeth Allen wrote the overall winning essay about life in Murray in the year 2000. Her parents are the late Phillip Allen and Carol Allen.

The bank awarded Jenny and Elizabeth each with a $100 savings bond for their winning entries. Winners in each grade at the schools received $50 savings bonds.

Jenny and Elizabeth will join the bank for its grand opening celebration April 8 and place their essays in the bank's time capsule. Bank associates will place other items in the time capsule, including a letter from Peck to the president of the bank in 2045; the day's issue of the Murray Ledger & Times; a 1994 annual report for CBT Corporation, parent company of United Commonwealth; photographs and listings of current directors and employees of the bank; and records of 1995 prices for such common items as gas, bread and cars, and the prevailing interest rates.

"We'll lock everything into a specially marked safe deposit box at the bank," Peck said. "And we've designed a plaque with instructions to leave the box sealed until April 2045."

The time capsule ceremony is part of a day-long grand opening celebration for United Commonwealth's new main office at 1111 Main Street. Everyone is invited to watch the ribbon-cutting ceremony at 9 a.m. with the Murray-Calloway County Chamber of Commerce and participate in the grand opening activities from 10 a.m. until 2 p.m. In addition to free refreshments, scheduled activities include guest appearances by coaches and players from Murray State University football and basketball teams, the Power Rangers and Jethro the Clown. Adults and children can participate in a putting contest on a special putting green.

United Commonwealth Bank had $38 million in assets and is affiliated with CBT Corporation in Paducah.

Convention set for church

Vanderburgh Auditorium Convention Center, 715 Locust St., Evansville, Ind., has been chosen as the location for the upcoming circuit convention of Jehovah's Witnesses from southern Indiana and western Kentucky. Twenty-two congregations have been invited to the gathering scheduled for April 8 and 9.

The theme that will be developed in the program is "Stay Awake, Stand Firm, Grow Mighty."

According to Mike Joria, circuit supervisor, "Maintaining a strong stand for what is right in these critical times calls for a realistic examination of our relationship with Jehovah God. We need to be instructed in ways to improve our Christian qualities and maintain exemplary conduct. Practical suggestions on how individuals and families can continue a regular spiritual feeding program will be featured in a variety of talks, demonstrations and discussions."

On Saturday, a baptism will be held for new Witnesses who qualify.

The highlights of the assembly will be the public discourse "What Is Your Standing with God?" to be given Sunday at 1:30 p.m. The speaker will be Dick Ciranko, district supervisor for the group and representative of the world headquarters in Brooklyn, New York. Sessions will begin each day at 9:50 a.m. and are free and open to the public. All interested persons are encouraged to be present for the entire program each day.

UK opens medical center

LEXINGTON, Ky. (AP) — The University of Kentucky Chandler Medical Center officially opened its $19.5 million Health Sciences Research Building on Thursday.

Officials said the center will provide the necessary environment to compete for national research funding, predicting that it could attract an estimated $10 million in research grants annually from federal, state and private sources.

Five of the seven focus groups that will share the facility already are in place.

PUBLIC NOTICES

"BECAUSE THE PEOPLE MUST KNOW"

Editor's Note: Public Notice advertising plays a unique role both in American history and in the process by which this country's democracy is preserved. Its very premise is that people must be informed if they are to govern themselves competently. Public Notice advertising first came into being with the Congress of 1792. That body, recognizing its responsibility to the people, required the Postmaster General to advertise for bids for the construction of new post offices. From that insignificant beginning to the complex publication requirements in federal, state and local laws today, government officials have come more and more to understand their obligations to inform the public through Public Notice advertising. Throughout the years have been the vehicles by which these obligations have been fulfilled. They will continue to be as long as the public demands that it be informed frequently and by the best means possible.

By Peter H. Gott, M.D.

DEAR DR. GOTT: A friend recently gave birth to a baby diagnosed with sickle-cell disease. What is this all about?

DEAR READER: Sickle-cell disease is an inherited type of anemia seen almost exclusively in blacks.

The basic problem is an abnormal form of hemoglobin (the red pigment that carries oxygen), which causes the red blood corpuscles to adopt a crescent shape, like a sickle; such cells disintegrate during the trauma of circulation, leading to anemia and other consequences.

The degree of anemia depends on the percentage of sickle cells. Those individuals with the full-blown disease suffer from profound anemia, bone pain, arthritis, fever, susceptibility to infections, growth retardation, abdominal pain, gall stones, poor circulation, renal failure, and decreased longevity. Persons who merely have the sickle-cell trait may be free of symptoms, although they can pass the defective gene to their offspring.

The diagnosis is made by special blood tests, including hemoglobin electrophoresis, that document both the sickling phenomenon and the abnormal hemoglobin.

Treatment is complicated because of the myriad complications of sickle-cell disease. For example, antibiotics are used to treat infections. As for the sickling itself, several researchers have had success using hydroxyurea, a drug ordinarily used to treat cancer patients, that has proved effective in reducing the symptoms of bone and abdominal pain. Patients with this disorder should be under the care of hematologists.

DEAR DR. GOTT: I'm 50, exercise regularly, take vitamins and minerals. The only time I've ever seen a doctor was for a pre-employment physical. I feel fine, except for the redness I get on my face whenever I'm exposed to the sun. I also experience a burning sensation on my back at the same time. I use sun blocks and creams, yet nothing seems to work. Why am I apparently allergic to the sun, when I spent many hours in it when I was younger?

DEAR READER: You are apparently highly sensitive to ultraviolet radiation and probably should avoid it. I don't know the cause of this reaction. However, if sun blocks don't solve the problem, I suggest that you wear suitable, protective garments when you're out in the sun.

The important consideration is to prevent the sun's direct rays from reaching your skin.

DEAR DR. GOTT: I have a hydrocele. Will it eventually be absorbed naturally? If not, what is the best way to handle the problem? I'm concerned that it might rupture and cause further damage.

DEAR READER: A hydrocele is an accumulation of clear fluid under the membrane that covers a testicle. Except for causing swelling, this painless and harmless condition — which is congenital — does not cause health problems or infertility.

Hydroceles do not rupture but rarely disappear in adults, unless the fluid is withdrawn with a needle (caution: it may reappear) or the congenital defect is surgically repaired. Unless your hydrocele is very large, you can leave it alone.

DAILY COMICS

TODAY IN HISTORY

By The Associated Press
Today is Friday, April 7, the 97th day of 1995. There are 268 days left in the year.

Today's Highlight in History:
Fifty years ago, on April 7, 1945, during World War II, American planes intercepted a Japanese fleet that was headed for Okinawa on a suicide mission; the superbattleship Yamato and four destroyers were sunk.

On this date:
Five years ago: Former national security adviser John M. Poindexter was convicted of five counts at his Iran-Contra trial. A display of Robert Mapplethorpe photographs opened at Cincinnati's Contemporary Arts Center, the same day the center and its director were indicted on obscenity charges (both were later acquitted). An arson fire aboard a ferry en route from Norway to Denmark killed 158 people.
One year ago: Civil war erupted in Rwanda, a day after a mysterious plane crash claimed the lives of the presidents of Rwanda and Burundi. In the months that followed, hundreds of thousands of minority Tutsi and Hutu intellectuals were slaughtered.

CONTRACT BRIDGE

You are South in each of the following three hands. What would you bid at the point where the question mark appears?

1. ♠ 74 ♥ K943 ♦ KQ1092 ♣ 6
North East South West
1♥ Pass 3♥ Pass
4NT Pass 5♦ Pass
5NT Pass ?

2. ♠ A J 4 ♥ A J 2 ♦ A J 6 ♣ A 9 8 5

3. ♠ A Q J 4 ♥ K 8 3 ♦ 7 6 2 ♣ 9 8 5
North East South West
1♦ Pass 1♠ Pass
2♠ Pass ?

1. Seven hearts. North is trying for a grand slam even though he knows from your five club response to Blackwood that you have no aces. The fact that he is now asking for kings implies that he has all four aces; otherwise, his five notrump bid would make no sense.

2. You are not required to bid six hearts mechanically at this point to tell partner you have two kings; if you did that, you'd be disregarding the real issue, which is whether or not you think you can make seven hearts now that you know your side has all four aces. You should feel very bullish about the grand slam because you have a diamond suit that could easily produce four or five tricks, as well as a singleton club. Partner's hand probably looks something like:

♠ A 6 ♥ A Q 8 7 5 2 ♦ A 8 4 ♣ A 4
and if you responded with only six hearts, he would almost surely pass, missing a virtual laydown grand slam.

2. Three diamonds. It is reasonable to assume that North is not happy with notrump and prefers to play the hand at game or slam in clubs or diamonds. There is no good reason to disregard partner's message and suppress your diamond support, and it is therefore best to bid three diamonds at this point.

North might have one of these hands:
♠ 10 ♥ K 8 ♦ K Q 7 5 4 3 ♣ K J 7 2
♠ Q 7 3 ♥ — ♦ K 9 7 4 2 ♣ K Q 6 4 3
♠ 6 ♥ K 8 6 3 ♦ K Q 7 3 ♣ K Q 7 4

3. Pass. Your chances of making a game are not good even though you have 10 high-card points and might have had only six. Your 4-3-3-3 distribution, added to the fact that partner has at most 15 points, militates strongly against further action. True, partner might have a magic hand that would produce ten tricks, but the odds against it are much too high to warrant losing the partscore you are almost sure to make by passing.

DEAR, ABBY

DEAR ABBY: I do volunteer work at nursing homes where there are many senior citizens. These men and women love company, but unfortunately some of them do not have many visitors, so I do what I can to cheer them up.

You had a piece in your column about 10 years ago that always made a big hit with these seniors. It was titled "A Dog Named Sex."

I read it to my bridge club, and one of the women said, "Please let me borrow it to show my husband. I'll get it back to you tomorrow." Well, you guessed it — she lost it.

Please run it again, Abby. It was a favorite of many.

SEATTLE VOLUNTEER

DEAR VOLUNTEER: Here it is. It's also one of my favorites. When I went to City Hall to renew my dog's license, I told the clerk I wanted a license for Sex. He said, "I'd like one, too!"

Then I said, "But this is a dog."

He said he didn't care what she looked like. Then I said, "You don't understand. I've had Sex since I was 9 years old." He winked at me and said, "You must have been quite a kid."

When I got married and went on my honeymoon, I took my dog with me. I told the hotel clerk I wanted a room for my wife and me, and a special room for Sex. He said, "You don't need a special room for Sex. As long as you pay your bill, we don't care what you do."

I said, "Look, you don't seem to understand. Sex keeps me awake at night."

The clerk said, "Funny, I have the same problem."

Well, one day, I entered Sex in a contest, but before the competition began, the dog got loose and ran away. Another contestant asked me why I was just standing there, looking disappointed. I told him I had planned to have Sex in the contest. He said, "Wonderful! If you sell tickets, you'll clean up!"

"But you don't understand," I said. "I want to have Sex on TV." He said, "They already have that on cable. It's no big deal anymore."

Well, my wife and I decided to separate, so we went to court to fight for custody of the dog.

I said to the judge, "Your honor, I had Sex before I was married." The judge said, "The court is not a confessional. Please stick to the facts." Then I told him that after I was married, Sex left me. He said, "Me, too."

Well, last night Sex ran away again, and I spent hours looking all over town for him. A cop came over to me and asked, "What are you doing in this alley at 4 o'clock in the morning?" I said, "I'm looking for Sex."

My case comes up on Friday.

DEAR ABBY: My daughter is planning to be married soon. I am recently divorced, and her father refuses to contribute any money for her wedding, so the entire financial burden will be mine.

My friends have advised me to leave his name off the wedding invitations. I don't want to hurt my daughter, but why should her father have his name on the invitations? What do you advise?

MOTHER OF THE BRIDE

DEAR MOTHER: Traditionally, only the name of the host(s) appears on the wedding invitations. Explain this to your daughter, and ask her how she feels about it; then, abide by her wishes.
