Power usage drains system Users asked to cut back

Staff Writer

Local residents have been asked to voluntarily reduce electrical usage through Thursday in order to avoid interruptions in their

Tony Thompson, superintendent of Murray Electric System, said he received a call Monday afternoon from Tennessee Valley Authority asking customers to reduce their power demands because of the heat wave and a tight power supply.

The request includes customers of both Murray Electric System and West Kentucky Rural Electric Cooperative Corp.

"Customers have been asked to reduce usage from 2 to 6 p.m. Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday," Thompson said. "TVA has an emergency curtailment plan and this is step two of the five steps. The first step was for TVA to ask distributors to cut off unnecessary lights and power and the second step is to go . See Page 2

The other steps included in the plan are: *Step 3 is to notify industrial customers who are directly-served by TVA to ask them to take voluntary steps for reduction. This step, which would be handled by TVA, would include plants like those in Calvert City.

•Step 4 is to initiate a 5 percent voltage reduction, which Thompson said could impact some of his machinery.

•Step 5 is to initiate a mandatory outage, which Thompson said he has never had

The voluntary cutback means consumers should adjust their thermostats to 78 degrees to conserve air-conditioning, postpone use of hot water, avoid using electric dryers and limit cooking with ovens

"We had a couple of instances last year when TVA went to the first or second steps,

County property assessments

By JIM MAHANES

Calloway County property assessments saw a 12.5 percent increase this year, according to Ronnie Jackson, county property

Last year, the total of all taxable property was $606,452,509. This year, Jackson turned in a report to the state which showed a $73 million increase to that number. But state officials told Jackson that was not enough.

"We're supposed to be at 100 percent of full market value on all our property," Jackson said. This includes residential, commercial and farmland.

Jackson's figure of $679,668,496 put Calloway value this year. According to Jackson, Kentucky allows for a 3 percent margin of error.

"The state sees this as 92 to 98 percent which is unacceptable to them," Jackson said. Jackson's first attempt at reassessing the county's property showed residential property at $461,827,307 compared to last year's $418,379,376 - an increase of approximately $43

Commercial property showed an increase of approximately $2 million. This year, commercial property was assessed at $127,917,978 compared to last year's $125,759,995.

Farmland assessed this year showed a $4 million increase $89,923,211 compared to last $85,472,256.

Jackson said the way farmland is assessed has changed from past assessments. "We've never had a good system for assessing farmland. This year, the state gave us a list of class. I think it's the fairest system we've had," Jackson said.

Because of the Kentucky Education Reform Act (KERA), all property in each county must be assessed at 100 percent of fair market value by Jan. 1 of each

Hardin wants own water plant

By AMY WILSON Staff Writer

As water rates increase for residents of Hardin, Mayor Carl Butler and other officials are pursuing land options for the city's own water treatment plant.

"We have a $950,000 grant to build our own water treatment plant and we are seeking three acres of land for it," Butler said. "We had two gentlemen come forward with land, but only one had what we were looking for.'

Hardin residents were paying $10 per 2,000 gallons of water, but Butler said the city's supplier, the City of Benton, increased its rates.

Benton is in the process of building a new system and needed additional funds," Butler said. "As a result, our residents are now paying $18 per 2,000 gallons of water.'

Prior to the new water rate contract, which went into effect July 1, the City of Hardin was paying 65 cents per 1,000 gallons of water. Under the new contract. the city is paying a flat fee of $1.36 per 1,000 gallons.

Butler said that means an increase of about $70,000 annually.

"We were doing the $10 per month and everything was going fine," he said. "The city absorbed the costs for a while, but we couldn't continue. This took us by surprise."

The new contract expires July

"Our engineering firm said it would take 18 to 24 months before we could have our plant in operation," Butler said. "We will have a capacity of 300,000 gallons per day with a 100,000 gallon per day backup. That is a pretty good size."

Currently, there are about 500 customers on the Hardin water system, which includes residents in the South Marshall area. The construction of a Hardin water treatment plant could mean an additional 78 customers. "The reason we received our grants was to build a water treatment plant to help those who had contamination in their wells

Officer Max takes to streets

By JIM MAHANES

The Murray Police Department has a new officer patrolling the city streets that uses four legs instead of two.

Officer Max, the department's drug enforcement dog, went on duty Monday at 6 p.m.
"I'm relieved," said Chief

David Smith. "This is our second dog and we also have another officer working now.

Officer Steve Robinson spent 10 weeks in Bowling Green in training with the 2-year-old German shepherd. Officer Sam Steger spent the last week of training learning to be a back up handler.

"He (Max) shows a great aptitude for narcotic detection,"

The deparment's first attempt at a drug enforcement dog was unsucessful. Officer Eric graduated from the academy, but did not show the aggressiveness toward drug detection that the police department wanted. Robinson went back to the academy for another five-week training course

Along with drug enforcement, Max is trained in general patrol work, which includes tracking and apprehension.

"We will call him out if we find an open door at a business that we receive a call on," Smith said. "It's safer than sending in an officer to an unknown

"It's safer than sending in an officer to an unknown situation.

> David Smith (Police chief)

Smith said the dog cost the city more than $6,000, which came from a drug asset forfeiture fund.

When a person gets arrested on a drug charge, the assets seized are sold at auction and the money goes into the fund.

"I'd like to thank the businesses that have donated services to the department for the upkeep of the dog," Smith said. The businesses that will participate with the care of Max are: Vernon's Pawn Shop, who donated dog food; Westside Veterinarian Service, McClure Pet Center, Murray Animal Hospital and Veterinary Medical Center.

Smith said the city should get between five and eight years of service from Officer Max.

"They had a 15-year-old dog at the academy, but they told us that normally some of the dog's senses may diminish over time, Smith said.

Max and Robinson will patrol at night and will be on call whenever the department needs their services.

Truck pulls down power

By JIM MAHANES Staff Writer

Some residents on the north side of the county were without electricity, telephone and cable television service Monday evening when a tractor-trailer hit a utility pole knocking down close to a half-mile of lines. The accident occured off 16th Street about 7:30 p.m. when the truck, which was attempting to turn around in a parking lot, snagged some low hanging lines.

According to James Stovall of the West Kentucky Rural Electric Cooperative Corp., more than 100 customers were affected by the power outage. Some customers were still without power at press time

Stovall said five line crews worked untill midnight to restore

"Some customers were back on line within the hour, but some are

Felix forces evacuations

Thousands of residents and tourists were ordered to evacuate two North Carolina islands today as Hurricane Felix headed toward the U.S. mainland after pounding Bermuda. Hurricane warnings were posted from South Carolina to Virginia.

'A storm like this will put the fear of God in people," said Ber-muda tourist Joe Denton, 84, of New York City. Felix caused more than a half-million dollars worth of damage to the hotel where he was staying.

Pounding surf thundered along the East Coast, forcing lifeguards to close many beaches to swimmers as far north as New York. Three people had died in the surf since the weekend. But there were no reports of injuries in Bermuda

The heart of the unusually wide storm was still 460 miles east-southeast of Cape Hatteras, N.C., at 11 a.m. today, moving toward the west-northwest at about 14 mph. And it still wasn't clear if or when Felix would make landfall.

The hurricane warning area extended from north of Little River Inlet in South Carolina to Chincoteague, Va. A hurricane watch — a less severe form of advisory than a warning - was in effect in coastal areas of South Carolina, Virginia and Delaware either side of the warning going to hit everywhere along the Residents and visitors on North Carolina's coastal Ocracoke and Hatteras islands, part of the Outer Banks chain, were ordered to evacuate this morning.

Ocracoke is accessible only by boat, and ferry runs are halted when the sea gets too rough. As early as Monday, water had washed over Hatteras' main highway at Rodanthe at high tide.

"By law, we cannot physically force anyone to leave," Dare County spokesman Charlie Hartig said. "We hope the word 'mandatory' connotes a certain severity to what we're talking about.'

Hartig said it could take several hours to evacuate some 10,000 people from Hatteras if the evacuation goes smoothly. Phone service to the islands was erratic this morning because of the volume of calls.

nice," said Dawn Peterson, who works at a restaurant in Avon, just north of Cape Hatteras Lighthouse

She said gas stations "are packed with tourists getting ready to leave. I think a lot of people left yesterday, too, because we didn't do much business."

Farther north, Currituck County officials were concerned about residents of the tiny island com-munity of Corova, who would have to use a beach access road to get to Corolla before getting on a main evacuation route.

"It's a bouncing ball right now, you don't know where it's going to hit," said county spokesman John Mulvey.

The storm was packing wind blowing at a steady 80 and hurricane-force wind, of at least 74 mph, extended up to 140 miles out from the center, the National Weather Service said. Tropical storm-force wind extended up to 290 miles out.

Riptides caused by Felix had killed two people and left one missing in North Carolina, and one person drowned in rough surf in Virginia. Surfers flocked to New Jersey beaches as waves ranged from 6 to 12 feet.

Virginia, navy warships riers began streaming out of the Norfolk Naval Base in Virginia early today to ride out the hurricane at sea and avoid being battered into piers and each other.

Thousands of Bermuda residents were without electricity. Only one of two local radio stations was operating, and cable television was knocked out for a short time. A causeway linking Bermuda to its airport was washed out, police Sgt. Andrea Browne said.

"It's chaos!" said Evelyn Carreiro, front desk supervisor at the Hamilton Princess Hotel, where rooms quickly filled with coastal residents.

"The businesses are closed, the ferries shut down, the buses aren't working, and the cable TV is out," said Mike Norton, 38, a tourist from Pittsburgh. "The only things running are the cabs, and there's no place to go."
In 1987, Hurricane Emily's

110 mph wind caused an estimated $35 million damage in Bermuda in just 30 minutes and left some of its 53,000 residents without electricity for weeks. The storm later brushed the Outer Banks, doing extensive damage in isolated areas.

Thompson said. "With the hot spells we have had, it is unbelievable that this is the first one this year. Evidently, TVA has done a good job so far, but because the temperatures were extreme all over its service areas, it loaded up a little Monday." About 8 million people in Kentucky, Alabama, Georgia, Mississippi, North Carolina, Tennessee and Virginia receive power from While Monday's late afternoon rain provided some immediate relief, Thompson said it didn't do much, especially since the heat and humidity levels returned Tuesday with a vengeance.

"TVA could continue its request as long as we are having this hot and humid weather," he said. "As long as TVA is able to keep all its generators on line, that is good. If TVA loses one, the request could be extended.

"Customers should keep in contact with the media for further information," Thompson said. 'Anything that is not necessary shouldn't be operated. This is a good time for the ladies to not cook and ask their husbands to take them out for supper.'

Reassessment must be completed before the City of Murray can mail tax bills.

"They gave us four years to bring every property up to 100 percent of value. I've broken the county up into four quadrants and I'm assessing one quadrant per year," Jackson said.

This year, Jackson is assessing property in the northwest quadrant of the county, along with all new property, property that has changed hands and homes with new additions.

"It's almost an impossible job. The days of assessing property once every four years is over, Jackson said.

According to state law, homeowners age 65 or older are exempt from reassessment under the Homestead Act. Tax exempt property was at $23,100 this year.

Jackson said his office sent out more than 4,000 notices to residents this year. Property owners who question the assessment have 13 days from the time the assessment is completed to file an appeal in Jackson's office.

Jackson said under the state's system, some people might be over-assessed and some might be under-assessed

"Some values have increased and some have decreased. Statistically, half of the property is over-assessed, but the state makes me follow their formula,'

Jackson said he has received better cooperation from residents than he has from Frankfort.

"I try to give everybody the benefit of the doubt, but it's a hard thing to do," Jackson said. "I've got the state on one side ond the residents of Calloway County on the other. Most people understand what we're trying to do and this affects everybody,' Jackson said.

Jackson said he expects to see the same trend in increases to continue next year.

"We should see another 10 to 12 percent increase next year with the expansion of some industries and housing growth.

"We consistently see an increase. Last year's figure of 97 percent was about 80 percent this year and I expect to be at 80 percent next year. It's an ongoing job," he said. "We're doing twice the work in this office with the same amount of people trying to

Along with electrical service, the utility poles carried cable television service to residents. "We were lucky. Only three of our customers were out of service," said Arnold Cool of Cablevision Cable TV. "There were so many different crews out there last night that we opted to wait until this morning to restore service."

Without vision a nation perishes. Likewise, without vision a community perishes. Ad infinitam. My family and I moved to Murray nearly three decades ago. We left good people where we came from, and we found equally fine people here

We were proud to become a part of the Murray State-Murray-

Calloway community.

We recognized and still do a "community" with considerable vision, although maybe somewhat less than desirable. Lack of vision on the part of some, perhaps, has resulted in the loss to our community of several valuable assets such as I-24. Think for a moment of the terrible losses to our community, all because of the lack of vision on the part of some.

And now are we again showing perhaps less than 20-20 vision when Wal-Mart plans to expand its business? What about Kroger? I don't believe that I've heard any griping about this business also expanding. I salute both of them and am proud to live in a community in which both of them are located.

I buy very little consumer goods outside of Murray. But let Wal-Mart leave and I'll trade with them in area towns in which they are located. And while there, I'll also likely purchase other items normally purchased from Murray's smaller business.

I clearly understand the effect that the larger chain stores have upon the smaller ones. But stop just a moment and consider the beneficial effect upon the economy of our community when consumers from Tennessee and other areas outside Murray come to Murray to patronize these larger stores. They come here because these larger stores are here and while in town they also purchase many items that will otherwise be purchased where these larger stores are located.

If you are for continued progress for our area, let me urge you to attend the meeting at the Murray City Hall this Tuesday, Aug. 15 at 7 p.m.

Betrayed by Clinton

I can't believe what I'm hearing. I'm a tobacco farmer here in Kentucky and I'm hearing stories that Bill Clinton and Al Gore are letting the FDA classify tobacco a drug and restrict how it can be sold and used. Tell me

My wife and I voted for Clinton in the last election. As a southerner like ourselves, we felt for sure he'd understand what we're feeling better than anybody. Boy, were we wrong.

I don't care what this Dr. Kessler is trying to do over at the FDA. It's up to the President to stop him and to remember the people who voted him in office. Many of my friends and neighbors make a living farming tobacco and they tell me they feel the same way.

If tobacco is regulated like a drug, we could lose our homes and farms.

We don't want to live off the public dime and we've worked hard all our lives to never have to. And if that happens, I'll know for sure our elected officials turned their backs on us for good.

And I'll do everything I can, even though I'm just one farmer, to try and keep them out of office next time elections come around. Chad Lyons Route 1 Box 454, Dexter, Ky. 42036 The Ledger also received 5 copies of the same letter protesting FDA control of tobacco.

Medicare in danger

Most older Americans are unaware that Medicare is in danger of financial collapse. I urge you to run stories alerting senior citizens in our community about this crisis.

Congress must not "fix" Medicare as they have in the past. Simply cutting spending in Medicare will lead to rationing.

I support the position of The Seniors Coalition to give me the option of innovative free market choices in health care, or allow me to stay on Medicare if I want to. Please call their Washington office at 1-800-273-9009 for more information on their solution to the crisis.

Farmers angry at FDA

I'm a dark fired tobacco grower on a farm in the state of Kentucky. I chose to be a tobacco farmer after finishing my education and up until now, I've had no regrets.

But lately I've been following, with disappointment, the efforts of the FDA to regulate the manufacturing and sale of tobacco products. My own livelihood would be directly affected, as would thousands of others in Kentucky, nearby Tennessee and throughout the South. The economic impact would be disastrous, both here and for the tobacco farming states along the east coast, like North Carolina and Virginia.

Perhaps the White House and FDA Commissioner Kessler feel we're not sophisticated enough as a group to oppose what they're doing to our industry. Maybe they think we don't fully understand the issues.

But I know that the farming community here is a powerful one and capable of banding together to fight a common threat. If I have to, I will personally make sure my farming neighbors understand what's at stake, and I'll persuade them to take action. How? By voting out any and all legislators who support the FDA's lunatic proposals and make sure they're never elected into office again.

Agricultural growers in this country represent millions of voters. And we will stand up to protect what's ours - the right to farm our lands to the fullest and to enjoy free commerce.

Perhaps sugar and coffee bean farmers should be worried as well. Will their products be attacked next? Surely the White House can come up with a more intelligent way to keep tobacco out of the hands of young people short of a total ban, and short of putting our very livelihood at risk. There are other options that can be, and must be, explored. Durward Bennett

Rt. 2, Murray, Ky. 42071 The Ledger also received 16 copies of the same letter protesting FDA control of tobacco.

Dropping bomb right

The history professor was talking on public radio about whether we really had to drop The Bomb on The professor's name was. . . I forget. Lately, there have been so many professors talking about The Bomb that it's become confusing.

Most of them seem to think we shouldn't have done it. Or maybe it was OK to drop the first one (Hiroshima) but not the second (Nagasaki). Or maybe we should have dropped it where it wouldn't have hurt anyone but would have scared the wits out of Japan's war leaders and made them give up without a fight. This professor was talking about how few American soldiers would have been killed if we had skipped The Bomb and settled for an oldfashioned invasion.

He said that all the estimates about hundreds of thousands of invasion casualties were inflated.

A more realistic estimate, the professor said, was that only 18,000 Americans would have been killed had we stormed the beaches and fought our way through Japan's cities and countryside.

At which point, I jabbed the car radio and jumped to a station where the gigglers were talking about Congressman Mel Reynolds and his hyperactive glands.

It isn't that I didn't believe the professor. For all I know, maybe no Americans would have been killed in a conventional invasion. Maybe the sight of one GI wading ashore would have caused all of Japan to

But I remember what a quiet

friend of mine said during a heated back-yard debate about the morality of dropping The Bomb. After listening to several 1960s peace lovers talk about the political motives, the racism and the lack of conscience that led to our using The Bomb, my friend said:

"You had to be there.

What he meant was that those who had not been in the war weren't really qualified to talk about the means used to end it.

the beaches and scratched for every square foot of the islands they won

His best buddy died screaming in

He had been in it, up to his ears in jungle mud, as an infantry grunt. He was on of the GIs who crawled up ing their homeland. To him, it was pointless to debate his arms. Another was shot almost in half just seconds after they had come ashore. And he was sure that he'd never get out of it alive.

And to this day, he's certain that if we hadn't used The Bomb, he would have been killed. If not on the next beach, somewhere in Japan.

He was sure of it because he had seen the way the Japanese fought. They were willing to die to hold a meaningless cave on a desolate island or commit suicide by crashing their planes into our ships. There was no reason to think they would be less ferocious in defend-the need to use The Bomb or engage in soul-searching. We were in a war in which millions of people had already died. That's what happens in wars. People die. There is nothing fair about war. But a military commander should do whatever is possible to prevent his men from dying. That is what dropping The Bomb accomplished.

That's why you didn't hear many ex-GIs having second thoughts dur-ing the recent 50th anniversary reexamination of whether we should or shouldn't have done it.

It is one thing for a history professor to juggle numbers and come up with an estimate that "only" 18,000 Americans would have been killed while subduing

It's something else to have faced the prospect of being one of those 18,000 dead bodies of 180,000 dead bodies or whatever number some scholars find acceptable because their bodies were not threatened.

With the passing years, my friend and other combat veterans of that war took no satisfaction in Japan being nuked. I've never heard any of them talk about revenge or settling scores. Having been bloodied themselves, they probably have greater compassion for all war vic-tims than do the professors and moralists who have recently been trying to take us on a national guilt

As he put it, "you had to be there." And "there" is not a campus, a library or a stack of old government documents. Not enough mud or ATLANTA (AP) — Victories in their last at-bat are becoming almost routine for the Atlanta Braves. The Florida Marlins were the latest victims.

This time the big blow was a two-run homer by David Justice in the eighth inning that gave the Braves a 4-3 victory over Florida on Monday night and ended the Marlins' winning streak at six games.

The win was Atlanta's 21st in its last at-bat and 14th since July 4. The Marlins lost for only the third time in 17 games.

third time in 17 games.

"There's nothing ho-hum about this," said Atlanta manager Bobby Cox. "You'd rather have them wrapped up early, but without good pitching, we don't come back" and Fred McGriff flied out.

Justice hit a 3-2 pitch over the center-field fence off Yorkis Perez (1-4) for his 16th homer. Chipper Jones led off with a walk and Fred McGriff flied out.

"We don't go out there throwing our first three at-bats away just so we can hit our fourth one," Jones said. "I don't know how to explain it. It just happens that way."

Greg McMichael (6-1) pitched the final two innings for the Braves, who overcame the loss of scheduled starter Greg Maddux. The three-time Cy Young Award winner fell ill with flu-like symptoms before the game, and rookie Matt Murray made his first major league start.

"We couldn't consider it a breather because we didn't have to face Maddux," said Marlins manager Rene Lachemann.

The Braves tied the game at 2-2 in the sixth on Ryan Klesko's 14th homer, which was measured at 468 feet, the longest this season in Atlanta-Fulton County Stadium. McGriff had reached on an error one out earlier.

The Marlins broke the tie in the seventh when Quilvio Veras led off with a triple off Brad Clontz. Chuck Carr walked before Jeff Conine's sacrifice fly to left made it 3-2.

The Marlins scored twice in the fifth off Murray. Veras led off the fifth with a single and Carr walked. Clontz relieved and gave up an RBI single to Conine and a run-scoring hit to Terry Pendleton.

VARESE, Italy (AP) —
Antoine Walker scored 31 points and grabbed 12 rebounds to lead Kentucky to a 123-114 overtime win over Cagiva Varese during the Cats exhibition tour of Italy.

The Cats led 107-105 Monday when Bill Edwards picked off an errant pass from Walter McCarty and scored with one second remaining to send the game into overtime.

Walker and McCarty had four points as the Cats outscored Cagiva 16-7 in the extra period.

"We really didn't want to press too much but we had to press to generate our offense," coach Rick Pitino said. "And by overtime, we had worn them

Cagiva led by as many as 10 points with 12:10 remaining in the first half, but Kentucky battled back to lead 56-53 at intermission.

The Cats led by as many as 10 points in the second half, but Cagiva kept it close with its free-throw shooting. The Italian professionals made 42 of 61 free throws, including 26 of 34 in the second half. Kentucky was just 22 of 33 from the foul line.

Nutt says hitting crisp as Racers go full speed

Fulton foursome stepping forward

Staff Report Murray Ledger & Times

With temperatures approaching 100 degrees, the Murray State Racers completed their first day in full pads on Monday, with a goal line scrimmage workout in the morning and scrimmage work in the afternoon.

"I thought our hitting this morning was very, very crisp," Racer head coach Houston Nutt said. "We didn't let the heat get us today."

Nutt pointed particularly to the work of newcomers from Fulton County — defensive linemen Kirk Barnett and Mancel Elam and linebackers Steve Cheirs and Jerome Warren.

"They don't look like they've been off a year," Nutt said. "They still have a ways to go, but they are a lot further along than I thought they would be."

Nutt wants better work from his offensive unit, currently lead by junior quarterback Mike Cherry, a transfer from Arkansas.

"Today wasn't one of our better days offensively," Nutt said.

"We made a lot of mistakes that we need to correct."

Brown rookie Zeier completes 14-of-16 in initial NFL start

By CHUCK MELVIN AP Sports Writer

CLEVELAND (AP) — Rookie Eric Zeier is playing it cool, saying all the right things, refusing to ruffle any feathers. He's not about to suggest that he's after Vinny Testaverde's job.

"Vinny is the No. 1 guy here. He has absolutely earned that spot," Zeier said Monday night after he directed a 35-point first half that vaulted the Cleveland Browns past the Chicago Bears 55-13.

In two games — one against the New York Giants' scrubs in the fourth quarter a week ago, and one against the Bears' first team — Zeier has gone 22-for-27 for 277 yards and two touchdowns, without an interception.

He also scrambled for a 7-yard score Monday night, diving acrobatically for the right pylon to complete the run.

He completed the last 13 passes he attempted, going 14-for-16 for 158 yards in his first start in place of the ailing Testaverde. Testaverde was to be discharged from the hospital today after undergoing treatment for an infection in his leg.

"I think Eric did a nice job," coach Bill Belichick said. "He played behind the line, and the way we were running the ball, it didn't really take much."

Belichick emphasized that Testaverde remains the starter, and the coach wouldn't be drawn into a discussion of whether Zeier was ahead of free-agent pickup Jim McMahon for the No. 2 job. McMahon has only been in camp for a week and did not play.

"I don't make those decisions," Zeier said. "I still think I have a long way to go and I still have a lot of things to do. My goal here is to get better every time I step on the field."

The 55 points were the secondmost the Browns (1-1) have scored in an exhibition game, surpassed only by a 56-point outburst against the Los Angeles Rams in 1964. Lorenzo White and Ricky Powers each ran for two touchdowns, White in the first half and Powers in the second.

Cleveland took control with a 29-point second quarter that included three touchdowns in the last two minutes of the half. Zeier started the late flurry with his 7-yard TD run, and on the second play of Chicago's next possession, linebacker Mike Caldwell intercepted a pass from Steve Walsh and returned it 28 yards for a score.

Kenny Shedd then fumbled away the ensuing kickoff, setting up the second of White's scoring runs for a 35-7 Cleveland lead at the half.

Robinson was nominated to attend the National Youth Leadership Conference, listed in "Who's Who Among American High School Students" and elected "Most Talented" by his senior class.

ERICA HULSE

Erica Hulse of Murray is the recipient of a theatre department scholarship from Murray State Univeristy. She is a 1995 graduate of Calloway County High School and plans to pursue a double major in theatre and advertising. She is the daughter of Malcolm Hulse and Cathy L. Hulse, both of Murray.

Hulse was president of the Thespian Society, vice-president of the speech team, features editor for The Laker Review," and directed her own one-act theatre production. She has also stage managed and performed in many school produc-tions. She was a reporter for WCSD-TV and a member of the Co-ed Y Club and the Future Business Leaders of America.

She served as a volunteer at the Murray-Calloway County Hospital, was the newsletter editor of the Medical Explorer Post 803, and is active at the Murray-Calloway Community Theatre.

She was a nominee for "Who's Who Among American High School Students" and received an Outstanding Volunteer Service Award from the Murray-Calloway County Hospital.

Jeffrey Hughes of Murray has been awarded a James C. Williams Jr. Memorial Scholarship and a Joe Dick Scholarship.

JEFFREY HUGHES

The James Williams scholarship is awarded to a graduate of Calloway County demonstrating strong scholastic records. This award is renewable based on reapplication. The Joe Dick scholarship is awarded to a student graduating from Calloway County High School or Murray High School who is planning to enter Murray State in the fall.

Hughes is a 1995 graduate of Calloway County High School and plans to major in pre-medicine. He is the son of Howard Dale and Vickie Dee Hughes.

He was a member of the Co-ed Y Club, Jr. Beta Club, Beta Club and the varsity football team. Hughes has been named Student of the Week, received the academic award for football and was listed in "Who's Who Among American High School Students.

HOROSCOPES

WEDNESDAY, AUGUST 16, 1995 HAPPY BIRTHDAY! IN THE

NEXT YEAR OF YOUR LIFE: Pay more attention to the bottom line and your financial fortunes will rise dramatically. New friends are a source of fresh inspiration. A family crisis strengthens the bond between you and your mate. Love conquers all. The year 1996 will be one of both health and happiness! Seizing an unusual job or travel opportunity could put you on easy street. Build CELEBRITIES BORN ON THIS DATE: actor Robert Culp, singer Eydie Gorme, actor Timothy Hutton, singer Madonna.

ARIES (March 21-April 19): Your opposition to a project could bring you face to face with an antagonist. Stick to the facts and you will emerge the winner! Your mate or partner lends a helping hand.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20): Cooperation and sympathy may be in short supply today. Establish your own support system. If you must uproot yourself or your business, do so with enthusiasm. A new start could be just what you need GEMINI (May 21-June 20): Do not be alarmed if a friendship has its ups and downs now. Be as understanding and loving as possible. Getting things organized on the home front brings you peace of mind. Cultivate new friends.

CANCER (June 21-July 22): New friends and experiences will give you a different outlook on life. Make long-range plans. Family members offer wonderful sugges tions; include them in your blue-

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): Begin a search that could result in both new financial rewards and greater career success. Overdue changes must be made within the family circle; be fair but firm. Keep any promises VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22):

Curb your impatience! Weigh your options carefully before acting. A loved one's needs could alter your views on a hospital's or school's policy. Do not panic if romance hits a snag. Bide your time.

intelligent compromise will avert a destructive argument. Roll out the red carpet for an unexpected visitor. Entertaining at home proves more relaxing than going out tonight.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Be conservative! Play it safe in financial matters. Think about cutting back your social activities if faced with a major project at work. Influential people are on the lookout SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Luckily, you will be able to carry out most of your plans without delay. A useful agreement is finalized. Avoid burning the candle at both ends. Get plenty of rest. Eat and drink in moderation.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): Punctuality counts big with VIPs. Arrive a few minutes early. The financial picture begins to brighten, thanks to someone's efforts on your behalf.

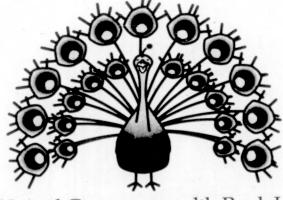

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): You will have a multitude of details to handle today. Unsettled conditions could affect romance. Higherups are watching to see how you deal with a tricky situation.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20): A negative trend is finally reversed. You and your associates are on the same wavelength. Teamwork ensures a business triumph. Extra self-discipline will help you achieve your aims.

TODAY'S CHILDREN are a source of great delight to their parents. Despite their independent attitude and occasional stubbornness, they want to please you above all. Be fair-minded and consistent when dealing with these youngsters and they will respect the rules you lay down. Earning high grades in school should be easy for these bright youngsters. They pride themselves on doing a good job and will work long hours to get a project or

DEAR DR. GOTT: After reading about the man with odorous feet, I was prompted to write with a suggestion for management. One tablet of zinc 30 mg (preferably chelated) a day really works. The vitamin also contributes toward better health in other ways.

DEAR READER: Several readers have written to suggest zinc supplements for smelly feet. I have had no experience with this therapy fortunately, with the disorder itself.

Because foot odor is a common consequence of fungus infection of the skin, most doctors recommend frequent and thorough washing, in conunction with anti-fungus lotions or creams - such as over-the-counter Tinactin or prescription Nizoral.

If the zinc therapy works, great. One 30 mg pill a day will not harm you.

DEAR DR. GOTT: I had a dislocated shoulder and a rotator cuff tear. My doctor says that surgery is the only means of repair but has suggest ed I do not undergo the procedure until it bothers me more. Can microscopic repair be considered and would is be the preferred way to handle

DEAR READER: The rotator cuff consists of several tissues that stabilize the shoulder. When the cuff is injured or torn (by trauma such as dislocations), pain, stiffness and loss of motion develop. These symptoms can be quite disabling and practically possible to cure unless the rotator cuff can be surgically repaired.

In the past, this operation was a serious undertaking. Today, however, thanks to a device called the arthroscope (a tube inserted into the should der, in this instance), the rotator cuff can be successfully restored by a new, efficient procedure. This operation, called arthroscopy, enables a surgeon to repair damaged tendons and joints through a small incision, without the need for major surgery and convalescence.

TODAY IN HISTORY

By The Associated Press Today is Tuesday, August 15, the 227th day of 1995. There are 138 days left in the year.

Today's Highlight in History: Ten years ago: South African President P.W. Botha delivered an internationally broadcast speech in which he rejected calls to dismantle apartheid, saying it would lead white South Africans "on a road to abdication and suicide."

Five years ago: In an attempt to gain support against the U.S.-led coalition in the Persian Gulf, Iraqi President Saddam Hussein offered to make peace with longtime enemy Iran, saying he would pull troops out of territories seized from the Iranians.

One year ago: Ilich Ramirez Sanchez, the terrorist better known as "Carlos the Jackal," was jailed in France after being captured in Sudan.

Opening lead - king of diamonds. The conscientious declarer continually seeks ways of improving his chances. He does not merely settle for a line of play that requires a favorable distribution of the opposing cards - he also looks for an approach that will allow him to get me safely against a less favorable ie of the cards. Consider this deal from the 1995 North American Open Pairs cham-pionship. South arrived at four spades as shown, and West led the diamond king. The declarer, Richard Freedman of Massachusetts, could see he was danger of loging three clubs and a diamond. The possibility of losing three club tricks was made more likely by West's two diamond overcall, which made him a favorite to hold the club ace. Leading a low club to the king at some point in the hope that East had the ace was thus unlikely to meet with much success. Freedman therefore embarked on a line of play that would allow him to make the contract if East happened to hold the ace, but would also succeed if West had the ace and fewer than two other clubs. He started by allowing West's king of diamonds to win the first trick and won the low diamond continuation with the ace.

After drawing two rounds of trumps, Freedman led a heart to the king and ruffed dummy's remaining diamond. He then crossed to the ace of hearts and ruffed a heart. Having thus stripped the dummy and his own hand of hearts and diamonds, he exited with a low club.

East won with the ten and returned the jack, and it was here that Freedman's advance preparations paid off. He covered the jack with the king — catering to the possibility that East had the ace — but even though declarer lost that battle, he won the war.

After West took the king with the ace, he was forced to return a diamond. This allowed Freedman to discard dummy's last club as he ruffed in his hand, and the contract ame rolling home

DEAR ABBY

DEAR ABBY: I was so moved and felt such appreciation for your Father's Day column, I would like to acknowledge what a valuable message it carried. You said:

"A 21-gun salute to the divorced father who has never uttered an unkind word about the mother of his children (at least to the chil-dren) and who has always been Johnny-on-the-spot with the sup-

Abby, those words brought tears to my eyes as I sat quietly reflecting on the seventh year I have celebrated Father's Day without my chil-dren. It struck me as amazingly sad that in seven years of being there for my children — and always providing child support — I've never regeived a thank-you. My morale has been worn down over the years by the stereotyping of divorced fathers as "deadbeat dads" — a particularly cruel label.

Abby, if I never get a "thanks," I'll survive. Reading the public thanks in your column for a principle I've upheld not only for the sake of my children, but for the sake of fathers and children everywhere, is a powerful remedy for the sadness I have carried. For any recipient of support out there who has thought of saying "thanks," but never did — I'd bet it wouldn't hurt.

May I offer a sincere "you're welcome" from a loving, supportive dad? THOMAS MULDER

PORTLAND, ORE.

DEAR THOMAS: You may and thank you for the thank-you. How sad that those unsung heroes - divorced dads who never miss a payment - are all too often unappreciated. It would be so easy to just walk away and not fulfill the respon-sibilities to their children. Yet you, and many like you, sacrifice to see that your children are fed, clothed and educated.

You are to be commended for loving your children enough to be a responsible father.

DEAR ABBY: The letter you printed about not sending gifts in boxes from fancy, high-priced stores reminded me of how my husband surprised me with my engagement

For Valentine's Day he gave me a box of what appeared to be Godiva chocolates. I was so excited! (I adore chocolate.) I opened the box and found a diamond engagement ring nestled among the chocolates!

It was the best back had. I still have the box.
D. LANGELL,

GEORGETOWN, MASS.

DEAR D. LANGELL: Carats and chocolates — what a win-ning combination! Nutritionists may frown on it, but romantics and chocoholics can appreciate your husband's creativity. (Myself included!)

DEAR ABBY: You should have told "Disappointed Dad" (who caught his 17-year-old daughter frolicking semi-nude in the swim-ming pool with boys) to buy his daughter a convertible. Then she could go around with her "top" down all the time without a hassle

Letter of Appreciation

The Humane Society of Calloway County depends heavily on local individuals, businesses, and organizations for funds to operate the local Animal Shelter. At a time when increased costs and broadened responsibilities have made the financial shoe pinch, we are especially grateful for this Recently, two local organizations held fund raisers to benefit the shelter. On June 30, the Kentucky Lake Kennel Club and the Humane Society cosponsored a highly successful "Bark in the Park," and Whiskey Ridge Kennels staged "Dog Day Afternoon" on July 22.

The latter event survived a mid-afternoon monsoon-typhoon which threatened to send tents and participants to Oz, but they regrouped, and a great time was had by all! Both events required considerable work and coordination by their sponsors and raised badly needed funds to help the animals at the shelter.

We thank them very much!

Rezoning for Wal-Mart site set next month

By JIM MAHANES Staff Writer

The sign on the front door of Murray City Hall Tuesday read, 'The Wal-Mart rezoning has been rescheduled for next month, much to the surprise of those residents who showed up to voice their opinions at the Murray Planning Commission meeting.

Five or six citizens like Jane Brandon and Sandy Forrest wanted to tell the commission how they felt about the proposed retailer

Several citizens who attended the meeting questioned whether the representatives from Carlson Consulting Engineering firm (who has been in contact with the city about this matter) were ever planning to attend.

Once the meeting started and Assistant Chairman John Peck announced the change in the agenda, about six citizens began asking questions about why the firm didn't show up for the meeting. This is not unusual," said Butch Seargent, director of planning and engineering. "They said they would be back next month. Peck told the residents that the firm had to make plans to be on the commission's agenda months in advance. "Sometimes developers don't get all the paper work in order by the time they are supposed to appear before us," Peck said.

A man in the back of the room asked the commission if this was a ploy by Wal-Mart to throw off the citizens of Murray.

MSU hurries construction projects before dorms open

Staff Writer

In between miserably hot temperatures and torrents of rain, construction projects at Murray State University have continued.

According to Ed West, director of facilities management, a com-bination of the heat and old wiring has caused power outages on the campus — at a time when university officials are scrambling to get ready for the

"It is just another piece of the system that failed," West said, commenting on power outages this week in Faculty Hall, Lowry Center, Sparks Hall and the Fine Arts Building.

When not dealing with electrical problems, West and his department have focused on the more than 100 construction/ renovation projects, some of which are being handled by contracted workers.

"We have about from different sizes in some stage of progress at this point," West

In order to prepare for the students, who will return to campus this weekend, attention has focused on the residence halls.

"We have had quite a few projects in the dorms," West said. We replaced the showers in Springer Hall and there is cleaning and painting going on in Hart Hall. New water pumps were installed in White Workers have also focused on repairing elevators, which West described as a "long-term project." Elevators in the Fine Arts Building are scheduled for replacement.

In spite of the hot and humid weather, members of the grounds department have continued with their regular schedules, although West said they have taken extra precautions to drink enough have had has made it difficult to get all the mowing done," West said. "We are building a little plaza between Hart Hall and Winslow Cafeteria and that has taken a lot of attention."

In addition to the smaller campus improvements, West said work is also beginning on several large projects.

'The contractor for the Regional Special Events Center is on started," West said. "Some of the temporary materials have already been moved on the site and the project is coming along well."

The renovation project of the Old Fine Arts Building, which was ravaged by fire in July 1994, will resume Sept. 15 once the structural engineer completes concrete repair.

"We also have several renovation projects in the design stage

Skirmishes begin in bombing case

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP) -Defense lawyers and prosecutors are beginning legal skirmishes over various issues, including where to hold the trial, now that bombing suspects Timothy McVeigh and Terry Nichols have pleaded innocent.

McVeigh and Nichols were arraigned Tuesday before U.S. Magistrate Judge Ronald Howland, who did not set a trial date. Instead, he gave both sides a week to prepare a schedule for pretrial motions and hearings. Attorneys in the case estimate that the trial will begin in six to nine months.

The trial ordinarily would be held in the federal courthouse across the street from the site of the April 19 bombing that killed 168 people and injured more than 500. But the crowd at the arraignment prompted lawyers for both suspects to restate their contention that a fair trial would be impossible with judges, court employees and potential jurors who were so close to the blast.

The front third of the courtroom was packed with court back door before Nichols' family and reporters were allowed through the front doors.

'These people are in a sense the victims of the case that is going to be tried," said Michael Tigar, Nichols' lead attorney. "It is inappropriate to ask these people, possessing the feelings that they evidently do, to sit in dispassionate judgment upon these

But Sharon Coyne, the mother of a 14-month-old girl killed in the explosion, said court employees frequently attend court proceedings.

'We believe in the law and that they are innocent until proven guilty," Ms. Coyne said. U.S. Attorney Patrick Ryan has said he wants the case tried in Oklahoma City so that families of victims can attend.

Stephen Jones, the head of McVeigh's defense team, questioned the ability of local judges to remain impartial about the

'We cannot get a fair trial in a city where judges knew people that were killed," Jones said.

'I do believe that the collective package ... represented by KERA is the most ambitious and thoughtful state educational improvement effort in America, Cody said.

The assessment and accountability system has been perhaps the most controversial part of the law. School employees can be rewarded or penalized on the basis of test results.

Two independent studies this year raised questions about the system's reliability. A study commissioned by the General Assembly's Office of Education Accountability said student portfolios, an important component of the test, could not be scored reliably enough.

"I think the assessment is not seriously flawed," Cody said. 'Does it need to be changed and modified? Yes, I think so. In what areas? Give me a little bit more time to study it."

Other topics in the wide ranging news conference: State controls on local school boards

Cody said the state should clamp down "only when there's substantial evidence" boards are shirking their duties. Letcher County schools are under state management. Boysen and the state board dramatically intervened in Floyd, Harlan and Magoffin counties.

Standardized tests Cody said they traditionally have been used to "group kids" and they "do not reflect accurately what it is we're trying to teach kids."

They do not provide the kind of information that helps define or decide what it is that students are learning," he said.

State aid to private education "I have not dealt with that issue. I've got an off-the-cuff opinion," Cody said. "The offthe-cuff opinion is I've never seen a plan that was implemented that would not lead to further segregation by class.'

including Woods Hall, Winslow Cafeteria and Blackburn Science," West said. "We are also planning to build a new equine facility and replace the roof on the Expo Center."

Visitors to campus will notice work being done to the exterior of several of the buildings, including brick repair to the Curris Center.

'We are trying to get the exterior windows scraped and repainted at Wells Hall and we are planning to replace the windows in Lovett Auditorium, West said. "That will be tough because the building will be in use, but we will work around it. We also have to replace the sprinkler system there."

Although many of the projects have continued throughout the summer, West said he had hoped to have the parking lot across from Wells Hall completed prior to the students returning to campus.

"The parking lot may not be ready this weekend," he said. "The rain caused some problems and set us behind."

Once that lot is completed, West said work will begin on the gravel lot off Hamilton Avenue, in addition to one at the corner of Hamilton and Broach Street.

Classes for MSU students will begin Aug. 24.

■ Rezoning... allowing his employees to park

City Administrator Don Elias told the man, "Absolutely not."
In other business, the commission:

. Voted to recommend to the board of zoning adjustments to allow a conditional use permit for a parking lot off Fifth Street.

The commission heard from Tim Lambert, owner of the Lambert Vending Company located on Fourth Street, who is requesting a conditional use permit their cars in a lot off Fifth Street behind the company's building.

"The way the property is zoned now, I could build a four-plex on it," Lambert said. "I don't anticipate any more traffic onto Fifth Street than would be there if a unit was built."

Lambert's proposal calls for the lot to have 6-foot screening 46 feet back from Fifth Street along the north and west boundaries and would maintain the existing grass area, leaving a 45-foot area for five cars to park. Two people stood up in opposition to the proposal.

Buel Stalls, 407 N. 5th St.,

came to the meeting to ask Lambert questions about his intentions for the lot. "The business has never bothered me too much. I'm worried that if it is enclosed (screening), it will make the property around it worthless," Stalls said. Lambert said he plans to landscape the grassy area closest to the road and reiterated his plans to start the screening 46 feet back from the road. "I think this will be more sightly than it is now," Lambert said and Stalls agreed. "We want to make it as sightly as we can for our neighbors,' Lambert said.

One man who disagreed with Lambert was Bob Bradley, owner a duplex next to the company.

Bradley told the commission that he has had trouble with the company's dumpster which he claims overflows with trash that blows into his yard. "If it helps, I will move the dumpster right next to the building out of sight from the street,' Lambert said.

Elias pointed out that if the BZA approves the request, it will be a conditional use permit.

"This is not a change in the zoning of that property. It can come up for review or even be suspended if the stipulations set forth by the BZA are not met,'

•Heard arguments concerning a tract of land 1.5 acre located at the corner of Back and Third streets. Mike Conley purchased the property in order to locate storage units at the site.

"This area seems to be in a slow decline away from residential to more of a business area, Conley said. F.A. Cogdell, 708 S. Third St., addressed the commission in opposition to Conley's request.

"I live directly across from this site and most of my neighbors are against it," Cogdell said.

Cogdell raised the amount of roadway access needed to the property.

"There is not a street wide enough for this structure," Cogdell said

Commisioner Dan Miller agreed.

"I can't approve this plan without a right of way off Sycamore Street. If someone is storing a boat and they try to pull it out, they cannot see the traffic. It's a potential nightmare," Miller said. Terry Walters told the board it needed to concentrate on the issue of zoning for the property, not what the future of the site will be. "You must look at the rezoning issue. If you concentrate on the use of the land, I feel this commission is out of order," Walters

Peck told Walters he was out of order because the public hearing had been officially closed. A motion was made by Commissioner Joan Walters to recommend the rezoning of the area to the BZA. The motion died because of lack of a second.

Miller made a motion for the proposal to be denied with the same results. Elias said that means the commission will send it to the city council without a recommendation for or against. At the conclusion of the meeting, Miller brought the subject up again and made a motion to table the matter pending notification of the parties involved.

The motion passed and the matter will be taken up next month when the commission meets again.

1950s and 1960s, when the Baby Boom generation was beginning to flood the educational system, and schools were built at a frantic pace across the country. Thousands of Murray's children have been in their care, studying the three R's with elementary teachers Jane Taylor, Lee Pinkston, and Lenora Roberts; discovering books with guidance from librarians Evon Kelley and Willie Belle Farless; mastering fractions and decimals with middle school math teacher Jo Farley; trying any number of creative projects with home economics teacher Sally Crass; and learning to love the language with senior class English teacher Maryanne Russell.

With Mark Brady, who has been an assistant principal as well as a teacher, they've studied history books and the driver's ed manual; they've learned the rules of the road, and the rules at school. Assistant superintendent Willie Jackson hasn't been a teacher for 24 years, but as administrator all the children have been in his care.

Think how much history these teachers can share with their students. They've lived through the Korean War, Kennedy's assassination, the moon landing, and Nixon's resignation. Their teaching experience spans two generations. Some of their students have been children of former students - a few grandchildren, too. They've gone from Dr. Spock to Dr. Dobson, See-Jane-Run to techno-speak, school desegregation to KERA.

Lenora Roberts began teaching in 1954 — in a two-room schoolhouse not far from Murray. The building had electric lights and running water, but no blackboards and an outdoor privy, and in the winter it was kept warm by a pot-bellied

Granted, her experience was unusual, but consider this: when Evon Kelley joined the Murray High faculty as the librarian in 1971, she got to design the library for the new building on Doran Road, and she made sure it was as thoroughly upto-date and modern as any library in the state of Kentucky. A thoroughly modern library with no computers, videotapes, no fax machine, no in-house television

That same year, Sally Crass was teaching the girls how to sew and cook in home economics class. Last year her classes, for both boys and girls, covered consumer economics, career choices, and independent living.

Times change. . . but children don't, not really. Teaching has always been challenging, rewarding, occasionally frustrating, but always worth the effort teachers put into doing their jobs well.

Think how much these ten retiring teachers know about kids. They remember poodle skirts and hula hoops, psychedelic rock n' roll and bell-bottom jeans, Davy Crockett

And they know how to bring a shy primary child out of her shell, how to make a classroom of adolescents sit up and pay attention, how to lead a high schooler through the steps in writing a formal research paper. They recognize the symptoms of chicken pox before parents do, and they know the fears and doubts that trouble high schoolers about life beyond graduation.

They have given their time, their talent, their affection, and their attention to the children, They've been teachers, tutors, coaches, sponsors, psychologists, friends. . but mostly teachers. They haven't worked eight-hour days - they've worked 18 hour days. Teaching is not a job - it's a way of life.

And it's hard to give up whether the decision to do so takes three years or three weeks.

For Murray Middle teacher Jo Farley, retirement was a sudden decision, made just before the end of school. "It was time," she said, meaning that time was too short, and her grandchildren were growing old too quickly.
On the other hand, MHS English teacher Mary Ann Russell spent three years making up her mind to retire - and she says she cried for months once the decision was made.

Right after school let out for the summer she joined a tour group travelling to Britain, and she filled a notebook with information about the poets and writers whose homes she visited.

"Who will I share that with now?" she wonders.

What does a retired English teacher do? She writes, of course, and she finds ways to connect with young people that bring her into the classroom now and then.

Asked what they'll miss about teaching, the answers from all the teachers are - not surprisingly fairly similar. Willie Jackson: "I'll miss the opportunity to have a positive affect on the children." Evon Kelley: "the students, of course, but a teacher goes through that at the end of every year." Lee Pinkston: "the children - everything is still new to them, and they just soak it up.'

"The children have such faith in you, said Lenora Roberts. Unusually tall for a woman, she remembers the child who was confident she could simply reach up and pluck his baseball off the roof.

Ms. Russell remembers the class that read three Shakespeare plays and begged to read a fourth - and the girl this year who told her Wuthering Heights was her favorite book of all time.

Jo Farley treasures the former students she encounters still living in Murray. All grown up now, they manage their own businesses, and they like to tell her how much they depend on the math they learned in seventh grade. The retiring teachers will miss each other, too. For Willie Jackson, it was a privilege to work alongside Murray educators like Ty Holland and Fred Schultz and Eli Alexander.

The elementary teachers talk about the camaraderie that exists in the Robertson building. Not willing to together often for lunch.

In fact, most of these teachers are dealing with retirement by not really retiring. Both Mr. Jackson and Mr. Brady are headed back to school to work part-time. Most of the others plan to substitute teach or volunteer. Lee Pinkston said she'd like to tutor kids who need some extra help and perhaps to be available "as a substitute grandmother for the kids who need one."

Jane Taylor spent 26 years as a teacher in the Murray schools, always in the same classroom in the Robertson building - the last room on the right down the north hall before the renovation. She knows it's time for her to retire — and she's looking forward to the time she can spend with her grandchildren. But she's looking back, too, and finding great memories.

"I have loved my years as a teacher here," she said. "We have a wonderful school system, with wonderful kids, wonderful people to work with, wonderful support from the administration.

May, the teachers and principal at Murray Elementary decided to retire her room, just as a baskethall team might retire the number of a key player.

All the desks and bookshelves, books and games, and boxes of what the teachers call "manipulatives" were moved down the hall to the old teachers lounge, and all the furnish ings from the lounge were moved to Ms. Taylor's room. It's a fitting

"These teachers have given us so much," said school superintendent W.A. Franklin. "We can honor them, and we can thank them. We can never replace them."

Students in Murray began school last Thursday with 10 new teachers - all but one Murray State graduates, all but two under the age of 25. The students will benefit from their enthusiasm, their energy, and their new ideas. If these new teachers keep those qualities for 30 years or so, a classroom might not be retired in their honor, but they might have a young mother show up the first day year-old by the hand.

"This was my teacher when I say. "You're so lucky that she's going to be your teacher too."

Farmer fights back

Dear Editor:

This is my first letter to your newspaper. I'm writing now because I feel strongly that what the White House plans to do about tobacco is wrong and will hurt my family and neighbors.

I'm a tobacco farmer, same as my father, and his father before him. The dark-fired tobacco we grow keeps my children in school, our mortgage paid, and groceries on our table. I couldn't believe it when I read that President Clinton may give the FDA the right to call tobacco a

Now I'm not talking about the rights or wrongs of using tobacco products. That's everyone's own choice to make. Personally, as a parent myself, I share the belief that tobacco is for adults only.

But to label it a drug is just plain wrong. The FDA would be taking away people's freedoms, freedoms that make this country the best in the world, as far as I'm concerned. Plus, it would take away thousands of jobs - including my own - from families that depend on tobacco farming to make ends meet.

I'm a tax paying citizen and my family members are active in our community. Our name has been known here for close to 100 years. What the FDA is planning to do could ruin all that.

What are these folks in Washington doing to us? Aren't we the same people they pledged to look out for?

211 S. 11th St., Murray, Ky. 42071 The Ledger also received 16 copies of the same letter protesting FDA

Writer fights restriction

I can't believe what I'm hearing. I am a dark fired tobacco grower on a farm in the state of Kentucky. I am hearing stories that Bill Clinton and Al Gore are letting the FDA classify tobacco a drug and restrict how it can be sold and used. I do not like what Dr. Kessler is trying to do at the FDA. The president should remember the people who voted for him along with the senators and representatives. These people are representatives of the people. Many of my friends and neighbors make a living farming tobacco and they feel the same.

If tobacco is regulated like a drug, many farmers could lose their homes and farms. Farmers don't want to live off the public and have worked hard all their lives to care for their families. I am sure most farmers will band together and vote out any and all legislators who support the FDA's proposal. Agricultural growers in this country represent millions of voters. We will stand up to protect what's ours the right to farm our lands to the fullest and to enjoy free commerce.

Perhaps sugar and coffee bean farmers should be worried as well? Maybe even corn farmers? Will their products be attacked next? Surely the White House can come up with a more intelligent way to keep tobacco out of the hands of young people. There are other options that can be, and must be explored

Ranch helps children

The Kentucky Sheriffs' Boys and Girls Ranch almost closed its doors in 1978, but by "hanging in there" and persevering, it has helped over 18,000 of Kentucky's underprivileged children enjoy a free week of vacation.

It has been difficult to remain operational and solvent, but with our dedicated members and contributors, and especially with God's help, we will continue to remain open.

Sheriffs, deputies and friends of the sheriff's office brought these 8 through 12-year-old children to the camp in Gilbertsville, near Paducah, in sheriff's cruisers, patrol cars, school buses and vans. Each Sunday, 12 counselors would wait for the more than 100 children, both boys and girls, who stayed in the barracks that were provided for them. Mrs. Polly Poe, one of our cooks, greeted each sheriff with a new Ranch t-shirt and a glass of lemonade or iced tea. Each child also received a new t-shirt before departing for home on Friday.

Before the week was over, the children hiked at the Land Between the Lakes, went down the water slide at Wonder Waters, got to see a movie at the local drive-in (PG rated, of course), ate three wholesome meals plus snacks, did arts and crafts, went swimming, observed our horses in the corral, and had plenty of fun.

I have been the executive director of the Ranch since 1978 and wanted to reach a goal of 1,000 again this year, but instead, had to settle for 911 children with 65 counties participating. I want to thank everyone concerned for helping make these 20 years very enjoyable for the many boys and girls who received a free vacation at the Kentucky Sheriffs' Boys and Girls Ranch.

Writer receives letter

While a lot of my journalist colleagues were slogging through the mud around St. Jerome Catholic Church at the annual Fancy Farm picnic Aug. 5 - the real mud and the slung kind from the speaker's platform - I was at home on my porch having a major laugh over that day's political junk mail.

The mail I got that Saturday was as irrelevant and wasteful as the air horns and 'pander' bears that characterized this year's onset of the fall political campaigns for governor.

The first letter I opened was from our junior United States senator, Mitch McConnell.

He's a big cheese in Washington these days, since the Republicans took control of Congress last November. He's also been awfully busy lately taking a lot of heat from Democrats and the national media because as chairman of the Senate Ethics Committee, McConnell wouldn't go along with public hearings into charges of sexual harrass-ment against Oregon Senator Bob Packwood.

So I was pleased to note my junior U.S. senator had the time to communicate with me, his constidaughter. As the father of three, I know that no one can measure the joy that children bring to their parents.

"Best wishes for continued good health and happiness for your entire family.

"Sincerely "Mitch McConnell"

The fact is that there is no Mrs. Duvall living on Clinton Street in Frankfort and, much to my mother's chagrin, no new granddaughter for her to spoil shamelessly.

Clearly, the much-feared and well-heeled McConnell re-election machine has a loose bolt somewhere in the works. (Tom Barlow take

I know, of course, that the congratulatory letter was prepared and mailed from McConnell's Louisville campaign office. Both the envelope and letter state it was "not prepared or mailed with federal tax dollars." (Good for Mitch.)

And that particular letter was only one of many churned out by anonymous McConnell campaign workers who go through local newspapers looking for items to send congratulatory or sympathy letters to Kentucky voters. senator's signature was made by either a machine or a worker with the ability to imitate McConnell's signature

Maybe there are people out there who get these letters from elected officials and believe them to be original, individual efforts by their senator or congressman, who dictated it in his or her grand Capitol Hill office and personally signed it. I would guess, however, there really aren't that many.

And I would guess there are good, sincere contributors to McConnell's campaign treasury who would just as soon their hardearned cash be spent on something a little more significant than a letter to his non-existent wife on the birth of their phantom daughter.

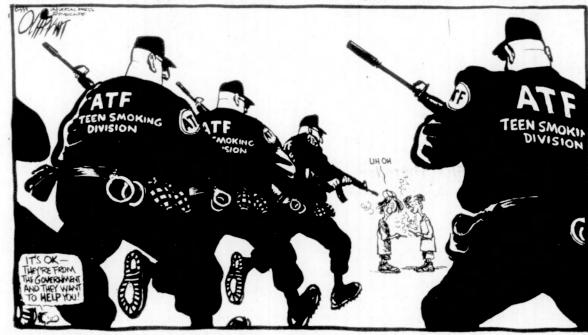

I also would guess contributors to the Democratic National Commit-tee would be less than impressed with the poll the committee sent me the same day as Mitch McConnell's

Billed as a "Presidential Poll," it asked such questions as "Do you favor or oppose Republican proposals to dismantle Head Start and programs that provide health care and nutrition to young mothers in Sure. I'm all for taking food out of the mouths of mothers and

You won't be hearing about this particular poll on the nightly news, that's for certain. And I seriously doubt anyone will be announcing how many accepted the offer to become "an official member of the Democratic Party" — at a minimal cost of only $20, checks made payable to the Democratic National Committee/Federal Account.

All in all, the Aug. 5 mail was far more entertaining than all that blather down at Fancy Farm.

Perot campaign uncertain

WASHINGTON (AP) - Running for president, Adlai Stevenby saving prayed that the cup of candidacy would pass from him. Ross Perot seems intent on drinking from it.

He insists he doesn't want to run again but hints that he might. While Stevenson chose heavenly images as the 1952 Democratic nominee, Perot looked in the opposite direction in discussing his possible candidacy in 1996. "I've got to honestly believe it's good for my country, because that's the only reason I would want to go serve a hitch in hell, and that's, you know, the kindest word you could put on it in terms of being in public life," he said.

Then again, he believed it last time. Twice, by his accounting, since he quit and then changed his mind 21/2 months later in

For all his complaints about the system and the process, Perot is a master of both, as displayed at his command performance mini-convention in Dallas this past weekend. As it ended Sunday, he was back on national television, NBC's "Meet the Press," explaining how Republicans and Democrats in Congress can meet his terms for staying out by enacting a balanced budget, campaign finance reform, lobbying reform and other measures by

"Look, I would like to go away, but if I go away, the odds we'll get those reforms are zero, so I kind of have to stay around," he said. Perot said they could be done easily by December.

That isn't going to happen on the whole range of changes Perot

PERSPECTIVE ON POLITICS

Walter Mears

Associated Press columnist

and his United We Stand America organization are demanding. So the third man in the 1992 race will almost certainly begin 1996 in about the same stance he's in

And he may well stay there well into the campaign year. No urgency about deciding, Perot said. He's already shown that unlikely timetables can work out; he won his 19 percent of the vote in 1992 after running, quitting in mid-July, and reversing himself on Oct. 1, after supporters placed him on the ballots in all 50 states.

Then, as now, he said his aims were not personal but to do what's best for the nation. That is, of course, the litany of all candidates, except that the others say they do want to run and he says he doesn't. Perot says he'd prefer to get back to the business world. But he's done more than keep his hand in politics. He's not only been a guest, and a debater, on the CNN "Larry Ling Live" interview show, he's been a guest

Again and again, he says he has no interest in public life. He said so in the Dallas hall he hired for a three-day political conference featuring three dozen speeches by politicians, among them all the Republicans running for the 1996 presidential nomination.

Bob Dole, the Senate GOP leader, said he'd seen that Perot was supposed to be the fly in the ointment. "Well, we need more flies if that's the case," he said. 'You are the ointment. You are making a difference." GOP flattery makes sense, given the polling evidence that Perot's 1992 constituency boosted the Republicans in their 1994 congressional election victory.

Just drop us a line ...

But it didn't work before.

for both President Bush and Democratic nominee Bill Clinton went to Dallas to court Perot support in 1992; three days later he judged both sides wanting and reentered the race.

Perot vehemently denied that his 1992 campaign led to Clinton's victory, pointing to polling that showed he drew about equally from each side. But in 1996, another three-way contest including Perot almost certainly would work to Clinton's advantage.

But the mix could change. Colin Powell is leaving open the possibility he will run as an independent. Jesse Jackson talks of a challenge to Clinton.

In Perot's words, politics is an irrational process. Nothing new there. Stevenson was accepting the Democratic nomination for president when he told the national convention:

"I have asked the Merciful Father to let this cup pass from me. But from such dread responsibility one does not shrink in fear, self-interest, or in false humility.'

Dwight D. Eisenhower, who trounced Stevenson for the White House, was watching on television. "After hearing that," he was said to have remarked, "I think he's a bigger faker than the rest.'

Dogs at shelter need homes

By MARILYN J. ARCOLI

Two beautiful Greyhound/ Aussie shepdog mixes, six months old, one male and one female, were brought to our shelter all the way from Cadiz becauce their owners had heard that the Calloway County Humane Society does an excellent job of screening their adopters.

The owners' strong sense of responsibility and their love for their companions encouraged them to make a 100-mile round trip to see that these dogs got the best chance possible for a good loving permanent home.

We would like to adopt them

Wedding Saturday

Plans have been completed for the wedding of Terra April Mad-dox, niece of Mr. and Mrs. Billy Mays of Wingo, and Robert Lance Allison, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Allison.

The ceremony will be Saturday, Aug. 19, at 7 p.m. at First Christian Church, Murray.

Mrs. Melinda McAlpin of Mayfield will be matron of honor. Bridesmaids will be Mrs. Angie Glover of Farmington, Miss Donise Bridges of Wingo, and Mrs. Jennifer Burnett of

Emily Janean Mahan and K. Alan Miller were married Saturday,

May 13, 1995, at 6:30 p.m. at Hardin Baptist Church.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Mahan. Parents of the groom are Mr. and Mrs. Ken Miller.

The Rev. William B. Miller, grandfather of the groom, and the Rev. Ricky Cunningham officiated at the double ring ceremony. Music was by Natalie Johnston and Sharon Phillips, pianists, and Maria Jennings, Laura Newsome and Shae Newsome, vocalists.

The candlelight ceremony was performed before an arch candela-brum and a unity candle, all adorned with magnolias, ivy and white bows. White lights interwined with ivy in net with magnolias and white bows were draped along the altar rails. Ferns on brass stands were on either side of the rails.

The bride, escorted by her father and given in marriage by her parents, wore a formal white satin gown trimmed in silk Venise lace, seed pearls and lusters. Her fitted bodice featured a sabrina neckline outlined with scalloped Venise lace and adorned with lace motifs. Long full sleeves featured deep pointed lace cuffs at her wrists. Netted motifs accented with pearl drops fashioned the full shoulders.

Her full skirt fell from a dropped waistline into a semi-cathedral train. Scattered lace motifs finished with lusters and pearls complimented the skirt and train, and a wide band of scalloped lace edged the skirt. The gown's back featured an open key-hole finished with rows of dropped seed pearls. A large fabric satin bow was attached to

Her fingertip veil, edged with pearls was attached to her headpiece adorned with pearls, flowers and sequins. She wore teardrop pearl earrings accented with iridescent sequins. Her bridal bouquet was a cascade of magnolias with stephanotis and pearls.

Tammy Lax, sister of the bride, was matron of honor. Bridesmaids were Monica Giffin and Amy McReynolds, sister of the groom, They wore two piece teal brocade dresses and carried arm bouquets of white magnolias accented with flowers and white bows.

Blake McReynolds, niece of the groom, was flower girl. She wore a white tea length dress with a white bow in her hair The groom wore a black tuxedo with a white vest. His boutonniere was a white rosebud. Ken Miller, father of the groom, was best man. Groomsmen were Michael Lax, brother-in-law of the bride, Russell Gholson and Jamie Futrell. Ushers were Dustin Parks and Curtis James, cousins of the bride. The attendants and father of the bride wore black tuxedoes with black vests and white rosebud boutonnieres.

Chaney Southerland presided at the guest register. Directing the wedding was Carolyn Parks, aunt of the bride.

A reception followed in the Family Life Center at the church.

The bride's table was covered with a white cloth overlaid with a net skirt. Two white doves with ivy and white ribbons accented the front of the table. The centerpiece was a crystal bowl filled with rose, flanked by white candles decorated with teal roses and white stephanotis in silver holders.

The three tiered wedding cake was decorated with teal flowers and topped with French doves. Silver and crystal appointments were used.

The groom's table held a chocolate cake decorated with a hunting and fishing scene. Magnolias were around the crystal bow. Punch, cake, mints, nuts and finger foods were also served.

Servers were Leah Darnell, cousin of the bride, Kristi Beane, Aleshia Griffin and Terri Dic.

The groom's parents hosted a rehearsal dinner at Dumplin's. CALENDAR construction safety courses offered by the Occupational Safety and Health Training Center at Murray State University. The first class of its kind in the region, the opening session will be held Aug. 22-25 and will feature Information about preparing for the Focused Inspections and certification to demonstrate compliance under OSHA 1926 regulations.

Construction industry targeted for inspections

Because of the continued high accidental death rate in the construction industry, the Occupational Safety and Health Administration (OSHA) has targeted this industry for inspections through a new Focused Inspection program began in May. To help meet the needs of this industry, Murray State University's Safety and Health Training Center is offering two construction safety courses, the first of which begins later this month

"To my knowledge, this is the first course of its kind offered anywhere in the region, perhaps the first one in this part of the country, says Jimmie Quinn, director of MSU's training center. Two sessions are scheduled for Aug. 22-25 and Dec. 4-7, and will be taught under the guidance of an Authorized Construction OSHA Outreach

Federal safety and health regulations are continually being surveyed since Congress passed legislation almost two years ago strengthening them. The Congress act also increased the Occupational Safety and Health Administration's (OSHA) enforcement powers. The Focused Inspection program will greatly increase the frequency of OSHA inspections in the work place.

OSHA's construction industry regulations (29 CFR 1926) are specific with regard to employer/con-tractor responsibilities. With the recent changes in the Fall Protection, and Personal Protective Equipment regulations, compliance is now more complicated than ever before. Coupled with OSHA's revised fine schedule for noncompliance, contractors could find themselves financially devastated. "Information on preparing the new Focused Inspections is included in the courses we offer,' Quinn explained. "These courses are designed to provide understanding about how OSHA operates, as well as knowledge of it's construction industry regulations." Participants will be registered with the Department of Labor and receive a certificate and identification card useful in demonstrating compliance under OSHA 1926 regulations.

"We have designed our courses to accommodate both categories management and labor, either together or separately," says Quinn. "In other words, an electrical contractor could schedule himself for the 32 hour course while his electricians would attend only one day of the same course." Training can also be provided directly at the work site, if preferred.

All materials are furnished for the class at the OS&H Training Center. Each class will accommodate 24 students. Fees for the four-day manager's course is $495, or $150 for the one-day laborer's course. Discounts are available for three or more students from the same corporation.

Early registration is encouraged. For additional information, call the OS&H Training Center at (502) 762-3385 or 762-3615. Requests for registration information may be faxed to (502) 762-3290.

Crane used to recover cab, body

HOPKINSVILLE, Ky. (AP) -A large crane was being used this morning to pull a submerged truck cab containing the body of the driver from a quarry off the Pennyrile Parkway, police said.

The tandem rig, carrying computer supplies, was en route from Chicago to Nashville when it veered out of control near here and plunged some 200 feet into the quarry about 5:30 p.m. CDT

The driver of the Yellow Freight rig was initially thought to have been a woman but divers confirmed this morning that the body was that of a man.

The parkway was expected to be closed while the cab was being removed from about 45 feet of water.

Country Music Association Awards, picking up six bids

Bluegrass diva Alison Krauss' breakthrough year was reflected with five nominations: female vocalist, single and album of the year, vocal event and the Horizon Award for most promising artist. "All I can say is, "Whee, dog-gie," Krauss said by telephone from her parents' home in Champaign, Ill.

Jackson is an old hand at CMA nominations, but has never won for best entertainer or male vocalist. Vince Gill, who is set to be host of the broadcast, has been named best entertainer for the past two years and male vocalist for the last four.

Jackson and Gill are joined as nominees for entertainer of the year by Reba McEntire, Garth Brooks and the duo Brooks & Dunn. Gill and Jackson are both up for male vocalist with the category rounded out by John Berry, John Michael Montgomery and George Strait. Krauss and McEntire will compete with Mary Chapin Carpenter, Patty Loveless and Pam Tillis for best female vocalist.

Canadian Shania Twain's multiplatinum success in 1995 was recognized with nominations for best single, "Any Man of Mine," and the Horizon Award. Joining Twain and Krauss as nominees for the latter award are Berry, David Ball and Faith Hill.

"This year's slate of nominees is a wonderfully diverse mix of the different styles found within today's country music format from the traditional sound of Alan Jackson to the bluegrass influence of Alison Krauss to the ultra-contemporary Mavericks,' said Ed Benson of the CMA.

The Mavericks were nominated for best vocal group, along with BlackHawk, Diamond Rio, Sawyer Brown and Shenandoah, Alabama, the group that dominated the 1980s, was not nominated this year.

Best single nominees were Twain's "Any Man of Mine," the Tractors" "Baby Likes To Rock It," "Keeper of the Stars" by Tracy Byrd, Krauss' "When You Say Nothing at All," and Jackson's "Gone Country," a sly satire on carpetbaggers in the country music industry.

MSU's annual faculty brunch held Friday

As the beginning of a new fall semester at Murray State University approaches, faculty and staff will have an opportunity to meet with one another to discuss the upcoming year. Murray State's annual faculty and professional staff brunch/meeting will be held on Friday, Aug. 18, at 11 a.m. in the Curris Center ballroom. Dr. Kern Alexander, MSU president and distinguished professor, will give the keynote address. Faculty service awards will be presented during the meeting.

Faculty and professional staff will also have a chance to talk with one another on an informal level and participate in an information exchange on that same day. Tables will be set up on the concourse outside the ballroom from 10 to 11 a.m. University faculty and staff will be able to obtain information about university cultural and sporting events, community and university resources, the MSU Credit Union, etc.

During that same time, faculty and professional staff may also have their photographs taken by the "Shield" photographer in the Commonwealth Lobby just off the concourse.

Because every new year at Murray State brings new faculty and professional staff on campus, the university annually hosts a reception honoring those new members of the university community. Faculty and professional staff are invited to attend an informal reception in honor of newcomers at the National Scouting Museum from 7 to 9 p.m., also on Friday, Aug. 18.

Family resource fair to be held at MSU this year

This year we will be holding the Community Resource Fair about a month earlier as a collaborative effort involving the C.U.B.S., Calloway United Benevolent Services network. Murray State has offered the use of the entire Curris Center, so we'll have more space and a more central location.

Please call the Calloway County Family Resource Center at 753-3070, the CCMS Youth Services Center at 753-1751, the Murray City Schools Family Resource and Youth Services Center 759-9592, or the CCHS Youth Services Center (The Harbor) at 759-4255 immediately to let us know if you can participate this year so that we can give you set up times and/or other relevant information. We value your input and involvement.

Also note on your calendar — the next C.U.B.S. meeting will be Wednesday, Oct. 18, at 12 noon at the Curris Center ballroom. We will not send another mailing about this, so please do make a note to participate. We will not send another mailing about this, so please do make a note to participate. Community Resources Directories will again be available for participants, as will an index and cross reference, thanks to the efforts of Dewayne Harper from the Glendale Church of Christ.

Hospital to receive federal grant money

U.S. Senator Mitch McConnell announced today the Department of Energy has awarded the Murray-Calloway County Hospital a $162,200 federal grant.

The funds are the result of the DOE Institutional Conservation Program. This program, authorized by the National Energy Conservation Policy Act, provides grants for conservation projects to improve the energy efficiency of schools and beginning.

The grant will be used for adoption of energy savings procedures and for the purchase and installation of devices recommended by the earlier technical audits.

The grant will be matched by non-federal funds, and will enable the Murray-Calloway County Hospital to control future energy costs.

Mantle remembered at funeral

Fans pay last respects to slugger

By DENNE H. FREEMAN AP Sports Writer

DALLAS (AP) - Mickey Mantle will be remembered as a clutch player on the baseball field and a man who hit a homer in life's last at-bat.

That was the underlying theme Tuesday in a public funeral for the New York Yankees Hall of Mantle was praised for his great hitting prowess and how he performed as a human in his last

"It occurs to me as to me as we're all sitting here thinking of Mickey, he's probably somewhere getting an earful from Casey Stengel, and no doubt quite confused by now," NBC broadcaster Bob Costas said in a warm and moving eulogy that frequently had laughter echoing off the walls of Lovers Lane United Methodist Church.

Mantle was "the most compelling baseball hero of our life-time," Costas told the starstudded crowd. The gathering included acting commissioner Bud Selig, the Hall of Famer's former Yankees teammates, the governors of three states and ordinary fans who crowded into the church just to say goodbye.

And he was our symbol of baseball at a time when the game meant something to us that per-haps it no longer does," Costas

Those at the funeral came to celebrate Mickey Mantle's heroism, these old Yankees, fans and family. And not just the golden moments from his Hall of Fame career, but his brave, final inning.

About 1,200 people, some sitting on window sills, jammed the church for the nationally tele-vised service for Mantle, who died Sunday of liver cancer at

The light mahogany casket, covered in white roses, sat in front of several other arrangements of flowers, including a 7-foot-tall floral representation of Mantle's No. 7 with the tribute:

them all."

Costas spoke of how a generation idolized Mantle not just for his tape-measure home runs and his speed, but also of his vulnerability that touched fans' hearts.

'We knew there was something poignant about Mickey Mantle long before we knew what poignant meant," he said. "We didn't just root for him, we felt for him.

"He was our guy. When he was hot, we felt great. When he slumped or got hurt, we sagged a bit too. We tried to crease our caps like him; kneel in an imaginary on-deck circle like him: run like him heads down, elbows up," he said.

But Costas also spoke of Mantle's courage and honesty, which showed itself last year as he acknowledged decades of alcoholism left his liver so damaged that he required a trans-

At the end of his life, Mantle suffered pain that "wracked his body and his soul," Costas said. But then, he added, "Mickey Mantle rallied."

He praised "the sheer grace of that ninth inning, the humility, the sense of humor, the total absence of self-pity, the simple eloquence and honesty to tell others to take heed of his mistakes.'

'Our last memories of Mickey Mantle are as heroic as the first, he said. "None of us, Mickey included, would want to be held our lives. But how many of could say that our best moments were as magnificent as his?"

Derrick Cullors brings big-time ability to Racers

By STEVE PARKER

Temperatures are hovering near 100 degrees and 11 angry men are always chasing him, but it's hard for Derrick Cullors to stop smiling these days.

Cullors, a 6-0, 188-pound senior tailback, came to Murray State this summer with hopes of capping off a career that never fully materialized at Texas Christian.

"I'm happy I'm up here," said Cullors, who hails from Dallas, Texas. "I like the players, the team atmosphere and the coaches. It feels like a family up here. The coaches are behind you and they make you feel real comfortable.'

Cullors' speed and elusive running style have Racer coaches and players feeling real comfortable in the ex-Horned Frog.

"He's got a chance to go 70 (yards) any time. He can make you miss," said Racer running backs coach Danny Nutt. "He's the type of runner where you say, 'Uh oh, he may be gone.'

"He doesn't have an ounce of fat on him. He trains hard and this is his last year so he wants to go out strong.

Cullors had his career at TCU sidetracked by an ankle injury during the 1993 season opener at Oklahoma — rushing for 43 yards on four carries - and never got back on track, though he returned a kickoff 102 yards for a touchdown last year against Danny Nutt says that Cullors has already meant a lot to the program, even if he never takes a snap. Cullors has been a good example for young Racer tailbacks Tony Turner and Tim Scarborough.

"They're all looking at him," said Nutt. "They know what full speed is when they look at Derrick. From the first play of practice when we do our team drills, he's already at full speed.

"Even when there's not a defense out there, he's working on his moves. He's unreal."

Said Cullors: "My strength is making people miss. If I'm oneon-one with somebody I'm as good as gone. I don't let one person tackle me."

Turner, a junior who carried 41 times last season, is running in the No. 1 tailback slot early in camp, but Cullors is right on Turner's heels.

"I'm not really worried about what position I'm in, that's what two-a-days are for," said Cullors, who holds TCU's all-time record for yards per attempt — rush, catch, kick return. "I'm just going to wait and see what the coaches decide."

Had Cullors stayed at TCU, he'd likely be backing up junior all-American candidate Andre Davis, who took over the No. 1 tailback job when Cullors went down at Oklahoma.

"I felt like with the new (TCU) coaching staff coming in, they would have their minds set on the people that they wanted to play," said the senior. "They're good coaches, but TCU wasn't for me. I think I made the best move '

Cullors had a choice between several Division I-AA schools -Troy State, Grambling and Texas

Minnesota's Puckett disruptive to Junior's comeback in Seattle

By CHRIS SHERIDAN Sports Writer

The Seattle Mariners have Ken Griffey Jr. again, the New York Yankees added Darryl Strawberry and David Cone and the Texas Rangers reacquired Bobby Witt.

Three wild-card contenders, four good additions.

The fourth wild-card contender added a player, too, as Rob Dibble joined the Milwaukee Brewers.

So far, he hasn't been much of a help.

Dibble cost the Brewers a chance to move within a halfgame of the wild-card spot Tuesday night, and they won't have many more chances like it. The Brewers lost to Texas 3-2 while Griffey and the Mariners were losing a 7-6 heartbreaker at Minnesota on Kirby Puckett's three-run homer in the bottom of the ninth.

After tonight, the Brewers won't go head-to-head against another wild- card contender until Sept. 8, a fact that makes their loss to Texas all the more difficult to digest.

Milwaukee took a one-run lead in the top of the eighth, but Dibble (0-2) walked the first two hitters in the bottom of the inning. When pinch-hitters Luis Ortiz and Esteban Beltre hit RBI singles, the Brewers were on the wrong end of a 3-2

Wildcat running back Cullors... holds off competition

By MIKE EMBRY AP Sports Writer

LEXINGTON, Ky. (AP) -Raymond McLaurin is keeping a step ahead of the competition for starting tailback at Kentucky.

When Moe Williams and Donnell Gordon missed contact drills in spring practice while rehabilitating injured shoulders, McLaur-in used the opportunity to move up to No. 1 on the depth chart.

McLaurin was a dominating player during the scrimmages, rushing for 459 yards on 81 carries and scoring six touchdowns. He was selected the squad's Most Improved Offensive Back and won the team's Offensive Make-A-Difference Award for his

"We will have tremendous competition," Kentucky coach Bill Curry said of the battle at tailback in preseason camp. "It's complicated by Ray McLaurin. who showed up having gained 14 pounds and has actually lost body

But McLaurin knows that what happened in the spring doesn't guarantee a starting position in

"It just gives me one step ahead in the offense," said the 6-foot, 195-pound junior from Radcliff, Ky. "I know the backups are just as talented as myself."

Williams has been Kentucky's primary threat the past two seasons, rushing for 1,733 yards and nine touchdowns. And Gordon has been the main backup, gaining 315 yards and one touchdown on 52 rushes. Meanwhile, McLaurin has carried the ball just 17 times for 87 yards while waiting for the opportunity to show what he can do with the ball in his hands.

"'It's been frustrating," McLaurin said of his lack of playing time. "I just try to take it as it comes.'

Williams isn't surprised by McLaurin's emergence in the

"Ray has been doing it every-day in practice," he said. "We've always been competitive in practice. Ray has been good from day one."

McLaurin, a communications major, even considered transferring to another school when he felt he would be lost in the shuffle for playing time with Williams and Gordon.

"I thought about it a few times," he said. "But I've been here for awhile and I'll get my degree in December.

McLaurin, who will enter graduate school in January, has excelled in the classroom in being named to the Southeastern Conference's Academic Honor Roll the past two seasons.

$\blacksquare$ Mantle...

Country artist Roy Clark then sang a moving rendition of "Yesterday When I Was Young" — a song that Mantle himself loved and had requested be sung at his funeral.

Mantle's wife, Merlyn, held up well until Clark sang. Sobbing softly, she was supported by her three sons, Mickey Jr., David and Former Yankee teammate Bobby Richardson gave the sermon. saying that Mantle died in peace because he had found the Lord.

"Mickey is in God's Hall of Fame now," Richardson said. Pallbearers included former Yankee teammates Yogi Berra, Johnny Blanchard, Bill "Moose" Skowron, Whitey Ford and Bobby Murcer. After the service, they were whisked away in a limou-sine to the Sparkman-Hillcrest funeral home where Mantle was placed in a crypt alongside son, Billy, in private a ceremony.

Other guests at the church were Yankees' boss George Steinbrenner, Reggie Jackson, comedian Billy Crystal and the governors of New York, Georgia

"Coach (Houston) Nutt called me everyday, he was behind me in everything I did," said Cullors. "I had some (academic) problems at (TCU) and he was behind me all the way

CAMP NOTES: Two weeks before the Aug. 31 opener at Western Kentucky, the Racers are focusing mainly on timing and conditioning.

"Right now the offense is going in spurts," said backup quarterback Benji Bona. "We've got nine people doing things right an two doing it wrong. We've got to have all 11 on offense.

"It's coming slower than normal, but we're not off track by Defensively, the Racers have shown more quickness and aggressiveness with the addition of several new faces and the return of Anthony Hutch.

Though the heat has been a distraction, practices have been fairly crisp. However, junior linebacker Reuel Shepherd said dealing with the heat hasn't gotten any easier.

"It seems like it gets harder, because your body gets tired as the heat goes on," said Shepherd. "Every team (in the country) is battling the heat, and in some places it might even be hotter.

STATEMENT OF

NONDISCRIMINATION

West Kentucky Rural Telephone Coopera tive Corporation, Inc., is the recipient of Federal financial assistance from the Rural Electrification Administration, an agency of the U.S. Department of Agriculture, and is subject to the provision of Title VI of the Civil Rights Act of 1964, as amended, Section 504 of the Rehabilitation Act of 1973, as amended, the Age Discrimination Act of 1975, as amended, and the rules and regulations of the U.S. Department of Agriculture which provide that no person in the United States on the basis of race, color, national origin, age or handicap shall be excluded from participation in, admission or access to, denied the benefits of, or otherwise be subjected to discrimination under any of this organization's programs or activities.

The person responsible for coordinating this organization's nondiscrimination com-pliance efforts is Glen B. Sears, General Manager. Any individual, or specific class of individuals, who feels that this organization has subjected them to discrimination may obtain further information about the status and regulations listed above from and/or file

a written complaint with this organization; or the Secretary, U.S. Department of Agriculture, Washington, D.C. 20040; or the Administrator, Rural Electrification Administration, Washington, D.C. 20250. Complaints must be filed within 180 days after the alleged discrimination. Confidentiality will be maintained to the extent possible.

Church group encounters lightning

account of a group of young people and chaperons from Murray's First Christian Church, who had a very dangerous encounter with a lightning strike, while on a mission at Boone, N.C. for Habitat for Humanity.) By Amy Cooke

These are good kids, hardworking kids who planned to spend most of the week doing a lot of hard work and then getting to play a little," said Molly Young, youth director at the First Christian Church in Murray. 'We came to work hard on the home, but after the lightning strike we asked the kids if they wanted to go home. All of them want to stay, but some are having to rest instead of work."

Seven young people, along with three adult chaperons traveled from Murray in mid July to work on a Habitat for Humani-House in Boone, N.C. Before their work began, they traveled to Linville Falls to see some of the spectacular local scenery.

We had a picnic Sunday afternoon and when it became overcase and started rumbling thunder I thought it was no big deal," explained Young. "It started raining, just a little at first, then the rain got heavier and heavier.

"Next, there was a really, realloud explosion and some of the kids saw lightning in the sky and on the ground. Pieces of trees began to rain down on us from where a tree was hit and exploded. People began to scream and one of our adults was knocked to the ground, face down and stunned.'

Young is proud of the way the young people responded to the emergency by helping victims including an unconcious women from another party, and running to get help.

"It was a terrible feeling to have that vibration coming from inside your body and two of the kids got pretty big jolts. We had them all checked out at the hospital and, although they have to do more resting than they like, they will be just fine.'

Eddie and Judy Phelps were the other chaperons and the young volunteers, all high school seniors, are: Jeromy White, Gary White, Christine Griffiths, Carrie Griffiths, Julie Seefeldt, Derek Vander Molen and Tommy action. Through volunteer labor, management expertise, and tax deductible donations of money and materials, Habitat builds and rehabilitates homes with the help of the homeowners.

Construction is a cooperative effort. Volunteers and home families work together. Habitat relies heavily on volunteers to build homes and administer projects in this country and overseas.

Two homes have been bult in Watauga County, N.C. and five in Avery, N.C. during the last few years. This year, one home will be built for Joe and Donna Eller in Quail Meadows, off Dove Circle, near the intersection of Highway 105 Extension and Highway 421, behind Miller Ford. Habitat volunteers hope to have the home finished in time for the couple to move in by October 1, but rainy weather is causing delays.

Jim Furman and Tarheel Capital donated a brick house, now next door to the Ellers' underconstruction home, that was located behind Wendy's. Many people in town remember the beautiful rose gardens that bloomed there for decades. This home is currently for sale, with proceeds to benefit Habitat.

The Murray group began raising money several months ago to be able to pay their way to Boone and to make a donation to Habitat for Humanity. They will be busy all week stuccoing, tarring, capping blocks, moving dirt and doing whatever else needs to be

"We believe that we need to put our faith into action," said Young. "We firmly believe what scripture tell us - that you can talk all you want, but you are really called to put that into action. It is hard to express what working with these kids means. It is so uplifting to be around people people who love God so much.

On July 25, 10 Southwest Elementary primary teachers from Calloway County embarked on an adventure of a lifetime. This adventure was made possible due to an innovated science grant received by Southwest teachers.

Pat Cherry, Kathy Cleaver, Tammy Contri, Ellen Crady, Betty Hassell, Ann Herndon, Diana Jones, Kellye Olson, Becky Robertson and Debbie Stinnett participated in the Hands-On Teacher Program at The U.S. Space and Rocket Center in Huntsville, Ala.

After a tour of the museum and training facility, the teachers began their training with the shuttle orientation crew system briefing. In adition to the briefing, the teachers were given the opportunity to experience various strategies and techniques on effectively incorporating space exploration into the class-

As the week progressed the teachers experienced "Aviation Challenge." This phase of the training included such things as a simulated parachute drop from a 40 foot tower into the water and an escape from a sunken aircraft. The week concluded with training for missions Endeavour and

Discovery. Each teacher was given the opportunity to choose a position for each mission. The positions included: commander, pilot, mission specialists, space station specialists, and mission control. During each two hour mission, the teachers were evaluated on professionalism, teamwork, and time management. The Southwest teachers received outstanding evaluations for their efforts. With much enthusiasm the 10 teachers have returned home and named their three primary teams: Explorer, Discovery and Challenger. The teachers plan to use their 48 hours of educational instruction and hands-on application in the classroom by completing a year-long theme entitled "Sailing Into Space." The teams will "blast off" the year-long theme with The History of Space & Flight and will complete a successful mission with Mission Training.

Carrie Griffiths, age 17, is an experienced stucco worker. "I've done other Habitat houses and I've learned to stucco and roof and do siding. I love to do this kind of work and I want to show what God can do. When I saw the lightning bolt go right by my legs it made me wake up and realize I could have gone then, but I didn't so there's some reason for me to be here.

"My career goals include becoming a mechanical engineer or a surgeon and another goal is to be able to build my own house by the time I'm out of college. The Murray volunteers planned to make the most of their week in Boone, but warn that they will stop constuction work when the first thunder rumbles.

"We welcome all volunteers," said Edwards. "We need people to do all kinds of jobs from unskilled to expertise in laying block, roofing and later, plumbing and electric. We can always use people who want to help. If you don't want to do construction bring refreshments to the workers at the houses.

"We have people call and say they are going to be in Boone on vacation and would like to help. A family from Maine will be joining us this week.

"Although we can arrange other times, and we'd like people to call (262-1213 or 264-2441) first, volunteers will be working every Tuesday and Thursday this summer from 4 until 8.

"We have everyone from couples in their 70s to college students. Most volunteers have a great time and feel really good about helping someone to have a

"It is wonderful to help a family help themselves. When you become a home owner you feel really good about yourself. That self esteem helps the family and the whole community."

Watauga Habitat for Humanity can also use donations of building materials and, of course, money. "Everybody in the world deserves decent shelter. If we take care of our neighbors our entire community will be better.'

By Peter H. Gott, M.D.

DEAR DR. GOTT: I'm a healthy 29 ear-old male who works full time, but I can't seem to make enough money. What is your opinion of donating sperm and/or blood plasma? Is this a reasonable alternative to supplement

DEAR READER: You could certain ly supplement your income by donat-ing blood and/or sperm. To determine the need for such services in your community (and, hence, the amount of reimbursement), call your nearest teaching hospital or university-affiliat-

DEAR DR. GOTT: I've suffered with chronic back pain for several years. My diagnosis was a degenerative and rup-tured disc at L5-S1. I had back surgery and my doctor inserted pedicle-screws, facet nuts and attached a rod to the screws in my back. Since then, I've had severe pain and other complications My doctor now says if he removes the hardware, some of my symptoms might be relieved. My problem is that most of my pain was there before the surgery and mentally I'm unable to accept another procedure because of other health problems. Do you have this complex issue

DEAR READER: You are in a bind. Because you had a ruptured disc, you required surgery. However, the operation left you with more pain. Naturally, you are unwilling to undergo another procedure that may or may not help you.

Not being a neurosurgeon or ortho-pedic specialist, I am not qualified to advise you about a specific approach. Therefore, I urge you to obtain a second opinion from super-specialists in a teaching center. Perhaps your pain could be controlled by a TENS unit, a small machine that administers tiny electrical shocks. Or, maybe, acupunc ture or hypnosis might assist you.

At the very least, you should be actively pursuing a program of physical therapy and rehabilitation. Finally, the super-specialists could resolve the issue of whether or not to have addi-

Only baby aspirin might be given in the case of severe pain, and not for prolonged use.

When our youngest daughter was in high school, we were walking outside a local supermarket and she oticed a wallet on the pavement She picked it up and we looked inside for identification. We went right home and she called the oman to tell her that she had found the wallet. As the woman lived in the area, she came over to our house a short time later.

Instead of thanking our daughter for finding the wallet and returning it to her with everything in it, the woman looked at our daughter and said, "I called all the credit card companies so the cards can't be used." With that, she took. her wallet, and without another word, left our house

DEAR UNAPPRECIATED: Don't judge all people by the example of the ungracious owner of the wallet. Ninety-nine percent of the population would have spoken with heartfelt grat-itude. And I'll bet three-quarters would have offered a reward.

DEAR ABBY: You told "Unappreciated in Alamogordo, N.M." not to let one rude, ungrateful person sour her on the entire human race. (She had found a wallet belonging to an 18-year-old girl, and the girl didn't even thank her.)

Sorry, Abby, but this is just one of the signs of our times. I know how she feels. I found wallets twice in the past year. Both belonged to teen-agers. One was in high school and the other in college. I called them up and told them I had found their wallets. They both came and picked them up without so much as

Like "Unappreciated," I didn't expect a reward, even though there was money in the wallets, but it would have been nice if they had offered or even said "Thank you for your trouble."

I will never forget when I was about 8 years old. I found a wallet lying on the main street of our small town in Iowa. I took it home, and the owner turned out to be a sweet little old lady who said it was her life savings ($100). And out of her life savings of $100, she gave

Several years ago on Maui, on Thanksgiving Eve, a neighbor knocked frantically on my door shouting, "The house next door is on fire!" I grabbed my shop fire extinguisher and ran barefoot into the smoke-filled house.

The electric power was out, but I could see that the fire was confined to the kitchen. The extinguisher doused the flames; however they flared up just before the fire department arrived.

The fire department and police credited me with saving the home while they were en route. As one fireman thanked me, he mentioned that if I had owned a bigger fire extinguisher, they wouldn't have needed to call the fire department. The homeowner overheard the remark and shouted at me, "Next time, buy a better extinguisher," and walked away. She never even thanked me, and to add insult to injury, the fire department kept my extinguisher!
