EDC kicks off industry recruitment effort here

By EDWARD SHERIDAN
Staff Writer

It did not take long for the Murray-Calloway County Economic Development Corporation (EDC) to get efforts underway to try and replace Mattel-Murray.

The EDC announced earlier this month it would be allocating $250,000 for the purpose of beginning a recruiting effort to replace Mattel, which will be shutting down sometime next year.

The first fruits of that funding was evident at Thursday's meeting of the Murray City Council, as EDC President Melvin Henley introduced the man who will be responsible for finding the people who will, hopefully, bring the next big industry to Murray.

John M. Lovorn Jr., a consultant with the Tupelo, Miss., based executive search firm, The Pace Group, presented council members with a confidential questionnaire Thursday that will help give him a better idea of what type of business Murray's community leaders would like to see come to town.

"He has been hired to find an individual or a firm to bring in to help locate a company here," Elias said. "This is the first of several steps. He's going around the community and talking to different businessmen and officials to figure out what it is we're looking for here."

Lovorn said his work in Murray will consist of two steps. The first will be to bring individuals or firms that are in the business of recruiting industries to Murray to meet with an EDC commission formed to address the Mattel situation. The second step will be to present that committee with a 50-step program to utilize the Mattel facility.

"You have a good community," Lovorn said. "You have many assets. What we want to do is build on those assets ... and identify three or four organizations that can help lead to more jobs in this community."

What Lovorn will not be doing, however, is attempting to recruit a new major employee to Murray himself.

"He's here to find some companies who specialize in recruiting industries," Elias said. "This gentleman is not recruiting industries. It's a step before the actual recruiting."

Lovorn, Henley and other EDC officials are scheduled to meet with Mattel officials today (Friday) to try and get an idea of what the company is going to do with its Murray facility. That, Henley said, will help shape any future recruiting plans.

"What the economic development commission would like is for them to donate that building to us, and that is not unheard of," Henley said. "But we don't know if they will entertain this idea or not."

"They'd like to get rid of the building, for sure."

Henley stressed, though, that today's meeting with Mattel officials is more than likely not going to supply very many concrete answers for the future. "We don't know what their attitude will be in terms of us being involved in the marketing of the building," he said. "We may not develop that (today)."

In the meantime, the EDC will be using Kentucky Cabinet for Economic Development grant funds to try and get a program off the ground that will help jump-start Murray's small business sector.

Committee rejects church bid for former post office

By EDWARD SHERIDAN
Staff Writer

For the moment, at least, First Baptist Church will not be purchasing the Miller Courthouse Annex. The question still remains, though, of who will be allowed to buy the building that once housed Murray's post office.

A committee appointed by the Calloway County Fiscal Court, which technically owns the building, rejected a $125,000 bid submitted by the church. The committee will pass its recommendation on to the fiscal court, which is scheduled to meet May 15, for the final decision.

"The committee decided that bid wasn't high enough," said Calloway County Judge-Executive Larry Elkins. "The court will consider the committee's recommendation. It's possible that we'll re-bid it."

The committee's recommendation throws the door open once again to the possibility that the annex could be purchased by the Main Street Murray program. That scenario can only play out, however, if the program receives a $1 million grant from the state.

"The grant is pending in Frankfort," said Robin Taffler, Main Street Murray director. "I'm going to Frankfort on Monday and Tuesday, and I hope to get some more information at that time."

The $1 million Main Street Murray is applying for is part of a larger $6 million pool available from the state.

"They're going to hand out substantial grants," Taffler said. "It's not going to be like $100,000 here and $100,000 there."

Main Street Murray is proposing to turn the building into the Calloway County Renaissance Center, which would house the Murray-Calloway County Chamber of Commerce, the Murray Tourism Commission, the Murray State University Small Business Development Center, the Murray-Calloway County Economic Development Corporation, and the Main

Hampton to retire as MHS principal

By MORGAN HARDY
Staff Writer

Six years ago, Dan Hampton's career travels took him to Murray High School after a lifetime of work in Kentucky schools.

Now, after 28 years of service to Kentucky students, six of them as principal at MHS,

Hampton will retire from the system, but not from education. He will take a post in Georgia as principal beginning this fall, where he hopes he will be able to enjoy as positive a tenure as he has in Murray.

"After the first year, we developed a kinship and a common goal," Hampton said. "We have one thing in mind here: We're going to do what's best for kids. That's not always the most popular thing with adults, but if it's the best thing for kids, that's what we're going to do."

During his time at Murray, Hampton put together a program, TIGER CORPS, designed for students who are at risk for dropping out of school. One of the goals of the school he will be taking over, Hampton said, is improved dropout prevention. He said he hopes to take the model of TIGER CORPS with him when he leaves and bring its effectiveness to the new high school.

"One of the things that I'm most proud of here is that this program has kept a lot of kids in school who probably wouldn't be chosen to be here," he said. "But the thing I'm most proud of is my relationship with the students."

That theme is echoed by many

Anti-smoking campaign urges tobacco company workers to quit jobs

ORLANDO, Fla. (AP) — Quit your job!

That's the message the state of Florida is sending in full-page newspaper ads directed at tobacco company employees.

The ad — part of a state campaign to reduce teen-age smoking — was published Thursday in Charlotte, N.C., Louisville, Ky., New York and Richmond, Va., where Philip Morris Inc., R.J. Reynolds Tobacco Co. and Brown & Williamson Tobacco Corp. have corporate offices or nearby plants.

The campaign is funded by the state's $11.3 billion settlement with cigarette makers and is administered by the Health Department.

The ads, costing $129,617, incorporated Take Our Daughters to Work Day, which was Thursday.

"On Take Your Daughter to Work Day, Would You?" the ads began. "Today 3,000 young people will start smoking. 1,200 people will die from tobacco. And someone, somewhere will decide they've had enough of working for the tobacco industry. We'd like to make sure it's a decision that doesn't go unnoticed. So if you're out there, please call 1(866)929-9222, and let your daughter see you for what you really are. A hero."

The ads show an image of a worker on a cigarette assembly line. The ads were placed in Charlotte's Creative Loafing weekly, The Courier-Journal in Louisville, the national edition of The New York Times and the Richmond Times-Dispatch.

NASA awaiting word for mission extension

SPACE CENTER, Houston (AP) — Space shuttle Endeavour will spend at least one extra day at the international space station after downed computers delayed tests of a new robot arm.

NASA extended Endeavour's 11-day mission by two days, however the second day is contingent on Russian space officials agreeing to delay Saturday's launch of a Russian Soyuz spacecraft, needed as a fresh lifeboat at the station.

That Soyuz launch — carrying two Russian cosmonauts and the world's first paying space tourist, California millionaire Dennis Tito — would have to be held off at least until Sunday to allow Endeavour to remain at the station until Monday.

Both spacecraft can't be docked at the station at the same time because the Soyuz would come "uncomfortably close" to Endeavour's tail on approach, said shuttle flight director Phil Engelauf.

On the space station early Friday, one of the command-and-control computers used to operate the new robot arm was working after two days of troubleshooting. Mission Control loaded software into one of the backups and planned to replace the second backup with a spare computer at the station.

Flight controllers wanted to ensure at least two computers were working before trying to move the new arm in case one failed.

All other systems on the station were working properly, officials said.

"You guys get some good sleep. It's well deserved," Endeavour commander Kent Rominger told Mission Control's overnight crew.

The computer problems postponed the new 58-foot arm's hand-off of its 3,000-pound packing crate to a smaller arm attached to Endeavour.

Endeavour's arm was to place the crate in the shuttle's cargo bay for the return trip to Earth.

The handoff originally was planned for Wednesday. Officials said that if two of the computers were working, a 50-foot shuttle arm would detach Italian-built cargo carrier Raffaello from the station and put it in Endeavour's payload bay to return to Earth. The hand-off would take place on Saturday.

Kentucky Briefs

BOWLING GREEN, Ky. (AP) — A fraternity at Western Kentucky University has been sanctioned and fined by its national headquarters for hazing pledges.

Kappa Alpha Psi has suspended for five years and fined $1,000 after five pledges were allegedly paddled in February, WKCT reported.

School officials are already investigating the incident. The fraternity's national headquarters will also conduct a probe.

Western Kentucky has a "zero tolerance" policy for hazing, said Charley Pride, the school's student organization advisor.

Agriculture Dept. pledges to pay for diseased livestock

WASHINGTON (AP) — The government encouraged farmers to report any signs of foot-and-mouth disease, promising Thursday to pay fair market value for any livestock killed as a result.

The virus, which is highly contagious, has devastated Britain's livestock industry this spring. Related outbreaks in France, the Netherlands and Ireland have been contained.

"If you don't get early detection and an early hit, we won't look like France, we'll look like England," Agriculture Secretary Ann Veneman said.

CLINTON, Ky. (AP) — A 21-year-old Clinton man was found innocent Wednesday of complicity to second-degree facilitation to arson in connection with the July 1998 fire that destroyed about three-fourths of Hickman County Elementary School.

Mitchell Combs was arrested in April 2000 along with Johnathon Tynes, 19, of Clinton. Tynes pleaded guilty in January to second-degree arson. His sentencing is May 17. The eight-woman, four-man jury deliberated for about 90 minutes before returning the verdict around noon.

Bid ...

Street Murray offices.

The rejection of the $125,000 bid, however, did not necessarily close the bidding process to the church, although Terry Garvin, associate pastor at First Baptist Church, said there are no current plans to re-bid.

"Our church has not made a decision on that yet," Garvin said. "The committee rejected the bid, but not the fiscal court. We're not doing anything right now."

The committee's reasoning behind rejecting the church's bid was based on an appraisal of the building performed by local appraiser, Kenny Darnell. Darnell believed that the building should be appraised at approximately $25-$30 per square foot. The church's $125,000 bid translated into roughly $20 per square foot.

Main Street Murray, meanwhile, is having the building appraised by the Kentucky Department of Transportation as a contingency of the program submitting its grant application to the state. Taffler said the state appraiser "should have a figure on that very soon."

Taffler said news of whether Main Street Murray has been approved for the grant will probably not arrive until June. In the meantime, she remains confident that the program will receive the funding.

"Based on our track record, I think they will look on us favorably with this grant," Taffler said. "We're just doing what they're asking us to do."

"Our only interest is in preserving that building."

House passes first abortion-related bill

WASHINGTON (AP) — A House-passed bill that would make it a federal crime to harm a fetus during an assault on a pregnant woman now goes to the Senate, where a similar measure foundered last year.

The House passed the bill Thursday 252-172, almost identical to the 254-172 margin by which it was passed last year. The vote followed an emotional debate that delved deeply into abortion rights. Supporters characterized the bill as an anti-crime measure and sought to minimize its ramifications on the abortion issue. Opponents called the legislation an attempt by conservatives to chip away at abortion rights guaranteed in the Supreme Court's 1973 Roe v. Wade decision.

Hampton ...

of Hampton's colleagues and pupils, who universally say they'll miss Hampton's personal touch in dealings with students.

"He's very oriented towards the students," MHS resource officer Jerry Lee said. "I'm going to miss him a lot. He was a big asset to Murray High School."

"He was a fine boss, but much more of a personal friend," he said.

That, Hampton said, is an example of what he has tried to foster in all of his staff during his six years at MHS.

"I've had a very special relationship with Jimmy Harrell, who's been the assistant principal ever since my second year here," he said. "We've almost reached that point where we can read each other's thoughts and don't even have to ask when something needs to be done. I'm very proud of the staff that I've hired since I've been here. It's vital to surround yourself with really good people not only at the faculty level, but all the way up and down the line."

"Of course, I'm extremely proud of the teachers I've hired since I've been here. If the school I go to has as good a faculty as the one here, I'll be thrilled."

Amy McDowell, MHS business teacher, has only been in her position for six months at the high school, but still values Hampton's personal touch in dealings with faculty and students.

"He's been just extremely supportive," she said. "The kids can relate to him. He's just a real person to the kids. When they're choosing the next principal, that'll be in the back of their minds, someone who can relate to kids that way."

For some students, Hampton's influence doesn't stop at the double doors of Murray High School. While he's been here, Hampton has also been active in the community, coaching Little League teams, and other activities.

"He's been my baseball coach several times," Jonathan Hedges, MHS junior, said. "If I needed anything, he'd do it for me ... I wish he'd stay here and be there for my senior year."

"He'll be missed big time. If you had a problem, he was the first person you'd go to."

EDC ...

The city council approved a resolution authorizing the city to serve as the receiver of $500,000 in state funds that will go to the EDC to help establish what Henley called a "high-tech entrepreneurial center."

"(The $500,000) will, hopefully, be matched out of the Kentucky High Tech Fund that was established during the last legislature, and we hope to have $2 or $3 million available to help in identifying individuals who have a business that hasn't gotten off the ground," Henley said.

No site for the center has been selected, according to Henley, but since the EDC will also be working with Murray State University's Small Business Development Center to establish the center, the university could wind up supplying a facility for the project.

Once a site has been chosen, Henley said the center will focus on small businesses in Murray that may have had trouble getting off the ground because of a lack of adequate facilities.

"(The business will) be analyzed by a team or committee, and, if it is found to have probable merit in terms of being sellable to the public, then we'll furnish space for the development of that project," Henley said. "We would wean (the business) away from that as the cash flow begins to come in."

In other business, the council:

- Approved the second reading of an ordinance annexing the Caloway County Country Club, 2200 College Farm Road, into the Murray city limits. The council also approved a recommendation from the Murray Planning Commission to zone the country club's property as agricultural.

- Approved the second reading of an ordinance rezoning a tract of land owned by Howard Brandon at 1421 N. 16th St., from single-family residential to highway business.

- Approved the second reading of an ordinance changing the time of city council meeting from 7:30 p.m. to 6:30 p.m.

- Accepted a bid from CWI to transfer and dispose of the city's solid waste. The approval is contingent on making sure the company can legally transport certain materials from Vanderbilt Chemical.

Dear Mom,

I've been having lots of fun at Camp Woodmen. I especially liked paddling the canoe and swimming. Yesterday, I made a present for you in arts and crafts. Tomorrow we get to eat and sing around a campfire. I met a new friend named Tommy. We have been doing all kinds of fun stuff together and I haven't even been in trouble either. Can I come again next year? I miss you.

Volunteer Week Recognition

Editor's Note: The following are special recognitions to volunteers at numerous agencies in Murray and Calloway County, provided to the Ledger & Times. They are recognized as part of National Volunteer Week this week.

Calloway County Family Resource Center would like to pay special tribute to Sharon Bybee, who has been a volunteer with the center since it was established 9 1/2 years ago. Bybee's most noteworthy service is in helping establish and continue coordination of the Community Resource Fair Clothing Exchange for nine consecutive years. Her volunteer service also includes current parent representation on the Calloway County Youth Service Center Advisory Council, and former parent representation on the Family Resource Center Council.

Need Line recognizes the contributions of volunteer Maxine Houston. Houston's volunteer responsibilities include greeting clients, answering the telephone, gathering information for caseworker interviews of clients, stocking shelves, and preparing food bags for distribution.

United Way of Murray-Calloway County recognizes the volunteer efforts of Lisa Shoemaker-Clinton. She has served as co-chair of the 2000-01 United Way Campaign with Tab Brockman. As the 2001-02 campaign chair, she is involved in organizing the first United Way Antique Show.

Her other volunteer commitments include Relay for Life (three years) and the American Heart Association (10 years).

Rape Crisis Center recognizes Lois Ruiz in her role as a volunteer. Ruiz assists victims of sexual assault in the emergency room at Murray-Calloway County Hospital, as well as providing support to victims through the center's 24-hour crisis line. She also gathers donations of needed clothing and toiletry items, and helps with other victim assistance programs.

Ruiz has been a volunteer with the Rape Crisis Center since 1997, logging more than 1,200 hours per year.

Calloway County Senior Citizens volunteer Bob Ragan delivers Meals on Wheels two days per week, but also fills in and runs the entire county route when needed. Ragan is a member of the Senior Citizens program board.

Parents Anonymous of Murray and Calloway County recognizes Tonia Casey, whose involvement includes serving as a co-facilitator of the parents group, as well as Parents Anonymous board member.

Though busying as director of Need Line, Kathie Gentry still finds time to volunteer with the Transitional Home, where she serves as secretary for the board of directors. She also supervises the Americorps members who work with the home, and is a co-contact for applicants and residents.

In addition, she volunteers her time with CUBS (Calloway United Benevolent Services) as its co-vice-chair.

Calloway County Literacy Project volunteer Lois Pharris was recently named Volunteer of the Year by the Kentucky Federation of Women's Clubs. Pharris has been a volunteer tutor with the Literacy Project for five years. She has taught both one-on-one and small groups of Literacy and ESL (English as a Second Language) students.

She is also an additional volunteer with relay for Life, United Way, teen substance abuse, the Angels Community Clinic, and the elderly.

The local chapter of the American Red Cross recognizes the services of volunteer Larry Doyle, a volunteer blood drive coordinator and member of the Calloway County Chapter of the Red Cross board of directors.

Dolores Wells was recognized recently at the CASA volunteer of the year at the Light of Hope Banquet, April 19. Wells is a court-appointed special advocate since the program was established in Calloway County approximately three years ago. In her volunteer role, Wells provides a voice in court for abused and neglected children.

She has been a volunteer with the Calloway County Family Resource Center for many years and currently serves as a home visitor and recreation director with Parent Power.

Main Street Youth Center recognizes volunteers Billy and Kari Wilcher, who open the center and work with the youth.

As strong Christians, Mr. Wilcher volunteers his time as a youth pastor at Higher Praise.

W.A.T.C.H., Inc. recognizes Della Miller for her service. Miller has served on the W.A.T.C.H. board of directors for 14 years, has chaired the W.A.T.C.H. Charity Golf Tournament for 13 of those years, during which the tournament has raised nearly $90,000.

Carolyn Green is recognized for her volunteer work with the Angels Community Clinic. In spite of cancer and chemotherapy, Green volunteers approximately 40 hours per week, part of the time at Angels Clinic, and the remainder at Murray-Calloway County Hospital.

With the Clinic, Green is responsible for the indigent drug program paperwork requests and documentation for more than 300 patients. Due to her efforts, more than $50,000 worth of prescription medications have been donated for clinic use by 15 pharmaceutical companies.

Erika Trenholm is recognized for her service to the Murray Family/Youth Resource Center. She helped organize Murray High student volunteers to assist with the Community Resource Fair and Make A Difference Days, as well as Little Buddy/Big Buddy match-ups for Murray Elementary School.

The Humane Society recognizes Dan Farris and Jo McKinney. McKinney has been active in various volunteer responsibilities with the Humane Society including past membership chair, past board member, volunteer for and donor to the society's Holiday Bazaar and Bake Sale.

In his sixth year as mayor of Hazel, Farris has helped set up yard sales and bazaars, and is known as "the voice" of the "Bark in the Park" event.

Cheryl Hicks is recognized by the local Girl Scouts for her service as troop leader of 21 Cadette Scouts. Hicks serves as a council trainer with Daisy, Brownie, and Junior level scout leaders. As service unit secretary, she keeps other leaders updated on meetings, events, etc.

Hicks is also a voting delegate to the annual meeting of the Council, and the ombudsman for Girl Scout leaders in this 12-county service center.

Busy agenda dealt with by Foundation board

The Community Healthcare Foundation of Murray-Calloway County Hospital dealt with a busy agenda at its April 18 board meeting — the first foundation board meeting since September 1999, when the foundation was created under its current name and board member structure.

MCCH President/CEO Isaac Coe was on hand to discuss the hospital board's charge to move forward with the operation of the foundation and to outline the process for the upcoming lawsuit to be filed by the Calloway County Fiscal Court against MCCH for the transfer of $1.7 million to the foundation.

Coe is hopeful that the suit will be filed soon with a declaratory judgment ruling given by the Circuit Judge within 60 to 90 days.

Coe addressed the group in the public meeting of the board, which had added Judge-Executive Larry Elkins and Mayor Fred Curd as new members last month. Foundation board members present included Curd, Ken Winters, Gina Winchester, Don Henry, Joe Dick and Jim Garrison, as well as ex-officio members Coe, Louie Vetter and Kathie Pierce.

Vetter, the chief financial officer at MCCH, provided a financial report that included explanation of money transferred from MCCH. He noted that $569,937 was received from the Dr. David Barrett estate; $836,682 from a 20-plus year restricted insurance liability account; and a 5 percent hospital title from 1998 amounting to $280,259.

The organizational structure of the foundation was outlined by Ken Winters, chair of the foundation's development council. Each committee chair gave a brief update of the function of their committee.

There was consensus among the foundation board for receiving hospice donations through the foundation and implementing the same policies and procedures in acknowledgment of gifts. These donations would be treated as restricted gifts in the same manner as other restricted gifts to the foundation.

Members also discussed the purchase of Automated External Defibrillators (AED) to be placed in various sections of our county to decrease the amount of response time when someone has a sudden cardiac arrest. The hospital board previously sanctioned this outreach program for seniors.

Statistics prove that early intervention may impact the success of saving lives.

Residents in numerous areas of the county could benefit from establishment on non-medical volunteer being trained and equipped with an AED. Hospital representative are pursuing this endeavor by working with representative of the volunteer fire departments, DES, sheriff's department, Hazel Fire Department and other key persons.

The group discussed recommendations that seek approval for an additional foundation board member(s) who would represent the local medical staff. Numerous suggestions have been received by the board. Input will be gathered from other foundations regarding their board makeup prior to making a final decision.

The next meeting of the Community Healthcare Foundation Board will be held in July, with the exact date to be determined and appropriately publicized later.

The public is encouraged to attend the July meeting, which will include an orientation for hospital board and foundation board members regarding overall purpose and strategic planning for the foundation.

President, Congress learning to get along

By DAVID ESPO
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — By the numbers, the congressional scorecard for President Bush's first 100 days in office includes all 535 lawmakers invited to the White House, the Cabinet confirmed in full and one substantive piece of legislation signed into law.

And high-priority tax and education bills are undergoing renovation in Congress, their outcome to be determined over the next 100 days.

"The good news for us is that Congress, on our agenda, is moving pretty rapidly," says Karl Rove, Bush's chief political strategist.

The bad news for the new administration is that the Senate is divided 50-50 along party lines, and Democrats have warmed quickly to the task of opposing the president. That leaves little margin for administration error, as evidenced by the two tie-breaking votes cast by Vice President Dick Cheney so far, as well as a jarring defeat in which the Senate sliced $400 billion off Bush's $1.6 trillion, 10-year tax cut.

"The budget experience was pure confrontation," Senate Democratic Leader Tom Daschle of South Dakota said. "Their strategy, of course, was to peel off a couple of Democrats and they lost."

The opposite has been true on education, the second high-profile issue Bush presented to Congress.

"We've come a long way together. Education is the President's priority, and it's our priority, too," said Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, of Massachusetts, senior Democrat on the Committee on Health, Education, Labor and Pensions.

The two parties remain far apart on education funding, but Kennedy said, "I'm confident that we can reach agreement on the remaining issues."

With other controversial issues just over the horizon — legislation to strengthen the rights of HMO patients; prescription drug coverage under Medicare; a minimum wage increase — Democrats in particular will be watching to find out whether the White House is striving for party-line passage or bipartisan cooperation.

Democratic leaders were to mark Bush's first 100 days with a news conference at which, party sources say, they will accuse the president of largely spurning bipartisanship.

Education and taxes aside, Bush has already found himself dealing with issues that were low on his agenda. Answering pressure from Senate Republicans, he signed legislation to roll back Clinton-era guidelines for workplace injuries arising from repetitive motion.

He issued principles for campaign finance legislation, but the Senate largely ignored them. Bush indicated he might sign the bill anyway.

Bush has labored hard to establish friendly relations with Congress, including Democrats who are openly resentful of his victory in last winter's 36-day recount.

"I'm here to tell the country that things will get done, that we're going to rise above expectations, that both Republicans and Democrats will come together to do what's right for America," Bush said at a luncheon in the Capitol on Inauguration Day.

Nearly 300 lawmakers have been to the White House, and Bush flew to Pennsylvania one weekend to appear at a closed-door House Democratic retreat. The president has invited all 535 members of Congress to lunch at the White House next week to mark his 100 days in office.

Bush has also demonstrated a personal touch, and not only by bestowing nicknames on lawmakers.

He invited House Democratic Leader Dick Gephardt of Missouri to a birthday lunch and gave him a cake and a book about baseball great Joe DiMaggio. He had Kennedy and his extended family to the White House watch to a new movie about the Cuban Missile Crisis, John F. Kennedy's greatest triumph as president.

"The president has changed the tone in Washington — he's raised it," House Majority Leader Dick Armey of Texas wrote in a memo to the GOP rank and file earlier this month.

Republican unity has been striking. The president's budget drew the support of all but three Republicans in the House, and legislation to implement his across-the-board tax cuts and marriage penalty relief drew unanimous support from the House GOP.

In the Senate, all 50 Republicans supported John Ashcroft in his bruising, successful battle for confirmation as attorney general.

The tax cut drew the support of all but two or three Republicans. But with Democrats almost unanimous in their opposition, the Senate voted to shave $400 billion off the cut.

An eye for a lie; a tooth for the truth?

Responding to Israel's attack late Monday on Palestinian terrorist positions in the Gaza Strip, Secretary of State Colin Powell blamed the Palestinian side and their unprovoked mortar attack on Israel for the new outbreak of violence.

He also blamed Hezbollah guerillas in Lebanon for triggering an Israeli attack on radar installations in Lebanon that are operated by Syrians. It was a welcome change from the "blame Israel first" behavior of previous administrations.

But then, in the usual moral equivalency that has characterized past administrations, Secretary Powell said Tuesday that Israel is failing to live up to its part of the 1993 Oslo peace accords and that her response to continued terrorist attacks and harassment, including the latest actions in Gaza, were "excessive and disproportionate."

Perhaps Secretary Powell would like to publish a handbook for Israel's military and political leadership that spells out what America thinks an appropriate response might be for a people whose enemies want to eradicate Israel as a nation and exterminate the Jews who dwell there.

If a terrorist bomb kills, say, 10 Jewish civilians, what would Mr. Powell consider an appropriate response? Should it be the biblical formula of an eye for an eye — 10 Palestinians for 10 Jews?

Secretary Powell should enlighten Israel and the world concerning Israel's alleged "violations" of the Oslo agreement. In the May 1993 exchange of letters between Yasser Arafat and the late Israeli Prime Minister Yitzhak Rabin, recognition of the Palestinians was based on their halting violence.

How can it be said that Israel, which has given up a considerable amount of land in compliance with Oslo, has not lived up to the accords while the Palestinian side, which has not halted the violence, is somehow in compliance?

Former Prime Minister Ehud Barak offered virtually the entire West Bank and up to half of Jerusalem, but that wasn't enough for Yasser Arafat, which ought to inform Powell and everyone else what the real objective is. It is not a part, not a piece, not a percentage, but all of the land the Palestinians want.

Prime Minister Ariel Sharon quickly ordered his forces out of Gaza. He denied U.S. pressure was the cause, but that's difficult to believe given the stated purpose of the Gaza incursion, which was to take out the mortar positions. Brig. Gen. Ron Kitrey told Israeli Radio, "We are not speaking of occupation, we are speaking of taking control (of the Gaza Strip). We are speaking of a shifting of the Palestinian territory of a few hundred meters (yards) up to a kilometer (half a mile) in certain places." Kitrey said his troops could stay "a few more days," until the Palestinian Authority restored order among its own people.

That didn't happen when rhetorical missiles were launched at Israel from Washington. The violence, which the incursion was designed to stop, continued.

Israeli Channel One reported Tuesday night that attacks against Israel resumed from inside the Gaza Strip and that heavy shooting occurred in Hebron, which Israel ceded to the Palestinians in 1997 as part of the land-for-peace mentality. Palestinians got the land. Israel is still looking for the peace.

President Bush has repeatedly stated that violence must cease before peace negotiations can continue. He has said the Palestinian side could stop the violence if it wants to.

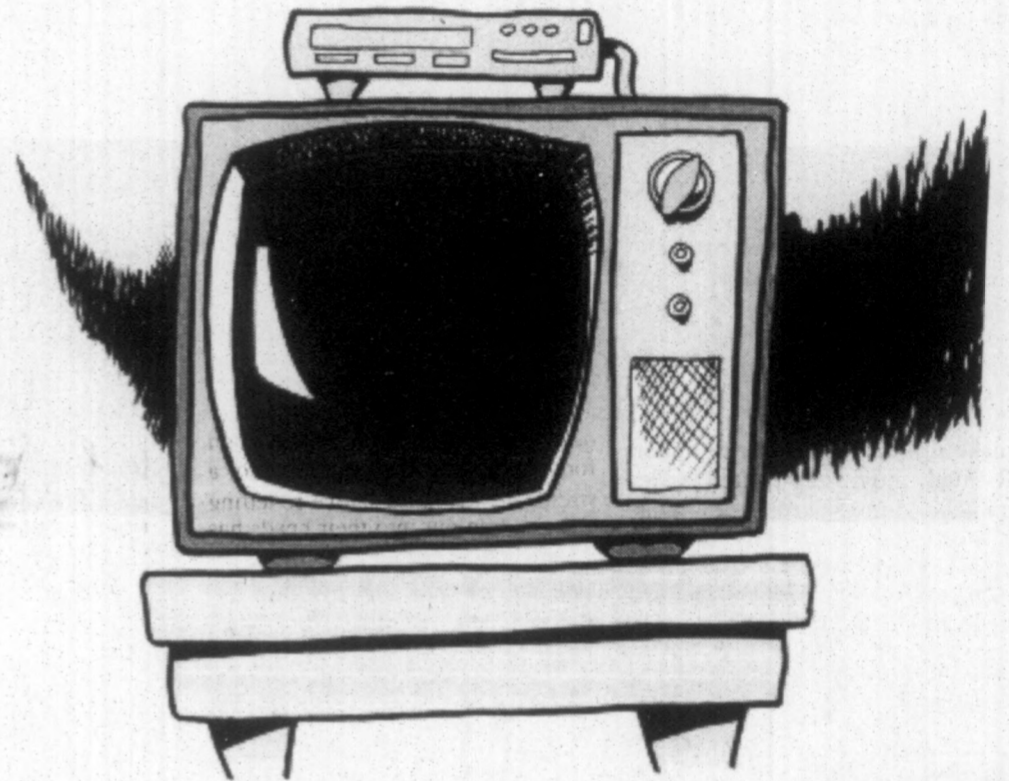

The problem now, as it has always been, is that much of the world considers modern Israel illegitimate. Many people have such a poor view of history that they believe Israel is the cause of tension and instability throughout the region, and if Israel would just do what its enemies want, they would be placated and peace would follow.

That approach was tried with another man who hated Jews. The man was Adolph Hitler. The appeaser was Neville Chamberlain. The result was World War II.

Peace through strength is all that dictators and tyrants understand. Israel should be allowed to defend herself and not be second-guessed until her enemies decide to beat their swords into ploughshares instead of beating Israelis into graves.

Flooding renews wall debate

By KEN THOMAS
Associated Press Writer

DAVENPORT, Iowa (AP) — In a town where manicured walkways line the riverbank for miles and summer jazz festivals draw hundreds of thousands of people to the water's edge, it's hard for residents like Kami Rathburn to imagine a long cement floodwall blocking the view.

"It's worth it to have access to the sight of the river," Rathburn, 24, said.

Their only view right now, however, is of a 1,200-foot-long clay-and-sandbag levee. Flooding has pushed the Mississippi River to a crest of 22.3 feet, its third-highest level on record and third flood in the past decade — yet the city has rejected permanent flood control.

Many business owners are saying enough is enough. "In a business district like this, you shouldn't have to go through this every four years," said Kenny Hagge, a furniture store owner who moved his showroom upstairs after the 1993 flood.

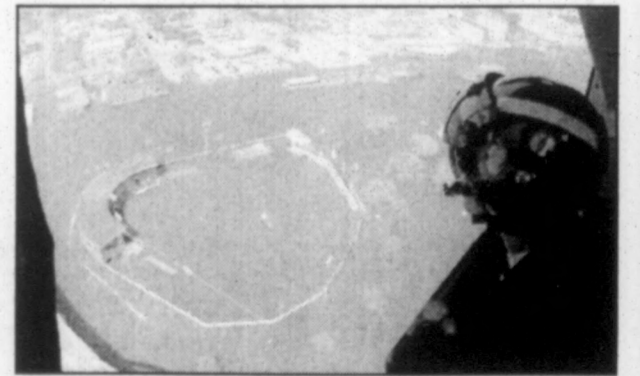

It's an argument of money vs. beauty that's not expected to subside anytime soon. Record flooding in 1993 cost Davenport an estimated $100 million, and Federal Emergency Management Agency aid to the region swelled to $1.2 billion.

FEMA director Joe Albaugh, a straight-talking Midwesterner who grew up in tornado-prone Oklahoma, has chided Davenport for not building a floodwall long ago. The city of 98,300 is the largest urban area on the upper Mississippi without one.

"I mean, the question is: How many times will the American taxpayer have to step in and take care of this flooding, which could be easily prevented by building levees and dikes?" Albaugh said.

The government's point man on natural disasters was to inspect flood damage along the river Thursday, and meet with Gov. Tom Vilsack and Mayor Phil Yarrington.

Unlike its neighbors, including Dubuque and Rock Island, Ill., Davenport has opposed a permanent flood barrier to avoid obstructing the river view. Tourism, much of it river-based, brings $100 million annually to the Quad Cities — Davenport, Bettendorf, Rock Island and Moline, Ill.

In 1984, the Davenport City Council voted against a floodwall that would have cost $33.8 million, with the city paying 35 percent of the cost. A new wall could cost $50 million.

Allbaugh's criticism angered Yarrington. "We pay our share of the load," Yarrington said. "I feel sometimes the people in this area have been singled out and are punished just because we happen to live along the river."

Some residents question whether a floodwall would even be feasible, also noting the city's antiquated system of storm sewers, which have backed up and flooded inland roads throughout the city. City officials say they have responded to the threat of flooding with stricter building regulations and have bought scores of properties in the flood plain to mitigate damage.

"There is more than one way to do flood control," said Dee Bruemmer, the city's public works director who thinks the city has a compelling case for federal aid.

The Iowa Emergency Management Division released preliminary damage estimates Wednesday from six of the 10 counties affected showing flood damage exceeding $4.7 million.

Entertainment opposes new bill

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Joseph Lieberman's proposal to stop the marketing to children of violent and sexually explicit records, videos and movies could lead to the end of voluntary ratings and labels, entertainment industry officials said Thursday.

"The net result is going to be a shrinkage of information to parents," predicted Jack Valenti, president of the Motion Picture Association of America.

Lieberman, D-Conn., introduced a bill that would expand the Federal Trade Commission's authority to crack down on businesses that engage in "false and deceptive advertising practices." Entertainment companies found to be marketing adult material to minors would be subject to fines of $11,000 per day.

The bill, co-sponsored by Sens. Herb Kohl, D-Wis., and Hillary Rodham Clinton, D-N.Y., would apply only to movies, music recordings and video games that carry voluntary ratings or labels warning parents that the material is inappropriate for children. The bill would make it illegal to market to minors R-rated movies, M-rated video games and music with parental advisories.

Inquiries into possible violations would be triggered by citizen complaints, senators said. The FTC also would initiate probes, as it already does in other enforcement areas.

The bill would give the FTC a year to draw up regulations.

Industry officials said the proposal tramples on free speech rights and would be rejected by the courts. The senators disagreed.

"We can do this without getting anywhere near government censorship," Lieberman said at a news conference.

Cary Sherman, general counsel of the Recording Industry Association of America, said by targeting items that already are rated or have labels, the bill would encourage companies to provide less information to parents.

"By essentially punishing those who adopt voluntary guidelines, the legislation would have the unintentional result of discouraging participation in the successful parental advisory program," he said.

Clinton warned that Congress might implement its own standards if the industry should sidestep the legislation by discontinuing voluntary ratings or labeling.

"I think you'd see a reaction on the part of those in the new Congress to require labeling, as we require it on drugs, as we require it on food," she said. "It is not much of a stretch to say that what we're letting our children put into their heads has as much an impact on their well-being as what they put into their stomachs."

An FTC report issued this week on promotion to minors of adult movies, music and video games noted improvements.

JO'S DATEBOOK

Jo Burkeen
Today Editor

Murray Lions Club continues to sponsor special events for the benefit of special projects and charities.

The sponsoring of the Kelly Miller Circus at the Murray State University Stewart Stadium parking lot on Wednesday is just another one of the club's many projects. Shows will start at 4:30 and 7:30 p.m.

Advance ticket sales by the members will be more profitable to the club. Tickets are available at all Murray bank outlets and at Mainstreet Deli in Hazel. Proceeds will go to Habitat for Humanity.

Main Street picture today

All Murray Main Street members and families are requested to once again gather today (Friday) at 5 p.m. on the court square at the corner of South Fifth and Maple Streets for the photo shoot to be published in Preservation magazine, and National Main Street News. Because of the weather conditions the photo shoot was canceled on April 20. For information call 759-9474.

Auction Saturday and Sunday

A silent auction will start at noon Saturday and at 7:30 a.m. Sunday at St. John's Episcopal Church. Bidding will end at 1 p.m. Sunday. A variety of high quality items and services will be offered. This is a fundraiser for the Memorial Garden at St. John's Church. The public is urged to attend.

Screening today and Monday

Murray Independent School District will have preschool screening today (Friday) from 8 a.m. to 4 p.m. and Monday from 4 to 6:30 p.m. This screening is available for three and four year old children and children who will be three by Oct. 1, 2001. To make an appointment or for information call 762-3262.

Ladies brunch at Oaks

Ladies of the Oaks Country Club will have a brunch on Saturday at 9:30 a.m. to kick off their new season of golf and bridge. A short business meeting will follow the brunch. All food will be provided. For information call Sue Wells at 753-3671 or Crystal Parks at 753-4645.

Ham breakfast Saturday

Methodist Men of Olive, Palestine and Russell Chapel United Methodist Churches will have a ham breakfast Saturday from 6 to 10 a.m. at the Olive church. Donations will be accepted.

Eastwood accepting applications

Eastwood Christian Academy, located one mile east of Murray on Highway 94, is now accepting applications for enrollment in grades four and five-year-old kindergarten through 12th grade for the 2001-2002 school year. Students who register by April 30 will receive a $25 discount for the oldest child in the family. For an appointment call 753-7744.

Dream Factory plans tournament

The Dream Factory of Murray will host an adult, coed softball tournament, double elimination, Saturday. The entry fee is $150. First place will pay out the entry fee. Concessions will be available. For information call Chris Salazar at 436-2541. All proceeds will help fund the dream of a local child.

Federation of Blind will meet

The National federation of the Blind, Murray Chapter will meet tonight (Friday) at 6 p.m. in the meeting room of Calloway County Public Library. For more information call Danny Perry, president, at 753-0911.

Kids Company taking registration

Summer registration for Murray Middle School and Murray Elementary School Kids' Companies will start April 30 and continue through May 18. Registration in the cafeterias at the schools will be from 2 to 6 p.m. at Murray Elementary and from 3 to 6 p.m. at Murray Middle. For more information contact Alisa Dillard at 753-5972, ext 172, or Peggy Chrisman at 753-5022, ext. 206.

Volunteers offer service

By SYLVIA M. CANON
Rescue Our Cemeteries volunteers are well into a new phase of a project honoring veterans buried in unmarked graves in the Land Between the Lakes Recreational area.

"There are hundreds of veterans buried in LBL," said Jim Baccus, ROC project leader. "Many are in unmarked graves. I am convinced placing military markers on most, if not all, unmarked veterans' graves in LBL is a doable project. We already have identified and are ready to place markers on several graves that are not identified in LBL records."

During the past year, Baccus and his group have been working with the American Legion and other interested groups plus researching government records to properly identify veterans' graves within the 170,000-acre national recreational area.

"Government records indicate one small Trigg County cemetery has five Civil War veterans buried in it," stated Baccus. "All are in unmarked graves."

Free granite or bronze grave markers showing a veteran's name, dates of birth and death and basic military service information are available for all U.S. veterans. Names and limited service information must be submitted to the Veterans Administration to obtain the markers. The VA does not place the markers at the graves nor pay for the installation.

Baccus and his group have committed to placement and installation of the markers at no cost to the families. With family permission (when available), the group will submit requests for markers and properly place them at the grave sites. Where there are no known living descendants, the group is researching military records to obtain necessary information.

Family members of veterans buried in LBL can aid researchers in this project by contributing military service information. This information will be used for no purpose other than to obtain the military grave markers.

Anyone who served in the military is eligible for these grave markers, even if service was during peacetime or in a non-combat capacity. ROC welcomes and is being joined in this effort by other people interested in honoring the service of all military veterans.

Wayne Parish, who serves on the group's board of directors, is pleased to be involved in this public service. "After working in the cemeteries for more than four years, we know where to find more than 240 cemeteries in LBL. It's a real pleasure to take someone to the long-lost grave of a great or great-great-granddad who fought for this country nearly 200 years ago."

Parish was one of the group's more successful searchers during the initial phase of the cemetery rescue.

For more information contact Jim Baccus at Rescue Our Cemeteries, P.O. Box 707, Eddyville, KY 42038; phone - 1-270-388-2555; fax - 1-270-388-5077; or tstibac@ziggycom.net.

Rescue Our Cemeteries is a non-profit, tax-exempt organization dedicated to the preservation and protection of cemeteries inside the Land Between the Lakes National Recreation Area.

Winners named for Bible Drill

Wesley Bolin, Rebecca Garth, Sarah Garth, Mattew Parker, Amy White and Daniel White were recently declared winners of the Blood River Baptist Associational Bible Drill.

This qualifies them to advance to the state level of competition.

The purpose of the Bible Drill is to assist children as they develop skills in the use of the Bible, to increase their knowledge of scripture, and to help them learn how to apply God's Word in their lives.

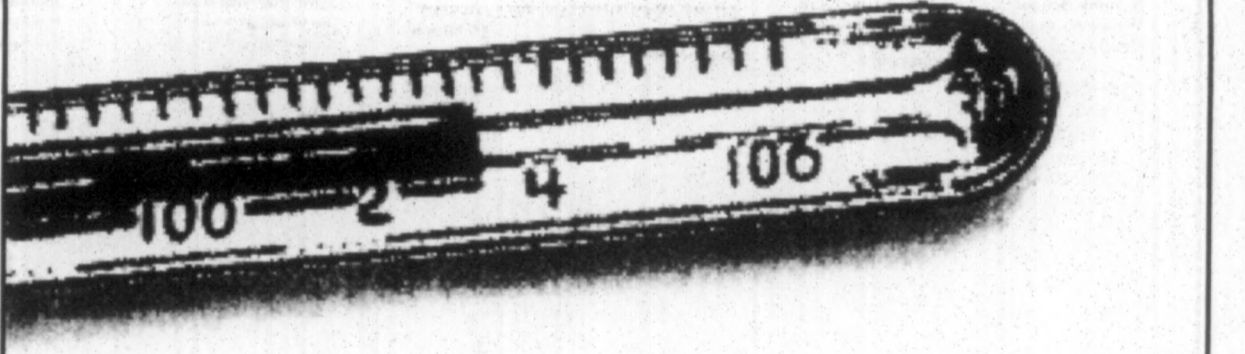

Participants memorize 25 selected Bible verses and their references. They also learn the names and locations of the 66 books of the Bible and 10 key scripture passages.

In a drill, the children have a time limit of 10 seconds to locate in their Bibles a specified book or passage or to respond to a request for recitation of a certain memorized verse.

Children in the fourth, fifth and sixth grades are eligible to participate in the Bible drills.

Wesley is the son of Evelyn and Duane Bolin. Rebecca and Sarah are daughters of Katie and Gary Garth. Mattew is the son of Martha and David Parker. Amy and Daniel are the children are Beth and Steve White. All six children are members of First Baptist Church.

Lady Lakers open field with victory

Staff Report
Murray Ledger & Times

Eighth-grade pitching sensation Kalyn Fox twirled a gem as the Calloway County softball team opened its new on-campus ballpark with a 3-0 win over Ballard Memorial Thursday.

Megan Miller went 2-for-3 at the plate with a triple while Kaci Ellison was 2-for-3 with a double for the Lady Lakers (3-3), who also received two-base hits from Fox and Whitney Ragsdale against the 5-7 Lady Bombers.

Fox (2-3) did not walk an opposing batter in the three-hit, seven-strikeout complete-game effort, which ended CCHS' two-game losing skid.

Calloway manufactured lone runs in the second, third and sixth innings with the help of extra-base hits and untimely pitching mistakes from its guests.

With one out in the second, Miller singled and Ragsdale doubled, moving Miller to third base. Miller then was able to cross home plate on a wild pitch.

Fox helped her cause in the third frame as she slapped a one-out double, stole third and scored on a passed ball.

Miller completed the scoring in the sixth by tripling and then tallying the game's final run courtesy of another wild pitch.

The Lady Lakers return to CCHS Field today for a 4:30 p.m. meeting with Graves County.

Tigers trounce winless Mayfield

Staff Report
Murray Ledger & Times

MAYFIELD, Ky. — Ten Murray High hits and six Mayfield errors spelled doom for the host Cardinals in the form of a 13-3 Tiger victory Thursday.

Nine different Murray players got hits and Blake Rayburn scattered five hits over six innings for a complete-game victory as the Tigers (14-2) won via the 10-run mercy rule.

Ed Baust paced the visitors with a 2-for-4, two-RBI effort at the plate as Murray kept Mayfield winless at 0-7.

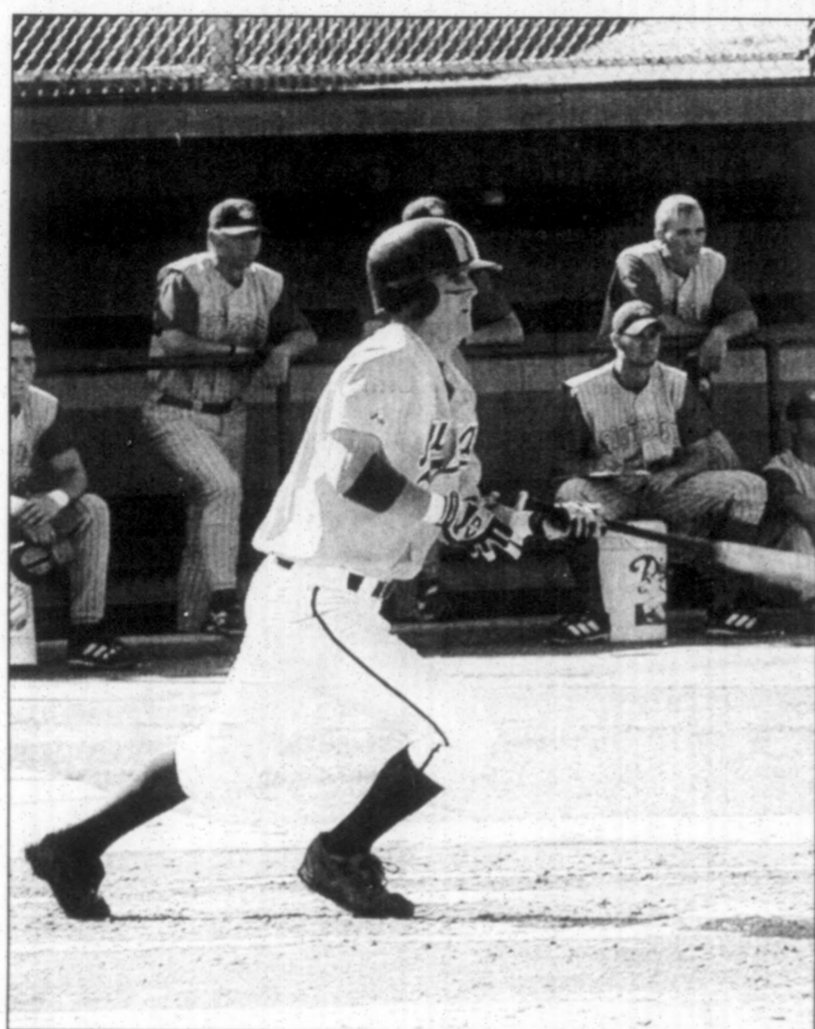

Baust, Zach Hampton, Mario Lawrence and Justin Maynard all doubled for the Tigers, who drew first blood with six runs in the second inning.

Murray tacked on one in the third and one more in the fourth for an 8-0 lead before the Cardinals, buoyed by Brian Bogges' 2-for-3 day with the bat, answered with a pair of scores in the bottom of the fourth.

But the Tigers were too much, firing back with a run in the fifth before breaking things wide open with four tallies in the sixth.

Mayfield registered one run in the bottom of the sixth, but it was not enough to cut the Murray advantage under double digits.

The Tigers return home Saturday to host St. Mary at 11 a.m. at Ty Holland Field.

Thurmond, Owen lift Calloway 4-0

Staff Report
Murray Ledger & Times

CLINTON, Ky. — Brad Thurmond and Rodney Emerson combined on a three-hitter and Josh Owen homered and drove in three runs as the Calloway County baseball team disposed of Hickman County 4-0 Thursday.

The Lakers (8-3) collected eight hits against the host Falcons (3-11) to seize their second straight win, defeating Hickman pitcher Alan Cruse (2-5).

Tony Ryan led the CCHS hit parade by going 3-for-4 with a double and an RBI while Owen was 2-for-2 and Thurmond was 2-for-3.

Thurmond (1-0) struck out 10 and walked two in five innings before handing the ball over to Emerson, who fanned two and walked two in two hitless innings of relief.

Calloway struck first as Charles Scott opened the contest with a leadoff walk and advanced to second base on groundout off the bat of Mark Chamberlain.

Scott then scored on Ryan's

RBI single for a 1-0 lead.

Owen doubled that advantage with a one-out solo blast in the fourth frame.

The Lakers then multiplied their 2-0 cushion by two again in the fifth as Chamberlain opened the rally by reaching on an error.

Ryan then doubled to put runners at second and third, and Owen came through with a two-out, two-run single to close the scoring.

Calloway returns to action Saturday at Reagan Field when the Lakers play a pair of wooden-bat games against Graves County at 10 a.m. and Livingston Central at 1 p.m.

'Breds triumph 12-11

Staff Report
Murray Ledger & Times

The Murray State Thoroughbreds needed three eighth-inning runs to overcome Indiana Southeast 12-11 in college baseball action Thursday at Reagan Field.

The visiting Grenadiers (26-23) used nine hits and four 'Breds errors to seize a 9-1 third-inning lead against MSU starter Preston Hesley.

But relief pitcher Kyle Perry (5-1) struck out 10 and allowed one earned run over 6 2-3 innings and Billy Moore's two-out single drove in Mike Voyles with the winning run as Murray (27-18-1) emerged victorious.

Moore went 4-for-4 at the plate while Josh Ridgway (2-for-5) and Brett McCutchan (2-for-4) both batted in three runs as the 'Breds overcame six errors with 13 hits.

Indiana Southeast seized a 4-0 lead in the top of the first as singles from Karsten Delap, Nathan Harp and Chris Henon resulted in a run and Jeremy Toler doubled in two more tallies.

The Grenadier rally closed when Tyler Stone's single and an error brought in Toler.

MSU answered with a run in the bottom half of the inning as Moore singled and Ronnie Seets doubled, setting up McCutchan's run-scoring groundout. But the guests got the best of Hesley in the third, beginning with a double by Henon, a throwing error that plated Henon and a RBI double from Gary Metzger.

A Stone single, another error and a base hit by Jason Uhl knocked out Hesley with 10 hits and nine runs — five earned — to his record after Chris Miller's grounder off Perry brought in Mike Mulhall for the final score of the frame.

Yet the 'Breds bounced back with three in the third as Moore and Ridgway drew consecutive walks and Seets was hit by a Bryan Shartzner pitch to load the bases with no outs.

McCutchan followed with a run-scoring sacrifice fly to left field, and with two outs and runners on second and third, Voyles singled up the middle. Ridgway came home on the hit and Seets was able to cross the plate courtesy of an error.

The Grenadiers added a run in both the fifth and sixth frames. An error and a wild pitch allowed Stone to score in the fifth, while Harp's solo home run in the sixth provided an 11-4 advantage.

However, Murray struck back with four tallies in the sixth as an error and a walk set up Ridgway's two-run triple to right-center. After Ridgway scored on Seets' sacrifice fly, McCutchan lifted a solo shot over the wall in left to cut the deficit to 11-8.

The 'Breds tacked on one more run in the seventh as Moore singled with two outs, advanced to third base on back-to-back balks by Jeremy Toler and scored on Ridgway's RBI single into right field.

MSU then greeted Stone in the eighth with a leadoff single by McCutchan, followed by an Andy Mazzier single.

Voyles was then hit by a pitch to fill the bases before a wild pitch plated McCutchan and a walk to Woody Winchester chased Stone in favor of Henon.

Nathan Taylor's sacrifice fly to center brought in Mazzier, and after Satterfield's line-out to right advanced Voyles to third, Moore's infield single brought in Voyles with the go-ahead run.

Perry tossed a perfect ninth inning to complete the come-from-behind victory.

The 'Breds will return to the diamond Wednesday when they visit Belmont at 6 p.m. in Nashville, Tenn.

Murray sweeps Fulton City

Staff Report
Murray Ledger & Times

The Murray High tennis teams had their way with visiting Fulton City Thursday, sweeping the boys' match 9-0 and posting six more wins without a loss in the girls' contest.

The victories boosted the Tigers to 8-2 and the Lady Tigers to 6-4 on the season.

The MHS boys surrendered just eight games — one in doubles play — against the Bulldogs while Fulton's girls managed to collect just two games versus Murray.

In boys' singles play, James Quertemus defeated Emmanuel Pettigrew 8-1, Reid Johnson beat Wesley Robinson 8-2, Josh Dunn pummeled J.T. Cavitt 8-0, Chase Lambert breezed by Chad Atchey

8-2, Michael Montgomery stopped Isadore Gunn 8-2 and Jonathan Chapman blanked Damian Walker 8-0.

The doubles teams of Quertemus-Johnson and Dunn-Lambert aced Pettigrew-Robinson and Cavitt-Atchey, respectively, by identical 8-0 scores. Montgomery and David Lee completed the MHS rout by ousting Gunn-Walker 8-1.

On the girls' side, the Lady Tigers took all four singles and both doubles matches.

Mandy Brown, Blair Lane and Elizabeth Miller all notched 8-0 singles wins versus Christy Phelps, Elizabeth McWhirt and Phelps, respectively, while Sarah Rall blasted Loren Bell 8-1.

In doubles, Megan Haverstock and Mallory Rudolph blitzed Phelps-McWhirt 8-1 as Rall and Meghan King shut out Bell-McWhirt 8-0.

Raptors beat Knicks 94-74 to even series

As the capacity crowd at Madison Square Garden started streaming out with about eight minutes left in a lopsided game, Carter sidled up to former teammate Mark Jackson with a wide grin and whispered in his ear for a few seconds.

"That was not taunting or anything," Carter said after he had 22 points and seven rebounds as the Toronto Raptors beat the New York Knicks 94-74 Thursday night to even the first-round series 1-1. "I was just having a good time."

He's not used to feeling that way in the postseason, where Toronto had been 0-4, including last season's sweep by New York as Carter made just 30 percent of his shots.

"We have a new slate. There are not that many guys who were here last year and a part of that bad memory," Carter said.

"This is big for us: Our first playoff win as a franchise and my first playoff win. So I hope it's a confidence-builder."

In the only other NBA playoff game Thursday night, the Los Angeles Lakers routed Portland 106-88. The Lakers lead the first-round series 2-0.

Miami will try to avoid a first-round sweep in Charlotte in Friday night's only game.

Alvin Williams — who played less than a minute in all of last season's series against New York — scored 23 points Thursday night for the Raptors, who take home-court advantage into Sunday's Game 3 at Toronto. Antonio Davis had 15 points and 12 rebounds, and Charles Oakley added 12 points and 10 rebounds.

Toronto held a 48-36 rebounding edge and outshot New York from the field (45 percent to 39 percent).

Kurt Thomas led the Knicks with 23 points and 12 rebounds. But Latrell Sprewell — often matched one-on-one with Carter — scored just six points on 3-for-12 shooting, and New York's other All-Star, Allan Houston, scored 10.

Marcus Camby, playing three days after his mother and two sisters were held hostage at their home in Connecticut, had two points and two rebounds in 31 minutes.

Unlike Game 1, when Carter went 5-for-22 from the field and was scoreless over the final 8 1/2 minutes, he was aggressive down the stretch Thursday.

He scored 16 points after half-time despite picking up his third foul with about 3 1/2 minutes left in the second quarter.

Lakers 106, Trail Blazers 88
Shaquille O'Neal had 32 points, 12 rebounds and five assists for Los Angeles.

Kobe Bryant added 25 points and seven assists and Rick Fox had 19 points, eight rebounds, six assists and five steals for the host Lakers.

Game 3 in the best-of-five series is Sunday in Portland.

Scottie Pippen led Portland with 21 points, eight rebounds and four steals. Rasheed Wallace added 17 points and Steve Smith 16.

Portland's Dale Davis and Wallace were ejected.

Gonzalez powers Arizona

By The Associated Press

Luis Gonzalez doesn't think of himself as a slugger. After the April he's having, he might want to reconsider.

Gonzalez homered twice to match the major league record with 13 homers this month as the Arizona Diamondbacks beat Greg Maddux and the Atlanta Braves 13-6 Thursday night.

"It's almost embarrassing to get the attention that I get, because I don't consider myself a home run hitter," Gonzalez said. "I'm just doing something special right now, and you just try to ride the wave as long as you can."

Gonzalez broke the NL record for April homers with a solo shot in the first, then hit a three-run homer off Damian Moss in a five-run eighth. He tied the major league record Ken Griffey Jr. set with Seattle in 1997.

Gonzalez, who had his third multihomer game this season and the 11th in his career, was the first batter Moss faced in the major leagues.

Gonzalez set his career high with 31 homers last season. Before he hit 23 with Detroit in 1998, Gonzalez had never had more than 15 in six seasons. "Shoot, I was hitting 15 in a whole season earlier," Gonzalez said. "Now I've got it all in one month."

In other NL games, Montreal edged St. Louis 4-3 in 15 innings; Milwaukee beat New York 12-8; Chicago defeated Colorado 7-2; Cincinnati topped San Francisco 7-5; San Diego routed Philadelphia 11-0; and Los Angeles beat Pittsburgh 6-3.

At Arizona, Steve Finley had five RBIs with a triple and his first homer of the season, and Damian Miller was 3-for-4 with three RBIs and his first home run. Erubiel Durazo also homered for the Diamondbacks, who won their fourth straight.

Robert Ellis (3-0), who spent 10 years in the minors before moving into the starting rotation because of an injury to Brian Anderson, walked three of his first four batters, but settled down to get the victory.

Maddux (2-2) allowed seven runs and nine hits in 5 2-3 innings, his worst outing since giving up seven runs in two innings against the New York Mets last July 1.

FDA warns against eating poisonous plant

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Food and Drug Administration is warning people not to eat a poisonous plant mistakenly labeled as "tasty."

The plant, known as Autumn Monkshood, remains poisonous even after it's cooked. Valleybrook Gardens Ltd., a Canadian nursery, distributed the plant — labeled as being "tasty in soup" — to nurseries in Washington state, Idaho and British Columbia.

Poisoning could cause irregular heartbeat or direct paralysis, leading to death, the FDA and the Canadian Food Inspection Agency said Thursday. Other symptoms include tingling limbs, burning or tingling mouth or tongue, muscle weakness and stomach problems. Anyone who eats the plant should go to a doctor immediately.

Third Day tops Dove Awards

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — The Christian music industry embraced heartland rock music at the 32nd Annual Dove Awards on Thursday, giving Atlanta band Third Day five awards including best group and the top award of best artist.

Since voting rap-alternative rock group dc Talk best artist in 1996, the Gospel Music Association has returned to more venerable pop acts for the most prestigious award. Steven Curtis Chapman and Michael W. Smith have won it the past two years.

"We're huge fans of Christian music, and to be up here .... really blows our minds," lead singer Mac Powell of Third Day said as he accepted the best group award.

Third Day members Powell, Tai Anderson, Mark Lee, Brad Avery and David Carr each picked up two individual awards as songwriters and producers, giving the group and its members a total of 15 trophies.

The stirring ballad "Redeemer" by Nicole C. Mullen proved a favorite, winning best song and pop/contemporary song. Mullen was also named best songwriter.

In other major awards, Chapman beat out Powell and three others for best male vocalist, and Nichole Nordeman won best female vocalist. The best new artist was the group Plus One.

The show at the Grand Ole Opry House showcased the wide variety of musical artists who record under the Christian banner, from the traditional gospel of Shirley Caesar to the hardcore punk of the band Pillar and the slick R&B of Mary Mary.

"It's kind of like a big family reunion, except set to music," said singer-songwriter Michael W. Smith, host of the show.

Third Day's other trophies were for rock recorded song for "Sky Falls Down," and praise and worship album for "Offerings: A Worship Album." Along with several other past winners including Sixpence None the Richer and Jars of Clay, Third Day won the award for best special event album for "City on a Hill: Songs of Worship and Praise."

Country singer Randy Travis won two awards stemming from his gospel album "Inspirational Journey." It was named best bluegrass album, and the song "Baptism" won best country song. Ricky Skaggs won best bluegrass recorded song for "Are You Afraid to Die?" Neither was present.

Winners at 32nd Annual Dove Awards

The band Raze, which was sidelined by the arrest of founder Ja'Marc Davis on rape and molestation charges last month, won awards for best rap/hip hop/dance song and album. The voting deadline came the day before his arrest.

"I just ask that you would continue to pray for Raze, and pray for everyone involved in the situation," said Greg Hamm, president of Fore-Front Records, the band's label.

The show will be broadcast on cable television May 4 on WGN. A deal announced earlier to broadcast it on PAX TV fell through.

About 5,000 members of the GMA nominate and pick the winners for the Dove Awards. They are named after the bird mentioned in the Bible.

University newspaper receives top award at journalism competition

The Murray State News, the student newspaper at Murray State University, has been named the best non-daily collegiate newspaper in Kentucky, Illinois and Indiana.

The weekly newspaper received first place in the Society of Professional Journalists' Mark of Excellence Awards competition. For 27 years, the Society of Professional Journalists has presented the Mark of Excellence Awards honoring the best in student journalism.

Judged at the regional and national level, the awards offer 36 categories for print, radio and television collegiate journalism. Regional award winners are honored at SPJ's spring regional conferences with national winners announced in Quill and honored at the 2001 SPJ National Convention in Seattle in October.

The Murray State News was recognized March 31 in Indianapolis and will compete with winners from 10 other regions for the national award.

Jason Yates, a senior from Mayfield, has served as editor in chief of the newspaper for the 2000-2001 year.

The SPJ award culminates a year that saw the newspaper named one of the 20 best college newspapers for the fourth consecutive year by the Associated Collegiate Press and the Newspaper Association of America Foundation.

Other honors received this school year include five first place and two second place awards for writing and photography, and a third place general excellence from the Kentucky Press Association in January, as well as a record 58 awards from the Kentucky Intercollegiate Press Association in March.

Lisa Wheat, a senior print journalism major from Charlevoix, Mich., and Greg Stark, a senior print journalism major from Paducah, were named Collegiate Journalists of the Year by the Kentucky Intercollegiate Press Association, and editorial cartoonist Daren Shock, a senior art major from Owensboro, was named the best collegiate cartoonist in a contest sponsored by College Media Advisers and judged by staff members of The Washington Post.

"Each week, our students work hard to produce a quality newspaper, putting the things they learn in the classroom on display for the campus community to see," said Joe Hedges, adviser to the newspaper. "That's a unique learning experience."

"The awards the students received this year are a testimony to their work ethic, their devotion to student journalism, the educational background they receive at Murray State, and strong student leadership," Hedges said.

DONATION...Stacey Mills, right from Dawahares, presents a gift donation to Calloway County High School Project Graduation 2001. Accepting the donation are Raegan Morton, center, and Annie Lynn, CCHS seniors.

Workshop scheduled to help area teachers

A free workshop is planned May 3 to help area teachers of all grade levels meet the state mandated requirements for teaching economics. "Dip into Economics" will be held in Paducah from 4 to 7 p.m. in the Kentucky Oaks Mall Community Room (next to Dillard's).

"Space is extremely limited for this workshop," reports Barry Brown, director of the Murray State University Center for Economic Education and event coordinator. "Anyone planning to attend should register by May 1."

The story of the founder of Dippin' Dots® inspired two teachers to write this innovative program hoping to motivate students to effectively use their human resources while in school.

The program includes fun-filled activities that teach basic economic concepts and demonstrate the important link between education and future productivity in society. Lessons are interdisciplinary and designed to expose students to economics within the context of language arts, social studies, math, science, art and other academic disciplines.

Courtney takes part in annual event

Dr. James W. Courtney, a local doctor of optometry, recently attended the largest gathering of optometrists in the country at SECO International 2001, which held its 78th Annual Congress in Atlanta.

Dr. Courtney regularly attends educational seminars and lectures to further enhance his clinical skills and remain abreast of the latest developments in technology related to eyecare. Over 200 hours of optometric-related courses, lectures, panel discussions, hands-on workshops and information exchanges were presented at this internationally recognized educational event.

SECO international's yearly event has come to be known as a major annual meeting of highly skilled optometrists dedicated to the best possible care of their patients.

Bush interview interrupted by commercials

NEW YORK (AP) — "We'll be back with the president of the United States. But first, a word from our sponsors..."

It seemed a little strange Wednesday when CNN interrupted its live interview with President George W. Bush for commercials. But CNN said it was responding to a request from the White House.

Bush's advisers wanted the chance for a break rather than take 15 uninterrupted minutes on the air, said Frank Sesno, CNN's Washington bureau chief.

CNN had no problem with the request, as long as it was assured the commercials wouldn't count toward the network's allotted 15 minutes, Sesno said. The network has interrupted live interviews with world leaders for commercials in the past, he said.

As it turned out, Bush sat with correspondent John King for 20 minutes, including the ads.

Reid evaluation called off

FRANKFORT, Ky. (AP) — Kentucky State University's governing board apparently will not conduct a full-scale evaluation of President George Reid.

It was a condition of Reid's getting a contract extension in December. However, the evaluation is likely to be focused on Reid's performance in about five selected areas.

"I backed off," William Wilson, chairman of the Board of Regents, said after a meeting of the board's executive committee Thursday.

Consultants told him that a president should be put through a comprehensive evaluation no more often than about every four years, Wilson said. An annual review, which Reid's contract calls for, should be limited, Wilson said.

"We're all rookies at this," Wilson added, referring to the executive committee. Four of its five members, including Wilson, were appointed less than a year ago. All five were in the majority when the board voted 6-4 to give Reid a contract extension to June 30, 2002.

Reid has had a rocky three years at the wheel of Kentucky's smallest public university. There have been bitter conflicts with staff, faculty and former regents and a scathing report by the state auditor on the university's finances.

Regents who represent faculty and staff — Charles Bennett and Cornelia Calhoun — opposed a contract extension.

Wilson said the evaluation will be done by the executive committee, assisted by a consultant from Washington, D.C. The group is expected to focus on steps Reid takes to boost enrollment and academic achievement, raise outside money and manage the school's finances, among other things.

It's never a good idea to evaluate a chief executive during a time of turmoil, but "we're going to try to do it with civility and professionalism," Wilson said.

Also Thursday, a key committee of regents recommended an 8.5 percent tuition increase to raise $450,000 for the next school year. Full-time students from Kentucky would pay $1,139 per semester, an extra $89. Out-of-state students would pay $3,419, a $268 increase.

The full board would vote on the proposed increase Friday. William Pennell, the university's chief financial officer, said the increase "falls right in line" with what other state institutions are doing. The University of Louisville recently announced a 10 percent increase.

Pennell said he still is drafting a budget for the year that begins July 1. So far, the spending side has to be cut $4.1 million to get balanced, he said.

The budget envisions a 4 percent pay raise for faculty and staff and a 5 percent increase in spending on their health care, he said.

Tuition and fees would account for a bit more than a quarter of budgeted spending, he said.

Workplace deaths down by half in U.S.

ATLANTA (AP) — Workplace deaths in the United States have dropped by nearly half over the past two decades, the government said Thursday, crediting new technology, stricter safety regulations and a shift in the economy toward safer service-industry jobs.

The Centers for Disease Control and Prevention said 5,285 workers died from on-the-job injuries in 1997, the latest year for which figures are available. That is a rate of 4.1 deaths per 100,000 workers — down 45 percent from 1980, when it was 7.4.

"The hazards workers face are considerably different," said Suzanne Marsh, a statistician at the National Institute for Occupational Safety and Health. "We're moving from an industrial country to a more of a service-oriented country."

The CDC also credited new technology and stricter safety regulations.

Car crashes have accounted for one in four on-the-job deaths since 1980, the CDC said. Homicides accounted for 14 percent and machinery accidents 13 percent.

Mining was easily the most dangerous sector, with 30 deaths per 100,000 workers over the two decades. Agriculture and forestry followed at 19 per 100,000.

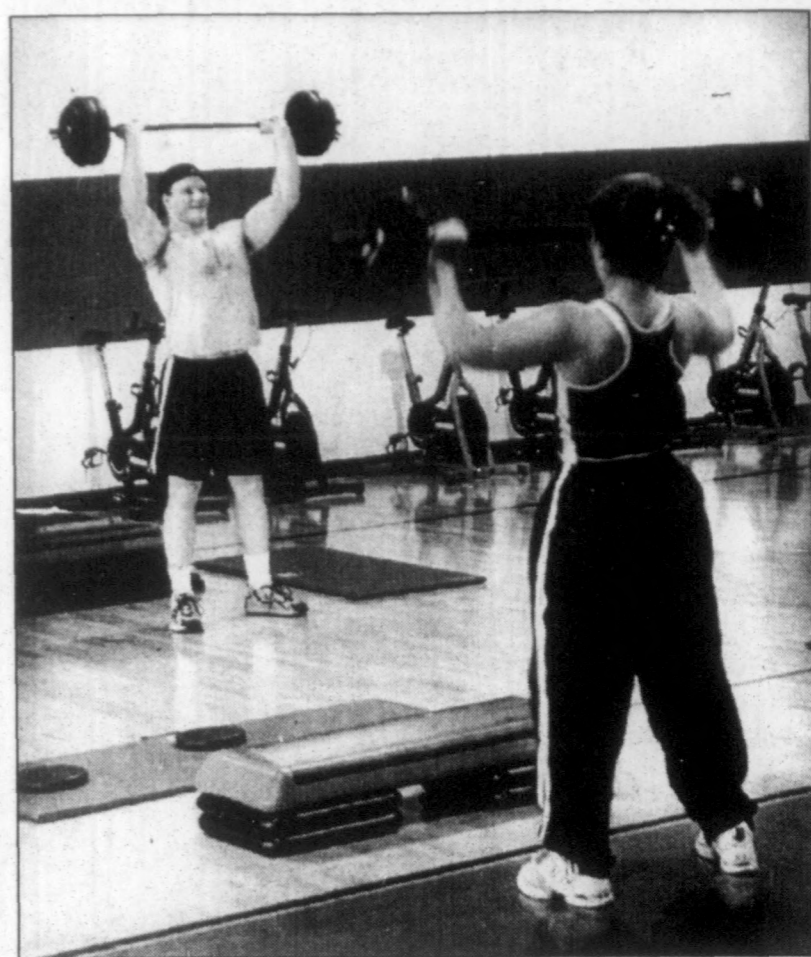

The CDC cautioned that its numbers probably underestimate the number of deaths in the workplace because the agency measures them using a nationwide survey of death certificates. The Labor Department issues its own set of statistics on workplace deaths, tracking them with a more comprehensive method that also scours federal regulatory reports and news clippings.

Those numbers go back only to 1992 but have shown a similar trend — a steady drop in deaths at work.

"There's been more emphasis on prevention by employers, government and workers," said William Weber, a Labor Department assistant commissioner. "People's consciousness was raised."

The CDC report said men accounted for 93 percent of all workplace deaths over the two decades.

"There's a possibility they are in some of the riskier industries," Marsh said.

PUMP YOU UP...Adam Blalock and Stephanie Simmons take advantage of the fitness facilities at the Center for Health and Wellness in Murray. The center recently added the high-energy workout "Bodypump" to its services.

'Bodypump' comes to wellness center

After successful launches in over 40 countries since 1990, the body changing, high energy workout called "Bodypump" has arrived in the United States and is now coming to the Center For Health and Wellness in Murray.

"Bodypump" brings resistance training to the group fitness area, tapping into the dynamics of exercising with others in a fun, motivating environment. The "Bodypump" workout is a challenging yet simple routine that uses specially made barbells that can be adjusted from three pounds up to 91 pounds making it ideal for people of all ages and fitness levels.

Recent studies have shown that resistance-training programs have the ability to turn back the clocks on our bodies — reducing fat while increasing lean muscle, reversing bone loss and increasing energy and balance.

"We all have less and less time in our day to devote to the various types of exercise needed, Bodypump can provide impressive results in areas that are most beneficial to our quality of life," says Adam Blalock, Wellness Center Exercise Specialist and "Bodypump" instructor.

The Wellness Center "Bodypump" instructors have undergone an extensive training to qualify to teach the program. Instructors complete a three-day training course and spend four to six weeks perfecting their teaching skills. Instructors are assessed by video to ensure consistent delivery of each "Bodypump" class.

The Wellness Center will begin offering classes to members on May 14-16. For more information about the benefits of Bodypump, call Elaine Rapp, Wellness Center Health Educator at 762-1FIT.

HAPPY BIRTHDAY for Saturday, April 28, 2001: When you speak your mind, you draw the results you desire. Dig into your imagination to find the path to your goals. Success greets those who are artists and who allow their creativity to speak. You might not always see authority figures clearly; you'll see them as you want to. Often, events point to this discrepancy. If you are single, you will not lack appropriate suitors. This summer, you will dig in to the process of deciding what you want. If you are attached, greet this romantic year by adding some of that old zip to your relationship. CANCER adores you.

The Stars Show the Kind of Day You'll Have: 5-Dynamic; 4-Positive; 3-Average; 2-So-so; 1-Difficult

ARIES (March 21-April 19) ***** Reach out for groups of people, rather than for individuals. You could be stressed out by finances and someone's endless demands. You do know how to say "no," don't you? Brainstorm with family and roommates. Check out an investment with care. Tonight: Invite friends over. TAURUS (April 20-May 20) ***** Make calls. You not only get your day going well, but also the days of those you are in touch with. Your mood is contagious! Accept that a situation involving an older relative or parent might be more difficult than you realize. Think before acting here. Tonight: Entertain a loved one. GEMINI (May 21-June 20) *** Instincts lead you down the right path. Review your finances while setting long-term goals. Don't forget to save for that long-dreamed-of trip or special course. Apply your hard work and funds to something that means a lot to you. Tonight: Talk dreams. CANCER (June 21-July 22) ***** Success stems from your strong motivation and sense of direction. A partner finds your upbeat behavior contagious. Get together with friends and loved ones. Add your special touch that everyone adores. Honor a special friend. Tonight: The life of the party. LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) *** If someone encourages you to have a lazy morning, go along. You often feel as if you need to energize people and take care of them. Not so! Take a day off from your worldly concerns and just do what makes you happy. Someone comes toward you: Tonight: Allow the good times to continue.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) ***** Friends roast you! Others seek you out with great plans. You can't help but go along for the fun. Another's suggestion could strike you as a bit weird, but really it isn't, once you go along with it. Give serious thought to taking up a musical interest. Tonight: Wherever you are, there's a happening. LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22) ***** You might not be pleased with someone's expectations, but you'll meet them anyway. At some point, stop and think about what you want from your life. Discuss with a friend just how to make it so. Don't always say no to an idea right off the bat! Tonight: A must appearance. SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21) ***** Take off ASAP. Refuse to do the same old thing. You enjoy yourself wherever you are. Your sense of humor emerges when dealing with someone. Help this person see what is so humorous. You revive in a new setting far away from the day-to-day grind. Tonight: Try something offbeat. SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21) ***** Listen to your instincts with an emotional relationship. Use that same sixth sense with any major purchase right now. You'll work on a whole different level. Ask another to join you in a pastime. Instead of spreading yourself thin, enhance your relationships. Tonight: Don't push yourself. CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) ***** Sometimes you don't recognize all the options and friends that you have because you are so focused. Stop and smell the flowers. You don't always have to be businesslike. Others love it when you share in the merriment. Tonight: Say yes. AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18) ***** Confusion surrounds your actions and your decisions. Clear out your must-do list and do what you love most: Be spontaneous! Though your spirit of adventure always shines through, you might be happiest close to home with loved ones. Tonight: Just be yourself. PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20) ***** Tap into your imagination when making plans. A special invitation appears if you return calls. If single, spend time getting to know someone better. If attached, opt for an old-fashioned date. All relationships need recharging occasionally. Tonight: Just let it happen.

DR. GOTT

By Peter H. Gott, M.D.

DEAR DR. GOTT: My 80-year-old sister suffers from arthritis, gout and neuropathy in her feet. She is taking Inderal, Lasix, and Lanoxin, with occasional Elavil at bedtime. What might help her joint pain?

DEAR READER: Your sister appears to have more than joint and nerve problems. Inderal (a beta-blocker for heart disease and hypertension), Lasix (a diuretic for a weak heart and fluid retention) and Lanoxin (a heart stimulant) indicate that she has serious cardiovascular disease. In the presence of nerve malfunction (neuropathy), I wonder whether she might have diabetes, too. The use of an anti-depressant may indicate that she is justifiably depressed about her state of health.

In any case, none of these medicines is for gout. (Actually, Lasix may cause gout attacks in susceptible individuals.) If she does, indeed, have gout, she would be helped by taking allopurinol (to reduce the formation of uric acid, the cause of gouty arthritis) or probenecid (to rid the body of excess uric acid).

If she were my patient, I'd review all her medications and decide what she really needs and what will do her the most good (and the least harm). Some of the drugs may be fighting one another. Inderal, for example, can cause heart failure in some elderly patients, for which your sister may be taking Lasix and Lanoxin to counteract. Also, Lasix can cause a depletion of the vital mineral potassium, so this needs to be checked with periodic blood tests.

Ibuprofen is an appropriate first choice to treat her arthritis/gout pain. If this is ineffective, probenecid or other prescription anti-inflammatory drugs should be tried. However, I believe that she must review her medicines with her doctor as a first step. And, by all means, he should also diagnose the cause of her neuropathy — and treat it, too.

To give you related information, I am sending you a copy of my Health Report "About Gout." Other readers who would like a copy should send $2 plus a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope to P.O. Box 2017, Murray Hill Station, New York, NY 10156. Be sure to mention the title.

DEAR DR. GOTT: My daughter is 27 and has warts under her arm. Her doctor believes they could be connected with colon cancer and advises her to be checked regularly. There is no history of colon cancer in the family. Do you agree with his position?

DEAR READER: No, I don't. If colon cancer were prevalent in your family, there's no doubt that your daughter (and your other children) should be meticulously checked with periodic colonoscopies. Also, it's true that certain skin lesions may be markers for early colon cancer.

However, in the absence of a significant family history (and with nothing to go on but "warts"), your daughter's doctor is, in my opinion, overreacting. Without a family history of colon cancer, this affliction would be remarkably unlikely in a healthy woman of 27.

Having taken this position, I must emphasize that I do not wish to interfere with your daughter's physician, who may have valid reasons for his recommendation. Discuss this issue with him. If he is merely "covering the bases," annual stool tests for hidden blood might suffice. On the other hand, if he has justifiable concerns, a sigmoidoscopy or, preferably, a colonoscopy should be performed. Let me know how you resolve the issue.

DEAR ABBY

DEAR ABBY: A few years ago, I discovered an incredible need teachers have. The day after school ended, I had a couple of free hours and impulsively stopped by the school and offered to help my daughter's teacher pack up for the summer. You would have thought I donated an organ! What I did was not hard: We took down bulletin boards, packed books, etc. It was quite enjoyable.

Before school began in the fall, I offered my services again, but this time my 18- and 15-year-old daughters joined me. The teachers nearly named a day after us. We cleaned cubbies, arranged desks, cut out shapes and set out supplies. It doesn't matter if you have one hour or four. It makes a difference.

The most wonderful part was my daughters telling the teachers they had no idea how much work teachers devote to preparing for their pupils.

I recommend this as a wonderful volunteer opportunity. The added benefit was exposing my teen-agers to the "behind-the-scenes" activities of these energetic, committed professional teachers.

KAREN WARREN, GAINESVILLE, FLA.

DEAR KAREN: A terrific idea. Everyone's a winner when everyone chips in, but why stop there? Schools welcome the continual involvement of parents in their children's education, and that involvement results in more diligent students.

DEAR ABBY: I read in this morning's paper the letter from the paramedic who was called to the home where the little boy drowned. It was a sad letter that made my heart ache.

We have a fence around our pool and keep the gate securely locked. Our son knows how to swim and follows the safety rules we have established.

I thought I was a responsible pool owner — until last Mother's Day. We had invited friends over for a cookout and swimming party. We ate in shifts so an adult would always be with the children as they swam.

My friend and I were eating poolside; her husband was in the pool with the children. All four of the little ones (under 5) had taken swimming lessons and were good swimmers. My friend's son was floating on a kickboard. We looked away for a moment, and when we looked back, he was nowhere to be seen. We moved the kickboard, and there he was, trying to come up for air! Somehow, I managed to reach in and grab him.

We were lucky. He had been holding his breath. In a few more seconds, he would have drowned. All this happened in 3 feet of water, 3 feet from me, and with five adults in the pool area.

Since then, we have added new rules: We now have at least one adult watcher for every three children. This person must be alert at all times and watch the children. We rotate so the same adult isn't always the watcher. If a child cannot swim, he or she must wear a life vest, and the parents are responsible for their children the entire time they are in the pool.

Abby, a fence around a pool and a locked gate are mandatory. We had a close call we will never forget. Safety rules must not only be established, but strenuously observed.

LIFEGUARDING MOM IN PHOENIX

DEAR LIFEGUARDING MOM: There is no telling how many lives you may have saved today because you took the time to write.

Thank you for pointing out that it is not enough to be in the vicinity of a pool — or other body of water — when children are in it. The children must be watched closely at all times.

Dear Abby is written by Pauline Phillips and daughter Jeanne Phillips.

CONTRACT BRIDGE

You are South, and the bidding has gone:

South West North East
Pass Pass 1♥ Pass ?

What would you bid now with each of the following five hands?

- 1. ♠ A9643 ♥ 7 ♦ QJ5 ♣ K982
- 2. ♠ KQJ94 ♥ K86 ♦ J532 ♣ 4
- 3. ♠ A9852 ♥ AQ43 ♦ 9 ♣ 632
- 4. ♠ 763 ♥ 85 ♦ AQ1072 ♣ KQ4
- 5. ♠ AJ75 ♥ 10 ♦ 84 ♣ KQ10542

1. One spade. It is true that this hand is very close to an opening bid, and you might therefore feel tempted to bid two spades to show a maximum pass. But it is better to bid only one spade, even knowing that partner might pass. This is partly because your spade suit is too weak for a jump, and partly because your hand has depreciated in value after North's opening bid in the suit in which you have a singleton. The one-spade response makes allowance for a possible misfit.

2. Two spades. Here you should tell partner at once that there is a good chance for game, despite your previous pass. You do this by making a jump-shift response. True, you have only 10 high-card points — just as in the previous hand — but this time there are much better prospects of game, either in spades or in hearts, and partner should be apprised of this development. Strictly speaking, the jump-shift is not forcing, but partner will seldom pass.

3. Four hearts. Considering your excellent trump support and singleton diamond, this hand should now be regarded as worth a full opening bid. Accordingly, you shouldn't run any risk of missing game, which could happen if you bid only three hearts (invitational).

4. Two diamonds. Here you passed a borderline opening bid, but it is still best to avoid trying to compensate for that by now jumping to three diamonds. North's heart opening didn't help your hand much, and in fact hurt it slightly. Despite the previous pass, your response on the two level indicates at least 10 points. If North passes knowing you might have up to 12 points, the odds are that there's no game.

5. Two clubs. It might not have been your style to pass originally, but let's assume for the moment that someone twisted your arm and you did. Granted that it is tempting to respond three clubs at this point, you will do better in the long run to restrain yourself and bid only two clubs. It is usually best not to crowd the bidding on hands where there is more than one message to deliver. In line with that principle, you should leave as much room as possible to show your spades next at a relatively low level.

Tomorrow: Don't take anything for granted.

Lawmakers push for ban on cloning

WASHINGTON (AP) — Members of Congress called for a federal ban on human cloning Thursday.

"There is no need for this technology to ever be used with humans," said Sen. Sam Brownback, R-Kan.

He supports legislation in the House and Senate that would make it a federal crime to clone a human, participate in human cloning or import human clones to the United States. Violators could get 10 years in prison and a minimum $1 million fine.

Federal regulators have never approved such experiments, fearing the research could produce deformed babies.

Lawmakers want to keep scientists from applying the same technique used to clone Dolly the sheep in 1997 on humans.

The White House has indicated that if Congress passes a cloning ban bill, President Bush would sign it.

The Food and Drug Administration says any human cloning experiments in the United States would need its approval, but opponents want a federal law strong enough to back up the regulators' authority.

There are human clone bans in Germany and other nations, the lawmakers said.

Clones are created when the genetic material from a single cell is injected into an egg cell that has had its own genes removed. The resulting baby would be like an identical twin born years later.

Despite the success of Dolly, cloned cows, mice and pigs, most animal clones die during embryonic development. Others are stillborn with birth defects. Mothers miscarry, and sometimes die, too.

Most scientists oppose human cloning because of such risks, but some infertility doctors and a religious cult plan to try human cloning within the next year.

Those plans, aired at a congressional hearing last month, have spurred opponents to action.

"The scientists who created Dolly had over 200 attempts before Dolly was born," said Rep. Dave Weldon, R-Fla., a physician. "The prior attempts resulted in malformed, sickly creatures that had to be euthanized."

"We cannot allow this scenario to play out with humans," said Weldon, who is co-sponsoring the House bill with Bart Stupak, D-Mich.

Some Congressional lawmakers tried unsuccessfully to ban cloning a couple of years ago, but lawmakers couldn't agree on whether a ban should stop disease-fighting research that uses techniques similar to cloning.

Debate over funding of such research — using embryonic stem cells — has emerged this year.

During the Clinton administration, the federal government published guidelines that would permit funding of embryonic stem cell research provided the funds were not used to kill the embryo. Private researchers would extract the stem cells from fertility clinic embryos and then pass the cells along to federally funded researchers.

The Bush administration has placed this federal funding on hold pending a Health and Human Services Department review.

'Week of the Child' recognized April 1-7

The National Association for the Education of Young Children held its annual "Week of the Child," April 1-7. The theme, "Where Our Future Begins," helps to focus public attention on the needs of young children and their families and seeks support for early childhood programming.

The Murray-Calloway County Hospital Child Care celebrated with a breakfast for the parents, take home activities, a photo booth and videos of daily routines.

Tiny towns law quickly approved in Tennessee

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — The tiny towns issue unexpectedly resurfaced in the General Assembly Thursday when the House and Senate validated the incorporation of 11 towns to protect them from court action.

The legislation, pushed primarily by Lt. Gov. John Wilder, came just days before a court hearing on whether Hickory Withe, a small community in Wilder's West Tennessee district, could remain incorporated.

Gov. Don Sundquist signed the bill into law Thursday without comment.

Wilder, whose second-cousin is mayor of Hickory Withe, has ushered the "tiny towns" issue along in the Legislature for more than five years.

He said he wanted the General Assembly to undo its mistakes on "tiny towns" and didn't believe his family ties created a conflict of interest.

"Hickory Withe wants to be a city so they can govern themselves," Wilder said.

The House had to suspend its usual rules to get the bill to the floor before Monday's scheduled start of the Hickory Withe lawsuit. House rules require 48 hours between the time a bill is moved from the Calendar Committee until it is heard on the floor.

The bill passed the House Calendar Committee Thursday and the full House passed it an hour later 74-13, with nine abstentions.

The bill passed in the Senate 30-1. Sens. Ron Ramsey, R-Blountville, and Jerry Cooper, D-McMinnville, did not vote.
