Coffey now faces federal charge

By EDWARD SHERIDAN
Staff Writer

Seamus Coffey was supposed to appear in Calloway County District Court Tuesday for a pre-trial hearing on two Class A misdemeanor charges. That hearing, however, never took place.

Coffey, the 18-year-old Murray State University student accused of e-mailing a bomb threat to a university official, was indicted last Thursday by a federal grand jury on a charge of transmitting electronic communications in interstate commerce containing a threat of injury to others.

Coffey's Tuesday hearing was canceled because of the pending federal charges. He will now appear for arraignment in U.S. District Court in Paducah, May 24, at 9:30 a.m.

The indictment states that Coffey sent email messages threatening to detonate bombs in the buildings on the MSU campus unless he was paid $1 million.

The indictment also accuses Coffey of threatening personal injury to "M.T.," the initials of MSU Student Government Association President Michael Thorne, who has stated that he originally received the e-mail messages.

Now, instead of facing state charges of terroristic threatening and attempted extortion — both of which would carry maximum penalties of up to one year in prison and a $500 fine — Coffey is facing a charge that could put him in jail for up to five years and cost him a maximum of a $250,000 fine.

Coffey is currently lodged in the Calloway County Jail on $10,000 bond. He will be transferred to a federal facility in Hopkinsville or Illinois as early as the end of the week, according to Hancy Jones, spokesperson for U.S. Attorney Steve Reed.

Jones also said the state charges pending against Coffey will most likely be dropped.

"Usually, state charges are dropped in favor of pursuing federal charges," he said.

Coffey's alleged threats forced an evacuation of the MSU campus earlier this month.

Fiscal Court OKs budget first reading

By ERIC WALKER
Managing Editor

The Calloway County Fiscal Court approved the first reading of the county government's 2001-2002 budget during last night's meeting.

The total from all county funds is $10,267,580, reported County Treasurer Sue J. Outland.

That total includes totals from each individual fund, including the general fund ($3,920,669); roads fund ($1,931,842); jail fund ($1,483,590); jail grant ($860,065); and jail construction fund ($1,563,414).

Budget increases included $1,500,000 for insurance reimbursement for the George Weaks Center, as well as a 3.372 percent cost of living increase.

Outland said the budget for the 2001-02 fiscal year was "basically the same" except for grants and carryover, which drew praise from County Judge-Executive Larry Elkins, who commended the county department heads.

The court also approved the annual standing order to pre-approve certain recurring expenses for payroll, utilities and health insurance contracts.

In other business, Calloway County Sheriff Stan Scott reported to the court on the recent arrest of a former deputy sheriff on alleged drug-related charges.

Max Parrish was arraigned Monday in U.S. District Court in Paducah, Ky., where he entered an innocent plea, previously published reports have stated. Parrish was arrested Friday without incident at the sheriff's office by FBI agents. He has also been fired, Scott stated.

Scott said investigators were not looking at any other person in the sheriff's office, and that his department was going through evidence and files "as a matter of concern."

County Attorney Randy Hutchens said that he and Commonwealth Attorney Gale Cook were checking each pending case involving the former deputy and trying to resolve them.

"Where he was the primary witness," Hutchens admitted, "there'll be problems. There's always potential problems, but that's true in any department."

In other fiscal court business, the court approved the Miller Annex bid review committee's unanimous rejection of bids on the former Murray Post Office building; approved a jail policy revision by Jailer Phil Hazel; and the appointments of Kenny Darnell, Ed Pavlick and Douglas Tucker to work with the county clerk to help in the redistricting of magisterial districts.

Committee approves Hart plumbing repairs funds

By EDWARD SHERIDAN
Staff Writer

Thanks to the Capitol Projects and Bond Oversight Committee, a revenue-controlling committee of the Kentucky General Assembly, Murray State University will be able to proceed with two of its high-profile projects.

The committee, which met Tuesday in Louisville, approved over $1 million in funding for MSU to proceed with plans to make emergency plumbing repairs to Hart College and construct a new alumni affairs center.

"We were able to fast-track both of these projects," said Sen. Bob Jackson (D-Murray), a member of the committee. "It's great news for the university."

The committee approved a $1.5 million bond issue for the plumbing repairs. Of that total, $1.3 million will be used on Hart, while the rest of the funds will be used to make repairs, such as installing a new boiler in Franklin College, in some of the university's other dormitories.

A committee spokesperson in Frankfort said the bond issue would have to gain final approval from the Kentucky Council on Postsecondary Education when it meets May 21. Jackson, however, said the committee's approval will likely be the final say.

"The CPE is not going to reject a water project," Jackson said. "I don't think it has to make any other stops."

For the alumni center project, the committee approved $112,500 cost overrun. Jackson said the increase amounts to an approximately 10 percent increase in the scope of the project.

"The alumni center project is going to go slightly over what was projected," Jackson said. "We have the ability to increase the scope of a project."

Three dead in ambulance crash

WEST LIBERTY, Ky. (AP) — Three people were killed Tuesday when a pickup truck crashed head-on into an ambulance on the Mountain Parkway, Kentucky State Police said.

The pickup truck swerved into the ambulance's westbound lane near exit 60 on the parkway at about 6:15 a.m. EDT, police said. Both the pickup driver, Brian Keith Gilvin, 29, of Mount Sterling, and a patient in the rear of the ambulance, Nell R. Crigger, 83, of Paintsville, were pronounced dead at the scene of massive head and internal injuries, according to Morgan County Coroner Marling Potter. Crigger had been a patient at a nursing home in Salyersville, Potter said.

The ambulance driver and an emergency medical technician riding in the rear with the patient were taken to the University of Kentucky Medical Center.

Fire guts UK building

LEXINGTON, Ky. (AP) — Fire gutted a campus landmark Tuesday at the University of Kentucky, sending flames and dark smoke through the roof of the 119-year-old administration building.

"The building is engulfed in flames from the top of the roof to it looks like down to the second floor," said Lloyd Axelrod, a university spokesman.

He said everyone made it out of the building. One person was injured, and the administration building, the oldest on campus, suffered major damage. Of the four original structures on campus, it was the only one still left.

"It's extremely disappointing because for many years, this building was the University of Kentucky," said a visibly shaken university President Charles Wethington. "It's one of the symbols of the university and can't really be replaced."

Wethington said it was too early to say whether the building could be saved.

"That clearly would be the hope of mine, but I just don't know what the extent of the damage is," said Wethington, who is retiring June 30.

The building, constructed in 1882, has been undergoing a $1.3 million renovation that started last fall and was scheduled to be completed later this month. It contained administrative records and paintings of previous presidents of the university, Wethington said, although he said it was the building rather than its contents that was of particular significance.

Lexington Fire Chief Bill Holleran said one person was injured, a worker who was using a propane torch to solder copper eaves on the roof when the fire started. The worker, whose name was not released, suffered first-degree burns but refused hospital treatment, Holleran said. There were no immediate reports of other injuries.

"Certainly (there was) no loss of life, and I'm very thankful for that," Wethington said.

Holleran said the work on the roof apparently ignited wood rafters in the attic and started the fire, which quickly spread through the attic and into the third story of the three-story brick building. The wood under the eaves was old and dry, which allowed the fire to spread quickly, he said.

Holleran said the worker who had been soldering walked about 20 feet away and then saw smoke. He went back and tried to put the fire out with a fire extinguisher but was unable to do so, Holleran said.

The fire department had to call Kentucky American Water Co. to boost the water pressure to enable firefighters to put out the fire, the fire chief said.

"Initially it looked like we were having problems with water," he said.

Firefighters also had to contend with gusting winds of 10 to 15 miles an hour on the ground and stronger near the roof, Holleran said.

About 40 firefighters battled what Holleran described as a "two-alarm-plus" fire with the aid of two aerial trucks and seven pumper trucks. The fire was contained to one building.

Wethington was in the building when the fire alarm went off. He said he and his staff started making their way out of the building and urging others to get out. About 40 or 50 people were in the building and vacated it when the fire broke out.

Finance committee approves bipartisan tax cut bill Tuesday

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate Finance Committee voted Tuesday to approve a bipartisan tax cut package after supporters fought off amendments pushed by outnumbered Democrats to increase the benefits for lower-income people.

The 13-5 vote cleared the way for the 11-year, $1.35 trillion bill to reach the Senate floor as early as today (Wednesday). Republican leaders hope to pass the measure by week's end, with the ultimate goal of reaching a final tax cut deal with the House and getting the bill to President Bush by Memorial Day.

"We hope to move the bill very quickly through the Senate," said Sen. Charles Grassley, R-Iowa, the committee chairman.

Grassley and most of the panel's 10 Republicans were joined in opposing many amendments and on the final vote by four of the 10 Democrats: Sens. Max Baucus of Montana, John Breaux of Louisiana, Robert Torricelli of New Jersey and Blanche Lincoln of Arkansas.

"This is a starting point, not the final," Breaux said. "We are a long ways from getting a final product."

The bill, which contains the core of Bush's original tax cut plan, would slash income taxes across the board, creating a new 10 percent rate for a portion of every taxpayer's income, retroactive to Jan. 1, as an economic stimulus. The top 39.6 percent income tax rate would drop to 36 percent and most other rates would fall by three percentage points by 2007.

Among other things, the measure would also gradually repeal the estate tax, ease the marriage penalty paid by millions of two-income couples by 2010, gradually double the $500 child credit and expand tax-favored contribution limits for IRAs and 401(k)s.

The Finance Committee on Tuesday defeated Democratic amendments intended to boost the immediate economic stimulus, reduce the 15 percent rate to 14 percent; accelerate the pace of marriage penalty relief and delay cuts in the top 39.6 percent tax rate until Congress had passed a universal prescription drug benefit under Medicare.

Some Democrats, including Minority Leader Tom Daschle of South Dakota, were sharply critical of the legislation as tilted toward the wealthy, too costly and unwise given the uncertainty of long-term budget projections.

Brad Steele, park director, receives a $3,000 check presented by Jodie Chandler and members of the Student Council for Exceptional Children from Murray State University. The donation will be used to purchase playground equipment for Holman Baseball Complex, Central Park.

Pres. Bush's self-defense initiative

It's always been a mystery as to why the Left so viscerally opposes a missile defense system. When Ronald Reagan first proposed such a plan, the Left mocked it as "Star Wars," a fantastical delusion about as realistic as the George Lucas movie of the same name.

(Recently), President Bush laid out a philosophical and geopolitical rationale for a missile defense system that was even better than Reagan's. In a speech at the National Defense University (NDU) in Washington, D.C., Bush noted that the 1972 ABM Treaty, which implied that the survival of the Soviet Union and United States was best assured by leaving both countries defenseless to each other's nuclear missiles, is no longer valid. Such a policy ratified the philosophy of the nuclear age that mutual assured destruction (appropriately abbreviated as MAD) was the best deterrent to nuclear war.

Everything has changed since ABM. The Soviet Union is no more and the threat of nuclear attack has shifted from one nation where command and control could be commanded and mostly controlled, to several smaller nations. Any one of these countries might use the threat of a nuclear attack on an American city to deter U.S. intervention against an assault on its allies.

Bush rightly called for "moving beyond the constraints of the 30-year-old ABM Treaty." He said clinging to ABM "enshrines the past."

When Reagan proposed a missile defense system, the central question was whether the technology existed to make it a reality. Several tests have produced mixed results. Secretary of Defense Donald Rumsfeld says he's persuaded that the technology now exists or will soon be developed. Why should he not be believed?

Some people thought it fantastic when President John F. Kennedy pledged in the early '60s to land Americans on the moon by the end of the decade. The goal was met 17 months early. We had faith in our skills then. Have we now lost that faith?

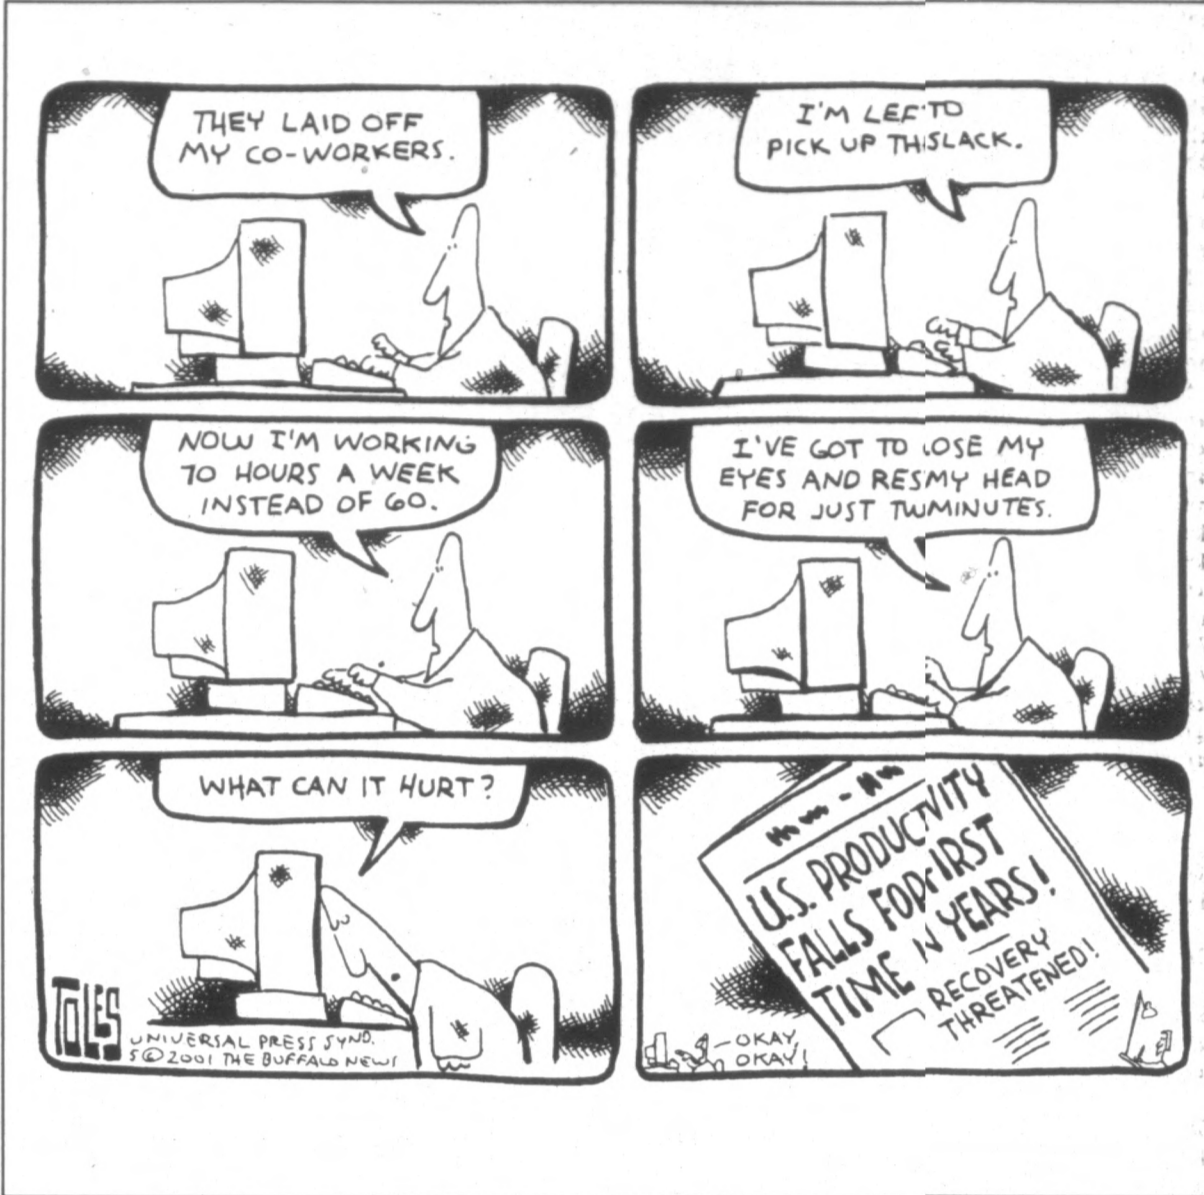

During the Cold War, those opposed to missile defense believed that such a system — even research into its feasibility — could increase the likelihood of war. That's a silly argument, something like believing your chances of being burglarized are increased if you put a sign on the door that your home is protected by either an alarm system or a gun. As for the attitude of other nations, there's no reason for them to oppose an American missile defense system unless they intend to attack the United States.

America's enemies are spreading nuclear, chemical and biological technologies to rogue states and terrorist groups around the world. These are people who care nothing about their own citizens, much less inhabitants of other nations. Some believe they have a religious mandate to kill "infidels." Others worship their politics. Why shouldn't we use all of the expertise at our disposal to do what's necessary to preserve, protect and defend the United States and our interests abroad? We can't wait until China follows up on its threat to launch a missile at downtown Los Angeles, or until Saddam Hussein has the capability to take out New York City and so deters the United States from intervening to save Israel (or Kuwait) from his aggression.

President Bush threw a large bone to the Left when he coupled his proposal with the possibility of further reductions in our nuclear weapons stockpile: "We can, and will, change the size, the composition, the character of our nuclear forces in a way that reflects the reality that the Cold War is over." We won't need as many nuclear weapons if we have a system in place to shoot down any missiles that might be launched toward American territory. An enemy will think more than twice about attacking the United States if he knows that attack will be repelled and he will be left vulnerable to a counterattack.

Although the President pledges to be in regular consultation with our allies and Congress, his proposal to build a missile defense system puts America and American interests first, which is where the country and those interests ought to be.

From Our Readers

To the Editor:

You don't need a degree from Duke University to look at the scoreboard every once in awhile, and figure out, that I feel, we are losing control of our schools.

Why? Some of our leaders are so narrow-minded that they only pick and choose historical facts and stats to support themselves and their shallow political agenda while the root causes are left blowing in the wind. Consequently, their solutions are like giving aspirin and pain medications to cancer patients.

Something happened in the 1960's that produced a foundation problem in our schools. One atheist went to the Supreme Court — made up of a majority of what I call "narrow-minded little men" — and together they managed to destroy part of the foundation that our founding fathers laid to help strengthen and deepen the character of the young people that attended our schools. Like new founding fathers, they managed to take away our civil rights, to have prayer, scripture reading, the Ten Commandments, and the "Golden Rule" to be used to help build character.

Our forefathers, without law or divinity degrees from Yale, had enough wisdom to invite God into all of our American institutions without denominationalizing our country. These foundations that were laid brought us through many bloody wars and a great depression.

Now with our new found wisdom of the Supreme Court, we are running around like ignorant chickens. I say they can't even handle elementary school children.

I don't care if anyone likes it or not, our country was founded by men who believed in God, and it was not founded by atheistic people, Hindu people or voodoo people. Our laws protect and give freedom to those who believe otherwise, but we who believe in God, like our forefathers, have the right to have God invited in all of our institutions. That right has been violated by one cry baby atheist and a small group of un-American men dressed in black robes.

Before that dreaded day when the Supreme Court took down "Thou shalt not kill," our schools were controlled by teachers who walked around like arch-angels that would teach you how to read, how to work math, and how to behave respectfully. Those teachers were in control because they were under the authority of the almighty God referred to in the Declaration of Independence.

They were connected to something good, big, and powerful. Consequently, those students under them became connected to something much deeper than the political wisdom of today.

Who is control now? We seem to be controlled and held hostage by some little wimps that we have allowed to become like little gods. Those little characters, with very little depth or discipline, slip in and out of our schools just waiting for some situation to set off their little time bomb minds, so they can come after the innocent with the wrath of an unjust little god.

The solution to school violence must run deeper than things like gun control. You can take away guns from those whose depth of character is about as deep as a mud puddle, and they will find another way to kill. The only, the only, the only solution is to repair the foundation of our beloved school systems. If we refuse to repair it and go along with our so-called "expert leaders," we will continue to be at the mercy of those little time bombs.

Tick...tick...tick...

Editorial Roundup

The following is a roundup of editorials published by newspapers around the country. The editorials comment on a variety of issues. Some editorials may have been condensed for space purposes. These editorials are not to be mistaken as representing a position taken by The Associated Press or the Murray Ledger & Times:

— The Cincinnati Post, on Christmas and the Constitution

The Christmas holiday has survived a persistent, contentious — and alas, misguided — legal challenge from Cincinnati lawyer Richard Ganulin.

The U.S. Supreme Court declined to hear Ganulin's lawsuit, which argued that designating Christmas as a federal holiday violates the Constitution by promoting Christianity over other religions. The decision marks "the end of the line for the 'rinch,'" quipped Kevin Hasson, president of the Eket Fund for Religious Liberty.

Throughout his legal battle Ganulin has bristled at such comparisons to the fictional Dr. Seuss character who tried to steal Christmas. And he has a point: The religious freedoms that Ganulin, contending at risk are some of our most precious rights. As U.S. District Judge Susan Dlott ruled in 1999, Dec. 25 is not just a religious holy day, it is a holiday accepted throughout American culture.

By refusing to hear Ganulin's case, the Supreme Court has allowed Judge Dlott's ruling to stand.

Though their motivations were different, Ganulin does have this in common with the Grinch: both discovered that trying to steal Christmas is no easy task.

LIBRARY NEWS

BEN GRAVES

Calloway County Librarian

We've gotten a lot of books in this past week. Here are some of the high spots:

Books of poetry have always circulated well (not being especially poetry-prone, I was surprised to find it so.) On the other hand, books about poetry (usually cast-off college textbooks) didn't circulate well at all. We said to ourselves "that's fine, let's try a slightly more relaxed approach to the subject."

Thus, we have "Poetry for Dummies" by John Timpane. Don't laugh. I had some really excellent English teachers while in high school, but I still learned a thing or two from just looking through it.

Poetry is a serious book that manages not to gush hearts and flowers when talking about the meaning in word. It's light but substantial and it's highly recommended.

An always remember that today's trash might be tomorrow's classic work of English literature. Take Jacqueline Susann's "Valley of the Dolls" for instance. One of Ms. Susann's trio of wildly successful novels, Valley details the experiences of Anne, Neely and Jennifer as they climb to the top of the entertainment industry and slide off into drug abuse and despair. It was great tacky reading in 1966 and it still is.

Or you might prefer Laura Ingalls Wilder's "Little House in the Big Woods." We've gotten a new copy in and this one's a special read-aloud edition. It's in extra big print and just right for reading to little people before they go to sleep. If it circulates well, we'll see about getting more books in this format.

Highly recommended, as always. "Long before the American cowboys made their appearance, vaqueros rode the ranges and cattle trails of Mexico and vast areas of what became a part of the United States." That's from "Vaqueros: America's First Cowmen" by Martin W. Sandler. When you think "cowboy" the picture that comes into your mind is based on the vaquero. Find out about the west as it really was, not the way Hollywood wanted it to be.

If beans, bacon and cowboy coffee cooked over a buffalo chip fire isn't your idea of a good time, then you might want to try Mary Engle's "Decorating Ideas: Project to Make for Indoors and Out."

I like Mary Engle's style of illustration, but it's just that her choice of subjects would clash with the eclectically tasteless decorating choices I've made in my office.

And as much as I enjoy laughing at decorating books, this one has a number of projects that are actually quite attractive.

While we're decorating, try out "The Kidspice Idea Book" by Wendy A. Jordan. Children need different space and different kinds of space than adults do. If space is running short around your place, there's the book that can help you make the most out of what you've got.

Finally, there's "Superhuman" by Robert Winston and Lori Olliventein. It's survey of modern medical marvels, from microsurgery to gene therapy to prosthetic devices.

Beautifully illustrated and highly recommended.

SPECIAL SINGER...Lynne York, right, was the featured soloist at the April brunch of Christian Women of Murray. At left is Allene Knight, accompanist. The next brunch will be Friday at 10 a.m. at Green Horse Restaurant. Reservations should be made by tonight by calling Freda Lovett at 753-3999 or Jo Lovett at 753-4683.

Samford to join OVC

Staff Report

Murray Ledger & Times

BRENTWOOD, Tenn. - The Ohio Valley Conference will expand to 11 members for the first time in the league's 53-year history with the addition of Samford University.

President Thomas E. Curtis and Director of Athletics Bob Roller announced Tuesday that Samford will join the OVC no later than June 1, 2003.

The Bulldogs have been members of the Trans America Athletic Conference since 1978 in all sports except football, where they have competed as an independent at the NCAA I-AA scholarship level since 1988. It will be the first time in Samford's 160-year history that all 17 men's and women's sports will be members of the same athletic league.

"The Ohio Valley Conference is excited with Samford's decision to join the league," said OVC Commissioner Dan Beebe. "With the recent decision of Jacksonville State to become a member, this gives our conference great exposure in Alabama and two fine institutions to assist us in building on our 53 years of excellence. Our members have a tremendous amount of respect for Samford and look forward to embarking on this relationship."

Samford, located in Birmingham, Ala., has an enrollment of 4,494 students and will be the first private institution in the OVC. "I have been impressed with the steady, even-handed operations of the Ohio Valley Conference since we first discussed this possibility some years ago," Corts said.

"Commissioner Beebe runs a quality operation in a respected, highly-competitive conference, but our coaches and teams feel up to the challenge of competing in all sports," he continued.

"Even though we will be the only private, independent institution in the conference, we believe the OVC will be a good place for an institution with our academic and athletic values."

The Bulldogs' men's basketball team advanced to the NCAA men's Basketball Championship in 1999 and 2000 after capturing the TAAC title. Samford also earned an at-large berth to the Division I-AA football playoffs in 1991 and 1992.

"We're very excited that this move unifies our entire athletic department and allows Samford the opportunity to compete for 17 championships in the coming years," Roller noted. "We have competed against most OVC institutions in the past decade, and have greatly increased our recruiting base of student-athletes into this geographic region."

Current OVC members include Austin Peay State, Eastern Illinois, Eastern Kentucky, Murray State, Southeast Missouri State, Tennessee-Martin, Tennessee State and Tennessee Tech. Jacksonville State, located in Jacksonville, Ala., announced last month that it would also be joining the OVC no later than June 1, 2003.

Lady Tigers fall to Marshall Co.

Staff Report

Murray Ledger & Times

Members of the Murray High softball team watched Calloway County's first-ever fast-pitch win over Marshall County Monday.

But the Lady Marshals wouldn't let lightning strike twice, rapping 18 hits — all singles — to beat the Lady Tigers 15-3 in Tuesday's Fourth District game at Chestnut Park.

Kara Holley, Emily Stone and Becky Travis all had three hits for Marshall (22-9), which also drew eight walks from MHS pitcher Kaci Carpenter (6-7) to blow open a 6-3 contest through three innings.

The Lady Tigers also committed three errors in falling to 8-7 on the year.

"We didn't play as well as we can, and against the 25th-ranked team in the state, you have to play up to your potential," said Murray head coach Dave Carr. "We gave up too many walks, and (Marshall) scored a bunch of runs with two outs."

Ashley Thweatt (3-0) tossed a five-hitter for the Lady Marshals, striking out five while walking two Lady Tiger batters. Carpenter fanned one Marshall hitter while allowing 12 earned runs.

The visitors got on the board first when Kara Holley opened the game with a walk, stole second base, advanced to third on a wild pitch and scored on Trista Fralix's RBI single. Fralix eventually came home on a passed ball for a 2-0 Lady Marshal lead.

But MHS would stay in contention with a run in the bottom of the first. Lisa Thurman led off the frame with a single through the left side of the infield, took second on Megan Snow's sacrifice bunt, moved to third on a wild pitch and crossed the plate on Lacey Latimer's groundout.

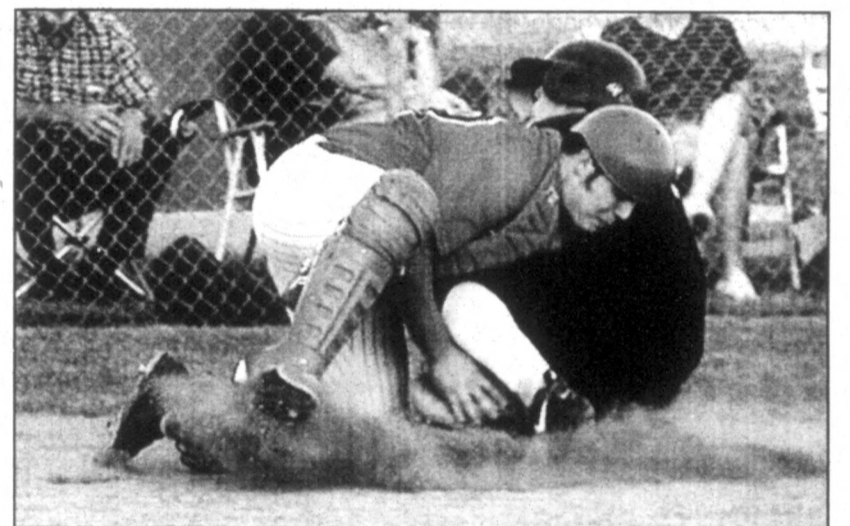

Marshall got that run back in the second as Adrienne Gann and Stone started things with back-to-back singles, setting up Travis' RBI base hit. The guests added three more runs in the top of the third for a 6-1 cushion.

The Lady Tigers wouldn't go away, though, as Thurman and Snow laced back-to-back one-out singles and Shaina Marinoff sliced the deficit to three with a two-run double to left field.

But as Thweatt got stingy on the mound, the Lady Marshals got greedy at the plate, recording a run in the fourth, five in the fifth and three more in the sixth to put the 10-run mercy rule in effect.

"Marshall really didn't kill the ball, but they had some hard-hit singles," said Carr, whose squad continues its district tournament preparations with a doubleheader versus Hickman County today at 4:30 p.m. in Hickman.

"Marshall is an experienced, senior-laden team and a very good team, and we have to beat either them or Calloway to get out of the district."

Lakers earn split of Tuesday DH

Staff Report

Murray Ledger & Times

Justin Fox's two-run home run saved Calloway County's Baseball Senior Day as the Lakers rebounded from a 15-1 loss to Reidland with an 8-4 win over Fulton City Tuesday at CCHS Field.

Fox's homer keyed a four-run fifth-inning rally against Fulton City pitcher John Alexander and turned a 4-2 deficit into a 6-4 advantage for the Lakers (15-10-1).

Senior Rodney Emerson earned the pitching win for Calloway, limiting the Bulldogs (9-9) to four runs — all in the third inning — in six innings before handing the ball to senior reliever Mark Chamberlain.

Seniors Tony Ryan, Derek McCallum and Josh Owen led CCHS at the plate. Ryan went 2-for-4 with a triple and two RBIs, McCallum was 2-for-4 with a double and Owen added a two-bagger.

In the opening game of the three-team doubleheader, Reidland (21-7) plated six runs in the top of the first and never looked back as Geoffrey Kirksey belted two home runs and drove in six RBIs.

The Greyhounds added Kirksey's two-run blast in the second, three runs in the third and Kirksey's grand slam in the fourth to put the 10-run mercy rule in effect after five innings of play. Reidland outlit the Lakers 14-4 as starting pitcher Brian Behrendt (2-for-4, double, two RBIs) went the distance.

Chamberlain paced Calloway with two hits in three at-bats while starting pitcher Dean Futrell helped his cause with a double.

The Lakers are scheduled to visit Heath Thursday for a doubleheader beginning at 4 p.m.

Local doubles teams advance in girls' First Region tennis play

Staff Report

Murray Ledger & Times

PADUCAH, Ky. — Calloway County's fifth-seeded doubles team of Kelly Taylor and Julia Franklin and Murray High's eighth-seeded duo of Megan Haverstock and Mallory Rudolph both advanced to the quarterfinals of the Girls' First Region Tennis Tournament Tuesday.

Taylor-Franklin defeated Leach-Bushart of Marshall County 6-0, 6-1 in the first round and Cook-Brown of Mayfield 6-1, 6-2 in the second round to move into Thursday's round of eight, while Haverstock-Rudolph beat Fowler-Wright of Graves County 6-2, 6-2 and Milligan-Lacy of Hopkinsville 6-1, 6-0.

Thursday's bracket pits Taylor-Franklin against Heath's top-seeded pair of Leeper-England while Haverstock-Rudolph will face Mayfield's third-seeded tandem of Kar-poukhina-Hughes.

In other doubles action Tuesday, Murray's Meghan King and Sarah Rall fell 6-4, 6-1 to Rechter-Wellieder of Hopkinsville as Calloway's Haley Lynn and Anne-Marie Dunlap suffered a 6-2, 6-2 setback against No. 2 seed Wallace-Bray of St. Mary.

Only one area girls' singles player survived past the opening round as Murray's Blair Lane beat Fort Campbell's Melanie Reyes 6-0, 6-1. But No. 4 seed Katie Fallett of Paducah Tilghman handed Lane a 6-1, 6-1 loss in the round of 16.

KEEP-AWAY...Milwaukee's Darvin Ham, right, and Charlotte's Jamal Mashburn go after a loose ball in the third quarter of Tuesday's NBA Eastern Conference playoff game in Milwaukee. The Hornets won 94-86 to take a 3-2 series lead.

Hornets take 3-2 series lead

MILWAUKEE (AP) — The Charlotte Hornets beat the Milwaukee Bucks at their own game and on their own court Tuesday night.

Jamal Mashburn scored 24 points and the Hornets imitated Milwaukee's up-tempo, jump-shooting style to perfection in a 94-86 victory that moved them within one win of their first trip to the Eastern Conference finals.

Baron Davis added 19 points and had a career-high five 3-pointers for sixth-seeded Hornets, who handed the Bucks their first loss at the Bradley Center in exactly two months.

Milwaukee, which owns a three-game losing streak for the first time since Nov. 22-25, faces elimination in Game 6 Thursday night in Charlotte.

Glenn Robinson scored 22 points and Ray Allen had 20 for the Bucks, who trimmed a 14-point third-quarter deficit to three points late in the fourth quarter before fading over the final three minutes.

Sam Cassell's 3-pointer with 4 1/2 minutes left pulled the Bucks to 85-82, but Mashburn hit two free throws and a layup and Davis swished his fifth 3-pointer as the Hornets took a 92-84 lead with 2:06 left.

Robinson's basket with 1:55 remaining made it 92-86, but

MHS rallies for 7-5 win

Staff Report

Murray Ledger & Times
Cary Miller's "Cardiac Kids" are at it again.

The Murray High baseball team trailed Mayfield 5-2 through three innings Tuesday at Ty Holland Field before rallying for a 7-5 victory over the Cardinals and improving to 22-2 on the season with its ninth straight win.

Outlit 12-9 and guilty of two errors and several baserunning mistakes, the Tigers knotted the contest with three runs in the fourth and pulled ahead of Mayfield (2-14) with single tallies in the fifth and sixth frames.

Austin Swain, Mario Lawrence and Zach Hampton all had two hits to pace the Murray offense. "We hadn't played in five days, and I think it showed," Miller said. "We weren't sharp and we made entirely too many mental mistakes for this time of year, but we played well enough to win."

Blake Hoover (4-0) worked three innings of relief to earn the win for MHS, allowing one run on two hits while striking out two Cardinals and walking one. Justin Maynard scattered three hits over the final two frames, striking out two against one walk to collect the save.

Starter Blake Rayburn yielded four runs on seven hits in two innings of work, fanning one Mayfield batter while not granting a free pass as Miller tried to keep his pitching staff fresh for the postseason.

The visitors jumped out to a 3-0 lead in the top of the first, loading the diamond with three singles before Justin Tate cleared the bases with a two-out triple.

But the Tigers answered with two scores in the bottom of half of the inning as Dylan Volp singled with one out, stole second base and moved to third when the Cardinals misplayed a ball off the bat of Kyle Erwin. Lawrence then doubled in Volp before Erwin came home on Matt Kelleher's groundout.

Doubles keyed Mayfield's one-run rallies in both the second and third frames, but Lawrence's lead-off single and a walk to Kelleher to open the fourth revved Murray's engines.

Hampton ripped a two-run single to the fence in left field to cut the deficit to 5-4. Pinch runner Cody Latimer later crossed the plate on Swain's game-tying RBI single.

The Tigers then grasped their first lead of the day in the fifth when Lawrence reached on a one-out error and swiped second base before scoring on Kelleher's RBI single. Hampton's leadoff single, a steal of second by pinch runner Brandon Thurmond and Swain's RBI single produced an insurance run in the sixth.

Murray returns to action Thursday when it hosts Crittenden County at 5:30 p.m. at Reagan Field.

Lady Lakers pound Tilghman, cruise 13-6

Staff Report

Murray Ledger & Times

PADUCAH, Ky. — Calloway County's offense blitzed Paducah Tilghman for 11 unanswered runs, sailing to a 13-6 triumph over the Lady Tornado in prep softball action Tuesday afternoon.

The Lady Lakers (9-6) put together 12 hits to score three runs in the first inning, two in the second and six more in the third to blast Tilghman.

"We hit the ball really well," said CCHS head coach Tommy Greer. "Our offense produced and Tilghman made four errors. I thought that made a big difference."

Unlike Monday's 2-1 thriller over rival Marshall County, the Lady Lakers left no doubt as to who was in charge of this contest — getting a leadoff double from Megan Miller that led to the first three runs.

Calloway added two more runs in the second with the help of an RBI single from Ashley Chadwick, and then poured it on in the third with run-scoring singles from Miller, Chadwick, Jessica Greer, Danielle McMillen and Sara Scott for an 11-0 lead.

Treva Robinson blasted a pair of home runs for the Lady Tornado, who scored four runs in the bottom of the third and two more in the seventh but were unable to overcome Calloway's big advantage.

Kalyn Fox was credited with the victory for CCHS, allowing four runs on three hits, striking out three and walking two in two-plus innings of work. Chadwick pitched the remainder of the game, allowing two runs on five hits, striking out five and walking two.

Chadwick was also the hitting star for the Lady Lakers, going 3-for-5 with three RBIs. Miller was 2-for-4 with an RBI.

"I don't think that we played real sharp," Greer explained. "But the bottom line is that we got a win, and that's all that matters to us."

Calloway returns to action Thursday, hosting Fulton City in a 4:30 p.m. contest.

Wesler's project is a cooperative program with the department of history at the University of the West Indies, Jamaica. Wesler takes two MSU students each summer to join Jamaican colleagues and students in the excavation.

The Reed Foundation grant will support analysis of animal bones from the 2000, 2001 and 2002 excavations. "This is important," Wesler said. "Animal bones tell us about diet, and how the diet changed through time."

The archaeological team is excavating a village of the Taino, who were the Native American people of the Caribbean. Most of the Taino died within a generation after the arrival of Christopher Columbus in the Caribbean.

"There has been very little prehistoric archaeology in Jamaica for almost 40 years," Wesler noted, "so our project is breaking new ground."

The main part of the Taino village site was occupied from about 1350 to 1500 AD., Wesler said. "But we also have some earlier deposits, which makes the site really interesting."

The Reed Foundation has sponsored exhibits about the Taino at the Museo del Barrio in New York, Wesler said. "Those exhibits got them interested in Taino archaeology. We are very pleased that they have chosen to support our project as well."

He presented a preliminary report on the project at the annual meeting of the Society for American Archaeology in New Orleans in late April.

The project has also been supported by MSU's Committee on Institutional Studies and Research and private donors, Wesler said.

Texas man convicted in murder-for-hire scheme

OWENSBORO, Ky. (AP) — A Texas businessman was convicted Tuesday of assisting in a murder-for-hire scheme that resulted in two deaths.

A federal jury deliberated for about five hours over two days before convicting Richard T. Dorman of conspiring to commit murder for hire.

Dorman, 64, of Emory, Texas, faces a maximum sentence of life in prison at his Aug. 10 sentencing in U.S. District Court. Before the trial started, Dorman pleaded guilty to two federal counts of bank fraud.

Dorman was charged in connection with the 1999 deaths of Aaron "Jack" Norris, 77, of Robards; and James Nichols, 56, of Eva, Ala.

The trial, expected to last up to three weeks, ended Monday after only four days when the defense rested without calling any witnesses.

Defense attorney Allen Holbrook said in closing arguments that Dorman admitted participating in a bank fraud scheme but had nothing to do with the slayings. Holbrook said that Dorman did not know of the deaths until after they had occurred.

Assistant U.S. Attorney Jim Lesousky said Dorman played a key role in the scheme. Two others face conspiracy charges in the case.

"The murders were committed for profit," Lesousky said. "The person they looked to, to make the profit work, was Dorman."

Investigators seek answers to runaway train

KENTON, Ohio (AP) — The train rumbled through farm fields and cities, traveling nearly 70 miles with no one at the controls before Jon Hosfeld sprinted alongside the front car, jumped aboard and brought the wayward locomotive to a halt.

The CSX Transportation employee's daring effort Tuesday came as authorities blocked traffic and made preparations in case the train carrying hazardous liquids derailed. The train stayed on the tracks, and no one was hurt.

"My adrenaline was pumping," Hosfeld, a 31-year CSX employee, told The Washington Post. But "I didn't lose my focus. ... I got a wife and daughter, and I don't want to do anything foolish."

The 47-car train hit speeds of 46 mph as it rolled through northwest Ohio, but workers slowed it to about 10 mph near Kenton, about 55 miles northwest of Columbus, when Hosfeld climbed on board, authorities said.

Kathleen Burns, a CSX spokeswoman, said the company's investigators planned to head to Toledo on Wednesday for a thorough inquiry. The National Transportation Safety Board and the Federal Railroad Administration are investigating.

Antique show and auction to be held

Special to the Ledger
The United Way of Murray-Cal-loway County is gearing up for its first ever antique show and auction, June 29-July 1, at the Regional Special Events Center on Murray State University's campus. All proceeds from the show and auction will benefit the United Way.

This year's show will feature a number of activities focused on drawing numerous spectators and shoppers. The event kick-off will be the "What's It Worth Show with Mike Mallory," broadcast by WPSD Newschannel 6 on Friday.

Two thousand tickets will be sold to individuals who are interested in bringing in items to be appraised. Appraisal tickets are currently on sale at the Murray Tourism Commission office ($10 each, which includes general admission to the show and entrance of one item in the appraisal show).

Tickets are limited to two per person and will be sold for specific time slots during the day. There will be 500 tickets sold for each two-hour period between 8 a.m. and 4 p.m. A live broadcast will be aired between 11:30 a.m.-noon, featuring approximately seven items.

On Saturday from 9 a.m.-6p.m., there will be seminars conducted by appraisers on various antique topics. Also, there will be an open auction for antiques. Sunday will once again feature seminars from 1-5 p.m., which will be conducted by Lark E. Mason Jr., vice president of the Chinese department of Sotheby's and an appraiser for the Antiques Roadshow.

Live musical entertainment will be provided off and on throughout the show.

General admission will be $3 for adults; children 12 and under will be admitted free.

Antique vendor applications are being accepted. For a detailed information packet, including rules and regulations, persons may call the Murray Tourism Commission (1-800-651-1603 or 759-2199) or e-mail Lisa Clinton at Lisa.Clin-ton@uphna.com (daytime) or lisc-li@apex.net (evenings and week-ends).

Wal-Mart employees to raise funds

The employees of Wal-Mart will sponsor their annual Spring Fair at the Murray store Saturday from 10 a.m.-4 p.m. to raise money to benefit the Children's Miracle Network (CMN).

Games, prizes, food, a car wash and live band will be part of the day, and a special feature will be a children's art auction with art pieces donated by students from Calloway County Middle School and North Calloway Elementary art programs.

This year, the Calloway County School District partnered with Wal-Mart employees to help with the event. Students from East Calloway, North Calloway, Southwest Calloway and Calloway Middle School gave contributions to the CMN.

The PTO and PTA officers coordinated the fundraising efforts. High school Y-Club students Terra Rica Murdock, Brent Burchett, Robert Schindler, Paul Colwell, Ashley Peters, Tiffany Shelwell, Nicole Erwin and Addie Erwin will help run the booths at the fair.

FOCUS ON THE FAMILY

DR. JAMES DOBSON
Syndicated Columnist

QUESTION: My children are still in elementary school, and I want to avoid adolescent rebellion in the future if I can. What can you tell me to help me get ready for this scary time?

DR. DOBSON: I can understand why you look toward the adolescent years with some apprehension. This is a tough time to raise kids.

Many youngsters sail right through that period with no unusual stresses and problems, but others get caught in a pattern of rebellion that disrupts families and scares their moms and dads to death. I've spent several decades trying to understand that phenomenon and how to prevent it.

The encouraging thing is that the most rebellious teens usually grow up to be responsible and stable adults who can't remember why they were so angry in earlier days.

I once devoted a radio program to a panel of "formerly rebellious teens" that included three successful ministers, the Rev. Raul Ries, Pastor Mike MacIntosh and the Rev. Franklin Graham, son of Dr. Billy and Ruth Graham. Each of them had been difficult adolescents who gave their parents fits.

With the exception of Raul, who had been abused at home, the other two couldn't recall what motivated their misbehavior or why they didn't just go along and get along.

That is often the way with adolescence. It's like a tornado that drops unexpectedly out of a dark sky, tyrannizes a family, shakes up the community and then blows on by. Then the sun comes out and spreads its warmth again.

Even though the teen years can be challenging, they're also filled with excitement and growth. Rather than fearing that experience, therefore, I think you ought to anticipate it as a dynamic time when your kids transition from childhood to full-fledged adulthood.

QUESTION: How can I help my child develop wholesome, respectful attitudes toward people of other racial and ethnic groups?

DR. DOBSON: There is no substitute for parental modeling of the attitudes we wish to teach. Someone wrote, "The footsteps a child follows are most likely to be the ones his parents thought they covered up." It is true. Our children are watching us carefully, and they instinctively imitate our behavior.

We can hardly expect them to be kind to the entire human family if we are prejudiced and rejecting. Likewise, we will be unable to teach appreciativeness if we never say "please" or "thank you" at home or abroad. We will not produce honest children if we teach them to lie to the bill collector on the phone by saying, "Dad's not home."

In these matters, our boys and girls instantly discern the gap between what we say and what we do. And of the two choices, they usually identify with our behavior and ignore our empty proclamations.

If you never speak derogatorily about racial minorities, and if you absolutely will not tolerate racially based jokes and slurs, your children will not fail to notice. It's the best place to begin your teaching process.

QUESTION: How do I get started in discussing sex with my children? Is there a natural way to get into the topic?

DR. DOBSON: Fortunately, most children will ask for information when they need it. You should be ready to grab those opportunities at the drop of a hat. Sometimes very little warning is given.

Our daughter asked for very specific details when she was only 7 years old, catching her mother off-guard. My wife stalled for an hour during which she alerted me. Then the three of us sat on the bed drinking hot chocolate and talking about matters we hadn't expected to discuss for several years.

You never know when such moments will arrive, and you need to think them through in advance.

Although those spontaneous conversations are easiest, some children never ask the right questions. Some boys and girls have "inquiring minds that want to know," while others never give the subject of sex a second thought.

If your child is one of those who seems uninterested, you're still on the hook. The task must get done. Someone else will do the job if you won't - someone who may not share your values.

Plan to fight OxyContin is established

WASHINGTON (AP) — State law enforcement chiefs pledged Monday to fight the growing abuse of OxyContin, a painkiller primarily prescribed for cancer patients. A national task force launched by the officials will study current programs, including a computer database that helps spot potential abusers.

"This drug can be the angel of life when used appropriately," said Mark Earley, attorney general of Virginia, where OxyContin abuse has led to at least 32 overdose deaths. "When used illegally it can be an angel of death."

OxyContin, a synthetic morphine hailed as a miracle drug for patients suffering severe pain, has become a popular illicit drug in some parts of the country.

Users grind the pills, snort the powder or inject a mixture of powder and water, hoping for an effect similar to that of heroin, officials said. Many users seek extra portions from doctors and pharmacists, but others simply break into drugstores or steal doctors' prescription pads to forge prescriptions.

Maryland Attorney General Joseph Curran Jr. said the abuse of the prescription drug is becoming a national problem, spreading from western Virginia and other parts of the Appalachian Mountains.

More than 120 overdose deaths nationwide have been linked to OxyContin.

DR. GOTT

By Peter H. Gott, M.D.

DEAR DR. GOTT: What is positional vertigo?

DEAR READER: Each of us has a gyroscope, called the semicircular canals, in the ear. These small but complex organs relay messages to the brain, telling us the positions of our heads. Head movement causes stimulation of the semicircular canals, and we perceive motion. Violent, repetitive movement leads to over-stimulation of the canals, with resulting dizziness, nausea and feeling unwell — the syndrome of motion sickness.

On occasion, normal people will experience a sensation of spinning (vertigo) in the absence of motion. This is due to poorly understood irritation of the semicircular canals, caused by a variety of factors, including tiny calcium chips in the canals, virus infections, diminished circulation and certain tumors.

This vertigo often occurs when the head is in specific positions; hence, positional vertigo. Because it is relieved when the head is placed in different positions, one can conclude that part of the balance mechanism, but not all of it, is malfunctioning. The vertigo is ordinarily benign, lasting for a few hours or days, and then disappears as quickly as it came. Treatment with a formal schedule of head movements, coupled with medication, helps the condition, but most people simply avoid head positions that cause symptoms.

Benign positional vertigo is common. If it is severe, recurrent or tends to last, examination by an ear-nose-and-throat specialist is advisable, in order to rule out more serious causes, such as tumors.

instances, the quality control may be lacking.

DEAR DR. GOTT: Please explain sarcoidosis in plain language. My 20-year-old son suffers from it, and we don't understand what it is.

DEAR READER: Common in Northern Europeans and American blacks, sarcoidosis is a disease of unknown cause, marked by the widespread appearance, in various organs, of non-caseating granulomas — small, round areas of cellular inflammation. The disorder characteristically involves lymph nodes, causing them to enlarge; however, lung, liver, eyes and bone can also be affected.

In most cases, sarcoidosis is discovered by accident in routine chest x-rays, because the lymph nodes around the heart become swollen and appear as shadows on the radiograph. This may be accompanied by x-ray shadows in the lungs, fever, weight loss and cough. Most patients, however, have few, if any, symptoms. On occasion rash, spleen enlargement, visual difficulties or liver malfunction may be present.

The diagnosis is confirmed by biopsy: Small pieces of lung, lymph node or liver can be removed through a hollow needle and examined under a microscope for the tell-tale granulomas. These cellular reactions must be differentiated from similar patterns caused by tuberculosis and fungal infections.

Most patients with sarcoidosis recover without treatment. In some instances, when the disease is widespread or advanced, cortisone therapy will hasten recovery. If vision is affected or patients have difficulty breathing, cortisone is mandatory. Some lung disability, usually secondary to pulmonary scarring, is usually present with chronic sarcoidosis. However, the disease is rarely fatal.

PETER GOTT, M.D.

DEAR DR. GOTT: How do drug companies actually measure the milligrams per pill or capsule? How do we know what we're getting?

DEAR ABBY

DEAR ABBY: I have lived in this town for 40 years. My ex-husband and I divorced 34 years ago. Our children are adults, and we have four grandchildren, ranging in age from 4 to 10. I have many friends, but there are two women in this town I cannot tolerate. One has been my ex-husband's wife for 25 years. They are now being divorced. Wouldn't you know — his current "main squeeze" is the other woman I can't stand.

When his second marriage ended, the entire family breathed a sigh of relief. I am almost 70 now, and all of us had hoped we could enjoy future family events without the stress of having someone around I disliked. (The family gets together every other month or so, and both my ex and I are invited.)

My ex now wants his girlfriend included in these family celebrations. I told him in no uncertain terms that I have purposely avoided this woman for many years. I do not want to associate with her simply because he is now involved with her. My children love their father and me, and are now caught in the middle.

Abby, do you think I am being unreasonable?

MIMI IN ST. LOUIS

DEAR MIMI: Don't make your family choose between you and your ex-husband. You cannot control whom your family invites. You can control how many times a year you want to be around someone you dislike.

Perhaps you have misjudged this woman. I hope you can look beyond her faults for the sake of family unity.

DEAR ABBY: This letter is in reference to the one from the pilot ("Joey Jet") who was afraid of roller coasters. You were right when you said his fear stemmed from the fact that he wasn't in control when he was on an amusement park ride.

It has been decades, but I still remember a ride at an amusement park where my boyfriend and I shared a seat and one of us could direct our "airplane flight" with a knob. When he directed us, everything was fine. As soon as I took the knob, he got sick and had to take the controls from me. As long as he was in control, he was fine.

As it turned out, he became a bomber pilot in World War II and flew 35 missions out of England over Germany.

AUDREY IN PORT RICHEY, FLA.

DEAR AUDREY: That's interesting. If the number of letters I have received from pilots is any indication, "Joey Jet" is far from alone in suffering from the problem. Read on for an eye-opener:

DEAR ABBY: I have been both a pilot and an airport traffic controller, and have logged millions of passenger miles. I share the same problem as "Joey Jet." I have acrophobia — a fear of heights. While I have no fear of flying, I cannot tolerate high amusement park rides like roller coasters.

I agree with you that lack of control plays a part, but it's also the fact that rides, tall buildings and canyon ledges are visibly connected to the ground. When you're flying high in the sky, only your flight instruments measure altitude and speed.

Nothing compares to that exhilarating sensation of "loosing the bonds of Earth" on takeoff.

UP AND AWAY GRANDMA IN CALIFORNIA

DEAR UP AND AWAY: Thank you for the expert input, but I disagree. For me, nothing compares to the relief I feel coasting to the terminal after a safe landing.

Abby shares her favorite recipes in a two-booklet set. To order, send a business-size, self-addressed envelope, plus check or money order for $7.90 per set ($9 per set in Canada) to: Dear Abby Cookbooklet Set, P.O. Box 447, Mount Morris, IL 61054-0447. (Postage is included in the price.)

The bidding: East South West North Pass 1♥ Pass 2♦ Pass 2♥ Pass 4♥ Opening lead — four of diamonds.

The defenders would find their task much more difficult if they had no signals to guide each other to the best method of defense. One of the more valuable signals available to them is known as the "trump echo."

When declarer is playing in a suit contract, it is often critical for a defender to know how many trumps his partner has. This problem can in many cases be solved by making use of the trump echo.

Here's how it works: Let's say a defender has the 6-4-2 of trumps. To indicate that he has an odd number of trumps — usually three — he plays the four the first time trumps are led and the two the next time. (He would follow the same procedure if he were trumping a trick, ruffing with the four first.) As a corollary, if a defender plays the two first and later plays the four, he indicates holding an even number of trumps.

The trump echo can be very useful, as illustrated by today's hand. West led a low diamond that East had no trouble reading as a singleton. Accordingly, East took his ace and returned the deuce, which West trumped with the four.

West returned a low club, East's king losing to the ace. Declarer then led the king of trumps, West playing the two as East won with the ace. Without the trump echo, East would now have had to guess what to do next.

If declarer — who had opened and rebid hearts — had started with six hearts, the only remaining hope was that West had the club queen, in which case East should now return a club. But if South started with only five hearts, West could trump another diamond.

West's trump echo — he had played the four and then the deuce — made the problem easy to solve. East returned a diamond, knowing full well that his partner had another trump, and the contract went down one.

Tomorrow: Little strokes fell great oaks.

PROTECT YOUR INVESTMENT. Due to high rising petroleum costs, asphalt pavement is a major investment. The sun, rainwater, salt, gasoline, and oil drippage will take their toll on asphalt, causing cracking and deterioration. With a low cost maintenance program the life of your asphalt can be doubled.
