What A Difference A Year Makes
This year's corn crop is daylight and dark to 2007's drought-damaged one

by GREG TRAVIS
Staff Writer

Calloway County Extension Agent for Agriculture/Natural Resources Todd Powell said this week that if things continue as they are, the 2008 corn crop is currently at a stage that should make for a good year.

"We were a little late getting started, what with the early spring rains, but crops are coming up great," he said. "We've had some scattered rain as we needed it."

Powell said six out of every seven crops in general are doing well this year.

"Things are looking a whole lot better. We're really about where we should be. At the end of May we were around eight inches ahead of the yearly average for May," he said. "That's not too bad, considering how far behind we were coming into spring."

Powell noted that everybody he has been in contact with is hoping for a good crop this year. "We're coming on strong and everyone is hoping everything continues and prices stay strong. Input is high, what with fuel, seed costs and other items. We will need a good yield to cover costs."

He continued his optimistic outlook by adding, "If everything continues on as it is right now, we'll be in good shape. It's hard to predict, but everything is going well right now."

Powell commented that local farmers will have to wait and see what happens. "Everybody is pretty much in the same boat."

He added that the rain has been, at times, somewhat of a hassle, trying to get corn crops planted.

He said the recent flooding in some of the Midwestern states should not affect local farmers. "We should be OK. Some of the river counties might see some effects of the flooding, but we should remain OK here."

Powell said last year's crops were "way below normal and it was an extremely bad year all the way around, but this year's crops look to be more in line with a normal year." Although he didn't want to make predictions or speculate as to any yield figures.

"Last year we got hit with that Easter freeze and then the corn and beans got powdered with a drought. But this year's crop should really start coming on in the next few weeks."

According to last year's statistics, Calloway County harvested 31,700 acres of corn, 46,000 acres of soybeans and 6,000 acres of wheat, among other crops.

Public meeting on historic district set for Monday

by HOLLY WISE
Staff Writer

A proposed historical overlay district has some property owners saying they have not received enough information from the city regarding the ordinance.

To combat the sentiment, the Murray Planning Commission requested that an informational meeting be held to discuss the purpose and ramifications of the ordinance.

The boundaries of the proposed historical overlay district will fall from Seventh Street to Railroad Avenue and from Elm Street to Olive Street.

For property owners in that district it means they will have to consult the architectural review board before making exterior changes to their homes or outbuildings.

"Their property is now under the oversight of the architectural review board," said Deana Wright, Murray Main Street manager. "If they want to do anything to their property — demolition, exterior construction — they will have to get a permit through the architectural review board."

"It's an additional layer of paperwork they'll have to go through to do that."

According to City Administrator Matt Mattingly, property owners will only have to obtain a permit from the architectural review board when they make an exterior change.

"We want to make sure it's historic in nature and what fits our downtown area," he said. "If someone owns a house that's historic in nature and they want to make some type of modifications, we want to make sure it fits the neighborhood."

Agencies 'cross train' for rapid response

by GREG TRAVIS
Staff Writer

Members of various law enforcement agencies participated Friday in an annual Rapid Response Training Session at Calloway County High School.

Calloway Sheriff Bill Marcum said the session was part of a continuing training process designed to keep officers prepared in the event they are deployed to the scene of an active shooting incident.

"It could be at a business, at Murray State University, one of the city or county schools or other places," he said. "We have officers training from the Sheriff's Department, the Murray Police Department, the Murray State University Police Department, the Kentucky State Police and the Kentucky Department of Fish and Wildlife."

"By cross-training we can stay prepared in the event we ever get a call to a situation similar to what happened in Henderson this week."

Marcum noted that, by training together, the officers were able to work back and forth and "the left hand can know what the right hand is doing."

He said officers attending the session learned responsibilities, strategies and other vital information necessary for rapid response situations.

"They will be studying general ideas and learning more about the other departments and officers," Marcum said. "During a rapid response incident minutes are ticking by, and it is important to know where to stage and how to establish contact with all necessary parties."

Marcum said officers were spending time in the classroom and participating in actual field training.

"We do this every year and sometimes even twice per year," he said. "The session is always very successful. It gets the officers together for a few hours and helps them to be more prepared."

2008 Kentucky General Assembly Pension Reform Special Session

Much left to be done

As expected, the Extraordinary Session closed Friday after House Bill 1, the state pension reform bill, followed an expedited process through the House and Senate.

There is much to be pleased about as without legislative intervention, state coffers would have faced a $27 billion unfunded liability. That's three times our annual budget. However, much is still left to be done — what we have done is merely begun to contain our costs and slow the growth of that unfunded liability.

By working in a bipartisan fashion, we were able to work quickly in this special session, passing House Bill 1 in the minimum five legislative days.

Here are some of the key points:

- Future non-hazardous hires will contribute 6 percent of pay towards retirement; 5 percent towards pension and 1 percent toward healthcare. This provision does not apply to teachers. (The teachers' plan was changed minimally and only to the extent that the teacher groups agreed.) The benefit factor will increase the longer they work — they must work longer to receive full retirement benefits (rule of 87).
- Retirement benefits will be based on the final five years of salary to include 60 months for non hazardous employees.
- The COLA will be 1.5 percent for new and existing employees and retirees but the General Assembly can increase this if it pre-funds the cost.
- Prohibits double-dipping — hazardous duty employees may return after one month and non-hazardous after three months, they can retain their retirement benefits but cannot obtain a second state pension.

■ Sets a schedule to get the retirement systems back to full funding of the actuarially required contribution (ARC) by 2025.

■ Provides one year respite to counties and city governments by allowing them to pay less than the ARC into its retirement system.

The state pension systems are funded by employee and employer contributions as well as investment returns. The ARC represents the employer contribution.

It is important to note that even when the General Assembly fully meets the ARC schedule in 2025, our unfunded liability will be even greater than it is now. This is why it is important to keep on reforming the system so that it is sustainable.

In addition, the estimated cost of providing health care is approximately 54 percent of the unfunded liability.

We must also identify strategies to provide incentives for state employees and pensioners to become better informed health care consumers.

We are in the "interim" period now as our committees study and follow several issues that are likely to be addressed in January. I hope you'll take the opportunity to visit our website at www.lrc.ky.gov and follow our work.

If you have an opinion on any bill or issue, please call our Legislative Message Line at 1-800-372-7181. I look forward to hearing from you.

More troops heading to Iraq in '09

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Pentagon is preparing to order roughly 30,000 troops to Iraq early next year in a move that would allow the U.S. to maintain 15 combat brigades in the country through 2009. The Associated Press has learned.

The deployments would replace troops currently there. But the decisions could change depending on whether Gen. David Petraeus, the top U.S. commander in Iraq, decides in the fall to further reduce troop levels in Iraq. Several officials familiar with the deployments spoke on condition of anonymity because the orders have not yet been made public.

According to the officials, three active-duty Army brigade combat teams, one Army National Guard brigade and two Marine regimental combat teams are being notified that they are being sent to Iraq in early 2009.

Officials would not release the specific units involved because the soldiers and Marines and their families have not all been told.

The Guard unit, however, is the 28th Infantry Division, from the Pennsylvania National Guard. Members of that unit — a large brigade with heavily armored Stryker vehicles — were told last October that they should be prepared to deploy to Iraq early in 2009. The order this week is the formal notice that includes a more specific time frame.

A first step toward stability

Both chambers of the Kentucky General Assembly this week unanimously passed House Bill 1, the first step in ensuring the long-term financial stability of the state's employee pension system.

For more than a year we have wrestled with pension reform and sought solutions that would protect public servants and minimize the burden on our taxpayers.

Since the 2007 Legislative Session, the House has worked hard to understand the problem, even engaging the services of an expert actuary. With his help, we built a database which includes an excellent analysis. This has guided all parties in the drafting of House Bill 1.

The House focused on the twin pillars of long-term financial stability and fairness to state employees, teachers, police officers, firefighters, and other public servants.

Also addressed were the concerns of local governments struggling to pay their existing obligations to the system. They have received significant and immediate budgetary relief as well with House Bill 1.

House Bill 1 constitutes a major break with the past. Newly hired state employees will work longer before they can retire with full or partial pension and health care benefits. The practice of double-dipping is over.

Future cost-of-living adjustments will be scaled back to a more affordable level. The effect of these major structural reforms will be immediate and far-reaching and the structural changes within House Bill 1 will prevent the system from going bankrupt.

Of course, we realize that these changes — while monumental in scope — are only the beginning, and that a number of ideas for further changes still need additional study.

The Governor has created work groups that will proceed with this additional analysis. Those work groups are made up of the same folks who helped bring about the passage of House Bill 1 including legislators, executive branch personnel, pension experts, state retirees, and city and county representatives.

It took us a long time to get to this special session and House Bill 1, but true reforms should not be rushed, especially when we are working toward ensuring financial security for the valued employees of our Commonwealth, teachers and classified employees, and public safety officers.

If you have any questions about House Bill 1, the working groups or any concerns about other issues, you may leave a message for me in Frankfort by calling the legislative toll-free Message Line at 800-372-7181, or by accessing my web page <http://melvinhenley.com>.

The proposed district is the result of a statewide mandate to cities across the Commonwealth that in order to keep the Main Street programs, the architectural review board had to be activated and they were required to have something to govern.

"We felt it was best for our city to keep the Murray Main Street Program," said Mattingly. "We knew that in order to do that we had to establish the boundaries for the architectural review board to oversee, which had never been done."

The mandate was passed down nearly 1 1/2 years ago and Mattingly said city officials have been discussing the proposed district for that long.

"The board's intention is to use a common sense approach and to not micromanage what people do with their structure," he said. "It's to help."

The permit property owners may have to obtain from the architectural review board if the proposed district is approved is free.

"They own something that's really part of the heritage of the city," he said. "We're counting on them to have the physical responsibility to take care of that structure."

The public informational meeting will be held Monday at 5 p.m. in the Robert O. Miller Conference Center located at 201 S. 4th St.

According to a letter written to all property owners in the district, Mattingly said a copy of the architectural review board ordinance and the city's design guidelines are available on the city's website or by calling 762-0330.

Plant shooting widow: Shooter should be forgiven

HENDERSON, Ky. (AP) — The wife of a plastics plant supervisor who was killed when an employee fired on co-workers with a .45-caliber pistol asked mourners on Friday to forgive the gunman.

Wesley Neal Higdon, 25, of Henderson, killed his supervisor Kevin Taylor, 30, of Dixon, Ky., and four other co-workers before turning the gun on himself Wednesday in a mid-night shooting spree.

Taylor's wife, Sarah Taylor, said in a written statement that Higdon was troubled, but "a good man."

"I pray that we all can find it in our hearts to forgive Neal Higdon and pray for his family," Taylor said. "Neal was a friend of Kevin and me. He was in our home many times."

Police continue to look for a reason for the shootings Wednesday that began after Higdon argued with a co-worker at a convenience store near Atlantis Plastics in Henderson, Ky.

Henderson Police Sgt. John Nevels said survivor Noelia Monroy, 29, of Henderson, told detectives Higdon was in good spirits just minutes before the shooting and was talking about movies.

"She said he was joking, cutting up, laughing and seemed fine," Nevels said.

Monroy, who survived the rampage with gunshot wounds to her arm, chest and leg, declined to be interviewed when contacted Friday by The Associated Press, but was listed in good condition at St. Mary's Hospital and Medical Center in Evansville, Ind.

Henderson County Coroner Bruce Farmer identified the other victims as Trisha Mirelez, 25, Rachael Vasquez, 26, and Joshua Hinojosa, 28, all of Sebree; and Israel Monroy, 29, of Henderson.

Police say Higdon, 25, shot Taylor outside the plant early Wednesday after an argument, then went inside and shot and killed four others before turning the gun on himself.

The shooting occurred hours after an argument with Taylor that riled Higdon, and he called his girlfriend late Tuesday and told her that he wanted to kill his boss, according to police.

The girlfriend didn't warn anyone, police said, and Higdon returned to the plant and began shooting.

Operations at Atlantis were immediately suspended after the shooting and resumed on a limited basis production a day later. CEO Bud Philbrook said full operations at the plant were expected to resume Monday.

DQ owners join Murray Main Street

Murray Main Street's annual membership drive involving corporations, businesses and individuals experienced a "cool" result when Hal and Leslie Kemp, the local Dairy Queen owners recently joined in support of the organization.

The Dairy Queen located on Main Street is a local icon and evokes a rite of spring and fall with its March 1 opening and Oct. 31 closing each year. Hundreds of Murray State University, Murray High School and Calloway County High School students have worked at the Dairy Queen during its 50-year plus existence.

The owners have received cards, letters, phone calls and emails from all over the world from former employees who consider themselves a fraternity or sorority.

"The list of alumni employees includes accomplished musicians, actors, physicians, business people and other leaders across a wide-array of other professions," said Hal Kemp. "We love the feeling that the DQ evokes while people are standing in line waiting to place their orders. It's like a reunion and gathering of friends each and every day," he said.

"Those who attended Murray State in the 50's and 60's recall walking downtown to go to the movies," said Pete Lancaster, sub-chair of the Murray Main Street promotions committee. "The Dairy Queen was the place we stopped for dessert after the movies on the way back to campus. We couldn't linger too long as our dates had to be back in the dorms at an early hour or be 'campused,' which meant they couldn't go out the next evening," he said.

"We appreciate the membership of this business located on Main Street" said John Williams, membership chair. "It is symbolic of the spirit and vision toward a unique, attractive corridor extending from the downtown area west to 18th Street. That will make Murray an even greater special city," he concluded.

The Murray Main Street membership drive supports the annual operating budget of the organization.

"That budget, and having a full-time director, is the key to our being eligible for state and federal grants," said Roger Reichmuth, president. "The grants result in really tangible, measurable progress toward the mission - that being the preservation and revitalization of our historic core."

For further information about memberships or the organization, call 759-9474, or visit the Murray Main Street office in the Robert O. Miller Conference Center.

Cornerstone Realty opens 12th St. office

Cornerstone Realty and Rental recently opened its new office at 306 South 12th Street here in Murray.

"We are happy to be serving our community in the real estate business and would be happy to assist you in finding your dream home, selling your property or managing your real estate investments," said Cornerstone Broker and General Manager Bonnie Byerly.

The assistance provided to buyers and sellers includes assessing competitive market values, creating customized marketing plans, providing net proceeds estimates, and negotiating the real estate contract.

In addition to providing the services of a typical real estate agency, Cornerstone's staff also manages rental properties for investors. This includes collecting rents, tending to maintenance and repairs and providing other services such as lawn care.

Locally owned by Gary and Peggy Taylor of Hazel and Greg and Kristin Taylor of Murray, Cornerstone is in its second year of operation. The company aims to both distinguish its property listings in the marketplace and remain grounded in the Christian principles upon which it was founded, according to a release from the agency.

For additional information, call 761-SELL or 761-RENT. More information also is available online at www.cornerstonerealty.com.

Trigg tourism director elected VP

CADIZ, Ky. — Cadiz/Trigg County Tourism Executive Director Bill Stevens has been elected to serve in the upcoming fiscal year as vice-president of the LBL Lakes Region Coalition.

This group of Kentucky and Tennessee counties was formed to develop and implement cooperative marketing programs that will enhance visibility and increase attendance and length of stay for visitors to the LBL Lakes Region.

"This approach to cooperate and work together to increase visitation to our area is critical to maintain business for Trigg County's lodging, marinas, and campgrounds," he said. "When we can encourage visitation it will also improve the chances of having guests explore our downtown, play golf, eat and shop at our many local businesses."

The LBL Lakes Area Coalition has developed a website www.visitlakes.com which links potential visitors to local Tourist sites like www.gocadiz.com. The coalition also has been working with Group Travel Planners, attending Group Travel Shows, developing a DVD presentation of the Lakes area to be used as a marketing tool for promoting to potential overnight guests.

Pella recognized as SmartWay partner

Special to the Ledger
PELLA, Iowa — Pella Windows & Doors is now recognized as a member of the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency's (EPA) SmartWay Transport Partnership program.

Pella received the accreditation for its responsible management of transportation partners and private fleet and committing to improve the environmental performance of freight operations.

"This is a natural fit and affiliation for Pella," said Steve Bowers, corporate logistics manager, Pella. "We have a deep history of being good stewards of the environment. And with our commitment to achieving greenhouse gas reduction goals, we'll carry on that proud tradition."

"I am pleased to welcome Pella Windows & Doors to the SmartWay Transport Partnership," said Margo T. Oge, Director of EPA's Office of Transportation and Air Quality. "We welcome their participation in the SmartWay Partnership and congratulate them on their commitment to improving their freight-related environmental performance and fuel efficiency."

Pella's goals as a new SmartWay Partner include:

- Seeking and contracting truck loads with SmartWay Partners.
- Communicating to those in the transportation industry Pella's status as a SmartWay Partner.
- Developing a "no idling" policy for carriers parking at Pella sites.
- Incorporating an internal SmartWay Partner educational program for Pella's more than 50 logistics employees around the country.

Pella also earned the U.S. Department of Energy's Energy Star Partner of the Year award for windows in 2007 and 2008 for its leadership in manufacturing energy-efficient windows and educating consumers about them.

The SmartWay Transport Partnership is an innovative collaboration between EPA and the freight industry to increase energy efficiency while striving to reduce greenhouse gases and air pollution.

Because of three-year commitments to upgrade their trucks with auxiliary power units, energy-efficient tires, enhanced trailer aerodynamics, and other improvements, the EPA estimates SmartWay partners are saving 600 million gallons of diesel fuel — a cost benefit of almost $2 billion. EPA estimates that SmartWay partners are saving 7 million metric tons of carbon-dioxide emissions that can contribute to global warming.

EPA launched SmartWay in 2004 to address the environmental and economic challenges surrounding growth in the freight industry. Through the program, EPA is now working with more than 600 businesses to improve both their bottom line and the environment by offering technical assistance, tools for evaluating opportunities to lower fuel use and emissions, and help in locating financing for the purchase of fuel-saving equipment and technology.

Pella Corporation is a leader in designing, testing, manufacturing and installing quality windows and doors for new construction and renovation projects. Pella earned the 2007 J.D. Power and Associates award for "Highest in Customer Satisfaction among Window and Door Manufacturers."

As a family-owned and professionally managed privately-held company, Pella is known for its 83-year history of innovation, making great products, providing quality service and delivering on customer satisfaction. Headquartered in Pella, Iowa, the company is committed to incorporating new technologies, increasing productivity, and practicing environmental stewardship to create satisfied customers.

RACER ROUNDUP

Perconte notches first professional victory

By MSU Sports Information
Former Murray State right hander Mike Perconte notched his first professional victory as he pitched four shutout innings of relief as the Boise Hawks defeated the Everett Aqua Sox 10-1 Thursday evening in Boise, Idaho.

Perconte

The Lisle, Ill. native surrendered only a single and struck out a career-best seven in his four innings of work. Perconte entered the game in the bottom of the fourth inning and walked the first batter he faced. He struck out the next two hitters before giving up his only base hit of the game. He got out of the inning with another swinging strikeout.

Perconte was in control from that point on, fanning four of the next five hitters and retiring the final 10 men he faced.

On the season, Perconte is 1-0 with a 2.25 ERA in three appearances. He has allowed two runs on six hits over eight innings, with 10 strikeouts and two walks.

After giving up a couple runs in his professional debut, Perconte got his first career start against the Eugene Emeralds on June 21. He gave up two hits and struck out two over his three innings of work. He has now gone seven straight innings without allowing a run.

MSU women's golf history remembered

By MSU Sports Information
The Murray State women's golf team recently held a reunion to celebrate the achievements of the past 15 years since the program started in September of 1993.

Twenty-two former and current players along with their spouses, children and parents participated in the weekend festivities. Activities included a reception at the Murray State University Alumni House and dinner at the Big Apple Cafe, plus a cocktail and scramble at Miller Memorial Golf Course. In total, more than fifty people participated.

"Several of our former players had this idea to have a reunion and it couldn't have gone better," head coach Velvet Milkman said. "It was a thrill to see many of our former players and their families again."

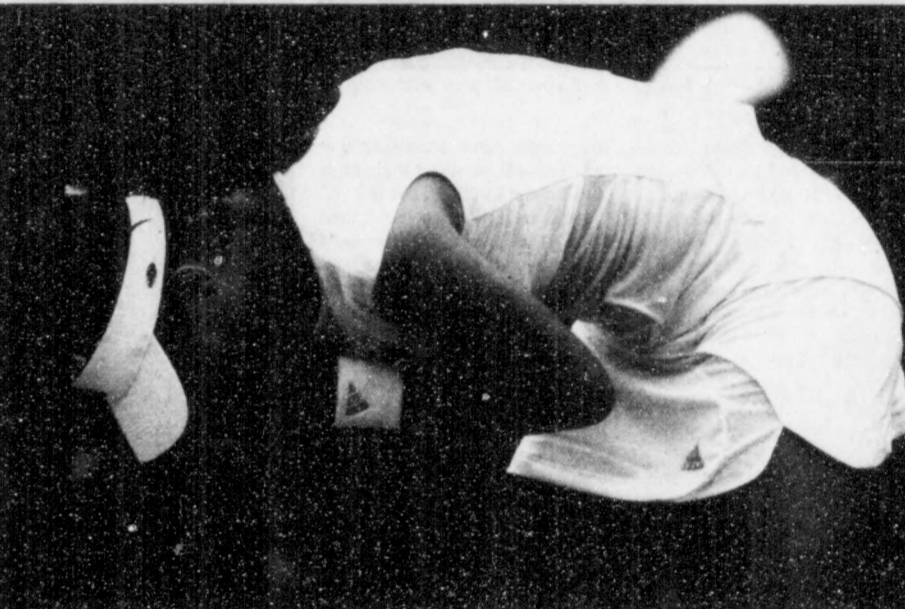

The team of Brandi Stevenson Duckwall, Mikki McLeary, Brian Duckwall and Mike Stevenson won the golf tournament in a sudden death playoff over the team of Megan Rees, Stephanie Baskey Watts, Nikki Orazine, and Will Snodgrass. Third place was captured by Jessica Widman Grace, Jenny Daag McDaniel, Louise Lindstrom, and Billy Wagoner. Closest to the pin prizes were given to Erich Cooley, Dave Herrell, and Louise Lindstrom.

There was a lot of reminiscing during the weekend. What was most impressive was a table lined with all six of MSU's Ohio Valley Conference trophies. Other accomplishments by the MSU women's golf program include six Racer student-athletes earning OVC Player of the Year honors and Milkman earning OVC Coach of the Year six times. The MSU program has also produced 26 All-OVC selections and 12 OVC Academic Medal of Honor winners. In addition, 25 student-athletes were named to the National Golf Coaches Association All-Scholar Team.

Many great players have passed through the program under head coach Velvet Milkman since the Racers participated in the first-ever OVC Women's Golf Championship in the spring of 1994 in Richmond, Ky.

"You can't build a successful program without great people," Milkman added.

Top-seeded Ivanovic upset at Wimbledon

TOPSY-TURVY WIMBLEDON OUSTS ANOTHER FAVORITE

AP Sports Writer

WIMBLEDON, England (AP) — Top-seeded Ana Ivanovic was knocked out in the third round of Wimbledon on Friday by 133rd-ranked Zheng Jie of China, extending a spate of stunning upsets at the All England Club.

Ivanovic, who took over the No. 1 ranking after winning the French Open earlier this month, slumped to a 6-1, 6-4 loss to the wild-card entry and doubles specialist.

Ivanovic, who saved two match points before overcoming Nathalie Dechy in three sets on Wednesday, had no answer for the hard-hitting Zheng.

"It's a surprise for me," said the 24-year-old Zheng, who won the Wimbledon doubles title in 2006. "Thanks to Wimbledon, (which) gave me a wild card. I just tried my best and had to keep going, going."

It was the earliest exit by a women's top-seeded player at Wimbledon since Martina Hingis lost in the first round to Jelena Dokic in 2001.

Also Friday, the last remaining American in the men's draw, Bobby Reynolds, lost to Spain's Feliciano Lopez, 6-4, 7-5, 4-6, 6-4.

Ivanovic went out a day after 2004 champion and third-seeded Maria Sharapova was ousted by 154th-ranked Alla Kudryavtseva and two-time men's runner-up Andy Roddick was bounced by Janko Tipsarevic. A day earlier, Australian Open champion and No. 3-ranked Novak Djokovic fell to Marat Safin.

Ivanovic committed 17 unforced errors, converted only one of seven break-point chances and lost serve four times. She could lose the No. 1 ranking depending on how far No. 2 Jelena Jankovic and No. 4 Svetlana Kuznetsova advance in the tournament.

The match ended with Zheng's serve hitting the service line and Ivanovic shanking her forehead return into the Court 1 stands.

Roger Federer continued his march toward a sixth straight Wimbledon title by beating Marc Gicquel in straight sets, setting up a fourth-round matchup with the last man to win the championship before his run began.

Two-time women's champion Serena Williams dispatched 2006 winner Amelie Mauresmo 7-6 (5), 6-1, extending her supremacy over the Frenchwoman to a career record of 10-2.

After the first rain delay of the tournament, Federer overwhelmed the 53rd-ranked Frenchman 6-3, 6-3, 6-1 on Centre Court for his 62nd consecutive win on grass and 37th straight at the All England Club.

His next opponent will be Lleyton Hewitt.

RCR's Bowyer trying for more consistency

By MIKE HARRIS
AP Auto Racing Writer

LOUDON, N.H. (AP) — You can forget those rumors about Clint Bowyer leaving Richard Childress Racing.

"I've signed up with RCR for three more years," Bowyer said Friday at New Hampshire Motor Speedway, where he earned the first of his two Cup victories last September.

Ironically, as far as Bowyer is concerned, that breakthrough victory last year has added to the pressure as he heads into Sunday's Lenox Industrial Tools 301.

"You've got to live up to what you did last time, and there is a little bit more pressure," he said. "But it's what it is."

Bowyer, who was a surprise contender for the Cup championship last year, finishing third, goes into this week's race 10th in the standings. But it hasn't been a particularly consistent season.

After starting the year with three straight finishes of 19th or worse, Bowyer ran off seven top-10s in a row.

Then came a 15th-place finish, followed by four straight finishes of 25th or lower before he turned things around last week at Sonoma with a fourth-place effort.

"We just had four bad races," Bowyer said. "We went into Richmond on (six) top-10s in a row, won Richmond, then the bottom fell out."

"We're just trying to get things turned around. Last week at Sonoma, having a top-five there was a breath of fresh air and, hopefully, a step in the right direction."

Fishing trip endures slow moving current

I had the pleasure of fishing with Joe and Dorothy Phillips for a short morning trip. The very day the current had ceased moving except very slowly! For sure not enough to help sweep the shad baitfish along and attract the stripers into feeding! We did catch a few very small fish but it was not going to happen this day! The winds were calm and we did look at some of our areas we fish but the baitfish were not there nor was the schools of stripers and bass. We will leave and set another date when the current begins again!

Fishing Line
By Jerry Maupin
Outdoors Columnist

We had been catching some grass out of the moss and clumps of grass pretty far back into the bays. We even went behind some beds to find the aggressive bass on the prowl before the current came to a halt. Everyone caught fish last week on a wide variety of lures and soft plastics just about everywhere they cast. Now keep in mind the shallow stuff is mostly the younger, one and two year old bass that are hungry and will strike anything that moves.

The water temperature has been bouncing back and forth between 80 and 84 degrees for several days and that should tell you bassers where to look for the larger ones!

I fished with David Standley and his crew one day last week after we had discovered there was very little topwater action from the stripers. We simply went to light tackle and jigs to fish the grass beds and downed some pretty fast action and each had a blast as the guys caught a live well full of big bluegill! They were spread out in some bays and stacked like they still had spawning on their minds and occasionally we could find a small section of bank brush where the willow flies had gathered. That was a guarantee for some pretty fast action and each cast produced another big fat bluegill for the livewell. The guys were having a contest between them I think but as fast as the fish came in, no one could keep count accurately!

We threw back enough to feed a hungry family because they were biting so well. I almost forgot the huge one and three quarters pound shellcrack-ers they caught! I cleaned these fish and they were solid bodied red ear shellcrackers! Actually I think we had four of them that weighed over two pounds! These fish were evidently late spawners which had been hanging out in deeper waters while the majority of their species had completed spawning!

Some of the bluegill were big and thick bodies as if they were just beginning their own spawning ritual! Either way we threw several back which were actually large enough to make a good meal for some hungry anglers. The guys were great to fish with and I hope to see them again before summer is over!

Several tournaments have been held on Kentucky Lake this year already and we still see guys who are practicing and carrying their catch around in that hot livewell to show their buddies how they did! That is O.K. I guess except when they come back to the ramp! The livewells were hot and evidently the bass died on the way back! Please release the bass out in the main lake where the oxygen content is much better and these big bass can recover and survive to give another angler a good fight! Maybe someone in your family!

Hopefully the waters will continue to leave the flooded areas of the country and folks can get their homes and business back in order! We are blessed with good lakes and streams but when nature gets out of control all of this section of the country blends together to help those who need it!

Happy Fishing!

Another look at Melvin Jack and his largest bass caught last week. He was with guide Jerry Maupin and Cory Braden who also caught some big bass.

Cory Braden caught his share of big bass also. Actually he had the most caught for the trip.

Consumer watchdog warns of lead in turf

N.J. OFFICIALS FOUND HIGH LEVELS IN SOME SYNTHETIC SURFACES

By ANGELA DELLI SANTI
Associated Press Writer

TRENTON, N.J. (AP) — An environmental watchdog group said Monday it found excessive amounts of lead in several brands of artificial turf, and it warned some of the biggest manufacturers and sellers that it will sue unless they recall or reformulate their products.

The report from the Center for Environmental Health comes after New Jersey officials found unacceptably high lead levels in some synthetic surfaces and federal authorities recommended lead testing on fraying sports fields.

The center's tests, which it hired an independent lab to verify, went beyond sports fields. They found excessive lead in indoor/outdoor carpeting, artificial lawns and playground grass made with nylon and polyethylene, said Charles Margulis, a spokesman for the group.

The group classified the amount of lead as excessive if it exceeded 600 parts per million, which is the maximum allowable in paint. About 50 products were tested, and at least 15 were found to have high lead levels.

In one test, the lead was so accessible it could be wiped away with a cloth, according to the Oakland, Calif.-based group that focuses on identifying toxins in everyday consumer products.

Testing by the New Jersey Health Department found high lead levels in nylon and nylon-blend fields, but only in fields that had endured a lot of wear. The lead found at three New Jersey turf fields could be absorbed by humans, a follow-up test showed, but the state epidemiologist said the lead levels were not high enough to cause poisoning to people who play on the fields.

Margulis said the center has begun notifying 15 turf manufacturers and retailers of its intent to sue under California's Safe Drinking Water and Toxic Enforcement Act unless the companies agree to recall the products or reformulate artificial turf so it contains less lead. Names on the list include some of the country's largest retailers, like Ace Hardware and Lowe's, and some of the best-known turf manufacturers, like AstroTurf. The companies have 60 days to respond.

Davis Lee, a Georgia Tech professor and consultant to turf manufacturers, said he was skeptical about the latest results. "Their results are not consistent with what I've seen," he said. "I've done several months worth of testing. I've not seen anything that would raise a concern."

Rick Doyle, president of the Synthetic Turf Council, an industry trade group, said the lead in turf is encapsulated in the blades and does not leach out or become airborne.

"It does not pose a risk to human health or the environment," Doyle said. "It is not readily absorbed by the body or released into the environment."

Messages left with Ace, Lowe's and AstroTurf weren't immediately returned.

Earlier this month, AstroTurf issued a statement saying additional tests by the New Jersey Department of Health and Senior Services confirmed the safety of synthetic turf fields.

The United States has about 3,500 synthetic playing fields made of various materials, including nylon and polyethylene, and about 800 are installed each year at schools, colleges, parks and stadiums, the Synthetic Turf Council has said.

Pigment containing lead chromate is used in some surfaces to make the turf green and hold its color in sunlight. It is not clear how widely the compound is used.

Lead can cause brain damage and other illnesses, particularly in children.

Health officials say the main risk is cumulative exposure. While it is unlikely that anyone will play on a turf lawn or field once and sustain an excessive lead exposure, the risk of health problems rises with repeated exposures.

The government has no standard for how much lead is allowable in artificial turf.

Today is Saturday, June 28, the 180th day of 2008. There are 186 days left in the year.

Today's Highlight in History:
On June 28, 1914, Archduke Franz Ferdinand of Austria and his wife, Sophie, were assassinated in Sarajevo by a Serb nationalist, triggering World War I.

On this date:
In 1491, England's King Henry VIII was born at Greenwich.

In 1778, the Revolutionary War Battle of Monmouth took place in New Jersey; it was from this battle that the legend of "Molly Pitcher" arose, although her actual existence is a matter of historical debate. The outcome of the battle was inconclusive.

In 1836, the fourth president of the United States, James Madison, died in Montpelier, Va.

In 1838, Britain's Queen Victoria was crowned in Westminster Abbey.

In 1919, the Treaty of Versailles was signed in France, ending World War I.

In 1928, New York Gov. Alfred E. Smith was nominated for president at the Democratic National Convention in Houston.

In 1939, Pan American Airways began regular trans-Atlantic air service.

In 1944, the Republican National Convention in Chicago nominated New York Gov. Thomas E. Dewey for president and Ohio Gov. John W. Bricker for vice president.

In 1950, North Korean forces captured Seoul, the capital of South Korea.

In 1978, the Supreme Court ordered the University of California-Davis Medical School to admit Allan Bakke, a white man who argued he'd been a victim of reverse racial discrimination.

Ten years ago: The 12th World AIDS Conference opened in Geneva. The Cincinnati Enquirer apologized to the Chiquita banana company as it retracted stories questioning the company's business practices; the paper agreed to pay more than $10 million to settle legal claims.

Five years ago: After days of intense searching by ground and air, U.S. forces found the bodies of two soldiers missing north of Baghdad, as the toll of American dead since the start of war topped the grim milestone of 200.

One year ago: The Supreme Court voted 5-4 to strike down school integration plans in Louisville, Ky., and Seattle, a decision that was denounced at a debate hours later by Democratic presidential candidates.

Student wants to drop out of friendship with professor

DEAR ABBY: I am a 38-year-old woman enrolled in night school. A favorite professor of mine is a 46-year-old woman for whom I had a great deal of respect. We had some mutual interests and became casual friends.

We'd grab a cup of coffee now and then, and she'd call me at work occasionally to say "hi." Over time, we doubled with our husbands (who hit it off), going out to eat or see a movie.

It has now reached the point where my professor expects to have lunch with me two and three times a week. She singles me out in class as an obvious "favorite," and calls me daily at work. She gets mad if I skip a class and says she doesn't want to teach then. She has become rude and disrespectful to her husband, and spends more time and effort trying to be with me than with him.

Abby, I feel suffocated. My husband and I are the kind of people who respect the need for space. I can't handle a clingy friend. I sometimes wish I had never signed up for night school. -- SUFFOCATED STUDENT IN MADISON

DEAR SUFFOCATED: It appears your teacher has formed a crush on you. The woman may also have some unresolved emotional problems.

Begin to extricate yourself by being less and less available for phone calls and lunch dates. Not everyone can accept personal calls during working hours, or make the time to indulge in involved conversations. You also have a right to lunch with others, or to have other plans. That is not a "rejection" of this new-found friend; it is creating boundaries, which you should begin doing immediately.

If your professor becomes punitive, discuss this with the head of the department or the dean of the school and ask if you can switch classes. This woman's behavior is not only unprofessional, but possibly unethical.

DEAR ABBY: I was widowed three years ago at the age of 40. A previous decade-long marriage ended in an amicable divorce. Since my husband's death, I have been engaged twice but have broken off both relationships for sound reasons. My most recent engagement was to a man who turned out not only to be manipulative and controlling, but also had an undisclosed mental illness.

Is it normal not to want another relationship? I'm enjoying the time and freedom to pursue my hobbies and friendships. Most men my age seem to have more emotional or financial baggage that I want to take on, and a "Me Tarzan, you Jane" attitude that I find unacceptable. Am I on the rebound, in denial or just self-fulfilled? -- LOVING THE SINGLE LIFE

DEAR LOVING: You do not appear to be either on the rebound or in denial. You appear to be genuinely grateful for the good things in your life and in no hurry to encumber yourself. Those are attractive traits, and I predict that one of these days you will meet someone who recognizes it.

DEAR ABBY: At sporting events and parades, when we rise for the national anthem, are women supposed to remove their hats? -- A PATRIOT IN OHIO

DEAR A PATRIOT: No. According to "Emily Post's Etiquette," women's hats do not have to be removed during the national anthem.

Dear Abby is written by Abigail Van Buren, also known as Jeanne Phillips, and was founded by her mother, Pauline Phillips. Write Dear Abby at www.DearAbby.com or P.O. Box 69440, Los Angeles, CA 90069.

Constipation drug banned in United States

DEAR DR. GOTT: I love your column. It's been very beneficial to my family in many ways.

I took Zelnorm over a year ago, until my doctor said the Food and Drug Administration had taken it off the market and it was no longer available. Since I was suffering from chronic constipation, it was very helpful in regulating my system.

By Dr. Peter Gott
I've had nothing but problems now that I'm not using it. I've tried a number of prescription drugs, over-the-counter stool softeners and just about everything I can find. Nothing works like Zelnorm did. I hope there will be minor changes to the drug and it will become available again in the near future.

Until then, are overseas markets reliable and trustworthy? The generic name is tegaserod, and I see it can be bought from online pharmacies.

DEAR READER: Zelnorm, a product manufactured by Novartis, was introduced to combat Irritable Bowel Syndrome and constipation. It was removed from the market in March 2007 after an analysis of 29 separate studies revealed that patients using the product suffered a higher probability of heart attack, chest pain and stroke.

As I have indicated in the past, the FDA is responsible for ensuring the safety of all drugs, whether manufactured here or abroad. Before you consider the option of purchasing outside the country, consider Digestive Advantage, available at your local pharmacy. The product has been highly endorsed by Irritable Bowel Syndrome sufferers and might do the trick without prescription medication. Keep me posted.

To give you related information, I am sending you copies of my Health Reports "Irritable Bowel Syndrome" and "Constipation and Diarrhea."

DEAR DR. GOTT: My husband, who is in his 70s, has developed a strong odor. It smells like hair that needs to be washed despite the fact that he showers and washes his hair daily. By the end of the day, the smell is so strong that I can smell him from several feet away.

This has been going on for a couple of years, and during that time, he has tried several different types of shampoos, with no change. He finally spoke to his doctor, who didn't know what to do. Please help.

DEAR READER: Several ailments can cause a person to develop a strong body odor. One of the most common is kidney disease. I suggest your husband return to his physician for a complete exam and blood tests. Once the results are in, you and your husband should sit down with the doctor to discuss what they mean and whether a referral to a specialist is in order.

Opening lead - queen of hearts.
In the long run, optimism pays far greater dividends at bridge than does pessimism. Nevertheless, optimism must be tempered by some degree of pessimism. Otherwise, the optimist is sure to experience occasional disappointments when a more cautious view might have served him better.

Consider this deal where South is in six diamonds and West leads a heart. Declarer can see immediately that there are no losers outside the trump suit, where only the K-10-9-2 are missing.

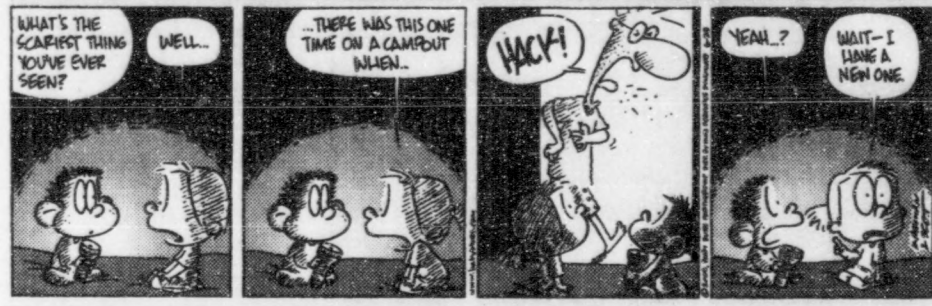

But if he adopts a cavalier attitude toward the play, he will go down one as the cards lie. Thus, if he takes the ace of hearts and leads a diamond to the ace or jack at trick two, he will find himself saddled with two trump losers.

Before broaching the trump suit, South should adopt a pessimistic stance and ask himself what, if anything, might pose a threat to his contract. He should reason that if the diamonds break 2-2 or 3-1, it doesn't matter how he tackles the suit, since he can't lose more than one trump trick. But if the diamonds are divided 4-0, the slam is in distinct jeopardy.

The next step is to recognize that, for all practical purposes, the slam can't be made if West holds all the missing trumps. But if East happens to have the K-10-9-2, that holding can be neutralized by leading the queen of diamonds from dummy at trick two.

Once this is done, nothing can stop declarer from making 12 tricks. East's most effective play is to cover the queen with the king. South wins with the ace and, after seeing West show out, returns a trump to the right. East takes the trick with the nine, but his 10-2 later fall prey to South's J-7-6, and the slam is home.

HOROSCOPES

For Entertainment Purposes Only

CANCER
December 22 - January 19

Changing the world is not in your ability, but in changing yourself. Start small. Capricorn, and before long, your efforts will compound and ripple throughout your life.

LEO
January 20 - February 18

This week will call on you to blaze your own trail. Snap to it, Aquarius. You have followed the lead of others long enough. An e-mail pokes fun at a bad habit.

VIRGO
February 19 - March 20

You've taken on far too much. Pisces, and your health could very well suffer. Cut back on your responsibilities or get someone on board to help.

LIBRA
March 21 - April 19

Wake up, Aries. Summer is passing you by. All of those things you wanted to do during the warm weather have not come to pass. Get a move on.

SCORPIO
April 20 - May 20

Amusement cannot take a back seat to work. Throw away your reservations, Taurus, and accept the invitation before you. You will have a great time.

SAGITTARIUS
May 21 - June 21

Good news, Gemini. A platonic relationship deepens, while a young friend's obsession with an activity is curbed just in time. A letter adds intrigue to an event.

CAPRICORN
June 22 - July 22

Awesome job, Cancer. Fitness goals become a reality. Go ahead and throw a party. You deserve to kick back with friends after all of your hard work.

AQUARIUS
July 23 - August 22

Dreams of riches beckon. Be careful how you proceed, Leo. There are more important things than money. A fine art breathes new air into an old project.

PISCES
August 23 - September 22

Step up the pace, Virgo. Work is piling up at home. Diligence is the only way to plow through the mess. A noise opens up an old wound.

ARIES
September 23 - October 22

You've got the scoop, Libra, and you would do well to keep it to yourself. There is no need for you to spread rumors and add fuel to the gossip mill.

TAURUS
October 23 - November 21

This week will put your patience to the test with the arrival of guests. Be welcoming, Scorpio, but don't put yourself out after all they stopped by unannounced.

GEMINI
November 22 - December 21

Old friends take you on a trip down memory lane and what you learn surprises you. A crisis in faith reaches a pinnacle and you know what you must do.
