County to seek funds assisting in cleanup

By TOM BERRY
 Staff Writer

County Judge-Executive Larry Elkins says the county has asked for a portion of more than $5.2 million allocated to Kentucky by the U.S. Department of Labor to create temporary jobs cleaning up debris resulting from January's ice storms.

Labor officials announced Friday that $5,231,200 has been granted to the Commonwealth to create 503 jobs that will aid the state in clean-up efforts following one of the most destructive storms to ever hit the state in recent times. The Kentucky Education and Workforce Development Cabinet's Department for Workforce Investment will receive the grant which will provide temporary employment for the cleanup, demolition, repair, renovation and reconstruction of destroyed public structures, facilities and land within Murray-Calloway County and other affected communities.

Elkins said the county has applied for aid to help with the

'Heroes' help Red Cross reach goal

Special to the Ledger

"Heroes" make things happen, even when obstacles could get in the way.

Thanks to many local "Heroes," the Calloway County Chapter of the American Red Cross met its $15,000 fund-raising goal in its recent "Heroes" campaign. In fact, local donors pushed the chapter just over the goal to a $15,291.52 total.

"It is exciting about meeting our goal in the midst of the challenging economic conditions and the January ice storm," said "Heroes" chairman Greg Delaney. "People stepped up and met the challenge. There were lots of little amounts that came together to reach our full amount."

Local businesses and organizations formed teams that hosted events, recruited people to participate in fund-raising activities and made contributions to the annual campaign. After first meeting in December, "Heroes" campaign volunteers really got things started in January and worked raising money until mid-March.

Participating teams are designated by the amount they raised. There were three Corporate Sponsorship Levels: Gold ($5,000), Silver ($2,500) and Bronze ($1,500). Below that were three Hero Levels: Gold ($1,000 or more), Silver ($600 to $999) and Bronze ($300 to $599). Individuals and businesses not affiliated with fund-raising teams also contributed to meeting the goal.

Some teams took advantage of the Love Your "Heroes" Pancake Breakfast held on Valentine's Day at Culver's restaurant. Raising a total of $1,754, the ticket purchases went toward teams who recruited people to the breakfast.

"You people really saw the need to support the Red Cross during this time of financial crisis and they gave sacrificially," said Locust Grove Pastor W. Ryker Wilson. "One member gave $100 in honor of a family within the church that took her in during the ice storm."

In addition to participating in Culver's pancake breakfast, St. John's Episcopal Church raised its contribution through individual donations and a special collection from its congregation.

"We've traditionally been involved with the Red Cross by hosting blood drives, but we decided that it was time to help support the organization's mission financially as well," said Father Matthew Bradley of St. John's Episcopal Church.

After joining the chapter in August, this was local Red Cross Executive Director Jennifer Wilson's first "Heroes" campaign. In the middle of the campaign, Wilson led the charge to maintain an American Red Cross shelter at the Weak's Community Center during the ice storm in late January.

" Hats off to Jennifer," Delaney said. "Despite being a new director, she really brought organization and enthusiasm to the campaign."

Obama urges states to use recovery money very carefully

By LIZ SIDOTI

WASHINGTON (AP) — With states eager to spend, President Barack Obama announced new guidelines Friday limiting the role lobbyists can play in determining how $787 billion in economic stimulus money will be used.

"This plan cannot and will not be an excuse for waste and abuse," Obama declared.

The rules, he said, "will help ensure that we are proving ourselves worthy of

C.C.B.E. eyeing new Pottertown precinct
 Area may be redrawn for boundaries

By TOM BERRY
 Staff Writer

The Calloway County Board of Election is moving forward on the creation of a new Pottertown voting precinct that will make balloting more convenient.

During a meeting in the Clerk Ray Coursey Jr.'s office Thursday, board members discussed the need for a new voting precinct in the Panoramax Shores - east Calloway area where a large number of voters must travel miles to the voting booth.

Additional voting machines have been provided to alleviate congestion at Faxon, Murray 4, Cherry Corner, Harris Grove and Calloway precincts where the number of voters total more than 1,000, however the board decided to try to obtain permission from the Kentucky Board of Elections to create a new precinct in the Pottertown area.

Although there have been no reported problems from the Faxon district concerning long lines at the polls, the district's qualified voters number almost 1,800. Portions of the precinct may be redrawn into the proposed new boundaries for a new Pottertown district.

"It's one of those situations where there are too many in the precinct," Coursey said. "It's never happened but if every one of those voters were to show up and the polls and take two minutes to cast their vote it would take longer for them to do that than the polls would be open."

The state board will have to approve any new precinct boundaries. The board hopes to complete the work before the May 2010 Primary. There are no elections scheduled in

Kentucky News in Brief

Man sentenced in murder plot

LONDON, Ky. (AP) — An eastern Kentucky man has been sentenced in connection with a murder-for-hire scheme. The Times-Tribune of Corbin reports that 42-year-old Bill Perkins of Barbourville was sentenced Thursday in U.S. District Court in London to five years and eight months in prison. Perkins apologized for his actions during the sentencing hearing and said he is thankful no one was hurt. Perkins pleaded guilty in November to conspiring with his brother to commit the crime. The newspaper reports that the brother, Randall Perkins, has pleaded guilty and is expected to be sentenced on June 17. Prosecutors say Randall Perkins wanted to hire a hit man to kill a witness in a state drug trafficking case against him.

Attorneys agree on trial date for coach

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — Prosecutors and defense attorneys in the case of a high school football coach charged with reckless homicide in the heat-related death of a player have agreed on a tentative trial date. Jefferson County Commonwealth's Attorney David Stengel and defense attorney Alex Dathome say the Aug. 31 trial date now must be approved by Jefferson Circuit Judge Susan Gibson. The two sides agreed on the date after a brief pretrial meeting Friday morning in the case of Pleasure Ridge Park High School coach David Jason Stinson. Stinson has pleaded not guilty in the Aug. 23 death of sophomore lineman Max Gilpin, who collapsed at practice three days earlier. A medical examiner has said Gilpin died from septic shock, multiple organ failure and heat stroke.

Man sentenced in fatal wreck

HARLAN, Ky. (AP) — An eastern Kentucky man has been sentenced to 30 years in prison in a highway crash that killed a pregnant woman and her unborn child and injured the woman's husband. The Harlan Daily Enterprise reports that 41-year-old George Clem of Elcomb in Harlan County told the woman's family that he was "so, so sorry it happened" before being sentenced Thursday.

The wreck occurred in June 2008 on Kentucky 72 at Elcomb. Police have said 21-year-old Elizabeth Stewart, who was six months' pregnant, and her husband, Darryl Stewart, were traveling east when Clem crossed the center line from a westbound lane and hit the Stewarts' car head-on. Darryl Stewart said the couple had only been married two months. Stewart gave Clem a Bible and told him, "I hope God has mercy on your soul."

Police shoot, wound man after he pulls gun

ELIZABETHTOWN, Ky. (AP) — Kentucky State Police say officers shot and wounded a man who threatened them with a pistol. Trooper Steve Pavel at the KSP post in Elizabethtown said 38-year-old Rafael England was taken to University Hospital in Louisville and is expected to recover. Pavel said a woman called from her home in Hardin County, just outside of Ceeleia, on Thursday night, saying her ex-husband had assaulted her. Pavel said England was upset over a letter he had received about back child support. Troopers and Hardin County Sheriff's deputies responded and talked with England for about 15 minutes. Pavel said when England pulled a pistol from the waistband of his pants, officers fired, striking him. Charges against England are pending.

Ky. Supreme Court rules against parents

HENDERSON, Ky. (AP) — The Kentucky Supreme Court has ruled that the parents of a high school athlete who died during football practice in 2006 are not entitled to transcripts of school district interviews taken shortly after the incident. The parents of Ryan Owens, who died during practice at Henderson County High School on July 19, 2006, sought the transcripts of those interviews as part of their wrongful death lawsuit filed in 2007. The defense has claimed the transcripts are confidential, but attorneys for Randy and Marla Owens had won in both Henderson Circuit Court and the Kentucky Court of Appeals. The Gleaner of Henderson reports that the Kentucky Supreme Court ruled 6-1 Thursday against attorneys for the Owensens, saying the lower court had erroneously construed that litigation was not anticipated when the interviews were taken.

future. Telling lawmakers he's trying to lead by example, Obama said he mixed a request to update electrical and heating systems in the East Wing of the White House, the first family's residence, because it won't create many jobs or hasten the economic turnaround. Still, Obama lobbied for money in a future bill, saying, "This is a much-needed project. It is long overdue, and I hope Congress funds it in the future." As one of his first actions in office, Obama signed the sweeping stimulus measure last month to much fanfare, and his administration has been making money available to states since then. The law itself says that states will lose the cash if they miss a deadline or don't spend the money fast enough. But state officials across the country have had trouble keeping track of the application deadlines and requirements in the 400-page law. For weeks the administration had failed to disclose what the rules were, even though governors are required to sign pledges saying they'll spend the money appropriately.

Crude prices level off after week-long rally

By CHRIS KAHN

AP Energy Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — Oil prices leveled off Friday after the effects of OPEC production cuts and a massive U.S. government buying spree led to a weeklong rally.

Benchmark crude for April delivery fell 55 cents to settle at $51.06 a barrel in light trading on the New York Mercantile Exchange. The April contract expires Friday and traders shifted their attention to the May contract, which rose 3 cents to settle at $52.07.

It was the first time crude has ended the week above $50 since last year.

"It really seems like the market is taking a breather after a wild week," said Mike Zarembki, senior commodity analyst at brokerage OptionsXpress Inc. Oil prices rose 11 percent over the week. Prices spiked after the U.S. Federal Reserve announced plans Wednesday to buy $1.25 trillion of government bonds and mortgage-backed securities. Investors pumped money into commodities like oil as the dollar went into a tailspin.

Also this week, for the first time in months, supply concerns came to the forefront as researchers that monitor seagoing oil tankers said traffic had dropped considerably. Investors since late last summer have brushed off OPEC's plan to slash crude production, focusing instead on the global recession and a massive surplus of crude in U.S. inventories.

But six months after OPEC members agreed to tighten their spigots, analysts said the group has started to balance a plunge in global consumption with supply. Most analysts believe the Organization of the Petroleum Exporting Countries has cut about 80 percent of the 4.2 million barrels of crude per day that it promised last year.

OPEC ministers said Sunday they would push even harder to make all member states comply with quotas.

Crude prices rose again on Friday as traders learned that two U.S. Navy vessels collided in the Strait of Hormuz between Oman and Iran, a crucial passageway for supertankers.

The collision would not block the waterway, but any incident in that area can spook markets. The U.S. Navy's 5th Fleet said the collision occurred at 5 p.m. EDT on Thursday between the USS Hartford, a submarine, and the USS New Orleans. Fifteen soldiers aboard the Hartford were slightly injured but able to return to duty.

"Whenever we see something going on in that area, we always see an uptick in prices," said Addison Armstrong, director of market research at Tradition Energy. "It's a very narrow area. It's choked with ships. And it's in a volatile region."

About 17 million barrels of oil moved through the narrow straight in the first half of last year, roughly 40 percent of the crude that's traded at sea, according to the Energy Information Administration. At its narrowest, the strait measures 21-miles across and forms a bottleneck for ships trying to get in and out of the Persian Gulf.

assistance, but would rather have seen it available sooner. "We have asked for some of that funding," Elkins said. "I don't know all the mechanics about it, but basically the department will be hiring some people to help with the debris clean-up."

This was in the works three or four weeks ago and we'll still be able to use the program now, but it would have been more helpful if it had been provided in a more timely manner."

Mary Ann Medlock, a spokeswoman for the Purchase Area Development District, said job applications and interviews will be conducted by workforce development officials and those hired will be assigned to positions in counties applying for assistance. Those seeking employment under the program have two places to sign up in Murray. "They can go to the judge-executive's office to apply for a job or they can go to the Murray Career Discovery Center," Medlock said.

"Although they will be working for Workforce Development, they will go through the process in their own individual counties because they are the ones they will be working for." It is not now known exactly how many jobs will be available county by county, but as many as 100 jobs may be available in the Purchase Area.

The funds may be used to perform work on the homes of economically-disadvantaged individuals who are eligible for the federally-funded weatherization program with priority given to the elderly and individuals with disabilities.

It will also be used to provide core, intensive and retraining services for individuals selected for the job positions who cannot return to work or have been on unemployment for more than 26 weeks.

The grant funding will serve Calloway, Marshall, Graves and 90 other Kentucky counties declared by the Federal Emergency Management Agency as eligible for FEMA's Public Assistance Program.

Of the $5,231,200 allocated, $1.7 million will be released initially. The balance will be released as the state demonstrates a continued need for disaster assistance. National Emergency Grants are part of the secretary of labor's discretionary fund and are awarded based on a state's ability to meet specific guidelines. Appeals court rejects

McDougal records appeal

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. (AP) — The transcript of Whitewater figure Susan McDougal's grand jury testimony will remain sealed, a federal appeals court ruled Friday.

McDougal sought the records for a screenplay or novel about the investigation into her business relationship with Bill and Hillary Rodham Clinton. But the 8th Circuit Court of Appeals at St. Louis rejected her request.

Judge Diana E. Murphy wrote that McDougal failed to show she had a "particularized need" for the records, siding with a special judge who rejected her request last June.

Though the need for grand jury secrecy diminishes at the end of hearings, Murphy wrote that there is no statute that specifically authorizes releasing the records after their completion.

Hannah O'Bryan

Hannah O'Bryan named Wrangler Division All-Star Rodeo Team Co-Captain

Hannah Rose O'Bryan, 13, has been named by the National High School Rodeo Association-Wrangler Division, co-captain of the prestigious Wrangler All-Star Rodeo Team for 2009. O'Bryan was selected to the team by a vote of fellow Wrangler Division (WD) Wrangler All-Star Rodeo team members.

O'Bryan, an eighth grader at Calloway County Middle School, is an all-A honor roll student, and is the current Kentucky Junior Rodeo Association (KJRA) champion in barrel racing, breakaway and goat tying events. After qualifying and participating in the 2008 Wrangler Junior High National Finals Rodeo held in Gallup, New Mexico, she was named sixth in the United States, including Canada and Australia, in breakaway roping.

The KJRA-WD 2009 rodeo season gets underway in Murray on April 4-5 at the MSU Expo Center, 2101 College Farm Road. Competition will begin at 6 p.m. on Saturday and at 1 p.m. on Sunday. Performance admission is $6 for adults, $3 for children (6-12 years old) and children ages 5 and under will be admitted free of charge.

This will be an exciting rodeo, with competitors from across the state participating in many events, including barrel racing, goat tying, pole bending, call roping, mutton bustin' and bull riding, it was reported.

The Wrangler All-Star Rodeo Team was created in 1998 by the NHSRA-WD to recognize over 1,200 high school student athletes across the United States and Canada for their leadership qualities, academic performance and athletic achievements. They are the largest and oldest youth rodeo organization in North America and is fashioned after the prestigious Wrangler Champion Pro Rodeo Team, which includes rodeo superstars such as Trevor Brazile, Joe Beaver and many others.

Similar to their professional counterparts, members of the WD Wrangler All-Star Rodeo team wear official Wrangler competition apparel consisting of Wrangler Twenty X shirts embroidered with the team logo and Wrangler competition jeans. Of this group, a select few have been chosen as co-captains to serve in a team leadership capacity.

"We are extremely proud to have this fine group of young athletes lead the Wrangler Division Wrangler All-Star Rodeo team," said Jeff Chadwick, Wrangler Director of Special Events. "Their impressive accomplishments will no doubt serve them well as representatives of the sport of rodeo in the coming year."

Katrina flood lawsuit against Army Corps advances

NEW ORLEANS (AP) —

A federal judge says a lawsuit blaming the Army Corps of Engineers for heavy flooding from Hurricane Katrina can proceed.

U.S. District Judge Stanwood Duval on Friday dismissed the Corps' argument that it cannot be sued for the flooding that devastated much of New Orleans in 2005. The decision clears the way for a trial scheduled to start April 20.

Lawyers for six flood victims claim the Army Corps failed to maintain a navigation channel called the Mississippi River-Gulf Outlet, allowing Katrina's surge to swamp eastern New Orleans and St. Bernard Parish.

The Corps argued federal law gives it immunity from lawsuits and that it properly maintained the channel.

The lawsuit is being watched by thousands of others with pending flood claims.

National News in Brief

Fannie Mae CEO defends retention bonuses

WASHINGTON (AP) — Mortgage giant Fannie Mae's chief executive warned Friday that canceling bonuses for workers at institutions receiving federal bailout money could undermine efforts to stabilize the U.S. housing market.

Herbert Allison, who was installed by government regulators CEO of the Washington-based company last fall, sent a company-wide e-mail Friday defending Fannie Mae's bonus program.

"I am deeply concerned that eliminating our retention plan would jeopardize our ability to fulfill the mission the government has given us to address the housing crisis," he wrote, citing President Barack Obama's plan to prevent up to 9 million foreclosures.

The award programs at Fannie and sibling company Freddie Mac, enacted shortly after their September federal takeover, initially ruffled few feathers. But now the generous paychecks are proving politically touchy as lawmakers and the public seethe over roughly $165 million in bonuses paid out last weekend by bailed-out insurance giant American International Group.

Allison, who is not receiving a salary as CEO, wrote that the bonuses — including more than $1 million each to four top executives — were needed to "ensure we maintain the skills and experience we need to help keep the mortgage market operating."

Stocks move toward second week of gains

NEW YORK (AP) — Traders lay low Friday, making few big moves as the stock market looked to close with its first two-week gain in close to a year.

Stocks fluctuated in a narrow range. The quiet moves weren't unexpected given the double-digit gains stocks have logged since only last week. In less vexing times, investors might see advances of that size over the course of a year.

Investors showed little reaction to Federal Reserve Chairman Ben Bernanke's call Friday for banking supervisors to pay "close attention" to compensation practices as they examine the soundness of financial institutions.

Part of Friday's relative calm could be tied to a mix of exhaustion and caution among traders. The Fed jolted the market this week by announcing plans to buy Treasury securities to revivify lending and the economy. Stocks initially jumped on the move but fell Thursday on worries about inflation.

Other markets showed big moves during the week: In just two days, the dollar fell 5 percent versus the euro and 3 percent versus the yen. Oil prices, meanwhile, soared 7 percent Thursday above $51 a barrel to the highest level this year.

Space station's new solar wings are opening

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) — Astronauts cautiously opened one of the newly installed solar wings at the international space station on Friday, as flight controllers below watched with anxiety.

To everyone's relief, the first wing went out smoothly. Nothing hung up, and none of the panels stuck together. One more wing, though, was still to be unfurled.

"We think we're in great shape," reported Lee Archambault, commander of the docked space shuttle Discovery.

A highlight of the mission, the long, deliberate process began the morning after this last set of solar wings was installed at the orbiting outpost.

Right on cue — "ready, ready, mark" — astronaut John Phillips pushed the button that commanded the first wing to start unfurling. It slowly stretched out like a folded-up map, a gleaming golden hue in the sunlight. Five minutes later, when the 115-foot wing was about halfway open, he stopped the motion.

Family sues ex-Blackwater guard over death

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — The family of a slain Iraqi security guard has filed a federal lawsuit against a former Blackwater Worldwide contractor they say killed the man.

Survivors of Raheem Khalaf Sa'adoun (rah-HEEM cah-LAHF sa-DOON) also accuse Blackwater of destroying documents to cover up the death and renege on promises to compensate the man's wife and two children.

The lawsuit filed Thursday accuses former Blackwater guard Andrew Moonen of shooting Sa'adoun in December 2006 while Moonen was intoxicated after a party.

Sa'adoun was shot while on guard duty for Iraqi Vice President Adel Abdul Mahdi. Moonen's lawyer has said federal prosecutors intend to charge the Seattle resident in the killing.

Moyock, N.C.-based Blackwater changed its name to Xe (ZEE) in February.

Hamilton College students volunteering in the Land Between the Lakes

CLINTON, N.J. — A group of Hamilton College students are making the trip from Central New York to Kentucky March 22-28 to do volunteer work during their spring break.

Eleven Hamilton students will work at Land Between the Lakes in Golden Pond where they will help with the maintenance of an 1805s working farm, by doing repairs and building fences. Volunteers will also help to get the facilities up and running for the tourist season.

This trip is part of Hamilton's 16th annual Alternative Spring Break, an annual volunteer venture which this year consists of eight different community service trips to nonprofit organizations in southern areas.

Other Hamilton students will be traveling to Marion, S.C., Crossville, Tenn., Wilmington, N.C., Winston-Salem, N.C., Cheerylog, Ga., Biloxi, Miss., and Washington, D.C. for volunteer work.

The students are housed in churches, camps and refugee centers. Student volunteers pay $125 to participate in the ASB trips.

Hospital Menus

"Heart Smart" is the program for the menus in the cafeteria of Murray-Calloway County Hospital.

Local designer creates statewide logo for program

Special to the Ledger
K-Squared Designs, a local graphic and Web site design firm, was recently chosen to create a logo that will be used statewide for the Kentucky Main Street Program to celebrate its 30th anniversary.

The newly created logo was unveiled during a celebration on February 26 at the Capitol Rotunda in Frankfort. The celebration took place in conjunction with Preservation Day sponsored by Preservation Kentucky, Inc.

The new logo is a rendered drawing of buildings along a historic Kentucky Main Street, encompassed within a silhouette of the state Commonwealth.

When creating this logo, Justin Kimbro, senior designer, had to conceptualize an image that would represent more than 80 communities who would be using it in their individual programs.

"The most challenging aspect, in creating a logo of such magnitude, is trying to capture the charm, personality and characteristics of over 80 Kentucky Main Street Programs within one image," Kimbro said. "Our mission was to create something that every Main Street Program could use to assist in their marketing efforts throughout their communities while utilizing a consistent statewide branding."

K-Squared Designs is an advertising and Web site development firm specializing in branding, marketing, graphic design, web site design, SEO packages, vinyl application, printing and much more. For more information on their services, please call 761-5237 or visit www.k2ds.com.

Good weather has finally graced anglers

Finally we are into the good weather we need to get out and do some big time fishing. We did receive a much needed rainfall and the fish seemed to respond favorably to it.

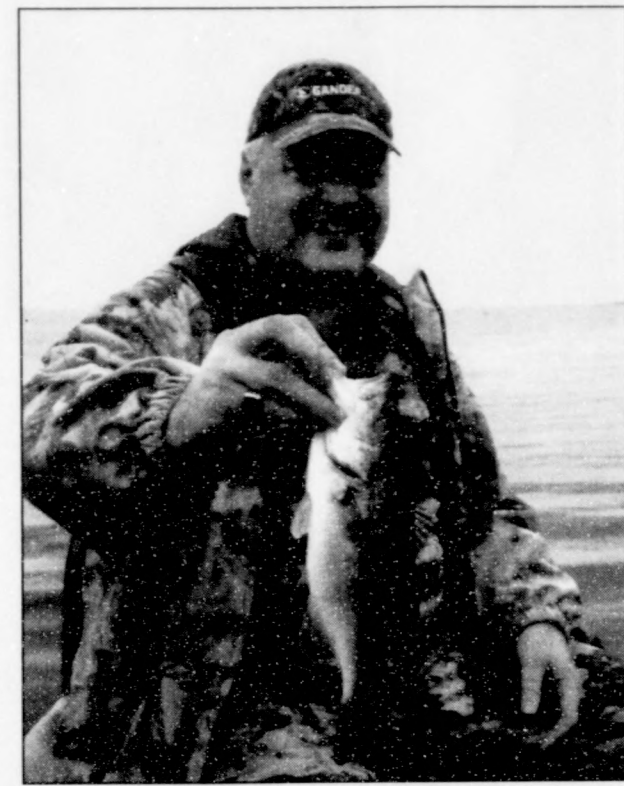

The upper Tennessee River comes out of the mountains passing close to the Tom Bigby Waterway at Mobile, Alabama and the Gulf of Mexico. This major section of the Tennessee River hasn't seen much rainfall since last spring and one can tell a difference when fishing Kentucky Lake! Our most recent rainfall did however deposit a good amount of much needed water on Calloway, Trigg, and Marshall counties! This is the time when the crappie are looking to deposit their eggs on the warm shoreline waters of Cypress Creek, Blood River embayment and Jonathan Creek embayment. Big Sandy River is south of Paris Landing Tennessee and naturally they begin catching crappie weeks before we do simply because it becomes warmer waters first!

Hopefully now the weather will continue to warm these waters around us and the fish will do the rest. I had the pleasure of fishing with Chris Carnett and David Albright one morning when it was still plenty cool! They were looking to catch fish and since I knew we could catch plenty of bass I persuaded them to do some cranking. It was a perfect day even though it was cold. We suspected the sun would make a big difference with us and the fish alike and it sure did! We simply used our lures along the rocky shorelines and stayed out of the bays because the lake elevation was so very low. There are humps, old creek channels, semi sunken logs etc. and one needs to be very careful until the elevation rises at least a couple of feet in most large and small bays alike!

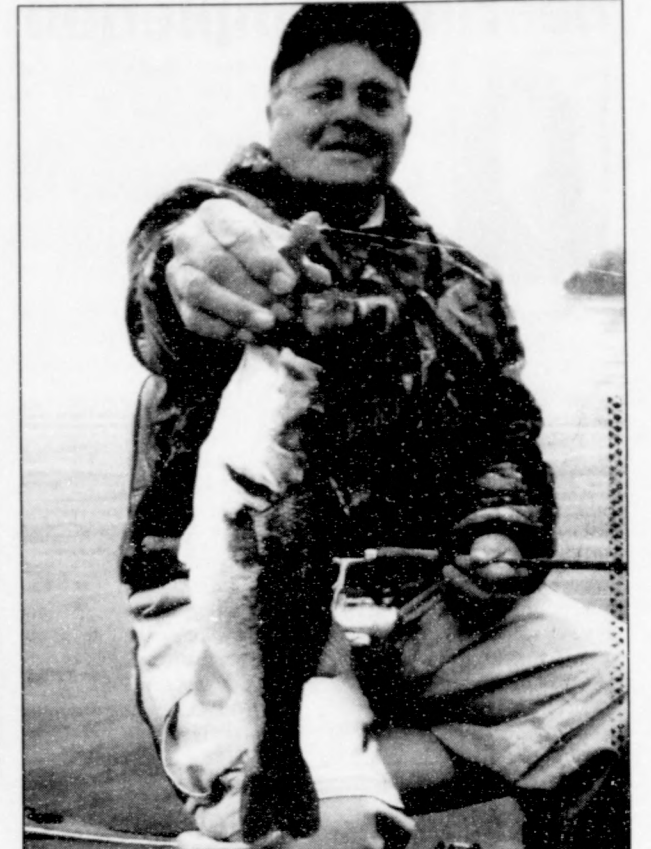

It was easy to see that Chris and David could fish and they did a super job, catching bass up to four pounds! Many were less but if we had been keeping all legal length bass it would have been a fairly short trip sure enough! I enjoyed our time with Chris and David but there was a basketball game they had to see, so we came on in!

I fished next with another fine pair of bassin men from Murray, David King and Stuart Poston were primed and ready as we met at the Kenlake State Park launching ramp shortly after daylight! We were off and running on another mission of catching those fun time Kentucky Lake bass!

It did take us a little longer to begin because we had so many anglers out there ahead of us! Anyway we did manage to get a bank to work and it wasn't long before David had the first bass on the line! Stuart wasn't about to hold back any longer and he too was soon fighting a bass! We were actually a bit more shallow than I had been fishing but I learned later on that the lake elevation had been lowered a bit overnight! That can really make a difference sometimes because the fish move out into deeper depths and slow down on their feeding.

David King with his largest bass of the day.

Stuart Poston with his largest bass of the day. Both he and David were with guide Jerry Maupin.

However, this fine pair of fishermen with me didn't let up and continued to catch bass! I was a little disappointed because the elevation had changed and the bass had moved some which caused the four and five pounders to be really lock jawed! Sometimes when you are with good friends it doesn't really matter that much. They both are aware of their skills and they just buckle down and fish harder! I will have to get them out again when the elevation has come up to the summer pool stage! I think the bass will be striking the topwater lures by then and we will see some really big bass for sure!

Happy Fishing!

Spring Hunting Safety Tip: Don't Be A Turkey

Turkey hunting should be the safest of all hunting sports. After all, turkey hunters are limited to shotguns with small shot and a range of forty to fifty yards. Hunters have to wait until the bird is within the shooting distance and must be able to see the birds well enough to identify whether it is a hen or gobbler since only gobblers are legal game.

That sounds easy enough. If a hunter can tell the size and sex of a bird at fifty yards, how on earth could a person be mistaken for a turkey? It happens every year, and yes, stupidity is usually involved.

Consider this scenario: A hunter has hidden himself in the greenery of the forest and is calling to a tom turkey. The tom responds by gobbling nearly every step. Another hunter hears a tom gobbling on the next ridge and hurries to intercept it. As the second hunter approaches, he hears turkey sounds and sees movement in the underbrush. Fearing he is about to be seen by the turkey, he fires at the movement and instead of bagging a turkey, he injures a fellow hunter.

What went wrong? Plenty! The second hunter immediately tried to intercept a distant tom without considering whether anyone else was in the woods. Often, a bird gobbling on every step is a sign that the bird is answering a hunter's call. Yes, hens will call to a gobbler, but when the tom responds, hens typically will move toward the tom. A gobbling turkey making a bee-line for a stationary hen is a tipoff that someone is calling that bird.

Instead of approaching warily and listening for the sound of another hunter calling to the tom, the second hunter barreled right into the setup—something that typically doesn't hap-

“ Turkeys have keen eyesight and sharp hearing. A moving hunter seldom slips to within shooting distance of a turkey. Unless the hunter has seen the bird from a distance and can approach using the natural features of the land where the bird cannot see him, a stalk is a waste of time. ” a tree is not advisable whether one suspects a bird or a hunter.

There are some strict turkey hunting no-no's that would have caused the first hunter to imperil himself such as using a "gobble" call. There is a time and place, I suppose, for a hunter to use a gobble call, but he must be aware that every other hunter in the woods is listening for anything that sounds like a turkey gobble, and will head in the direction of the sound in a heartbeat. With this in mind, leave the gobble call at home.

A mature tom turkey will have a whitish-blue head and a bright red snood when seeking a sexy sounding hen. Nothing else in the woods should be this colorful, yet some numbskull hunters will wear caps or other items of clothing that are blue, white, or red. And then there are turkey decoys. Many hunters carry decoys in a compartment of their hunting attire. A decoy head hanging out of a coat pocket or a decoy lying on the ground beside the hunter could look real enough to cause another hunter to shoot.

Decoys are also dangerous when being used properly in the field. I have had hunters on several occasions stalk to within shooting distance of my decoys thinking them to be real birds. A hunter should never set up in a position where he will be in the line of fire if another hunter takes a potshot at his decoy.

Hunters also forget that it doesn't take much to pull the trigger on a gun. There are hunters killed every year by pulling a loaded gun out of a vehicle by the barrel. All it takes is for the trigger guard to rub something on the seat and the safety, gun, and hunter will go off—in that order. Hunters have been killed by dropping guns, the jar of which is often sufficient to discharge the weapon regardless of the safety device.

Many a hunting guide has been indelicately wounded or killed while leading a client on a hands-and-knees stalk to a bird when a snag catches the client's gun and the trigger is pulled. This also goes for climbing steep banks or crossing fences or ditches.

Always make sure that the muzzle of a gun is not pointed in the direction of a person or anything else you do not want to shoot.

Perhaps the saddest situation is where a careless hunter wounds or kills another member of his or her own family. There is no excuse for this kind of stupidity. People hunting together in a group already know that others are hunting in close proximity. The first thought when seeing movement or when hearing sound should be the possibility that it comes from a fellow hunter.

Hunting is a relatively safe sport when compared to other sports, but one second of stupidity can make an otherwise good day into one of tragedy and sorrow. No turkey in the world is worth an injury or loss of life. Always assume that other hunters are in the woods with you, and always suspect that any sound or motion could be coming from a fellow hunter or innocent bystander before you pull the trigger.

MSU KNOCKS OFF TROJANS IN LITTLE ROCK; ROLL OVER TO OXFORD SUNDAY TO PLAY OLE MISS

Special To The Ledger
LITTLE ROCK, ARK. — The Murray State Racers moved into the second round of the Women's National Invitational Tournament with a hard-fought 67-65 victory over the University of Arkansas at Little Rock Trojans Friday. They play Ole Miss in the second round in Oxford at 4 p.m. Sunday.

The score was tied, 65-65, with a minute to play and UALR with the ball, but the Racers' defense held, and Ashley Hayes scored on an off-balance shot with 16 seconds left. The Racers then held the Trojans to one shot that didn't fall, with a tip-in an instant after the buzzer that didn't count.

Hayes, who played all 40 minutes, led the Racers with 21 points and had 12 rebounds. Amber Guffey added 19, while Paige Guffey scored nine. Jana Roney added five. Mallory Luckett and Angela Mullins added four. Jessica Jackson added three, and Rachael Isom scored two points for the Racers.

The win pushed the Racers' record to 23-8. UALR, the Sun Belt Conference runner-up, fell to 26-7.

One of the keys was experience, according to Racers rookie head coach Rob Cross. Seniors accounted for all but 11 of the team's 65 points, while the Trojans don't even have a senior on the team. In the end, it was the Racers' seniors who were able to make the plays, including keeping the Trojans' first team All-Sun Belt Conference sophomore forward Chastity Reed from scoring on the crucial next-to-last possession.

"Reed" is a finalist for WBCA State Farm All-American honors, and so is Ashley Hayes," Cross said. "And Ashley Hayes took a lot of pride in defending her tonight. Chastity is an outstanding player, and I think the real difference between the two tonight ... was Ashley Hayes is a senior. She's a great player that's a senior, and Chastity's a great player that's a sophomore and just coming in to her own, and I think that makes a big difference."
Cross also credited point guard Amber Guffey, who he said along with Hayes potentially could play professionally. "Amber's a phenomenal player with the ball," he said. "Not a great athlete. She's

FIRST PLACE THOROUGHBREDS PLAY HOST TO OVC PRESEASON FAVORITE GAMECOCKS THIS WEEKEND

By MICHAEL DANN
Sports Editor

Certainly this weekend's three-game series with Jacksonville State could be viewed as a measuring stick for the Murray State Thoroughbreds.

Rob McDonald's 'Breds currently have the OVC's best overall record at 13-5 as they play host to the conference's preseason favorite Gamecocks (11-7) beginning today at 1 p.m. in a doubleheader at Reagan Field.

But the fifth-year skipper isn't quite sure if it's fair this early in the season to call this series a "measuring stick."

"It's hard to put that much on a particular series," McDonald said. "It's a conference series so it's very important and I feel good about where our team is right now."

"No question that Jacksonville State is at the top of our league, but we've known for some years now that when we play well, we can beat anyone in our league. If we don't play well, we will not win against anyone in our league. It comes back to us taking care of our own business."

So far, Murray State has taken care of business in terms of looking at the win-loss column. Statistically, the 'Breds aren't doing too bad for themselves either.

MSU is fifth overall in the conference in King ascending to 'the Mount'

MHS' ALL-TIME LEADING RUSHER SIGNS WITH CINCINNATI SCHOOL

By TOMMY DILLARD
Sports Writer

When Jamie King began receiving mail from college football programs, there was just one question he wanted answered from each school.

Did they win?
So when Murray's all-time leading rusher started getting calls from Mount St. Joseph last fall, he was all ears.

"I was looking for schools that win," said King, who played running back and linebacker for the Tigers. "Somehow I came upon them and they had sent me a letter saying that they received my film and that they were interested. Coach (Rod) Huber told me in the letter to call him and I called him and it went from there."

The end result of Huber and King's courtship played out in the Murray High School library Friday afternoon as King signed a National Letter of Intent to play football next fall for the Division III school located in Cincinnati.

There wasn't any question that Mount St. Joseph fit his criteria — the school commonly referred to as "the Mount" had been to the Division III playoffs for four of the last five years and routinely finishes at the top of the Heartland Collegiate Athletic Conference.

But it wasn't just winning that attracted King to the Mount.

He liked the top-notch facilities that included a stadium complete with field turf similar to the surface at Murray State's Roy Stewart Stadium.

Then there was the school's location.

"I was looking for schools that win. Somehow I came upon them and they had sent me a letter saying that they received my film and that they were interested."

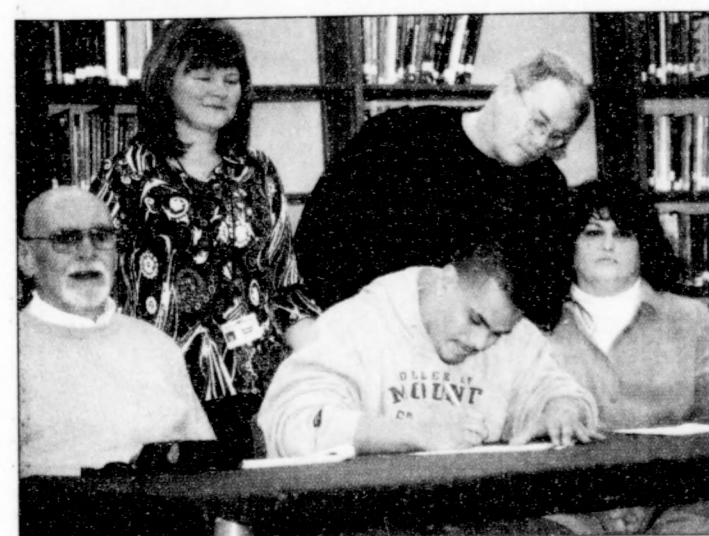

— Jamie King

MHS all-time leading rusher on why he chose Mount St. Joseph

A native of Tampa, King liked the big-city feel of Cincinnati.
And perhaps most importantly, the Lions run the Tony Franklin spread offense which he thrived under during his junior year of high school.

"I'm happy to be back to that," he said. "They say they're going to look at me on offense and defense, but I really don't care. I'm just happy to play foot-

NCAA TOURNAMENT

Cardinals cruise, clips Eagles with full-court press

DAYTON, Ohio (AP) — Go ahead, Louisville. Dance away for yet another day. The NCAA tournament's top team pulled off a few dance moves at midcourt during warmups Friday, then stumbled through a few early missteps. Louisville's full-court press — the thing that makes the Cardinals so dangerous — took over in the second half, setting up a 74-54 victory over Morehead State that completed 25 years of perfection for No. 1 seeds. Louisville (29-5) will play either eighth-seeded Ohio State or No. 9 Siena in the second round on Sunday in the Midwest Regional. With the win, No. 1 seeds improved to 100-0 against No. 16s since the tournament expanded in 1985. There have been a few close calls, and Morehead State (21-16) kept up for a half. Then, history set in. "Teams see you as a No. 1 seed, they're going to bring more intensity to you," said Andre McGee, who had five steals at the apex of the press. "That's what makes the tournament so special. Any team can beat another team, regardless of name or ranking." Not during those 100 games, when the top team has tottered but never toppled. The Eagles know why No. 100 went down the way it did. "It was a typical Louisville-type performance," Morehead State coach Donnie Tyndall said. "What they try to do is wear you down and wear you down."

one of the craftiest people I've ever seen with a basketball in her hands. She's just good, and she's hard to guard. When I was an assistant, I used to practice against her all the time. She's hard for me to guard, and I was pretty good at moving my feet back them."

Rebounding and free throws were among the other differences. Despite playing with a small lineup, Murray State out-rebounded the Trojans, 30-29, and outshot them at the free throw line. The Racers, who are ranked at the top of the NCAA in free throw percentage, made nine of 10 attempts, while the Trojans converted on 9 of 15. The Racers shot well from the field, shooting 54 percent overall while making four of 11 three-pointers.

Cross said the Racers were able to play their running style a little better than the Trojans wanted to let them. "The pace of the game, they're near the top of the nation in scoring defense because of the pace of the game; we're near the top of the nation in scoring offense, so it was, whose game was going to be played — ours or theirs?" he said. "I think it was a lot closer to our style than the way they wanted to play."

The game was tied at 39 at halftime, but the Trojans opened a bit of a lead to make it 48-41 at the 14-minute mark. But the Racers fought back, finally tying the game at 54 with 5:35 left with two free throws by Paige Guffey.

The teams traded baskets in what Cross called a "great chess match," with the Racers occasionally going with a five-guard lineup. Hayes scored and made the free throw on an old-fashioned three-point play to give the Racers a 61-60 lead with 3:15 to play before the Trojans came back to take the lead, setting up the finish.

terms of team batting average. The 'Breds are hitting about .401 in 16 games, have slugged out 166 hits, 14 home runs and 102 RBIs.

In retrospect, in the 2008 season, Murray State had a total of 10 home runs all year.

Jacksonville State is eighth in the OVC in the same category, hitting .390, with 160 hits and 123 runs. The Gamecocks have eight home runs and 109 RBIs.

"I feel like so far we have played pretty well," McDonald added. "I don't feel like we have played as well as we are capable of playing. We need to be more consistent, but for the most part, our pitching has been pretty solid. Our starting pitching has been quite good and we're still trying to find guys after the first few starters that are going to give us consistent pitching."

Murray State is No. 1 in terms of overall pitching in the OVC. The 'Breds have a combined record of 12-4 and a 3.69 ERA. MSU has allowed just 68 runs on 156 hits, while striking out 114 and walking 34.

Not far down the barrel is Jacksonville State at No. 3. JSU is just 9-7, but does boast a 2.73 team ERA. The Gamecocks have allowed 97 runs on 151 hits, to go along with 116 strikeouts and 64 walks.

The reason behind the successful pitching by both squads has to do with two top-flight studs in Murray State's south-paw Daniel Calhoun and JSU's Ben Tootle.

Calhoun is a perfect 4-0 this spring with a 1.67 ERA. The 6-foot-4, 215-pound junior from Evansville, Ind., has allowed eight runs on 25 hits with 32 strikeouts and four walks and was rather impressive in a brief stint Wednesday in Murray State's 13-11 victory over Central Arkansas.

As for Tootle, his resume is a little more impressive than just his 2-0 start to the season and his 1.62 ERA.

To his credit already this season, Tootle has been named to 2009 Preseason Golden Spikes Award Watch List by USA Baseball. The Oxford, Miss., High School product is listed on virtually every preseason All-America squad and is also on the Brooks Wallace Award Watch list.

Tootle helped Jacksonville State to the 2008 Ohio Valley Conference regular-season Championship with a conference record 23-4 mark. Both ESPN and Baseball America both have named Tootle as one of the top prospects in the country and he is projected as a first round draft pick in 2009 and named the preseason OVC Pitcher of the Year.

The treat for fans showing up for Saturday's second game of the doubleheader will be the battle between Calhoun and Tootle.

"If someone wants to see two really, really outstanding college pitchers, they better not come late. It could be a fast game," McDonald said.

King

ball."

Out of Murray's spread, he carried for nearly 1,900 yards during the 2007 season and was the fifth-rated back in the state, averaging 172.1 yards per game.

A coaching change between his junior and senior seasons, however, brought a switch to the more conservative wishbone offensive scheme, which King never thrived under.

He did enjoy a successful senior season, however, on the defensive side of the ball, where he started at linebacker and was the Tigers' leading tackler.

It's that kind of versatility that Murray head coach Steve Duncan believes will be King's greatest asset in college.

"Jamie's one of those guys that can fill so many roles," said Duncan. "They're going to be excited when he gets out there. It may take them a while to figure out where they can best use him because he's just really multi-talented. He's a great tackler, linebacker, he can play corner, he used to be a receiver, he's a good running back and does well when you spread the field."

While Huber says he'll give King opportunity to play on offense, defense and special teams, it was his rushing numbers that originally led him to contact King halfway through the 2008 season.

"What he had done out of the Franklin system was the first thing we noticed," said Huber. "We've been in contact with him for quite a while now and we're thrilled to get him up here."

Teen daughter's pregnancy is cause for joy in mother's eyes

DEAR ABBY: My daughter, "Heidi," is 17 and pregnant. She is going to an alternative high school and doing well. My daughter is proactive about her pregnancy and excited about the new baby.

Dear Abby By Abigail Van Buren

This will be my first grandchild, and I am excited too. My problem is, when I express my joy, others act like I am crazy for being happy. At a baptism in church, I told my husband how happy I will be when our grandson is baptized and that I can't wait until he's born. He responded that he is not excited at all because of the expense and upheaval this new addition will cause.

I know there will be hardships with a new baby. We don't have much room in our house, and a new member will bring some burden. I do not have my head in the clouds - but when I see the ultrasound image and hear that heartbeat, I am filled with joy.

Am I wrong to be happy? And if not, what can I say to people who tell me "I am"? - PROUD ALMOST-GRAND-MA

DEAR ALMOST: You are entitled to your happiness. However, please understand that unwed teen mothers and their children can face challenges, and this may be what people are alluding to when they seem to question your joy.

DEAR ABBY: I am almost 40 and single no children. My friend, "Amanda," is in her 20s. She has two beautiful children, ages 6 and 2, and spoils them with an overabundance of toys and by giving them whatever they want.

I wouldn't interfere, but "giving them whatever they want" includes allowing them to ride in her vehicle without wearing a safety belt or child restraints.

I love Amanda and her children dearly. They wear their safety belts when they are with me. How can I convince Amanda to keep her children safely restrained when traveling without coming across as a "know-it-all"? I don't want to alienate her, but I want her kids to be safe. - CARING FRIEND, MOBERLY, MO.

DEAR CARING FRIEND: Tell her exactly what you have told me. I thought that by now all states had seatbelt and child safety laws in place. Contact the Department of Motor Vehicles and find out if yours is one of them.

Amanda may be a loving and generous mother, but in my opinion, she is guilty of child endangerment. There are worse things than hearing a child protest being buckled in.

WWII vet fights peripheral neuropathy

DEAR DR. GOTT: I am a 90-year-old veteran of World War II and have had peripheral neuropathy for several years. My feet burn all night. I have been taking Neurontin for many years, but it doesn't seem to help any. Can you please help with my situation?

Dr. Gott By Dr. Peter Gott

DEAR READER: Peripheral neuropathy causes pain, numbness, tingling or burning of the extremities. It can result from infection, exposure to heavy metals or other toxins, metabolic disorders and more. Symptoms vary from person to person, depending on the types of nerves affected. Those with alcoholism, vitamin deficiencies, diabetes, rheumatoid arthritis, thyroid, kidney, liver or specific autoimmune disorders are at high risk for the disorder. I cannot determine from your letter what caused your problem; nevertheless, the point now is to improve your quality of life.

There are a number of treatments available. For mild cases, over-the-counter pain relievers or the application of medicated chest rub to the affected areas may be all that is needed. For more severe cases, prescription antiseizure medications, such as Neurontin, may be used. If these steps fail to provide improvement, seek out a pain specialist or visit a pain clinic. I don't expect you to be pain-free at the age of 90, but your neurologist should be able to help you more comfortable than you are. Pursue the issue, and don't stop until you are satisfied with your progress. Good luck. To give you related information, I am sending you a copy of my Health Report "Managing Chronic Pain."

DEAR DR. GOTT: I am concerned about our citizens. Diabetes is on the rise, as is obesity. Why can't physicians contact these food and drink companies and make them reduce their sugar and fat contents?

DEAR READER: It is not the fault of food and drink manufacturers that Americans are obese and in poor health. Each teenager and adult is responsible for the types of foods and drinks consumed. No one is forced to eat high-fat, high-sugar foods. The only exception to this is babies, toddlers and young children who do not know any better (unless taught by their parents).

So, before blaming food manufacturers, look around. Healthful alternatives are available. If we as a whole started purchasing and consuming more fruits, vegetables and low-fat, low-sugar foods, we would all become healthier. "Bad" foods would become more expensive, "good" foods would become cheaper, and our nation would more readily accept apples and carrots rather than chocolate and potato chips as snacks.

The rest of the world seems to know this. Americans who travel abroad often complain about it, but perhaps we need to take a page from that book. However, it is still people's rights to eat what they please, even if a poor diet carries serious consequences.

Today in History

By The Associated Press Today is Saturday, March 21, the 80th day of 2009. There are 285 days left in the year.

Today's Highlight in History: On March 21, 1685, composer Johann Sebastian Bach was born in Eisenach, Germany.

On this date: In 1804, the French civil code, or the "Code Napoleon" as it was later called, was adopted.

In 1806, Mexican statesman Benito Juarez was born in Oaxaca.

In 1907, U.S. Marines arrived in Honduras to protect American lives and interests in the wake of political violence.

In 1957, President Dwight D. Eisenhower and British Prime Minister Harold Macmillan began a four-day conference in Bermuda.

In 1960, some 70 people were killed in Sharpeville, South Africa, when police fired on demonstrators.

1963, the Alcatraz federal prison island in San Francisco Bay was emptied of its last inmates at the order of Attorney General Robert F. Kennedy.

In 1965, more than 3,000 civil rights demonstrators led by the Rev. Martin Luther King Jr. began their march from Selma to Montgomery, Ala.

In 1972, the Supreme Court, in Dunne v. Blumstein, ruled that states may not require at least a year's residency for voting eligibility.

In 1985, police in Langa, South Africa, opened fire on blacks marching to mark the 25th anniversary of the Sharpeville shootings; the reported death toll varies between 29 and 43.

In 1990, Namibia became an independent nation as the former colony marked the end of 75 years of South African rule.

Ten years ago: Israel's Supreme Court rejected a final effort to have American teenager Samuel Sheinbein returned to the United States to face murder charges. (Under a plea agreement with Israeli prosecutors, Sheinbein was later sentenced to 24 years in prison for the murder of Alfred Tello Jr.) At the Academy Awards, "Shakespeare in Love" won seven Oscars, including best picture and best actress for Gwyneth Paltrow; Roberto Benigni won best actor for "Life is Beautiful," while Steven Spielberg won best director for "Saving Private Ryan."

Five years ago: The White House disputed assertions by President George W. Bush's former counterterrorism coordinator, Richard A. Clarke, that the administration had failed to recognize the risk of an attack by al-Qaida in the months leading up to 9/11.

Horoscope

HAPPY BIRTHDAY for Monday, March 23, 2009:

You often take charge and move key issues forward. No one doubts your leadership abilities, but you might need time off from universal concerns to look at personal ones. You are in a year in which you can create much more of what you want. Simply focus and make it happen. If you are single, you will meet your next sweetie through socializing. Make sure this person is emotionally available. If you are attached, the two of you need to plan a special event or commitment. AQUARIUS is always your friend.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20)

Others push to have you see a situation their way. The more pushing, the more likely you are to pull back and look for a better response. Let a difficult associate know exactly what you are thinking.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22)

Let others seek you out and ask for advice. You have a lot going on around you, and are sorting out your priorities. Do you feel as if someone is trying to pull the wool over your eyes? You just might be right.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22)

Accomplish as much as you can. Your creativity emerges and might actually be disappointing to someone. If you feel under the weather, let someone else pitch in. You don't need to do everything.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22)

Your imagination knows no limits on a good day. Charge this endless resource into problems, especially those involving a security-related matter. Others can be demanding. If nothing is going on, and you need to go with the flow.
