Citywide event eyed as largest in town ever

Special to the Ledger
Third shoppers all around town are starting to prepare for the Citywide Yard Sale on Saturday, Sept. 19.

Those wanting to sell unwanted items may do so by completing an application and returning it, along with a $10 donation to Freedom Post, 201 South 4th Street, Murray, KY 42071.

Filling out the application offers a chance to be placed on the Citywide Yard Sale map and includes a listing of items being sold. Being placed on the map is beneficial because many people use these maps to pinpoint which yard sales they will shop that day. Applications are available at the Murray Convention & Visitors Bureau located on the downtown court square, as well as at murray.com.

Yard-sale locations are offered in the Central Park parking lot, thanks to Murray-Calloway County Parks and Recreation, on a first-come first-serve basis, commented to Stephanie Butler, Convention & Event coordinator with the Murray Convention & Visitors Bureau.

Bargain-hunters may pick up a yard sale map at the Murray CVB meeting Thursday, Sept. 17, from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. Maps will be sold Thursday and Friday.

Health care negotiators focus on illegal immigrants at Friday meeting

By SENSA SPINER
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — Health care negotiators in the Senate pressed for a way to ensure that illegal immigrants can't get access to government-funded insurance, a contentious issue now front and center after a Republican congressman's outburst during President Barack Obama's speech.

The issue is one of several thorny problems that came up as a small group of negotiators on the Senate Finance Committee met Friday.

Finance Committee Chairman Max Baucus, D-Mont., is aiming to finalize legislation on Obama's health overhaul by next week — though whether it's bipartisan or not remains to be seen.

Members of the group said they thought they'd settled the question of illegal immigration, but it came to the fore this week when Republican Rep. Joe Wilson shouted "You lie" at Obama's speech.

Such verification can be tricky. Many Democrats fear that verification procedures keep legal residents from getting insurance, and in the House, they rejected Republican attempts to add verification requirements to the House health care bill.

The negotiators put off extensive discussion of the illegal immigration issue until Monday and said sides would be working on language on that and abortion

Murray church to license first woman

By MANNING TEAGUE
Staff Writer
A local pastor says his church will be the first Baptist church in Murray to license a woman preacher this weekend.

Marvin Barner, pastor of Greater Hope Missionary Baptist Church, said his church will be granting a license to Surtilda Payne at 3 p.m. Sunday. He added that St. John Missionary Baptist Church — where his cousin, Ronald Kendrick, is pastor — would be the second local Baptist church to license a woman preacher next Sunday, Sept. 20, when it gives one to Ronald's wife, Tonda Kendrick.

Barner said he was proud that the churches were moving in this direction and "going against the grain of the old way." He said that for the last 80 or 90 years, many women have felt called by God to preach, but they haven't been able to do that in an official capacity. He said he believes that God can use whomever he wants whenever he wants.

"It's not a male thing or a female thing; it's a God thing," he said.

Barner, who has been pastor at Greater Hope for about two years, said that about 80 percent of his congregation is female. He said there were many issues, such as domestic violence and rape, that he can try to address through this pastor which featured flowers and a looping video of Rushing talking about his favorite holiday memories. Funeral services are today at 11 a.m. at Lovett Auditorium.

Residents urged to participate in session

By MANNING TEAGUE
Staff Writer
Murray city officials are strongly encouraging the public to participate in the Community Listening Session set for Thursday to give input on which services they do or do not value and those they would like to see started.

The meeting will begin at 6 p.m. Thursday in the council chambers on the second floor of City Hall. Director of Administration Matt Manning said the main purpose for the meeting is to allow citizens to voice their ideas about existing services and to say whether or not there are services they would like to see in the future. He said the city is in an era in which expenses are rising, so some services might one day have to be cut, especially if the public made it clear that it desired new services. The city's basic means of collecting revenue are through taxes on real and personal property and insurance premiums, as well as through city citizens, also known as vehicle license taxes. He said city officials are well aware of other opportunities for raising additional funds, but had no intention of levying a payroll tax.

Manning said he hoped to see a big crowd at the meeting because it was critical that the city get input on what they wanted. He said local government officials can sometimes get into their own "tunnel" and think they are doing the right thing.

Former lawmaker charged with brandishing gun

LEXINGTON, Ky. (AP) — State police say they have charged a former Kentucky lawmaker with six counts of wanton endangerment after he brandished a gun in a rural cemetery.

Trooper Charles Swiney and Lt. David Jude confirmed Steve Nunn's arrest Friday, hours after the shooting death of his ex-girlfriend.

The Fayette County Coroner's Office says 29-year-old Amanda Ross was shot to death outside her town house early Friday.

Authorities say they found Nunn at the Cosby cemetery in Hart County. Swiney says Nunn had what appeared to be self-inflicted but not life-threatening wounds to his wrists.

He has not been charged in the slaying. A message seeking comment was left on his cell phone.

Ross was an employee of the Kentucky Department of Insurance. She was found shot outside her home in a gated community.

Obama nominates lawyer, professor for TVA board

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — President Barack Obama on Thursday nominated for the Tennessee Valley Authority board of directors a public interest lawyer with a background in environmental issues and an economics professor experienced in rate-setting policy.

The nominees are Neil G. McBride, general counsel with the Legal Aid Society of Middle Tennessee and the Cumberlands, and Barbara Haskew, who teaches at Middle Tennessee State University and is a former manager of the rate staff at the TVA.

The TVA is the nation's largest public utility, delivering power to about 9 million people in Tennessee, Alabama, Mississippi, Kentucky, Georgia, North Carolina and Virginia.

Health negotiators look at malpractice changes

By RICARDO ALONSO-ZALDIVAR and ERICA WERNER Associated Press Writers

WASHINGTON (AP) — Following President Barack Obama's offer of compromise on an issue that has long divided Washington, congressional health care negotiators are considering proposals to foster alternatives to medical malpractice lawsuits.

The possibility that malpractice changes could be part of health care legislation that suddenly seems to have better chances of passing has sent doctors and trial lawyers scrambling.

Senators on the Finance Committee are looking at the possibility of special courts in which a judge with medical expertise would hear malpractice cases, says Sen. Kent Conrad, D-N.D. The theory is that medical judges wouldn't be as easily swayed by emotion as are jury juries. Other possibilities include the option of arbitration, as well as some liability protection for doctors who follow "best practice" clinical standards in treating their patients.

Many economists are skeptical that malpractice insurance premiums paid by doctors — or even the practice of defensive medicine to avoid litigation — are major reasons for soaring health care costs. But the issue looms large politically because many conservatives in both parties are convinced that doctors routinely order up tests their patients don't need because they're afraid of getting sued.

Obama's overture in his Wednesday night speech could give him a way to peel off some Republican votes, as well as shore up support from moderates in his own party. The president said that while he doesn't see malpractice changes as a "silver bullet," he's talked to enough doctors to suspect that fear of litigation contributes to unnecessary costs. He's directing the Health and Human Services Department to provide funding for pilot programs to test some alternatives to litigation.

"I hope this signals a commitment to meaningful malpractice reform," said Sen. Mike Enzi, R-Wyo., one of only three Republicans in the Senate still negotiating with Democratic counterparts seeking an elusive bipartisan compromise.

Doctors' groups, which lost the battle for national limits on jury awards for pain and suffering, now see a possibility for other ways to reduce malpractice lawsuits. "I think there's been significant movement," said Dr. James Rohack, president of the American Medical Association. "The physician community has said it's a problem. The Republicans have said it's a problem."

Correction

In response to a Friday story concerning the Murray Independent School District, Sherry Purdon, public information officer, has issued the following clarification:

The MISD provided $600,000 for additional personnel to fund arts and humanities and technology staff in the school, while also lowering classroom sizes throughout the district. This funding is above and beyond the SBDM allocations, which are based on cap size. This funding allows MISD to continue to provide the low teacher pupil ratios offered in the MISD classes.

point. We're working through all these issues and we'll see where it goes from there when we finalize everything," Snowe said.

The question could be answered as early as Monday when the group meets again.

"Obviously we'll find out who wants to support the (bill) and who doesn't," Baucus said. "I'm hopeful that there will be bipartisan support. And I'll keep working on it frankly over the weekend, on the telephone talking to people, so on and so forth."

Enzi declined to comment Friday and Grassley participated in the meeting by phone from Iowa.

Sept. 11 galvanizes U.S. troops in Afghanistan

By HEIDI VOST

BAGRAM AIR FIELD, Afghanistan (AP) — Many of the troops at this sprawling U.S. air base were in their mid-teens when they watched the planes hit the World Trade Center's twin towers on television and vowed to join the military.

Eight years later, many of those who enlisted in the wake of the Sept. 11, 2001, attacks are now part of a massive military effort in Afghanistan that some are saying has no clear exit.

Remembrances of the attacks started at dawn Friday, with more than 1,000 service members donning shorts and sneakers to run exactly 9.11 kilometers (about 5.5 miles) to commemorate the day and remember troops who have died in the fighting since.

Army Sgt. Joshua Applegate of Springfield, Mississippi, was in high school when the planes hit the towers, and enlisted two years later, though he said he had wanted to do it right away.

"I like my country too much not to," said Applegate, who arrived in Afghanistan in April and now facilitates transport and other logistics at Bagram Air Field, the main U.S. base in the country, located just north of the capital, Kabul.

It's nearly eight years since U.S. forces invaded to oust the Taliban and hunt for al-Qaida leaders, including Osama bin Laden, who remains at large. Now soldiers like Applegate are fighting a war that is shifting its focus amid waning public support.

Soldiers no longer talk about capturing bin Laden, and instead discuss helping the Afghan people and strengthening its government. The phrases are optimistic, but they also suggest a mission that is years from completion. Afghanistan's government is rife with corruption, its people largely uneducated and last month's presidential election was plagued by mounting evidence of fraud.

Many troops called Friday's anniversary a galvanizing event, and said marking the day reminds them that the U.S. mission here is important. "It's still one of the reasons why we're here. Sept. 11 is part of it. For those of us who see the repercussions of fighting, it's still there every day," said Air Force Capt. Christopher Dupuis, 26, of Lacey, Washington.

At 5:16 p.m., the exact time in Afghanistan when the first of the two planes hit the World Trade Center in New York City, a ceremony began at Bagram with an officer reading a minute-by-minute timeline of events on that day. The base's U.S. flag fluttered at half-staff as more than 200 soldiers stood for the singing of "America the Beautiful" and the national anthem just ahead of sunset.

Navy Petty Officer 1 Casey Morgan told the crowd that she wasn't patriotic until the planes struck. Soon after, she looked at her job at a Waffle House and decided she wasn't doing enough for her country or herself, and joined up. "My country was at war and I was serving waffles to stranded travelers," said the 25-year-old from Quantico, Virginia.

Ceremonies also were held at the U.S. Embassy in Kabul and at other U.S. military bases in Afghanistan.

The anniversary may bring back memories, but the war's mounting casualties are a reminder of how much has changed. Afghanistan is no longer an operation of targeted strikes to rout the Taliban and ferret out al-Qaida leaders. It is now an all-out effort, with more than 21,000 troops added this year by President Barack Obama and potentially more to come.

The added forces have meant more contact with the enemy. August was the deadliest month for U.S. troops so far, with 51 killed. And 2009 has been the deadliest year of the conflict for American forces. Since the invasion, at least 747 members of the U.S. military have died in Afghanistan and the region, according to figures from the Defense Department.

World's oldest person dead in Los Angeles at 115

By SOLVEJ SCHOU

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Gertrude Baines, the world's oldest known person who once quipped she had won the genetic lottery, died Friday at a nursing home. She was 115.

Baines likely suffered a heart attack but an autopsy will be conducted to confirm the cause of death, said her longtime physician, Dr. Charles Witt. "I saw her two days ago, and she was just doing fine," Witt told The Associated Press. "She was in excellent shape. She was mentally alert. She smiled frequently."

Born in 1894 in Shellman, Ga., Baines claimed the title of the world's oldest living person when a 115-year-old woman, Maria de Jesus, died in Portugal in January.

The oldest person in the world is now Kama Chinen, 114, who lives in Japan, according to Dr. L. Stephen Coles of the Gerontology Research Group, which tracks claims of extreme old age. Chinen was born May 10, 1895, Coles said.

The oldest person who has ever lived is Jeanne-Louise Calment, according to Coles. She was 122 when she died Aug. 4, 1997 in Arles, France.

Baines outlived her entire family, including her only daughter, who died of typhoid.

Baines worked as a maid in Ohio State University dormitories until her retirement and has lived at the Western Convalescent Hospital in Los Angeles for more than 10 years.

After turning 115 in April, she said, "Living that long is like winning the genetic lottery."

Nurses at Western Convalescent Hospital described Baines as a modest woman who liked to watch the "Jerry Springer Show" and eat fried chicken, bacon and ice cream. She refused to use dentures.

Listening session ...

From Front

While not realizing that citizens might not see any justification of some of the services provided.

Mattingly said he wanted to assure people that this would not be a meeting in which city officials would listen to citizens for one night and then ignore what they had to say in the long run. He said they sincerely wanted to know in which direction the residents of Murray wanted the city to go in the next five, 10 or 15 years and for those residents to feel comfortable knowing their voices would be heard.

"We're taking this very seriously," he said. This is the first time the city has done anything quite like this, Mattingly said. In 2001, a group of community members formed a committee to gather information and put forth a vision for what the city should be by the year 2020. He said the group had some good ideas, but they were never officially adopted as policy by the city.

Mattingly said he didn't know exactly what people would say at the meeting, but thought many would probably talk about wanting to see more sidewalks, bike lanes or walking trails. He said those who come to the meeting will have the chance to look at the budget closely to get a better understanding of how the city is run and how their tax dollars are currently spent.

The meeting will be led by Bobbie Bryant, the public affairs director for the New Cities Institute, a division of the Kentucky League of Cities. Bryant is originally from Murray and said she has been with the KLC for 10 years. She said not many cities choose to take part in these types of discussions.

"I look forward to facilitating the meeting," she said. "I hope folks are interested and come out to participate in the dialogue."

Mattingly said it was a good idea to have a New Cities Institute run the meeting so there would be an objective third party and so the city wouldn't be in control of the proceedings.

Mattingly said the late Mayor Tom Rushing felt strongly about having the Community Listening Session because he felt that voters should have a strong influence on how the city budget is spent.

"He said it doesn't make sense to pursue our own agenda; we need to listen to what the people have to say," Mattingly said.

Ark. baby born 9-9-09 has sibling born 8-8-08

FAYETTEVILLE, Ark. (AP) — At least it will be easy to remember their birthdays.

An Arkansas couple welcomed a new baby girl into their lives Wednesday, giving her the birthday of 9-9-09. Andy and Allison Miller's newest daughter Molly Reid will come home to sister Campbell, who was born on August 8, 2008, or 8-8-08.

The coincidences don't stop there. Molly Reid has nine letters to her name, while Campbell has eight.

The Millers don't appear poised to go for a third child on 10-10-10.

Allison Miller tells Rogers, Ark. television station KHOG that she and her husband are going to take a rest.

Local Curves celebrates National Women's Health and Fitness Day

In recognition of National Women's Health and Fitness Day on September 30th, the Curves location in Murray is announcing a no cost, 30-day diet plan program for all Murray-area women interested in weight-loss results and health improvement.

More than half of adult U.S. women are overweight and more than one-third of adult U.S. women are obese, according to the American Obesity Association. In fact, obesity plays a major role in the poor health of women, including diabetes and high blood pressure. Such statistics can be alarming, and the increase in obesity is why places, like the local Curves center, have educational programs to address weight loss through focused curricula and classes.

Farley said the 30-Day Diet Plan program is a series of free weight management classes. These classes are based on recent research findings from the Exercise & Sport Nutrition Laboratory at Texas A&M University. They teach Curves' demonstrated method for raising metabolism and losing weight.

All classes are available at no fee and no membership is required. For more information about Curves of Murray and when the diet classes are offered, contact Farley at 270-759-3400 or 97A8XZN@curvesmail.com.

Volunteers requested for meeting Sunday

A performance of "The Way Home," a performance piece by Constance Alexander, is scheduled for October, Breast Cancer Awareness Month.

Anyone interested in performing in - or helping out with - this readers theatre production, is invited to attend a meeting on Sunday at 2 p.m. in the auditorium of the Wraether West Kentucky Museum on the Murray State University campus.

The purpose of the meeting is to run through excerpts from the script and also to do some preliminary planning associated with an October production.

Elaine Alba Mitchell will direct "The Way Home," a readers theatre piece that does not require actors to memorize lines, and involves a minimum of production requirements. Volunteers are needed as actors, stage manager, sound and lights, and other details to make the performance a success.

"The Way Home" tells the stories of two women from western Kentucky and their battles with cancer. Performances of "The Way Home" have been mounted by professional and community theatre groups around the country, including New York, New Jersey, Illinois, Louisiana, California and Georgia.

The performance of "The Way Home" in October will be a fundraiser for Hospice House, a residential facility for hospice patients in the region. For additional information contact Constance Alexander at cacalexander@hotmail.com.

Purcell speaker for Murray Rotary Club

Mel Purcell, Murray State University tennis coach and former world-ranked professional tennis player, was the speaker at a meeting of the Murray Rotary Club held at Pagliai's, Murray.

Purcell regaled the group with stories of his travels around the world and meeting celebrities from Farrah Fawcett and Sonny Bono to Johnny Carson.

Purcell turned pro in 1980, and has been at MSU since 1991, and was inducted into the Ky. State HS Hall of Fame.

PrimeLife plans trip to Imperial Cities

PrimeLife, the health and wellness program from Murray-Calloway County Hospital for people ages 55 and older, have an exciting trip planned to the Imperial Cities.

Good fishing days plentiful for columnist

I had the pleasure of fishing with a couple of great friends and expert anglers last week and it was a fantastic day!

Fishing Line
By Jerry Maupin
Outdoors Columnist

the cool air felt very nice. It has been a year since Ev and Steve had fished with me so we were ready for some hot fishing! Fortunately there was a little current still moving the baitfish down the lake and that is like a waiter serving a table of food. We were on time and started catching the strippers and largemouth bass on our first casts.

These two guys are always such gentlemen and fun to fish with. We knew within minutes it was going to be a good day.

We almost always use the famous roostertail spinnerbait to attract a strike from the aggressive white stripper but today we had some extra fun from a school of largemouth bass and one smallmouth bass. We caught our limits in both species but all the blackbass were released and we only kept their limits of strippers. They were so aggressive I did release many which were keepers, but we only kept the largest ones.

The current had begun to wane as we reached their limits so we knew we had been blessed with a perfect day.

Both Ev and Steve had done a real excellent job of casting and catching and their smiles were evidence of the fact they were happy men!

I then had the pleasure of fishing with a real talented lady angler, my wife Jeanne. We were close to the same area but the current was not so strong and I knew we had to work fast. It was like a special event. From the time we made our first casts until our limits were caught was only forty minutes total. We came in, cleaned our catch, and were back home in two hours and forty-five minutes total. That is the way fishing for strippers used to be for many years and the limit then was sixty fish per angler. Many families dined on fish three times a week back then and loved it.

I next had the pleasure of fishing with an adorable young couple who were here for the first time but hopefully not the last. Jay and Rachel Hall came to fish a day then do some sightseeing on the Land Between the Lakes.

We spoke of what they wanted to do on our way to the fishing bonanza and the first action would be to teach Rachel how to cast a baitcasting rod and reel.

She had her doubts about being able to use the reel and not backlash but I explained that it only took thirty minutes at the most, for her to learn and succeed.

Jay was all for it because it would help him out as well, if she would learn.

As I said to her, I have been teaching baitcasting for over fifty-five years and I never lose an angler.

They always learn and are so happy they did. Well, you know now that this lady did take the unfamiliar rod and reel and began casting as I suggested. Less than thirty minutes later she was on her own and catching striper and largemouth bass as if she has always been using that type of equipment.

When she caught her first bass, I looked at Jay and he was smiling from ear to ear even though the bass was still fighting hard. The rest was easy.

This fine couple caught their limits of strippers and released thirty largemouth bass as the current stopped totally. We were overjoyed as I cleaned their catch. It was a fantastic trip even though it was tough.

I hope to see this couple of anglers again before winter. They were great to be with.
Happy Fishing!

Early wood duck and teal season set to open

With almost two weeks of dove season behind Kentucky's hunters, the early season for wood duck and teal is set to begin next week-end, September 16. The season will remain open for five days.

In The Field
By Kenny Darnell
Outdoors Columnist

Johnny come-lately to the Commonwealth, the rationale being that all three species of teal, green-wing, bluewing, and cinnamon, blow through our area in September unlike mallards and other large ducks that migrate throughout the winter months. Additionally, wood ducks that are resident residents throughout the summer often head for warmer climes before the main waterfowl season begins in November.

Several states have an early teal season but Kentucky is one of only 2 or 3 that have an early wood duck season. A compromise was struck some years back that allowed Kentucky waterfowlers to hunt wood ducks during the early season in exchange for extra days to hunt teal. Sometimes the compromise looks good, sometimes it's bad.

If the season happens to hit the peak of teal migration through Kentucky, the season can be intense. But if the season is off by mere days, then hunters spend time swatting mosquitoes under empty skies. Sure, there are always a few wood ducks around, but teal are the more sought after ducks. States without the wood duck option have a wider window of opportunity to hit the teal migration.

At any rate, the early wood duck and teal season will run from Saturday, Sept. 16 through Wednesday, Sept. 20. The limit is 4 ducks per day with no more than 2 being wood ducks. Hunting hours begins thirty minutes before sunrise and ends at "official" sunset.

Dove season has already mired itself in the boom/bust pattern that has typified the past few years with some fields producing prodigious quantities of feeding doves while other fields remain empty. True to form, fields that have held birds one day don't necessarily have birds the next. As more corn and soybean fields hit the harvest, hunters could find birds somewhat scattered.

Little did I know that while hunting opening day of dove season with the Chairman's father in Carlisle County eight years ago that events would take place that would have a profound effect on my 2009 hunting experience. After collecting a limit of doves and returning to Murray, the Chairman was summoned to the hospital for the birth of our first granddaughter, Raeanne.

So last week I asked Raeanne what she wanted for her birthday to which she expressed a desire for a BB gun. I had bought her a non-firing replica a couple of years ago explaining that such a device was an important first step to learning proper firearm safety. The replica of a Kentucky Long Rifle was, of course, pink. Accordingly, on her recent birthday, Raeanne was thrilled to open her new, pink BB gun.

With a dove hunt planned for Labor Day afternoon, Raeanne had the option of following Gram to Peddler's Mall, or accompanying Grams to the dove field. She chose the latter without hesitation. So all gussied-up in camo and carrying the new pink BB gun, we embarked on her first dove hunt.

The field was a good one with birds constantly swooping in to light in the sunflower patch. We picked a spot in the shade away from the other shooters and wiled away the afternoon watching birds and clouds. When a bird would swoop in low we would talk about the danger in shooting at low-flying birds. When I declined to shoot at a bird that would offer a better shot to another hunter in the field, we talked of the value of being courteous to fellow hunters.

Shadows soon grew long and the stream of doves began to slow. By this time, Raeanne could discern a dove on the wing from the other assorted twenty-birds at quite a distance and reveled in yelling "dove-ahoy" to alert fellow shooters to the prospect of a fleeting bird. As the action slowed, we perched a Styrofoam cup with BB's fired from the new, pink birthday present, and I even managed to collect a bird or two myself. Who would have guessed that the hard-hunting, limit-requiring shooter of 2001 would on this day eight years hence find himself seated on a small cooler on the edge of a hot dove field beside an inquisitive second grader totting a pink BB gun. Go figure.

I'm sure that won't be the last day afield with granddaughter or the pink BB gun. She's already making plans for the upcoming deer season. As if that's not enough, her little sister Ava will soon follow in her footsteps.

A dove field is an excellent place to introduce youngsters to hunting as the weather is warm and the action is usually non-stop. Just remember when taking a youngster afield that the most important aspect of hunting is safety.

Pick a nice spot in the shade away from other hunters if possible, and keep in mind that the purpose of the trip is to ensure that the youngster comes away excited about the experience. Take plenty of water or soda pop and be sure to have a little snack or two on hand.

On a different note, come next spring, turkey hunters in the Commonwealth will no longer have to engage the services of a soothsayer and/or astrologer, or consult ancient charts and Solunar Tables in an effort to estimate the date for the opening of spring turkey season. Beginning in 2010, spring turkey season will open on the second Saturday in April instead of the first Saturday closest to the third waning moon on the cusp of Jupiter except when Easter comes early or spring arrives late divided by the number of hours spent trying to figure out in advance when opening day would actually fall. Thank you, KDFWR, for finally pushing the "easy" button for setting the spring season.

Ledger & Times outdoor columnist Kenny Darnell enjoying a Labor Day dove hunt with granddaughter Raeanne.

Prescription Drug Abuse

83% of Murray/Calloway County students reported never abusing Rx Drugs.

Help keep this the majority by:

Dispose of unused and expired Rx drugs to the local Sheriff's Office (on Maple Street) Monday through Friday 8 a.m.-4:30 p.m. They need to be in their original container.

- Keep all medications secure and out of the hands of a child, teen or guest.
- The majority get Rx drugs from their own home, or friends homes.
- Keep track of your medications. Routinely count your pills.
- Talk to children and teens about the dangers of Rx Drug Abuse.
- NEVER take medications that were not prescribed to you.

MURRAY 43, FULTON CO. 20

Staying perfect

Murray quarterback Christian Duncan heads for open field as Fulton County's Mike McClerkin pursues. Duncan and the Tigers improved to 4-0 on the season Friday night in Hickman.

TIGER RUNNING GAME TOO MUCH FOR SCRAPPY FULTON COUNTY

By RICKY MARTIN
Sports Writer
HICKMAN, Ky. — The Murray High Tigers improved their season record to 4-0 Friday night with a 43-20 victory over Fulton County at Sanger Field.

Murray High got on the board first with a Brandon Wicks three-yard touchdown run, but the Pilots answered back quickly with a 66-yard touchdown run from LaDevin Fair. Fulton was successful on the two-point conversion, and the Tigers found themselves trailing for the first time all season.

Fulton played a much different style offense than what Murray High head coach Steve Duncan had prepared for while watching film.

"This was a different team than what we saw on film," Duncan said. "If they had run what they ran on film, we probably would have played much better defensively, but they didn't and we had to adjust."

Fulton's lead didn't last long, though, when three minutes later, Wicks found pay dirt again, this time from four yards out, putting Murray back in the lead for good.

Wicks finished the night with 82 yards on 16 carries with the two touchdowns, but two other Tigers also had big nights running the ball.

Senior Terrell Bunk gained 84 yards on just 12 carries, while junior Matt Deese shouldered the load with 176 yards on 17 carries with two touchdowns.

"Matt Deese was a hitter," Duncan said. "He was a force out there and he really did some great things on both sides of the ball."

Duncan had to adjust his offensive unit as well after Fulton began shutting down the running lanes on the outside.

"We were mixing it up running outside and inside," Duncan said. "But they decided they weren't going to give us much off-tackle, so we started running our fullbacks inside. It's a little more boring and you've got to stick with it, but we were able to move the ball down field ... We made some adjustments in the second half, and we played a little bit better. We ran some plays that we haven't run before, and they were successful, so I liked that."

Lakers lose control late

GREER THROWS FOR 343 YARDS IN LOSING EFFORT

By TOMMY DILLARD
Sports Writer
MAYFIELD, Ky. — Calloway County's offense enjoyed a breakthrough evening Friday, but the Lakers couldn't break homestanding Mayfield.

The Cardinals turned an otherwise competitive game into a blowout with a flurry of fourth-quarter scores, but Calloway coach Josh McKeel believes the 50-33 final score belied the best three quarters his team has played this season.

"I've never been about moral victories, but if we had gotten a break here or a break there, it could have been different," said McKeel, whose team falls to 1-3 while Mayfield remains undefeated at 4-0.

"I didn't think we were 17 points worse than them. Our kids played hard and we were competitive against a good team."

The highlight of the night for Calloway was the play of freshman Hunter Seay. Calloway County defensive back Hunter Seay goes up to deflect this pass as Mayfield's William Higginson can only look on. The Cardinals got the last laugh, however, winning 50-33.

ALL 'A' SOCCER SECTIONAL

Lady Tigers dominate UHA

MURRAY WILL FACE LEXINGTON CHRISTIAN AT ALL 'A' STATE

Staff Report
Murray dominated University Heights en route to a 4-0 shut out in Friday night's All 'A' sectional match in Hopkinsville.

The Lady Tigers scored their first goal at the 16-minute mark of the first half and knocked in two more before the whistle to give themselves a comfortable 3-0 cushion going into the break.

Murray advances to the All 'A' state tournament in Frankfort next weekend, where they'll face 16th-ranked Lexington Christian on Saturday.

Against UHA, Shelby Crouch opened the scoring with 16:34 left to play in the first half when she scored off a deflection in the Lady Blazers' box. Lyssie Wright played the ball into the box, where it deflected off a UHA player before Crouch struck it into the net.

The Lady Tigers netted another goal just two minutes later when Lindsey Hunt scored off a Morgan Steiner assist.

With seven minutes remaining in the half, Steiner assisted on another goal, this time by Jaclin Patterson.

Murray scored its final goal of the night at the 35-minute mark of the second half when Shelby Johnson scored from the left side of the UHA box assisted by Megg Hudson.

The Lady Tigers dominated from whistle to whistle, outshooting the Lady Blazers 34-5.

Murray goalkeeper Morgan Graham collected five saves in a complete-game shutout.

Tigers weather late Blazer rally

BOYS WILL TAKE ON LOUISVILLE COLLEGIATE

Staff Report
Murray survived a late University Heights rally to secure a 4-2 Friday night victory over the homestanding Blazers and punch a ticket to next weekend's All 'A' state tournament in Frankfort.

The Tigers held a 3-0 lead entering the final 10 minutes of play at the Sectional game in Hopkinsville, but UHA scored two goals in a four-minute stretch to cut the deficit to one.

The Blazers wouldn't get any closer, however, as Murray put the nail in the coffin with an unassisted Jordan Benton goal at the three-minute mark.

The Tigers will face Louisville Collegiate in the All 'A' state quarterfinals on Saturday, Sept. 19 at 5 p.m. EDT.

Murray and UHA played the first 35 minutes of Friday's game without a goal scored by either team, but the Tigers broke the stalemate with 10 minutes remaining in the first half on a Matt Hines goal assisted by Jeremy Curd.

The Curd-to-Hines combination struck again just three minutes later to give Murray a 2-0 advantage going into the break.

The Tigers tacked on another goal nine minutes into the second half when Alex Bokeno scored off assists from Dillon Ward and Matt Hines to build the lead to 3-0.

Murray outshot UHA 14-7 and Tiger keepers Will Hudson and Brandon Kippud recorded three saves and one save, respectively.

MSU GOLF ROUNDUP

Racers get first tough test to start

STOUT FIELD AWAITS MSU IN MISSISSIPPI

By MICHAEL DANN Sports Editor

Close only counts in horseshoes and hand grenades. The Racers men's golf team might know a little something about that. They blew up on the final day of the OVC Championships during the spring season in Alabama, blowing a lead to Austin Peay.

going to be this year, they need to look no further than this weekend when they will play in a staunch field at the Sam H. Hall Intercollegiate golf tournament, hosted by the University of Southern Mississippi at the Hattiesburg Country Club.

Six of the 15 teams either had individuals or teams that were represented at last year's NCAA D-1 Men's Regionals. The field includes Ohio Valley Conference foes Austin Peay and Jacksonville State and is rounded out by Arkansas-Little Rock, Arkansas State, Kennesaw State, Louisiana Tech, Louisiana-Lafayette, Memphis, Mississippi State, New Orleans, Southeastern Louisiana, Troy, Winthrop and the host Golden Eagles.

Newcomb (73.1), Jared Wolfe (73.9), William Hunt (75.5) and incoming freshman Patrick Newcomb, the younger brother to Nick, who both graduated from Marshall County High School.

Nick Newcomb, Chris Griffin, James Stevenson and Wolfe are this year's senior leaders. Hunter Ford and Carrico are the two juniors, while Tyler Brown, Dustin Gosser and Hunt comprise the sophomore class. Patrick Newcomb remains the lone freshman on the squad.

MSU rides momentum train into season

By MICHAEL DANN Sports Editor

The train is out of the station and it's full steam ahead for Velvet Milkman. Fresh off the school's seventh Ohio Valley Conference championship and with the core of that nucleus back, this could be the year where eight would be great.

Regionals at Ohio State is back, including Joyce Trus (78.3 stroke average last year), along with Megan McKinney (79.1), as well as Andrea Downer (80.4) and Morgan Cross (80.7).

returners we have coming back and the experience that they bring with them," Milkman said. "They've all played to their potential. I'm pleased with where they have come in. Everyone has gotten a little better. I anticipated them getting better and they have. We'll certainly miss Bethany, Alexandra Hinteregger and Caroline Lagerborg are the three juniors. Only Cross and Claudia Schwan represent the sophomore class.

Milkman has set the field with a fair amount of OVC regional and national titles. Eastern Kentucky, Tennessee Tech and Austin Peay will represent the conference, while Western Kentucky, Evansville and the two Nashville schools, Belmont and Lipscomb, round out the field.

But if the Racers are going to need a measuring stick as to just how successful they are Milkman refers to this year's club as the strongest she has had in recent memory, adding that no surprises are good surprises.

The season will kick off for Murray State with a 36-hole start Monday at Drake Creek in Ledbetter. Aside from MSU, the night 1-for-4 with the one completion going to senior Jarvae Langford for a six-yard touchdown and also added 122 yards in the return game, including a 96-yard kickoff return for a touchdown in the closing seconds of the first half.

ANDRUS, HARPER MAKE NFL ROSTERS

FORMER RACERS MAKE OPENING-DAY CUTS

Two former Murray State football players survived final cuts and have landed themselves on opening-day NFL rosters. Former Racer Shane Andrus is a member of the Indianapolis Colts, while Rod Harper is a member of the New Orleans Saints.

opener against the Minnesota Vikings. He is currently listed as the backup kicker, but should handle the kickoff duties while Adam Vinatieri will handle field goals.

Andrus is most famously known to Racer fans for his 52 yard field goal as time expired to defeat Eastern Illinois and clinch the 2002 Ohio Valley Conference championship.

Andrus joined the Colts after signing as a free agent on June 9. Andrus spent his third training camp with the Colts and is making his first opening-day roster. He connected on five field goals in the first three games, including a long of 42 in preseason

He is currently listed as third on the depth chart at wide receiver and punt returner. The Saints open the 2009 season Sunday afternoon against the Detroit Lions. Kickoff is set for noon at the Louisiana Superdome.

But the Cardinals had an answer for both, tying the score at 15 and taking a 21-18 lead with under a minute remaining in the first half when quarterback Luke Gubly found speedster Xavier Shelton for a 17-yard touchdown pass.

the night 1-for-4 with the one completion going to senior Jarvae Langford for a six-yard touchdown and also added 122 yards in the return game, including a 96-yard kickoff return for a touchdown in the closing seconds of the first half.

Even after the 4-0 start, Steve Duncan says his team still has a lot to work on as they enter what he calls the tougher part of their schedule.

"We've still got to improve on our lines," he said. "Both our offensive and defensive lines have to get better as well as our end play."

The Tigers are on the road again next week as they travel to Ballard Memorial for a 7:30 p.m. kickoff against the Bombers.

"We were upset with our defensive line and linebackers not being intense enough in the first half," Morris said. "We thought we got whipped in the first half up front, but we challenged them at halftime and came out better in the second half."

McKeel also gave credit to the Cardinal defense, but Calloway's offensive line was far from 100 percent in the second half.

Heardening memories of the injuries that riddled the unit in 2008, Logan Burks left the game with an injury while Kyle Crittenden and Nick Calhoun were both hobbled.

Calloway took advantage of a Mayfield fumble and cut the Cardinal lead to three after a 10-yard Tyrrell Willis touchdown run, but that was as close as the Lakers would get.

Gilbert, new NY Phil conductor, comes home

By MARTIN STENBERG
 Associated Press Writer
 NEW YORK (AP) — As a youngster, Alan Gilbert had a unique view of the New York Philharmonic. His parents were violinists in the orchestra, and he and his sister would accompany them on international tours.

He would stand backstage and watch, astonished at how drenched in sweat the conductor became.

After studying at Harvard University, the Juilliard School and the Curtis Institute, and spending eight years as music director with the Royal Stockholm Philharmonic, Gilbert has come home. On Wednesday night, before a nationally televised PBS audience, he takes the baton as music director of the New York Philharmonic, stepping up to a podium once occupied by such titans as Mahler, Toscanini and Bernstein.

At 42, he will be one of the youngest music directors in the 167-year history of the nation's oldest orchestra, taking over at a time when classical music institutions are trying to win a younger audience and precious dollars.

He is also the first native New Yorker to become its music director. His mother, Yoko Takebe, is still in the orchestra. His father, Michael, retired in 2001, the year Gilbert made his first Philharmonic appearance as a guest conductor.

In an interview at Avery Fisher Hall, Gilbert spoke of the challenges he faces during his five-year contract, his commitment to breaking new ground in an old institution and leading an orchestra that includes his mom.

AP: It must be surreal to be taking over.

Gilbert: To be music director wasn't a dream that I really dared to have. ... It's one of the most exciting conducting positions in the world and I think anybody would be excited to have this opportunity. For me personally, to have grown up around the orchestra, to have the orchestra define essentially what orchestras are and what orchestras can be means it has an extremely important special place in my life and my musical makeup.

AP: As a child, you handed out passports to the musicians during international tours.

Gilbert: It was fun. I knew a lot of the musicians. ... I loved going on tour. I remember hanging out backstage. I remember being amazed when Zubin (Mehta) came off backstage and took off his jacket. I couldn't believe how wet it was. I didn't realize that you sweated so much. Of course, now I know first hand.

AP: What's it like to have your mother in the orchestra?

Gilbert: I honestly don't spend a lot of time thinking about it. When I'm conducting, believe me there's enough to worry about without having to add to that. ... I do get comments. I'm not trying to be funny or facetious, but she does tell me if she thinks that I need to tie my tie or make sure that my shirt is properly ironed or things like that.

AP: She doesn't bother you about your interpretations?

Gilbert: She does say things that are helpful all the time. She also understands that I need to do it on my own and take my risks and take my chances.

AP: You are taking over this position held by some of the biggest names in music and at a time when the economy's hurting and things aren't going so well for arts institutions. How nervous do you feel?

Gilbert: There's an obvious challenge in trying to develop an orchestra that's already developed like the New York Philharmonic. ... Technically, there's an enormous amount of understanding and insight as to what music can express. But I'm looking for very clear articulation and differentiation between the way the orchestra plays different pieces of different composers.

Horoscope

HAPPY BIRTHDAY for Monday, Sept. 14, 2009:
 * * * * * This year, you open up to a new source of inspiration. Your focus on friends and associates intensifies. Network both professionally and personally, and you'll expand your immediate circle. Often, you also will become reclusive and withdraw. This year, you will attract many different experiences. In 2010, you could experience more success than in the past and just feel happier. If you are single, check out someone with care, or any person who seems alluring. Someone might be unavailable emotionally. If you are attached, the two of you benefit from time away from your lives, just the two of you. Stoke the fires of romance. LEO makes a great doctor or healer.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20)
 * * * * * Keep communication flowing. Listen to news that heads in your direction, and weigh the pros and cons of what someone shares. You are willing to break past patterns that have been comfortable, especially as someone gives you a lot of support. Tonight: Head on home.
GEMINI (May 21-June 20)
 * * * * * Evaluate the expenses before committing to any new projects or ideas. At the same time, evaluate your personal time and whether you want to give more of yourself. A surprise resolution might be in the wings. Hold off if you need to. Communication activates as you share more of yourself. Tonight: Hang out with favorite people.
CANCER (June 21-July 22)
 * * * * * Continue to put your best foot forward. You might not be sure of what you are hearing. A strange message or coincidence encourages you to look beyond the obvious. Let go of any remnants of rigid thinking. You might be surprised by a new vision. Tonight: Gather your bills.
LEO (July 23-Aug. 22)
 * * * * * Opt to lie back, research and listen. You will be able to make a move or decide what to do later. A partner or associate could surprise you with news. How you handle a restriction demonstrates your flex. Tonight: Feeling renewed, update your plans.
VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22)
 * * * * * Use the daytime hours to the max. You could be wondering exactly what is going on with a friend. Don't naturally make a negative assumption. Give yourself several days to digest this situation. Tonight: Make it an early night.
LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22)
 * * * * * Responsibilities keep you moving. You feel you have little time for yourself. A sudden change or piece of news floors you. Understand what is happening behind the scenes with associates. You might need to take a harder look. Tonight: Relax, and then decide.
SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21)
 * * * * * You might want to take another look at a changing situation. If you detach, you could surprise yourself with what a new perspective brings forth. Do needed research before committing to a decision, especially at work. Tonight: Expect to be up late.
SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21)
 * * * * * A partner steps up to the plate and lets you know what he or she is going to do. You might wonder what you are going to do. What is unavoidable is your responsibilities here. Stretch to see a more complete view.

TAURUS (Dec. 22-Jan. 19)
 * * * * * Others assume control. You might have a knee-jerk reaction and want to assume control. Let it go and watch rather than react. A financially vague business deal needs to be investigated. Listen to feedback. Tonight: Catch up on a pal's news.
AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18)
 * * * * * You can accomplish a lot if you focus. Others could get testy, especially a partner. You can inspire others more than you think. Take a complete look at a situation. Others dominate the scene, while you remain focused. Tonight: Accept a suggestion from a pal.
PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20)
 * * * * * An associate could be overly sensitive and touchy. Your creativity emerges when you hit a logjam. Realize and understand what is happening behind the scenes. Someone shares, but somehow you know that more is left unsaid. Tonight: Take some personal time.

Girl finds nothing right about dating Mr. Wrong

DEAR ABBY: I'm 19 and currently dating a guy I can't stand. I don't know what to do. He's leaving next year and my friends tell me I should just bear with it until then. I don't know if I can.

Dear Abby By Abigail Van Buren

He doesn't respect my opinions, makes fun of my taste in music and literature and is basically a know-it-all. Religion is also an issue: He's an atheist and I'm a Christian. I don't feel comfortable being serious with someone who has no qualms about calling my beliefs "b.s." to my face as well as behind my back. I also don't feel comfortable with premarital sex, but he's sure he can change my mind. He constantly reminds me how "patient" he can be about it.

Abby, it's such a mess. I feel like hiding in my room and not answering the phone.

DESPERATE IN TUCSON DEAR DESPERATE: It's time to stand up for yourself. Do not hide or avoid picking up the phone. The next time that egotistical creep -- and that's what he is -- calls, say, "It's over!" If he asks why, tell him you're not interested in having anything to do with anyone who belittles you and calls your religious beliefs "b.s.," and regardless of how "patient" he is, you will never sleep with him. Do not talk to him after that. Screen your calls, and if he asks to see you "just one more time," avoid him.

DEAR ABBY: All of my boyfriend "Alex's" close friends have been in jail or in rehab. I know they're good people who made some poor choices, but I don't like associating with them or inviting them to events with my friends and family.

Alex understands why they're not invited and hangs out with them on his own time, and I understand that he's loyal to his friends.

Alex has a good job. He comes from a good family and makes good decisions in life. None of his friends can say the same. I realize my boyfriend is different from them, but I'm concerned about why he continues associating with them. Can you help me understand?

CHOOZY IN SAN JOSE DEAR CHOOZY: Your boyfriend associates with them because he is comfortable with them, and I don't blame you for being concerned. Granted, Alex comes from a good family, has a good job and makes good decisions in life. But I'd be worried, too, if my boyfriend surrounded himself only with people who have had serious problems. It could indicate that although Alex has everything going for him, he may not feel good about himself.

DEAR ABBY: I recently baby-sat with my 4-year-old grandson for almost a week. During that time I noticed he was using the word "ain't."

My daughter, a college graduate, lives about an hour away in a more rural area. She became very defensive when I mentioned it, and told me it is accepted in the South and he will continue to use that word.

I am concerned about the limiting effect I feel this may have on my grandson's future life and opportunities. What are your thoughts on this issue, and how should I behave? -- GRAMMAR GRANDMA IN NORTH CAROLINA

DEAR GRANDMA: Parents who fail to teach their children proper grammar are doing their children no favor. Obviously, your grandson is mimicking the kind of speech he's hearing around him -- and probably at home.

How should you behave? Continue to model proper English grammar when he's with you, encourage him to use it and remind him when he forgets.

Gout not result of body's fight-or-flight response

DEAR DR. GOTT: I would like to share my experience and remedy for gout.

Dr. Gott By Dr. Peter Gott

When I was 52 years old in 1967, I came down with a terrible case of gout. It was summer at the time, so I only had a sheet over me while in bed. Even that caused awful pain. I was unable to walk on my foot, so I literally leaned on my husband and hopped into the doctor's office. I was fortunate to be in the hands of a well-educated doctor with a degree in biology from MIT and a degree in medicine from Harvard. He gave me a prescription and told me to come back in a week. If I wasn't better by that time, he would put me in the hospital.

I put the pills on my nightstand and didn't take them. Instead, I asked my husband to bring me the hot-water bottle filled with warm water. It didn't help, so I asked him to put in hot water. That didn't help either, so I asked him to put in very hot water. That nearly killed me! In desperation, I asked him to fill the hot-water bottle with ice water this time. It helped some. When the ice melted, he filled it again with more ice water. Each time, the toe felt better.

Finally, when my toe was almost frozen, I stopped. I was able to go to sleep and when I woke up the next morning, the pain was gone and I was able to walk again.

One week later, I went back to the doctor who was astounded to see me walking. He said he fully expected to have to put me in the hospital and asked if the medicine was responsible. I told him that I didn't take the pills and proceeded to explain exactly what I did. He said without realizing it, I had done the opposite thing. The shock of very hot to a very cold had broken up the uric acid in my toe and caused it to flow away in my bloodstream.

I asked the doctor why I had gotten gout, and he told me that in olden times it was called the "disease of kings" since mostly kings got it. Since the poor people couldn't afford a rich diet and kings could, it was assumed that rich foods caused gout, but it wasn't so. He told me that it is really caused by uric acid. I asked what caused uric acid, and he said, "It's due to a major upheaval in life, and since kings had huge problems thrust upon them, they were the ones who developed uric acid. Today, a man or woman can get uric acid after a terrible event in their lives." I thought back and realized that an event prior to the gout had made me so mad that I wanted to fight. He then told me that the body produces uric acid to make the body stronger to fight, but if no fight occurs, it doesn't get expelled from the body and settles into the lowest part of the body, such as the fingers or toes.

I am now 93 years old and, thankfully, haven't had gout again, but I wanted to let your readers know that it can be treated quickly and easily. Simply apply hot water first and then ice water to break up the uric acid.

DEAR READER: I am glad to hear that you found a simple remedy to solve your painful gout; however, I must disagree with your physician about the cause, Opening lead — ten of diamonds. Assume you're in six spades and West leads the ten of diamonds. You play the jack from dummy and ruff East's queen, but what do you do next? There is no good reason not to start by leading trumps, but when you cash your Q-J, East shows out on the second round.

It would be wrong to draw West's third trump at this point, because the outcome would then rest entirely on a 3-2 club division. Instead, you should try to think of a way to cope with a possible 4-1 club division, which is the only real threat to the slam.

You should conclude that if West has four clubs, the slam is hopeless, so you proceed on the assumption that East has the club length. Accordingly, you cash the ace of clubs and lead another club. West shows out and may or may not ruff, but whatever he does you make the slam.

If he ruffs you follow low from dummy and later ruff a club in dummy; if he discards, you win with the king and play another club. East wins, but you can't be stopped from ruffing a club with dummy's king to establish your fifth club as a trick.

Observe that each step in this sequence of plays is dictated by straightforward logic. You start out hoping for a 2-2 trump division; but when you adjust to the 3-1 division which it develops.

The next step is to assume a 3-1 club split. You then assign the extra club to East, because that is the club way you can still make the contract if the clubs are 4-1.

Finally, you cater to West's presumed singleton club by first cashing the ace and then leading toward the king, rather than by cashing the king and leading to the ace, which would be fatal.

Man travels with each of 19 grandchildren

By KRISTEN DAUM

The Forum
FARGO, N.D. (AP) — Dick Bourne has been to "only" 67 countries in his life. The 74-year-old has it on his ever-growing bucket list to continue traveling the world now, with each of his 19 grandchildren. Bourne, of Oakes, discovered his love of travel while spending 21 years in the military. After the recession hit his retirement funds a year and a half ago, Bourne decided to use the money he had left by taking each grandchild to the destination of their choice. "I could be doing something and having some fun," Bourne said. "So instead of leaving the kids an inheritance, I thought I'd leave them with some memories." Bourne has already taken several grandchildren on trips ranging from Walt Disney World in Florida to Japan. He has many more left. The 19 grandchildren range from 2 years old to their mid-20s, so Bourne doesn't expect to finish all the trips right away. Bourne went to Walt Disney World last winter with two grandchildren and explored four parks in five days. Although Bourne said he wore the kids out, 10-year-old Christopher Schmit of Oakes just laughed and explained, "He walks very fast." At 74, Bourne has energy and drive and says he doesn't want to waste time missing out on what he wants to accomplish "because I only have about 25 good years left." In June, Bourne and grandson Robert Schmit, 15, Christopher's brother, spent 20 days driving from North Dakota to Maine. During that time, they started knocking off another item on Bourne's bucket list — hiking the highest point in each state. Schmit and his grandfather hiked 17 states' high points during their road trip and plan to hike four more this Labor Day weekend with visits to Illinois, Iowa, South Dakota and North Dakota. Schmit said his favorite stop on their last vacation was visiting Hershey, Pa., because "there was lots of chocolate." Bourne and 15-year-old Abbie Anna Rivas of Raymondville, Texas, ventured to Japan in July, visiting the Tokyo area and taking a memorable hike up Mount Fuji, the nation's highest peak. "We climbed Mount Fuji at night so we could see the sunrise at 4:28 in the morning," Bourne recalled. Rivas' mother, Toni, said it was her daughter's "life dream" to go to Japan. "We are very blessed that he has given us memories of a lifetime," Toni Rivas said of her father. "He's something else. He's very generous and very giving, and he's truly a blessing."

Bourne said his own grandfather helped raise him, so it's partially that history that drives him to connect with the youngest generation of his family. "In my whole life of memories, my grandfather really is somebody that was so important in my life, so maybe I'd like to pass that on," he said. After the weekend's excursion with Schmit and another grandson, 15-year-old Rhett Carlson of Fargo, Bourne already has his next trip lined up. He's taking Carlson on a spear-fishing trip to Florida in October and then he's taking a granddaughter to Hawaii for the Thanksgiving holiday. "It's just so fun to watch with my own kids every one of them has different things they enjoy, and Dick just loves it," said Rhett's mother, Kris Carlson. Bourne plans to take other grandchildren on trips to London, Ireland and Scotland. "I've got to a stage now where I'm comfortable," Bourne said. "I'm not as comfortable to be able to take all 19 grandkids right away unless you're filthy rich — these things cost money, but it's worth it to me to see the smiles on their face and give them an experience they won't forget."

Justin Franklin, Murray Fire Department, accepted several dozen cupcakes from 4-H members at the recent 4-H Round-Up. During the centennial year for 4-H, 100 cupcakes or cookies are given to people in the community as a way to celebrate 100 years of 4-H.

VACATION BIBLE SCHOOL

Photo provided
Locust Grove Baptist Church held Vacation Bible School Aug. 1 the week before school started back. The theme was Veggie Tales "The Pirates Who Don't Do Anything". The large ship was made by Jack and Benita Covey members of the church. Around 30 children enjoyed the activities on a great Summer Saturday. Pictured are Jennifer Wilson (Captain of the Ship/Director), and Gideon Auxiliary member Trish Barton holding a Gideon New Testament which all the children received.

COUSINS ON VACATION

MUMS PLANTED AT MES

Photo provided
Dr. Pat Williams from MSU's Dept. of Agricultural Science assisted students at Murray Elementary with planting some mums in front of the school. Also assisting were other staff from Pullen Farms Valerie Sims and Heather Blankenship. PTO officer Laynie Mitchell coordinated the project with members of the Murray Elementary Earth Team- Emily Winstead, Hastings Hale and Mary Peyton Bell.

GIANT TOMATOES

TOM BERRY/Ledger & Times
Clyde Rowland of Calloway County displays two giant, German pink heirloom tomatoes weighing about two pounds each that he grew at his home. The tomatoes are some of the largest he has ever produced.

SPECIAL OLYMPICS CELEBRATED

Photo provided
Recently the Murray/Calloway Co. Special Olympics held its September family event and bowling registration. While together the athletes and volunteers enjoyed food, fellowship and held a tribute to Eunice Kennedy Shriver to celebrate her life and dedication to Special Olympics. Bowling season is now underway. If anyone would like to join the team or volunteer please call Laura Miller at 293-9054. Pictured are, front row, Tyler Jones, Tori Cobb, Toby Albritton (volunteer), Steve Rogers and Gary Thompson; back row, Jonathan Lynn, Chris Thomas, Stephen Norsworthy, Crystal Estes, Delbert Hurley and Allison Salazar.
