STORM DAMAGE

start winning games was to change the culture of the team. He said last season started out badly with the team losing the first game to Southeast Missouri State University (SEMO), which was followed by two other losses. While MSU was ranked last in the conference, SEMO was second-to-last, so he thought they had a chance to beat them. While SEMO ended up winning the conference by the end of the season, Hatcher was worried, and he changed his approach after that.

"I got to thinking back about how to motivate our team," Hatcher said. "Instead of talking about, 'Take this line' and 'Win the game' like I had done the previous 10 years as a coach, 'Let's go out and compete hard, let's go out and do this,' we just started talking about, 'Hey, let's go out there and do the best we can this week. Let's go out there and just play as hard as we can, do the very best we can, and let the old chips fall where they may.' And all the sudden, we start playing a little better. And part of that was, our team was not conditioned to handle pressure situations."

Hatcher said the public's expectations had already improved and he was trying to meet those expectations by developing mental toughness in the team.

"I think this is very important for any of you guys out there," he said. "You gotta have a mentally tough group. 'I always say we want guys as tough as woodpecker lips, as strong as Superman's knee cap and guys with intensity that they can kill a fly with an ax. Boy, if you got one of those guys, you got good football players. Right now, we're small, slow and friendly. We're looking at getting the guys a mental toughness plan."

Like turning around a business, creating a team was a process that couldn't be done in a single year, Hatcher said. Whatever one does in life, it is critical that one tries to be 'the most' at the task at hand, he said.

"If you're the most excited team to play today, you're probably going to win because you're going to want it more, you're going to be more fired up than your opponent," he said. "Be the most excited person to live today. Be the most excited person when you walk into the office today and it's contagious. Be the most at everything that you do, and if you do that, when you look back, you'll have no regrets. Whenever you get satisfied, it's time to die."

House, Obama portrayed himself as a voice of reason amid a loud, lingering debate on his birth status. Though his personal attention to the issue elevated it as never before, Obama said to Republican detractors and the media, it is time to move on to bigger issues.

Citing huge budget decisions in Washington, Obama said, "I am confident that the American people and America's political leaders can come together in a bipartisan way and solve these problems. We always have. But we're not going to be able to do it if we are distracted."

Obama spoke shortly after the White House released a copy of the long form of his birth certificate, which contains more extensive data than a version released earlier.

The certificate says Obama was born to an American mother and Kenyan father, in Hawaii, which makes him eligible to hold the office of president.

Obama released a standard short form before he was elected in 2008 but requested copies of his original birth certificate from Hawaii officials this week in hopes of quieting the lingering controversy.

White House officials have said the issue was settled long ago. But so-called "birthers" opposed to Obama have kept it alive. Potential Republican presidential candidate Donald Trump recently began questioning why Obama hadn't ensured the long form was released.

From New Hampshire, Trump took credit for getting Obama to act.

United States Congressman Ed Whitfield talks to Murray Mayor Bill Wells about the impact of this week's thunderstorms on the community at the Chamber of Commerce's Business@Breakfast event Wednesday morning.

Whitfield assesses local storm damage

By HAWKINS TEAGUE
Staff Writer

Congressman Ed Whitfield stopped in Murray Wednesday morning as he made his way across western Kentucky assessing the damage from this week's severe thunderstorms. Although he arrived at 7:30 a.m. for the Chamber of Commerce's Business@Breakfast gathering, Murray was not the first stop of the day for Whitfield and his field representative, Michael Pape. Whitfield said he was in his hometown of Hopkinsville at 5 a.m. meeting with the emergency response team there, and that although Hopkinsville was usually one of the first places to flood during a heavy downpour, the city had been fortunate to not have as much flooding as expected this week. He said he understood that Henderson had some significant problems, as well as Carlisle, Ballard and Livingston counties. He said he had also heard that there was a tornado touchdown in Hopkins County on Tuesday.

"In times like this, when the governor is making decisions about disaster areas and President Obama is involved in that as well, I just want to be sure to touch base with the mayors, county judges, the emergency responders just to make sure if there's any way we can assist as they try to recuperate from all of this weather damage that we've incurred," Whitfield said. Murray Mayor Bill Wells said he appreciated Whitfield coming to town and told him the community could use some help getting reimbursed by the Federal Emergency Management Agency for extra costs related to the emergency. He added, though, that local governments and volunteers had done such a good job with the cleanup of storm debris that there wasn't much to see anymore. Although Wells said hundreds of trees were down in Murray and Calloway County, the worst of the fallen trees had been removed and Whitfield would likely see much more ongoing damage in his stops to the river counties.

"student search." The money would pay for a contract with a firm that would seek out students earlier and grow enrollment based on early contacts, direct marketing and other means, he said. He added that he believed expanding the pool of students this way would increase enrollment and recoup the money over time. Some funds will also need to be put into the institutional reaccreditation process, which occurs every 10 years, Dunn said.

Dunn also said he would ask the board to approve a maximum of 4 percent in faculty raises. If approved, he said this could partly be paid for using money set aside for positions left vacant for a couple of years or more. If this measure were taken, it did not mean that those positions would never be reinstated, he said.

"This is ultimately a board decision," he said. "They won't make that decision until we do the overall budget at their meeting on May 20. But we've tried to build a budget — or will build a budget — for them on May 20 that's presented that will show them that if they want to go that high they've got the ability to do that."

Don Robertson, vice president of student affairs also gave an update on increases for residential colleges and meal plans. He said there would be a 3.8 percent increase in the price of unlimited and the 175/400 plans, which would amount to about $56 a semester. The 125/300 plan will be increased by 4.1 percent and commuter meal plans will increase $10-25, depending on the plan, he said. Robertson attributed the increases to several factors, including rising food and utility costs and a raise in student worker wages.

Double room fees for Springer, Franklin and Old Richmond colleges will remain the same, but Hart, Hester, White, Regents, Lee Clark and Richmond will increase by 4.9 percent, Robertson said. This increase will range from $93-118, and fees for College Courts will also remain the same, he said.

Murray man charged with DUI

Staff Report
Kentucky State Police said they arrested a Murray man Monday after New Concord residents complained of an alleged impaired driver.

KSP said troopers concentrated their patrol efforts in the New Concord community to watch for a violator after they said they received multiple complaints indicating that an alleged impaired driver traveled through the area at a specific time each day. On Monday, Trooper Brian Duvall observed a vehicle fitting the description of reports and subsequently made a traffic stop.

As a result of the traffic stop, Duvall charged Edwin M. Jones, 52, of Murray, with Driving Under the Influence in the First Degree (aggravated), Speeding, and Possession of an Open Alcoholic Container in a Moving Vehicle. Jones was lodged in the Calloway County Jail. Anyone with information concerning impaired drivers may reach the Kentucky State Police at 1-800-222-5555.

Rescues ongoing in western Kentucky

By BRUCE SCHREINER

PADUCAH, Ky. (AP) — Emergency workers in the western Kentucky city of Paducah are rescuing residents stranded by the rising Ohio River for a third day.

McCracken County emergency management director Paul Carter says more than 20 families have been ferried from their homes in boats and more were expected to need help Wednesday.

The National Weather Service on Wednesday said total rainfall in Paducah had added up to a foot since Friday after another 1 to 3 inches fell during a stormy overnight.

The weather service issued both a flood watch and a flash flood watch for western Kentucky, calling the rising water in the county "major to catastrophic."

Gov. Steve Beshear's office said that as of Wednesday morning, no injuries or fatalities had been reported.

In a news release, the governor said 25 counties and 11 cities had declared local disasters.

Meanwhile, about a dozen volunteers in the small town of Smithland, about a half-hour east of Paducah, continued to pile up sandbags to hold off floodwaters despite a slightly improved forecast.

"We feel more confident that we're going to be able to hold it back than we did two days ago," said Brent Stringer, head of emergency management in Livingston County, where Smithland sits at the confluence of the Ohio and Cumberland rivers.

Stringer said the high-water level forecast dropped by 2 feet, with the Ohio now expected to crest in this town identified as the state's No. 1 trouble spot at 52 feet instead of 54 feet in about a week.

That would still be higher than the historic 1997 flood, when the river crested at 51.3 feet in Smithland, about 160 miles southwest of Louisville.

Stringer said the town hopes to have the levee work finished by Wednesday. Among those filling thousands of sandbags in the past few days have been supervised prisoners from local county jails as well as the Kentucky State Penitentiary in nearby Eddyville, he said.

Kentucky National Guard troops have also been assisting with sandbag efforts in Smithland and other western Kentucky sites, Beshear on Monday declared a state of emergency.

Capt. Rickey Barrow of the nearby Ledbetter Volunteer Fire Department said volunteers had filled more than 10,000 sandbags in Smithland, whose population is 301.

"It could be worse. It could be my house flooding," said sandbagging volunteer Jim Lovan, a pipefitter who stood in the pouring rain Wednesday shoveling sand into bags.

As the most vulnerable residents of Smithland evacuated Tuesday, the members of the Smithland First Baptist Church hauled the pulpit, pews, the organ and piano to higher ground.

"We aren't sure if it's going to reach the sanctuary. But we just want to be cautious," said the pastor, Andrew Sexton.

Sexton said the 100-year-old church has flooded three times, most recently in 1950.

Apple denies iPhones store user location

By PETER SVENSSON

NEW YORK (AP) — Apple Inc. denied Wednesday that iPhones store a record of their users' movements for up to a year and blamed privacy concerns partly on a misunderstanding.

A data file publicized by security researchers last week doesn't store users' locations, but a list of Wi-Fi hotspots and cell towers in their general area, the company said. It promised software fixes to address concerns over that file.

The data, downloaded from Apple, help the phone figure out its location without having to listen for faint signals from GPS satellites. That means navigation applications can present the phone's location faster and more accurately, Apple said.

Apple said the data are stored for up to a year because of a software error. The company said there's no need to store data for more than seven days, and a software update in the next few weeks will limit the amount of data in that file.

The iPhone will also stop backing up the file to the user's computer, a practice that raised some concerns. Computers are much more vulnerable to remote hacking attempts than are phones.

A third planned fix is to stop downloading the data to phones that have all "Location Services" turned off, Apple said, and to encrypt the file on those where it's on.

"Users are confused, partly because creators of this new technology (including Apple) have not provided enough education about these issues to date," Apple said in its statement.

As demonstrated by the location-analysis software released by Allan Warden, the lists of Wi-Fi hotspots and cell towers generated by iPhones can be used to construct a general record of users' movements.

But a snooper needs access to the victim's phone or PC, both of which usually store lots of other personal information. Phones contain texts, emails and lists of phone calls. PCs contain such information as tax returns, logs of websites visited and passwords.

MATT'S PC CHAT

by Matthew Barnes

Hello again! Matt here with this week's PC chat. It's obvious that the social networking craze has taken over. It seems nowadays that everyone has jumped on the bandwagon and signed up to some where for their personal profile. For personal use, social networking sites, like Facebook and Twitter, are excellent ways to keep in contact with new and old friends. You can find people you want to high school with or even connect with family members across the globe. In the same respect, businesses have begun to examine the possibilities that these sites can have for their business. There is more to promoting your business through these sites than just setting up an account. Though a social networker has to engage their audience, you may want to try interacting with your customer's through a quiz, a blog, or a contest. Setting the customer up to participate in something and possibly win a prize is a great way to promote your brand. In addition, you can update all your fans with the latest happenings of your business and relevant marketing tactics. Be careful not to overload your readers, though. Posting everyday may be too much to keep up with and choosing certain days of the week to post may serve you better. Feel free to visit us on our Facebook page at facebook.com/bluegrasscomputer. We'll be launching a contest where the winner will receive something they can be really happy about, so be on the lookout. As always, please call us at 270.761.2427 or visit us on the internet if you have any questions about running these sites on your computer. For the extended article, visit our website at www.bgsystems.com and click on the orange "B" logo in again on May 10th when we discuss Apple and their computers.

Engagement

Colson and Adams

Silburn and Shannon Colson of Hazel and Kenneth and Karen Carson of Kirksey announce the engagement and approaching marriage of their daughter, Megan Nicole Colson to Scott Edward Adams, son of Andy and Tammy Adams of New Concord. Miss Colson is the granddaughter of Thomas and Martha Roberts of Murray, the late Silburn and Myrtle Colson and the late Calvin Milby. Mr. Adams is the grandson of Hank and JoAnna Adams of Murray and Sonny and Darlene Gimple of Dexter. The bride-elect is a 2006 graduate of Calloway County High School. She will graduate from Murray State University in May with a Bachelor of Science degree in Nutrition, Dietetics and Food Management with an emphasis in Consumer Nutrition. The groom-elect is a 2007 graduate of Calloway County High School. He is employed by the Murray-Calloway County Hospital as an Emergency Medical Technician. The wedding will be Saturday, May 21, 2011, at 5:30 p.m. at Oaks Country Club of Murray. A reception will follow the ceremony. All relatives and friends are invited to attend. Only out-of-town invitations are being sent.

Calloway assessing significant damages to athletic facilities

Soccer locker rooms take heaviest blow from windstorm

By RICKY MARTIN
Assistant Sports Editor

While workers continued to clean up damaged areas around Murray Wednesday in the aftermath of 100 mile per hour winds early Tuesday morning, faculty at Calloway County High School have only been able to begin the clean-up process.

While athletic director Josh

McKeel said no damage was reported to the structure of the high school itself, several of the Lakers' athletic facilities took the brunt of the early-week storms, with the soccer locker room and softball and baseball fields taking the most significant damage.

The soccer locker room, which sits just east of the high school, took perhaps the heaviest blow, as the roof was blown nearly completely off, and the inside has begun to flood from the heavy and persistent rainfall.

"Salvaging all we could from the soccer locker rooms was our top priority Tuesday," McKeel said. "Obviously, without a roof, there's only so much you can do, but our maintenance department did a great job of doing what we could."

MLB BASEBALL: CARDINALS 6, ASTROS 5

TOMMY DILLARD / Ledger & Times
St. Louis' Nick Punto gets a face full of dirt while sliding safely across home plate as Houston catcher J.R. Towles makes the catch in the seventh inning of Wednesday's game in Houston. Punto scored from second base on an Albert Pujols single.

Lohse goes seven scoreless as Cards hold off Houston

St. Louis ENDURES ANOTHER ADVENTUROUS NINTH INNING

By KRISTIE RIEKEN
AP Sports Writer

HOUSTON (AP) — Kyle Lohse pitched another gem, Matt Holliday and Tyler Greene both homered and the St. Louis Cardinals held off a late rally by the Houston Astros for a 6-5 win on Wednesday night.

Lohse (4-1) allowed four hits and pitched seven scoreless innings in his first start since throwing a two-hit shutout in his last outing, a 5-0 win over the Nationals.

Holliday had three hits and his solo shot to the Crawford Boxes in left field put St. Louis up 1-0 in the fourth inning.

Greene, in at shortstop with Ryan Theriot out with rib cage soreness, hit his first home run of the season with his one-out shot to left field that made it 2-0 in the fifth. The Cardinals extended their lead with a four-run seventh.

Houston starter J.A. Happ (1-4) allowed five hits and two runs in five innings for the loss.

The Astros scored three runs in the eighth inning before cutting the lead to 6-5 after Jason Bourgeois tripled in a run with one out in the ninth and scored on sac fly by Michael Bourn.

Angel Sanchez doubled when Lance Berkman couldn't get to his fly ball to right field, but Eduardo Sanchez struck out Hunter Pence to end the game and get his first save.

The Cardinals got 14 hits, but Houston turned a season-high five home runs to limit their scoring. It is the most double plays the Astros have had in a single game since turning six in May 2003 against Philadelphia.

Nick Punto added a run for the Cardinals with a two-out RBI single that pushed the lead to 3-0 in the seventh inning. Jon Jay singled before a sacrifice bunt by Lohse set up that score.

Punto stole second base before reliever Eneuro Del Rosario hit David Freese with a pitch and was replaced by Jose Valdez. Valdez allowed consecutive run-scoring singles to Albert Pujols, Holliday and Berkman to make it 6-0.

Houston finally got out of that inning when Yadier Molina grounded into a force out.

The Astros didn't score until Sanchez grounded into a force and Joe Inglett, who got on with a double, scored to make it 6-1 in the eighth inning. Pence singled in a run before Carlos Lee felt to 0 for 15 with a strikeout.

Brett Wallace's third hit of the night, a single to left field, sent Sanchez home and pulled Houston to 6-3. But Fernando Salas retired Brian Bogusevic to end the inning.

Wallace singled with one out in the fourth inning before Lohse retired the next eight batters. He didn't allow another hit until Wallace doubled with one out in the seventh inning. Chris Johnson hit a long fly to the corner of right field after that, but Berkman made a nifty catch to rob him of a hit and Lohse retired J.R. Towles to end the inning.

Del Rosario allowed a pair of singles with one out in the sixth inning, but Houston turned its third double play of the game to help him escape that jam. The Astros had a fourth double play in the eighth inning and the fifth came in the ninth.

Towles singled in the third inning before Happ walked, but Lohse retired Bourn and Sanchez to end the inning.

The Cardinals got singles in the first and third innings, but Houston turned double plays both times to get out of the innings. Lohse also got some help from his defense when the Cardinals used a double play to end the first inning.

Berkman, who played 12 seasons in Houston before a trade last season, had two hits to add to his already record hit total of 826 at Minute Maid Park.

OVC MEN'S GOLF CHAMPIONSHIP

No way to go

DAVE WINDER / MSU Sports Information
Murray State senior golfer Cameron Carrico watches this shot during Tuesday's second and final round of the OVC Men's Golf Championship at Greystone Golf Club in Dickson, Tenn. Carrico, who came in to the event as the favorite, finished one stroke off first place.

Weather cuts Carrico's title pursuit, career short

By TOMMY DILLARD
Sports Editor

For Cameron Carrico, the past three days have been an emotional roller coaster ride.

Instead of a with a thrill, however, Murray State's senior golfer leaves the college game all shook up.

Carrico finished the second of a scheduled three rounds at the Ohio Valley Conference Championship one stroke out from first place on Tuesday, then missed out on a chance to play for the title and an NCAA regional berth when Wednesday's final round was canceled before it began.

Heavy rain and thunderstorms pounded Greystone Golf Club in Dickson, Tenn., Tuesday night, and with more severe weather predicted for Wednesday, the tournament committee decided to cancel the final 18 holes, crowning champions based on the first two rounds and leaving Carrico, the best golfer in the league based on averages, out in the cold.

With rain and storms predicted throughout the week, the tournament's status had been in question from the get-go.

■ See RACERS, 6A

Carrico said he believed Monday's first round alone might decide the championship, and he left the course with spirits riding high after the first 18 holes, where he posted a six-under-par 66.

"The first day, I wanted to make sure I was leading, just in case, weather-wise," said the Owensboro native, who did come home with Player of the Year honors from the league's coaches. "I did that, so I was real excited."

Tuesday's second round wasn't as kind to Carrico. Battling off-and-on rain throughout the afternoon, he turned in a two-over 74, but still had a chance to play for a first-place tie going into the final hole.

Setting himself up for a five-foot putt for par, Carrico missed, thereby missing out on a chance to enter into what would have been a four-way tie for first.

UT leaders ask fans to be patient with sports

Head coaching turnover has created 'tough period'

By BETH RUCKER
AP Sports Writer

KNOXVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — With the dust settling on Tennessee's third major coaching turnover in two and a half years, leaders at the university urged fans to be patient with the athletic department and director Mike Hamilton.

"I think it's been a tough period, but Mike has, I think, hired two outstanding coaches in Derek Dooley and Cuonzo Martin."

Chancellor Jimmy Cheek told The Associated Press. "I think both of them, the longer we get to know each of them, the better we're going to get to like them. We've just got to be patient as that unfolds."

Hamilton continues to hold support from Cheek, his boss, and others despite drawing the ire of many fans in the days leading up to basketball coach Bruce Pearl's March 21 firing. Dozens of fans called for Hamilton to be fired in comments made on radio shows, Websites and in e-mails to university leadership.

Whether they feel better about the athletic department and Hamilton's leadership a month after Cuonzo Martin was hired to replace Pearl "depends on who you are talking to," said Jim Murphy, vice chairman of the University of Tennessee board of trustees and member of Tennessee's athletics board.

But while Murphy acknowledges the fans' opinions are important, he says they can't be the basis for personnel decisions.

"It's very difficult to operate a very complicated business — which the athletic department is — based on trying to read the tea leaves of public opinion," Murphy said. "My practice has been not to do that."

E-mails from major donors to Hamilton in the week leading up to Pearl's firing obtained by The Knoxville News Sentinel showed donors called the athletics director "self-serving" and "inept."

Cheek noted that of 14 e-mails released to the newspaper, only four of them were negative and said he hadn't received any e-mails from fans lately about athletics.

MSU Women's Basketball Minix to transfer to Southern Indiana

By TOMMY DILLARD
Sports Editor

Redshirt freshman guard Aubrey Minix is leaving Murray State to transfer to Division II Southern Indiana. MSU head coach Rob Cross confirmed Wednesday afternoon.

Minix, a native of Grovertown, Ind., redshirted the 2009-10 season and saw action in five games in 2010-11, scoring three points. She went 1-for-4 from the field.

"I'm happy she's getting to continue her education and play basketball at Southern Indiana," Cross said. "I wish things had worked out better for her here. I have a lot of respect for her and think she'll do good things."

"Most of the teams in that league have three or four Division I transfers on their rosters. I think it will be good for her and good for them."

Minix will have three years of eligibility at Southern Indiana.

She earned all-state honors at Oregon-Davis High School and helped the Bobcats claim the Indiana Class 1-A state championship in 2007. She set a state record for three-pointers and was the school's all-time leading scorer with 1,606 points.

Having already signed three incoming players, Cross is continuing to recruit for the 2011-12 season.

The makeshift roof on the soccer locker room now consists of a giant blue tarp, with several tires lining the edge to weight the tarp down.
McKeel said he and the maintenance department were able to salvage a majority of the electronics from the locker room on Tuesday, but said he wasn't sure to what extent the total damage would be.
"I don't know what constitutes a complete loss," McKeel said Wednesday while sifting through some of the remnants in the vacant locker room. "But I mean this has to be close."
"I hate to say it's a total loss, we will salvage what we can, but with all the water that's in here, and the stuff that we know has been damaged, at minimum we are probably going to have to gut the building. But I'm not sure if that's going to be enough."
Water continued to trickle in through holes in the makeshift tarp roof on Wednesday afternoon. Meanwhile, power had been cut to the building as a safety precaution, as several lighting structures had been dropped to the ground from the weight of the water.

Amidst the standing water and broken ceiling tiles scattered across the floor, McKeel said "only time will tell," in terms of what can be saved on the inside.
McKeel said the current soccer locker room, which has also served as a middle school football training room in the past, is at least 30 years old, if not older.
As a result of the continuous rain since the roof was blown off, McKeel said the maintenance department has been able to do very little in terms of starting any type of clean-up on the actual building.
Unfortunately, the soccer locker room was not the only structure damaged as a result of Tuesday morning's series of storms.
The visitors dugout on the first base side of the softball field in shambles Wednesday morning, after the roof and three walls had been completely destroyed from the wind.
That dugout was the same one that suffered significant damage in September of 2008 that led to it being rebuilt after that storm as well.
The Lady Lakers were set to host Marshall County in a Fourth District showdown Thursday afternoon, but that game has been rescheduled for May 12 as McKeel said there's no way they can safely put a visiting team in whatever is left of the structure.
The next Calloway County home game is set for Tuesday, May 3, and McKeel said he hopes there is some type of resolution by then.
Just north of the softball field, the baseball field also caught a little damage from the severe winds, as the net forming the backstop behind home plate was ripped from the zip-ties holding it together, and bunched up underneath the concession stand roof.
McKeel said he expects that to be fixed before the Lakers host Health on Friday.

Other damages included the video platform on the visitors side of Jack D. Rose Stadium, and McKeel said the high jump pit for the track team flew about 200 yards before coming to rest amongst a tree line.
Bleachers at the tennis courts that had been overturned had been fixed by Wednesday afternoon, as had the high jump pit.
McKeel said that even though the extent of some of the damages may still be unknown, he and the administration are going to take all steps in order to restore or replace the damaged areas as safely and quickly as possible.
"We will get with the insurance people and Mr. (Kennith) Bargo, and we will get this fixed the right way," he said.
Murray High also reported damages as a result of the storm, with some of the soccer goals at Mallory France Soccer Complex being destroyed from the high winds.

Head coach Eddie Hunt said he told his team prior to Tuesday's round that it would likely be their final round due to the weather predictions.
Carrico said he was thinking about the possibility going into the final hole, but that he held out hope that he would get another chance on Wednesday.
"I thought maybe we would have a chance to play," he said. "I didn't hit it as well (Tuesday), so I stayed in the hotel room in front of the mirror, trying to figure out what was going on. I felt like I had it and I was ready to go, and coach called me about 7:30 (Wednesday morning) and told me the news. I was pretty upset, but that's how things go."
Hunt said he agreed with the league's decision to end the tournament after two rounds.
"They made the right decision on that, and I can't complain about it," he said. "The only upsetting thing really was Cameron not being able to compete for an individual championship."
"I think if he had been able to do that, he would have had an excellent chance of winning the tournament."
By completing only 36 holes, this week's tournament marked the first time since 2000 that the event has not gone the scheduled 54-hole distance.
Pre-tournament favorite Jacksonville State won the title, holding a commanding 18-stroke lead after the first two days. The Racers finished third, one stroke back of Tennessee-Martin.
"I don't think there was any doubt we have the second best team in the conference," Hunt said. "Jacksonville State had an exceptional tournament, and they've had a strong season all year. I was disappointed we didn't get to play the third round because I felt like for sure we would be able to move up to second and get a little closer to Jacksonville State."

The individual medalist race ended in a three-way tie among the Gamecocks' Andres Shonbaum and Matthew Wallace and Eastern Kentucky's Johan Eriksson.
Eriksson will be the league's NCAA qualifier as both Shonbaum and Wallace automatically advance with their team.
As for Carrico, he plans to compete as a professional in area tournaments such as the Kentucky Open in Louisville and the Irvin Cobb Championship in Paducah this summer.
In the fall, he plans to move to the Orlando, Fla., area where he hopes to play tournaments and attempt to earn a spot on the Nationwide Tour, the developmental tour for the PGA.
Golfers who attend PGA Tour qualifying school and finish in the top 50 or so athletes who do not make the PGA cut qualify for the Nationwide Tour. Another way to qualify for individual Nationwide events is through Monday qualifying, something for which Hunt believes Carrico is well-suited.
"Cameron's got the type of game for those one-and-two-day qualifiers," Hunt says. "You've got to shoot a low score to do that, and he's very capable. He's long off the tee, a lot of birdies and that type of thing."
"I think of all the college players I've seen in 10 years in the OVC, he's really got a legitimate shot of being a PGA pro one day."

WKCTC Community Chorus to perform Pops Concert on campus Sunday

Special to the Ledger
PADUCAH, Ky. — The West Kentucky Community and Technical College Community Chorus Pops Concert will be held at 3 p.m. Sunday in the Clemens Fine Arts Center on the campus of WKCTC.

The concert will showcase the chorus, accompanied by Jim Patton, in classical numbers as well as tunes from "Pippin," "Oklahoma," "The Fantastiks" and "My Fair Lady."

"Nonsense" cast members Scythia Abraham, Janet Bloomingburg, Elyse Millizer, Sydney Hughes and Grace Baldridge will perform "The Drive-In" and "Holier Than Thou" from the award-winning musical comedy.

Norman Wurgler is director of the WKCTC College Community Chorus, a non-audition performing group. The concert is free to the public and general seating is available. For concert information call (270) 534-3212.

Pictured is a past performance of the West Kentucky Community and Technical College Community Chorus Pops Concert. This year's show will be at 3 p.m. Sunday on the WKCTC campus.

Playhouse offers book club with next show

Special to the Ledger
In coordination with its June production of Tuesdays with Morrie, Playhouse in the Park in Murray is excited to offer a free book club and adult theatre education course. As every playwright knows, a play is not complete until it has been performed. Putting on a show in a community theatre takes passion, dedication, and creativity. Starting Thursday, May 5, you can explore the process.

Book club members will discuss the play, but they'll also go behind the scenes to meet the volunteers who make the story come alive on stage. Members will also get to share their ideas and ask questions about the theatre. It's a unique opportunity to discover a side of Playhouse many don't get to see!

The six-week course will meet at the Playhouse, Thursdays at 6 p.m., unless otherwise noted. University Book and Bean will provide complimentary weekly coffee. Below is the meeting schedule:

Week 1 — "Words on a Page," discussion of the script and story (at Book and Bean)

Week 2 — "Director's Vision," talk with director Michael Robinson

Week 3 — "The Things They Carried," discuss ideas with the costumer and props master

Week 4 — "Lights and Magic," learn the technical side of a production

Week 5 — "And Again, with Feeling," attend a rehearsal, and talk characters with actors

Week 6 — "All Together Now," watch a full performance, final reception (starts at 6:30)

The course is limited to 12 participants. Reserve your spot today by calling at 759-1752 or emailing us at playhouse@murray-ky.net. The course is free, but all participants must purchase their own copy of the play, "Tuesdays with Morrie."

Quilting movie to be shown

Special to the Ledger
PADUCAH, Ky. — Paducah's Maiden Alley Cinema will present the quilting documentary "Stitched" Thursday through Sunday.

"Stitched" is a fun-filled documentary following three quilters racing to complete their entries for the International Quilt Festival, the largest quilt show in the nation. The Houston show draws more than 50,000 quilters, including three artists who created some controversy with their work. Quilting legend Caryl Bryer Fallert—who is part of the Lowertown Arts District in Paducah—was the first to win a major prize for her quilt made with a sewing machine. She mentored Hollis Chatelain, who caused a stir when she won an award for a painted quilt. Chatelain also mentored Randall Cook, who sparked controversy with his quilt of a male nude. In this 72-minute documentary, these quilters create their pieces to compete in the 2010 quilt show.

Director Jenalia Moreno is an award-winning print journalist whose colorful stories bring her subjects to life. Her travels to

Lower Town Festival announces music

Special to the Ledger
PADUCAH, Ky. — The Lower Town Arts and Music Festival directors, in partnership with the Paducah Symphony, have announced the line-up for the 2011 Lower Town Arts & Music Festival, scheduled for May 20-22 in Paducah. The musical offerings have expanded this year, with more than 40 performing artists and groups participating. Three stages will be set up again, with a Main Stage, Madison Stage, and Harrison Stage.

Marrakesh Express, a tribute band dedicated to the music of Crosby, Stills, Nash & Young, will be the headline musical feature at the 2011 Lower Town Arts and Music Festival. Marrakesh Express excels at reproducing CSNY's complex songs and cascading, layered harmonies, and takes the audience back to the late 1960s with youthful musicians who bring an authentic hippie vibe and visual to the stage.

Darlene Dreyer, the executive director of the Paducah Symphony Orchestra, is coordinating the music for the festival in collaboration with the Performer Selection Committee. She said Marrakesh Express will give a vivid and realistic performance of CSNY's most recognizable songs. Featuring four harmonizing vocalists backed by a top-flight band, they deliver a unique and energetic concert performing the classic CSNY hits, deep cuts and fan favorites. Marrakesh Express has played to thousands of fans including the headlining slot at the Woodstock 40th Anniversary Tribute Concert in 2009. They will perform on the main stage of the Festival at 7 p.m. on Saturday, May 21.

Following the headliner, Saturday evening will feature a laser light show with Tupelo, MS, based "The Robo Drum."

Friday night begins with hometown heroes: Adam and the H-Bombs (a rock and blues trio featuring Paducahans Adam Horbovetz, Keith Culp, and Erik Eicholtz), Lew Jetton and 61 South, followed by headliner Brian Lavender and Whiskey Bent. Bawn in the Mash, a professional touring band from Paducah, will appear again this year as the opening live performance on Saturday afternoon, following the live broadcast of "Music from the Front Porch" by local NPR affiliate WKMS. This rock group's four studio albums are played on radio stations worldwide.

Dennis Scott will give a series of special children's concert segments on Saturday afternoon. Scott is a two-time Grammy and Emmy award winning performer whose songs have been recorded by such artists as Faith Hill, Alison Kraus, Sugarland, Crystal Gayle, Amy Grant, Donna Summer, Ray Charles, The Muppets, and many others. His music has been featured on shows such as Sesame Street, Clifford the Big Red Dog and Magic School Bus.

Dom Wier is an Americana/Roots Rock/Country styled songwriter artist based in Nashville, Tenn. He released his first solo album in 2008 entitled "No Boundaries." His second album, "Jaded Dreamer," was recorded in 2009 at world renowned Soundstage Studios in Nashville, Tenn., and was co-produced by Nick Auri, who has worked with Buddy Guy among many other world class

Wife says kiss on the hand deserves slap on the wrist

Dear Abby

DEAR ABBY: My wife and I shop in an upscale shoe store. On the past two visits there, a middle-aged salesman kissed my wife's hand when we left.

Thoughts on hypothyroidism testing

Dr. Gott

DEAR DR. GOTT: Quite a while ago, you published a letter from a person who inquired about whether he or she should be treated for hypothyroidism with a TSH level of 6.7.

DEAR ABBY: I'm a mom of two boys. I'm having a hard time getting them to go to bed at night.

DEAR T.R.: You are the kiss-on-the-hand routine may be part of the man's sales technique. If he has done it before and your wife had no objection, then it's not surprising he did it a second time.

DEAR ABBY: I hope you will share the following tips for dealing with orphaned or injured wildlife. Once people understand how to handle an orphaned or injured animal they will make a positive impact on nature.

DEAR TOM AND JERRY: I would love to see you two in a cartoon. You two are so funny and I love you two.

DEAR DR. GOTT: I'm a mom of two boys. I'm having a hard time getting them to go to bed at night.

Horoscope

HAPPY BIRTHDAY for Friday, April 29, 2011: You often experience insights out of the blue. These insights force you to stop and think.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) One year at a time, and you will manifest that dynamic and creative energy associated with your sign.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Use the daylight hours to be expressive or good in the afternoon. Use that period to wind down from a relatively strong workweek.
