Beshear, DLG announce Calloway, Hazel disaster funds

Special to the Ledger

FRANKFORT, Ky. — Gov. Steve Beshear and the Department for Local Government (DLG) Wednesday announced $153,000 for Calloway County and $58,595 in funds for the city of Hazel to assist with disaster recovery costs from 2008.

The Calloway County Fiscal Court is receiving a grant to purchase and install a generator for the Murray-Calloway County Senior Citizens Center, which is a designated Red Cross shelter.

The city of Hazel's funding will go toward the purchase and installation of an emergency siren at City Hall and an emergency generator for the South 641 Water District lift station.

County Judge-Executive Larry Elkins said Wednesday afternoon that the county applied for the funds for the new generator about two years ago and had just about given up hope of obtaining the funds.

"Back during the ice storm, the Weeks Center was our primary shelter and we learned from that experience that we didn't have adequate potential," he said. "We made it through by bringing in portable generators."

Extended MSU campus funding eyed

Paducah, McCracken governments schedule votes on agreement

By HAWKINS TEAGUE
Staff Writer

Murray State University is working on an agreement to expand its Paducah extended campus at a new site with the help of Paducah and McCracken County governments.

Mark Welch, community relations director with MSU's Office of the President, said the university was working on a memorandum of understanding between MSU, McCracken County, the City of Paducah and the Greater Paducah Economic Development Council to share funding of a project to build a new Paducah campus to replace the current extended campus at the Crisp Center.

The McCracken County Fiscal Court is scheduled to vote on the memorandum in a special-called meeting at 5 p.m. Friday, Welch said. The Paducah City Commission will vote on the memorandum at its next regular meeting on Tuesday, and it will be on the agenda for the MSU Board of Regents meeting on Friday, May 20, he said.

"Basically, the way it would work is, the county and the city would issue the bond for the property," Welch said. "We're also partnering with Greater Paducah Economic Development (Council) to develop curriculum for the new facility based on current workforce needs. They've done studies on that. So what will happen is, all the curriculum that exists at the Crisp Center will move over to the new facility, and then, subsequent to that, new curriculum, courses and programs will be developed based on workforce needs."

The construction would be on the tract of land along Interstate 24 called Barkley Woods. The MSU Board of Regents voted 6-5 in September 2008 to purchase the 23.26-acre property. Welch said the project was currently estimated at about $10 million, which is the amount the city and county have discussed bonding.

Welch said MSU President Dr. Randy Dunn wanted to wait until after Friday's vote to comment on the memorandum of understanding.

Library Board presents strategic plan

By HAWKINS TEAGUE
Staff Writer

The Calloway County Public Library's strategic plan calls for efficient use of staff and resources, as well as more interaction with the community.

The first draft of the plan was presented to the public at a special-called board of trustees meeting Wednesday by Bill Waltrip, a performance consultant with the Bowling Green firm Leadership Strategies Group. The board will vote to approve the final draft at a future meeting.

Waltrip said the plan contained five overreaching goals for the library. Within those five goals were 61 separate, specific objectives, he said. He said the plan should be considered a living document and that changes might need to be made, but that it should at least put everyone on the "same page." The five overall goals were as follows:

- Maintain, improve and expand products and services that are in high demand by patrons.
- Create an organizational culture that recognizes the importance of communication between staff, board members and community members regarding library products and services.

- Enhance library services by creating new space and utilizing existing space effectively.
- Maintain an organizational culture that values customer service, staff efficiency and professional development.
- Utilize library resources in an efficient manner and be prepared for possible threats to the library's day-to-day operations.

Ky. Dam operated efficiently in storms

By TOM BERRY
Staff Writer

Kentucky Dam officials say they had to deal with runoff from a record level of rainfall that swept through the region during last month's storms, but the structure was never threatened with malfunction as the dam was able to work efficiently in dealing with the deluge and help minimize the effect of nationwide flooding.

However, Jeff Ring, plant manager of the Tennessee Valley Authority facility in Gilbertsville, said during a news conference Wednesday morning that he did order the dam's power generation facility shut down for five days and opened a spill gate temporarily to allow tons of water to flow through during the height of the flooding.

"If we didn't our equipment would have been underwater," Ring said, pointing out that the TVA's main objective of minimizing the negative impact of flooding was always his first consideration.

During the period, TVA officials at the dam have been in communication with the U.S. Army Corp of Engineers in coordinating efforts to alleviate damage from flooding in the region.

Despite some challenges, the facility performed as it was designed to, according to Ring. He said regulating levels during flooding both up and down the river means some sacrifice, but the TVA's and the Corp's priority is the overall safety of those living in areas threatened by flooding.

"The safety of our personnel and the public is our priority," he said. "We're looking out for the best interest of everyone involved. We're just trying to do our best for the most."

Ring said lake water levels beat a previous record of 369 feet at the dam by four feet (373 feet), which prompted heightened daily monitoring, but no further emergency measures were needed to deal with the deluge.

■ Disaster funds...

From Front

"We made it, but we decided after that we needed a more permanent solution."

The grants are provided by the U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development's (HUD) Community Development Block Grant (CDBG) 2008 Disaster Recovery program, which helps support long-term recovery and critical infrastructure needs in communities as a result of the 2008 disasters.

"The devastating effects of the 2008 disasters were among the worst in Kentucky's history, and the impact continues to affect counties even today," said Gov. Beshear. "These grants will ensure that communities are able to recover costs they incurred related to these natural disasters and implement needed improvements that are critical to public safety."

During the 2008 ice storm, the Murray-Calloway County Senior Citizens Center aided seniors as well as residents throughout the county.

Maintaining power in the center will be critical to serving those in need during a disaster.

The city of Hazel currently lacks adequate siren coverage, as the siren is not able to reach all the residents.

Murray Mayor Kerry Vasseur was not available for comment about funding approved for Hazel.

The new siren will ensure early warning detection of severe weather and improve safety. In addition, the new generator will allow lift station operations to be maintained in the event of a power outage. In the past, the water district rented a generator to keep the lift station functioning and to prevent overflows.

"The storms of 2008 left a costly trail of hazards and debris in their wake," said DLG Commissioner Tony Wilder. "We are glad to be able to assist the many communities that are still continuing to recover from these disasters. This assistance will also enhance a level of preparedness in many communities for any future natural disasters."

The DLG Office of Federal Grants received $3,717, 686 through HUD, provided by the Consolidated Security, Disaster Assistance and Continuing Appropriations Act of 2009. Fifty-six counties were included in at least one of the three Presidentially declared disasters in 2008 and were eligible to apply for funding. The Disaster Recovery funds will be used to assist local governments with recovery to rehab affordable rental housing in the affected areas; address public facilities, infrastructure and emergency service needs; and to participate in the state's initiative of providing mobile homes with the increased ability to sustain high winds by installing tie downs or placing them on a permanent foundation.

"I'm extremely pleased to see our county receive this funding, which will be a big boost in our ongoing efforts to improve safety when bad weather strikes," said Rep. Melvin Henley of Murray. "As we have seen all too well in the last month or so, we cannot be too prepared in this regard."

Flash flooding hits eastern Ky.

ASHLAND, Ky. (AP) — Emergency management officials are inspecting storm damage in eastern Kentucky.

Violent weather struck Ashland on Tuesday, bringing torrential rain, quarter-size hail, strong winds and vivid lightning. The heavy rain set off flash flooding that flooded streets and parking lots. Some people had to be rescued from their cars, according to The Independent of Ashland.

No deaths or injuries were reported and the water receded quickly Tuesday night after the storms moved through.

■ Library Board, strategic plan...

From Front

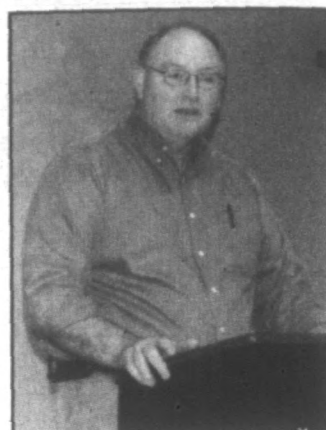

One of the objectives mentioned was creating a better library website by Dec. 1, 2011. Another that involved being more active in the community was to create a Friends of the Library organization by June 2014.

Waltrip was asked why there were only 12 community members involved in seeking input for the plan. He said that while he could have used more than one focus group, he thought the group he interviewed was pretty diverse and had plenty of good ideas. He was also asked whether library staff members were interviewed individually or as a group. He said they were interviewed as a group without the presence of the library director or board members, but that employees were encouraged to e-mail him or call if there was anything they didn't feel comfortable saying in front of the group. He said he didn't receive many e-mails, but did get a few.

Waltrip said that a strategic plan was an important thing for organizations to have, but that implementation was the most important and hardest part of the process.

"This is hard work, but now the real test comes in the next months and the next couple of years to see how you all actually put this into play," he said.

Fishermen took the opportunity to catch some bait fish Wednesday morning at Kentucky Dam in Grand Rivers. Dam officials say the facility is back to full operation following flooding that occurred last week. For five days, the plant's electrical generation facility was shut down.

■ Ky. Dam...

From Front

"It went four feet above the previous record. As far as the headwaters this is the deepest. I've never seen anything like it," Ring said.

Ring said the dam was designed to deal with the situation faced following flooding last week and the dam's energy generation capacity is back to normal. Only a few of the flood gates remain completely open.

The dam is currently spilling 170,000 cubic feet per second - or 76.5 million gallons of water - with each cubic foot equaling 450 gallons.

However, flooding wasn't the only problem the rain has caused. Down by the dam, several fishermen were doing their best to pull a good catch out of the water, but that didn't happen. The change in temperature, speed and other factors is creating a bad situation for anglers.

Murray charged with fleeing, wanton endangerment

Staff Report

A man was charged with fleeing police and wanton endangerment Tuesday after reportedly speeding away from Murray Police.

According to MPD spokeswoman Sgt. Tracy Guge, officers responded to several complaints of a reckless motorcycle driver at approximately 5:50 p.m. Tuesday. Sgt. Todd Clere located a motorist and attempted to initiate a traffic stop, but Clere said the driver continued onto Chestnut Street instead of pulling over. The driver, later identified as Paul Curtis, 49, of Murray, then attempted to evade police by traveling at a high rate of speed, according to Guge.

Curtis was stopped a short time later by Kentucky State Police on Radio Road and transported to the Murray-Calloway County Hospital emergency room. Sgt. Clere charged Curtis with speeding; fleeing or evading police; reckless driving; three counts of disregarding a traffic control device; wanton endangerment in the first degree; failure to maintain insurance and residents not to use a license of other states.

Individuals facing charges are innocent until proven guilty.

Obama's approval rating hits 60 percent

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Barack Obama's approval rating has hit its highest point in two years — 60 percent — and more than half of Americans now say he deserves to be re-elected, according to an Associated Press-GfK poll taken after U.S. forces killed al-Qaida leader Osama bin Laden.

In worrisome signs for Republicans, the president's standing improved not just on foreign policy but also on the economy, and independents — a key voting bloc in the November 2012 presidential election — caused the overall uptick in support by sliding back to Obama after fleeing for much of the past two years.

Comfortable majorities of the public now call Obama a strong leader who will keep America safe. Nearly three-fourths — 73 percent — also now say they are confident that Obama can effectively handle terrorist threats. And he improved his standing on Afghanistan, Iraq and the United States' relationships with other countries.

Budget deficit may surpass $1 Trillion

WASHINGTON (AP) — The government is taking in more tax revenue as the economy improves, but not nearly enough to keep the federal budget deficit from exceeding $1 trillion for a third straight year.

The deficit for April dropped to $40.5 billion, half the imbalance from the same month last year, the Treasury Department reported Wednesday. Tax receipts were up 45 percent last month compared to the same month one year ago. Still, the deficit is on pace to grow to $1.4 trillion in this budget year, according to the latest estimate from the Congressional Budget Office. That would nearly match the record $1.41 trillion deficit hit in 2009. The deficit through the first seven months of this budget year, which began Oct. 1, totaled $869.9 billion last month. Before 2009, that would have ranked as the highest full-year deficit of all time. Soaring deficits are putting pressure on Congress and President Barack Obama to agree on a long-term plan to trim federal spending. But the White House and Democrats also want to trim the deficit by ending tax cuts for the wealthy, which were first passed when President George W. Bush was in office and extended.

MATT'S PC CHAT

by Matthew
Barnes

Hello Fellow Technology Enthusiasts, Matt here again, bringing you another installment of "Matt's PC Chat." Today, we will be talking about Apple Laptop and Desktop Computers. First off, let me put my personal opinion in. I like Apple, the products, customer service and overall design are amazing. Apple has been able to create a brand image that their products are used by the hip, knowledgeable, $6 a cup coffee drinkers. Beyond the Marketing it's important to know what's under the hood. Apple and PC are VERY close to the same product. Years ago, Apple used processors made by Motorola and Apple custom created parts. However, today they sport the same Intel produced processors, RAM, forms, and hard drive models that PCs do. They are made of higher grade components than your $299 special at the big box retailers, but I would put one of my Dell Business Series PCs in the ring with an Apple system any day. Biggest difference is the Operating System. Mac produces different flavors of the OS X series currently, with Mac OS X Lion set to release this summer. The operating system is very strong, includes the App Store just like your iPad and iPhone do and has some great Mac only utilities that are hands down amazing. "Macs don't get viruses" I hear that quite often, but guess what...they do. I have one in my office right now with "Mac Defender" a new fake Anti-Virus program that prompts users continuously to hand over the credit card information. CNN has a report out on it right now! Now, there are millions of PC viruses and Macs are at much less risk than PCs, but someone here in Murray, KY has this Mac virus now. Overall Apple has done a great job with their computers. I enjoy them as well as the next person. Their systems are usually 40-60% more expensive than systems we stock with the same hardware specifications, just make sure you know what you're buying. Be sure to come see us downtown or call 270.761.2427 for your entire PC and Apple system repair, including iPhone screen replacement. Check out my expanded blog on our website, www.bgsystems.com and click the Orange B in the upper right corner. In our next article on May 20th, I would like to discuss questions from our readers again, please send questions you have to mibarnes@bgsystems.com.

Purchase Players present murder mystery

By Cheryl Hartig
Purchase Players Board President

A classic whodunit comes eerily to life on stage this Friday the 13th at the Community Performing Arts Center in Mayfield.

"And Then There Were None" is one of Agatha Christie's most intriguing and suspenseful mysteries, and is the third production in Purchase Players 2011 season. This spine-tingling play tells the tale of 10 houseguests, gathered on secluded Soldier Island, each with something to hide and something to fear. Upon arrival, it is discovered that their eccentric millionaire hosts, Mr. and Mrs. Owens, are missing. We soon discover that these guests have been quite carefully selected, chosen because each of them was in some way responsible for the death of an innocent person, and never properly punished for the crime.

"This cast has been a joy to work with," said director Don Fleming of Murray, a regular contributor at Murray's Playhouse in the Park, when discussing his troupe of seasoned veterans and newcomers alike. "I love Agatha Christie, and I think everyone in the show does a great job of bringing the characters to life."

Ferried to the island by Fred Narracott, (Raymond Burnett), the guest list includes Rogers (Michael Christopher), as the recently hired butler, his complaining cook of a wife, Mrs.

Rogers (Cathy Richard), Vera Claythorne (Meg Rogers) a newly hired secretary to the mysterious Mrs. Owens, a former army Captain, Phillip Lombard (Josh Byrne of Murray), retired barrister Wargrave (Jim Roush), young playboy Anthony Marston (Shane Melvin), retired police officer Blore (Justin Spraggs), retired General MacKenzie (Tim Lewis), the morally superior spinster Emily Brent (Anita Sue Jackson), and medical practitioner Dr. Armstrong (Royce Buck).

The guests quickly realize that they are all victims of a sinister trap, as their hosts never appear – instead a recorded message is played at dinner accusing each of them of murder. Another disturbing revelation is the 10 little soldier statues standing on the mantle next to a framed nursery rhyme as sinister as the intentions of whoever sent the invitations. The rhyme, titled "Ten Little Soldier Boys," foreshadows the death of each guest, one by one, until there are none. Stranded by a torrential storm, trapped on the island with no telephone or boat, the guests begin to share their darkest secrets, and one by one they begin to die. One by one the toy soldiers on the mantle are discovered broken on the floor as each houseguest is murdered, leaving no clues behind, just one less suspect. Nothing is as it seems as this fascinating tale twists and turns to its exciting climax.

Tickets for "And Then There Were None" will be on sale in the CPAC box office, as well as one hour before each show. The play runs beginning May 13-15 with show times Friday and Saturday at 7 p.m., Sunday at 2 p.m., and encore performances scheduled next weekend May 20-22.

Wife, daughter gang up on dad over sleeping arrangements

DEAR ABBY: Our daughter, "Julie," came home for the weekend so we could meet her new boyfriend, "Scott."

When I suggested Scott sleep in the guest room, Julie and my wife gave me this perplexed look as though I'm from a different planet. After 30 years of marriage, this created the first disagreement between my wife and me in a long time.

I'm no prude. My wife and I had our share of premarital mambo, but we always slept in separate rooms while visiting our families before we were married. It was about respect for our parents' feelings.

Julie spends a lot of time with Scott's family where they share a room. My wife is afraid if we don't provide common accommodations in our home, our daughter will be less inclined to visit.

I welcome your thoughts, Abby. Is expecting some sense of propriety being a curmudgeonly father? -- STUMPED AND TRUMPED IN OHIO

DEAR STUMPED AND TRUMPED: You didn't mention how long Julie and Scott have been involved, or whether they're living together. However, I keep coming back to the fact that under your roof, guests should abide by your rules. If you prefer that unmarried couples sleep apart in your home, then your feelings should have been respected.

DEAR ABBY: I work for a company that processes orders from a store at a local mall. I handle these orders and have run into an embarrassing problem. Our customers come from every imaginable ethnic background. When I take a look at some of the names on the work orders, I can't even begin to pronounce them.

It's my job to call these customers back to verify details and schedule installations. Is it more polite to try to sound out the name or to apologize right off the bat and ask the proper pronunciation? -- TONGUE-TIED IN ST. PAUL, MINN.

DEAR TONGUE-TIED: It would be better to sound it out, syllable by syllable, and try to pronounce it -- adding, "If I have mispronounced your name, please correct me."

DEAR ABBY: I have several old Bibles that are literally falling apart. What's the proper way of disposing of Bibles? It seems wrong to just throw them in the trash or burn them. -- ROBERT IN COLUMBUS, OHIO

DEAR ROBERT: The answer to your question depends upon the religion to which you belong. According to my experts, Protestants can dispose of an old Bible by giving it to someone or by throwing it away if they're comfortable doing that -- the paper and ink are not "holy." Old Bibles can also be given to a Bible bookstore or Bible book society for refurbishing or disposal.

Catholics can either burn or bury old Bibles.

Jewish people should call a temple or Jewish cemetery and ask if it has a "genizah" -- a special place to bury books with the name of God in them. (When the genizah is filled, it will be closed and buried.)

Persons of other religions should consult their religious authority governing the accepted manner of disposing of holy books.

Cold hands plague reader

DEAR DR. GOTT: I have lost 40 pounds in four months. I'm on a 1,800-calories-a-day diet and exercise almost daily. My doctor prescribed Adipex-P daily to help me with my weight loss and Arthrotec for my arthritis. These are the only new medications I am taking. I'm a 69-year-old female.

Since I began losing the weight, my hands have been unusually cold. It feels as if I have them in ice water. Is this something I should ask my doctor about, or is it normal?

DEAR READER: Adipex-P is an appetite suppressant for the treatment of obesity. Side effects can include constipation, diarrhea, difficulty sleeping, headache, nervousness, restlessness, upset stomach, chest pain, shortness of breath and more.

Arthrotec is a nonsteroidal anti-inflammatory drug that reduces pain and inflammation. Side effects can include headache, nausea, stomach pain, stomach ulcers, chest pain, blurred vision, nausea, vomiting, loss of appetite and more.

Your arthritis may certainly have a bearing on your cold hands.

There is a slight possibility one of the new medications or a combination of others you might be on are causing your cold hands. Do you have Raynaud's syndrome, a thyroid condition, anemia, a B12 deficiency or are you under stress? Any of these situations and many others could be the culprit.

Ask your doctor whether any other medications you are taking could be affecting you, or whether he or she can order blood work that might shed some light on your problem. Without knowing your full medical history and the other medications you are on, it is impossible for me to determine why your hands have become so cold so quickly, but as I pointed out, there are many possible reasons.

In the interim, when you sit watching television or walk down the street every day, curl your hands up tightly into fists. Open the fists and stretch your fingers as wide as possible. Repeat the pattern, and do it several times a day. Incorporate arm exercises by swinging them forward and back. Get your circulation moving, eat a healthful, balanced diet, and discontinue tobacco immediately if you are a smoker, and you might find the relief you are seeking.

DEAR DR. GOTT: Is there any hope for me to restore muscle mass? I have taken a statin for 20 years and am now on simvastatin. Other necessary meds I take are for COPD. I was born in 1938 and am not yet frail, but fearful. I am active and exercise at a fitness center.

DEAR READER: The aging process and a progressive loss of muscle mass often go hand in hand. Age-related changes in muscle-protein synthesis might be the result of dietary modifications and reduced exercise programs. In fact, several studies indicate that protein intake decreases in some older, frail people, as well as in those that are quite healthy, but there are steps a person can take to combat the process.

The most healthful method of improving muscle mass is through a proper diet and gradual, moderate exercise, specifically strength training. Speak with your physician regarding what you are capable of incorporating on a daily basis. Or request a referral to your hospital's physical-therapy department. After a few sessions, you should be able to take over any exercise program on your own at home. Good luck.

Kennedy, Cross receive extensions

BOTH COACHES' CONTRACTS RUN THROUGH 2014-15 SEASON

Staff Report

Murray State athletic director Allen Ward sent a message of satisfaction with the direction of the school's men's and women's basketball programs Wednesday, announcing contract extensions for both men's head coach Billy Kennedy and women's coach Rob Cross.

Kennedy received a one-year extension which takes him through the 2014-15 season with the Racers.

The coach, who just completed his fifth season, had been rumored to be a candidate for several other jobs earlier this spring, including Wyoming and Miami.

"I'm excited once again to know that we are keeping coach Kennedy in Murray," Ward said in a press release. "Coming off back-to-back OVC championships and a remarkable 54 wins the past two seasons, the future of Racers basketball remains bright under his stable leadership."

Kennedy led the Racers to a second-straight Ohio Valley Conference regular-season championship and postseason appearance in 2010-11. The 23-9 campaign came on the heels of a 31-5 season and a victory in the NCAA Tournament in 2009-10.

"I'm happy to have the opportunity to continue to build on the winning tradition at Murray State," Kennedy said in a release. "It means a lot to know that I have the support of our administration. My family and I have enjoyed our time in Murray the last five years and we're looking forward to the future."

Cross received a three-year extension that also takes him through the 2014-15 season with the Racers.

"Rob is a great ambassador for our program and our university," Ward said. "He has a good nucleus of young players that will continue to get better and keep us competitive in the league. I'm pleased with the work he is doing to position the program for another championship run."

In his first season as head coach in 2008-09, Cross led the Racers to their

Jehlik to transfer after freshman year with Racers

CROSS: JEHLIK HAD 'LOT OF POTENTIAL'

By TOMMY DILLARD

Promising freshman Mary Jehlik will not return to Murray State next season, head coach Rob Cross confirmed Wednesday.

Jehlik, a 6-foot-3 forward who started 15 games as a true freshman during the 2010-11 season, is seeking to transfer to a non-Division I program, Cross said.

"In the postseason meeting with me, she basically said Division I basketball is not for her," said Cross. "She had a lot of potential, but Division I basketball is not for everyone. It's a lot of time, a lot of hard work."

A desire to return closer to home may also have been a factor in the Mount Sterling native's decision, Cross said.

"She was very close to her family, and I'm sure that was tough on her to be away from them," he said. "She was looking to get closer to home and not quite have the demands that Division I basketball requires."

Jehlik averaged four points and 2.5 rebounds over 15.2 minutes per game this past season. She was second on the team in blocks with 15 and was the third-best free-throw shooter at 81 percent.

Cross mentioned Campbellsville, an NAIA program in central Kentucky, as a possible destination for Jehlik.

"I want her to be happy, even if that means being closer to home or going to another school," he said. "As far as her future and her potential, we were expecting her to develop and get a lot of good things out of her."

GROGAN LEADS MURRAY CHARGE WITH THREE HITS

Staff Report

Murray scored one seventh-inning run to turn a tie game into a 6-5 victory Wednesday evening at Graves County.

The win avenged a 9-3 loss at the hands of the Lady Eagles earlier this season.

The Lady Tigers trailed 5-2 going into the fifth inning, where they plated one run when Chelsea Hill scored off an error. Murray got two runs in the sixth to tie the game when Rachel Todd doubled in Liz Grogan, then scored on a wild pitch.

In the seventh, Hill led off the inning with a single before Amanda Winchester

Murray State seniors Jenna Bradley (left) and Lauren Buch have taken the Ohio Valley Conference by storm this season, leading the Racers on a furious late-season charge to help them recover from an 0-6 league start to snag the sixth and final seed in this week's OVC Tournament. DESPITE VASTLY DIFFERENT PERSONALITIES AND APPROACHES TO THE GAME, JENNA BRADLEY AND LAUREN BUCH WILL FOREVER SHARE ONE THING IN COMMON — THEY HAVE LAID THE FOUNDATION FOR AN UPSTART DIVISION I PROGRAM, AND PUT UP STRIKING NUMBERS IN THE PROCESS

Jenna Bradley is an emotional player who is usually at her best when the stakes are highest, such as during Murray State's furious stretch run which culminated in the Racers' securing the sixth and final Ohio Valley Conference tournament berth on Sunday in their final game of the regular season.

Lauren Buch, on the other hand, has been a model of consistency. Her on-field persona rarely changes, and neither has her batting average this season — it rose to above .400 in March and finished at .421.

Bradley is bubbly and loud. Buch is unassuming and quiet.

Bradley and head coach Jay Pyron talk about statistics frequently, including how the senior centerfielder is currently assaulting the NCAA charts, where she ranks fourth nationally in runs scored per game and ninth in home runs.

Buch is also making national noise, ranking 10th in the country in slugging percentage. She, however, prefers not to talk about the numbers and claims she didn't know of her presence in the top 25 of several national categories until her accomplishments

Murray State senior center fielder Jenna Bradley was named the 2011 Ohio Valley Conference Player of the Year Wednesday night, the conference announced.
A native of Trilla, Ill., Bradley leads the league in home runs (18), runs scored (59), RBI (55) and total bases (117) while also ranking among conference leaders in doubles (12), slugging percentage (.830) and on-base percentage (.469).
She will take an 11-game hitting streak into the tournament. She becomes the first Racer to earn Player of the Year honors.

Killer

Bradley is batting .348 with 18 homers to her name, as well as 59 runs scored and 55 RBI.

Aside from their numbers, however, Pyron insists he'd be hard-pressed to find two more different players.

"The mentality they have, the outlook, the attitude, the positions they play ... there are very few similarities when you compare them side by side," he says.

But Pyron knows that Buch and Bradley share not only the statistical success they've had over the course of their senior seasons, but also the foundation they have simultaneously provided for an upstart program in just its second season.

Both players came to Murray State as juniors prior to the 2010 season. Both came from Illinois junior colleges.

They were part of an inaugural campaign in which the Racers managed to qualify for the OVC Tournament ahead of many more established programs.

For an encore, they've carried their squad through an 0-6 start to the conference season, then led them on a late-season tear that has included winning three straight series and five of their last six, playing in do-or-die situations nearly every weekend.

Pyron says it's difficult to place a value on what the duo has meant to his program, especially in its infantile stages. He also notes, however, that the numbers they have put up could stand as records at Murray State for quite some time.

"It's a luxury for me to have the two best players in the conference batting back to back, and I don't think there's any question they are the two best," Pyron says. "It's pretty unusual for that to happen for a program like ours."

"... I think what they've done, aside from just performing incredibly all year, is that they've made everybody else better. Other hitters are having the opportunity to hit, getting better pitches to hit because of those two."

Bradley leads the OVC in runs scored, RBI and home runs, while Buch sits atop the league in batting average and slugging percentage.

They've piloted the Racers to becoming the top run-scoring team in the league, and the 15th-best in the nation in runs.

Despite their differences, the two are good friends, and both say hitting next to one another in the batting order has been one of the most enjoyable aspects of their Murray State careers.

They have hit several back-to-back home runs this season, including in a crucial league win against Eastern Kentucky at Racer Field three weeks ago.

"We have a little competition going on," Buch says with a laugh. "We'll tease each other after a hit, say 'Come on, you can get this girl. If I can do it, you can do it' or 'You're falling behind now, you got to catch up.' It's just a lot of fun and we work really well together."

What they would like most, however, would be to improve upon last season's tournament showing. After qualifying for the No. 5 seed a year ago, the Racers lost their first two post-season games, dropping out of the event quickly.

This year, with senior leadership in the program for the first time, players believe they are more prepared for the rigors of post-season play.

"I think we're better off in some aspects than some of the other teams who have been set in the standings for a while," Buch says. "They knew they were going to be in, and you can lay off and relax a little bit. We've been fighting tooth and nail the whole way."

Murray State went in to last week's three-game series at Jacksonville State needing to win one more game than Tennessee Tech in its series at Tennessee-Martin to secure the sixth and final tournament seed.

After both the Racers and Golden Eagles split on Saturday, Pyron informed his team in the fifth inning of Sunday's game that Tennessee Tech had lost, meaning the Racers controlled their own destiny.

They responded by scoring two runs in the top of the sixth to break a 3-3 tie, but Jacksonville State knotted the game again with two runs of their own in the bottom of the inning.

Freshman Leslie Bridges finally delivered the win with a two-run home run in the seventh inning.

"I think (knowing Tennessee Tech had lost) really motivated us," Bradley said. "It was high pressure, and it was one of the most exciting games that I have ever played in."

Murray State opens play in the OVC Tournament at 10 a.m. this morning, facing three-seed Tennessee-Martin, a team which swept three games from them in the first conference series of the year in early March.

"We're a completely different team than we were then," Bradley says. "There's not one doubt in my mind that we can beat (UTM). I think we're all just ready to go out and get another shot at them."

The event is double-elimination and is taking place at the home of No. 1 seed Eastern Illinois in Charleston, Ill.

Harris (Tulsa, Okla.) missed the better part of four games, but still nearly became the first positions.

The web site cited Harris' "quick first step" and "breakaway speed" and also warned opponents to "be ready for

In just his second game for the Racers, Harris rushed for 119 yards and a touchdown, while also catching five passes for 45 yards and a touchdown, as MSU defeated UT Martin. It would be the first of his four 100-yard rushing performances on the season, tying him for ninth place on the single-season list.

delivered a two-out single that allowed Maddie Cohoon, who was pinch running for Hill, to score from third base.

With the win, Murray improved to 12-14 on the season while Graves fell to 10-13-1.

The Lady Tigers plated two runs in the first, but Graves was quick to answer, tying the game in the bottom of the inning. The Lady Eagles then pulled ahead with two more runs in the third and another in the fourth.

Murray outlived the Lady

Eagles 9-5 but committed five errors on the game.

Taylor Alvey earned the win for the Lady Tigers, tossing the final four innings and surrendering just one run on one hit. Morgan Huston started the game and surrendered four runs over three innings.

Grogan led Murray's offense, going 3-for-4 with two runs scored and an RBI while Todd was 2-for-3 with a run and an RBI. Julia Curtis went 1-for-4 with a run, Lauren Dieleman was 1-for-2 with an RBI, and Hill was 1-for-3 with a run.

The Lady Tigers travel to Livingston Central tonight for a 5 p.m. matchup.

bring students to school Wednesday, May 25. The board approved the details, which means Calloway County High School graduation ceremonies will be Tuesday, May 24 as originally planned.

The storms that swept through Calloway County on April 25 caused damage to district property, mainly the CCHS soccer fieldhouse. CCSD superintendent Kenneth Bargo reported the building sustained severe damage to the roof and interior and the exact amount of damage has not yet been calculated. Bargo said an insurance claim has been filed and they hope to have things ready for when soccer practice begins this summer.

Other minor damage was reported to Calloway County Middle School, the bus garage and the phone system at Southwest Calloway Elementary School.

The board approved an emergency repair priority to the CCSD Board Office after Bargo reported foundation settling issues in the building. Bargo said a consultant from Helitech told him the foundation is cracked in four places, causing cracks in some walls and floor and door issues. It will need to be raised up in ten places, at an estimated $24,000-$25,000. Bargo said the emergency priority would allow him to bypass the normal repair process, which would have potentially delayed the repair into the start of the 2011-2012 school year. He said the board office will most likely have to close during the repair, which would not be feasible during the busy school year.

Pat Lane, food service director, presented a possible online portal for parents to get more information about food services. The program, titled mySchoolBucks, is offered by the same company that provides point-of-sale operations for the district. Lane said it would allow a parent to set up an account and track their child's spending in food services at no cost. The parents could also make deposits into their child's account, something Lane said would carry a $2 service fee that the company would keep. The site would also allow parents to set up reminders and alerts relating to their account balance.

Lane said she has heard positive response from Trigg and McCracken counties and has had a lot of parents within the CCSD ask for a way to pay online. After discussion by the board, the matter was tabled until June while board members review the information and work out details with Lane.

As gas prices continue to rise, Tommy Futrell, director of transportation, said he and Bargo have been looking into possible ways to consolidate bus usage should prices continue to climb. While no action has been taken, Futrell said they need to be prepared for the worst.

In other business, the board:

- approved a tentative budget for 2011-2012 of $24,975,962.44. Bargo said the budget is a conservative estimate and will be updated in June.
- heard an attendance report for month nine (April 19 to May 16) of 96.3 percent attendance in the district.
- approved 2011-2012 school fees of $15 per student at Calloway County High School and $20 per student at Calloway County Middle School, North Calloway Elementary School, Southwest Calloway Elementary School and East Calloway Elementary School.
- approved first readings of policy changes that change the way inventory is managed and limits the amount of outside advertising in the district without board approval.

the budget.

Beginning MISD teachers will be paid $36,000 annually which rises to $58,000 annually for teachers with 20+ years of experience. However Rogers noted that teachers will have to pay more for insurance coverage the coming year. Hourly workers are also scheduled a pay increase.

Afterward, board members voted to add another day at the end of the current session. Students missed another day of class due to the wind storm that blasted through Murray recently. The last day of school for students is scheduled for Friday, May 27. The date for graduation will not change, but remains Sunday, May 29.

"Usually when you amend the calendar in April you don't have to do it again later, but we did this year," Rogers said.

Teachers will return for one day after the Memorial Day weekend and the district will officially close for summer vacation June 1.

In other business, Rogers informed board members that the district has already registered 526 non-resident students for the coming school year, but is only allowed 500 under a current contract with the Calloway County Board of Education. An additional 21 more prospective students remain on a waiting list. He said part of the reason for the increase is MISD families moving into the Calloway School District, but wanting to remain in Murray schools.

Rogers said he hoped that the situation would change by the beginning of the next school year in August, but if it doesn't he recommended the board adopt a policy to deal it. According to the recommendation approved by the board, if more than 500 eligible students residing in the Calloway district register to attend classes at MISD, criteria used by the principal and the superintendent to decide who will not be enrolled will be decided by whether or not the student's tuition account is paid up to date, the student's past attendance record and the student's past behavior record.

However Rogers said he hopes denial of registration will not be necessary.

"It might work itself out, but there may be circumstances where it doesn't," he said.

Chandler sees photos of bin Laden death

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — After viewing gruesome photographs of Osama bin Laden's corpse on Thursday, a Kentucky congressman stuck to his belief that the images should be released to the world as a dramatic reminder of the retribution awaiting terrorists.

U.S. Rep. Ben Chandler went to CIA headquarters in Langley, Va., where he said he viewed roughly a dozen photos of the al-

Qaida leader who was shot to death May 1 by a team of Navy SEALs. Chandler, a Democrat, was given access to the images as a member of the House Intelligence Committee. He said some photos were taken at the scene of the daring raid that ended the hunt for the terror mastermind behind the horrific attacks on Sept. 11, 2001.

"They were quite gruesome," he said.

Clarification

In Thursday's story about Murray State University's plans to get funding for an extended campus in Paducah, Mark Welch, community relations director with the Office of the President, mistakenly said Paducah and McCracken County were planning to issue a bond for construction. Welch clarified that the county is issuing the bond and other parties are jointly funding the project.

storms. He said the city suspended the spring pick-up when the storms hit and started again on Monday. He said employees were chipping brush as they went along, which is a slower process than usual, but should save time and money because materials will not have to be hauled to be chipped elsewhere.

Allbritten said he was hoping to get through the entire process in 10 weeks, which was considerably less than the 22 weeks he had estimated right after the storm. He said progress updates were being posted on the city website every day.

After being asked about it, Wells added that the city was working on getting some Federal Emergency Management Agency (FEMA) reimbursement, but was also working on getting $160,000 it was owed from the 2009 ice storm.

The council passed the first reading of an ordinance to spend no more than $4,000 to replace the tile floor at Fire Station 2. Fire Chief Eric Pologruto said the problem of the floor buckling in some areas and tiles popping up in others apparently started about two years ago. He said the vinyl flooring he looked at came with a five-year warranty.

Police Chief Jeff Liles took time to recognize two police department employees for completing recent training. Major Jim Osborne completed training at the Southern Police Institute at the University of Louisville and Captain Steve Robinson completed Criminal Justice Executive Development training at the Kentucky Department of Criminal Justice Training in Richmond.

In other business:

- The second reading of an ordinance was passed to spend $97,326 to repair a recently damaged 27-year-old well.

- The second reading of an ordinance was passed changing the promotions system at the fire department. It will lengthen the service time required before the fire lieutenant exam can be taken from two to five continuous years, although a fire science degree would shorten the time by a year.

■ Absentee voting...

From Front

Primary races are unfolding in most of Kentucky's state-level offices, including governor. Three Republicans are seeking the GOP gubernatorial nomination, though the incumbent, Democrat Steve Beshear, is unopposed in his party's primary.

Election officials are predicting low voter turnout on Tuesday, in part because of the decline in absentee voters this spring.

Secretary of State Elaine Walker said she expects 9 to 10 percent of Kentucky's registered voters to go the polls on Tuesday.

■ Tax system...

From Front

themes should not be discriminated against for state incentives if they meet the proper criteria for eligibility.

Holsclaw also said such projects should not categorically be denied support.

"If a project like this otherwise qualifies for incentives, I cannot oppose it on religious grounds," she said.

Some detractors have objected to the state providing tax incentives for a project with a religious theme.

Williams said the state has to dangle economic incentives in front of business prospects because of its "antiquated, anti-growth tax structure." He said the state's tax code is one of the biggest impediments to job creation in Kentucky.

"It is past time that we had a governor with enough political courage to tackle this important issue," Williams wrote.

Still, he said he has seen the benefits of incentives programs.

"There's no doubt that incentives have sometimes helped Kentucky attract good projects," Williams said. "But of course we'll never know how many companies never even consider Kentucky because our tax system renders us uncompetitive."

Holsclaw saw another problem with the incentives programs.

"We currently do not have enough reserve money to offer competitive incentives to relocate to our state," she wrote.

Murray Independent School District thankful for 'helping hands' in storms

By SHERRY PURDOM
MISD Public Information

Many helping hands from the Murray community joined together to assist and the Murray Independent School District in cleaning debris and ensuring safety to the MISD children after the recent storms.

Dr. Tom Rendek, MISD Facilities and Transportation director, said the three campuses located within the MISD suffered minimal damage (four trees at MMS), (one tree at MHS), power outages, and wood debris that forced a one-day school shut down. "I was moved by the community support," he explained.

Rendek said while the MISD facilities and maintenance crew members (Dana Pearson, Chris Graham, Randy Lewis, Darryl Alvey and Jared Colson) quickly cleared up the numerous downed trees at each respective MISD school campus, the crew also received help from Wendy Henry, a Lowes Store employee. Henry saw the MISD crew sawing wood and asked if anything was needed. "They responded they needed a bigger chain saw. Thirty minutes later, Wendy expressed her concern to Jesse Nickens, Lowes Store manager," he explained. "She then brought a larger chain saw, oil and case for our crew to continue cutting up the fallen trees."

The communication efforts between Bob Rogers, Murray Independent School District superintendent, and Murray

Electric Service, as well as West Kentucky Rural Electric, were effectively handled in a quick turnaround to ensure power restoration process in a manner that prevented thousands of dollars worth of food from spoiling. "I am extremely proud of these dedicated employees, but equally proud of our community and the way that Murrains have responded," said Tony Thompson, MES general manager. "The safety of our citizens is our first priority, and luckily with help from the Murray Police and Fire Departments, Public Works, and many private citizens there were no major injuries or deaths associated with this storm."

Rendek added that a personal visit was also made by Landon Barrow, Health Environmentalist, from the Murray-Calloway County Health Department, to check on food to ensure it was safe for children to eat and didn't need to be moved.

Murray Electric System has been extremely busy over the past week responding to the damage left by the storms. Thompson indicated one of the first people he talked to the day of the largest storm front, was Rogers. "Of course Mr. Rogers was concerned with the status of electric power to the schools and requested a status report," he said. "Our employees have worked many long hours, and at one point worked 24-hours straight without stopping."

Thompson said his staff is familiar with providing storm restoration, but this latest one gave them a test. "We are grateful for help from our sister systems in Paducah, Mayfield, Fulton and Hickman," he said.

West Kentucky Rural Electric Cooperative Cooperation assisted in the cleanup also by providing the man power to remove the trees down at MMS, as well as MHS. "The past couple of weeks have been a trying time for this area," said West Kentucky Rural Electric Cooperative President and CEO David Smart. "Our cooperative is committed to the communities we serve and we were happy to pitch in with our equipment and manpower to assist our schools in their time of need."

Rogers indicated it's impossible to mention everyone that went above and beyond to help ready the MISD to become operational. "Many others do things behind the scenes when times are a little trying," he said. "We are very grateful for all the assistance we received. What a great community."

Rendek said it is obvious why Murray has been named one of the 100 best communities in the U.S. for four years in a row, as well as the Murray Independent School District receiving the "What Parents Want Award," since 1996. "The helping hands that came together to assist our school district and community are indicative of the caring individuals that define this town."

Paducah Bomb Squad called to Riviera Courts

Staff Report

The Paducah Bomb Squad was called to Riviera Courts Thursday afternoon to investigate what turned out to be homemade fireworks.

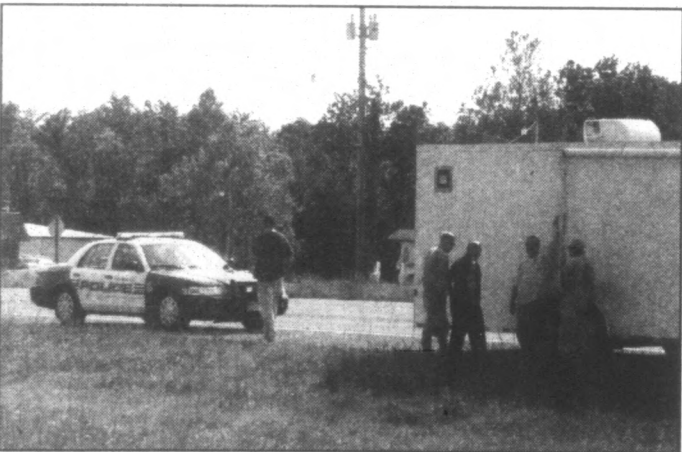

Murray Police Department spokeswoman Sgt. Tracy Guge said MPD officers were called to Riviera Courts mobile home park off of U.S. 641 North at approximately 12:23 p.m. after someone reported finding what appeared to be blasting caps with wires in a vacant trailer.

"To ensure the safety of the public, the area was immediately cordoned off and Paducah Bomb Squad was notified," Guge said. "The area was shut down until it was determined by Paducah Bomb Squad that it was not blasting caps, but actually homemade fireworks."

The scene was re-opened at approximately 3:50 p.m.

Calloway County School District bus routes through Riviera Courts were redirected after law enforcement contacted board office personnel, it was reported at the CCSD Board of Education meeting Thursday evening.

The parents of five preschool students were contacted to pick their children up at the school, and Tommy Futrell, director of transportation, said elementary students under the age of nine were also held. Students from Calloway County Middle School and Calloway County High School were dropped off at a designated safe location near the back end of Riviera Courts. Futrell said all students were reported safe at home by 4:30 p.m.

19th annual Letter Carrier Food Drive set for Saturday

Special to the Ledger

The National Association of Letter Carriers, in conjunction with the United States Postal Service, will be collecting non-perishable food items on Saturday for the 19th annual Letter Carrier Food Drive.

Suggested items to help families in need in the community include canned meats and fish, canned soup, juice, pasta, vegetables, cereal and rice. The United Way, the AFL-CIO, Feeding America, and the Campbell's Soup Company are co-sponsors of the food drive.

Members of the public are encouraged to place food donations at their mailboxes before their letter carrier arrives with the day's mail. It will be taken to the Post Office and then delivered to local food banks or pantries. Items that have expired or those in glass containers should not be included.

The 300,000-member National Association of Letter Carriers (NALC), which represents city delivery letter carriers in all 50 states and U.S. jurisdictions, conducts the world's largest one-day food drive each year on the second Saturday in May. In 2010, the drive collected 77.1 million pounds of food – the seventh consecutive year about 70 million – and delivered the donations to local community food banks, pantries and shelters. Almost 1,500 NALC local branches participated.

Job gains aid gas price spike

WASHINGTON (AP) — The best hiring market in five years should limit the damage from inflation and position the economy to thrive in the second half of the year.

Higher food and gas prices are threatening to slow growth this spring. But economists say the drag from inflation will likely be only temporary. Commodity prices are easing. Gas prices could follow in the weeks ahead. "We are going to see the economy picking up steam," said Joel Naroff of Naroff Economic Advisors, who is among many economists who think gas prices will taper off. "Lower energy prices will give consumers more confidence to spend, and higher consumer spending will give businesses more confidence to hire and invest."

Kentucky News in Brief

Police say theft caused $643K in factory damage

FRANKFORT, Ky. (AP) — A Franklin County grand jury has indicted three men accused of causing $643,000 in damage to the RJ Industries factory while looking for metal to sell as scrap.

Twenty-nine-year-old Daniel Mathis, of Frankfort, was already being held in the Franklin County jail on unrelated charges, according to the Lexington Herald-Leader. Jail officials had no record of whether he had an attorney.

Police are still looking for 27-year-old Roger Lewis and 33-year-old Michael Murphy, both of Mount Eden.

The burglary took place in January. Police said thieves removed electrical wires, air conditioning units and brass plumbing materials to sell for scrap in Louisville and Frankfort.

Sheriff's office Capt. Ron Wyatt said it's not clear how much the men made selling the metal but it was likely only a fraction of the replacement cost.

Man drowns swimming in rain swollen Licking River

CYNTHIANA, Ky. (AP) — A man has drowned after he was swept over a dam while swimming in the rain swollen Licking River.

The Harrison County coroner told WLEX-TV the man who drowned on Wednesday evening was 20-year-old Brandon Holbert.

The Harrison County Sheriff said witnesses told him Holbert was walking across Robinson Dam around 7:45 p.m. when he dove into the river. He swam about 10 feet before the water swept him over the edge of the dam.

Friends pulled him from the water and performed CPR.

Holbert was taken to Harrison Memorial Hospital where he was pronounced dead.

Plane slides off runway in Louisville; no one hurt

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — An airport spokeswoman says a Vision Airlines flight making an emergency landing at Louisville International Airport slid off the runway.

Trish Burke says none of the 21 people aboard was seriously injured.

She says the plane contacted the tower at 7:27 p.m. EDT Wednesday to report an emergency due to hydraulic problems.

According to Vision Airlines' website, Flight 304 was scheduled to fly from Atlanta to Louisville.

Burke says the runway remained closed Wednesday night.

Jockey was facing hearing on a cocaine charge

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — Michael Baze hailed from a family of jockeys — his dad, cousins including thoroughbred racing's all-time leading rider, an uncle who won the Kentucky Derby.

On Wednesday, friends and kin were struggling to understand the death of the 24-year-old Baze, found in his car the day before near the stables at Churchill Downs. He was scheduled for a preliminary hearing Thursday after being charged with first-degree possession of cocaine. He was also supposed to ride a horse that day in the eighth race at Churchill Downs.

The coroner's office was awaiting toxicology results; preliminary autopsy results found no anatomical cause of death.

Baze was arrested Nov. 18 in a parking lot near downtown Louisville after he consented to a search of his 2010 Dodge, according to the arrest warrant, which said a detective found a small bag of suspected cocaine in Baze's pants pocket.

2 guilty in oil drilling scam worth $33 million

LEXINGTON, Ky. (AP) — A federal jury found two Kentucky men guilty Wednesday on most charges in an oil- and gas-drilling scam that saw investors lose some $33 million. A third defendant was found not guilty.

The U.S. District Court jury deliberated about seven hours over two days before convicting Lexington attorney Bryan Coffman, 47, and Campbellsville businessman Gary Milby, 57, on multiple charges of mail, wire and securities fraud. Coffman was also convicted of money laundering and money laundering conspiracy.

Coffman's wife, Megan, 48, was found not guilty of all charges against her, all of them money laundering. He was found not guilty of two money laundering counts.

Clean and Chuck Campaign

Every so often around our home, we will have a "clean and chuck campaign." We try to find items that we no longer use or need, and then decide if we should just throw the item out or perhaps donate it to one of the many charitable missions in our area. As with our homes, we should also examine our personal lives to see if there are things about us that we should clean up or chuck out. Is the Lord first in our lives and do we love Him with our whole hearts? Are we faithful to His commandments, and do we love our neighbor as ourselves? Do we treat others with respect, and do we always try to be kind and considerate? Are we hardworking, dependable, and honest, and do we keep our commitments and promises to others? Do others enjoy being around us because we are pleasant and helpful? Improving oneself is something that we should do on a continuing basis, when we discover something that we do not like about ourselves, we should chuck it out.

He who has clean hands and a pure heart...
He will receive blessing from the Lord.

The object is to place the numbers 1 to 9 in the empty squares so that each row, each column and each 3x3 box contains the same number only once. The difficulty level of the Concepts Sudoku increases from Monday to Sunday.

Wife loses sight of her future after husband admits he's gay

DEAR ABBY: I recently learned that my husband of 35 years is gay. I never suspected and I am stunned. I have loved him since we met. I still do. I have never been interested in anyone else. We have three children and eight grandchildren who all adore him. I learned his secret from an email he left on the computer screen. It took a few days, but I confronted him and he told me everything. He has been with men since before our marriage. He assured me he has never done anything that could have caused me to get a disease. I went for an examination and I'm fine.

I'm lost about what my next step should be. I'm in my late 50s. Starting over isn't something I ever considered. I'm seeing a therapist who suggested it might be simpler to consider myself a widow. I have no interest in having sex with my husband again, but being apart from him terrifies me. I feel like I'm in prison. Have you any suggestions? --
HELPLESS IN MIAMI

DEAR HELPLESS: You are not "in prison" and you're not "helpless." You're probably in shock, knowing your husband deceived you from the time you met him. That's understandable. My advice is to do NOTHING until you regain some sense of balance. Finding that email was no accident. Consciously or unconsciously, your husband wanted you to see it. That you no longer want to have sex with him isn't surprising. Some things to consider: Does he still want to have sex with you? How do you feel about having sex with anyone? Is your husband involved with more than one person or just one? And does HE want to stay married?

Some women (and men) remain married to their bisexual spouse. Others marry people they know are gay. I do not agree with your therapist that you should "consider yourself a widow," unless you want to be married to the living dead.

Before making any decision about your future, you should contact the Straight Spouse Network. It's a confidential support network of current or former heterosexual spouses or partners of gay, lesbian, bisexual or transgender mates. It helps straight spouses or partners cope constructively with the coming-out crisis and assists mixed-orientation couples and their children to build bridges of understanding. The phone number is (201) 825-7763 and the website is www.StraightSpouse.org.

DEAR ABBY: I'm a 19-year-old woman. When I was 4, my mom went to prison for eight years. It turned her life around. At 38, she now has a college degree, a loving husband, a good job and a new home.

My two younger sisters say they don't want to be part of Mom's life, but they never fail to call her at holiday and birthday time to pick up the gifts they know she has bought them. They don't contact her or answer her calls and texts until the next holiday. It leaves Mom depressed and feeling used. I have tried telling them they're wrong. They say I'm wrong for getting in their business. Is it wrong to want my mother to be happy? --
DAUGHTER ON THE OUTSIDE

DEAR DAUGHTER: I don't blame your mother for feeling depressed and used. Your two younger sisters are manipulative, selfish and self-centered. However, your mother is enabling them to behave that way. Talk to her.

Conflicting advice over treating tumor

DEAR DR. GOTT: I'm 88 years old and have developed a breast tumor. One doctor wants to do a mastectomy, but another who knows I have carotid-artery disease and is treating me for it advises not to have the surgery but to take Arimidex to try to shrink the tumor.

Dr. Gott

By

I value your answer because I read your articles constantly. I feel confused but am an active person who still drives, cooks, and takes care of myself. I'll wait for a reply in the paper. Thank you.

DEAR READER: I completely understand where each physician is coming from and why you have received two conflicting recommendations. Let's address the issue of your breast tumor first. Because your doctor (I am assuming an oncologist) wants to perform a mastectomy, he has apparently determined that you have a malignant tumor. Unfortunately, you did not indicate what testing was performed in order for your doctor to make the diagnosis. Was it by palpation only, through mammography, ultrasound, or MRI? Was a stereotactic biopsy performed? Is the tumor invasive or noninvasive? Invasive implies the disease has spread to surrounding tissue. Noninvasive implies the disease is confined to the lining of the milk ducts (breast cancer) or the lobules (precancerous). Has he or she been informed you have carotid-artery disease?

My guess is that you are also seeing a cardiologist who feels a more conservative approach in your case might be more beneficial. Because of your age and medical history, he or she has likely determined there are other factors that enter the big picture supporting this approach.

The Arimidex he is suggesting is designed to treat breast cancer as well as slow estrogen levels in postmenopausal women. This, in turn, may slow the growth of specific types of tumors that require estrogen in order to grow.

Patients with a history of heart disease, circulatory problems, severe liver disease, history of stroke or blood clot, and those who have not completely gone through menopause might require testing or dosing adjustments before beginning the medication. You certainly fall into this category, so specific attention to proper dosing must be adhered to.

The best-case scenario is for you to meet with both physicians at the same time, perhaps through a conference call in one office or the other, so both specialists can work together with you to determine whether you are well enough to undergo surgery or whether a trial of the Arimidex is more appropriate. Unfortunately, without knowing all the details and without having access to your complete medical history, I cannot make any recommendations. Good luck.

Dr. Peter H. Gott is a retired physician and the author of several books, including "Live Longer, Live Better," "Dr. Gott's No Flour, No Sugar Diet" and "Dr. Gott's No Flour, No Sugar Cookbook," which are available at most bookstores or online. His website is www.AskDr-GottMD.com.

Today In History

By The Associated Press
Today is Friday, May 13, the 133rd day of 2011. There are 232 days left in the year.

Today's Highlight in History:
On May 13, 1981, Pope John Paul II was shot and seriously wounded in St. Peter's Square by Turkish assassin Mehmet Ali Agca.

On this date:
In 1607, English colonists arrived by ship at the site of what became the Jamestown settlement in Virginia (the colonists went ashore the next day).

In 1917, three shepherd children near Fatima, Portugal, reportedly seeing a vision of the Virgin Mary.

In 1918, the first U.S. airmail stamps, featuring a picture of a Curtiss JN-4 biplane, were issued to the public.

In 1940, Britain's new prime minister, Winston Churchill, told Parliament: "I have nothing to offer but blood, toil, tears and sweat."

In 1958, Vice President Richard Nixon and his wife, Pat, were spat upon and their limousine battered by rocks thrown by anti-

U.S. demonstrators in Caracas, Venezuela.

In 1961, actor Gary Cooper died in Los Angeles six days after turning 60.

Ten years ago: Moderate Basque nationalists won a key election in Spain's semiautonomous Basque region. The center-right won Italy's parliamentary elections, setting the stage for the return to power of media magnate Silvio Berlusconi (behr-loos-KOH-nee). Actor-playwright Jason Miller ("That Championship Season") died in Scranton, Pa., at age 62.

Horoscope

HAPPY BIRTHDAY for Saturday, May 14, 2011:

This year, work on not being overly serious. That attitude has a place perhaps in your professional life, but not with friends and loved ones. You enter a new luck and life cycle this year. If you are single, you might push away suitors with this grim demeanor. If you are attached, add that spark back into your relationship. LIBRA works well with you.

The Stars Show the Kind of Day You'll Have: 5-Dynamic; 4-Positive; 3-Average; 2-So-so; 1-Difficult

ARIES (March 21-April 19)

★★★★ An underlying tone of seriousness flows into whatever you do. You cannot change what is, so make plans carefully. New possibilities surround a relationship later. Worry less about what is happening.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20)

★★ The best ideas could fall apart, as you are tired and dragging. Your sense of humor emerges, allowing greater give-and-take, even in a difficult situation. Make an adjustment for the moment. Understand that you are human.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20)

★★★★ You might want to be playful and fun, but somehow your jokes fall on a humorless audience. Your fun ideas are received as if you were inviting someone to the morgue. Leave this crowd and go join some friends.

CANCER (June 21-July 22)

★★★ You have a better sense of direction and compassion than in the recent past. Your ability to reconnect and regenerate comes through with a family member who might be depressed.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22)

★★★★ Even if you mean to be lighthearted, you come off far more serious than you realize. Keep communication flowing by not commenting so much. It would be best to curl up with a good book.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22)

★★★★ You could be angry with yourself. Instead, relax and accept what is. You can find many ways to get around this problem. Perhaps you are putting too much emphasis on this issue.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22)

★★★★ Be willing to experiment and open up a new avenue or path. What you reject in the first half of your day is acceptable and exciting by late afternoon.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21)

★★★★ If you are in the mood to vanish, you will be better off for the downtime. Perhaps you need to give some time to feeling sorry for yourself or a little sad.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21)

Dreammaker Classic enters sixth year, proceeds from gate, concessions to benefit Murray High student

EARNINGS FROM SATURDAY'S TOURNAMENT WILL BENEFIT DEBRA OF AMERICA, LOCAL STUDENT BATTLING SKIN DISEASE

By RICKY MARTIN
Assistant Sports Editor

When Mike Johnson started the Dreammaker Classic five years ago, he admittedly wasn't sure what to expect.

Johnson remembers coming up with the weekend tournament as a way to raise money for a different charity every year, allowing all gate and concession proceeds to benefit a particular organization, while also getting a home game for his team late in the season at the same time.

In the tournament's first year, Johnson raised just over $1,000 for the Dream Factory in Paducah, and said he remembers thinking how much money that was in such a short amount of time.

"When I started this thing five years ago, I wanted my players to see that there are other ways to use their talents, on and off the field," Johnson said. "The first year it was small, we had four or five teams, but it was useful. At the time I thought the amount of money we raised was very huge."

Now, as the Dreammaker enters its sixth year, Johnson is hoping for bigger and better results than even a year ago, when the Tigers raised $2,200 for ALS, more specifically Brad Barnett, who suffers from Lou Gehrig's disease.

This year, weather permitting, Johnson expects an even greater response from the community, as he and the Tigers have decided that this year's proceeds will go to the DEBRA foundation, the Dystrophic Epidermolysis Bullosa Research Association of America, benefiting a Murray High student who suffers from the skin disease.

Because of privacy issues, the name of the student the Tigers are playing for this weekend cannot be released, but Johnson said the fact that the money is going straight toward a student at Murray High should evoke a strong response from the community.

"It's an opportunity for us to give back," Johnson said. "But it's an opportunity for us to especially give back to someone in our school. We can really see this money being beneficial."

On Saturday, the Tigers will welcome ten other clubs into Murray, where there will be seven games over the course of the day, split between the Tigers' Ty Holland Field and Murray State's Reagan Field.

In the early game on Saturday, Hickman County and Dawson Springs will kick off the tournament at 10 a.m. at Ty Holland. Following the conclusion of the opening game, at 12:15 Union County and Ballard Memorial will square off in a matchup between two of the top three teams in their respective regions.

At 2 p.m., games will get underway at Reagan Field, with Webster County taking on

Missing chances

RICKY MARTIN / Ledger & Times

Calloway County second baseman Erin Burton slides into home to give the Lady Lakers an early 2-0 lead Thursday night against Marshall County. The Lady Lakers ended up falling 8-5, neglecting to win the regular-season Fourth District title.

WITH LOSS, LADY LAKERS WILL PLAY MURRAY HIGH IN FIRST ROUND OF DISTRICT TOURNAMENT

By RICKY MARTIN
Assistant Sports Editor

How Troy Webb and his Lady Lakers would approach the remaining two weeks of their regular season schedule balanced heavily on a pivotal district game with Marshall County last night.

With a win, the Lady Lakers would punch their ticket to the First Region tournament by claiming the No. 1 seed for the district tournament.

With a loss, the Lady Lakers would fall to the No. 2 seed, setting up a first round district game with Murray High to determine who advances to regionals while putting Marshall County in the driver's seat for a chance at a regional title.

With the regular-season on the line to the winner, the Lady Lakers couldn't get out of their own way Thursday night, committing nine errors in an 8-5 loss to the Lady Marshals, who claim the Fourth District title.

Webb said with the loss, the next two weeks are crucial for his ball club.

KHSAA 2ND DISTRICT STANDINGS
School	Dist. (Overall)
Marshall County	4-0 (21-6)
Calloway County	2-2 (13-9-1)
Murray	0-4 (12-15)

"If we win this game, I can't say we could relax, but we could have worked on some things," Webb said. "Maybe we could have got some kids in some different spots and worked some things around, but now we have to get locked back in and ready."

"Starting tomorrow, we are going to have to play everything like it's win or go home, because a week from next Monday, it is."

Thursday night, the Lady Lakers looked strong out of the gate.

Senior Lindsay Rucker saw only four hitters in the top of the first inning, then watched as the Lady Laker bats got

Local baseball teams struggle offensively in road losses

Staff Report

Calloway County's five-run third inning wasn't enough Thursday night, as the Lakers fell to Lone Oak 15-5 on the road.

Lone Oak scored two in the first inning and then another in the second, before the Lakers bats ignited for a five-spot in the top of the third to give Calloway a 5-3 lead on the defending

First Region champions.

In the bottom of the fourth, Lone Oak went off, scoring seven in the frame.

The Purple Flash would add five more on the night.

Andy Fraher picked up the loss for Calloway, who was led offensively by junior Clint Craig who had a 2-for-3 day.

Graves Co. 15, Murray High 1

The Murray High offense struggled mightily Thursday night at Graves County, as the Eagles exploded for 15 runs on 13 hits, while the Tigers mustered only six hits, while scoring only one in the 15-1 loss on the road.

Murray's Austin Adams gave up six hits and seven runs in his three innings of work, as Graves County gave the Murray High rotation all they could handle Thursday night.

Freshman Carver Lawson led Murray High offensively on a 2-for-2 day, driving in the only run of the night.

On the opposite side, Graves County had little trouble hitting the ball, with Adam Riley leading the way on his 4-for-4 day, which saw him drive in three runs on the night.

Racers notch program-first tournament victory

AFTERNOON LOSS PUTS MSU ON BRINK OF ELIMINATION TODAY

By TOMMY DILLARD
Sports Editor

Murray State's fledgling softball program notched another first on Thursday, and perhaps its biggest yet.

With a dramatic 3-2 win over three-seed Tennessee-Martin in the first game of the Ohio Valley Conference Tournament in Charleston, Ill., the sixth-seeded Racers snatched their first postseason victory.

The momentum didn't carry over to the afternoon, however, as Murray State's bats fell silent in a 6-1 loss to Jacksonville State.

The Racers will put their season on the line in the double elimination tournament today, facing the winner of this morning's game between the Skyhawks and Southern Illinois-Edwardsville at 12:30 p.m.

"All year, when our backs have been against the wall, we've played our best," head coach Jay Pyron said via cell phone Thursday evening. "Now our backs are against the wall, so hopefully the team can respond one more time."

In Thursday's first game, it was none other than senior duo Jenna Bradley and Lauren Buch, the team's top two hitters, who delivered what became the game-winning runs in the fifth inning.

With the Racers trailing 2-1, Bradley drove a one-out single through the right side, setting the scene for Buch to smash a two-run home run to right center, giving Murray State a lead it wouldn't lose.

The homer was the 16th of the season for Buch, who has the OVC's best batting average (.422) and slugging percentage (.870).

Bradley was named the league's Player of the Year Wednesday night.

"It's nice to see (Buch and Bradley) do that at the tournament here," Pyron said. "I had really been hoping that they would be able to stay within themselves and try not to do too much. You always worry about that with your best players when they start getting awards and recognition and interviews, just want them to keep doing the things that got them where they are."

The Racers also got a stellar pitching performance from sophomore Shelby Kosmecki, who turned in one of her best outings of the season. The Somerset native shut out the Skyhawks over the rolling. Lead-off hitter Karlee Wilson scored the game's first run in the bottom of the first after singling to right field to open the inning. After reaching second on a Kristin Boggess single, Wilson's attempt to steal third was wellcomed with a poor throw from Marshall catcher Taylor Meadows, allowing Wilson to score.

After that play, however, most of the errors would go against the Lady Lakers rather than in their favor.

With the bases loaded, the Lady Lakers couldn't push across any more runs in the first, however, leaving three of their 13 runners left on base in the first.

Calloway added to its lead in the bottom of the second, with second baseman Erin Burton providing the second run of the night on a sacrifice fly from Wilson after tripling in her first time up.

With the 2-0 lead, however, the defense behind Rucker began to collapse.

Marshall scored three in the top of the third, mostly off of costly mistakes on the part of the Lady Lakers.

Calloway tied the game back up at 3-3 in the bottom of the third, after Brittany Reynolds battled back from an 0-2 count to single to right field, driving in third baseman Lauren Benson. After that, however, the Calloway bats would fall silent for the most part with runners in scoring position.

Neither team created much offensively in the fourth, but in the fifth, Marshall reclaimed the lead, going up 4-3 after a Buzz Ray run after her lead-off double.

Ray's run came at the expense of one of Calloway's nine errors.

The Lady Lakers went three-up, three-down in the bottom of the fifth, neglecting to get anything going against Marshall's Toni Ferhenbacher, who got the start in place of Marshall ace Stephanie Helton, who is battling strep throat.

Webb said not being able to muster anything against Marshall's No. 2 pitcher was frustrating Thursday night.

"The had their No. 2 starter going, and we couldn't take advantage of it," Webb said.

In the top of the sixth, Marshall padded its lead, with back-to-back triples from Meadows and Ray eventually giving Marshall an 8-3 lead.

Calloway would rally, but would still come up short.

The Lady Lakers added one more in the bottom of the sixth, then another in the bottom of the seventh to cut the lead to 8-5. With two on and two outs, however, Boggess just missed what would have been a game-tying home run for the final out.

"I'm proud of the way the kids battled back," Webb said. "We were down 8-3, and had an opportunity there. If Kristin hits that ball anywhere other than dead centerfield, it's a home run and the game is tied. But I'm proud of the kids for not giving up. They didn't quit, we just dug ourselves too big a hole."

"We will be fine though. We are good at bouncing back, and hopefully we will."

Hickman.

At 2:30 p.m., Union County will return to action at Ty Holland Field as they take on First Region All 'A' champion Reidland. Following that game, Murray High will play its only game of the tournament against St. Mary at 4:45.

At 5 p.m., Webster County will take on Graves County at Reagan Field, before the tournament concludes back at Ty Holland Field with Heath taking on Caldwell County at 7 p.m.

Even with a full slate of action scheduled, Johnson said that Saturday is about much more than baseball.

"Baseball is a talent that these guys have been given," Johnson said. "Now they have the opportunity to use that for the good of the community by raising money."

"They work the concession stands and the gate, and they understand how important giving back is in whatever they do throughout their life. They know that the Dreammaker is a part of Tiger baseball, and it's something that they look forward to, because it sets them apart."

Dreammaker sponsors Primary Care and the Diamond Club help cover the umpire costs so that all money raised during the one-day event can go straight to benefitting DEBRA.

Johnson said one of the biggest keys to the success of the tournament over the years, has been the consistency of it, and the fact that several local teams want to play in it each and every year.

"Caldwell, Graves and Ballard have played in this thing every year," he said. "All five years they have come back, and it's awesome to see these guys come back and help out, because they could choose to go somewhere else, but they don't."

"They choose to come this weekend and play and help out and play for the charities, and I really appreciate that."

Donations for the Dreammaker can also be made by mail to Murray High School, care of the Dreammaker Classic.

final three innings and struck out seven batters while scattering six hits in the complete-game victory.

With the win, Kosmecki improved her record to 12-6 and drove her 4.20 ERA lower.

"That was a big moment for her, just competing with a team like Martin and finding a way to grit it out in a competitive game like that," Pyron said. "She was as sharp as I think she's been all year. She got ahead of batters, she didn't miss very much, and she kept control of the game even in moments when pressure got high or we got in a tight spot."

Murray State scored first in the first inning when Bradley singled to left center, driving in lead-off hitter Taylor Wilson. UT Martin tied the game with a run in the second inning and took the lead with another in the fourth.

Bradley finished the game 2-for-3 with a run scored and an RBI.

The Racers waited close to three hours before returning to the field to face two-seed Jacksonville State, a team from which they took two out of three games in their final regular-season series this past weekend in Alabama.

Just as they did in the first game of that series, however, Murray State ran into a wall in the form of Gamecock pitcher Tiffany Harbin.

On Thursday, Harbin held the Racers to just four hits and struck out 10 batters to earn her 23rd win of the season. A freshman, she ranks fifth among OVC pitchers with an ERA of 2.59.

"She pitched well against us during the regular season, but she took it to another level," Pyron said. "We had opportunities to score with runners on, and she just made the pitches she needed to make."

Murray State pitcher Chelsey Sullivan left the game in the fifth inning after allowing Jacksonville State to build a 6-0 lead. Pyron said his pitcher was battling pain in her hip and forearm and said he didn't know whether she would throw today.

The Racers' only run of the game came in the top of the sixth when Buch doubled to drive in Bradley.

Today's game will be an elimination game for both Murray State and its opponent. Tennessee-Martin and Southern Illinois-Edwardsville, both losers on Thursday, square off at 10 a.m. with the winner facing the Racers immediately afterward.
