Sen. Winters trying to help find safety compromise

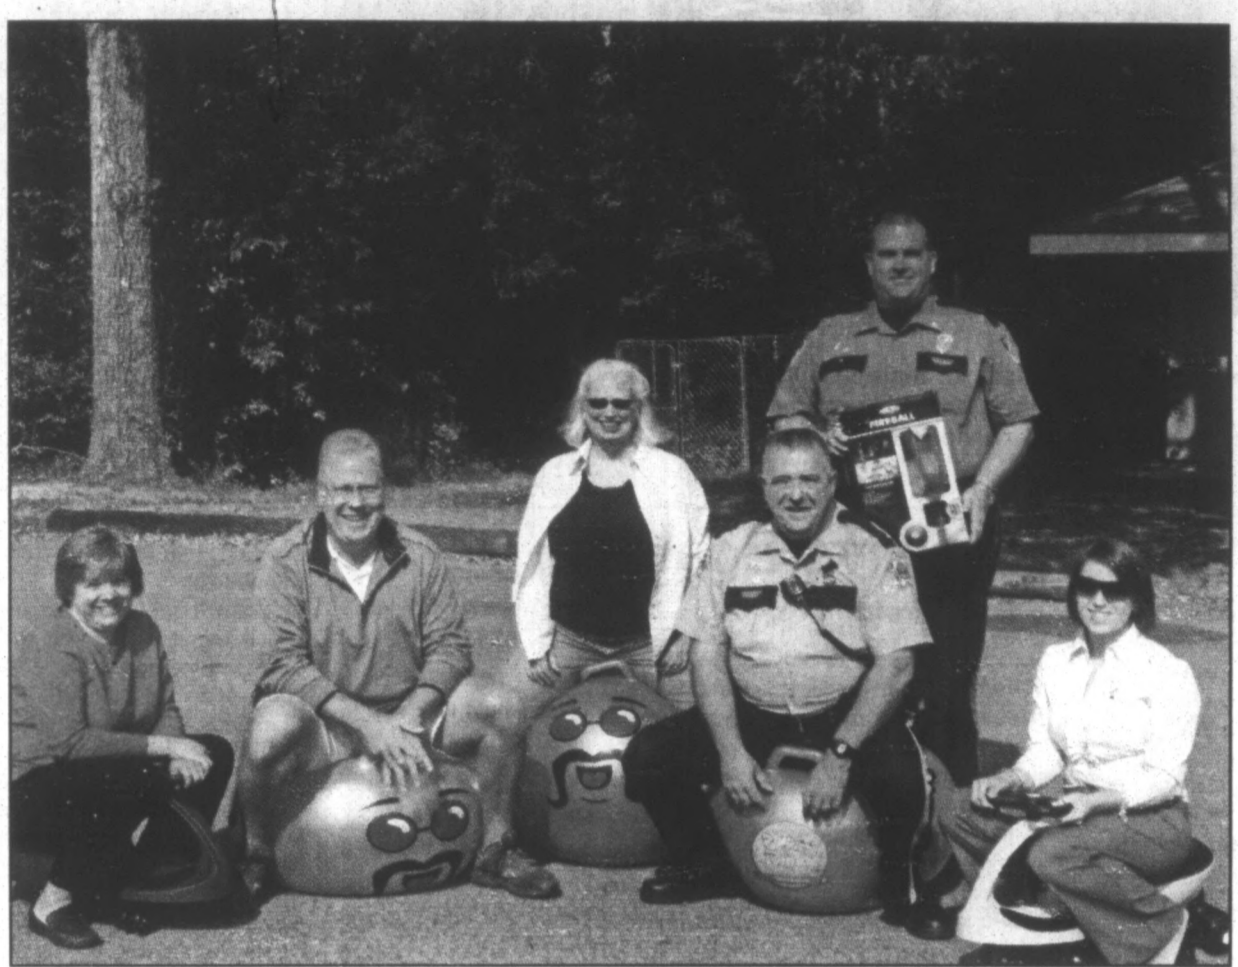

By TOM BERRY
Staff Writer
First District Sen. Ken Winters is hoping to help in a Graves County dispute over requiring Amish residents to display a florescent triangle on buggies contrary to their religious beliefs.
Winters, R-Murray, says he has asked his staff to review how laws in other states deal with highway safety concerning buggies. Kentucky law requires display of driver-alert signage such as a yellow-orange triangle with a reflective border that is dark red.

Winters

Several Amish residents of Graves County have been ordered to jail for refusal to post the signage because they consider the colors a violation of religious beliefs, according to an Associate Press report this week.
Winters says he wants to find out how and to what extent laws in other states could help in the situation.

Rep. Tilley speaks on Ky. constitution, new penal laws

By HAWKINS TEAGUE
Staff Writer
Rep. John Tilley spoke to Murray State University students and faculty Monday night about Kentucky's constitution and the crime bill he recently sponsored.
Tilley, a Hopkinsville Democrat who was elected to his first Kentucky House term in 2006, appeared in MSU's Curris Center Theater to speak in commemoration of Constitution Day, which was officially on Friday. He spoke about House Bill 463, which he co-sponsored and helped passed earlier this year with overwhelming support from both parties. He characterized the law - which reduced jail time for low-risk, non-violent drug offenders possessing small amounts of illegal drugs - as a smart way to reduce the rapid growth of Kentucky's prison population and escalating costs associated with incarceration.

Tilley said there were some law enforcement officers who were not happy that the law takes away some of their arresting powers, but that he had been defending the law to various law enforcement groups around the state. He said something had to be done to stop the growth of Kentucky's prison population because the state has led the nation in incarcerations in recent years.
Tilley said that although Kentucky had enjoyed a fairly flat crime rate since 1974, its prison population has

Obama announces debt plan built on taxes on rich

By JIM KUHNHENN
Associated Press
WASHINGTON (AP) — In a blunt rejoinder to congressional Republicans, President Barack Obama called for $1.5 trillion in new taxes Monday, part of a total 10-year deficit reduction package totaling more than $3 trillion. He vowed to veto any deficit reduction package that cuts benefits to Medicare recipients but does not raise taxes on the wealthy and big corporations.
"We can't just cut our way out of this hole," the president said.
The president's proposal would predominantly hit upper income taxpayers but would also reduce spending in mandatory benefit programs, including Medicare and Medicaid, by $580 billion. It also counts savings of $1 trillion over 10 years from the withdrawal of troops from Iraq and Afghanistan.

The deficit reduction plan represents an economic book-end to the $447 billion in tax cuts and new public works spending that Obama has proposed as a short-term measure to stimulate the economy and create jobs. And it gives the president a voice in a process that will be dominated by a joint congressional committee charged with recommending deficit reductions of up to $1.5 trillion.
His plan served as a sharp counterpoint to Republican lawmakers, who have insisted

'Serenity Garden' proposed for park

By TOM BERRY
Staff Writer
A "Serenity Garden" that could include a gazebo, lots of native plants, hummingbird and butterfly feeders and other amenities has been proposed for Chestnut Park.
The proposal, introduced by Pat Harrington and Clayton Hendricks on behalf of Continuing Education Advisory Committee efforts to meet requirements under Playful City USA and Community of Promise recommendations, was presented to members of the Murray-Calloway County Park board of directors Monday night.
Harrington and Hendricks said placement of a garden in the northwest corner of the section of the park fronting the park office on Payne Street would be a place where residents could conveniently relieve the stress of the day in the beauty of a natural garden.
"We have big dreams for this," Harrington said.
Harrington said the primary request to the parks board is extended excavation of an existing drainage ditch in the area that would help to alleviate any possible flooding problems and permission to begin a long-term phased approach to making the garden a reality. Volunteer labor and dona-increased 45 percent since 2000, while growth was only 13 percent nationwide. At the same time, the U.S. led the world in the number of people it put in prison. While the U.S. boasts only 5 percent of the world's population, it houses 24 percent of the world's prisoners, he said. Tilley said it usually didn't pay for elected officials to appear soft on crime, but he was proud that the bill had passed both chambers with a great deal of bipartisan support. It passed 96-1 in the House and 38-0 in the Senate, which he said was because it addressed crime in a common-sense nonpartisan way. "The bill maintains public safety by saying that we're going to concentrate on the most serious offenders," Tilley said. "It's not a Democrat or Republican issue, either. Newt Gingrich has led a group called 'Right on Crime.' (Former U.S. Attorney General) Ed Meese, all kinds of conservatives you would know, Grover Norquist. They all believe in several principles. That we can't build our way to public safety. We have to rethink the way we do prisons and criminal justice. We have to get smart. "And then you have a guy like (Virginia Sen.) Jim Webb, more liberal, who said we have to concentrate on serious offenders and reserve our resources on those who are a threat to public safety and find alternatives to those folks who don't pose a threat to society. One judge famously said, 'We have to distinguish who we're mad at and who we're afraid of.' Doesn't that make sense? I mean, no taxpayer should be particularly happy about paying $3,000 a year to treat somebody for their drug addiction, but is that not a better alternative to paying 22 grand to incarcerate him for that same addiction or possession? And then watch him come back to prison?"

Fort Boonesborough re-enactment recalls siege

RICHMOND, Ky. (AP) — Fort Boonesborough State Park is hosting its annual "1778 Siege of Boonesborough" weekend beginning Sept. 24. The weekend includes battle reenactments on Saturday and Sunday and a special night battle on Saturday at dusk.

tions are sought to prevent any further cost to the board. Parks Board Chairman Jason Lovett recommended tabling the proposal until Oct. 17, the board's next regularly-scheduled meeting to allow public input concerning the move. Parks Director Tab Brockman said this month's United States Tennis Association Kentucky Mixed Doubles Championships was a "resounding success" that gave the city an estimated $300,000 "shot in the (economic) arm." "We had 400 players and about 1,000 guests," Brockman said. "I don't think you could find an empty hotel room in Murray...we exposed a lot of folks from throughout the state to Murray, Ky." Brockman said USTA officials have recommended that the city also place a bid for a senior division tournament coming up in May and another mixed doubles championship next September. In other business, the board, heard a report from Brockman that Intramural Softball games are continuing involving 600 students playing on 40 teams. Playoffs are expected to begin in early October. Brockman said renovation of the park's bathroom facilities will take place this winter and be ready for opening programs in the spring. Nov. 19 has been set aside for another disc golf tournament at the facility located in Murray-Calloway County Central Park. Approximately 40 to 50 players could take part in the event. In other action, the board: • Acknowledged the purchase of two Tazers that will be issued to park rangers. Before the equipment is put into use, the rangers will be specially trained with cooperation with a Paducah Police Department expert. • Heard board member Steve Wilhelm announce that soccer season is underway with 442 players taking to the fields at Bee Creek. Wilhelm said three more teams are possible. A fundraising event is scheduled for Oct. 15. • Announced that new "Yield" signs have been purchased and will be placed on park driveways soon to improve public safety at central park. • Announced that Trail of Treats 2011 will take place at Central Park, not at Chestnut Park. The event is scheduled for Monday, Oct. 31, Halloween night from 5-7 p.m. This year's event may include new events such as "scary" plays and possibly equipment for two hayride vehicles.

injuries on KY 1241 at Old Plant Road in Graves County. Patterson said upon arrival, KPS troopers determined that there were two occupants in the vehicle - one deceased, and one with life-threatening injuries. The Mayfield Fire Department and EMS were called to the scene with the jaws-of-life to free the injured occupant. According to the KPS report, injured in the accident was Roger Henson, 25, of Hardin. He was transported to Lourdes Hospital by the Mayfield-Graves County EMS. KSP identified the deceased as Heather Henson, 24, also of Hardin. Patterson said the initial investigation determined that Mr. Henson was driving a Pontiac Sunfire south on KY 1241 on Friday, Sept. 16, sometime around 11 a.m. For unknown reasons the car crossed the northbound lane and continue into a guard rail set up leading to a bridge on KY 1241 at Old Plant Road, the trooper reported. The vehicle crossed the guard rail and rolled onto its roof, and continued sliding on its roof before going air born and landing in the creek on its roof. The vehicle came to a final rest out of sight of traffic from both KY 1241 and Old Plant Road, he said. According to Patterson's report, the collision went unseen and unreported for more than two days before Kentucky State Police were notified. KPS officials were assisted on the scene by Mayfield Fire Department, Mayfield-Graves County EMS and the Graves County Coroner's Office.

Obama, debt plan...

From Front

that tax increases should play no part in taming the nation's escalating national debt. Obama's plan would end Bush-era tax cuts for top earners and would limit their deductions. "It's only right we ask everyone to pay their fair share," Obama said from the Rose Garden at the White House. In issuing his threat to veto any Medicare benefits that aren't paired with tax increases on upper-income people, Obama said: "I will not support any plan that puts all the burden for closing our deficit on ordinary Americans." Responding to a complaint from Republicans about his proposed tax on the wealthy, Obama added: "This is not class warfare. It's math."

in cuts already approved by Congress and signed by the president, overall deficit reduction would total more than $4 trillion, a number many economists cite as a minimum threshold to bring the nation's debt under control. Key features of Obama's plan: —$1.5 trillion in new revenue, which would include about $800 billion realized over 10 years from repealing the Bush-era tax rates for couples making more than $250,000. It also would place limits on deductions for wealthy filers and end certain corporate loopholes and subsidies for oil and gas companies. —$580 billion in cuts in mandatory benefit programs, including $248 billion in Medicare and $72 billion in Medicaid and other health programs. Other mandatory benefit programs include farm subsidies and federal employee benefits. Administration officials said 90 percent of the $248 billion in 10-year Medicare cuts would be squeezed from service providers. The plan does shift some additional costs to beneficiaries, but those changes would not start until 2017. —$430 billion in savings from lower interest payment on the national debt. —$1 trillion in savings from drawing down military forces from Iraq and Afghanistan.

The Republican reaction was swift and derisive. "Veto threats, a massive tax hike, phantom savings, and punting on entitlement reform is not a recipe for economic or job growth or even meaningful deficit reduction," Senate Republican leader Mitch McConnell said in a statement issued minutes after the president's announcement. "The good news is that the Joint Committee is taking this issue far more seriously than the White House." Obama's proposal comes amid Democratic demands that Obama take a tougher stance against Republicans. And while the plan stands little chance of passing Congress, its populist pitch is one that the White House believes the public can support.

Republicans have ridiculed the war savings as gimmicky, but House Republicans included them in their budget proposal this year and Boehner had agreed to count them as savings during debt ceiling negotiations with the president this summer. Illustrating Obama's populist pitch on tax revenue, he suggested that Congress establish a minimum tax on taxpayers making $1 million or more in income. The measure — the White House calls it the "Buffett Rule" for billionaire investor Warren Buffett — is designed to prevent millionaires from taking advantage of lower tax rates on investment earnings than what middle-income taxpayers pay on their wages.

The core of the president's plan totals just over $2 trillion in deficit reduction over 10 years. It would let Bush-era tax cuts for upper income earners expire, limit deductions for wealthier filers and close loopholes and end some corporate tax breaks. It also would cut $580 billion from mandatory programs, including $248 billion from Medicare. It also targets subsidies to farmers and benefits programs for federal employees. Officials cast Obama's plan as his vision for deficit reduction, and distinguished it from the negotiations he had with House Speaker John Boehner in July as Obama sought to avoid a government default.

That minimum rate, however, is not included in the White House revenue projections. Officials said it was a suggestion for Congress if it were to undertake an overhaul of the tax code. At issue is the difference between a taxpayer's tax bracket and the effective tax rate that taxpayer pays. Millionaires face a 35 percent tax bracket, while middle income filers fall in the 15 or 25 percent bracket. But investment income is taxed at 15 percent and Buffett has complained that he and other wealthy people have been "codded long enough" and shouldn't be paying a smaller share of their income in federal taxes than middle-class taxpayers.

As a result, Obama's proposal includes no changes in Social Security and no increase in the Medicare eligibility age, which the president had been willing to accept this summer. Administration officials also said that Obama's $1.5 trillion in new taxes is a goal that Congress could achieve through a broad overhaul of the tax code. They said the president's specific proposals represent one way to get to that goal under the existing tax code. Coupled with about $1 trillion would be reluctant to be out after dark but, the reflective tape probably would be a better alternative. It is going to reflect headlights. We're going to be taking a look at it to see if there is anything we could do." Winters said any kind of signage would be in addition to customary caution regarding other vehicles that should be practiced while driving the state's highways. "The more I read about it, I find that research would say that about 85 percent of drivers will have noticed a buggy in front of them long before they will ever notice that there is a safety triangle on the back of it," Winters said.

"I haven't looked at it yet, but I'm fairly confident they would have something," Winters said. "I know several states have done some things that would accommodate the dilemma we have there." He said Amish residents have provided a photo sample to him of reflective tape that could be placed on buggies that would alert drivers to a slow-moving vehicle ahead that would not be objectionable. "They show the kind of reflective tape they are using all around the exterior of the vehicle," Winters said. "After dark, and I

Claywell selected August MHS Rotary Student of the Month

Special to the Ledger

Catherine Claywell, Murray High School senior, was named the August Rotary Student of the Month by MHS faculty.

Claywell

The MHS Volleyball Team captain, Claywell is the reigning 2011 KHSAA Class A State Track Meet High Jump Champion. Since 2007, Claywell has claimed this title consecutively in 2008, 2009, and 2010.

Currently pursuing a Commonwealth Honors Diploma with honors classes and enrolled in six advanced placement classes, Claywell said her experience at MHS has been very rewarding in academics as well as athletics.

"It has given me the opportunity to take advanced courses and to excel in them because of the attention that each employee gives to their students," she said. "Faculty at Murray really enjoy teaching and supporting the students in class, on the sports field, or elsewhere."

An all-A's Honor roll, National Honor Society, Beta Club and French Club member, Claywell attended the United States Military Academy

A fast paced, one-week program of academic classes, military training, physical fitness training and intramural athletics are conducted each June. West Point cadets serve as squad leaders for all aspects of the seminar that is attended by approximately 1,000 high school juniors who are chosen to attend from an applicant pool of approximately 3-4,000 students.

A 2011 Leadership Tomorrow alumnus, Claywell serves as an MHS Student mentor and a member of the MHS Student Council. A 2010 University of Kentucky MHS Class of Kentucky representative, Claywell is also a past Character Counts Responsibility recipient.

An 2009 and 2010 All Regional and All District Team Volleyball team member, Claywell was recognized with the 2010 Offensive Volleyball Player Award, with 255 kills, 48 blocks, 166 digs and 46 aces.

CHAPTER TWO

"Close your eyes," I told Mom and Dad before pulling the sheet off of our purchase. "I want to surprise you."

"I'm positive I'll be surprised," Dad smiled and said before he and Mom shut their peepers.

Once we were sure they weren't peeking, Chloe and I pulled off the sheet. In a loud voice I said, "Tah-dah! It's a complete drum set!"

Knowing Mom and Dad didn't know as much about music as I did, I took my time and explained each part of the drum kit, just as Mr. Martin had done for us.

"This is the bass drum," I said as I pointed to the biggest drum sitting at the base of the drum set. "Here's the snare drum," I said as I showed them one of the most important drums in the set. "These are the hanging toms and floor toms, the high-hat and cymbal." Chloe hit the cymbal so everyone could hear. After our ears stopped ringing, we unveiled the best part of all - the gong! Mom and Dad must have been excited because their eyes were as big as saucers! Chloe and I picked up the mallet and struck the large instrument as hard as we could. It was big and we were little, so we worked together. We struck the gong and were amazed at how loud - and long - it rang.

"Wow, Chloe!" I yelled, trying to talk over the ringing. "All the dogs in the neighborhood must love this music too. Listen to everyone howl!" We could hear Barney the basset hound, Scruffy the schnauzer, and Pugsy the pug. "It's as if we have our own choir and orchestra!"

"And you know the best part?" I asked Dad. "Mr. Martin said the set was vintage! What are the chances of us finding vintage drums?"

"Son, do you even know what vintage means?" Not knowing, I looked to Chloe for help but she just stared at me with her beautiful brown eyes.

"I don't, but it must be a good thing. When Mr. Martin said the word, everyone seemed impressed. In fact, Mr. Martin said the drums were from the Civil War!"

"No he didn't, Woody," Chloe corrected me. "Mr. Martin said the drums would cause a civil war."

"I don't want to be rude, but you're incorrect, Chloe. Mr. Martin said the drums were from the Civil War! That's probably what vintage means - straight from the Civil War. Anyway, why would a drum set cause a civil war? Wasn't the Civil War about two different countries fighting over land or something? I don't see how our drum set could cause two countries to fight. I'm glad we were able to purchase the drum set before anyone else got their paws on it! Since I already know how to play the harmonica, and since you have the sweetest and most beautiful voice, the drum set will help jump-start our career in the music hendustry."

"It's music industry, son. And Mr. Martin was correct; a civil war could be in the future. Woody, I love that you enjoy music and I'm thrilled you want to learn to play the drums, but you should have given this purchase some thought. Our house is small. Where do you plan to keep the drums?"

"In the middle of the living room," I answered. "You and Mom are always saying Chloe and I watch too much TV.

Maybe we could get rid of the TV so we could put the gong there." Though my parents didn't say, I got the feeling they weren't thrilled with that idea.

"Another thing, son," Mom chimed in, "how will you pay for lessons? Are you willing to schedule more school visits to pay for drum lessons?"

"Absolutely," I answered. "I'd do anything for my vintage drum set. Besides, I'm getting the hang of these drums so fast that I bet I'll only need a few lessons. Listen!" I told my parents before picking up my sticks and playing a long drum roll just like I had seen the drummers do on TV. Once I finished hitting all the drums and the cymbal, I threw my sticks up in the air and was ready to catch them. Unfortunately, I must have thrown the sticks too hard. All of a sudden, I heard the loudest clanging, and it wasn't my drum set. I wasn't sure about a civil war being in my future, but I was sure the doghouse was!

back of your own horse. Enjoy a guided ride across stony creeks, through wooded ravines and along rocky bluffs. The trail ride will be conducted by Gerald and Janie Igleheart, who have ridden in the region for many years. The ride will last approximately three hours and is recommended for riders of all ages and experience levels. Bring your own water and snacks. Primitive camping is available on the adjacent Pennyriple State Forest, and showers are offered at the state park campground. Participants must supply their own horse. All ages are welcome. Horoscope by Jacqueline Bigar

HAPPY BIRTHDAY for Wednesday, Sept. 21, 2011:
 This year, you experience more diversity within your circle of friends. As a result, you come into contact with more ideas and work opportunities. You might find yourself in the middle of a power play more than once. Though you might not think you have a control issue, this situation emerges because, on some level, you have a conflict to work through. Realize what is going on and accept the challenge of processing it. If you are single, you will meet someone through a friend, or a friendship could evolve into much more. If you are attached, your compassion means more to your sweetie than you realize. More often than not, CANCER has your best interests in mind.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22)
 ★★ Avoid someone who walks hand in hand with power plays, if possible. Good fortune comes through a partner who makes it his or her pleasure to work with you. Fatigue weaves its tendrils through your dealings. Take a midday walk to recharge. Tap into your imagination as you establish your leadership. Tonight: Know that you are cared about. Look at a loved one's manipulation!
SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21)
 ★★ Reach out for someone at a distance. You could feel like you need another perspective or a fresh attitude. You might not like what you hear, but you cannot control what someone else says. Tonight: Find your friends.
SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21)
 ★★ A partner or associate wants you to notice him or her and go along with his or her thinking. Know that this is the time to be diplomatic, unless you want a War of the Roses. Clear out rather than play the game. Tonight: Share your feelings with a close friend.
CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19)
 ★★ You could be more difficult than you realize. You might hit a brick wall, but you are not likely to share it. If others become reactive, know that you are part of the problem. You are empowered to change the situation. Tonight: Choose to be with a favorite person.
AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18)
 ★★ Stay even and mellow when dealing with a situation in your daily life. Your inner dialogue might not be as peaceful, with you wanting to end a talk and do what you want. Resist the child within! Tonight: Working late.
PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20)
 ★★ Someone might be pushing you very hard. You have the right answers and solutions - trust yourself. Even if you are being diplomatic, know that you don't have to lose your power. Share ideas with pride; give others the respect they deserve for their ideas! Tonight: Romp the night away again.

ARIES (March 21-April 19)

Whiny sister should take her ailments to a doctor

DEAR ABBY: My sister "Dena" has a lot of health issues. She weighs more than 300 pounds, has bad knees, ankles and legs, liver trouble and bad nerves.

Sure, everyone has bad days, but Dena complains to anyone who will listen -- friends, family, everybody. She never asks how anyone else is doing.

Most times, she doesn't go and keeps complaining. I don't want to hurt her feelings, but this has taken a toll on me.

I don't want to hurt her feelings, but this has taken a toll on me. Abby, I have my own aches and pains to manage.

DEAR REACHED YOUR LIMIT: The next time she raises the subject, tell her the person who should be hearing her symptoms is her doctor because there's nothing you can do about them.

DEAR ABBY: We have close friends who are like family. They have one child -- a son, "Justin," who is in the Boy Scouts.

MURRAY STATE FOOTBALL

Honors roll in after record setting win

QB BROCKMAN NAMED NATIONAL PLAYER OF THE WEEK BY TSN

Staff Report

Just days after Casey Brockman and the Murray State Racer offense re-wrote the record books, for the second time, accolades continued to roll in on Monday in response to the 58-27 victory Murray State claimed over Tennessee State Saturday evening at Roy Stewart Stadium.

For the first time since the end of the 2002 season, Murray State cracked the national rankings on Monday morning, as the Racers became the No. 24 ranked team in the nation in this weeks The Sports Network/Fathead.com FCS Top 25 poll.

The Racers (2-1) have received votes in the poll all season long, but finally cracked the top-25 after their throttling of the visiting Tigers on Saturday night in front of 10,031 fans.

The last time the Racers appeared in the national polls was at the conclusion of the 2002 season, right after Murray State won the OVC Championship.

Murray State also sits at No. 27 in the FCS' coaches poll as well. After compiling an astonishing 600 yards and seven touchdowns on Saturday night, while also catching another, Brockman is continuing to receive national recognition as well.

Just a day after being named OVC Offensive Player of the Week, Brockman received more national attention, as the junior was named FCS Co-Offensive Player of the Week by The Sports Network. For his efforts, Brockman was also named a National All-Star by College Sporting News.

Brockman's throw for an FCS-record 422 yards in the first half Saturday, and had already thrown five touchdown passes to five different receivers in by the start of the third quarter.

Brockman completed 46 of his 67 pass attempts (both records) and finished just 24 yards short of the all-time record of 624 yards, set by former Weber State quarterback Jamie Martin.

Brockman chipped in 10 yards rushing on the night, and also reeled in a 15-yard touchdown pass on a trick play late in the second quarter.

With that included, Brockman amassed a total of 625 yards of total offense against a rather large Tennessee State defense.

Murray rallies but falls just short

Photos by GREG WADDELL / Ledger & Times

Despite an impressive effort from Shelby Crouch, the Murray High Lady Tigers couldn't muster up enough to pull out a win over district rival Marshall County, falling in two sets last night.

SHELBY CROUCH LEADS TIGERS ON 16-0 STRETCH IN 2ND SET

By GREG WADDELL
Assistant Sports Editor

Monday night started out well enough for Murray head coach Clare Boggess and her Lady Tigers. Traveling to district rival Marshall County, the team was looking for a little retribution after the Lady Marshals' two set win in Tiger gym on September 1 but walked away with more question marks, falling 2-1.

Overall though, Boggess said the game just came down to not taking care of the ball.

"When they sent it over we would either have not a great pass or a great pass and not a great set," she said. "We got too much into tipping and not putting the ball into the place where it needed to go."

Still, the game looked promising in the beginning.

After falling behind in the first set to Marshall County, the Murray High Lady Tigers went on a tear in the second behind Shelby Crouch, who reeled off 16 straight serves, to cruise 25-11.

After the Lady Marshals took the first point, it was all Murray as Crouch's powerful serves carried the team to a 16-1 advantage. Despite Marshall County's attempt to salvage the set after rallying to 20-8, the Lady Tigers put their foot on the gas to finish the set on a run.

The third set would cause them problems though as the Lady Tigers struggle to close out games came back to haunt them again last night as they fell down 19-11 at one point. After fighting back to within four at 17-21, the Lady Marshals finished the game with a 4-2 run to push the game out of reach.

Still, Boggess said she was proud that her girls kept their heads up and kept fighting.

"They played wonderfully," she said. "They hit spots that we weren't at and we hit spots that they weren't at. We did not give up. I'm proud of them for not folding (when we were down). They didn't fold. We just have to keep getting after it. We're not firing on all cylinders. We have one or two that are misfiring I guess. They didn't give up in the first set, the second set was awesome, and we didn't give up in the third set. We just couldn't take care of the ball when we needed to take care of the ball."

But as they move forward, preparing for their season to wind down, Boggess said it will be tough but that her team is starting to come together.

"We have one more district game. We're looking at that we need to win that. We played well against (Christian Fellowship) last week and we've just got to do the same thing in our own gym and come together. We're playing in a tournament this weekend that will hopefully help us and then we have two tough games next week. We've just to keep on keeping and just get that gut. Again, I'm just proud of them because I asked them to do something and they did it. That's the first time in a long time, I think, where we collectively all came together at the same time."

Murray's next test will come Thursday against district foe Christian Fellowship. The 4-12 (0-5) Lady Tigers will play host to a Lady Eagles' squad holding a 15-7 regular season record and perfect 2-0 district mark.

Catherine Claywell played a large role on the night, proving to be an imposing force on the front line.

The 6-foot-8, 225-pound Henderson averaged 14 points and 11 rebounds a game as a junior at Neville, and he also held an offer from Louisiana Tech on the table.

The 6-7, 210-pound McCree averaged 14 points and seven rebounds a game as a junior, and was believed to be narrowing his choices between Murray State and Wyoming before committing on Sunday.

The Racers have several more visits scheduled over the coming weeks.
