Dance Stars to raise money for Playhouse in the Park

By HAWKINS TEAGUE
Staff Writer

The public has until next Monday, Nov. 7, to buy tickets to the first Murray Dance Stars, a fundraiser for Playhouse in the Park.

Murray Dance Stars will be held on Friday, Nov. 18, in Murray State University's Curris Center Ballroom. Playhouse Executive Director Lisa Cope said the event is primarily to raise money to finish upgrades to the venue's sound system and to make renovations to the lobby, including an overhaul of the existing bathrooms.

"People hate our bathrooms," Cope said. "That's the thing we get the biggest complaints about, and I understand that."

Ever since the rise in popularity of the ABC reality competition series "Dancing With the Stars," many communities has raised money for various causes by holding events inspired by the show. The Playhouse event will feature seven local "stars"—Lance Allison, Mark Welch, Dr. William Robinson, Erin Carrico, Gale Cornelison, Tawnya Hunter and Judi Little. Cope said the dancers have been working on their moves for weeks with six different choreographers.

A panel of three "judges," including Murray Mayor Bill Wells, Sarah Jones and Terry Little, will provide color commentary. Cope acknowledged that Terry was married to Judi,

Airport marks 50th anniversary

Local business leaders, officials and invited guests joined Kyle-Oakley Field board members and staff for a luncheon to celebrate the 50th anniversary of the airport dedication. H. Glenn Doran, standing, past airport board member, recounted some of his memories from 50 years ago.

Business leaders, others gather for local celebration and open house

By ANGIE HATTON

Kyle-Oakley Field Airport opened its doors Friday afternoon to celebrate the 50th anniversary of the airport's dedication.

Business leaders, officials and invited guests joined airport staff at a luncheon held in one of the airport hangars before the start of an open house and reception.

Johnny Parker, airport manager, said when Gov. Bert T. Combs was on site to dedicate the airport on Oct. 28, 1961, the operation was still bare bones.

"All that was here was a ramp, taxiway and runway," said Parker. "We didn't have fuel, a hangar, an office or lights."

Before Kyle-Oakley, Murray had an airport in 1934 and another that lasted from 1940-1951, according to Parker. After 1951, anyone needing airplane transportation had to go to Mayfield or Fenton, Parker said.

H. Glenn Doran, a member of the first local airport board, recalled those early years. Doran was involved in several economic development groups.

Peggy Williams, executive director of WATCH, Inc., stands inside the partially completed WATCH Activities Center. The new facility is set for completion by early next year, and staff are working to raise an additional $100,000 in community support to finish the interior.

Williams: Completion of WATCH Activities Center nears; donations needed

By ANGIE HATTON
Staff Writer

A project years in development is coming to fruition at WATCH Inc., of Murray. The new WATCH Activities Center is expected to be complete by early next year.

Executive Director Peggy Williams says over the years, the staff has found that clients enjoy playing sports, including volleyball, softball and basketball. The center has even formed its own basketball team, the WATCH Warriors. The current facility also has an exercise room with weight machines and treadmills.

Williams said in the past, the staff has borrowed gymnasium space to play sports, but coordinating schedules has become increasingly difficult. The new activities center will relieve that problem, said Williams. The space will also be used to host the Community Appreciation Thanksgiving dinner, which has not been offered the past few years due to lack of space, Williams stated.

Crews broke ground Aug. 3, on the 7,783 square-foot building, located at North 7th Street. It will feature a full-size, middle school gymnasium, a recreation room, full-size kitchen, rest rooms and second floor storage space that runs the length of the building.

The first event scheduled at the new facility will be the Valentine's Day party in February, said Williams. A ribbon cutting and open house is

Medicare premiums up - but not as much as expected

By RICARDO ALONSO-ZALDIVAR
Associated Press

WASHINGTON (AP) — Good news for seniors: The government says Medicare's basic monthly premium will rise less than expected next year, by $3.50 for most.

It could be good, too, for President Barack Obama and Democrats struggling for older Americans' votes in a close election.

At $99.90 per month, the 2012 Part B premium for outpatient care will be about $7 less than projected as recently as May. The additional money that most seniors will pay works out to about 10 percent of the average Social Security cost-of-living increase they'll also be due.

Some recently enrolled younger retirees will actually pay less. They were charged $115.40 a month this year, and they'll see that go down to $99.90.

The main reason for lower-than-expected premiums seems to be the connection between Social Security COLAS and Medicare. Some also cite a moderation in health care costs.

But the Obama administration is hoping seniors will get a simpler takeaway message: Medicare is under sound management.

Older voters went for Republicans in the 2010 elections, after Obama's health care overhaul law cut Medicare spending to help finance coverage for the uninsured. Since then, the administration has worked hard to reverse any perception that Obama is steering Medicare into decline.

Health and Human Services Secretary Kathleen Sebelius said it's "pretty remarkable" that premiums will stay in check. She reassured seniors that they have nothing to fear from the health care

Murray Rotary Club awards Scooper Bowl winners

Staff Report

The Murray Rotary Club this week awarded winners of the second annual Scooper Bowl competition. The competition was part of the Ice Cream Festival. The general manager of sponsoring radio stations WLLE and WQQR, Jamie Futrell, was on hand to award the cash prizes.

Lisa Clinton, co-chair of the contest, said the prize money totaled $5,000, which was divided among the winning teams according to the percentage of vote tickets they received. First place of $1,100 went to Kirksey United Methodist Church; second place of $800 went to Lost But Loved Animal Rescue; New Covenant Christian Academy of Hardin and Puryear United Methodist Youth of Puryear, Tenn. tied for third place with $550.

Calloway County 4-H and Baptist Campus Ministries received $450; Eastwood Christian Academy and the Murray-Calloway Endowment for Healthcare received $400; and Murray Family Church received $300.

Beshear backs Obama's re-election; Williams, Galbraith say no

FRANKFORT, Ky. (AP) — Democratic Gov. Steve Beshear has taken a starkly different stand than his general election opponents in saying President Barack Obama should be re-elected to a second term.

Obama has been at the center of the race for governor, dragged there repeatedly by Republican David Williams and independent Gatewood Galbraith in hopes that his negatives among Kentucky voters might rub off on Beshear.

The Associated Press asked all three candidates in a questionnaire if they favor Obama's re-election to a second term, and asked them to explain why or why not.

Beshear answered "yes," but provided no elaboration. Both Williams and Galbraith said "no" and offered sharp criticisms of Obama.

"People (in business) would ask us 'Do you have an airport?' and we'd say, 'We don't have one.' And then they'd ask, 'When are you going to get an airport?' and we'd say, 'We don't have any plans for one.' ...

And we didn't get any factories. That stuck with me," said Doran.

It was the Murray Jaycees (United States Junior Chamber), with urging from the then-Murray Chamber of Commerce, that launched a fundraising campaign to build the field. Parker recognized the four living members of that original Jaycees group who were in attendance at the luncheon. They are Z. C. Enix, Billy Thurman, James Harmon and Bobby McDowell.

Parker also recognized members of Verne Kyle's family. The airport's namesake was the manager of the local Tappen, Inc. manufacturing plant, and a big supporter of the project.

The airport was renamed Kyle-Oakley Field in 1991 when Dr. Hugh Oakley, airport board chair, retired. Oakley served as chairman of the Murray-Calloway County Airport Board for 22 years.

The reason the airport has survived for so many years is due in part to the good working relationship between the city, county, state and regional offices, said Parker. He also praised the dedication of the early board members.

When the airport was first built, the board had no money, said Doran. They set out to raise funding from the city and county. Doran was tasked with approaching the Calloway County Fiscal Court, where he said he was met with a less-than-enthusiastic reception.

"I was told nobody'd fly over there but a bunch of crows. So I had to sell them. ... I said if you ever want your children to stay in Murray, or get industry in Murray, you're going to need an airport," said Doran.

Bob Hargrove, Murray-Calloway County Economic Development Council vice chair, said the airport was one of the reasons the area has been spared some of the effects of the economic downturn.

"There are three things companies look for when they come to an area: higher education, healthcare and airports. And we have great resources for all three," said Hargrove.

Up to 96 percent of local manufacturing jobs can be linked to the airport, said Hargrove.

Pella Corporation pilot Michael Warren says the airport is one of the better sites that he visits. Warren appreciates Kyle-Oakley field because it has a long and wide runway, it is well lit and it has a good digital instrumentation system, which makes landing in bad weather easier.

Approximately 230 people attended the open house and luncheon.

but that Judi had been commissioned to replace someone who had hurt herself. Cope said it wasn't really a conflict because the judges aren't actually judging or assigning scores to performers. The winners will be the dancers who raise the most money through selling tickets to the public, she said.

For $50, people can purchase a ticket for a "VIP seat" at a table that also gains them entry to a reception at 6 p.m. They will get first choice of food and get to eat while listening to live music. Tickets may also be purchased for $25, but those chairs are not at tables and the admission does not include the reception, Cope said. The dancing will start at 6:30 p.m.

Cope said event organizers had a goal of raising at least $7,500 through ticket sales so that Playhouse could take advantage of matching pledges of $5,000 from C.A. Jones Management and $2,500 from Modern Woodmen of America. She said she also hopes to make Murray Dance Stars an annual event if possible.

"As long as 'Dancing With the Stars' is popular, then I think it works," she said.

Court upholds 'Almighty God' reference in law

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — A state appeals court has ruled that Kentucky may continue to give official credit for its homeland security to Almighty God.

Kentucky's law establishing the state Office of Homeland Security requires its executive director to publicize a "dependence on Almighty God" in training and educational materials and through a plaque at the entrance to its emergency operations center.

By a 2-1 vote Thursday, the Kentucky Court of Appeals overturned Franklin Circuit Judge Thomas Wingate's ruling in 2009 the phrase violates the U.S. and Kentucky constitutions of state-established religion. The law requires the Homeland Security director to post a plaque with the reference in the department's headquarters.

Language in the 2006 legislation was inserted by state Rep. Tom Riner, D-Louisville, a pastor of Christ is King Baptist Church in Louisville.

Paducah woman pleads not guilty in theft of money

PADUCAH, Ky. (AP) — A woman charged with helping embezzle $230,000 from public venues in Paducah has pleaded not guilty.

Investigators say Susan Wilson helped steal money from the Julian M. Carroll Convention Center and the Paducah Expo Center by posing as a fictitious advertising vendor.

Financial records cited by The Paducah Sun show dozens of unauthorized checks from the Paducah-McCracken County Convention Center Corporation were signed over the Wilson and cashed.

The 52-year-old Wilson appeared with her attorney Gorman Bradley on Thursday. The defense waived a preliminary hearing and entered the not guilty plea to a charge of felony charge of theft by unlawful taking over $10,000.

Renovations underway on chapel in state Capitol

FRANKFORT, Ky. (AP) — Renovations have begun to modernize a small chapel in the state Capitol.

The Kentucky Department for Facilities and Support Services is working to restore pews, put up new wallpaper, change carpeting and construct a wall to separate the chapel from shelves of communications equipment that had been hidden only by a curtain.

The Kiwanis Club originally opened the chapel in the 1960s in what had been a storage room on the second floor of the Capitol, across the hall from the office of the chief justice of the Kentucky Supreme Court.

State spokeswoman Cindy Landham said no public funding is being used to purchase materials for the renovation. The Kiwanis Club is covering that cost with a $3,600 donation.

Americans making little, spending a lot

WASHINGTON (AP) — Americans are making a little more money and spending a lot more.

Under normal circumstances, that would be a troubling sign for the economy. But a closer look at some new government figures suggests another possibility: People are saving less money because they're earning next to nothing in interest.

Saving is already difficult because of more expensive gas and food. It's even tougher because of the lower returns — the flip side of super-low interest rates that the Federal Reserve has kept in place since 2008 to help the economy.

Critics say the Fed is punishing those who play by the rules — those careful enough to set aside money for savings or people who built up a nest egg and are living on fixed incomes that depend on interest.

Americans spent 0.6 percent more in September, three times the increase from the previous month, the government said Friday. Spending was especially strong on durable goods — things like cars, appliances and electronics.

■ Medicare premiums...

From Front

law.

"Thanks to the Affordable Care Act, Medicare is providing better benefits at lower cost," said Sebelius.

Republicans weren't buying it.

A spokeswoman for Sen. Orrin Hatch of Utah said the brunt of the health law's Medicare cuts are still to come. "More importantly," added Antonia Ferrier, "lower Medicare premiums are being driven by lower than average Medicare spending due to the slow economy" — not the health care law. Hatch is the ranking Republican on the Senate panel overseeing Medicare.

A spokeswoman for House Ways and Means Chairman Dave Camp, R-Mich., said premiums are more affordable because seniors on tight budgets are spending less on health care in a troubled economy.

Medicare's Part B annual deductible, the amount beneficiaries pay before their coverage begins, will also drop next year to $140, a decrease of $22. The hospital deductible, however, will increase by $24, to $1,156, for those admitted as inpatients. One doesn't cancel out the other since a minority of beneficiaries are hospitalized in any given year.

AARP, the seniors lobby, reacted warily to Thursday's announcement. Policy director David Certner said there's still a chance Congress could cut Medicare and Social Security as part of a budget deal. "These changes would far outweigh today's good news," he said.

For the average retiree, the Medicare news means they will have to fork over only a small part of a long-awaited Social Security increase next year for premiums.

Premiums have been frozen at the 2008 level of $96.40 a month for about three-fourths of Medicare beneficiaries. That was due to the lack of a Social Security COLA "during the depths of the economic downturn. But Social Security recently announced a raise averaging $39 a month for 2012.

The Part B premium is one number that most of the 48 million people on Medicare can connect with. Average premiums for prescription coverage and for popular Medicare Advantage plans will stay flat or dip slightly for 2012, but fewer beneficiaries opt for those benefits.

A leading nonpartisan expert on Medicare said she doubted election-year politics were behind the lower-than-expected premiums for 2012.

"Changes in premiums are obviously important to seniors, but the numbers are based on what the law requires and determined by independent actuaries rather than politics," said Tricia Neuman of the Kaiser Family Foundation.

Neuman said the explanation probably concerns the relationship between Medicare premiums and Social Security cost of living adjustments.

By law, the Part B premium is set to cover 25 percent of the cost of Medicare's outpatient care benefit.

But premiums have been frozen for most beneficiaries because federal law also says that an individual's Medicare premium cannot go up more than his Social Security COLA, with some exceptions.

That left a relatively small share of beneficiaries, including recent enrollees, bearing the brunt of higher Medicare costs. Indeed, the "standard premium" for 2011 rose to $115.40, and new enrollees were charged that amount. Upper-income retirees pay even more, but premiums for the poor are covered by Medicaid.

Back in May, government experts were forecasting a Medicare premium of $106.60 for 2012. At that time, they were also projecting a Social Security COLA of just 0.7 percent. But the final COLA increase turned out to be much bigger, a 3.6 percent raise. And that meant rising Medicare costs could be spread among many more people, resulting in smaller individual increases.

also tentatively scheduled for sometime in January.

The project is projected to cost more than $400,000, Williams said. The center has been saving money from donations for several years. However, another $100,000 is still needed to complete the activities center.

"Any amount is appreciated, if it's $1 or $5 - just whatever anyone would like to donate. It will stay right here in Murray," said Williams.

Locals may also drive by the office and drop off their aluminum cans in the WATCH can collection trailer. Williams says all the proceeds from the organization's recycling program goes toward special projects, like the activities center.

All donations are tax deductible, and may be mailed to: WATCH, Inc., 702 Main Street, Murray KY 42071. For more information, call the center at 759-1965.

Williams said people can follow the progress of the new activities center through the organization's Facebook page, "WATCH Inc".

WATCH stands for "Work Activities Training Center for the Handicapped." The center's mission is to assist people with developmental disabilities in becoming integrated in the community through skills training, rehabilitation and work programs. WATCH serves 52 people from Calloway, Graves, Marshall and McCracken counties.

Local resident receives Jerry Bolls Scholarship

Special to the Ledger

SEARCY, Ark.—In August, Jordan Garland, a sophomore Early Childhood Education major from Murray, was awarded the Jerry Bolls Scholarship for the fall semester at Harding University in Searcy, Ark.

The scholarship was created to honor the husband of Karen Bolls, Jerry, who passed away in 1994. Jerry graduated from Harding in 1966 with a B.A. in music education. His wife, Karen and their three children are also graduates of Harding. In 1967, Karen and Jerry moved to Murray, and have lived here for many years.

"Jerry was very passionate about Christian education," Karen said. "He also had a strong desire to help students from Murray."

The Jerry Bolls Scholarship is set up to be awarded to students from Calloway County. Students also must have a minimum 2.5 GPA. The scholarship was created on March 17, 1998.

With more than 7,100 students, Harding is the largest private university in Arkansas and attracts more National Merit

Scholars than any other private university in the state. Harding also maintains campuses in Australia, Chile, England, France, Greece, Italy and Zambia.

They explore another kind of beverage when they visit the Rustle Hill Winery to see what is so special about the Shawnee wine trail.

Time for annual Ducks Unlimited banquet

The Murray/Calloway County Chapter of Ducks Unlimited will hold their annual fundraiser banquet Saturday night, November 5, at the Knights of Columbus Hall at 6:00 PM.

In The Field
By Kenny
Damell
Outdoors
Columnist

The event will be catered this year by Dottie Renfro and the Hi-Burger Restaurant so you know the food will be delicious. The menu will include fish and all the trimmings along with a scrumptious cobbler for dessert. The meal is expected to begin at 7:00 PM.

For a fun night of prizes, raffles, silent and live auctions, and drawings, nothing beats the DU banquet. It is organized by the local chapter and is well attended by hunters, conservationists, local business people, and by folk who are passionate about preserving the great outdoors. Money raised at the banquet is used to fund DU projects in Kentucky and in the vital duck-nesting areas of north-central United States and Canada.

Admission to the dinner is only $45 and includes your $35 annual membership to Ducks Unlimited. Corporate, business, and individual sponsorships begin at $250. At the end of the night, some lucky attendee will walk away with a Ducks Unlimited shotgun as a door prize. Everyone who attends will receive a DU cap – yes, there are even pink caps for the ladies – as long as supplies last.

The silent auction will include many unique and exclusive DU items such as decoys, figurines, jewelry, a leather purse, copper serving trays, a DU pitcher and glasses, and other valuable goodies. The live auction will be provided courtesy of Jimmy Tate, auctioneer extraordinaire, and will include exclusive DU framed artwork, collectable decoys, knives, DU flatware, a DU youth bicycle, a camouflaged guitar, a DU patchwork quilt, and a Beretta

AL 3901 Ducks Unlimited exclusive "gun of the year."

Hunters will find many practical items such as a collection of Avery blind bags, gun cases, and such. For the ladies, there will be a card raffle for a pink-camo .22 caliber rifle. Other guns that will be raffled or auctioned include a Weatherby .270, a Rossi combination .22 and 20 gauge, and a Remington 887 DU model. Everyone has a chance to win a nice prize.

Ducks Unlimited is celebrating 75 years in the conservation business this year. They are the premiere conservation organization that not only helps the ducks, but preserves vital habitat for all wildlife species. In Kentucky, DU has been active in the Duck Island project on Lake Barkley along with several large projects in Ballard County. Many local hunters have received technical assistance and even hardware such as water control devices through a partnership with DU.

Locally, the Murray/Calloway Chapter not only raises money for these projects, but provides service to the local population as well. Every year, the local chapter brings the youth or "Greenwing" activity trailer to the annual "Hooked on Fishing, Not On Drugs" event at the Kenny Imes Farm. The chapter sets up an archery range and provides the youngsters with instruction and an opportunity to actually shoot bow and arrow.

The local chapter also maintains a booth at the Annual Fishing and Outdoor Show at CFSB Arena to provide information about conservation on the local and national level.

If you have an interest in waterfowl, conservation, habitat preservation, or just like to have a good time at a family-oriented event, the annual Ducks Unlimited Banquet is the place to be. Everyone is welcome at the event. Tickets can be purchased by calling Pam at CDM Construction, 753-8964, or they can be purchased at the door on the night of the event. Come on out, spend a fun evening with friends, and help the local chapter raise money for conservation. Who knows, you might just walk out with new shotgun!

Ky. Afield Outdoors, Blue River Trails: Ky. River, pool eight

From KDFWR

FRANKFORT, Ky. - The headwaters of the Kentucky River run off Pine Mountain in southeastern Kentucky and flow all the way to Carrollton in northern Kentucky. The river travels for 225 miles to its confluence with the Ohio River after the North and South Fork meet at Beattyville. In this entire stretch, one of the most scenic and best pools to fish and float lies just southeast of Nicholasville.

Pool 8 of the Kentucky River offers access to the lower portions of Sugar Creek, Paint Lick Creek and Silver Creek. They make three of the best creeks on the river to fish for largemouth, smallmouth and spotted bass. While fishing these waters, anglers may also occasionally encounter a muskellunge lurking under a root wad.

The Kentucky River makes a large southwestern bend that forms the southern border of Jessamine County and the northeastern border of Madison County. Ages ago, the river flowed against the uplift known as the Lexington (or Cincinnati) Arch and cut downward, forming the high river cliffs known as the Palisades. Taking a canoe or kayak trip in Pool 8 gives the paddler an intimate view of the Palisade region, allowing you to witness in person the spectacular power of flowing water through the ages.

Fall is a great time to experience the grandeur of the palisades in Pool 8. The Kentucky River usually flows tranquil and green-clear in fall with minimal boat traffic. This stretch of river is a good one for families and beginning paddlers to hone their craft and experience one of the overlooked treasures of central Kentucky.

The first 3.5-mile, half-day float begins at either the Hunter's Ferry Road Ramp in Jessamine County or at the Kentucky Department of Fish and Wildlife Resources' Poosey Ridge Boat Ramp at the end of KY 595 in Madison County. They lie opposite from one another on the river as they are the landings of the historic Hunter's Ferry. The take-out is either at the John Nickell Boat Ramp at the end of KY 39 in Jessamine County or the Buckeye/Paint Lick Boat Ramp in Garrard County. The John Nickell Boat Ramp has ample parking with an excellent ramp.

The shuttle from the Hunter's Ferry Road Ramp to the John Nickell Boat Ramp take-out is considerably shorter, but the accommodations, ramp and parking at the Poosey Ridge and Buckeye/Paint Lick Boat Ramps are much better. Extremely limited parking exists at the Hunter's Ferry Boat Ramp. This ramp is suitable for only canoes, kayaks and small boats. Please respect private property while using these ramps.

Boaters would be wise to paddle just upstream of these ramps to the mouth of Silver Creek on the right. Silver Creek holds an excellent population of smallmouth bass and anglers who paddle upstream to the flowing section should do well.

Silver Creek smallmouth love 3-inch pumpkinseed boot-tailed grubs rigged on 1/8-ounce lead-heads. This section of creek also holds good numbers of largemouth bass. White weightless soft-plastic jerkbaits worked among root wads and undercut banks produce strikes from largemouth bass.

Apply subtle twitches of the rod tip and work the lure almost in place in these spots. A fat largemouth that ignored other offerings often can't stand this and will heartily strike.

The rocky outcrop known as Upper Hunters Bar is an excellent spot to work a medium-running crawfish-colored lure for smallmouth or spotted (Kentucky) bass. This bar lies just upstream of these ramps on the Jessamine County side of the river.

As you float downstream, several palisades come into view. The sand and gravel outcrop at the mouth of Sawmill Run, known as Lower Hunters Bar, is another spot to try the crankbait for bass.

The river flows straight after Lower Hunters Bar for a little over a mile until you see a large rock bar on the right. The rocks of Wildhorse Branch Bar constrict the river's flow somewhat and concentrate bass. Smallmouth bass hit 1/8-ounce brown and orange jigs worked in the rocks of the bar. The swirl just downstream of Wildhorse Branch Bar is another place to try for bass, but may also hold muskellunge in fall. Some maps list this bar as a boat ramp, but it is no longer open to public use.

Winds, low pool make for dangerous lakes

We sure had some high winds last week that kept us from taking our scheduled anglers out to do some fishing. High winds are more dangerous than the rainfall so we had to cancel their trip. We had about the same weather conditions the day before and had to cancel then also except the winds were really dangerous.

During this part of the season the lake elevation is being lowered to what they call winter pool stage and in some areas there are sunken trees and cut timber which has been underwater a year. Some are being held in place by cement blocks and even some of these are very close to the waters surface and will cause major damage to a boat engine so beware.

According to the information provided by the Kentucky Dam program the water level on Kentucky Lake was 354 feet. Now we know that is the elevation they try to maintain throughout the winter season but depending on the rainfall is another matter! We know this program does a super job of taking care of everything possible and we thank you for that.

I was able to talk brother-in-law Willie Jackson into fishing again Monday. We thought the winds were in our favor so away we went. We were surprised at the water elevation being so low but that wasn't a problem.

The problem stems from the super flood we received a couple of months ago. The extremely high lake elevation came at a time when the fish were spawning and tons of the shad were swept away. They were so small there were no other place they could go except with the water as it fell back to normal pool stage.

One can go into any bay and see the beautiful waters but if you actually see any numbers of shad they are only a shadow what there should be. They are only two and a half inches in length and that is going to be tough on them this coming winter!

Willie and I traveled several miles looking for the expected schools of shad which should be surfacing in huge schools and attracting the striped bass and largemouth bass and sometimes the smallmouth bass, to be following the huge bait schools.

It just didn't happen for us as we covered several miles looking for that magic melee of shad being attacked. We did catch three whopper striped bass before calling it a day so that helps out in the kitchen. The waters were still falling!

Happy Fishing!

Operation Dry Water nets 4,338 citations nationwide

From KDFWR

FRANKFORT, Ky. - Kentucky conservation officers teamed up with law enforcement personnel from 450 agencies nationwide this summer for Operation Dry Water.

Operation Dry Water is devoted to Boating Under the Influence (BUI) education and enforcement. The weekend enforcement effort, which is aimed at reducing alcohol and drug-related accidents on lakes and rivers, resulted in 4,338 citations issued nationwide, including 321 BUIs.

Additionally, 42,253 vessels were checked and 8,589 safety warnings were issued by the 3,649 officers who patrolled the nation's waterways, according to an article published in Small Craft Advisory, the official publication of the National Association of State Boating Law Administrators (NASBLA).

Now in its third year, Operation Dry Water is an initiative launched by NASBLA, the U.S. Coast Guard, and partnering state and federal agencies. It is traditionally held on the weekend prior to the July 4 holiday.

During the weekend, boaters were contacted with safety messages at boat ramps and on the water. Law enforcement officers conducted courtesy boat inspections. Officers also answered questions about Kentucky's boating laws and the safety equipment required on boats.

"Our goal every year on this weekend is to have no Boating Under the Influence (BUI) arrests and no alcohol-related accidents," said Captain Mike Fields, Boating Law Administrator for the Kentucky Department of Fish and Wildlife Resources. "Operation Dry Water is an effort to get the word out that alcohol and boating don't mix."

Kentucky's boating laws are detailed in the Kentucky Fishing and Boating Guide, available wherever hunting and fishing licenses are sold. The guide is also available online at the department's website: fw.ky.gov.

For more information about Operation Dry Water, go online to www.operationdrywater.org.

WORLD SERIES, GAME 7: CARDINALS 4, RANGERS 2

Never Say Die

CARDIAC CARDS CLAIM 11 IN '11

By BEN WALKER

Associated Press

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Albert Pujols thrust both arms high in the air, even before he reached home plate.

It was only the first inning, and already it felt as if the St. Louis Cardinals were home free. Because after they had overcome so much just to get this far, what could stop them?

The Cardinals won a remarkable World Series they weren't even supposed to reach, beating the Texas Rangers 6-2 in Game 7 on Friday night with another key hit by hometown star David Freese and six gutsy innings from Chris Carpenter.

Pushed to the brink, the Cardinals kept saving themselves. A frantic rush to reach the postseason on the final day. A nifty pair of comebacks in the playoffs. Two desperate rallies in Game 6.

"This whole ride, this team deserves this," said Freese, who added the Series MVP award to his trophy as the NL championship MVP.

A day after an epic game that saw them twice within one strike of elimination before winning 10-9 in 11 innings, the Cardinals captured their 11th World Series crown.

"It's hard to explain how this happened," Cardinals manager Tony La Russa said. Following a whole fall on the edge, including a surge from 10 1/2 games down in the wild-card race, La Russa's team didn't dare mess with Texas, or any more drama in baseball's first World Series Game 7 since the Angels beat Giants in 2002.

Freese's two-run double tied it in the first, with Pujols celebrating as he scored. Good-luck charm Allen Craig hit a go-ahead homer in the third.

MURRAY 65, FULTON COUNTY 20

Tigers roll into playoffs

TIM MACALLISTER / Ledger & Times

Senior linebacker Ian Heskett prepares to take down Fulton County quarterback Damien Roach for a sack in last night's 65-20 rout.

PILOTS NO MACH FOR STIFFLING TIGERS' DEFENSE IN ROUT

By TIM MACALLISTER

Sports Writer

The Tigers struck early and often in a 65-20 regular season finale over the Fulton County Pilots. Tiger Bob Fields took the opening kick-off 75 yards for a touchdown and Murray never took their foot off the accelerator. Fields accounted for five touchdowns in three different ways on the final regular season game of his career at Murray High School as the Tigers roll into the playoffs with a 9-1 record and home field advantage.

After the kickoff return the Pilots were forced into a three and out and forced to punt on their first possession. Fulton County's Tyler Wilson got off a 40 yard punt but Deon Howard was ready on the other end and his 37 yard return set up the eight yard touchdown run on the ensuing play by Fields. Carson Greifenkamp added one of his seven extra points and within the first three minutes of the game the Tigers led 14-0.

The second Pilot drive stalled after one first down and they were forced to punt once again. This time there was no return but the Tigers still had good field position starting on the Fulton County 40 yard-line. A 20 yard run from Dylan Boone and a 10 yard run from Fields had the Tigers set up for another 1st and Goal. Then the Tigers did what they rarely do... pass. Deese connected with Torrance Williams for a 10 yard touchdown pass which gave Murray a three touchdown cushion. The Tigers also came up with their two point conversion to lead 22-0.

It would be the defense which would come up big once again on the following possession when Fields stepped in front of a Damien Roach pass and took it 14 yards to pay dirt. Roach would be picked off two more times by a defense which ended the regular season with 17 total interceptions. Murray allowed a mere one completion for five yards

TRIGG COUNTY 14, CALLOWAY COUNTY 10

Heartbreak in Laker Nation

CALLOWAY COUNTY DROPS 14-10 SHOCKER TO TRIGG COUNTY

By GREG WADDELL

Assistant Sports Editor

Pacing the sidelines deep in the fourth quarter at Jack D.Rose stadium last night, Calloway County head coach Josh McKeel could do little more than put his head in his hands.

Just when it looked like his team had pulled off a stunning come from behind win against Trigg County, the misfortune that has been trailing his Lakers all season intervened again.

This time it wouldn't be injuries though.

Seconds after scoring the go ahead touchdown, the Lakers would line up to kick the ball off but after a Calloway player collided with kicker Garrett Schwetman on his back swing the ball skipped just 25 yards where it was scooped up by Trigg County. Just a minute later the Wildcats made them pay as Deondre Wilson rumbled 47 yards for the winning score.

"It's been one of those years where you just come to expect almost something like (that kick) at the most inopportune time," McKeel said.

Still, things wouldn't get much better for Calloway on the ensuing kick return as a trick play employed by the Lakers was sniffed out and Steven Treadaway was dragged down at the 11 yard line.

Calloway would try to mount one more comeback though as quarterback Tyler Greer fired a 18 yard dart to receiver Andy Fraher on fourth and 16 but time ran out for the Lakers as they fell 14-10.

The game started out promising enough though. Playing the Wildcats tough the entire first half, the defense shined in the game for Calloway, making big play after big play to keep them alive.

"That was probably the best defensive game we've played in a long time," McKeel said. "They came out and competed. I challenged them early in the week after we had the off week to come out and compete and they did that. Then to walk away with a 14-0 after having the opportunity to lead late in the game (is disheartening). As a head coach you want to give answers and you want to do those things but they fought hard, they competed for each other and this school but unfortunately we walked away with a loss."

The normally explosive offense,

Tigers

all night. "Bob put on a show didn't he?" said Tiger Coach Steve Duncan. "Kickoff return and he just did a lot of stuff for us tonight. But I think all of our guys played pretty well. I thought we played real good defense there at the beginning and I thought that first half we played really well, causing turnovers."

But Fulton County did not go peacefully into the night and Domontrial Pierce provided a spark for his Pilots with a 65 yard sprint off the right tackle and got his team on the board, 29-6. Pierce would lead all rushers with 204 rushing yards and three touchdowns. A majority of the yards were on two breakaway runs of 65 and 69 yards for touchdowns.

But again the Tigers would answer this time in the form of a 54 yard run from James Holland and Fields would finish the drive off with a 22 yard burst into the endzone and reversing any momentum Fulton County had. The score came just 23 seconds of game-time after the Pilots put up their first points of the evening. It put the game seemingly out of reach just eight seconds into the second quarter. After a fumble by the Pilots and a three and out for both teams Fulton County had to punt to Deon Howard who did the rest on a 57 yard return for a touchdown with a host of Tiger blockers to lead his way.

Tiger defensive back Cody Therrell intercepted another Roach pass and Jaleel Lee put the exclamation point on the half with his 11 yard touchdown run. Murray led Fulton County 51-6 at halftime.

The Tiger defense started the third quarter with a forced turnover on downs and then Fields dialed it up one more time on a 35 yard touchdown run on the very next play. The Tiger offense iced the cake with one more touchdown, an Andre Phillips run from seven yards out. Fulton County would score two late touchdowns but the Tigers came away winners and will face Union County in the first round of the KHSAA playoffs at Ty Holland Stadium next Friday.

however, had problems finishing against the Trigg County defense. Still, the banged up offensive line played admirable McKeel said.

"I thought we drove the ball well pretty much the majority of the evening but we were unable to put the ball into the endzone," he said. "When those things happen you're not going to win football games and, unfortunately, we watched 15 young men walk away from Jack D. Rose Stadium with a loss. That stinks. (As far as the offensive line), I haven't seen the film but I think they did great. I thought Zack Jones and Austin Trotter really stepped up and played exceptional and, again, at a position that very few reps have been taken but to step up on Senior Night and compete and give us a chance to win. I couldn't be prouder of those two guys and of our whole team."

The Lakers' first score of the game would come from the steady right foot of Schwettman, who connected from 44 yards out to pull Calloway within four at 7-3, at the 4:15 mark in the third quarter. After the Wildcats threatened on the next series, Calloway would neutralize the attack as a timely Hunter Arnold fumble recovery in Trigg County's redzone would hand the ball back to the boys in blue and red.

The ensuing drive would stall but after trading blows with their opponent the Lakers would get the ball back with a chance to potentially win the game. Facing a fourth and four with five minutes to go, Greer had to scramble for time, evading two defenders before uncorking a beautiful 35 yard strike to Fraher, who had managed to sneak behind his cornerback. On the one yard line, Calloway would hand the ball to senior receiver Garrett Cowen who bullied his way in. That, unfortunately for Calloway, was the beginning of the end.

That said, focus will now shift to next week as Calloway County will begin preparation for Franklin-Simpson in the first round of the playoffs by a Game 6 rainout and picked by La Russa earlier in the day to start on three days' rest, Carpenter and the tireless St. Louis bullpen closed it out.

No Rally Squirrel needed on this night, either. Fireworks and confetti rang out at Busch Stadium when Jason Motte retired David Murphy on a fly ball to end it.

"We just kept playing," Cardinals star Lance Berkman said.

Said La Russa: "If you watch the history of baseball, teams come back."

The Rangers, meanwhile, will spend the whole winter wondering how it all got away. Texas might dwell on it forever, in fact, or at least until Nolan Ryan & Co. can reverse a World Series slide that started with last year's five-game wipeout against San Francisco.

"We were close. Two times. Game 6. That's it," Texas pitcher Colby Lewis said.

Ryan left tripped. When a reporter tried to ask the Rangers president and part-owner a question, someone in his entourage said: "He's not talking."

Texas had not lost consecutive games since last August. These two defeats at Busch Stadium cost manager Ron Washington and the Rangers a chance to win their first title in the franchise's 51-year history.

Instead, Texas became the first team to lose the Series two straight years since Atlanta in 1991-92.

"Sometimes when opportunity is in your presence, you certainly can't let it get away because sometimes it takes a while before it comes back," Rangers manager Ron Washington said. "If there's one thing that happened in this World Series that I'll look back on is being so close, just having one pitch to be made and one out to be gotten, and it could have been a different story."

Added Texas third baseman Adrian Beltre: "We tried to come back today, but the momentum just took them."

"It's not a nice feeling, you know, being one strike away twice. I guess it's probably easier to lose four games in a row in a World Series, but being a strike away it's something that will be hard to forget," he said.

This marked the ninth straight time the home team had won Game 7 in the World Series. The wild-card Cardinals held that advantage over the AL West champions because the NL won the All-Star game — Texas could blame that on their own pitcher, C.J. Wilson, who took the loss in July.

Bride's plan for adults-only reception irks older sister

DEAR ABBY: My younger sister is getting married next month and has requested that no kids be brought to the reception. My "kids" are teenagers and I feel that at least children of the immediate family should be allowed to attend. Incidentally, Sis and her fiancé have a little girl and boy who will serve as a flower girl and ring bearer. The children will participate in the wedding party introductions, then will be carted off.

Dear Abby

By Abigail Van Buren

The young cousins. Because we don't think it's right, we have decided that we will attend the wedding ceremony but not the reception. It is not my intention not to share her moment, but I'm afraid my teenagers won't understand why they can't celebrate their aunt's special day. Am I making too much of this? -- RSVP UNDECIDED IN NORTH CAROLINA

DEAR UNDECIDED:

Your sister's reason for excluding "children" could be budgetary -- or fear that young children could be disruptive. By saying "no children" she is trying to be fair to all the parents. However, if she wants your daughter to baby-sit, she should make the arrangements with your daughter -- including offering to pay her for her time.

DEAR ABBY:

My boyfriend, "Adam," and I have been together for three years. One of the core values he feels strongly about is not drinking, and not associating with others when they drink. I have never gotten drunk, but I do have one or two drinks a month with friends. When I mentioned it to Adam, he became extremely frustrated. Now things have become rocky between us.

I feel like I have done something devastatingly wrong, even though I know I haven't. I can't promise Adam I'll never drink again, but I respect his values enough to keep to the couple of drinks per month and no more. I feel he doesn't trust me now. What should I do? I love Adam and want to make things right, but I won't make a promise I know I can't keep. -- HARDLY A DRUNK IN SEATTLE

DEAR HARDLY A DRUNK:

I wish you had told me why your boyfriend is so against being involved with someone who has an occasional drink. Were his parents alcoholics? Is he in recovery? Was he upset because it took three years for you to tell him you have a drink or two a month with your friends, and that's why he "doesn't trust you"?

While you and I may think your boyfriend's attitude is unreasonable, it's clear to me that if you want him, you will have to take "the pledge." If you can't, Adam is not The One for you.

DEAR ABBY:

My husband and I own a business in a rural community and have two additional employees. We all work together five days a week. It's a small, intimate office and nothing is private. Would it be considered unprofessional if my husband or I greeted each other with a kiss (a peck) when arriving or leaving the office in front of our staff but when no clients are present? I think it's OK, but he doesn't. -- SHOWING AFFECTION IN MISSOURI

DEAR SHOWING: If your husband isn't comfortable with demonstrations of affection in front of the staff, respect HIS feelings on the matter and do not force it.

Can I prevent kidney stones?

Q: I'm a 30-year-old man. Like many of my friends, I've gained weight since college. I read that being overweight can lead to kidney stones. A friend who just had kidney stones told me that passing them was incredibly painful. I'd like to lose weight, but until I succeed, is there anything I can do to prevent kidney stones?

Dr. Komaroff By Dr. Anthony Komaroff

When it comes to illnesses, there are worse things than kidney stones. But when it comes to pain, the passing of a stone is near the top of the list. Kidney stones are excruciatingly painful when they travel through the ureters, the tubes that connect the kidneys to the bladder.

As you may know, kidney stones are hard, chemical and mineral deposits that form inside the kidneys. Tiny stones may pass out of the body in urine without causing any discomfort. In fact, about nine out of 10 kidney stones will pass on their own within three to six weeks after forming.

However, a deposit can grow to be the size of a pea, a marble or even larger. These large stones may irritate the narrow ureter, causing pain and bleeding. Stones greater than one-fifth of an inch may have difficulty passing through the narrow ureter. Even worse, a stone may become lodged in the ureter, blocking the passage of urine and threatening to damage the kidney itself.

The number of Americans suffering from kidney stones is increasing, perhaps because of the increasing prevalence of obesity. In general, stones strike men twice as often as women.

A Harvard study of nearly 46,000 men (ages 40 to 75) found that high body mass indexes and large waist circumferences are both linked to an increased risk of kidney stones. And research from Europe and Asia shows that overweight people dump excess amounts of calcium and other chemicals into their urine, where the chemicals form stones.

Each year about a million Americans undergo treatment for kidney stones. One option is lithotripsy, a treatment that uses a series of ultrasonic shock waves to break up large stones into smaller ones that can be passed out of the body when you urinate.

But your focus on prevention is a good one because once you get kidney stones, the chance of getting them again is high. Much of the prevention advice is aimed at fending off a recurrence, but it may also help you to avoid kidney stones in the first place. Here are a few pointers:

-- Keep your fluid intake up. Kidney stones form when certain chemicals and minerals concentrate in the urine and form crystals. Drink plenty of fluids -- water is the safest bet. This will increase the amount of water in your urine, so those mineral concentrations don't get too high.

-- Eat calcium-rich foods. Calcium is a major component in about 85 percent of kidney stones, so it seems logical to avoid calcium in your diet, not seek it out. But most stones are composed of calcium combined with a substance called oxalate. If there is plenty of calcium in your diet, the calcium binds to oxalate in your intestines, keeping oxalate out of your bloodstream -- and urine. Less oxalate in the urine means fewer opportunities for calcium oxalate to form -- and fewer kidney stones. Calcium-rich foods include nonfat dairy products, leafy green vegetables and some varieties of fish, such as salmon.

CALL BUTTONS NEED A TEST

Dear Heloise: We need your help. I thought of you because you reach so many people, and our loved ones deserve this one basic need to be met. It won't cost anyone a cent, and it is easy to do.

Our friends and relatives who are patients and residents of facilities that use CALL BUTTONS -- independent and assisted-living facilities, nursing homes, hospitals, etc. -- are depending on us.

Anytime your friend or family member begins at a new facility, PLEASE TEST the call buttons. They often are found beside the bed and in the bathroom. We expect them to work. Make sure they are plugged in. Do they light up at the nurses' station? Do they light up outside the door in the hallway? Do they sound an alarm somewhere? -- Pat King, Cypress, Texas is a hint I'm happy to pass along. -- Heloise

PET PAL

Dear Readers: Christine in San Antonio sent a picture of her beautiful Lab mix, Sasha, doing morning stretching exercises with her daddy before going to the doggie park. To see Sasha and our other Pet Pals, go to www.Heloise.com and click on "Pets." -- Heloise

SHOE STORAGE

Dear Heloise: I store my out-of-season shoes in large, plastic storage boxes. I'm finding the lining on some of the shoes eaten away and cracked. Sometimes there is nothing left over in the shoe -- the lining is gone. I don't see any bugs. This is so creepy. Have you ever heard of this problem? We live in Houston. -- M.M. in Texas

I am guessing that your shoes are leather. Leather needs air circulating around it, so storing leather shoes in plastic long term is not the best method. Plastic storage boxes can give off a gas, which might be what's causing the lining to dissolve.

Keeping leather boots in the summer or sandals in the winter in a breathable cotton bag is what experts recommend. -- Heloise

SIMPLE SOLUTION

Dear Heloise: Here is a simple solution to an old problem: dealing with the toothpaste tube. Use the flat side of your comb to push the paste up, then turn and roll up the empty tube. Slip a large paper clip into the interior and exterior folds. Costs nothing and takes up no additional space. -- Z.N. in New Jersey

EASY ID

Dear Heloise: For the plethora of cords we seem to accumulate with all the electronics and can't remember which device they are connected to: attaching a flat, plastic bread-bag clip and putting the device name on it with a fine-tipped marker does the trick of identifying each cord. -- Connie, via email

HANGER HINT

Dear Heloise: I have found that the small hangers that come with baby clothes are very useful in the laundry room. I use them to air-dry socks, lingerie, gloves, place mats and other small items. The hangers with clips on them are especially useful. -- Linda S., Gillette, N.J.

THE STARS SHOW THE KIND OF DAY YOU'LL HAVE:

5-Dynamic; 4-Positive; 3-Average; 2-So-so; 1-Difficult

ARIES (March 21-April 19)

*** A sense of responsibility emanates through your day. You could be focused on a money matter involving another person or simply how to distribute the Halloween candy. A sense of letting go marks later today. Tonight: Keep it light.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20)

***** Keep reaching out for someone at a distance. You could be disturbed by everything that you are seeing and feeling. Worry less about others. You can always opt to go solo, if need be. What you feel might not be communicated in your words. Tonight: Put on music first.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20)

***** Deal with money and work issues. Instead of negligence or a power play, would it not be better to achieve a cohesive attitude and a game plan? Act on what you discover to be so. You will like the end results. Tonight: Togetherness is the theme.

CANCER (June 21-July 22)

*** Those who know you past your defensive Crab attacks recognize how very nurturing and caring you are. However, you don't need to be the lead player every time. You could be much happier letting someone else assume the responsibility he or she has coveted for a long time. Tonight: Enjoy the people around you.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22)

*** You are really into a project and determined to get as much done as possible. Still, you are likely to discover how easily you could be distracted. Remain focused and stay on top of communication. If you are longing to go off and do something personal, do. You might be too distracted anyway. Tonight: Go for something relaxing.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22)

***** Nearly everyone around you is focused and in Monday mode. Your mind might be aware that it is Monday, but your imagination goes haywire. You have some very fun thoughts and ideas. Maybe you can indulge and leave your routine behind early in the day. Tonight: Lighten up.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22)

***** Stay centered and remember your priorities. Whether your mind goes on overdrive or you are inundated with calls and requests, it seems close to impossible to complete a project. You will want to move a project to the back burner for a short period. Tonight: Head home.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21)

***** You have a lot to say, and considering the way you express yourself, you will be noticed. Use your gift of communication to make waves and be heard. From that point on a discussion becomes possible. Don't allow a sense of depression to get to you. Tonight: Enjoying the haunted quality of the night.
