Local officials warn jury duty scam might come to area

By JOHN WRIGHT
 Staff Writer

Calloway County officials want the public to know that Kentucky judge-executives do not have the power to sign arrest warrants.

That is the basis behind a suspected scam that officials believe could begin surfacing in the county at some point, where a caller warns that a judge-executive has, in fact, signed an arrest warrant for the receiver not appearing for jury duty. The caller, claiming to be from something called the "warrant division," goes on to say that he can accept payment in the form of cash, credit cards or pre-paid cards for bonds or fines associated with the warrant.

The caller reportedly does not specify where exactly the "warrant division" originates.

"This stopped being the case in the mid-1970s, where a county judge had this kind of power. That's when the state went to the district court system," said Calloway County Judge-Executive Larry Elkins, who also happens to be a former Murray police chief. "My first

CPE: Two-year tuition hike of 8 percent OK'd

By HAWKINS TEAGUE
 Staff Writer

During a meeting on Murray State University's campus Tuesday, the Kentucky Council on Postsecondary Education voted to allow public universities to raise tuition up to 8 percent over a two-year period, with no more than a 5 percent increase the first year.

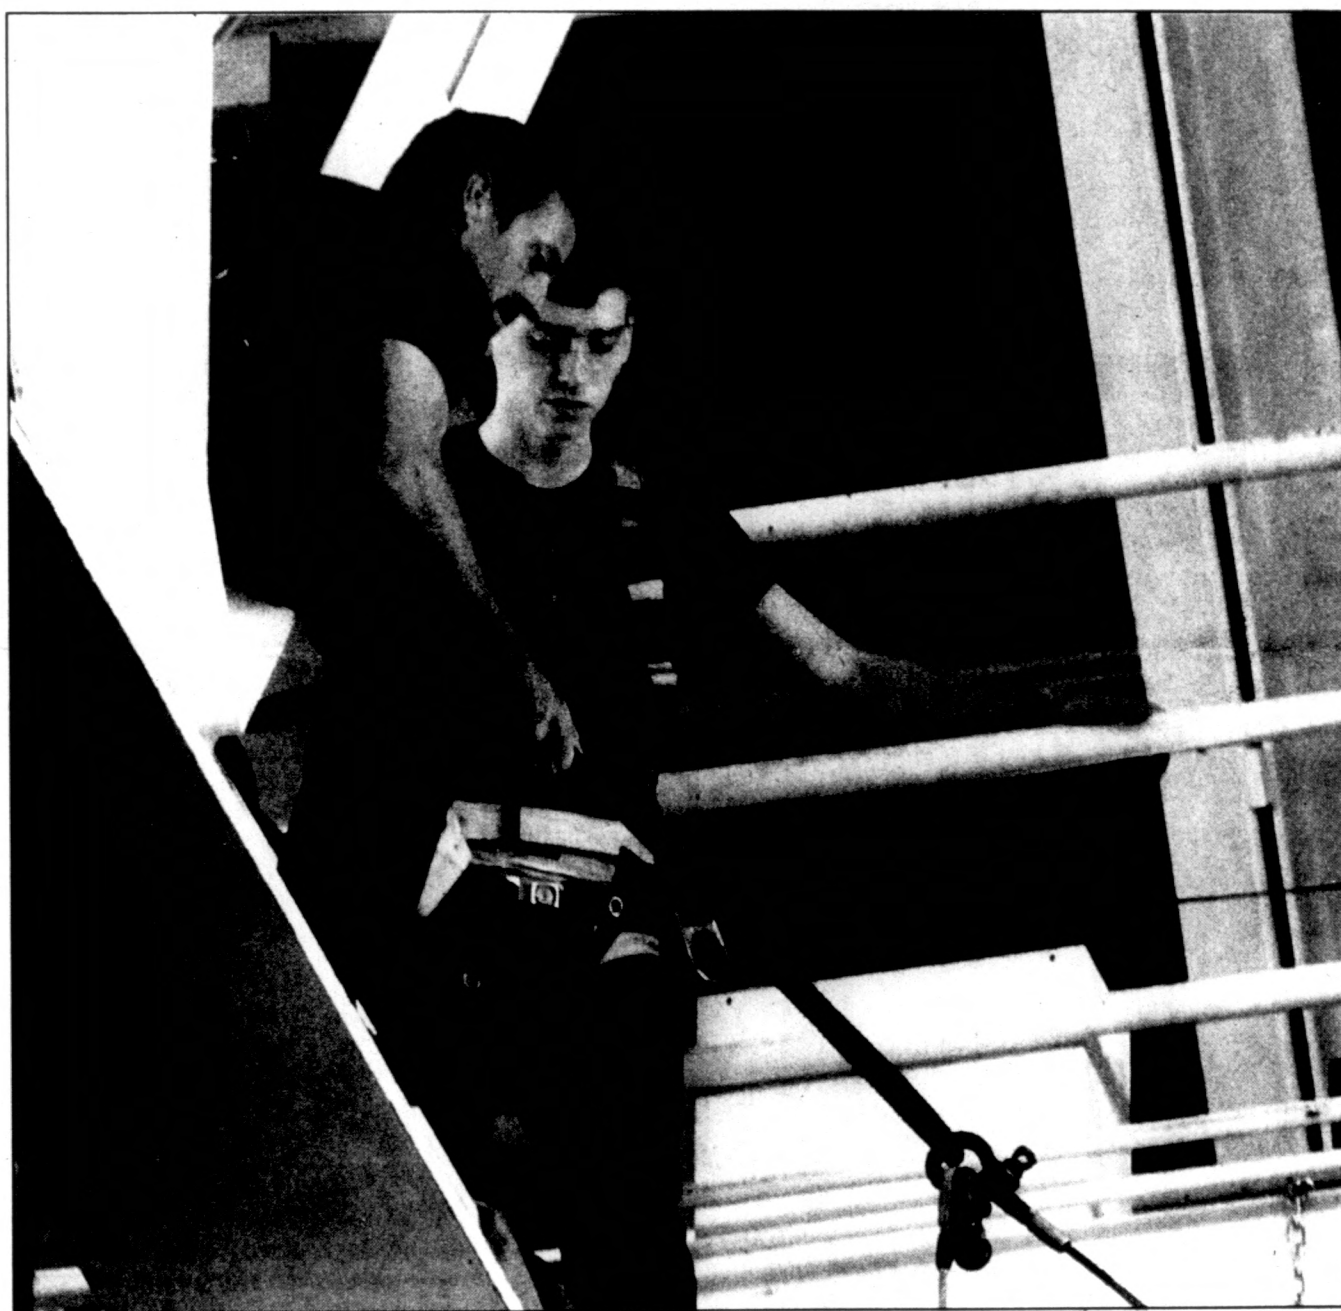

The CPE unanimously voted to approve recommendations from the Tuition Development Work Group, which were read aloud in the meeting by CPE member Glenn Denton of Paducah. The group recommended that the CPE approve resident, undergraduate tuition and mandatory fee ceilings for academic years 2014-15 and 2015-16 that do not exceed 5 percent in any one year and do not exceed 8 percent over two years.

Tornadoes tear through South, add to death toll

By ADRIAN SAINZ and JEFF AMY
 Associated Press

LOUISVILLE, Miss. (AP) — A dangerous storm system that spawned a chain of deadly tornadoes over three days flattened homes and businesses, forced frightened residents in more than half a dozen states to take cover and left tens of thousands in the dark Tuesday.

As the storm hopscotched across a large swath of the U.S., the overall death toll was at least 29, with 12 killed Monday and 17 Sunday in a band stretching from Oklahoma to Alabama. Forecasts showed the storm continuing to move east Tuesday, with Georgia and Alabama residents waking to sirens, howling wind and pounding rain. Others found their loved ones missing and their homes pulverized. Along Mississippi Highway 397 on the eastern edge of Louisville, firefighters picked through the remains of mobile homes, searching for three people unaccounted for after a tornado tore through.

The Louisville tornado caused water damage and carved holes in the roof of the Winston Medical Center. The emergency room was evacuated Monday.

Republican state Sen. Giles Ward huddled in a bathroom with his wife, four other family members and their dog as the tornado destroyed his two-story brick home in Louisville and flipped his son-in-law's SUV upside down onto the patio.

"For about 30 seconds, it was unbelievable," Ward said.

Officials said seven people died in Winston County, where Louisville is the county seat, with about 6,600 people. Another person died in Mississippi when her car either hydroplaned or was blown off a road during the storm in Verona, south of Tupelo, Lee County Coroner Carolyn Gillentine Green said.

One of the seven victims in Winston County was a woman who died in the day care center she owned in Louisville, county Coroner Scott Gregory told The Associated Press late Monday. Authorities were returning to the center Tuesday.

One seriously injured child was evacuated, said state Rep. Michael Evans, D-

College assaults being gauged

MSU officials say many safety practices in place

By AUSTIN RAMSEY
 Staff Writer

Murray State University plans to review and consider some of the recommendations the White House released Tuesday regarding the way public universities treat threats and victims of sexual assaults.

MSU's Safe Community Task Force biannually meets to make adjustments to the university's safety codes and the way officials handle threats to the community, says spokesperson Catherine Sivills. It's likely she said, that, as universities and colleges nationwide tweak their own approaches to sexual assault and abuse, that MSU will follow suit.

Early Tuesday afternoon, a White House task force on sexual assault released their findings. Public institutions of higher learning, the report finds, could do more to help protect and defend campus victims.

The report asks that schools identify trained, confidential victim's advocates and conduct surveys to better gauge the frequency of sexual assault on their campuses, since these types of crimes are underreported.

The report states that one in five female students is assaulted in the U.S., which Obama administration officials called appalling.

"Colleges and universities need to face the facts about sexual assault — no more turning a blind eye or pretending it does-

■ CPE; tuition...

From Front

It was also recommended that universities be able to revisit the 2015-16 tuition ceilings if there were a change by the General Assembly in net general fund appropriations.

MSU President Dr. Tim Miller said he was pleased that the CPE gave universities the flexibility on how much they could raise tuition in the first year. He said he planned to recommend a tuition rate increase of 5 percent to the Board of Regents.

"We desperately need 5 percent, so I'm thrilled that the council did pass the 5 percent," he said. "That allows us to recommend a 1 percent raise for faculty and staff, and we wouldn't have been able to do that with the 4 percent increase."

Miller said he has talked about raising tuition 5 percent at all the budget hearings held on campus this semester and has explained to students why after many other planned budget cuts, he believed the increase would be necessary to maintain the quality of university programs. Miller said it was unusual for the CPE to set tuition guidelines for a two-year period, but that he thought it was a good idea because it helped universities plan their budgets more effectively.

"So we know if we take, for example, 5 percent in the first year, then we're going to have 3 percent the second year," he said. "Then we have more time to plan for that and make sure that we can use that 3 percent wisely in the second year."

The CPE also approved new academic programs for MSU, Morehead State University and Kentucky State University. The approved MSU program is the Master of Science in Sustainability Science. It will be the only graduate program in sustainability science in Kentucky and one of only two in the nation, with the other being at the University of Massachusetts-Amherst, the CPE's packet said.

At the beginning of the meeting, the CPE also passed a resolution honoring Tim Miller for his "sure, steady and capable leadership" as interim president and strengthening the relationship between MSU and the CPE, among other attributes and accomplishments. He accepted a framed certificate from Pam Miller and thanked the council.

"I appreciate it," he said. "I'm just an accounting professor — that's all. I really enjoy teaching. I've learned so much from students, and that's what we're all about in higher education, is students. In Kentucky, we have the best students in the world, and I've really appreciated working with the presidents of all the universities. They're top-notch, high-quality, and we've got a heck of a system in Kentucky, and you guys provide that leadership, and thank you all for what you do."

n't exist." Vice President Joe Biden told reporters Tuesday in a briefing.

And indeed, Sivills said universities like Murray State are always looking for ways to do more, but much of the work at MSU is done up front on the preventative side of safety, which has kept sexual assault rates in the community well below the national average.

"We have several programs in place to protect our students," Sivills said. "But if there are more things we can do for our campus and community, we will do them."

Just last year, MSU became the third educational institution and first public university worldwide to earn a "safe community" designation by the National Safety Council, and Sivills said she believes that is because of the dedication Murray has on keeping people safe.

"But we can't rest on that," she said. "It's a wonderful designation, and it speaks a lot for the faculty staff but it doesn't mean that we're held safe from bad things happening. So we don't rely on that, we educate and try to keep our buildings and the community safer."

Campus-wide are found emergency call boxes that can give someone in need an immediate and direct link to MSU's state-of-the-art Public Safety dispatch center. Organizations like the Women's Center and Greek student groups help host events like Take Back the Night and Realities on Campus, that help educate especially incoming students about the dangers associated with being alone or abusing alcohol or drugs and sexual assault.

"But most importantly to the victims of assault is confirming that it's not your fault," she said. "You should expect to live in a safe community and not worry."

The Obama administration's task force has been working for the majority of this year on developing these recommendations and officials promised greater transparency and a new website — notalone.gov to do their part in ending the trend in sexual assaults.

Sivills and White House officials agree, however, that can be a daunting task with such low reported attacks and the prevalence of alcohol and/or drugs in most attacks.

"So many students come here when they're just 18 years old," Sivills said Tuesday. "They've never experienced some things alone. We don't want them to be."

■ Scam...

From Front

thought upon hearing about this is that it's kind of ridiculous and would be easy to figure out, but then I got to thinking about it. A lot of people probably don't understand the court system and how it works and, yeah, may actually think that the judge-executive has this kind of authority.

"We need to get ahead of it in case something like that does start happening to people here, and I figure it's a matter of time before that does happen."

Calloway County Sheriff Bill Marcum said he received a notice about the scam last week from Sheriff Charlie Williams of the Hardin County Sheriff's Office in Elizabethtown. In the notice, Williams said his office has investigated several complaints from people saying they had been contacted by the alleged scammer.

"You have a lot of folks who get caught off guard with a call like this or are just waking up from a nap, then they get hit by a call like this and they're not thinking straight. Or it could be that they actually are on the jury duty list and they get scared," Marcum said, adding that only the circuit court clerk in Kentucky counties deals with issues pertaining to jury duty. "All they have to do is pay for a few phone calls. If they get the right person(s), that's free money coming to them."

"This one doesn't seem like it's all that complicated," Elkins added. "Sometimes, though, it's the simple ones that you wouldn't think could cause a lot of trouble that end up being the most successful scams."

Upon being notified of the possible scam Tuesday, Calloway Circuit Clerk Linda Avery said she would be notifying her staff immediately in hopes of preparing them for calls that could come from jurors if they are contacted for the scam.

"We never issue warrants for jury duty. The only thing we do that involves law enforcement is, during a jury trial, if a juror has not shown up, we do have a deputy go to pick up the juror, but that is only in a trial situation," Avery said. "We don't have that problem much here, because we've found that our jurors want to serve their community and take that duty very seriously."

"We've had these (scams) before and it does outrage me that people try to take advantage using something like this, especially by trying to scare people."

Louisville, who is acting as a liaison for the county. The child's condition was not known Tuesday. Evans said authorities don't think any other children were in the center during the storm.

In Tupelo, a community of about 35,000 in northeastern Mississippi, every building in a two-block area was damaged, officials on the scene said.

On Tuesday morning, a blanket of fog hung over the city as authorities switched from a search-and-rescue mission to cleanup duties.

In one residential neighborhood, destroyed homes sat steps away from those left unscathed.

Crews cleared trees tangled with power lines, fixed cracked roadway signs and removed debris from streets.

In northern Alabama, the coroner's office confirmed two deaths in a twister that caused extensive damage west of the city of Athens, Limestone County Emergency Director Rita White. White said Monday night that rescuers could not reach some areas because of downed power lines.

The threat of dangerous weather jangled nerves a day after the third anniversary of a historic outbreak of more than 60 tornadoes that killed more than 250 people across Alabama on April 27, 2011.

In southern Tennessee, two people were killed in a home when a suspected tornado hit Monday night, Lincoln County Emergency Management Director Mike Hall said. The winds destroyed several other homes as well as a middle school in the county that borders Alabama, Hall said.

The storm system is the latest onslaught of severe weather a day after a half-mile-wide tornado carved an 80-mile path of destruction through the suburbs of Little Rock, Ark., killing at least 16. Tornadoes or severe storms also killed one person each in Oklahoma and Iowa on Sunday.

OUR READERS WRITE

To the editor:

The May 20th election is quickly approaching. As your current Jailer I would like to take the opportunity to thank the people of Calloway County for giving me the honor of being your Jailer for the past 16 years.

I will be retiring in January 2015 and will not be on the ballot for Jailer on May 20th. Many people have asked me who I'm supporting. All the Jailer candidates are friends of mine and I am not supporting a particular candidate in the Jailer's race and I have told each candidate that. If you are told that I am favoring a candidate you are being misinformed.

I wish all four candidates the best of luck during the campaign. I have invested 16 years of my life at the jail and it means a lot to me. I trust the voters to become informed about each of the candidates and vote for the one you feel has the best skills to do the best job for our County.

Thank you Calloway County for your support.

Phil Hazle

New Concord, Ky.

To the editor:

My compliments to Murray City Council members Linda Cherry, Jason Pittman, and Dan Miller for their straightforward comments about the state of zoning in Murray. They clearly recognize how some neighborhoods have come to be undesirable areas for families. The continuing zoning violations and lack of property maintenance do, as Dr. Miller aptly described, result in homes unsuitable for families.

Let's stop the "grandfathering" of properties that have been in violation. Ten years is a long time for violations to go unnoticed, even if the Kentucky Revised Statutes say it is acceptable to do so.

Please begin a proactive phase of communication with citizens, and enforcement, so that reactive measures won't have to be the norm. Allow the new code enforcement officer position to be backed up with enforceable penalties. Let's stop playing the "Whack-A-Mole" game. (Ask a kid how it works.)

Again, I commend those three forward thinking council members, as well as several others who have shown empathy and kindness to those of us who are passionate about our neighborhoods. As Mayfield, Kentucky Mayor Teresa Cantrell states on her website: "Just as no one should have to move out of their neighborhood to live in a better one, no one should have to move out of a community to live in a better one. We are the keys to our own community's recovery."

Kentuckians fight the Great War

It is hard to imagine what it must have been like 100 years ago during what we now refer to as World War I. Back then, or soon afterward, Americans simply referred to the world conflict as "The Great War." The commemoration of World War I will continue in various venues around the world during the next few years as it should. Historian Modris Ecksteins argued in his book, "The Rites of Spring: The Great War and the Birth of the Modern Era," that the war ushered in modernity.

This occurred in Kentucky as with everywhere else in the world. When World War I ended in 1918, and with it an era, the Kentucky writer Elizabeth Madox Roberts said, "It was about that time the great change came to all places." Kentuckians sacrificed for the allied cause along with the rest of the nation. Over 84,182 Kentuckians served in the war, including 13,584 African-American soldiers serving in segregated units. Over 2,418 Kentuckians out of the 116, 516 Americans died in the war. As America entered the war in 1917, a latecomer in the conflict, the other combatants suffered considerably, indeed exponentially, more.

Living in the trenches, among the rats and the lice, often standing in water and mud a foot deep for weeks at a time, led to trench foot and other diseases of exposure. Breathing in various gases, phosgene and mustard gases, killed thousands and left others gasping for air with damaged lungs for the rest of their shortened lives.

Various family members — mothers, fathers, grandmothers, grandfathers, aunts, uncles — found it difficult to explain not only deaths to children but also the meaning of terms such as "shell-shocked," as strong, young men came back, not to homes, but to institutions, to live out their days, looking out with blank stares into the middle distance, unable to acknowledge the greetings of loved ones.

As my brother Steve and I grew up, wherever we lived, Mom and Dad drove us once a year to the Veterans Hospital in Murfreesboro, Tenn. to visit our Mother's Uncle Marshall Mann. We knew him as Uncle Marsh, and he was a hero in our family and remains so today. He fought in the trenches on the Western Front during the Great War.

Dad would drive us onto those immaculate grounds of the Veterans Hospital, park, and a hospital official would direct us, if it was a nice spring day, to a bench underneath an oak tree. In a few minutes, a nurse led out our Uncle Marsh. He was a handsome gentleman, as an elderly man still walking ramrod straight. He always wore khaki pants and shirt, pressed smartly, with his shirt buttons secured all the way to the top. The nurse guided him, only touching his elbow ever so lightly, and Uncle Marsh looked straight ahead, walking slowly and deliberately.

He sat down on the bench next to us, and Steve and I would tell him hello. "We love you, Uncle Marsh." "We are proud of you, Uncle Marsh." We patted his still strong hands and told him, "Thank you for what you did for us and for our country." Uncle Marsh never talked because he could not talk. He looked straight ahead.

We sat with him for about an hour, the nurse came to escort him back to his room. And we would not see him again for another year. And then it was on the trip home that Mom would tell us how Uncle Marsh had been "shell-shocked" in the trenches. Only later did we learn that he had

Teacher of the Year addresses tomorrow's leaders

When Kentucky's Teacher of the Year, Murray's own Holly Bloodworth, addressed the graduates of Leadership Tomorrow, she shared her insights on leadership. Emphasizing the importance of relationships, the role of commitment, and willingness to try new things, she confessed that one way she recently headed her own advice was by taking guitar lessons this winter as part of a self-improvement plan.

Mrs. Bloodworth also counseled the group on taking initiative through an anecdote about attending a workshop about a community reading program that kept kids from sliding back in their reading levels over the summer. When Holly came back to Murray, she was fired up about getting a similar program launched locally. Because Murray/Calloway County is a community that cares, she was able to get like-minded people involved and now, six years later, the summer book program is an annual event, supported by enthusiastic volunteers, grateful parents, and generous sponsors.

Always a teacher, Holly was not content just to make a speech for the Leadership Tomorrow grads. She distributed paper and pencils and instructed the group they had a two-minute deadline. "Write one sentence about leadership," she told them.

When time was up, the teens lined up in the front of the room and presented their sentences, one after the other, to the audience.

"It's a spontaneous poem," Holly explained. "Read nice and loud."

Every sentence was memorable and instructive, and the flow from one sentiment to another was seamless and thought-provoking.

"I will lead with passion," one of the young women declared.

"You don't have to have a title to be a leader," said another.

"A leader is a person you'd follow to a place you wouldn't go by yourself," was one of my favorites.

Each graduate received a plaque, a class picture, and a copy of the Dr. Seuss classic, "Oh the Places You'll Go."

Leadership Tomorrow is an initiative of Murray-Calloway Community Education and is sponsored by Leadership Murray Alumni, along with the Murray Independent Schools and the Calloway County Schools. Sherry Purdom coordinates the program and relies on a cadre of donors and volunteers to keep things on track.

Laurie Edminster from Murray High School, and Jamey McDaniel from Calloway County High School, chaperone the group through a series of eight informative sessions that start in late August. A leadership retreat always kicks off the year, followed by day-long programs that examine themes and challenges important to the community — past, present, and future.

Agriculture, arts and humanities, health care, community resources, law/justice, government, business/industry are typical sessions. When weather allows, which it did not this year, the group makes a trip to Frankfort during the legislative session, to see state government up close and to meet legislators.

MSU President Dr. Tim Miller and Murray Mayor Bill Wells rounded out the roster of local dignitaries in attendance. In his brief remarks, Mr. Wells shared a thought he believes is good advice at any age. "A true leader," he said, "is someone who turns around every once in a while to see that someone's following them."

Sherry Purdom's favorite leadership quote, uttered by Eleanor Roosevelt, was prominently featured on the program's back page. "No one can make you feel inferior without your consent."

The purpose of Leadership Tomorrow is to provide an overview of Murray and Calloway County, with an emphasis on information that offers a broad perspective of the community, while developing the leadership and communications skills of participants. Like most programs that strengthen the community, Leadership Tomorrow depends on the kindness and gracious volunteerism of caring people and organizations. One of the most vital is the local chapter of the American Legion, which feeds the Leadership Tomorrow participants every year.

Leadership Tomorrow is designed for juniors and seniors in high school who exhibit leadership qualities and a express a concern for their community. Grades are not part of the criteria in selection of participants, but applicants must be in good enough academic standing to attend nine days of Leadership Tomorrow sessions during school hours, while also making up any work missed in a timely fashion.

For more information on the Leadership Tomorrow program, email sherry.purdom@murray.kyschools.us.

Comer: First hemp crop in decades set for planting

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — Kentucky's first industrial hemp crop in decades will start going into the ground next month now that the pipeline for shipping seeds into the state is opening up to allow the experimental plantings, state Agriculture Commissioner James Comer said Tuesday.

Comer said he expects the first batches of hemp seeds to arrive in coming days at the state Agriculture Department at Frankfort.

"We're rapidly approaching a crucial time for the seeds to be put in the ground," he said by phone.

So far, eight pilot projects are planned statewide as part of a small-scale reintroduction to gauge the versatile crop's potential in the marketplace and as a money maker for farmers. The first planting is scheduled for May 16 in Rockcastle County, said Comer's chief of staff, Holly Harris VonLuehrte.

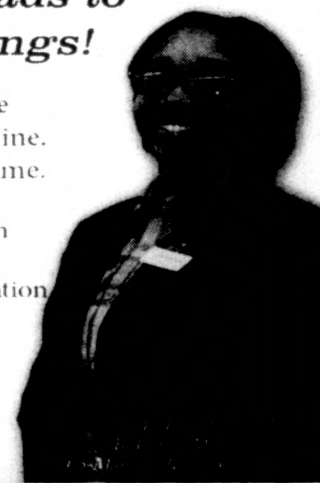

"Hopefully we can get enough seeds to have credible research data gathered by this fall," Comer said. "And next year, hopefully we'll have enough seeds to have several processors in the state and several farmers under contract growing it."

Nesbitt feels comfortable in first attempt at public office

By JOHN WRIGHT Staff Writer

Richard "Dickie" Nesbitt feels right at home in making his debut as a candidate for public office.

That is because it literally is happening in his home area — the 3rd District magisterial district of Calloway County — as he seeks the Democratic Party nomination for that seat in the May primary.

"I've lived in this district my whole life, and I feel like I know what's going on here," said Nesbitt, 55. "For me, though, I entered this race because I just really enjoy helping people, and I want to have that chance on the fiscal court."

"I've been in construction for many, many years and I think that kind of work goes along with the magistrate's job. You're helping people with things they need done, which is what a magistrate does."

Nesbitt also believes his family name gives him an edge in this race. He owns R.H. Nesbitt Masonry, which was founded by his father Richard, and has worked there for 38 years. Dickey Nesbitt has also farmed for several years.

"I think our name is seen in a pretty positive way here," he said. "I started talking to people about this really early (even before he knew for sure that incumbent Bobby Stubblefield would not be seeking re-election, though it was widely speculated even before he announced the decision in early January). I didn't need to put out that many signs."

"I'm kind of old school on this stuff. I'm not real computer savvy, and I liked it a lot better when we had no cell phones and other gadgets. I come from a time where if you couldn't find somebody, well somebody came and found you."

"I've got a pretty good asphalt road in front of my house and there are lot of times I kind of wish mine were broken up a bit just to slow things down."

However, while Nesbitt prefers the more simple, slower style of life, he knows that today is much faster for the majority of the world, which includes his would-be constituency. He said his No. 1 priority would be to see to it that any issue a voter/resident of District 3 had received action as quickly as possible.

"With helping people, that means you are on duty 24/7. I want the voters to know that my phone will be on all of the time, and I will be ready to listen to whatever problem they may have," he said, mentioning roads. "I have known Calloway County Road Supervisor Ricky Edwards for many years, and we have talked many times about issues that crop up. I know that this past winter many of the roads fell apart and it's probably going to keep getting worse until the hot weather comes."

"I also know that your ability to help the people of the district all depends on county money and how much is available, and I'd do my best to make sure we're doing what we can to be responsible in that area."

Stubblefield is leaving the District 3 seat at the end of this year and will have served five terms. Nesbitt is one of five Democrats seeking that office, along with Henry Armstrong, Tim Stone, Bobby Hill and Billy Paul "Bucky" Erwin — the last two candidates he said have been friends of his for many years.

"We're going to stay friends once this is over. We're not going to let something like an election and the fact that we're all running for the same office get in the way of that," he said.

The survivor of the May 20 primary will then have Republican Don Cherry awaiting him in the November general election. Cherry was the only Republican to file in the race.

National Astronomy Day at Golden Pond Planetarium

Special to the Ledger
Land Between the Lakes National Recreation Area and the West Kentucky Amateur Astronomers (WKAA) will host National Astronomy Day on Saturday, May 10, at the Golden Pond Planetarium, located at the Golden Pond Visitor Center, from 12-4 p.m.

Enjoy free, full-dome, digital, surround sound planetarium shows at 10 and 11 a.m. and 1, 2, 3, and 4 p.m. A star party will take place at the Observatory after dark, weather permitting.

At various times throughout the day, astronomy club members will explain how you can get started in astronomy. Visitors will learn tips on observing the night sky, buying your first telescope and safely viewing the sun.

"The planetarium offers a variety of shows and provides an exciting way for our visitors to learn more about astronomy," said Ross Workman, lead planetarium interpreter. "During National Astronomy Day we teach visitors about the planets and how the sun affects earth's climate and environment. We also open the observatory for people to safely observe the sun through our solar telescope."

National Astronomy Day promotes and encourages astronomy as a science and hobby. For more information or directions to the Golden Pond Visitor Center, visit www.lbl.org. Friends of Land Between the Lakes at www.friendsoflbl.org or Western Kentucky Amateur Astronomers at www.wkaa.net.

It's "Run for the Roses" time again. Derby Day is Saturday. One of the unique characteristics of the Kentucky Derby, and its sister event, the Kentucky Oaks, is that they are sports parties that showcase the finest in spring fashion. There are no hard and fast rules when it comes to Derby dressing. In the reserved seating area ladies typically wear pastel-colored suits, frilly dresses or bold separates that coordinate with their Derby hats. Part southern tradition, part spectacle, the Kentucky Derby hat parade is much of what makes "The Greatest Two Minutes in Sports" one of the greatest people-watching events in the world. The Derby is a chance for every female to express her inner Southern Belle, so don't hold back when planning your Derby attire. Wearing a hat to the Kentucky Derby believed to bear good luck. Dress or hat, which comes first? There are different opinions on this. There are just a few things to keep in mind in getting it together. If your hat is patterned, keep the hat simple. If the hat is elegant, keep the outfit simple for a classy look. If you want a funky outfit keep it consistent and accent the hat most of all. We have a lot of new dresses that have just arrived that go from elegant to sporty-casual. Palazzo pants are also a good choice for a Derby party. We have the perfect jewelry and accessories to complete your look. New tops and jeans are also here. Congratulations to Jackie Ballard, who won this week's giveaway. "Like" and "Share" us on Facebook to be eligible, or come in the store. We have sale racks 50-75% off. Stay tuned to next week's fun and fashion report...

The Health Information Management Department at Murray-Calloway County Hospital celebrated Health Information Professionals week during the week of March 16. The American Health Information Management Association has celebrated health information management professionals for 25 years. Health Information Management is also known as Medical Records.

The HIM department at MCCH celebrated with a luncheon and was recognized by MCCH Administration on March 19.

Health information management is an allied health profession that is responsible for ensuring the availability, accuracy and protection of the clinical information needed to provide healthcare-related decisions. Health information professionals work in a variety of settings, including hospitals, clinics, physician offices and many other organizations. They play a key role in the effective management of health data and medical records needed to deliver quality healthcare to the public. The work HIM professionals do to ensure the integrity of health information is imperative to clinical and administrative decision making. Access to accurate information helps everyone make important decisions and leads to a healthy society.

Lourdes offers Living Well Workshops

Special to The Ledger

Do you struggle with managing a chronic disease such as arthritis, depression, diabetes, heart disease, high blood pressure or any other chronic conditions? There are free classes just for you. Lourdes is co-sponsoring The Living Well Workshops to assist individuals in learning better management of chronic diseases.

The Living Well Workshops are based on the Chronic Disease Self-Management Program developed at Stanford University. Some of the topics include how to control pain, manage stress, solve problems, how to start an exercise program, and communicate better with your health care provider and family members. The program provides helpful tools for people living with chronic health conditions. Living Well Workshops are held for six weeks, two-and-a-half hours each week. The workshop helps people suffering from diabetes, arthritis, asthma, heart disease, high blood pressure, depression, and lung disease. Program dates are May 13, 20, 27, June 3, June 17, June 24 from 9:30 am - Noon.

Classes are held at the Lourdes Medical Pavilion, Suite #401. For more information, call 270-804-2818.

Baptist Health Paducah provides economic boost

Special to The Ledger

People who didn't even use services at Baptist Health Paducah in 2013 still benefitted from the organization's economic impact on the region and charitable contributions.

- 1,750 employees make Baptist Health Paducah one of the region's largest employers.

- $75 million annual payroll represents about 5 percent of all wages and salaries in McCracken County.

- Hospital purchases and those made by employees generate approximately $73 million in local economic activity.

- $359,000 in community donations from the hospital and staff includes $100,000 to the local nursing school.

- Approximately 115 volunteers provide more than 30,000 hours' service.

According to the Kentucky Hospital Association, these dollars have a "ripple effect" in the larger economy, supporting other businesses and jobs in the community and generating tax revenue to fund state programs.

Lane resigns as Calloway head coach Tuesday

AD BUTLER SAYS LAKERS WILL LOOK FOR 'BEST FIT'

By EDWARD MARLOWE
Sports Writer

Calloway County boys basketball head coach Bruce Lane met with his players and staff Tuesday afternoon to inform them of his decision to resign from his position.

The news followed a meeting between Lane and current CCHS principal Randy McCallon Tuesday morning, in which Lane delivered his letter of resignation in person and discussed the situation at hand.

"Lane came in and discussed the program a lot," McCallon said by phone Tuesday night. "Bruce handed me his letter of resignation and asked that I accept that."

"He indicated he wanted to take a step back and spend more time with his family and kids — that was the primary of our discussion."

McCallon went on to praise Lane's loyalty and dedication to the Laker program, citing years of Laker basketball success under his tenure. McCallon also said Lane was someone that could be counted on, reliable and someone who was always working and trying to improve.

"I have grown to admire and appreciate his work ethic, regardless of the role he was put in," McCallon continued.

First-year Calloway County Athletic Director Greg Butler said on Tuesday evening while Lane's resignation was far from expected — to him, it doesn't come as a shock.

"We were and still are good friends, and I used to coach myself," Butler related. "When my kids got older, I realized on the bench that I missed what my kids were doing."

"I think he stepped down for the right reasons."

Lane said Tuesday's meeting with the team was emotional, albeit a good one, and that the team was behind him with his decision.

"I thought about it a lot the last month and a half, and I'm to the point in my life where I've got a 9 year-old daughter and a 7 year-old son and I always put my family first, and my wife of course," Lane said about his decision. "It's just a point in my life where I think I need to make a change and spend more time with them."

Admittedly a tough decision, Lane said basketball has been a part of his life for nearly 40 years.

He has been either an assistant or a coach at Calloway for the past 15 years, and Lane said while family is the primary focus, the itch to coach again may return.

In the mean time, Lane said he will wrap things up appropriately with his squad before shifting his priorities elsewhere.

"I'll never say never," Lane said of his future coaching prospects. "I'm going to finish the year out and plan out everything for the kids. I still love the kids and hope they think the same about me."

"Anything those guys need, I'm here for them...this was totally my choice."

Lane finished 123-88 over seven years as head coach, serving as an assistant at Calloway County prior to taking the helm.

Most recently, he was named the KABC Region 1 "Coach of the Year" for 2014 after leading the Lakers to a 19-9 finish and into the first round of the Region 1 tournament, where they fell to McCracken County.

Butler said the hiring process will start soon — perhaps today — while current staff will maintain the day-to-day activities of summer workouts and extended gym work for the squad.

With strong returning pieces from last season, Butler said he hopes the process is short while finding the "best fit."

"It's going to be hard to look on the sideline next season and see that he's not there," he said.

2014 NCAA DIVISION I WOMEN'S TENNIS CHAMPIONSHIP

The Murray State women's tennis team gathered inside the Racers Room at Roy Stewart Stadium Tuesday to watch the NCAA Division I Women's Tennis Championship selection show. The Racers and head coach Olga Elkin (below) will travel to face No. 9 seed Vanderbilt May 9 in the first round.

RACERS TRAVEL TO FACE VANDERBILT FOR NCAA FIRST ROUND MATCHUP

By RICKY MARTIN
Sports Editor

When Murray State head coach Olga Elkin asked her club to pick a "team word" at the beginning of the year, she couldn't have imagined how perfect that selection would become.

Tuesday, after Murray State learned it will face Vanderbilt in the first round of 2014-NCAA Division I Women's Tennis Championship, Elkin reflected on her team's choice.

"The word was determined," she said. "We kind of took that word with anything we did."

Like before the start of Ohio Valley Conference play, when Elkin took the Racers out to dinner.

As the MSU players began discussing the OVC Tournament, Junior Andrea Eskauriatza — who was battling a pulled groin — proclaimed she'd be fully healthy by tournament time.

Elkin had to step in, however.

"They just didn't really even know how college tennis worked," Elkin recalled. "Andrea made the comment that she would be healthy for the tournament, but I told them we have to make the tournament first."

"They had no idea you played conference matches, so they really had to be determined in understanding how college tennis works and what a real college tennis environment is like."

Or like the time the Racers stepped off the bus in Richmond, Ky., to face Eastern Kentucky, the league's only other undefeated team.

"They didn't know they weren't supposed to beat Eastern Kentucky or that EKVU was the two-time defending champion, because they didn't know anything about EKVU," Elkin said. "They weren't intimidated and they were determined to win."

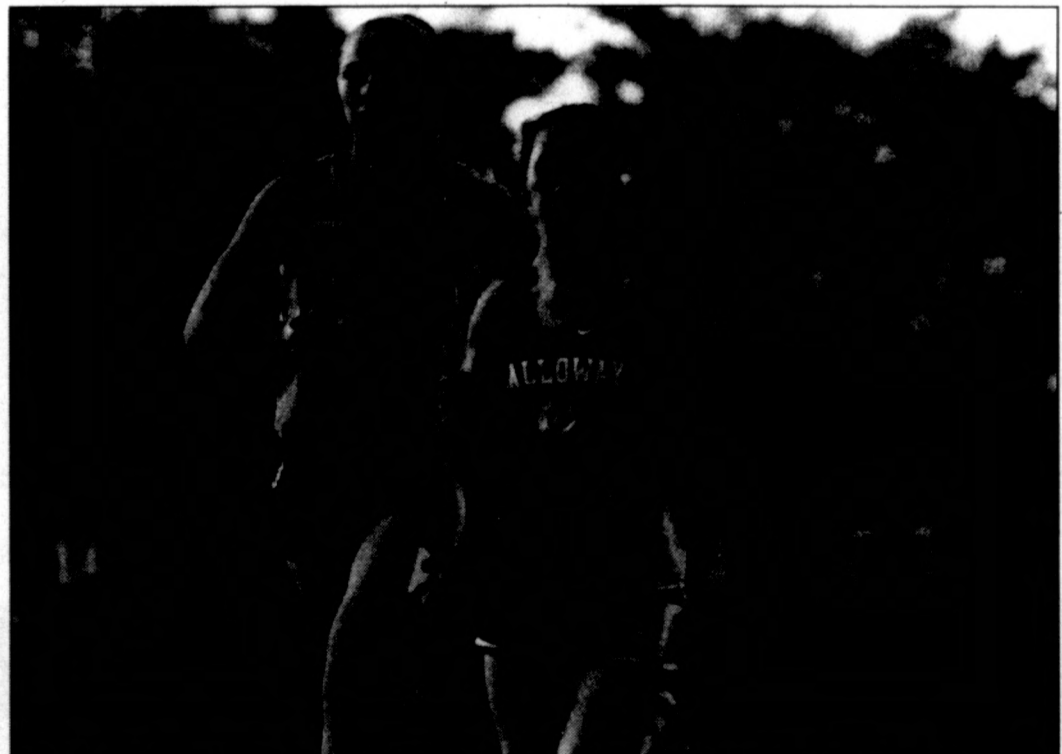

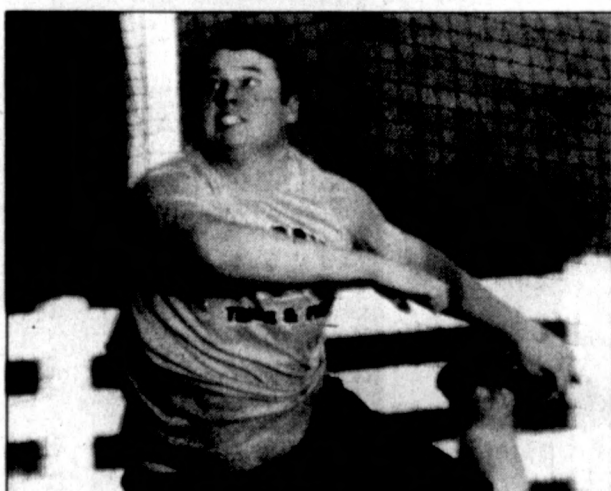

And the Racers did. Then, Murray State beat EKVU again, most recently for a conference championship.

"I just have a group that's very determined and we used that through the whole season," Elkin said following Tuesday's NCAA selection show. "If you watch

Sterling banned for life by NBA

NEW YORK (AP) — NBA Commissioner Adam Silver delivered the swiftest, strongest penalty he could, then called on NBA owners to force Los Angeles Clippers owner Donald Sterling to sell the team for making racist comments that hurt the league.

Almost unanimously, owners supported the commissioner Tuesday, as he handed down one of the harshest penalties in the history of U.S. sports.

"We stand together in condemning Mr. Sterling's views. They simply have no place in the NBA," Silver said at a news conference.

Sterling, 80, is banned for life from any association with the league or the Clippers, and was fined $2.5 million — the maximum allowable under the NBA constitution. If three-fourths of the other 29 owners agree to Silver's recommendation, Sterling will be forced to sell the team he has owned since 1981.

A message left seeking comment at Sterling's business office hadn't been returned Tuesday afternoon. Team spokesman Seth Burton said in an email that the Clippers had no plans to issue a statement from Sterling on Tuesday.

Players and others cheered Silver's quick action, with union officials saying that if the league's punishment hadn't included a mandate for Sterling to sell the team, players were considering boycotting playoff games, including Tuesday's Golden State Warriors-Clippers matchup, the team's first home game since the scandal erupted.

"We wanted to be a part of this decision, and we wanted Adam Silver to know where we stood. And we were very clear that anything other than Sterling selling his team was not going to be enough for us," said Roger Mason Jr., the first vice president of the players' union.

Chris Paul, the Clippers' All-Star point guard and the president of the players' union, issued a brief statement before leading Los Angeles against the Warriors in Game 5 of their tied playoff series.

"In response to today's ruling by the NBA and Commissioner Adam Silver, my teammates and I are in agreement with his decision," Paul said. "We appreciate the strong leadership from Commissioner Silver and he has our full support."

Sterling's comments — which were recorded by his girlfriend and released by TMZ on Saturday — harmed the league, Silver said. Sponsors were threatening to abandon the NBA, and criticism was coming from fans on social media and even the White House.

Sterling criticized V. Stiviano — purportedly the female voice on the recording — for posting pictures of herself with black athletes Magic Johnson and Matt Kemp.

"It bothers me a lot that you want to broadcast that you're associating with black people. Do you have to?" Sterling asks the woman on the recording.

"Sentiments of this kind are contrary to the principles of inclusion and respect that form the foundation of our diverse, multicultural and multiethnic league," Silver said.

The NBA's longest-tenured owner keeps his team for now — and Silver said he didn't know if Sterling would fight to do so permanently.

But he can't attend games or practices, can't be involved in any personnel decisions or participate in board of governors meetings.

Just three days after the scandal broke, and hours before the Clippers hosted their biggest game of the season, Silver apologized to some of the league's black pioneers while meting out a punishment he believed would satisfy outraged players and fans.

Attorneys for Vanderbilt players want case dropped

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — Defense attorneys for a former Vanderbilt player alleged to be involved in the gang rape of a woman in a campus dorm last June are accusing prosecutors of destroying or not preserving evidence.

The allegations were contained in a motion filed Tuesday asking for the case against Brandon Vandenburg to be dismissed.

The attorneys say the woman told police that then-Vanderbilt Coach James Franklin and his strength coach contacted her after the alleged assault, telling her they cared because she helped with recruiting. The filings didn't elaborate. They say the woman also told police that Franklin also had asked for help getting 15 "pretty girls together and form a team to assist with the recruiting."

Franklin now coaches at Penn State.

them play every single match and every single practice, our girls are determined.

"We brought that with us in anything we did and everywhere we went."

Now, the Racers will travel to Nashville to face the Commodores, the No. 9 seeded team in the field of 64.

Vandy will host MSU at 1 p.m. Friday, May 9, with the winner advancing to play either Georgia Tech or Purdue at 4 p.m. Saturday.

The Racers faced nationally ranked Chattanooga, Memphis and Tennessee this season, and Elkin said there's one similarity between all of the major conference schools this time of year.

"They just play the bigger points better," she said. "That's something we are going to have to work on, because schools like Vandy have done this many, many times. They are comfortable with the big points, those important points.

"We just have to concentrate a little bit better on the big points and kind of game plan going in and make sure we focus really, really well on the points we have to get. Anything that's close we have to buckle down and be mentally strong."

NOTES: Murray State finished 16-5 overall this season and 9-1 in OVC play... The Racers are making their fifth appearance in the NCAA Tennis Tournament and first since 2007... MSU is 0-4 in NCAA Tournament history and has played Vanderbilt in three out of its four trips to the tourney... The Racers fell to the Commodores 4-0 in 2001 and again by a 5-0 margin in 2002. In 2007, MSU fell to Vandy 4-0, and in their only other trip the Racers lost 4-0 to Tennessee.

MSU SOFTBALL

Racers wrap up non-conference today

From MSU Athletics

The Murray State softball team will play the final game of its non-conference schedule on Wednesday when it travels to the Bluff City to take on regional rival Memphis.

The Racers took two games from then OVC-leading SIU Edwardsville last weekend, 5-4 in 10 innings and 7-2. In game one, Murray State led 1-0 and 4-1 in the game, but each time the cougars answered in the very next inning, eventually sending the game to extras. After nearly three full additional innings, MSU finally broke the tie with sacrifice fly from Leslie Bridges to score Cayla Levins and win the game.

Game two belonged to the Racers from start to finish, as they began the game with seven unanswered runs. SIUE finally got on the scoreboard in the seventh, but it was not enough as MSU completed the sweep of the Cougars for the second consecutive year. The wins moved the Racers to just a half-game back of fourth-place Eastern Kentucky in the OVC standings, while the two losses dropped SIUE from first to third.

Alexa Becker had an outstanding series and was rewarded for her play by being named as the adidas® OVC Player of the Week. Becker finished the doubleheader at 4-for-7 with a .571 average. She finished the doubleheader with three runs, four RBIs, two walks, two home runs and went a perfect 3-for-3 on the base paths. She also posted a .667 on-base percentage and a whopping 1.429 slugging percentage.

In the game one, 10-inning win over the Cougars, Becker went 2-for-3 with two runs, three RBIs, two walks and two home runs. She followed that up with a 2-for-4 performance in game two, to go along with a run and a RBI. This was her first OVC honor of the season and third of her career.

This will be the fifth meeting all-time between Murray State and Memphis in the Tiger Softball Complex. Murray State has never beaten Memphis, but has lost all four previous meetings by just one run each. In 2012, the Tigers took both games of a doubleheader in Memphis by a 1-0 score, then followed that up last season by winning two games in Murray by identical 5-4 scores.

Memphis is coming off a rough weekend in Tampa where it was swept in a three-game set by USF. The Tigers were shutout twice in the series and outscored 24-1 over the three-game set. Memphis was also limited to just one hit in each game, with Lindsay Braman coming up with two of them. Braman was also responsible for the Tigers' lone run and RBI in the series, as she went yard for a team-high fifth time this season in game one.

Lindsay Crowder currently leads Memphis with a .348 average, while Brittany Vaughn and Georganna Goodwin follow at .299. Ellen Roberts is the current ace of the Tiger staff at 11-7 on the season with a team-low 2.68 ERA. She has limited opponents to a .267 average and has struck out a team-high 138 strikeouts.

Wicked Strong running for Boston in Derby

COLT NAMED IN HONOR OF THE VICTIMS IN BOMBINGS AT LAST YEAR'S BOSTON MARATHON

By BETH HARRIS
AP Racing Writer

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — Wicked Strong has a built-in fan base for the Kentucky Derby. Like the entire city of Boston.

The colt named in honor of the victims of last year's Boston Marathon bombings figures to be among the favorites for Saturday's race. He's got the credentials, having impressively won the Wood Memorial at 9-1 odds.

Wicked Strong is owned by a Boston-based partnership that has pledged to donate 5 percent of any money won by the bay colt during the Triple Crown series to the fund set up for the bombing victims.

"It's a neat thing," trainer Jimmy Jerkens said. "Might be an extra force that will help us, if you believe in that kind of stuff."

Does Jerkens?

"Sometimes you do," he replied. "Things seem to happen like that for some unexplained reason."

Wicked Strong began racing with the name Moyné Spun. Donald Little Jr., who heads the Centennial Farms partnership, didn't like that moniker and decided to rename the horse with the marathon bombings in mind.

His first thought was Boston Strong, but the name was already taken. So the new name became Wicked Strong — giving it a linguistic Boston twist.

It seems to fit the once-headstrong colt, which got away from his handlers a couple times early in his career. That's why Jerkens keeps a pony waiting to escort Wicked Strong back to the barn after a trip to the track.

The colt ranked fourth on the points leaderboard that determines the maximum 20-horse field for the 1 1/4-mile Derby. The victory in the Wood — his first in a stakes race — and the 100 points that went to the winner put him in the Derby picture.

"He ran terrific," Jerkens said of the colt's 3 1/2-length win. "He laid up closer to the pace without any effort, which I thought was great. The pace was really lively and he was sitting up five or six (lengths) off the lead without any effort. He certainly finished up good."

The victory in the Wood was just Wicked Strong's second in six career races.

He will be the first Derby starter for both Centennial Farms, which won the 1993 Belmont Stakes with Colonial Affair, and Jerkens, a 55-year-old son of Hall of Fame trainer Allen Jerkens.

"It's nerve-racking, especially when you're here with only one horse," the younger Jerkens said. "You're looking at him so much, you almost start creating problems."

Jerkens has 23 horses in his New York-based stable. He's currently tied for 16th in the New York Racing Association trainer's standings, winning at a 25 percent clip.

His 85-year-old father tried three times to win the Derby, his best finish being sixth place in 1978 with Sensitive Prince. He sent his son off to Louisville with the advice to treat the Derby like any other race.

"A lot of people fall into that trap of second-guessing themselves," the younger Jerkens said. "You can't let anybody or anything sway your judgment. Don't train him any different just because somebody will come up to you and say, 'So and so went out there and did this with his horse.' I'm confident in how we've handled him so far."

Jerkens thought he had a shot at winning the Derby in 2009 with Quality Road, calling him "the most talented horse I ever put my hands on." Quality Road won the Florida Derby, but injured his right back foot that day. Later, he hurt his right front foot and missed the Triple Crown series.

Less than two months later, the late owner-breeder Edward Evans fired Jerkens and sent Quality Road to trainer Todd Pletcher.

Now Jerkens is actually at Churchill Downs with a chance to win, for himself, his father and the city of Boston. His father is nicknamed "The Giant Killer" for his record of big upsets, and Jerkens would like nothing more than to add to the family history.

tent franchises in pro sports, and nearly all of their previous seasons would have been finished by now. But after the most successful two-year stretch in Clippers history, the current team is a title contender led by Doc Rivers, a black coach whom Sterling brought in from Boston and paid $7 million a year.

"(Sterling) made the decision that really was the right one that had to be made," Rivers said before the Clippers' game. "I don't think this is something that we rejoice in or anything like that. I told the players about the decision, and I think they were just happy there was a resolution and that it's over, at least the start of it. I think we're all in a better place because of this."

Silver said the ban applied only to Sterling, and there had been no discussions about whether he could sell to a family member.

Many owners supported Silver, and none of them publicly defended Sterling.

"We applaud the firm punishment handed out today by NBA Commissioner Adam Silver and appreciate the swiftness with which the NBA conducted its investigation," Warriors co-owner Joe Lacob said in a statement.

The fine will be donated to organizations dedicated to anti-discrimination and tolerance efforts, Silver said.

Sterling, with an estimated net worth of about $2 billion, did not comment, though Silver said he did not apologize for his remarks. Silver said Sterling confirmed that he was the person on the recording.

Silver hasn't even been on the job three months and already had to face a crisis that threatened the league not only financially — with several companies ending or suspending their sponsorships of the Clippers — but more importantly, socially.

The NBA survived the Indiana Pacers' brawl with Detroit Pistons fans, and referee Tim Donaghy betting on games he officiated. But this brought a different level of outrage, particularly because the league could have done something sooner about Sterling, who has faced federal charges of civil rights violations and racial discrimination in his business dealings.

"This has all happened in three days, and so I am hopeful there will be no long-term damage to the league and to the Clippers organization," Silver said. "But as I said earlier, I'm outraged so I certainly understand other people's outrage."

After the announcement, the Clippers' website had a simple message: "We are one."

"We wholeheartedly support and embrace the decision by the NBA and Commissioner Adam Silver today. Now the healing process begins," the Clippers added in a statement.

Rivers canceled practice Monday and declined a meeting request from Sterling. He wouldn't address whether he would return next season if Sterling were still in control, a stance reaffirmed by the coach before Game 5 of the Clippers' playoff series with Golden State.

That might not be an issue if the owners vote to oust the owner.

Sterling is estranged from his wife and had been dating Stiviano, 31. In court documents, Stiviano describes him as a man "with a big toothy grin brandishing his sexual prowess in the faces of the Papparazzi and caring less what anyone else thought, the least of which, his own wife."

Silver said when he first heard the audio, he hoped it had been altered or was fake, but thought it was Sterling. And it doesn't matter if Sterling didn't realize he was being recorded, Silver said.

"Whether or not these remarks were initially shared in private, they're now public, and they represent his views."

40 Years!

The WIC program is celebrating its 40th year anniversary (1974 to 2014)!

The WIC program is the Special Supplemental Nutrition Program for Women, Infants, and Children. To be eligible for WIC, you must be pregnant, have recently had a baby, are breastfeeding, or have a child younger than 5 years of age.

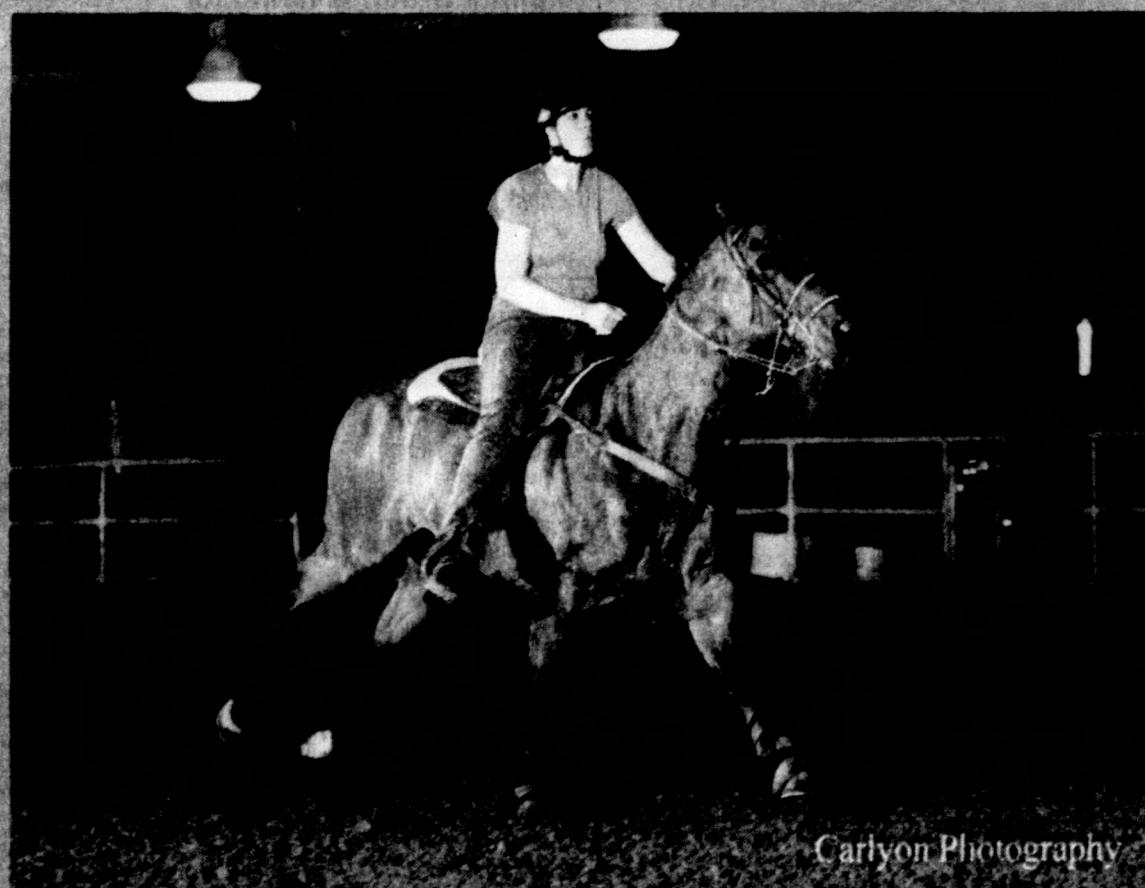

You may be eligible for WIC benefits even if you receive Food Stamps and/or have private insurance.

A Family of Four making $849 per week or $44,123 per year meets the income guidelines to be eligible for WIC.

Along with a monthly food prescription of nutritious foods, the WIC program provides nutrition and breastfeeding education.

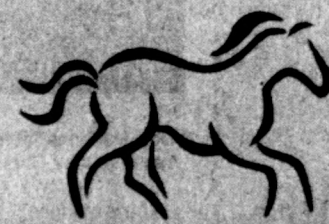

Studies have proven that the WIC program (1) improves birth outcomes, (2) provides health care savings, (3) improves diets, (4) improves infant feeding practices, (5) improves rates of childhood immunizations, (6) improves cognitive development, and (7) improves the likelihood of regular medical care for children.

Call the Calloway County Health Department at (270) 753-3381 to see if you qualify for WIC or go to www.callowayhealth.org for more information.

HAZEL ENTERPRISES, LLC, PLAINTIFF,
VS. NOTICE OF SALE
BRANCH BANK AND TRUST COMPANY,
AS SUCCESSOR TO AREA BANK,
COUNTY OF CALLOWAY, KENTUCKY,
DIANE THORN, STEVEN L. THORN, UNKNOWN SPOUSE, IF ANY, OF DIANE THORN,
UNKNOWN SPOUSE, IF ANY, OF STEVEN L. THORN, DEFENDANTS

By virtue of a Judgment and Order of Sale entered by the Calloway Circuit Court on March 13, 2014, in the above cause, to satisfy the Judgment of the Plaintiff in the approximate amount of $3,026.81, including court costs, litigations expenses, and reasonable attorney's fees, I shall proceed to offer for sale at the Courthouse door in the City of Murray, Calloway County, Kentucky, to the highest bidder, at public auction on Thursday, May 1, 2014, at the hour of 10:00 a.m., local time, or thereabout, the following described property located in Calloway County, Kentucky, with its address being 6897 State Line Road West, Murray, KY 42071, and being more particularly described as follows:

Beginning at a stake on the south side of the West State Line Road and said beginning stake being the Northeast corner of Marvin Thorn's lot; thence South with Thorn's Line 240 feet to a stake; thence east by southeast 230 feet to a stake; thence north 280 feet to a stake in the south right of way of the West State Line road; thence, west with the south right of way of State Line Road and conveying approximately one (1) acre. This tract is bounded on the north by the West State Line road; on the East and South by Adolphus Sheridan and on the west by Marvin Thorn. Being the same property conveyed to Billy W. Thorn by Master Commissioner Deed on behalf of Bank of Benton, Wayne Thorne and Diane E. Thorne, dated March 22, 1999, and of record in Book 323, Page 702, in the Calloway County Court Clerk's Office.

This conveyance is subject to all easements, restrictions, rights-of-way and prior minerals reservations and mineral conveyances of record.

Steven Thorn obtained title to the above described property by General Warranty Deed, dated July 28, 2000, recorded on August 1, 2000, in Book 352, Page 140, in the office of the Clerk of the Calloway County Court.

The aforementioned property shall be sold on a cash or credit basis of 60 days, but if sold on a credit of 60 days, the purchaser shall be required to deposit with the commissioner ten percent (10%) of the purchase price, with the balance to be paid in full within sixty (60) days, with sufficient surety bond, bearing interest at 12% per annum from the date of sale until paid, and fully due and payable in sixty (60) days. A lien shall be retained on the property as additional security. All delinquent taxes shall be ascertained and paid, but shall be sold subject to the 2014 ad valorem taxes.

This 10th day of April, 2014.

Respectfully submitted,
MAX W. PARKER

SUDOKU
 Sudoku is a number-placing puzzle based on a 9x9 grid with several given numbers. The object is to place the numbers 1 to 9 in the empty squares so that each row, each column and each 3x3 box contains the same number only once. The difficulty level of the Concepts Sudoku increases from Monday to Sunday.

Horoscope by Jacqueline Bigar

HAPPY BIRTHDAY for Thursday, May 1, 2014:
 This year you are able to create a lot of what you want, especially where your finances are concerned. You have the energy and the desire to do whatever you need to do in order to get where you want. If you are single, the possibility of meeting someone is high. Relating to you could be difficult, as you tend to go from being grounded one minute to being whimsical the next. You'll want someone in your life who accepts all facets of your personality. If you are attached, your sweetie adores your silly side. The two of you share many happy moments during the next 12 months. GEMINI intrigues you.

The Stars Show the Kind of Day You'll Have: 5-Dynamic; 4-Positive; 3-Average; 2-So-so; 1-Difficult

ARIES (March 21-April 19)
 ★★★ You'll demonstrate a good deal of knowledge when in a conversation with a close associate. Know that there is always more to learn. Try to stay focused. A boss might feel awkward asking for a favor. Do what you can to help.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20)
 ★★★★★ You might decide that the time is right for a discussion about money. Recognize that you could view the situation differently from how others do. You also can be stubborn. Unless someone is used to working with you, he or she is likely to feel frustrated.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20)
 ★★★★★ Much is going on behind the scenes right now. How you project yourself and what you say could be very different from reality. You might feel uneasy around a loved one who seems to be quite irritated. Relate to others on an individual level.

CANCER (June 21-July 22)
 ★★★ Know when to stop yourself from continuing on the same path. Understand what is happening with a child or loved one. This person might need some attention or companionship. An unexpected event could force some thought.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22)
 ★★★★★ You will draw others into your way of thinking. A meeting could allow associates to vent and express their ideas. Let them clear the air. You might find that a different approach works better with an irate person who does not want to calm down.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22)
 ★★★★★ Tension builds, especially around an older person or boss. A loved one might need your time and attention. Be direct when telling this person your availability for helping to deal with his or her issues. A partner or friend could make heavy demands.

Looking Back

Ten years ago
The Creative Arts Department of the Murray Woman's Club awarded two scholarships to local students to attend the Murray State University Summer Art Workshop.

Dr. Harry Sparks, president emeritus of Murray State University will be awarded an honorary doctorate at Murray State's commencement on May 12.

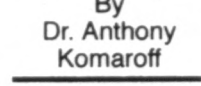

Boyfriend's 'other woman' is permanently attached

DEAR ABBY: My boyfriend and I have been dating for two years. We live together, and his child from another woman lives with us.

DEAR MR. NICE GUY: The person you're describing obviously has less going on in her life than you do. She may also be a compulsive talker.

Testosterone therapy carries risks as well as benefits

DEAR DOCTOR K: I've seen a lot of commercials advertising testosterone therapy for "low T." Does it live up to its promise? Should I be on it?

Dr. Komaroff

terone, and vice versa. To make matters worse, measuring free testosterone blood levels accurately is difficult. Not all laboratories do it well.
