Main Street plans next membership 'blitz'

By HAWKINS TEAGUE
Staff Writer

The Murray Main Street Board of Directors is planning another membership "blitz" downtown after the first one added 12 new members.

Board President Keith Travis said six board members recently spent a couple of hours walking downtown and visiting different business owners to ask them to join the organization. He said the "blitz" through the downtown area had been successful, and the board made plans to do it again and visit other businesses on June 13.

"The personal contact is obviously working if we got 12 new members in an hour," Travis said. "Some of them had been impacted by the building collapse (in February) and we helped (them), and some of them are just friends and contacts."

Murray Main Street Manager Deana Wright said that since the start of the current membership campaign, 47 new members had joined. She said Murray Main Street currently had 126 members. Of those, 92 had paid their dues since January and 34 had dues that are not yet due, she said.

Organization Committee Chair Asia Burnett discussed the Downtown Saturday Market, which starts its season

CAUTION: Road Work Ahead

A contractor for the Kentucky Transportation Cabinet has begun the initial phase of restricting traffic at the intersection of 12th Street and Chestnut Street in preparation for replacing the asphalt pavement with reinforced concrete. According to Keith Todd, public information officer with the KyTC's District One and District Two, the work will improve safety and increase pavement life at the busy intersection. Todd said an estimated 30,000 vehicles travel through the intersection in an average day. Motorists are advised to be alert for lane restrictions and traffic shifts. The estimated completion date is Tuesday, July 1.

In honor of his brief period of service as acting president of Mid-Continent University earlier this year, the MCU Board of Trustees have named Dr. Ken Winters of Murray president emeritus.

"I never knew macaroni and cheese could be so complicated," Jobs said of how she and other Calloway officials participated in a course recently in Chicago, Illinois that the National Restaurant Association supervised. "We had to take a test. We have a 33-page booklet on the subject that shows how

MISD Board covers budget

By JOHN WRIGHT
Staff Writer

A tentative budget was approved Thursday night for the 2014-15 school year for the Murray Independent School District.

Board members approved the $14 million budget unanimously. Superintendent Bob Rogers said that this includes $2.2 in an "on-behalf" fund for payments the state makes for teachers retirement and health insurance.

In addition, Rogers said this budget reflects a one-percent salary increase that was mandated in this year's session by the Kentucky State Legislature. Rogers said that a first-year teacher in the system with a bachelor's degree would make more than $36,000 for a 186-day contract, while a Rank 1 teacher with 20 years of experience would make more than $58,000.

That was included in the 2014-15 salary schedule, which the board also approved unanimously Thursday.

The budget, along with issues with the district's facilities and technology all were discussed in a presentation that was the latest in Rogers' evaluation items list. In January, curriculum and accounts assessment were covered during that month's meeting.

"All boards are being asked to discuss these subjects and then send those findings off to Frankfort, and throughout the state, these are being discussed regularly."

Technology — was appointed as acting president. Winters said he committed to working with MCU for a short time to try to identify what their problems were, and he was only able to serve as acting president for about seven weeks because of health issues in his family.

"As a volunteer, it is kind of touching that they would bestow that kind of recognition, which is typical for a person that has served as their president for a period of time," Winters said. "But I think in the absence of other kinds of recognition, they just wanted to say thank you to me for my work by doing that, and I appreciate that."

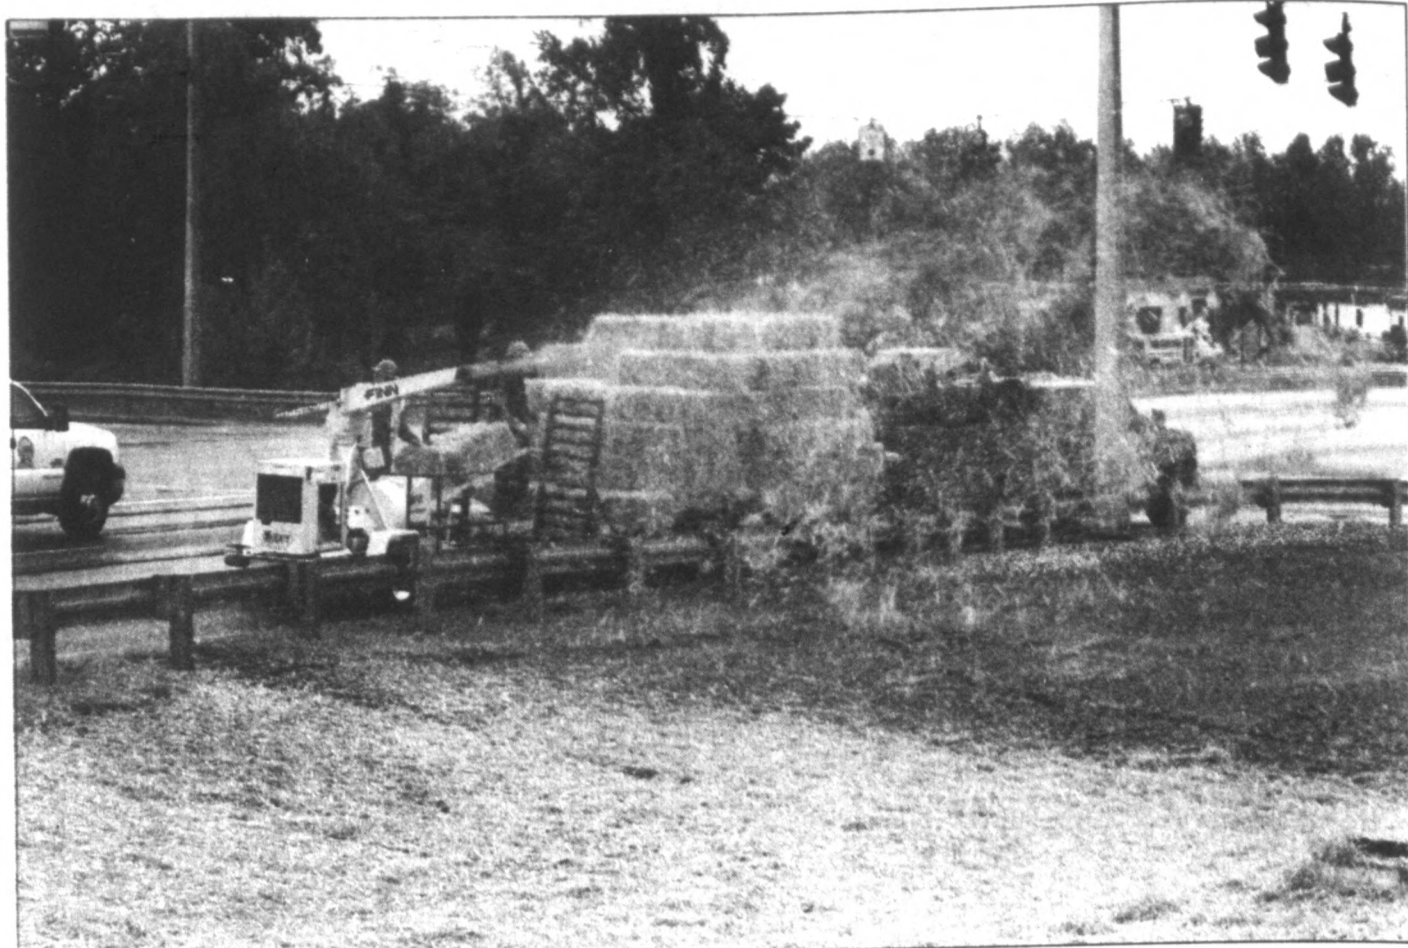

The university will permanently close its doors June 30.

According to a press release from MCU, the board approved the honorary title Tuesday at the recommendation of Dr. Tom Walden, who replaced Winters as acting president in late April. During the nearly four-hour meeting, trustees were also updated on proposed teach-out agreements with the University of the Cumberlands, Campbellsville University and Murray State University, finances, and potential use for the campus after the last classes are taught in mid June.

"If it wasn't for Ken Winters, we would not have finished the semester and made it to graduation," Walden said in the release. "He brought skills, abilities and contacts to the table that no one else could have (sic). He was dedicated 100 percent to the students and to making sure they'd finished classes."

Walden said Winters helped raise thousands of dollars from churches, individuals and other sources to help pay for graduation and other expenses. He volunteered his time and worked for nearly two months without compensation, he said.

We have to handle the packets, plus a person who has gone through this class has to be present when it is being handled by others. There's a lot to it.

"At the end, though, we all got a food-handling certificate of achievement, so I guess that means we're ready."

Previous Saturday days have featured a rice-based casserole. Jobs believes the new item should be received quite well, especially for children in the low-income families that benefit.

"I'd think so. Who doesn't like mac and cheese?" Jobs remarked, noting that the usual way children in the community receive the food from Second Harvest is through a backpack program with the local school systems. "With the summer coming and kids being out of school, the distribution will be out of Need Line."

"This is good food, though. It contains extra vitamins and proteins and the package says it also has real cheese so you're getting a lot of nutrition with this."

Jobs said two shifts are scheduled for Saturday. The first will be from 9-11 a.m., with the second shift set for 11 a.m. to 1 p.m. She also said that with the new food item involved, it is important that organizers have an idea of how many volunteers to expect.

Anyone wishing to volunteer is asked to call 270-753-1492.

In his Promotion Committee report, Chair Mark Welch — who is also Town & Gown coordinator for Murray State University — said the Town & Gown Community Band would be playing on the Lovett Auditorium lawn June 10. He said MSU's annual "Great Beginnings" program for incoming freshmen would be coming up at the beginning of the next academic year, and the "Discover Downtown" event would be Aug. 19. He said he was talking to City of Murray Street Superintendent Ron Albritten about getting permission from the state to place horse-shoe decals on Main Street to lead from campus to downtown for the event.

Design Committee Chair Jason Pittman reported that the yard sale on the Higgins House lawn that was held as part of the Citywide Yard Sale was a big success and raised close to $1,000. He said the committee planned to raise more money when the next Citywide Yard Sale is held in September. He said many people stopped by because they wanted to see inside the Higgins House, so it proved to be the perfect location.

Wright also announced that downtown activities for Freedom Fest would be Friday, July 4, and the Briggs & Stratton fireworks display would be on Saturday, July 5.

After six terms as Calloway County's PVA I will be retiring in 2014 and turning over the PVA office to new leadership. It is important that the new PVA be knowledgeable in appraisal and management practices to handle this difficult and demanding job. I would like to suggest for your consideration my Chief Administrative Assistant, Rebecca Radford Andrews, as the most qualified person for that job.

Rebecca came to work for me as a mapping technician 14 years ago while she was a student at Murray State University. She later returned as a general deputy and two years ago I selected her as my Chief Administrative Assistant. I have found her level of intelligence, enthusiasm and dedication to her work impressive. I am very supportive of her attempts to run for PVA. I believe she is the best qualified person for this very demanding job and will be fully supportive and endorsing her in her attempts to succeed me.

Final Plunge numbers break previous record

By JOHN WRIGHT
Staff Writer

The final official numbers for the 2014 West Kentucky Polar Plunge are in and, once again, the event has smashed its record for funds raised set from the previous year.

This year's fifth annual Plunge produced more than $113,000, besting last year's previous record of more than $102,000. The event, hosted each February at Kentucky Dam Village State Resort Park in Gilbertsville, gives participants a chance to jump into frigid Kentucky Lake as a way of raising money for Special Olympics of Kentucky.

This year, more than 500 people chose to take leap, an event that was witnessed by at least 2,000 spectators.

"I'm pretty pleased, especially considering we just went through one of the worst winters around here in a long time," said Murray's Laura Miller, Area 1 Special Olympics coordinator, who also is the coordinator for the Plunge. This year's Plunge came on a day the event saw its coldest-ever air and water temperatures recorded, 27 degrees and 37 degrees, respectively.

"It's thrilling to see this event grow the way it has and I definitely hope it continues moving in this direction. What really is great, though, is that along with this producing a buzz throughout western Kentucky as far as the event itself, there is also a buzz being created for Special Olympics, and I think people are really starting to get an understanding of just what Special Olympics is all about through the Plunge," Miller added.

Money raised from the Plunge is distributed to Special Olympics programs throughout the commonwealth that benefit children and adults with intellectual disabilities. Miller said this year's record total has generated more than $23,000 for the Calloway County program, which is going to come in handy as that community's Special Olympics program has experienced strong growth in the past few years.

"We have our awards banquet this week and we had to order 25 additional trophies,"

Miller said of a Calloway program now featuring between 80 and 90 athletes who compete in a wide variety of activities, including the state track and field meet next month in Richmond. "We'll be taking 30 to that, plus chaperones and parents so, to be able to keep up with that demand, we need strong fundraisers."

"We'll take a few months off from planning the next one, though," said Murray's Chuck Williams, a member of the Plunge Planning Committee. "Now, we'll look at things off and on throughout the summer, but I'd say we won't really start getting into the heavy planning until about September. We'll start out the first of that month meeting maybe once a month, then as we start going through the fall it'll increase to twice a month and by the time we start getting into the winter, it'll be up to twice a week."

JOHN WRIGHT / Ledger & Times
Chuck Williams and Laura Miller hold a copy of the check Calloway County Special Olympics received a few days ago for $23,341.83, its portion from the fifth annual West Kentucky Polar Plunge.

Rogers said. "One of the reasons the Kentucky Department of Education wants us to talk about these things is because we do include them in the budget so they can know exactly what the districts are doing."

Board members unanimously approved making a change when it comes to the firm that will handle its 2014-15 audit.

Alexander, Arnold & Thompson CPAs of Murray submitted a bid of $1,500 less than the Kem, Duguid & Associates firm of Hopkinsville. Rogers and the board members indicated that the change was not made because of dissatisfaction with Kem, Duguid, which has handled this service the past several years.

"Really, the state likes for you to use a different auditor every now and then," Rogers said, explaining the KDE's philosophy of desiring a "different pair of eyes" looking into a district's finances from time to time.

There will not be a change to the district's student accident insurance provider for the 2014-15 year.

The board members unanimously chose to keep Scholastic Insurers Inc., which serves districts in Kentucky, Tennessee and Virginia and submitted a bid that was about $25,000 lower than its nearest competitor.

Murray, Calloway schools set graduation event dates

By AUSTIN RAMSEY
Staff Writer

Local school districts are preparing for graduation this month, after multiple school cancellations due to weather.

A particularly cold and icy winter left regional schools out of session for several days, pushing forward graduation and senior send-off ceremony dates.

With relatively cooperative weather finally the predominate factor, officials with both the Murray Independent and Calloway County Schools believe final dates are in order.

Murray High School will start the secondary education graduation season off with a Quill @ Scroll yearbook dedication Monday, May 19.

Calloway County High School's Senior Award Night will feature students' successes through the Calloway County Schools system on Tuesday, May 20. A reception will start the ceremony at 5:30 p.m., before awards are announced at 6 p.m. in Calloway's Jeffery Gymnasium.

Murray High will first host a High School Graduation Baccalaureate Service at 8 p.m. on Wednesday, May 21, at Murray's First Baptist Church on Fourth Street. Next, the high school will applaud seniors at the Senior Honors Day Ceremony at 1 p.m. in the high school gymnasium.

Murray High School Graduation will be held at 2 p.m., Sunday, May 25, in Murray State University's historic Lovett Auditorium. For students, Murray's Project Graduation will begin at 10:30 p.m. that night at the high school.

Calloway's Senior Baccalaureate Service will be held at 3 p.m., Sunday, June 1, at the Glendale Road Church of Christ. Participation is voluntary, but students wishing to attend should arrive between 30 and 15 minutes early.

The Calloway County High School Class of 2014 Graduation Ceremony will be at 6:30 p.m., Monday, June 2, at Murray State University's CFSB Center. Project Graduation will follow.

Sept. 11 museum opens to relatives and survivors

NEW YORK (AP) — Tears in her eyes, firefighter widow Maureen Fanning emerged Thursday from the new Sept. 11 museum deep beneath ground zero, unable to bring herself to look at all of it.

"I just think it would be a little too overwhelming today," she said, unsure when she would return. "It's a lot to digest, to absorb. Not anytime soon."

Victims' friends and relatives, rescue workers and survivors of the terrorist attack descended into the subterranean space and revisited the tragedy as the National Sept. 11 Memorial Museum was dedicated by President Barack Obama as a symbol that says of America: "Nothing can ever break us."

The museum's artifacts range from the monumental, like two of the huge fork-shaped columns from the World Trade Center's facade, to the intimate: a wedding ring, a victim's voice mail message.

Some relatives found the exhibits both upsetting and inspiring.

Patricia Smith's visit came down to one small object: the

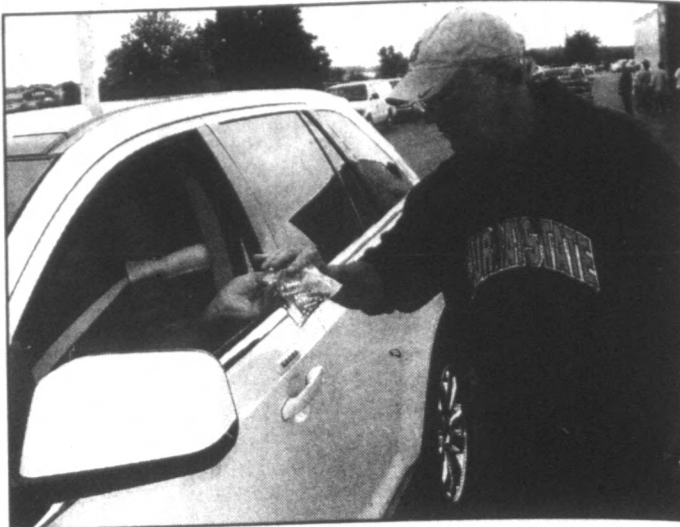

New York Police Department shield her mother, Moira, was wearing 12½ years ago when she died helping to evacuate the twin towers.

Patricia, 14, said she left feeling a new level of connection to her mother. Still, "seeing that, reading the story that goes along with it, even if I already know it, is really upsetting," she said.

David Greenberg, who lost a dozen colleagues who met for breakfast at the trade center's Windows on the World restaurant on Sept. 11, called the museum "breathtaking, awe-inspiring and emotional."

"You have your moments when there can be solitude, moments when there can be happiness, and a mixture of emotions through the entire museum," said Greenberg, who worked at an office nearby.

The museum opens to the public Wednesday, but many of those affected most directly by 9/11 could start exploring it Thursday. Family members also paid their first visits to a repository at the museum that contains unidentified remains from the disaster.

96th Make A Difference Day scheduled for Saturday

By JOHN WRIGHT

Staff Writer

As the 96th Make A Difference Day recyclables drop-off event approaches, its coordinator is taking time to assess how much materials has been collected since its debut in 1995.

In his words, it is "mind-boggling."

"Just look at the paper collected in that time! I calculated that, in all of the years we've been doing this, we have collected 2,857 tons. That adds up to about six million pounds, which is just amazing," said Bill Wells, who helped found the event and now serves as City of Murray mayor.

"And for all of the things we collect, we have groups that benefit directly from it. Getting to 96 is a big number for us and it just speaks for the desire of being green the people have here in Murray, and the surrounding area."

Along with the paper totals, other materials have also produced strong numbers. Wells said the Murray Lions Club has collected 22,250 pairs of eyeglasses, while West KY Mentoring (formerly Big Brothers Big Sisters) has collected 40,000 ink jet cartridges.

The Murray WATCH Center has financed several operations over the years, thanks to its collection of 108,000 pounds of aluminum cans, while Taylor Bus Sales has hauled away 17,500 gallons of used motor oil that the business re-uses.

Donors have also dropped off 43,000 pounds of used books to benefit local education, while the Murray Kiwanis has accepted 2,200 pairs of used shoes.

In addition, local law enforcement collects used prescription medications at MADD and Wells said that has resulted in 450 gallons of materials no longer being possibly flushed into the community's water system or accidentally being ingested by children.

"That one just continues to amaze me," Wells said, recalling that the Calloway County Sheriff's Office just recently disposed of 1,000 pounds of discarded prescriptions through its takeaway dropoff program. "Another one that has been surprising, at least to me, has been our glass collections, where we have collected 25 tons over the years, and you can see that handiwork all over the town in the form of pulverized glass that has been used in several places, including the new traffic islands on 15th Street near (Murray State University).

"What is so gratifying is that we've been able to convince the people of this community to be part of the idea of 'Let's leave this earth better than how we found it.' When we first started this, I figured we'd only have one or two, but one thing I've noticed is that, from Day 1, the one thing people tend to ask is, 'When is the next one?' And they write the date on their hand or on a notebook inside the car so they'll have it and they can start getting ready for the next one."

Make A Difference Day 96 begins at 9 a.m. Saturday and continues through 1 p.m., in the parking lot of Roy Stewart Stadium on the MSU campus. Donors are asked to enter the venue from the North 12th Street entrance of the stadium.

Lampe receives Lovett Spirit Award

Special to the Ledger

Debbie Lampe, Murray Independent Preschool/Head Start and Early Head Start supervisor, was recently awarded the Nancy Lovett Spirit Award by the West Kentucky Association for Early Childhood Education.

Lampe was nominated by her peers because of her positive impact on the lives of Western Kentucky children from birth to age five. During her 33 year tenure, Lampe is credited with many innovations to the area's preschool and Head Start programs. Her direct involvement includes working with children as a kindergarten and preschool teacher, offering services in the homes of children as a developmental interventionist and actively engaging families as they work together to ensure positive child outcomes. While her influence reaches to private and public preschool programs in Murray, Madisonville and Mayfield, Lampe is also credited with designing and implementing curriculum and instruction for three and four year olds, as well as assisting in the planning and implementation of the Extended School Services Program.

Carol Elder, Murray Independent Head Start director, said Lampe gladly accepts challenges and continues to find new and innovative ways to meet the needs of young children. "She truly emulates the same spirit defined by Nancy Lovett and her lifelong commitment to young children throughout Western Kentucky. Debbie's sweet, easy going nature and acceptance of children and families from diverse backgrounds has enabled her to touch many lives."

Judy Muehleman, Murray Independent Special Education director and Preschool coordinator, said Lampe's current supporting role, as the Preschool/Head Start and Early Head Start supervisor, has allowed her to continue to positively impact the lives of young children by mentoring and coaching teachers, Murray State University students and other early care professionals. "She has a depth of knowledge in early childhood development, working with children with disabilities and easily applies this knowledge to her work with children and families daily. Her collaborative skills have flourished into many successful partnerships with numerous early childhood professionals and organizations on the local, state and federal level over the years."

Lampe actively serves on the Calloway County Early Childhood Council, the Early Learning Leadership Networks, the Autism Cadre, the Kentucky First Steps organization and Leadership Head Start Team.

Horoscope

by Jacqueline Bigar

HAPPY BIRTHDAY for Saturday, May 17, 2014:

This year you tend to look at the big picture more. Some of you will opt to grow intellectually by going back to school or by traveling. If you are single, you could meet someone from a different culture. If you are attached, the two of you will plan a special trip. You will want to share more and be together more. CAPRICORN is practical.

The Stars Show the Kind of Day You'll Have: 5-Dynamic; 4-Positive; 3-Average; 2-So-so; 1-Difficult

ARIES (March 21-April 19)

★★★ You might feel as if you must handle a responsibility. If you really want to enjoy your weekend, you will make this a priority. An older person will play a significant role in your plans. Be smart, and don't put this person on the back burner.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20)

★★★★★ Dare to reach past your limitations. You could feel inspired by a conversation with someone close to you. Be careful, as you might be more accident-prone than usual today. Your perception on a specific matter will change as the day goes on.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20)

★★★★ Deal with a partner or loved one directly. A conversation might stop and start at different times today, and at some point, it even might escalate to fighting. A new beginning becomes possible, but only after you step out of your comfort zone.

CANCER (June 21-July 22)

★★★★ You might want to try a new approach or have a lighter discussion. Try not to blame your sweetie or someone else for your own problems. It is your interaction that could change at any moment. Try to walk in another's footsteps.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22)

★★★★ You might want to accept an invitation to go to a baseball game, or perhaps you would prefer to actively participate in racquetball or softball. You could be inspired by a partner to walk a new path and interact on a new level. Trust that you can adapt.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22)

★★★★ You could become childlike when interacting with a loved one. This person will delight in seeing you like this, and in some sense it might provoke his or her inner child to emerge. Use some self-discipline when it comes to spending.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22)

★★★ A disconnect is likely between you and a family member. You might want to understand what triggers both of you. Wait until you get off the warpath before starting this conversation -- that is, if you want a successful result.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21)

★★★★★ Keep communication flowing. You are capable of making excellent choices by yourself, but what about when it comes to deciding on a group consensus? Surround yourself with like-minded people.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21)

★★★★ You make a difference to others because of your energy and spirit, yet today it could be about your dubious good sense about money. Others want you to encourage them to take a risk. Friends surround you, and they want you to join in on a happening.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19)

★★★★ Act the way you want to feel, and you might be surprised at how easily you can manifest this mood. Bring others together for a fun get-together, as your friends naturally seem to gravitate to you.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18)

★★★ Recognize that you can't be on top of your game every single day. In fact, it would be appropriate to take a step back and do less. You also might opt to go shopping. Be careful when handling money.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20)

★★★★★ Zero in on what you want, and invite the right people along. Others seem to be resourceful and full of ideas. You will be much happier and relaxed if you are with those who care about and support you. A loved one could be feisty right now.

Star Parties offered at Golden Pond Planetarium

Special to the Ledger

Evening Planetarium shows and Star Parties at Land Between the Lakes will begin Saturday, May 31. Shows are presented by Friends of Land Between the Lakes at the Golden Pond Planetarium located in the Golden Pond Visitor Center. Additional shows are on Saturdays at 8 p.m., June 14 and 28, July 12 and 26 and Aug. 9, 23 and 30. Planetarium shows begin at 8 p.m. and doors open at 7:30 p.m. Due to safety concerns, no one is admitted after the show begins.

Evening programs begin with a theater presentation in the 40-foot dome Planetarium, then a Star Party live viewing of the night sky, weather permitting, through a 16-inch, Schmidt-Cassegrain telescope at the Golden Pond Observatory. Members of the West Kentucky Amateur Astronomers host the Star Party astronomy programs, www.wkaa.net.

The Golden Pond Planetarium is located just off Woodlands Trace National Scenic Byway (KY Highway 453) near the junction with US68/KY80 in Land Between the Lakes.

Come Outside and Play at Land Between the Lakes National Recreation Area, managed by the Forest Service, U.S. Department of Agriculture. Visitors are encouraged to review the official website at www.lbl.org often for Calendar of Events, updates, safety information, maps and more.

SUDOKU
Sudoku is a number-placing puzzle based on a 9x9 grid with several given numbers. The object is to place the numbers 1 to 9 in the empty squares so that each row, each column and each 3x3 box contains the same number only once. The difficulty level of the Concepts Sudoku increases from Monday to Sunday.

Looking Back

Ten years ago
Pictured is Nancy Buchanan, Linda Fain and Shawn Johnson as they model their hats to be worn in the Hat Parade as part of Relay for Life.

Ladies of the Oaks Country Club held their bridge and golf play on May 12. Crystal Parks won first and Shirley Wade, second, in bridge. A golf scramble format was played with Linda Orr, Janet Kirk, Sue Wells and Shirley Jenstrom winning first.

Shown is Ruth Anderson, speaker and Susan Blackford, soloist, at the April luncheon of Christian Women of Murray.

Pictured is Debi Jones who was elected Parent of the Year for the Calloway County Preschool Head Start program.

Shown is Murray Heat shortstop J.D. Thieve as he tags out a Paducah Magic baserunner at third base after a rundown in Saturday morning's baseball game at Murray-Calloway Park.

Sherri Ferguson is pictured as having been elected Parent of the Year for Murray Preschool Head Start program.

Thirty years ago
The Calloway County Court House elevator project has been completed and Alina Cooper and Tripp Thurman are shown using it for the first time. Looking on are County Clerk Marvin Harris, Judge Executive George Weeks, Mayor Holmes Ellis and magistrates Dan Miller, Clyde Hale, Ralph Bogard and Gil Hopkins.

The Board of the Murray Civic Music Association recently hosted a brunch at the home of Dr. and Mrs. C.C. Lowry. The honored guests were the new board members and their spouses. New members are Sallie Guy, Joe Stroup and Joan Whyne. This event marked the 25th anniversary of Murray Civic Music Association.

Superlatives for the Murray High Class of 1984 are shown. They are: Most Likely to Succeed - Charles Cella and LuAnn Loberger; Most Dependable - Amy Carman and Chris Young; Most Athletic - Connie Spann and Mark Bogges; Best Looking - Emily Apperson, Lauren Balmer, Stacy Willett and Robert Stout; Best All Around - Roger Dunn and Wege Rushing; Wittiest - Jeremy White and Kim Wilham; Most School Spirit - Chris Farmer and Lanette Hopkins; Most Talented - Alison Sears and Matt Harrington.

Forty years ago
Krista Kennedy, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Keith Kennedy, was named Miss Murray High School. Her attendants were Sheri Thornton, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Will D. Thornton; Trina Nicks, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James D. Cochran and Denise Hook, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. B. B. Hook.

Bonnie Sue Cohoon, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joe N. Cohoon, has been named Crescent Girl of Lambda Chi Alpha fraternity at Murray State University.

New officers of the Women's Society at Murray State University are Judy Belt, Sophie Sagrera, Rebecca Dublin and Priscilla Schanbacher.

Fifty years ago
Nore Winter, Murray College High School, son of Mr. and Mrs. John C. Winter; Sheila Cooper, Calloway County High School, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Hewlett Cooper and Johnny Rose, Murray High School, son of Mr. and Mrs. Allen Rose were named as Outstanding Seniors by the Murray Rotary Club.

Elected as officers of the Calloway County High School chapter of the Future Homemakers of America were Nancy Wilson, Sharon Venable, Marsha Hendon, Connie Evans, Brenda Jones, Dee Garrett, Connie Hopkins, Nona Bazzell, Debbie Calhoun, Bonita Chrisman and Paul Wood.

Sixty years ago
Miss Ruth Sexton and Mrs. Whit Imes were co-chairmen of the Calloway County Cancer Drive.

Recent births include a boy to Mr. and Mrs. Terry Grant on May 13.

Exercise floor show detracts from visits with relatives

DEAR ABBY: When my husband and I go to visit my mother (in another city) every other month or so, my brother and his wife insist on coming over to see us while we're there. Our visits usually last two or three days.

Many times when they come over, my sister-in-law will start doing her exercise routine, including floor exercises, which are, in my husband's and my opinion, unbecoming and inappropriate to do in front of other people.

How do we deal with this? Are we crazy to feel awkward when she's lying on her back doing these pelvic thrusts? Would it be out of line to ask her NOT to do this in the future?

My brother says, "She won't listen to me, so it wouldn't do any good to talk to her," so we know talking to her won't help. What do you suggest? -- FEELING AWKWARD

DEAR FEELING AWKWARD: Here's how I'd handle it. Talk to her anyway, and ask her to please refrain from doing these exercises in your presence because it makes you uncomfortable. But if that doesn't work and she starts "performing," stand up and say, "Hey, folks. Let's go out for a walk (or coffee, or a sandwich)," and put an end to her bid for attention that way.

DEAR ABBY: My boyfriend will have "scheduled" sex with me -- only after he has had his shower in the evening or in the morning. Every once in a while I get lucky and am able to stop by after work and have a quickie. It's driving me crazy.

I have tried many ways to get him to have sex spontaneously, but he won't budge. It's starting to be a turn-off because it's not the "right time." What do I do? -- LOOSER THAN THAT IN DETROIT

DEAR LOOSER: Your boyfriend may have a touch of OCD, or need to feel "in control" when he has sex. In other words, if the encounter is not his idea and at the time he chooses, he doesn't get turned on.

There's help for him if he's willing to admit there "may" be a problem. But if he isn't, then find yourself another fella because nothing is likely to change.

DEAR ABBY: My sister-in-law is being married in September. I am in the wedding. My wife and I are having a baby in June, but the bride does not want to include my new baby. I think she is concerned people will pay attention to the baby and not her.

Many distant relatives will attend and this may be the only time they will see my son. She plans to invite more than 200 people. Am I right to be upset that my son, her nephew, is not invited? -- JOHN DOE IN PLANO, TEXAS

DEAR JOHN DOE: I don't think so. It's the bride's day, and you should abide by her wishes without complaining. If she prefers not to have her wedding disrupted by an infant who needs feeding or changing, it's her choice.

Because you want to show off your new baby, bring along pictures and pass them around. I'm sure the relatives will be thrilled to see them.

Most hiatal hernias do not require treatment

DEAR DOCTOR K: My mother was recently diagnosed with a "sliding hernia." What is this?

DEAR READER: A "sliding hernia" is a type of hiatal hernia. OK, so what's a hiatal hernia? A hernia occurs when part of an organ juts through an opening into an area where it shouldn't. The stomach is an organ that is supposed to stay in the abdomen, for example. The abdomen is separated from the chest by a flat, dish-like plate of muscle called the diaphragm.

Above the diaphragm are the lungs, heart and esophagus (the swallowing tube). Below are the stomach, intestines and other abdominal organs. The very bottom of the esophagus and the very top of the stomach are joined right at the diaphragm.

A hiatal hernia is named for the hiatus, an opening in the diaphragm. Food swallowed down the esophagus normally enters the stomach just below the diaphragm. In most people, that opening is small enough that the stomach could not fit through it.

In a hiatal hernia, however, the upper part of the stomach slips up through the diaphragm into the chest. The term "sliding" means that the junction between the stomach and esophagus moves up and down. Unlike the case in most people, the junction is not stuck right at the diaphragm. (On my website, AskDoctorK.com, I've put an illustration of a normal, tight hiatus and a hiatal hernia.)

Sliding hiatal hernias are very common. Smokers, overweight people and women older than 50 are more likely to develop one.

And certain activities or conditions that increase pressure within the abdomen can increase the risk of developing a sliding hiatal hernia. They include persistent or heavy coughing, vomiting, straining while defecating, sudden physical exertion and pregnancy.

Many people with hiatal hernias have no symptoms at all. Hopefully, your mother is one of those. Others have heartburn or gastroesophageal reflux (GERD). This tends to be worse when they lean forward, strain or lie down. Still others may have a hard time swallowing, or chronic belching. Sliding hiatal hernias rarely cause major complications.

Most people with hiatal hernias do not require treatment. If your mother has reflux symptoms, lifestyle changes might help. For example, she can try eating smaller, more frequent meals. She should also avoid eating for at least two hours before going to bed and sit up for at least one hour after eating.

If lifestyle changes do not relieve her symptoms, medication can help. She can try one or more of the many antacids and acid blockers on the market.

Few people with a sliding hiatal hernia require surgery. In fact, I've never had a patient with a hiatal hernia who required it. Surgery is usually reserved for patients who have persistent reflux symptoms or inflammation of the esophagus that does not heal with medication.

So, your mother has a quite common condition. And there almost surely will be good treatments for it -- if your mother has symptoms from it.

THE BEST-LAID PLAN FOR MICE AND PETS

Dear Heloise: How do I get rid of MICE without poisoning my pets? We have a cat and a dog, and I worry about using rat poison. Any suggestions? I haven't tried an exterminator yet, but that might be an option if there's not a better alternative. -- M.B., via email

I do have a few hints that might help. Use resettable live-catch mousetraps. They can be used again and again, depending on how many rodents you have. The first step, though, is to do a thorough inspection of your house. Mice and other small creatures can squeeze in through the tiniest of spaces. Check your doors and windows, foundation, siding, vent openings and crawl spaces. Look for any cracks, gaps or spaces where they might be getting in. Fill the gaps with steel wool, and seal any other openings. Then set your traps by where you think they are coming in and out.

Try to deter rodents by keeping all food in sealed containers. If this doesn't work and you are worried about using other methods, your best bet may be to call a professional. -- Heloise

TRAVEL HINT

Dear Heloise: Please remind your readers that when traveling by car, no matter how long the drive, they should not put their feet up on the passenger-side dashboard. If you were to get in an accident, the air bag could deploy and break your legs. Not to mention the dashboard could be pushed in as well. -- G.M. in Texas

KEEP THE AIR OUT

Dear Heloise: During some of the record-breaking cold snaps we had in Colorado this winter, I could feel cold air surging through the doorjamb of our (closed) front door with bonus security door. On our way to bed that night, I took a roll of packing tape and taped the door shut, cutting off most of the cold air! After a few nights, we discovered that if I only taped the "leading edge" of the door, it could stay on day or night while the door was in use. It was just like a large, clear piece of weatherstripping. I wouldn't recommend this for doors with delicate paint. -- Lisa C., Colorado Springs, Colo.

Lisa, this is a good temporary solution for the summer, too, to keep the hot air out. -- Heloise

SNACK SACK

Dear Heloise: I bought a small cosmetics bag for my purse. I fill it with snacks and keep it in my purse. That way, whenever my son and I are out, I always have something on hand if he gets hungry. -- Beverly S. in Texas

SLIPPERY SOLES

Dear Heloise: I was shopping in a thrift store and ran across a pair of house shoes. They had lines of clear silicone caulk across the soles of the shoes. I realized that they were to add traction. Many house shoes are relatively smooth on the soles. I wanted to pass it on as a safety tip. -- A Reader, Little Rock, Ark.

PREP BASEBALL: BALLARD 2, CALLOWAY 1 Rain ends Senior Night early STAFF REPORT

For the Calloway County seniors, the rest of the Lakers and their fans, the rain couldn't have come at a worse time.

The Lakers lost 2-1 to visiting Ballard Memorial in six innings due to incoming inclement weather.

While it will go down as Calloway's 20th loss of the season, head coach Zach Hobbs knows his squad had a good shot at closing the one run gap against one of Region 1's better teams before the rain came in.

Hobbs said even though the bottom three hitters in the lineup were due in the bottom of the seventh they were still in good shape.

Had one of the three got on base he would have relied on senior Dane Satterwhite to come up big on his night.

The Bombers scored early in the contest, putting two runs on the board in the third inning before the Laker's starter Austin Anderson got out of the jam.

Calloway pushed one across with a little help from the Bombers in the bottom of the fourth. Bryce Orr took second on an overthrown pickoff at first before Wade Carter singled Orr home.

The Lakers play again tonight at 7 p.m. against McCracken County at home before Monday's district semifinal against rival Murray High.

By EDWARD MARLOWE
Sports Writer

The Lady Tigers (11-14) are playing with unbridled confidence, and for good reason.

Thursday night's 4-3 win over regional heavyweight Graves County (19-11) celebrated a coming-of-age for the young squad, who saw off their lone senior Prestley Blane in a small ceremony before the game.

After a narrow 5-2 loss to district foe Marshall County and a gut-wrenching 2-1 defeat to Christian County, the Lady Tigers were ready to put one away.

"It's a good win," head coach Scott Tucker said after the victory. "We need it going into the district tournament as a confidence factor. The kids played wonderfully - defense was good, the pitching was good, we hit the ball off a good pitcher."

"We're tickled to get the win."

Murray touched up Lady Eagle Casey Wade early - Bayleigh Blane walked to open up the first inning and advance on her sister, Prestley Blane's, bunt.

Shelby Moss chased what would have been a ball-high and drove it to right field to make it 1-0.

Graves County answered in the top of the second against Savannah Grogan - Taylor Clark led off with a single to center-field and tried to take home on a triple to left from Dana Atkins, but she was thrown out on a cut-off throw from B. Blane at short.

Chloe Grover's single to second base scored Atkins to make

ST. LOUIS RAMS Gay rights advocate helping Rams, Sam adjust

R.B. FALLSTROM
AP Sports Writer

ST. LOUIS (AP) — The head of an advocacy group for gay and lesbian athletes said he spent a full day this week helping the St. Louis Rams prepare for the arrival of Michael Sam, who hopes to become the first openly gay player in the NFL.

Wade Davis, executive director of the You Can Play Project, said Rams coach Jeff Fisher reached out to him after the team chose Sam in the seventh round of the draft on Saturday. Davis, who has been advising the NFL on diversity matters for the last year, said he was confident Sam landed with the right team — starting with a head coach who wasn't afraid to draft him.

During a daylong visit to Rams Park on Monday, Fisher told players they could feel free to approach him if they have any issues regarding Sam.

"Hey, if any of you guys are uncomfortable, coach Fisher wants you to know his door is open," Davis said. "Everyone in this needs to have a voice."

Sam, the SEC co-defensive player of the year, arrived Monday along with the rest of the draft class for a week of rookie orientation. That same day, Davis was at Rams Park for nine hours, holding separate meetings with the coaching staff and front office, some veteran players, and support staff. He said he had a shorter meeting with the draft picks, plus spent time with Sam, whom he'd met prior to the player's coming out announcement in February.

While in St. Louis, Davis concentrated on debunking myths about gay athletes and discussed strategies for supporting Sam.

Rather than label his session with players a workshop or seminar, Davis called it a "conversation layered with personal narrative." After establishing rapport, there was a question and answer session, and Davis said he finished with mostly common sense points of emphasis.

He stressed to players that they "need not 'walk on eggshells' around Sam, but simply to treat him with respect like any other teammate. Davis said players were eager to help. The question he heard most: How best to shield Sam from disruptive media attention and allow him to concentrate on making the team?

Sam has agreed to be the subject of a documentary series on Oprah Winfrey's cable network, seemingly at odds with that goal. Yet he, too, asked Davis about strategies to "get the media out of here."

Davis responded that every practice, every day, is an interview with the Rams. Sam, after all, is the 249th pick of the draft and must crack a team that seems deep with defensive ends.

ST. LOUIS CARDINALS

Wacha sparks Cards win over Cubs

Associated Press

ST. LOUIS (AP) — When it comes to being a hitter, St. Louis rookie Michael Wacha would rather talk about his pitching.

Wacha threw seven innings and drove in two runs with a single, helping the Cardinals to a 5-3 victory Thursday over the Chicago Cubs.

The 6-foot-6 Wacha (3-3) had lost his last three decisions since an April 13 win over the Cubs. The 22-year-old right-hander allowed seven hits, including a homer, but did not walk a batter. He struck out five.

"I was able to pound the strike zone down in the zone and it was pretty effective," Wacha said. "I kept them off-balance, which means it's a pretty good day. It's definitely nice to go deep into a ballgame and get a win. It definitely gets your confidence going in the next start that's for sure."

Trevor Rosenthal pitched 1 2-3 innings for his 11th save. Rosenthal, who blew a save Tuesday, inherited a one-out, bases-loaded situation and gave up a sacrifice fly, but closed out the inning and retired the side in the ninth.

The Cubs have lost nine of their last 11 and are off to the worst start in 39 games (13-26) since 2002.

Jason Hammel (4-2) gave up five runs on five hits and two walks in 5 1-3 innings, raising his ERA to 3.06. Hammel had six strikeouts.

St. Louis scored four runs in the second inning on Wacha's two-run single in between a run-scoring groundout by Yadier Molina and Matt Carpenter's RBI double.

It was Wacha's first hit and RBIs of the season.

"It's nice to finally have a batting average," Wacha said.

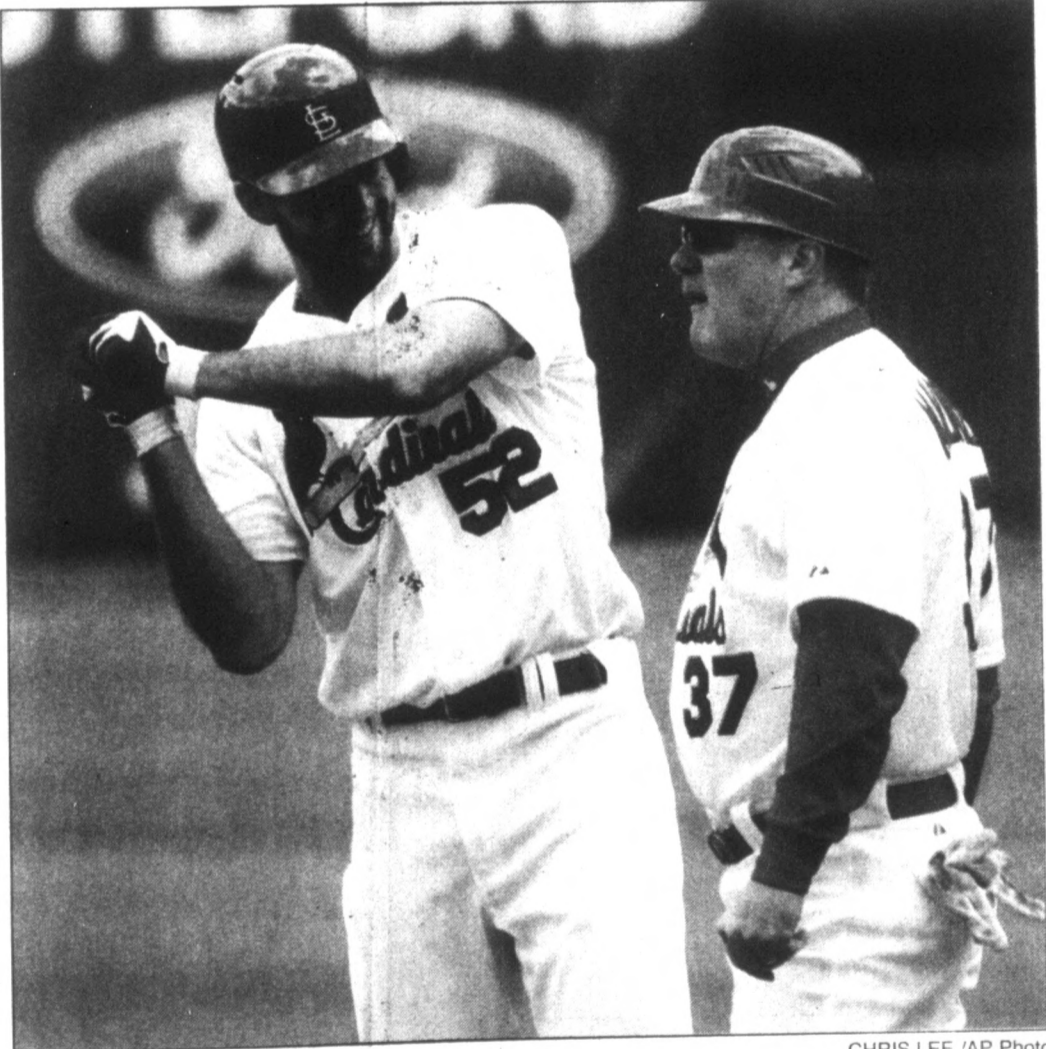

St. Louis manager Mike Matheny noted it was a timely hit.

"Mike was good and obviously getting that hit there to drive in a couple runs it was kind of a huge boost to us at that point," Matheny said.

With two outs, Hammel might have escaped with little damage but he had to throw a strike on a 3-2 count to Wacha and the bases loaded.

"I got behind Wacha with two

Cards' DeWitt leads panel for Selig's successor

RONALD BLUM
AP Sports Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — St. Louis Cardinals chairman Bill DeWitt Jr. will lead the committee to find a successor to baseball Commissioner Bud Selig.

Chicago White Sox chairman Jerry Reinsdorf also is on the seven-member panel announced Thursday, which includes Colorado chairman Dick Monfort, Philadelphia president Dave Montgomery, Los Angeles Angels owner Arte Moreno, Pittsburgh chairman Bob Nutting and Minnesota chief executive officer Jim Pohlad.

The committee already has started meeting and is to identify the candidate or candidates for Major League Baseball's executive council, which is to make a recommendation to owners. A 75 percent vote among 30 clubs is needed for election.

Selig, who has headed baseball since 1992, announced last fall he plans to retire in January.

I know that a lot of people including my family have had difficulty accepting," Selig said. "They've rehired me four or five times, and I understand people kept thinking that was going to happen again, but it's not."

Selig sidestepped whether he would remain as commissioner emeritus.

"Details will all be worked out in the coming months," he said.

The 72-year-old DeWitt, whose father owned the Cincinnati Reds, has run the Cardinals since he headed the group that purchased the team in 1995 from Anheuser-Busch. DeWitt said he will listen to Selig's opinion and there was no plan to hire a search firm.

"We will look to get input from all the clubs. It won't just be a seven-member committee doing everything and informing them at the end," said DeWitt, the new panel's chairman.

"We're obviously looking for a strong CEO, a visionary leader who has a passion for the game."

Rob Manfred, baseball's chief operating officer, appears to be the top internal candidate from Selig's staff, and Bob Bowman, the chief executive of MLB Advanced Media, also has been mentioned.

Among those speculated as possibilities include former deputy commissioner Steve Greenberg, former big league club executive Andy MacPhail, Toronto chief executive Paul Beeston, Los Angeles Dodgers chief executive Stan Kasten and New York Mets general manager Sandy Alderson.

After Vincent's resignation, then-Texas owner George W. Bush was interested. When it became clear Selig was staying, Bush ran for governor of Texas and then president.

Selig said last September he will retire on Jan. 24, 2015, after 22 years in charge, two shy of the record set when Kenesaw Mountain Landis held the job from 1920-44.

MLB has not had a successful commissioner search committee in 30 years, since Selig was appointed chair of an eight-man group in 1982 and Peter Ueberroth was elected in 1984 to replace Bowie Kuhn with a five-year term.

Ueberroth decided to leave early, and owners voted in September 1988 to have NL President A. Bartlett Giamatti take over the following April. When Giamatti died in September 1989, owners voted 12 days later to elevate Fay Vincent, who had been deputy commisit 1-1.

In the bottom of the third inning, the Lady Tigers made it thunder well before Thursday's storm rolled through the area - Moss hit her second single of the night to centerfield and scored on a thunderous 200-foot shot to the scoreboard from Rachel Todd to make it 3-1.

Morghen Turley walked and stole second on a passed ball before Caitlin Mollette stroked a two-strike pitch to left to put runners at the corners.

Loryn "Munch" Carver walked to load the bases, but Turley played chicken with the catcher and won - forcing a pickoff attempt to go wide and allowing her to take home and make it 4-1.

Sarah Fitzer's drive to centerfield was caught on a diving catch, ending a threat to add more to the lead.

In the top of the fourth, Graves County picked up two runs to make it 4-3 - Wade singled to center and took third on a double from Lindsey Whitlock before scoring on a passed ball.

Clark hit a single to Morghen Turley, who opted for the out at first, which allowed Whitlock to score.

Shouldered with a slim lead, Grogan did the rest - retiring three straight in the top of the fifth and sixth before closing the seventh for the complete game win.

She did have some excellent defensive help. In the top of the sixth, B. Blane snagged Wade's shallow fly to shortstop and then fired back to Fitzer at first to tag up Sarah Watts.

Double play.

The strong defensive play was big, B. Blane said, but not as big as getting the win for her sister.

"It was exciting," she said. "We always stick together no matter what. Every game when we're playing together we always have to work as a team. Me being first batter and her being second batter, we always have a gameplan..."

"We always have each other's back, but overall as a team we have each other's back."

Murray faces Henderson County Saturday at home before facing Calloway County on Monday at 4th District Tournament for a spot in the championship.

Then the Milwaukee Brewers owner, Selig took over as chairman of the executive council in September 1992 following Vincent's forced resignation. A search committee headed by Atlanta Braves chairman Bill Bartholomay was announced the following February, and it recommended Arnold Weber, then the Northwestern University president, and Harvey Schiller, then with the U.S. Olympic Committee. But owners suspended the search in January 1994 after saying the committee looked at 382 candidates.

Another search committee, headed by Rockies chairman Jerry McMorris, was appointed in 1997. McMorris said five candidates were identified, and Selig repeatedly said he would not take the job full time.

DeWitt wouldn't guess whether his committee could complete its work by January.

"I'm not quoting any odds on anything here," he said.

Selig was elected on July 9, 1998, agreed to a new contract in 2001 and first announced his planned retirement in 2003. He went on to agree to new deals in 2004, 2008 and 2012.

"It's a tough act to follow," DeWitt said. "He's done an incredible job in coalescing 30 clubs, all with different views on various matters, and having them come together, almost always with a 30-0 vote. That's highly unusual. Depending on who ends up as the successor, we'll see if that can continue."

wild ones," Hammel said. "I came in with a fastball and he hit it."

Chicago got two runs back in the fourth on a home run just inside the left-field foul pole by Starlin Castro. He drove in No. 3 hitter Anthony Rizzo, who beat the St. Louis shift to the right side with his second bunt to the left side in two at-bats.

Rizzo has three career bunt singles with the Cubs with one coming in his previous 285 games.

"If they're going to give me that, I might as well take it," Rizzo said. "We were able to cash in once. I almost make them pay twice for it. Wacha is a great pitcher but you get him on the stretch and try to get him off his game a little bit."

"You know if teams are going to give me that, for the most part, I'm going to take it every time."

When Rizzo came to bat in the fifth and seventh, St. Louis did not shift.

"Rizzo took advantage of the shift until they changed their defense on him," Chicago manager Rick Renteria said. "That led to our first two runs when Starlin drove the ball out of the ballpark. He's really looking at the game from a lot of different angles. Think about it, you're down four runs and a solo home run is not going to do a whole lot for you."

The Cardinals made it 5-2
