THINKING POSITIVE

MSU campaign seeks to fight campus negativity

By AUSTIN RAMSEY Staff Writer

It's hard to ignore the role of social media sites on a college campus everyone walks around with a cell phone in hand, and the popularity of different applications make them far-reaching.

For all the ways students have to connect with each other and the outside world, however, the staff at Murray State University's Office Marketing Branding, and Communication have noticed that negativity has infiltrated many of those applications.

MSU Social Media Marketing Manager Dana Howard said the popularity of applications like

Hospital blazes new trail with start of hybrid OR

By JOHN WRIGHT Staff Writer

If Jill Asher's smile seems extra big and happy these days, well, it is because it is.

The director of Perioperative Services at Murray-Calloway County Hospital is watching history be made not only at her place of business, but in the community she calls home with the long-awaited activation last week of the new state-of-the-art hybrid operating room.

"Happy, happy, happy!" Asher said, taking a line from famed outdoors and television personality Phil Robertson of "Duck Dynasty" fame. "We now have something that can allow our patients living here to stay here and not have to go well away

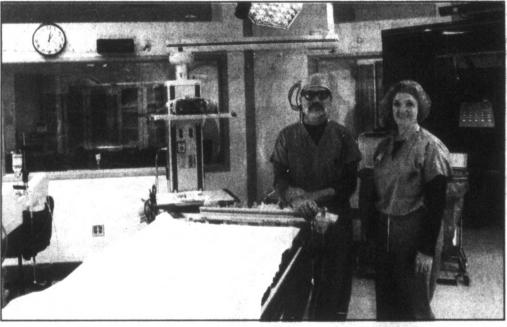

"And the thing is we did it right," Asher added, noting how during the construction of the 1,195-square-foot facility, MCCH not only continued its normal surgical operations, but did so by managing to maintain its outstanding record at limiting postoperative infections. "Why did we have to be so careful?

Postal Service proposes small price increases on postage

WASHINGTON (AP) - The U.S. Postal Service on Thursday proposed slight increases for mailing postcards and international letters - but wants to leave first-class "Forever" stamps at their present 49 cents.

Under a filing with the Postal Regulatory Commission, letters to international destinations would rise from $1.15 to $1.20. Postcards would rise from 34 cents to 35 cents.

The increases being proposed would become effective April 26, if the requests are granted.

On first-class mail, every ounce over 1 ounce would cost an additional 22 cents, up from 21 cents. And letters to all international destinations would go from $1.15 to $1.20.

The filing does not affect Postal Service shipping products and services.

The Postal Service said the requested price increases are the latest in a series of steps "to achieve financial stability."

"By growing volume, revenue and contribution, the Postal Service will continue to meet America's mailing and shipping needs well into the future," the agency said in a statement.

While improving efficiency in streamlining its network and seeking legislative changes, the Postal Service must address an outdated business model," it

The Postal Service receives no tax dollars for operating expenses. It relies on the sale of postage, products and services to raise the revenues needed to pay for its operations.

Before they take effect, the new rates must be approved by the commission.

Because our operating rooms are literally across the hall from where the hybrid room is. The people from Pinnacle Construction (of Benton) were just great. That kind of work can cause a lot of dust and other particles to be flying around that just don't need to be, yet when we would do our samples, they were coming back with virtually none being recorded. This was a true team

Dr. Nathaniel Dittoe, a cardiologist, had the first opportunity to use the new room last week. First, he participated in a mock procedure, then he performed a heart catharization on an actual patient a few days later to officially open a new page in MCCH's history book.

"And I tell you, it was very nice to be able to do that here," said Dittoe, who has been practicing in Murray the past three years. "It was about a half hour, start to finish, and the patient did very well, but the thing is I felt very comfortable. They have an excellent staff there and I think I'm going to be very comfortable doing procedures there now."

Hybrid is defined as having more than one characteristic and the new facility at MCCH definitely justifies the description. Asher said, in this case, "hybrid" means the combination of being to offer surgical procedures while also having high-definition imaging in the same room, meaning patients do not have to be moved to multiple locations.

"I've been waiting for this for 20 years," said Dr. Craig

Dowdy, a general surgeon. "This is a Ferrari we've got now. You know, technology is getting smaller and smaller each day and there is a need to keep up with the big boys. Well, this is going to allow us to do that here."

The new room redefines state-of-the-art, from the 58inch monitor that can instantly show vital images to the Carm, a massive machine that can move throughout the room and take images at any angle. Asher also said the room's size allows for more storage space for supplies.

"What's very interesting is that we built a mockup of this facility back in 2013 and, except for the ceiling, we didn't have any changes when it came to building it for real. That's not easy to do," said Mark Torsac, director of Facilities at MCCH. "The big thing, though, was that, every step of the way in building this room, we made sure the patients were safe." "I'm very proud of it," said

Craig Schwettman, who not only was project manager for Pinnacle, but had personal stake in the construction. He happens to be a Calloway County resident. "This is more than just for a hospital. This is going to be great for this community. There were a lot of long hours spent (including with meetings with architect Joe Jones of Lexington, MCCH Director of Radiology Heidi Hordyk and many, many others) on this but, in the end, especially with the feedback we're getting from the staff, it was more than worth it."

YikYak have allowed students to publish anonymous com- test run for the positivity projments about individual students The two campus offices or student groups that perhaps hope to send out the concentrathey would never say in person. The negative use of social media like that has become commonplace at many college campuses, she said.

With the help of Assistant President Communications Catherine Sivills and the Office of Retention at MSU, the university's administration decided they would combat negativity online this week with positivity.

Between 3 p.m. and 4 p.m. every day starting the first day of the spring semester Monday, administrators have used applications like Facebook, Twitter and Instagram to spread inspiring stories, motivational quotes or even funny pictures.

"It's just fun stuff to remind everybody that positivity can go a long way," Howard said. "Now we're even sending out messages on YikYak and other platforms that we don't necessarily market on."

Sivills said this week was a tion of positive messages on other weeks in the semester like midterms and finals week.

Howard said her hope is that students will eventually catch on and begin generating the content themselves.

The pair agreed that, sometimes, it's better not to directly market a campaign like this, but rather let it develop on its own slower pace.

"We've notice that sometimes some things work better when we don't push," Sivills said.

The effort works not only to better the campus environment, but the two said it has longlasting retention effects.

"It's s an intentional effort across campus to drown out negativity as much as we possibly can in a small amount of time," Howard said, "so we can be in an environment where students feel happy and safe."

He said he ended up moving to the state in 1978 to be in a band, but after that didn't lead anywhere, he stayed and went back to school to get his history degree. It was almost entirely by chance that he came to the state with which he had always been fascinated.

JOHN WRIGHT / Ledger & Times photos Bill Samuels Jr. shows off the actual cards that were used to convince his father that a new marketing strategy was needed for Maker's Mark Whisky.

Maker's Mark veteran speaks at MSU

Thursday afternoon, a social media/marketing class at Murray State University got a rare chance. Bill Samuels Jr., former CEO of the famed Maker's Mark Whisky company of Loretto in Marion County, offered some of his observations from his time working at the company his family started in the 1800s. Samuels spoke for about an hour, reviewing the path the company took to becoming a giant in the spirits business worldwide, a feat that took a lot of convincing, even a subtle manipulation with, his father, Bill Samuels

Sr., who the son said was not too keen on things like advertising and dealing with the media.

However, it was a 1980 front-page article in The Wall Street Journal that gave the bourbon whiskey company a major name. Samuels told of how that article came to be written Thursday, of how several things fell into place, including putting a Journal writer from St. Louis, Mo., in the same room with his father.

"I figured he'd disown me after the guy left so it didn't matter at that point," Samuels said of how his goal to send Maker's Mark's name beyond central Kentucky was already well in hand.

IIPT World Symposium tabs MSU alum as guest speaker

Special to the Ledger

Global Sports Partners recently announced that its president Steve DeVoss, a Murray State University graduate, will be a featured speaker at the IIPT World Symposium: Cultivating Sustainable and Peaceful Communities through Tourism, Culture and Sport being held next month at Emperors Palace, Ekurhuleni, South Africa.

The interactive and action oriented Symposium will honor the legacies of the world's three great champions of peace and non-violent resistance: Nelson Mandela, Mahatma Gandhi, and Martin Luther King, Jr., with the aim of affirming these legacies by building bridges of tourism, friendship and peace in regions throughout the world.

The Symposium, endorsed by Archbishop Desmond Tutu, will also commemorate the 50th anniversary of the African Union, 20 years of South African democracy and the 50th anniversary of civil rights legislation in the U.S.

DeVoss will be speaking on Sport for Development and Peace: Successes and Setbacks, emphasizing the complexities and risks in today's global context, yet clearly challenging citizens, businesses, government and community organizations to pursue and promote programs for personal empowerment and social reconstruction.

DeVoss played catcher for the Thoroughbreds baseball program during his time as a student at MSU.

IIPT is using its historical convening power to bring world leaders of the travel and tourism industry to South Africa. Keynote speakers for this milestone event will represent UN World Tourism Organization (UNWTO), World Travel and Tourism Council (WTTC), Pacific Asia Travel Association, International Coalition of Tourism Partners (ICTP), Ministers of Tourism and others.

The Symposium will have two basic aims: to identify strategies and best practice in cultivating productive, sustainable, peaceful and welcoming communities through tourism, culture and sports; and to determine lessons learned from countries that have experienced conflict and the potential roles of tourism, cul-

US consumer prices drop 0.4 percent in December

WASHINGTON (AP) — U.S. consumer prices fell in December by the largest amount in six years, reflecting another big monthly decline in gas prices and providing further evidence of falling inflation pressures.

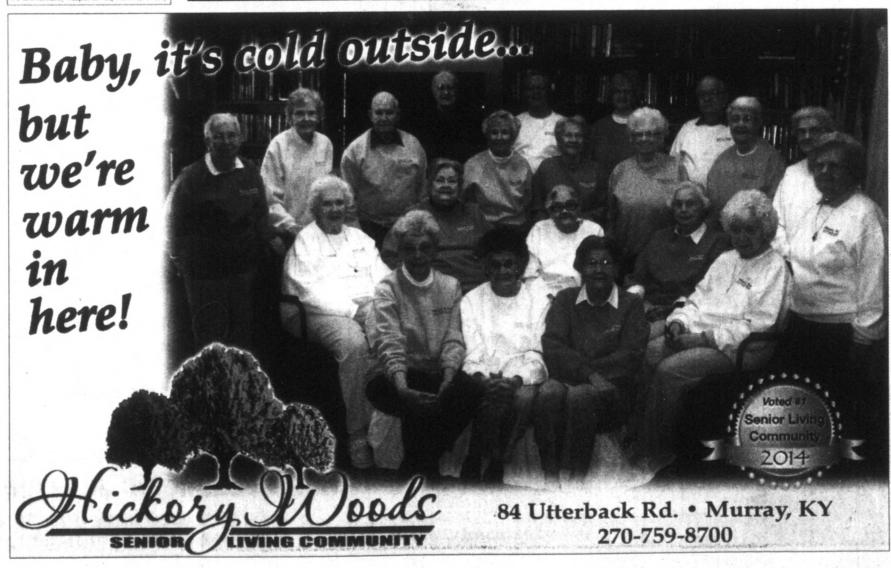

The Labor Department said Friday that its consumer price index dropped 0.4 percent last month, the biggest one-month drop since December 2008. It was also the second straight monthly decline in prices with both months reflecting big decreases in gas prices, which have been tumbling in recent months because of the global plunge in oil prices.

Core inflation, which excludes volatile food and energy, showed no increase in December, only the second time since 2010 that core prices have not risen.

"There is little inflation pressure in the United States or almost anywhere else for that matter," said Jennifer Lee, senior economist at BMO Capita Markets.

For all of 2014, overall inflation was up just 0.8 percent, the smallest annual increase since 2008.

HAPPY BIRTHDAY Monday, Jan. 19, 2015:

This year your ingenuity soars. You seem to have the right solution for nearly everything. If you are single, be careful, as you could fall for someone who is married or otherwise unavailable. If you are attached, guard against being too me-oriented. Remember that your significant other is an equal partner in the relationship. CAPRICORNS this year. You all seem to have a tremendous need for control.

The Stars Show the Kind of Day You'll Have: 5-Dynamic; 4-Positive; 3-Average; 2-So-so; 1-Difficult

ARIES (March 21-April 19)

★★★ The unexpected is likely to play a role in your morning events. As a result, someone might become very controlling. Pressure continues to build, yet you'll be able to dispel that heaviness through your sense of humor. Focus on one item at a

TAURUS (April 20-May 20)

* Be willing to detach, especially if a situation seems off. A comment could trigger you to look at the matter objectively. You might be pushing yourself a little too hard. A friend is likely to present a problem, but know that some details are missing.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) * You could be overwhelmed by everything that is happening. Deal with a loved one directly, and you will feel better. You might feel as if you are pushing yourself too hard and as if others don't seem to appreciate your efforts.

CANCER (June 21-July 22)  People know how to get you to react. You might not be sure about the outcome of a matter involving others because of details that seem to be missing. Your creativity will open doors for you. LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) * You'll be on top of a situation, yet the unexpected might play a significant role. Listen to others carefully, because you or another person easily could misinterpret a situation. Be careful when dealing with a controlling person. VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22)

★★★★★ Open up to new possibilities. Your logic might not be as strong as your intuition right now. You could be unusually vague without intending to. How you follow through on a major project will depend on new information

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22)  You could be overwhelmed by everything that falls on your plate. A partner seems to be adding to the excitement around you. Be direct in your dealings, and ask for a clarification if you feel confused. Your ability to see past the obvious allows greater flexibility. SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21)  Stay on top of someone's demands, especially if you feel as though you should remain responsive. You could see that there is another way to handle a problem. Follow through on that thought. SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec.

21)  You could feel as if someone is manipulating you financially. You also might not be sure which way to turn in order to handle the problem. Make sure that all parties involved are on the same page as far as objectives go CÁPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) ★★★★ You are likely to go back and forth regarding a personal matter. It's likely that you'll need to use your clout to handle this properly. You might be harder on the other party than you realize. Be as clear as possible with your instructions.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18)  You could feel pushed beyond your normal levels, and you might be in a position where you are feeling unsure about the best way to express your feelings. Honor a change of pace and slow down. Give it a day or two, and your position will change

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20) * You might feel as if you have no choice. Remain secure about your choices, and know what your alternatives are. A meeting could be a little too controlled for your taste. Be willing to reveal more.

Outdoors enthusiasts expected in Louisville

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — Thousands of outdoors enthusiasts are expected when boats and RVs fill the Kentucky Exposition Center in Louisville next week

The Courier-Journal says 40,000 are expected for the annual Louisville Boat, RV & Sportshow Jan. 21 to 25

Nearly 200 exhibitors will be showing outdoor gear and items of interest, and 2015 fishing, hunting and sports licenses and elk permits will have a one-stop place for pickup.

The show promotional material says it will offer a chance to try stand-up paddle boarding, canoeing and kayaking at Paddlefest. Young people can learn to identify venomous snakes with the Kentucky Department of Fish and Wildlife Resources' help or try fishing at a catch-and-release trout pond.

Trainer cleared of horse abuse allegations

LEXINGTON, Ky. (AP) — Kentucky regulators have cleared one of horse racing's winningest trainers of abuse allegations made by an animal-rights group claiming it had videotape evidence that Steve Asmussen mistreated thoroughbreds in his care.

The Kentucky Horse Racing Commission investigation found nothing to substantiate claims by People for the Ethical Treatment of Animals, commission Chairman Robert Beck said Thursday.

Outside veterinarians asked by the commission to independently review PETA documents and video also found nothing to support the allegations, he said.

"No evidence was found to substantiate PETA's claims that Asmussen and Blasi maintained horses in their care in poor physical condition or subjected any horse to cruel or injurious mistreatment, abuse or neglect," Beck said in a statement he read after the commission reconvened from closed session.

Eggners Ferry Bridge reduced to one lane Saturday

AURORA, Ky. (AP) - A bridge that carries traffic across Kentucky Lake in western Kentucky will be restricted to one lane Saturday while crews work on a new bridge. The Kentucky Transportation Cabinet says the U.S. 68-Kentucky 80 Eggners Ferry Bridge will be restricted to one lane starting at 10 a.m. CST to allow concrete to be poured for the new bridge.

Concrete trucks will be parked on one lane of the old bridge to deliver concrete to crews working on pier structures for the new crossing.

The cabinet says motorists should expect one-lane traffic with alternating flow controlled by flaggers.

The daytime work zone lane restriction is expected to be in place from 8 a.m. to about 4

Authorities searching for teens suspected in crime spree

LEITCHFIELD, Ky. (AP) -Authorities are looking for a teenage couple from central Kentucky who are suspected in a multi-state crime spree.

Grayson County Sheriff Norman Chaffins says 18-yearold Dalton Hayes disappeared Jan. 3 with a 13-year-old girl. Since then, authorities say they believe the couple has traveled to Manning, South Carolina, and Henry County, Georgia. Along the way, law enforcement say they're suspected of stealing multiple vehicles and using stolen checks.

Chaffins said it's imperative that authorities locate the two as their behavior is becoming increasing brazen and dangerous." They have already evaded law enforcement twice, he said.

The two were spotted Monday at a Walmart in South Carolina. On Thursday, authorities in Georgia found the vehicle they had been using abandoned, and another vehicle with guns was reported stolen from a nearby location.

Chaffins said authorities now believe the two are traveling in a 2001 Silver Toyota Tundra with a Georgia license plate number of CR116I.

Chaffins says anyone who spots the couple should call 911. The situation is getting more serious as more time passes, he "These are two local kids that everybody here knows," he told the Lexington (Ky.) Herald-Leader. "But now, they're in another state where people don't know them. Other law enforcement agencies don't know them, so they're certainly going to be treated differently there.

"We think it's important for them to get back home, because they're starting to bite off a little more than they can chew. Our concern is that they could get themselves hemmed up in something that they ... We just don't want them to get hurt."

'You've Got A Friend'

Kerry offers 'big hug' to Paris after attacks

PARIS (AP) — U.S. Secretary of State John Kerry paid respect in both English and French on Friday to the victims of last week's terrorist attacks in Paris in a show of American solidarity with the French people.

At a ceremony at the Hotel de Ville, the city hall of Paris, Kerry called the attacks a "living nightmare" but one that would unite rather than divide the people of France and the world.

"I really wanted to come here and share a hug with all of Paris and all friends," he told the crowd that included survivors, family members of victims, and members of the police and municipal government who responded to the attacks, including the Muslim man who risked his life to hide Jewish patrons from the gunman who stormed a kosher supermarket. "I wanted to express to you personally the sheer horror and revulsion of all Americans for the cowardly and despicable assault on innocent lives," Kerry said.

The secretary's visit to Paris, his 19th to the city since he became secretary of state, came amid lingering criticism in the United States of the Obama administration's failure to send a Cabinet-level official to Paris for last Sunday's unity march that attracted some 40 world leaders and more than a million demonstrators. Kerry did not address the matter but pointedly stressed the close bonds between the U.S. and France. "I represent a nation grateful each day that France is our oldest ally," he said before introducing his friend, musician James Taylor, who performed his hit "You've Got a Friend," starting with several bars of the French national anthem. The event was called an "Hommage de John Kerry a Paris."

Vatican: Pope's Charlie Hebdo comments do not justify attack

MANILA, Philippines (AP) — Pope Francis said there are limits to freedom of speech, especially when it insults or ridicules someone's faith, in comments that the Vatican later said Friday did not mean justifying the attack on the satirical French magazine Charlie Hebdo.

Francis spoke about the Paris terror attacks while en route to the Philippines on Thursday, defending free speech as not only a fundamental human right but a duty to speak one's mind for the sake of the common good.

But he said there were limits. By way of example, he referred to Alberto Gasbarri, who organizes papal trips and was standing by his side aboard the papal plane.

"If my good friend Dr. Gasbarri says a curse word against my mother, he can. expect a punch," Francis said half-jokingly, throwing a mock punch his way. "It's normal. You cannot provoke. You cannot insult the faith of others. You cannot make fun of the faith of others.'

His pretend punch aside, Francis by no means said the violent attack on Charlie Hebdo was justified. Quite the opposite: He said such horrific violence in God's name couldn't be justified and was an "aberration." But he said a reaction of some sort was to be expected.

The Rev. Thomas Rosica, who collaborates with the Vatican press office, issued a statement early Friday stressing that the pope was by no means justifying the attack on Charlie Hebdo.

"Pope Francis has not advocated violence with his words on the flight," he said in a state-

With both fan bases in a frenzy, Friday night's bout in the CFSB Center had the chance to be a back-and-forth contest from start to finish

But it wasn't to be.

Calloway County used a 17-2 secondquarter run to take the wind out of Murray - then never left off the brakes in the second half, as the Lakers (17-1) handed Murray (13-6) their first region loss in sparkling fashion, 61-37.

But for all of the success Calloway had against Murray's trap and fallback zone, Adams believed it was defense that proved key in Friday's win.

Second-half surge leads Murray over Calloway Co.

By EDWARD MARLOWE Lead Sports Writer

With Calloway County (1-15) trailing just 29-14 at halftime to Murray High (16-2), head coach Scott Sivills was looking for a fighting finish to Friday night's Crosstown Classic.

Lady Tiger head coach Rechelle Turner was looking for her offense to start executing on the floor of the CFSB Center.

Calloway's Kelsey Douglas hit a quick jumper out of the gate for two of her eight points on the night, but Murray's Kayleigh House scored seven points during a decisive 20-4 third quarter run, and the Lady Tigers pulled away, 64-30, to move to 2-0 in the 4th District.

House finished with nine points to earn MVP honors, and Turner said it was probably the senior forward's best game to date this season.

"We told the kids that we expected the defense to pick up in the second half...the intensity and the effort." she said. "I thought the kids that came off the bench after (Douglas') basket gave us a lot of energy, and it

'She was making shots and doing great things for us, and I think that's awesome and hopefully she can carry that confidence going into next week." Neither squad could find a basket for nearly four minutes in the second-half of the first quarter, as the Lady Lakers stifled Murray's transition and the Lady Tigers pickpocketed Calloway County four times during the stretch.

Murray then started the second quarter going just 0-5 from the three-point line - a testament, Turner said, to Calloway County's first half defense.

Sivills, however, was quick to point out Calloway's similar struggles - poor free throw shooting (1-for-7), 23 turnovers

NHL: PREDATORS 4, CAPITALS 3

Predators beat Capitals 4-3 in Trotz's return for 5th straight

By EDWARD MARLOWE , Lead Sports Writer

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) - James Neal made sure Barry Trotz's homecoming was not a happy

Neal scored twice, including the go-ahead goal with 1:40 left, and the Nashville Predators beat the Washington Capitals 4-3 on Friday night for their fifth straight victory.

"They are dynamic off the rush and they are a strong power-play team," said Peter Laviolette, who replaced Trotz as Nashville's coach this season. "So, we were able to control the rush a little bit. The power play was able to get off a couple goals tonight, but they are a lot to handle."

Seth Jones and Mattias Ekholm had the other goals for the Predators, who fired Trotz at the end of last season. Trotz was the team's inaugural coach, leading Nashville through its first 15 NHL seasons before taking the job in Washington.

During the first media timeout, a video tribute to Trotz's tenure behind the Nashville bench was played. The Winnipeg, Manitoba, native tapped his heart and waved to the capacity crowd as it gave him a standing ovation.

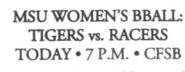

"The tribute, the class that the Predators continue to show, I'm very proud to be a part of the organization for a long time," Trotz said.

Alex Ovechkin scored twice and Marcus Johansson also had a goal for the Capitals, who had won three in a row. Washington had earned at least one point in nine consecutive games.

Late in the third period, Neal forced a turnover by Matt Niskanen inside the Capitals blue line. Neal then walked in and slipped a shot between the pads of goalie Braden Holtby to give has been our defense tonight," he said. "We didn't let them score their season average, 60something a game, and that's just how it's been."

Coming into Friday's contest, Murray averaged nearly 68 points per contest - secondbest in Region 1 - while Calloway's defense was yielding just 43 ppg., good for secondbest in Kentucky.

Anxious to see how his Lakers would handle Murray's press and guard the Tigers' athleticism in the post and wings, Calloway County head coach Terry Birdsong said earlier this week he thought his team could give Murray all they could handle.

He was right.

Calloway County held Murray to just 33 percent shooting from the floor, outrebounded the Tigers 32-22 and committed just eight turnovers - all critical reasons the Lakers were able to pull away.

"The big thing was just trying to be solid defensively," Birdsong said. "I thought we could really cause them some problems because I feel like we're pretty good defensively, and I thought they would have trouble guarding us.

"I just didn't think they could do to us what they have done to some other teams. With our veteran players, they can all pass it, shoot and do a little bit of everything. And we didn't settle. We attacked ... and we attacked at the right time."

Calloway's attack was often spearheaded by Wade Carter, Clay Smotherman and Hunter Smith off the bench - who were all careful with the basketball and often found Wagner and Skyler Hunter for critical threes.

"We give and take whatever the defense gives us," Carter added. "Whenever we get into the halfcourt offense, we're patient enough to take our open shots, and good shots. But we can run and stay in our halfcourt offense, and I thought we did a great job running when they wanted to run, and slowing it down when we needed to."

For the Tigers, Friday night's loss comes right on the heels of the Region 1 All "A" Classic - a tournament in which they are heavily favored.

James Boone also saw action at the CFSB coming off the bench early with four points after being absent the last month because of a wrist injury - and Tigers head coach Bart Flener said he hoped the tough defeat wouldn't deflate Murray's optimism heading into

"We've got to learn from this experience and what we take from this," he said. "We knew they were good shooters and they move the ball extremely well, and they proved that tonight. Really impressive team. No weak links.

"But we told our guys we have to learn from it...we can't have a hangover going into the All A, and if we do, this one could cost us big time next week. We don't want this loss to cost us the opportunity of a championship next week."

Duane Curtis finished with nine points, Tedrick Hughes and Tandyn Sheppard each had six, while Preston English was held scoreless on five attempts.

The Lakers also enter tournament action next week, as they head to Superman Classic in Metropolis, Illinois.

and feel for the floor, Murray finished just 6-for-22 from behind the arc - their lowest since a 70-51 loss to Paducah Tilghman - and Turner said Friday night's contest was valuable for her team because of their aspirations to play on similar floors for the All "A" Classic and the 1st Region Tournament.

"One thing we talk about when we take the big floor is the line," she said. "There's a big difference in shooting a 20-footer and a 25-footer, and our kids never adjusted to that line. We've been shooting the ball extremely well, and our percentages have continued to go up and up, but the bottom line is that is mental."

As for the Lady Lakers, Sivills said the biggest focus now is to just continue to improve until early March - where they believe they will have to face Marshall County in the first round of the 4th District Tournament.

The Lady Tigers were led by Maddie Waldrop's 11 points, while Douglas led Calloway with eight.

Murray will take the court next week for the 1st Region All "A" Classic, while the Lady Lakers are in action today against Henry County, Tennessee in Jeffery Gymansium.

season favorites in the OVC, though they've struggled in recent games.

Since winning their conference opener against SEMO. Belmont (4-14, 1-4 OVC) has lost four consecutive games.

The most recent loss came Thursday when they fell 72-59 to Austin Peay.

Murray State (5-12, 0-4 OVC) is also on a four-game losing streak since posting a 118-50 win at home against Brescia Dec. 30.

The Bruins hold a 7-2 advantage in the series, and both wins for the Racers have come at the CFSB Center.

Murray State freshman guard Ke'Shunan James said the Racers are ready to win, but they have to be able to clean up their play in late-game situa-

"We have to do the small things right," James said. "We have to rebound. We can't turn the ball over. We're hungry for a win at this point."

When looking at statistics for the season, the Racers still lead the league in scoring offense (75.2), 3-pointers per game (8.2) and defensive rebounds per game (32.0).

Since entering conference play, Murray State is fifth in scoring (69.2), second in 3pointers made (8.5) and third in defensive rebounds (30.8).

Murray State head coach Rob Cross said stats are irrelevant, though, if the Racers can't close out games. He said the team has to find a solution soon because he expects many of their games to be decided in the final possessions.

"All the games are going to come down to the last two minutes or so," Cross said. "It's going to come down to, 'Can you get a defensive rebound, can you get a stop when you need it, and can you make free throws?"

Jones scored the game's first goal at 16:16 of the opening period.

Neal scored at 1:50 of the second from right in front of Holtby off a shot that originated from Victor Bartley and then was deflected by Mike Fisher. Ovechkin scored a pair of goals 2:32 apart, with both coming from the left side.

The Washington captain followed at 6:18 with a powerplay goal that beat Nashville goalie Carter Hutton on the short side.

Ekholm tied it at 15:31 with a one-timer from the top of the right circle on a late Nashville power play.

"We were kind of rolling a little bit and it was just a matter of time before we could get a goal again," Ekholm said. "Just lined it up for a shot there and got the one-timer, so it was nice to see it go in."

Hutton made 31 saves in his first home start of the season. He replaced Pekka Rinne, the NHL leader in wins with 29. Rinne sprained his knee in Tuesday's win against Vancouver and is expected to miss three to five weeks. The win was Hutton's first of the season.

"I've said many times now that I feel like I've been confident in my game," Hutton said. "It's obviously nice to get a home win here, especially with Pekks out. Big win for the guys confidence-wise."

Musings along the outdoor front

In The Field By Kenny Darnell Outdoors Columnist

With the month of January already half-way gone, hunters and fishermen alike are looking forward to the first warm days of early spring even though they know that more of winter's bitter weather still lies ahead. But after several days of sub-freezing temperatures, the weekend promises to be rather balmy.

This will be a mixed blessing for the waterfowler. The best waterfowl hunting takes place when the weather is cold and the days are bleak. But when it's cold for long stretches of time, all the ponds and potholes freeze over and hunting slows to a crawl. This weekend with sunshine and warm breezes, although not your typical waterfowl weather, may indeed give waterfowl hunters a boost as ponds and duck holes are released from the icy grip.

Out on the big lake, the cold weather has finally rung the bell on the small shad which have gone bellyup by the tens of thousands. Do no despair however, as this is one of nature's annual phenomena that serves some vital purpose even though we may not know exactly what it is. What we do know is that the fish, gulls, pelicans, ospreys, and eagles find themselves with a prime seat at one of nature's grand buffets.

The Commissioners for the KDFWR have proposed the seasons for next year along with some changes to the current seasons. The Commissioners voted to allow hunters over the age of 65 to use a crossbow during the entire archery season. This is a noble gesture, but it only goes so far. There is no reason, given the increasing growth of the State's deer herd, that crossbows cannot be used by anyone of any age during the entire archery season. This would increase hunting opportunities for many people regardless of age because crossbows are easier to use than their traditional or compound counterparts even though the crossbow is subject to the same limitations as the reg-

In other changes, the Commission voted to open the Duck Island Tract of Lake Barkley WMA in Trigg County for the October muzzleloader season. This is a large island that is usually or at least should be planted with crops for waterfowl every year. Evidently some enterprising deer are making their way to the island to feast on whatever the KDFWR has planted. Down at the Ballard WMA in Ballard County, hunters would be able to earn one preference point for each female deer checked in (up to four) during the November firearms quota hunt, to encourage the taking of antlerless deer down there.

The Commission also voted to reduce the number of cow elk permits available by 100 next season. This is odd since the KDFWR announced recently that they would be giving 150 of Kentucky's elk to Wisconsin so that Wisconsin would have more big animals to feed to their wolves. My thought is that if Kentucky has so many elk that it can give away 150 head, then why not keep the animals and make more quota tags available? I'd rather see more happy elk hunters in the Commonwealth myself.

Next year, the archery deer season will be open from September 5 through January 18. The Crossbow season will run from October 1 through October 18, then from November 14 to December 31. The Early Youth Weekend will be Oct. 10 - 11, Early Muzzleloader will be October 17 through 18, Modern firearms season will be November 14 through November 23 in Zones 3 and 4, and through November 29 in Zones 1 and 2. The late muzzleloader season will be December 12 through December 20 in Zones 1, 2, and 3, and December 12-17 in Zone 4. The late youth deer hunting weekend will be December 26-27.

So there you have a synopsis of news from the outdoor front. Whether you are a fisherman or waterfowl hunter, this looks like a good weekend to be outside.

TENNESSEE STATE TIGERS VS. MURRAY STATE RACERS TODAY • 7 P.M. • CFSB CENTER

Racers stay on path after big win

Sports Writer

Thursday's 92-77 victory over Belmont pushed the Murray State consecutive-win streak to 12 games, a stretch second only to the 15 games Kentucky and Virginia have won.

It kept the Racers perfect in conference play at 4-0, second only to an Eastern Illinois team that leads the conference with five wins and zero losses.

It was a bit of grudge match in which the Racers came away with bragging rights, but more importantly it was an if-necessary tiebreaker to keep in their pocket when the Ohio Valley Conference tournament rolls around in early

None of it makes Murray State head coach Steve Prohm waver.

Talk of a streak will not be found in the locker room. Only thoughts about the next game, the next day, the next practice are on the minds of the Racers.

"On to Tennessee State," Prohm said after the win.

It's that simple for Murray State. There are no whispers of trying to get 13 in a row, no mention of running the table.

The focus is on getting better each practice and winning each game as it comes.

"We're just going to take it one day at a time," said senior forward Jonathan Fairell. "Keep working. Keep driving the piling. Everything will fall into place."

The next challenge comes tonight at 7, when Murray State (14-4, 4-0) hosts Tennessee State (3-16, 0-4 OVC).

Prohm said the team won't watch any more or less tape for the Tigers than they did for Belmont, nor will they change the extent of the scouting report.

"You do what you do every single day, and that's what we do," Prohm said.

The Tigers enter the contest on a four-game losing streak that started with conference play.

In their most recent game,

KYSER LOUGH / For the Ledger

Cam Payne (1) drives around Belmont's Craig Bradshaw in the second half Thursday.

Tennessee State lost 69-68 at Austin Peay on a last-second putback off an offensive rebound.

In all four of their OVC matchups, though, the Tigers have held a lead for the majority of the game, only to fall short in the final minutes.

So, Prohm said teh Racers can't look past Tennessee State, even if the Tigers have a poor record.

"We just have to stay in the moment and try to beat Tennessee State on Saturday," he said. "We have to beat Tennessee State to get to where we want to go."

Murray State has had recent success against the Tigers in previous seasons, though Tennessee State has caused problems for the Racers in the past.

It was the Tigers who ended the 23-0 run to start the 2012-13 season for Murray State. Since then, the Racers have won for consecutive times.

Murray State leads the series 50-16 and is 27-6 when playing at Fairell said it doesn't really matter what's happened in the past-and furthermore who the Racers play next-because the preparations will be the same.

"We prepare the same way for every team," he said. "It doesn't matter who we're playing. It doesn't matter if it's Duke or Brescia. We're going to play the same way."

Girl keeps parents in the dark about new roommate's identity

DEAR ABBY: I am moving out of my parents' place soon to be with one of my best guy friends, but I haven't told my parents who I'm moving in with. In the past, they have caught on to my lies when I was going through my "phase," but I have been trying hard to be honest with them, so I don't

Dear Abby

By Abigail have a guy Van Buren best friend without having a sexual relationship with him.

Now I am torn. Should I be honest so they don't call me a liar down the road? Please help! -- MISS INDEPENDENT IN COL-

DEAR MISS INDEPEND-ENT: Do not lie to your parents. If you do, you are only forestalling the inevitable. If you are mature enough to be moving in with someone, you should be able to tell them where they can find you and who your roommate will

You AND this young man should explain that while you are good friends, you are not a romantic couple. Having a platonic male roommate can have its advantages - as long as the parameters of the arrangement are clearly understood before either of you signs a lease, and your financial responsibilities (and his) are clearly stated, preferably in writing.

DEAR ABBY: I'm a 15-yearold girl, and I have been feeling very sad and down in the dumps lately. I recently lost my younger sister to sickle-cell. I also didn't make my school's soccer team. I have been crying often -- sometimes for no reason, and other times because I'm mad at myself for crying all the time.

I have tried talking to my parents, friends and my family's therapist (we got her because of my sister), but nothing seems to change my mood. It's as if they just don't get how I'm feeling. It also doesn't help that it seems like everyone else's life is so much better compared to mine. If you could offer any advice to help me with my feelings, I would really appreciate it. -- DOWN IN THE DUMPS IN CONNECTICUT

DEAR DOWN IN THE DUMPS: Losing a younger sibling is difficult at any age, but when you are a young teenager, it can be even harder. Please accept my sympathy for the loss of your sister.

I'm glad your family sought guidance from a therapist to help you all through this difficult time. The feelings you are experiencing are normal under the circumstances. But because they are not lessening, it's important you let the therapist know they are causing you additional stress so that, if necessary, you can be evaluated by a psychiatrist. Feelings like the ones you describe can be worked through if they are dealt with in a timely manner and not allowed to fester.

DEAR ABBY: What is the correct etiquette for eating shrimp? My husband says it's OK to eat it with your fingers -- even shrimp scampi. -- PAT IN TEXAS DEAR PAT: According to Emily Post, shrimp can be eaten with the fingers "when served in a bowl or platter with a dip, or tail-on in shrimp cocktail." A fork should be used when it is served "tail-less in a shrimp cocktail or as a main course."

Infant formula or breast milk provides necessary vitamins

DEAR DOCTOR K: The other day I saw a vitamin and mineral supplement for infants. Should I be giving this to my baby?

DEAR READER: Most babies who regularly breast-feed or take commercial infant formula get all the vitamins and minerals they need. Sometimes, however, your doctor may prescribe certain vitamin and min-infant: -- IRON is essential for normal growth and development and the production of red blood cells. Breast milk contains enough iron for the first six months of life. After that, iron-containing foods, such as ironfortified cereals, dark green vegetables and meats, provide additional iron.

If your infant is not breastfed, or is breast-fed only some of the time, he or she should receive an iron-fortified formula for the first year of life. But there's no need for iron supplement drops unless your baby's doctor says they are necessary. VITAMIN K is critical for a baby's blood to clot and stop bleeding. Newborns normally have low levels of vitamin K. Right after delivery, all babies receive an injection of vitamin K. This prevents rare but life-threatening cases of excessive bleeding from a vitamin K deficiency. After this, infants do not need extra doses of vitamin K unless recommended by a doctor

-- VITAMIN D is found in infant formula, vitamin D-fortified milk, eggs and fish. The body can also make its own vitamin D, but needs exposure to sunlight to do so. However, too much sun exposure can increase the risk of skin cancer.

If your baby is formula-fed and taking at least 27 to 32 ounces of vitamin D-fortified formula or milk per day, he or she is getting enough vitamin D. Suppose ments. Do not your baby is either only breastgive your fed, or not yet taking at least 27 to 32 ounces of vitamin D-fortiplements fied formula per day. In that case, unless your your baby's doctor will likely recdoctor recomommend supplemental vitamin D Here are

We know the amount of vitamin D that babies need to stave off the diseases and conditions caused by severe deficiency: osteomalacia, rickets, poor growth, delayed production of teeth, muscle spasms and seizures. However, there is some evidence that less severe deficiency of vitamin D may cause more subtle health problems -- in the baby or in later life. This question is the subject of considerable research. It is possible that in the future doctors will recommend that babies get more vitamin D in their diet than now is considered optimal.

-- FLUORIDE is a mineral that helps prevent tooth decay in children and adults. However, too much fluoride can damage your baby's developing teeth. Fluoride supplements should not be given during the first six months of life. After six months, your baby may need extra fluoride drops. It will depend on whether your drinking water and/or your baby's infant formula contains fluoride. Check with your child's doctor.

Hints From Heloise

A NEW DOG RULES THE HOUSE

Dear Readers: It's my turn in Pet Pal to show off our newest four-pawed friend. CHAMPAGNE was adopted from the San Antonio Humane Society in October 2014. We went looking for a small miniature Schnauzer (we have had three) and came home with a lovebug silky wheaten terrier! Go to my website, www.Heloise.com, to see a few fun photos of her!

She has proven her genetic traits of a terrier by bringing us a few rats she found! So I'd say she has already "paid for her supper," and then some. Oh, and she is following in the paw prints of our previous schnauzers by bringing in the newspaper! I'm still working with her, but she has carried it all the way around from the front of the house to the doggie door in the back. A few times, I have even found the paper (in the plastic sleeve) on the kitchen floor! That's pretty darn smart, I'd say. - "Woof, woof," Heloise and Chammy

SHOT TALK

Heloise

Dear Heloise: My cat never goes outside or is exposed to any other animals. Sabeth is a sweet rescue cat that just wants to sit in a lap or curl up at our feet! She has been to the vet for a checkup, and I hesitated to have them give her a rabies shot. What do you think? -Paul from Virginia

A big Heloise hug to you (and Sabeth) for adopting a rescue cat. Many times you don't really know the background, so it's rather like betting on the lottery. You may win big with a sweet, lovable cat, or you could be in for an interesting relationship with your new feline

Yes, your cat is an indoor cat, but she could sneak out an open door, being curious, as cats

Also, rabies vaccines are required by law in some states. Know, too, that your veterinarian is the best source for information about this. My way of thinking? Why take a chance with a beloved household member's life? - Heloise PROTECTING PETS

Dear Heloise: Indoor holiday plants can be poisonous. Be aware that a bulb plant (or kit) can be harmful to some animals. Many plant bulbs, especially those in the lily family, are toxic to cats. My dear friends lost their cat recently. He was found really sick after eating some plant bulbs. They left "CatCat" alone for a few days, as they had done before. It was traumatic, so please tell your readers. - Rhonda in Pittsburgh

You did! The pain of losing a pet is palpable - I know. I'm sending a gentle hug to your friends. - Heloise

FRESH FLOWERS

Dear Heloise: I save the plastic sleeve I get when buying fresh flowers. When I cut flowers from my garden, I use the sleeve to take them to friends. - Florence C., Rosebud, Texas
