Farm Bureau hosts forum tonight at Curris Center

Special to The Ledger

Anyone with an interest in the race for the Kentucky 1st District Congress may want to attend a candidates forum scheduled for this evening on the Murray State University campus.

Billed as the Measure the Candidates forum, the event is hosted by the Kentucky Farm Bureau and will begin at 6:30 p.m. Friday, April 8 inside the Curris Center Theater on the MSU campus. All four candidates from the Republican Party will be attending, while one of the two Democrats vying for the office has committed to appear.

This race will determine the successor of 11-term Congressman Ed Whitfield of Hopkinsville, a Republican. Whitfield announced late in 2015 that he would not seek a 12th term in Washington.

In a release, Todd Bright, Farm Bureau's division director of communication, said that this activity is not a debate but a forum. The format will give each candidate three minutes to make opening comments before being presented with a series of topics related to the priority issues with the Farm Bureau.

Questions will then accompany each topic to allow candidates the chance to show how their campaigns align with Farm Bureau interests, along with the Commonwealth's agricultural interests and life in rural com-

Kentucky Secretary of State Alison Lundergan Grimes high-fives freshman student Katlyn Garner of Paducah Thursday as Grimes touted her GO VOTE Kentucky! program at The Stables on the Murray State University campus. Garner was one of about 125 members of the audience that Grimes guided through the step-by-step process of using the new system to either register as a new voter or update information.

Grimes brings GO VOTE Ky. Tour to Murray

By JOHN WRIGHT
jwright@murrayledger.com

Kentucky Secretary of State Alison Lundergan Grimes is on a mission to increase the Commonwealth's number of registered voters in hopes that it will lead to higher voter turnouts on election days.

Thursday, Grimes may have added a few numbers to those totals during a stop at Murray State University as part of what her office is calling the GO VOTE Kentucky! Tour to promote Kentucky's first-ever online voter registration system. And with a crowd of about 125 MSU students and faculty members, along with other visitors from throughout the Purchase Area, Grimes, early in her second term as secretary of state, guided everyone in the room through each step of the process on the new website, www.govoteky.com.

"We have made what I believe is history. We have taken Kentucky into the 21st century and most importantly, we're growing the number of people who are using this system every day," Grimes said on a day that started in Henderson that morning. The day ended with a tour stop at Western Kentucky University in Bowling Green. "Until three weeks ago (when the new online system was launched), you had to go to your county clerk's office and fill out information, then once all of that was printed out, that information had to be transposed, then it had to be given to a third party. Then a few weeks later, you'd receive your card in the mail and only then would you be registered to vote."

The new online system bypasses process, allowing anyone wishing to register as a voter to do so electronically by computer or even cell phone, although Grimes said the Android system is proving a bit difficult. What had Grimes most excited Thursday, though, was the fact that this system appears to be receiving a lot of use so far with more than 15,000 total users in the three weeks since it was launched, with about

Kids Against Hunger teams with Rotary for packing day

By JORDAN FERGUSON
jferguson@murrayledger.com

Service above self is the motto of the Rotary Club of Murray, and service was being provided Thursday as Rotarians teamed up with Murray's Kids Against Hunger Association by packing food for the less fortunate.

Kids Against Hunger has been in Murray since August 2010, and in that time has provided 527,000 meals with the help of 1,646 volunteers. Thursday's session resulted in 4,536 meals in only two hours.

"It went better than we expected," said Keith Travis, President of the Rotary Club. "Unfortunately we ran out of one of the components so it looks like this is all we're gonna get to package."

The old Stahler's dairy farm is the usual locale for these food packing sessions, but this time the club opted on the Murray Banquet Center in the Bel-Air Shopping Center in town.

Blankenship: Walker turned self in to Calloway Jail

Staff Report

Walker

A Paducah man accused of violating a pretrial diversion agreement in connection to a fatal 1998 dorm fire at Murray State University is in now in Calloway County.

Calloway County Commonwealth Attorney Mark Blankenship said that Jerry Wayne Walker turned himself in to the Calloway County Jail sometime on Thursday. He said he was not certain if Calloway Circuit Judge James T. Jameson would set a bond in advance of Walker's scheduled appearance on April 19 for a hearing on a motion Blankenship filed Monday, asking for the diversion deal to be voided.

In September 2012, Walker entered into the diversion on six charges of tampering with physical evidence pertaining to the '98 fire at Hester Hall on the MSU campus, where he was a student at the time. That fire claimed the life of one MSU student, Michael Minger of Niceville, Florida, and se-

Playhouse hosts information meeting on Penguin Project Monday evening

By DEBBIE BATTEIGER
dbatteiger@murrayledger.com

For the past two years, Murray's Playhouse in the Park has been putting on some very special performances with some very talented actors through a nationwide program called The Penguin Project.

Lisa Cope, executive director for the Playhouse in the Park, said they are the seventh community theater in the nation and the only one in Kentucky that participate in The Penguin Project.

there (at the farm) before but this is good for them to get a chance to do it here," Travis said. "Thirty or 40 of our members have been out there before, but you know we'll have 80 or 90 here today, so I'm sure this is the first time for several people to be participating. Our motto is service above self and this is a direct application of service."

Kids Against Hunger originally only had a single distribution point through Needleline, but since 2010 KAH has managed to find more ways to distribute their packaged meals.

"Our distribution point was originally just Needleline, because that was all that was here at that time," said Loretta Jobs, executive director for KAH. "Now it's Soup for the Soul, the community luncheon at the (Murray First United) Methodist church on Sundays, and the backpack program for the (local school) resource centers. Also, this past fall, under the leadership of (KAH board member) Ricky Lamkin, we delivered to 86 churches in Murray and Calloway County for distribution. We feel that the churches know where the needs are, so we just started distributing through the them this past year."

The mac and cheese which was being packaged on Thursday is fortified with vitamins, minerals and soy, and was enjoyed—without their knowledge—by the rotarians for lunch as well. Jobs heard no complaints.

For Jobs and the board of KAH, the reward for their endeavors comes from the joy of helping those who need it.

"I had a little boy who was seven years old come up to me and say 'I know they would package for me if I were hungry,'" Jobs said. "I thought, 'He gets it, he understands what he's doing!'"

"Then I had a mother who had gotten packages at (FUMC), and she came out to package with her two small children and she said, 'I wanted my children to know how we got that food and how it has given us hope.'"

This year, the food being packaged was paid for by a grant from Rotary International, but the next packing session in June is going to be funded through a $10,000 grant from the Carson-Myre Charitable Foundation in Paducah. Ed Davis, a Murray Rotarian and recent addition to the KAH board, wrote the grant.

Davis said the original grant was for $20,000 but the foundation only provided $10,000 as a sort of trial run to make sure the money is being used appropriately. He said they will re-apply in December, and likely receive the full $20,000 for next year's endeavors.

"What they do is meet in January and make a determination as to who is going to receive funding as of June 1," Davis said. "So June 1 we will get our check for $10,000."

Davis said each packing session costs around $5,000 and that the grant should cover the packing session in June and another in November.

"This is a great thing to be involved in," Davis said. "When I retired two years ago, I was looking around for things to do and I've been involved in a number of things, but this is probably one of the most gratifying."

Clay Howerton, a trustee of the Carson-Myre foundation was present at the packing session as well and gave a history lesson about the foundation and its origins.

The story of the foundation goes back to Luther Carson, a Kirksey native, who at the beginning of the 20th century was interested in bottling Coca Cola. Eventually, he was able to purchase stock in the Coca Cola company on the off chance the company might grow.

Coke, as it turns out, was quite successful, proving lucrative for Carson. His daughter, Jane Carson-Myre, and her husband, Louis, after making sure their family was taken care of, decided to pass their generosity on by establishing a trust for the funding of charitable works.

"It's really a blessing to work on the foundation and see the good works that so many organizations are doing," Howerton said. "I was unaware before I started working for the foundation just how generous people are in the community and what kind of good works they're up to but it's very encouraging to see that." ■ verely injured another, Michael-Priddy of Paducah.

Walker was tried twice on charges that he was involved in setting the fire, the first trial resulting in a mistrial in Hopkinsville while the second resulted in his acquittal in Benton. The tampering charges were made after the acquittal in the summer of 2012.

"I was talking with (Walker's attorney) Dennis Null about Jerry's situation and said I didn't know if (Jameson) would issue a warrant, and he said, 'You don't have to do that.' So I guess Jerry turned himself in and will be here until at least the hearing (on April 19) or until Judge Jameson sets a bond in the case," Blankenship said.

"I actually was told that this would happen (today) so I guess they decide to this just a day early."

Walker was convicted last week in McCracken Circuit Court in Paducah of tampering with physical evidence, tampering with a witness and perjury in the first degree in a case in which he was accused of activity related to an attempt to regain his job within Paducah City Schools. Walker was the assistant principal at Paducah Middle School in 2014 when then-Superintendent Randy Greene fired him after learning that Walker allegedly vacated his duties of supervising the Paducah Middle track and field team at a meet in Louisville.

Last week's trial involved photographic evidence, as well as testimony that, at the time of the track meet, he was allegedly involved in an extramarital relationship with a Paducah Middle teacher. Greene's action was later upheld by a Paducah City Schools tribunal; upon that ruling, McCracken County Commonwealth Attorney Dan Boaz took the case to a grand jury, which came back with indictments on the three charges. A jury found Walker guilty in last week's trial.

Court records show that McCracken Circuit Judge Tim Kaltenbach is scheduled to sentence Walker on July 1. All three charges carry consecutive penalties of one year each.

Walker's pretrial diversion deal in Calloway County calls for him to serve 10 years in jail if he violated the conditions of the agreement, of which being convicted of a felony is part.

"One thing about cases like these is that the defendants want to avoid going to a (state prison) so they choose to serve their time in a regional jail or even county facility, where their family can come see them on somewhat of a regular basis," Blankenship said.

Individuals facing charges are presumed innocent until proven guilty in a court of law. ■

JORDAN FERGUSON/Ledger & Times
 Wednesday's wreck between a pickup truck and a van near Murray resulted in DUI charges for one of the drivers.

Calloway SO reports DUI charge in Wednesday wreck

Staff Report

A Murray man is facing charges following a two-vehicle wreck Wednesday afternoon in Calloway County.

In a press release Thursday, Calloway County Sheriff's Office Capt. Richard Steen said deputies responded to a report of a motor vehicle collision on KY 94 East about two miles east of Murray in the vicinity of the Dollar General store. At the same time, Calloway County Fire-Rescue and Murray-Calloway County EMS/Rescue also responded to the scene.

Upon deputies arriving, Steen said an investigation revealed that Wesley Cook, 47, of Murray was eastbound on 94 East when he lost control of his pickup truck. The vehicle continued off the roadway and struck a culvert causing it to go back onto the roadway and into the path of a van headed westbound.

Steen said that the van was operated by Catherine Lanier, 38, also of Murray. A juvenile passenger was also inside her vehicle at the time.

Steen said that Lanier attempted to avoid the collision but was unsuccessful and, following the impact, the van came to rest in a ditch, while Cook's truck came to rest in the westbound lane. Cook was not able to emerge from the vehicle and had to be extricated by EMS/Rescue and CCFR personnel.

Upon being freed from the wreckage, Cook was taken to Murray-Calloway County Hospital by a unit from the Murray-Calloway County Ambulance Service. Later, Cook was charged with operating a motor vehicle while under the influence of alcohol/drugs, possession of a controlled substance, possession of drug paraphernalia and two counts of wanton endangerment.

Calloway County Sheriff Sam Steger would like to remind everyone that all persons facing charges of any type are innocent until proven guilty in a court of law. Steer also would like to encourage anyone that witnesses any unusual or possibly criminal activity to call CCSO at 270-753-3151 or utilize the tips@callkyso.com online service. ■

Murray State University police celebrates telecommunicators

Special to The Ledger

Telecommunications Appreciation Week is being observed April 10-16. This is a week set aside each year to remember and celebrate telecommunicators and their dedicated service to their departments and communities.

This year, the Murray State University Police Department is celebrating the presence of its telecommunications team. The MSU team includes four full-time telecommunicators and one telecommunications supervisor. All telecommunicators in Kentucky attend a five-week academy in Frankfort in order to become certified as telecommunicators.

They must also complete a minimum of eight hours of in-service training, annually, to continue their certification.

This year, MSU's telecommunications team also has much to celebrate. Accomplishments include the following:

- Received a Certificate of Accreditation for MSU Police Telecommunications Department from the Kentucky Association of Chiefs.

- MSU Police Telecommunications Department was the first police telecommunications department in West Kentucky and the first university police telecommunications department, in the state of Kentucky, to receive the Certificate of Accreditation.

"Our telecommunicators perform their duties each day with a positive and professional attitude. They work diligently to ensure our telecommunications department is running at top proficiency and that our MSU officers, community first responders, the university community and visitors to campus receive high quality customer service," said MSU Police Assistant Chief Jeff Gentry.

According to Association of Public Safety Communications Officials International, every year during the second week of April, the telecommunications personnel in the public safety community, are honored. This week-long event was initially set up in 1981 by Patricia Anderson of the Contra Costa County Sheriff's Office in California and is a time to celebrate and thank those who dedicate their lives to serving the public. ■

GO VOTE KY!...

From front

2,200 of those being for new voter registrations.

She also said 800 of those were for new voters who are 18.

"We've also had a 98-year-old person use this, and that's what this was designed for. We wanted this to be something folks from 18 to 98 could use and it looks like that is what's happening," Grimes said. "We're not changing the rules here. The rules are the same still. We just want more people to be able to play on the court."

Grimes said something rather surprising so far has been how many users have opted for their driver's licenses for inputting information, including for using a signature at the end of the process. She also emphasized how important information such as an email address or phone number is in the event a voter needs to be contacted about an issue.

"Today we heard about some very bad weather, with tornadoes, in Georgia, and I'm reminded how this kind of thing can affect records like this," she said, remembering how this exact situation did play out in 2012 in a Kentucky county. "We had a terrible storm go through Morgan County and that tornado actually ripped up all of their information. How were we able to find these people again? We had their emails in Frankfort. It is so important to leave that email address in your information."

Grimes also said that with youth and minorities ranking in the lowest percentage of registered voters, finding a way to increase convenience is vital to getting them involved with the process. On this issue, she spoke directly to MSU students in the room, involving them in a demonstration related to voter turnout; 30 percent of Kentucky voters participated in the November general election.

"The foundation of our democracy depends on you being heard," she said to 10 volunteers, then having two or three take a step forward, accounting for the 30 percent from November. She then looked at the other seven students. "You're depending on those folks to decide races like the state government and the president and your local races?! Really?!"

One of those participants was MSU freshman student Madison Schmidt of Paducah, who earlier had utilized her iPad to register online.

"I've been waiting for this," Schmidt said. "It was pretty easy."

"I was figuring that I would have to go to the courthouse, just like it's always been done," said fellow MSU Paducah freshman Katlyn Garner, who also registered during Grimes' appearance Thursday. "I don't have to do that now." ■

Murray State University professor hosts book release Monday

Special to The Ledger

"Home and Away: A Professor's Journal", by Murray State professor Duane Bolin will be officially released at a reception Monday at 6 p.m. This public event will be hosted by Community Financial Services Bank (CFSB) in the Murray Room of the CFSB Center on the MSU campus.

The event will feature readings of selections from the book by the writer interspersed with the music of singer/songwriter and recording artist Daniel Martin Moore. The author will sign books following the reading.

The Book consists of a collection of 120 essays - revisions and sometimes complete rewrites of Bolin's favorite newspaper columns that have appeared first in the "Murray Ledger & Times," beginning in 2005, and then in other newspapers across the Bluegrass, including the "Providence Journal-Enterprise" the "Seabee Banner" in Webster County where Bolin grew up, and in newspapers as wide-ranging as the "Danville Advocate Messenger" and the "Kentucky Gazette" in Frankfort. Professor Bolin teaches in the Department of History at MSU.

The unveiling event includes the voice of Moore, who after serving in the Peace Corps, sent an unsolicited four-song demo to legendary Sub Pop Records that garnered him a record deal. Sub Pop released "Stray Age" in 2008, Moore's debut full-length. ■

Master Clothing Volunteer Program available

Special to the Ledger

Recruitment for the Calloway County Extension Master Clothing Volunteer Class is ongoing through the end of June. A master volunteer is an individual who goes above and beyond the traditional volunteer role and have a basic knowledge of sewing and garment construction skills. They are interested in receiving in-depth training in the subject and are dedicated to helping others learn their art.

The Kentucky Master Volunteer in Clothing Construction Program has been certifying individuals since 1990. A new class of volunteers is selected every two years. The Class of 2016 will be the 13th class to begin the certification process.

Participation in the program is highly selective. Only two individuals are selected from each of the state's 14 extension areas. Individuals must first apply to the program at their county's extension office where they are already an approved volunteer. From there, a county chairman will screen the applicants and individuals will be notified by mail on the status of their application. The committee will make their selections based on an individual's sewing knowledge and people skills drawn from the application and interview.

Those selected to participate in the program will attend a statewide training on Oct. 18-21 at Lake Cumberland 4-H Educational Center in Jabez and begin the certification process. During this process, they will receive training on subject matter, record keeping, teaching and people skills. They will also make a written commitment to give back 100 hours of service to Cooperative Extension and the community within two years by teaching basic sewing skills to groups of individuals. After completing the volunteer requirements, the individuals will become a Certified Master Clothing Volunteer recognized by the Kentucky Cooperative Extension Service as a trained professional aide.

Applications are available at the Calloway County Cooperative Extension Office and more information will be available by calling 270-753-1452. Applications are due June 14. Area interviews will be conducted at the Graves County Extension Office on June 28. Those accepted into the program will be expected to pay $100 which goes towards the registration fee for the statewide training. ■

University presidents meet with Bevin about Kentucky budget

FRANKFORT, Ky. (AP) — Kentucky's university presidents have met with Republican Gov. Matt Bevin and House and Senate leaders to discuss the state budget.

Representatives for Democratic House Speaker Greg Stumbo and Republican Senate President Robert Stivers confirmed the meeting took place Wednesday night at the Governor's Mansion.

Lawmakers have not yet approved a plan on how to spend more than $65 billion in public money over the next two years. Tuesday is the last day of the legislative session.

Last week, Bevin cut state appropriations for colleges and universities by 4.5 percent, a move that angered Democrats. Democratic Attorney General Andy Beshear has threatened to sue Bevin.

The Lexington Herald-Leader reports Eastern Kentucky University President Michael Benson said he is "slightly more hopeful" an agreement can be reached.

FORUM...

 Communities. Closing comments will conclude the forum.

On the Democrats' side, Samuel Gaskins of Hopkinsville will attend the forum. Gaskins is a native of Crofton in Christian County and a veteran of two branches of the military, having served five years in the Marines before reenlisting with the Army immediately following the Sept. 11, 2001 attacks and serving an additional eight years.

His opponent is longtime Paducah attorney and former McCracken County Commonwealth Attorney Tom Osborne.

On the GOP side, Miles Caughey Jr. is a retired Army veteran and farmer from Herndon in Christian County.

That county is also where opponent Michael Pape calls home as he resides in Hopkinsville. Pape was Whitfield's district director for 21 years when he became a candidate for that position, with Whitfield's blessing, shortly after Whitfield announced that he would not run in the 2016 election cycle. An Illinois native, Pape will also be in familiar territory tonight, being that he is an MSU graduate.

James Comer of Tompkinsville is another GOP hopeful and comes to the race having served the past four years as Kentucky's agriculture commissioner. He vacated that position to make a run for governor in 2015, which resulted in an 83-vote defeat in the May primary to current Gov. Matt Bevin.

Rounding out the GOP field is the first Republican to hold the Hickman County attorney's position, Army veteran, small business owner and attorney Jason Batts of Clifton.

Bright said the event is free and open to the public.

As part of the program, a mentor "boot camp" will teach them how they will assist the artists and "how to be in the background." Mentors are also part of the chorus.

"It really does take a village, we need a lot of adult help. It is a huge commitment," Cope said. "We're looking for a lot of help."

She said the Penguin Project rehearsal time is different than putting on one of the shows they do during the theater season.

"Typically rehearsals for a show run six weeks," she said. "The Penguin Project's show (rehearsals) is four months. The rehearsals are short because the attention span is sometimes not long. It's a long process, but worth it."

"Peter Pan, Jr." is scheduled to run Aug. 18-28.

*'The LORD is my shepherd,
I lack nothing. He makes me lie down in green pastures, he leads me beside quiet waters, he refreshes my soul. He guides me along the right paths for his name's sake. Even though I walk through the darkest valley, I will fear no evil, for you are with me; your rod and your staff, they comfort me. You prepare a table before me in the presence of my enemies.
You anoint my head with oil; my cup overflows. Surely your goodness and love will follow me all the days of my life, and I will dwell in the house of the LORD forever.*

Only do what you can

What Would Jesus Do?
by Richard Youngblood
University Church of Christ

Question: I wish I could do more to help others and to honor God, but I don't have a college education or any special abilities like some other people. What can I do?

Answer: All Jesus asks of any of us is that we do what we can with what we have. In fact, he knows how we would use even greater resources by knowing the way in which we use what we now have. To his disciples, Jesus said: "Whoever can be trusted with very little can also be trusted with much, and whoever is dishonest with very little will also be dishonest with much" (Luke 16:10). On another occasion, he taught that if we use what we already have been given then more will be added (Matthew 25:29).

The story of Jesus in Mark 14 presents this simple but helpful principle. While Jesus was a guest in the home of Simon the Leper in Bethany, a woman brought an alabaster jar of very expensive perfume and poured it on his head. Some of those present criticized the woman saying that she had been wasteful. "It could have been sold for more than a year's wages and the money given to the poor," they said. But Jesus defended her, saying: "She has done a beautiful thing to me.

The poor you will always have with you, and you can help them any time you want. But you will not always have me. She did what she could. She poured perfume on my body beforehand to prepare for my burial" (Mark 14:3-9).

Also, consider the example of Dorcas, a woman of whom it was said that she "was always doing good and helping the poor" (Acts 9:36). Few people mentioned in the Bible have received higher commendation. When the apostle Peter arrived in Joppa shortly after her death, he was met by a group of tearful widows who showed him the clothing Dorcas had made for them. She had neither given large sums of money to an orphanage nor set up a great benevolent organization. But Dorcas had a needle, and she did what she could with what she had in order to help those in need.

Then, there is the story of the widow's mite. While sitting near the place of the temple treasury, Jesus observed how the rich people threw in large sums of money; but he was more impressed with the poor widow who put in two very small coins worth only a fraction of a penny (Mark 12:41-44). She simply did what she could with what she had.

Thus, it is neither the size of the gift nor the greatness of the deed which honors God. He is only concerned that we do what we can. The rich may give huge sums of money and still have failed to give what they could. Highly gifted or talented individuals may do wonderful things in the eyes of people in this world, but God will know if they could have done more.

When it comes to the matter of Christian service—whether studying God's word, showing kindness to a neighbor, preparing meals and caring for your family, helping the poor, giving money for special causes or driving a friend to work—Jesus wants you to know that he expects no more than your opportunities and abilities enable you to do. If you continue to be uncertain about what you can do, pray about it and find a good church that will help you identify your own gifts for serving. The presence of the Holy Spirit in the lives of Christians assures that they all have special gifts for ministry (Romans 12:3-8; 1 Corinthians 12). My prayer is that God will give you the confidence to do what you can with what you have.

COLLEGE SOFTBALL: SOUTHERN ILLINOIS 10, MURRAY STATE 5

Salukis take advantage of errors in defeating Racers

MSU Sports Information

Murray State's Maggie Glass prepares to defend against Southern Illinois during a non-conference game Thursday at Racer Field. Glass hit three doubles to tie an MSU record.

By JEFF ARENZ
Sports Editor

Southern Illinois scored six unearned runs in the sixth inning en route to a 10-5 non-conference win over Murray State on Thursday at Racer Field.

Leading 4-2 through five frames, the Salukis (21-11) took an eight-run lead in the sixth. SIU plated six runs on five hits and an MSU error, one of four miscues Murray State had in the game. Five of the runs were scored with two outs.

MSU (14-19) rallied for three runs in the sixth. With the bases loaded, Shelbey Miller forced home a run on a hit by pitch before Jessica Twaddle hit a two-out two-run single that put runners at first and third.

Southern Illinois reliever Brianna Jones struck out Cayla Levins to strand a pair of baserunners and end Murray State's comeback. The Racers left 10 runners on base, while the Salukis left eight.

Despite the loss, MSU finished with a 14-11 advantage in hits, including a game-record six doubles. Maggie Glass had three doubles to tie a Racers record Casey Castile set against Bowling Green in 2013. Other Murray State doubles came from Miller, Madison Culver and Erika Downey.

"I think the biggest positive from this game is how well we hit," Racers head coach Kara Amundson said. "Coming off of last week, we talked about being more aggressive at the plate and being consistently aggressive."

Three first-inning runs gave Southern Illinois a 3-0 lead before Murray State came to bat. An RBI double from Hannah Porter increased the Salukis lead to 4-0 in the third.

The Racers scored single tallies in the third and fourth innings, first on an RBI single from Twaddle in the third, and then on an RBI double from Glass in the fourth.

"Honestly, our defense wasn't great after committing four errors," Amundson said. "I thought the errors came on plays that we could make. We want our pitchers to get (our opponents to hit) the ball on the ground so that we can make plays, defensively."

Glass led MSU by going 3-for-4 with three doubles, a run and a RBI, while Twaddle added a 2-for-4 effort with three RBIs. Levins, Downey and Leah Kessel each added two hits for the Racers.

Murray State starter Haven Campbell (4-5) was charged with the loss after allowing four runs (two earned) on six hits over 2 1/3 innings. Mason Robinson (3 1/3 innings) and J.J. Francis (1 1/3 innings) worked in relief.

"We need to be more consistent in the circle. When you allow (three runs and) six hits in the first two innings, it's tough to defend and tough to battle back from," Amundson said. "We need to improve on our consistency, heading into the weekend."

Southern Illinois starter Savanna Dover lasted three innings, while giving up two earned runs on nine hits. Jones, who improved to 16-5, tossed the final four innings, allowing three earned runs on five hits.

Saluki pitchers combined to walk none, while Racer hurlers issued five free passes.

Murray State is back in Ohio Valley Conference action this weekend, when the Racers travel to play Tennessee State on Saturday and host Belmont on Sunday. Both doubleheaders are set to begin at 1 p.m. ■

ALL-REGION 1 GIRLS BASKETBALL TEAM

They were the best

Murray Ledger & Times selects top prep players

By BRYCE RUDD
Sports Reporter

It's was an unforgettable year of girls basketball in the Purchase area.

For Murray High, the 2015-2016 season was a once-in-a-lifetime phenomenon.

With the success of the Lady Tigers in mind, other stars may have gotten lost in the background.

So, allow me to refresh your memory. From us to you, here is our annual All-Region 1 Girls Basketball Team selections.

FIRST TEAM
Guard
Macey Turley,
Murray High

Described as a warrior, a fighter and a cold-blooded attacker, Turley took Region 1 and molded it any way she saw fit.

She took heavy expectations weighing on the shoulders of Murray High and led the Lady Tigers (35-2) to their greatest season in history.

Turley averaged 14.3 points per game on 43.3 percent shooting (154 of 356) overall and 38.7 percent shooting (46 of 119) from 3-point range. She made 87.2 percent (170 of 195) of her free throws, which ranked her second in the state.

Turley, the Region 1 Player of the Year carried Murray High to an All-A State Tournament championship, a Region 1 Tournament title and a Final Four appearance in the KHSAA Girls Basketball State Tournament.

For succeeding at a high level under pressure, Turley, a sophomore, has been selected as the 2016 Murray Ledger & Times Girls Basketball Player of the Year.

Guard
Danielle Waggoner,
Graves County

Often lost in the mixture of Murray High's dominance, Waggoner was as automatic from behind the 3-point line as they came.

She scored nearly 16 points per game and carried Graves County to a Region 1 Tournament championship appearance.

As a sophomore, Waggoner made a name for herself. When she is back on the court next season, Waggoner looking for a little vengeance.

Forward
Alexis Burpo,
Murray High

Maybe the most underrated Murray High player this season, Burpo was a double-double threat on any given night.

She averaged 9.8 points and 6.8 rebounds a game as a power forward.

Serving a multi-versatile role in head coach Rechelle Turner's system, there was hardly anything Burpo couldn't do.

Forward
Maddie Waldrop,
Murray High

Named to the All-Region 1 Tournament and KHSAA Girls Basketball State Tournament teams, Waldrop averaged 14.5 points and 6.7 rebounds and was barely edged out as All-Purchase Player of the Year by her teammate, Macey Turley.

Waldrop could have almost certainly averaged 20 points and 10 rebounds, but was rested during several stretches of Murray High's 29-game winning

Brannon hits HR as Lakers rout Pats

Staff Reports

Calloway County scored at least one run in every inning as the Lakers routed Henry County 16-6 in five innings Thursday.

Jonah Brannon's first home run was a three-run blast to left field that came during Calloway County's four-run fourth inning.

Brannon also hit a single, drove in four runs and scored twice.

The Patriots scored two runs before the Lakers came to bat in the first, taking their only lead at 2-0. CCHS went ahead 7-2 on a first-inning run and a six-run second. After Henry County had a three-run third and Calloway County produced a two-run in the bottom half, the Lakers were ahead 9-5. CCHS scored seven of the final eight runs during the final two innings.

Lofton Pigg, Jeremy Darnell, Ethan Sheridan and Tyce Stalls all added two hits in the Lakers' 12-hit attack. Of Sheridan's two hits, one was a double.

CCHS took advantage of five Henry County errors and several walks from the Patriots' pitching staff.

Garrett Scott worked two-plus innings to become the winning pitcher. He allowed five runs (two earned) on three hits with a strikeout and a walk. Pigg pitched two relief innings, while Aaron Dawson pitched in the fifth.

The Lakers (5-4) meet the Patriots again today with a 4:30 p.m. game being played in Paris, Tenn.

GOLF: THE MASTERS

Spieth picks up where he left off

The Associated Press

AUGUSTA, Ga. — Jordan Spieth is off to another great start in the Masters because of the way he finished.

His two biggest rivals were left behind because they couldn't.

Spieth capped off the only bogey-free round in the wicked wind at Augusta National by making a 15-foot par putt on the 16th hole and hitting an 8-iron into 6 feet for birdie on the final hole for a 6-under 66 and a two-shot lead, the first step in his bid to win another green jacket.

Jason Day couldn't keep pace. On the verge of tying for the lead late in the round Thursday, Day dropped five shots in three holes and had to settle for a 72. Rory McIlroy pulled to within two shots of the lead until he made two bogeys over the last three holes.

When a day of big wind, big numbers and far too many putts for Ernie Els was finally over, it felt as though nothing had changed from last year.

Spieth is the man to beat at the Masters.

He was atop the leaderboard for the fifth straight round, and he has had at least a share of the lead in six of the last seven rounds at the Masters. One more and he matches the longest streak since Arnold Palmer in 1960 and the opening two rounds of 1961.

And just like last year, now it's time for the rest of the field to try to catch him.

"We're through one round," Spieth said. "There's going to be a lot of different changes. There are going to be a lot of different birdies, bogeys and everything in between. We know how to win this golf tournament, and we believe in our process. And if the putts are dropping, then hopefully it goes our way."

He had a two-shot lead over Danny Lee and Shane Lowry. Three shots behind was a group that included Sergio Garcia, Justin Rose and Paul Casey.

Still in the mix were Day and McIlroy, though both gave up a lot of ground in a short amount of time.

Day's troubles began when he three-putted for bogey on the par-5 15th, pulled his tee shot into the water on the par-3 16th for a triple bogey and then sailed the green on the 17th and dropped another shot. When he finished, he was six behind the defending champion.

"I've just got to slowly try to inch my way back into this tournament if I can, and be patient with myself, and hopefully I'm there by Sunday," Day said. "But it's a major championship."

streak (all by double digits).
As a junior, Waldrop was as important to the unprecedented success of the Lady Tigers as any player.

Center Hannah Langhi, Marshall County

The fact that there were no seniors listed on the All-Region 1 first team solidifies what we've known all along, the future of Region 1 girls basketball is bright. And nobody has a brighter future than Marshall County's Hannah Langhi.

The only Region 1 player to average a double-double on the season, Langhi's 15 points and 10 rebounds per game were a fixture at Reed Condor Gymnasium, carrying the Lady Marshals to a District 4 Tournament championship appearance.

Its hard to imagine her being more polished than she is now, but she'll be the main catalyst as Marshall County tries to upend Murray High next season.

SECOND TEAM Guard Lex Mayes, Murray High

With three returning Murray High players already named to the All-Region 1 first team, you can add the name of Lex Mayes to the second team.

Mayes averaged 10 points as the third option in a polished Lady Tigers' offense, but was capable of exploding for 15 or 20 points as a crafty guard in an already loaded offense.

Guard Taylor Carrico, Carlisle County

Carrico was an offensive juggernaut for the Lady Comets in her coming out party as a freshman.

She was by far the most impressive rookie in the region, leading the way with 16 points per contest and helping Carlisle County to its sixth consecutive District 1 Tournament championship.

Forward Maddye Rice, McCracken County

Maybe the best athlete across the board, Rice was the beating heart for a competitive

McCracken County team that finished 23-10.

She averaged 13 points, but scored 23 against Paducah Tilghman as Lady Mustangs won the District 2 Tournament championship.

Forward Lyndi Qualls, Graves County

Qualls was a forced to be reckoned with and a perfect complimentary piece to Danielle Waggoner for the Lady Eagles.

She averaged 13 points and 7.0 rebounds on a 25-8 Graves County team that was the second-best team in Region 1.

Center Leah Shelley, Ballard Memorial

Shelley had 15.0 points and 9.0 rebounds a game and that would be enough to convince us that she can play.

But Shelley's threat from the 3-point line as a center is what left a lasting impression on us.

Her ability to stretch the floor and attack the basket gave Ballard Memorial a chance in every game the Lady Bombers played.

HONORABLE MENTION Lily Ramey, Murray High

Ramey was the senior defensive mastermind for Murray High's 35-2 season, but the Lady Tigers would be nowhere without her heart and leadership.

Miriah Donelson, Paducah Tilghman

Averaging 14 points and 6.0 rebounds a game, Donelson stuffed the stat sheet on a nightly basis to lift a struggling Paducah Tilghman squad.

Charlee Settle, Calloway County

As an eighth grader, Settle was a rebounding machine, averaging nearly a double-double at nine points and nine rebounds per contest.

It's only a matter of time before she moves near the top of our list.

Briley English, Marshall County

Maybe the sharpest shooter in the Purchase area this season, English eclipsed 95 3-pointers, while scoring 11 points per contest. ■ happen. And unfortunately, it happened at the wrong time today.

Right when Day was falling apart, McIlroy holed an 18-foot eagle putt on the 13th and looked to be on his way in his bid to win a green jacket and complete the career Grand Slam. He was within two shots of the lead until he three-putted the 16th for bogey and missed the 18th green to the right, was plugged in a bunker and dropped another shot for a 70.

"If somebody had given me a 70 on the first day, I would have taken it," McIlroy said. "I'm a little disappointed in the way I finished."

It could have been worse.

Bubba Watson, a two-time champion, had a 41 on the back nine and shot 75. He wasn't even low Watson — 66-year-old Tom Watson, in his last Masters, shot 74. Adam Scott, coming off two victories in Florida last month, opened with a 76.

Rickie Fowler had his worst score ever at Augusta National by posting an 80, with 44 of those shots coming on the back nine.

Spieth simply picked up where he left off a year ago.

Never mind that he discovered a hairline crack in his driver during Wednesday practice and had to find a backup for the opening round. Or that he was hearing questions about what was wrong with his game from not having seriously contended in the last two months.

Spieth was at Augusta National, a course that feels like home for the 22-year-old Texan.

"I would have signed for 2 under today and not even played the rough, knowing the conditions that were coming up," Spieth said. "Just scored extremely well, which is something I've been struggling with this season. If I can kind of straighten out things with the iron play, hopefully we'll be in business. But yeah, I'm extremely pleased with that round today. I felt like we stole a few."

For all the birdies — none longer than 12 feet — the pars make Spieth look so tough to beat.

He settled himself early with a beautiful pitch across the first green to 2 feet. He pumped his fist with a tough pitch over the bunker and to the upper tier on No. 4. He gambled with a 4-iron through a tiny gap in the trees on the 11th and made it pay off with another par. On 16, he kept his card clean by ramming in a 15-foot par putt.

By the end of the day, no one could do better.

Nine players couldn't break 80, a group that included Els, who took six putts from 2 feet on the opening hole for a 9. He played the rest of the day at 1 over.

"It wouldn't matter if I putted with a stick," Els said. "When snakes are going off in your brain, it's difficult." ■

SUDOKU

Sudoku is a number-placing puzzle based on a 9x9 grid with several given numbers. The object is to place the numbers 1 to 9 in the empty squares so that each row, each column and each 3x3 box contains the same number only once. The difficulty level of the Concepts Sudoku increases from Monday to Sunday.

Andy Stahl

Out & About ... Kentucky Style

By Gary P. West
 Syndicated Columnist

If you've gone to the movies or watched television in the last 30 years or so, you've seen Andy Stahl playing his craft as an actor alongside the likes of Mel Gibson, Andy Griffith and Jon Voight. Though not an A-list star, he has had his share of mega movie performances, and the Morgantown resident at the age of 64 is still cranking them out. Kentuckians have long turned out silver screen celebrities with both George Clooney and Jennifer Lawrence being the latest mega stars, but not lost in it all are those wonderful character actors who often prop up those headlines who have marquee names. Andy Stahl has appeared in more than 30 movies, both on the big screen and made for TV, and is now waiting for his latest, Table 19, to be released. "We're still waiting," Stahl says. "It's how this business goes." Table 19 was shot on location at the Foxhole Resort and Sporting Club near Douglasville, Georgia, west of Atlanta. "It was a beautiful, sprawling place, previously an equine club," said Stahl. "But the architecture, though a bit dated, fit this quirky movie well." Stahl plays the father of the groom, and the film's script is built around a group of total strangers forced to sit together as misfits at a destination wedding. "I play the role of Henry Grotzky," says Stahl, who marks his time from living in Nashville and on his more than 600 acres of farm land in Butler County near Morgantown. When he showed up in Douglasville, Stahl was pleasantly surprised to see another actor he had known from his college theatre days at Western Kentucky University. Becky Ann Gelke Baker had been in the theatre curriculum at Western for four years and though Stahl was not really sure the Ft. Knox native remembered him, he remembered her. "She was very active in theatre," he says. "In those days in the mid-70s I was convinced I was going to be a filmmaker, and didn't really enter the theatre department until my senior year. She had an impressive run on the New York stage, and I was aware of her career. In Table 19 she played the mother of the bride." Running into a former classmate unexpectedly wasn't the first time he had proven that it really is a small world, indeed.

In 2006 Stahl added a big screen credit as Dr. Joseph M. Ray in the hit movie Glory Road. Ray was the president of Texas Western University, and the movie is about his school's basketball team that started five black players for the first time in NCAA tournament history and beat Adolph Rupp's University of Kentucky team in the 1966 championship game. With this being the 50th anniversary of that game, Glory Road has been a TV staple as of late due to the timing of the NCAA tournament. "I couldn't believe it when I found out Ray had gone to the same high school I had - College High in Bowling Green," he said. The long-gone high school had been a part of Western and when Stahl's mother got a job at the university, her son enrolled at College High. It was here that his life began to change. He taught himself to play the guitar, developing a passion for music that led to playing in several garage bands around Bowling Green. Still, he found time to play basketball and develop his skills as an artistic painter. Like most in his acting profession, Stahl honed his talent in local productions that included the highly regarded Horse Cave Theatre and its director Warren Hammack. A stint in New York City studying with acting coaches Wynn Handman and Jack Waltzer, he continued to expand his network of job possibilities. All the while he helped support his acting desire by hiring out to move people in his old pick-up truck around the city. "I could set my own schedule so I could attend auditions," he added. Before long he realized he could land a role here and there just as easy in Nashville, so that's where he moved. It was a move that put him closer to his mother and their Butler County farm. Never at a loss for something to do, Andy Stahl, while waiting on the release of Table 19, is busy pitching a script about Bowling Green in the Civil War. "It's an incredible story," he says. "And I'm hopeful that someone will put it on the screen someday." It's called "Tears in the Storm." But wait there's more!

"I'm also working on some music, writing and recording," he said. "Thinking about doing a CD as a bucket list thing. I was a singer and musician a long time before I started acting." There's no excuse. Get up, get out, and get going! - Gary P. West can be reached at west1488@twc.com.

Sixty years ago Fred Douglas, son of Mrs. Hazel Douglas, is serving with the Air Force at Sheppard Air Force Base, Wichita Falls, Texas.

Recent births at the Murray Hospital include a girl to Mr. and Mrs. Owen Dillon.

Smoker who's tried everything is desperate to become a quitter

DEAR ABBY: I need some advice about quitting smoking. I am the father of an only child and husband to a wonderful wife. But for some reason, I have not been able to find the motivation to quit. I know smoking is bad for my health, and I don't want to endanger my child's health any longer.

I have tried the gum, the patch and even prescription meds. My willpower just isn't strong and I can't quit, no matter what I try. I need the right inspiration. Can you help me stop this nasty habit? -- SICK OF IT IN MISSOURI

DEAR SICK OF IT: I'll try. As a former smoker, I'll share what worked for me. Cold turkey. First, clean house. Get rid of all the cigarettes you have stashed at home, in your car and at your workplace. Yes, even the pack you "forgot" in your jacket pocket.

Realize that your body is saturated with nicotine and it must be flushed out. Drinking LOTS of water for the first month will help you accomplish that.

Then, choose one day when you will go entirely smoke-free. Understand going in that you will crave your "fix." When that craving hits, if you must put something in your mouth, chew (non-nicotine) gum, go brush your teeth or eat a crunchy vegetable (carrot sticks, celery). If you can manage to do this for just ONE DAY, you can do it for another one. And then another, etc.

Accept that you are an addict and that your "sobriety" is something you will have to cling to with determination. Eventually the impulse to grab a cigarette will fade, but every now and then you may have an urge to smoke that comes out of left field. When that happens, get up and walk out of the room. By the time you return, the urge will have subsided. Mine did.

And one more thing -- if you fall off the wagon (and you may), think about watching your child graduate from high school or college, getting married and playing with your grandchildren. Your chances of doing those things will be better if you're not a smoker. Then get back on that wagon and start over again.

That's how I quit, and the third time I did it, it worked. (Clearly, I do not have willpower of cast iron.) If I can do it, believe me, so can you. Please write again in six months and let me know you're tobacco-free, too. I'm rooting for you.

DEAR ABBY: Can you really learn to love someone you don't find physically attractive? -- TWITTER FAN OF ABBY

DEAR TWITTER FAN: You may learn to love the person for his or her finer qualities, but I don't think you can "learn" to find someone physically attractive if the chemistry simply isn't there.

Several options available for total knee replacement

DEAR DOCTOR K: I am going to have my knee replaced. What types of artificial knee joints are available?

DEAR READER: The knee is a joint formed by the bottom end of the thigh bone and the top ends of two bones of the lower leg. When the ends of the bones that form the joint become damaged, they can be removed and replaced. That's total knee replacement, and it is major surgery.

The damaged parts of the bones that form your knee joint are replaced with an artificial material that is shaped like your bones should be. That will allow your knee to again do all the things it needs to do: bend, twist and bear your weight. The artificial material will be attached to the healthy bone above and below it.

Once you have decided to have a total knee replacement, your surgeon may discuss with you several choices. One choice the surgeon needs to make is which artificial material to use for your new knee. Options include different combinations of hard polished metal, hard ceramic, and tough, slick plastic:

- METAL-ON-METAL. These implants were developed to last longer than other implants. But metal-on-metal implants may cause inflammation and pain. Worse, they may shed harmful microscopic bits of metal into the bloodstream.

- POLYETHYLENE. The major drawback to this type of plastic material has been wear. Tiny pieces of the plastic flake off, provoking the immune system cells in the bone to which the plastic has been attached. Turning on the immune system cells produces substances that weaken bone tissue. As a result, the implant pulls away from the bone and has to be replaced. Manufacturers have modified the plastic to make "cross-linked" polyethylene. The newer materials may be more wear-resistant.

- CERAMIC-ON-CERAMIC. The use of very hard ceramic material in place of some metal parts is another option. So far, ceramic-on-ceramic appears to cause significantly less bone deterioration than metal or polyethylene implants.

You and your surgeon will also have a choice of cemented or cementless implants. Most total knee replacements today are done with cement. They use acrylic cement to quickly glue the implant to the healthy bone above and below it.

Cementless implants have surfaces with small holes in them. The healthy bone grows into the implant to form a solid attachment, and no cement (glue) is required. Despite early hopes, cementless implants have not proven to be more durable than cemented implants. There is also a "hybrid" option that uses a combination of cemented and cementless attachments.

Another decision is between a fixed-bearing or rotating knee platform. A fixed-bearing knee prosthesis is the most common type. In a rotating platform prosthesis, the polyethylene insert can rotate slightly. This allows for better movement and reduced stress and wear.

The best implant design for you will depend on many factors, including your weight, bone quality, age, occupation and activity level. The surgeon's experience with a particular model or brand often enters into the decision, too. Discuss your options with your doctor.

Today in History

Today is Friday, April 8, the 99th day of 2016. There are 267 days left in the year.

Today's Highlight in History:

On April 8, 1974, Hank Aaron of the Atlanta Braves hit his 715th career home run in a game against the Los Angeles Dodgers, breaking Babe Ruth's record.

On this date:

In 1820, the Venus de Milo statue was discovered by a farmer on the Greek island of Milos.

In 1864, the United States Senate passed, 38-6, the 13th Amendment to the U.S. Constitution abolishing slavery. (The House of Representatives passed it in Jan. 1865; the amendment was ratified and adopted in Dec. 1865.)

In 1904, Longacre Square in Manhattan was renamed Times Square after The New York Times.

In 1913, the 17th Amendment to the Constitution, providing for popular election of United States senators (as opposed to appointment by state legislatures), was ratified.

In 1935, President Franklin D. Roosevelt signed the Emergency

Relief Appropriations Act, which provided money for programs such as the Works Progress Administration.

In 1952, President Harry S. Truman seized the American steel industry to avert a nationwide strike.

In 1961, a suspected bomb exploded aboard the passenger liner MV Dara in the Persian Gulf, causing it to sink; 238 of the 819 people aboard were killed.

In 1973, artist Pablo Picasso died in Mougins (MOO'-zhun), France, at age 91.

Hints From Heloise

Dear Heloise: Everyone should be aware that it's important that if you are paying by check, credit or debit card, to guard against someone SNAPPING A PICTURE OF your check or card.

While writing a check, I cover my account number. If I pay by credit or debit card, I cover the front on the card until I am ready to use it. I then quickly return the card to my wallet. -- Judy in New Braunfels, Texas

Judy, who would have "think it," but here we are with the possibility of personal information being stolen by a camera phone. Can't be too careful these days, and while you're at it, password-protect your cell-phone. Thanks for the hints. -- Heloise

BOX IT, SHIP IT Dear Heloise: Since airlines charge for extra baggage, when I travel and plan to stay for an extended visit, I'll box my clothes and shoes and send it to the people I'm visiting. Shipping services let me pay, insure and schedule a time for them to pick up my boxes. It's convenient, and I don't have to wait at baggage claim and then lug it around the airport. -- Teresa G., Tyler, Texas

HOMEMADE SCRUBBIES Dear Heloise: My husband's grandmother used to make us kitchen scrubbies every year for Christmas, and they were the best. She has passed, and I wanted to make them for my 11 sisters-in-law. I cut out the instructions to make them, bought the net and then promptly lost the instructions.

Could you please print them again? I guess I'll make them for next Christmas. Thank you. -- Connie

DEAR HELoise: I have a question about the hints. Of course I can reprint it. This is a great hint from my mother, the original Heloise (1919-1977), who started this column. To make the quick version, you will need 1/2 yard of nylon net (the 72-inch-wide kind), dental floss or strong nylon thread and a large needle. Cut three 6-inch-by-72-inch strips of nylon net and lay them on top of each other. Using a long basting stitch, sew them together down the middle. Once at the end, hold the thread and pull the netting so that it bunches up. Wrap the thread around the center of the bunch and tie a tight knot. Trim the thread ends. Separate the layers of netting so they make the shape of a ball. -- Heloise

Horoscope

HAPPY BIRTHDAY for Saturday, April 9, 2016: This year you experience success in your daily life, whether it is at work or when pursuing a new hobby. People enjoy seeing you and visiting with you. You might decide to transform a major aspect of your life. If you are single, you are capable of popping in and out of other people's lives. Go for excitement when dating, as that is what you are going to have. If you are attached, your relationship could go through a lot of changes, partially because of your need for excitement. Why not plan on a spectacular trip together instead? TAURUS can be so boring.

The Stars Show the Kind of Day You'll Have: 5-Dynamic; 4-Positive; 3-Average; 2-So-so; 1-Difficult

ARIES (March 21-April 19) ***** You'll decide that you can face a major transformation and that it will turn out OK. You will wake up with confidence. Whatever is on your mind, pursue it, but don't be surprised if you have a different reaction later in the day.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) ***** Dealing with an important matter could cause you to detach and understand more of where someone else is coming from. Your willingness to walk in someone else's shoes will touch that individual.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) ***** Beam in more of what you want. You might need some personal time. Make sure you get it ASAP, because your popularity could become a drain and a joy at the same time. The pace will pick up very soon.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) ***** Zero in on a long-term goal, which might be as simple as throwing a party and inviting all your friends and family. You might be surprised by how well everyone gets along. Expect a sudden happening to alter your plans. Forget maintaining control.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) ***** Be aware of how much responsibility you are taking on. Don't be afraid to make an adjustment and share plans with those who deal with you on a daily basis. Unexpected news could be quite a surprise.

E., Springfield, Mo.

Of course I can reprint it. This is a great hint from my mother, the original Heloise (1919-1977), who started this column. To make the quick version, you will need 1/2 yard of nylon net (the 72-inch-wide kind), dental floss or strong nylon thread and a large needle.

CONDIMENTS

Dear Heloise: Did you know that if you have extra condiments on your table at a restaurant and leave them behind for other patrons, the workers just throw them away? So here's what I do:

I take all extra condiments home and store them properly. Then when we go on a picnic or beach outing, we take them along. They take up less space in our food basket than whole jars of ketchup and mustard, shakers, etc. -- Darla R., via email

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22)

***** Reach out to someone at a distance. This person means a lot to you and is full of wisdom. A child or a new friend could be quite changeable, and might not be the person you had in mind. Allow greater give-and-take with a close friend or loved one.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22) ***** Deal with a key person in your life on a one-on-one level. You'll have an opportunity to grow past the obvious. You might want and/or need a change around your home. Perhaps some spring cleaning is in order. Stay centered.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21)

***** Defer to others, and know full well that a random chain of events could occur. Know that you can always reverse your direction and assume control. Don't worry so much about a personal decision. You could be out of sorts.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21)

***** You might need to worry less about a matter that involves those in your daily life. You can control a situation only so much. In fact, the more controlling you become, the more unpredictable happenings that could occur. Maintain your sense of humor.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19)

***** You could be more creative than you realize. You always seem to come up with a response or a solution. Perhaps because of a conservative streak, you tend to dismiss that intuitive, responsive aspect of your personality. A family member is full of surprises.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18)

***** You might be in a situation where you can be as responsive as you want with a family member regarding an issue that evolves from your domestic life. Your actions ultimately could stun others, but you respond and think on a different level.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20)

***** A friend pushes his or her way into your life, demanding your time. Make it your pleasure. Happiness surrounds communication, especially with a close friend who is like a brother or sister to you. Use extreme caution with finances.
