AG Beshear sues Bevin over cuts to education

Volume 137, No. 87

By BRUCE SCHREINER Associated Press

FRANKFORT, Ky. (AP) - Kentucky's Democratic attorney general sued the state's Republican governor on Monday, arguing he overstepped his authority when he ordered budget cuts for state colleges and universities without asking the state legislature.

"I do not take any joy or satisfaction out of this action," Beshear said. "Over the last seven days, it was my hope that the governor would listen to reason, comply with the law and rescind his order. He did not."

Beshear said his suit was an answer to Bevin's "unconstitutional and illegal order." He wants a judge to force the gover- nor to release the funds to the schools. Beshear is requesting expedited court review.

MSU projects moving along

Youngblood: Buildings remain on schedule, within budget figures By JORDAN FERUGSON jferguson@murrayledger.com

Progress on the construction of two of three Murray State University projects is going

The new Physics and Engineering building, as well as the new Franklin College dormitory, are slated for openings for the spring semester of 2017 and fall semester of 2016 respectively.

"They are on schedule and within budget," said Jason Youngblood, assistant director of Facilities Design and Construction at MSU. "But we are experiencing some delays. Obviously we've had some weather delays, such as snow and rainy weather, so that does cause some delays in construction. But they are still reasonably on schedule for completion time that we have expected. We are still anticipating meeting those Both projects began construction last year, with the groundbreaking for the engineering and physics building taking place on April 10 of 2015. Franklin received no official groundbreaking ceremony, but the initial blocking of parking on that project began during spring break.

Murray State University's Muslim Student Organization hosted its annual Understanding Islamic Culture Exhibit Monday.

However, it was much more than just a chance to display things like Muslim clothing and the kinds of food to which people of this culture are accustomed. This was about education. If one had the opportunity to have freshman student Yaseen Hossain, a native of Bangladesh who came to MSU from Saudi Arabia, as a guide, an education is what one would have received.

Because Hossain, like the rest of his Muslim hosts, wanted everyone to know one big thing.

"I don't know why they started it, but they're wrong," Hossain said, directing his comments toward the Islamic State group, a faction that is believed responsible for a wave of terrorism that

History uncovered

JORDAN FERGUSON / Ledger & Times

While performing some renovations on his property on South Fourth Street, Howard Brandon stumbled across a bit of history recently in the form of the old Murray Coal and Ice Building, located across the street from the Hih Burger. Brandon said the old structure has been hidden for decades under wooden beams.

BOLIN BOOK UNVEILED: Murray State University history professor Dr. Duane Bolin shows his new book "Home and Away: A Professor's Journal" Monday night during an unveiling party in his honor inside the Murray Room of the CFSB Center on the MSU campus. Guest speakers included former Kentucky state Auditor and Lt. Gov. Crit Luallen, MSU President Dr. Bob Davies and Jay Pittman, whose father, W.J., was a loyal reader of Bolin's weekly column "Home and Away" that has been published each week in The Murray Ledger & Times the past 10 years. The book consists of 120 essays, which began as newspaper columns. In addition, the evening featured the musical talents of Sub Pop recording artist and singer-songwriter Daniel Martin

Youngblood said the engineering and physics building is going to have some features that set it apart from the biology and chemistry buildings-even though it will look like those buildings on the outside and inside it will have the same flow of offices and classrooms in terms of layout. One unique thing about the physics and engineering building will be a high-bay area, a two-story tall interior section for larger scale projects. The space will feature an overhead crane rail to assist in the moving of heavy objects. They will be doing rapid prototyping and robotics and this particular area will function as a sort of show-space to bring potential students in and walk them through while allowing them to see certain projects in all phases of operation.

Youngblood described as collaborative learning spaces.

"We really want the classrooms to be very student-centered and comfortable for students to do collaborative learning," he said. "So even some of the classrooms will have special arrangements. Even though they are tiered seating, it'll have special arrangements to where students on one row can turn around and collaborate with students on another row in a team environment."

In these classroom, the usual tiered, stadium-style seating is augmented by adding chairs that actually pivot and can turn to face in other directions, helping to facilitate this idea of collaborative learning.

The new dormitory is going to break into some new territory as well. The new dorm will be larger than the two previously constructed and will fit 385 beds, compared to The new building will also feature what robby of the new dorn will be larger, and walk into a large meeting room which will face Chestnut Street, overlooking the Curris

"There are more student study areas, there are study rooms on each wing of each floor," Youngblood said. "There is a seminar room for 20 to 30 students on the first floor lobby. Clark and Richmond had meeting rooms on each end, well we've basically combined those meeting rooms into one large two-story meeting room on the front, that's the round part you see (from Chestnut St.) and that's about a 150 seat meeting

The $32 million Engineering and Physics building is expected to be completed in late fall of 2016 in time for classes to begin in January of 2017. The new $27 million Franklin residential hall should be completed by summer and be ready for student occupancy by August in time for the fail se-

Ditto said the governor's office strongly disagrees with Beshear's action and "will respond as necessary in court."

This is not the first time a Democratic attorney general has sued a Republican governor in Kentucky. In 2004, then Attorney General Greg Stumbo challenged former Gov. Ernie Fletcher's attempt to ernor's "view of his power" - ing Bevin's attempts to undo the enact a state budget after the leg- treating a budget passed by state state's health care exchange. islature failed to pass one. The lawmakers as "merely a suggesstate Supreme Court ruled against tion" - that compelled the lawsuit. Fletcher.

Bevin, who took office in late 2015, has proposed $650 million in state spending cuts over the next two years in a plan to begin paying down the state's public pension debt, estimated at more than $30 billion. His proposal included the budget reductions for colleges and universities.

State lawmakers rejected that plan. They have still not approved a two-year state spending plan with time winding down in the legislative session, but neither the House nor the Senate included current-year cuts for colleges and universities in its budget proposals.

Bevin cut their budgets any-

Beshear said the governor's unilateral action violated the state Constitution's separate of powers provision, as well as state laws specifying conditions for budget reductions

Beshear said it was the gov-

Without court action reining in his action, Beshear said, a governor could unilaterally cut any part of the state budget.

"Folks, that's the type of absolute power that the U.S. Constitution, the Kentucky Constitution and our laws explicitly forbid," he said. "It is a direct challenge to our liberty and our way of life, and it's my job to stand up to anyone who claims to have that power."

The lawsuit escalates what has become a political feud between Bevin, Beshear and the attorney general's father, former Democratic Gov. Steve Beshear, who could not seek re-election last year due to term limits.

Before Bevin took office, he called Steve Beshear an "embarrassment" after the then-governor appointed his wife to an unpaid position to the board of directors for the Kentucky Horse Park. Steve Beshear has also started a nonprofit organization dedicated to oppos-"This is not political," Andy shear said Monday "It's no Democrats versus Republicans. It's not about upcoming or future elections. It's not Bevin versus Beshear. It's not even about pensions versus higher education. It's about the law. And it's not personal. No governor has the power to do what this governor has done."

In another sign of the growing acrimony, however, Bevin's spokeswoman in her response to the lawsuit pointed to a scandal involving Andy Beshear's former top assistant in the AG's office. A document unsealed in federal court last month accused Timothy Longmeyer of taking more than $200,000 in kickbacks. Longmeyer is a former Kentucky Personnel Secretary during Steve Beshear's administration as governor, and he served as deputy attorney general for Andy Beshear until resigning last month. Andy Beshear has said he was assured that no one else in his office was implicated in the scandal.

Murray State animal health technology and pre-veterinary students, under the direction of licensed veterinarians, will provide free physical exams for dogs and cats. Students will do a heartworm test for dogs for $15 and feline leukemia (FELV) and immunodeficiency (FIV) tests for $20. They will bathe pets for $10 each. They will clean ears & trim nails for $8 and do fecal tests for $10. The spa package of a bath, nail trim and ear cleaning is $15. "The works" for dogs is $35 and for cats is $40. A special package for puppies under six months old is $15 and does not include a heartworm test.

The Humane Society will microchip dogs and cats for $10 each. A microchip the size of a grain of rice is inserted between the shoulder blades of a dog in a relatively painless and quick procedure. Each microchip transponder has a unique number which enables a shelter or veterinary clinic to scan the animal for this number which will be registered with a national database allowing the owner to be contacted when the pet is found. Local veterinary offices, the animal shelter and Humane Society have scanners to read these microchips, as do most across the country. Custom pet ID tags will be made on site beginning at $4 each and a variety of leashes, collars and harnesses will be on sale

If you've always wondered what breed mix your dog might be, the Humane Society will have canine DNA test kits for $80. The cheek swab can be done that day or the kit can be completed and mailed from home. Besides being fun to know what breeds make up your dog, the information can be valuable for your veterinarian in anticipating any health issues prevalent in certain breeds of dogs.

Special to the Ledger

The Homeplace 1850s Farm will complete the week-long Made on the Farm series - Recreating the Past for the Future, with its annual Quilting Bee on Saturday and Sunday, April 23 and 24 from 10 a.m. - 4 p.m. at Land Between the Lakes Recreation Area. Visitors will learn more about quilting, how quilts were made in the 1850s and help complete a handmade quilt the old-fashioned Programs are included with general admission - ages 13 and up

$5; 5-12 $3 and 4 and under free.

The week of Monday, April 18-Sunday, April 24, Homeplace staff will be recreating historical items through demonstrating food ways, clothing, chair making, blacksmithing, farm implements and tools and leatherwork. Visitors can get hands-on helping the staff with

During the Quilting Bee, visitors will see blacksmithing and leather-working demonstrations and a 'made on the farm" quilt display highlighting the reproduction quilts made by the living history interpreters throughout the years. Quilting Bee food will be prepared on the wood stove each day.

"We will be piecing a replica Triple Irish Chain quilt. Everyone can add a stitch or two," says Cindy Earls, lead interpreter at the Homeplace. "Children can learn the quilting stitch on a smaller frame, just the right size for smaller hands. Saturday, we will demonstrate how a quilt is put on a frame. On Sunday, visitors can help us hang a quilt in the Single Pen House."

Visitors are encouraged to meet the farm animals and wander the

Attempted burglary results in arrest in Aurora Staff Report The Marshall County Sheriff's Office reported an arrest Sunday in relation to an attempted burglary in Aurora.

In a release, Marshall County Sheriff's Office Public Information Officer Trista Lovett said that Deputy William Strader was dispatched to a possible burglary in progress with a female subject trying to enter a camper at Fin and Feather Lodge in Aurora. Upon arrival, Strader found a female being detained by the camper's owner.

Lovett went on to say that the female appeared to not be completely coherent and Strader said she appeared to be manifestly under the influence of an unknown intoxicant. No damage to the camper was evident and the subject appeared to be extremely confused.

Casey J. Noel, 25, of Sharondale, was arrested and charged with public intoxication controlled substance. Individuals facing charges are presumed innocent until proven guilty in a court of law.

Federal officials warn of tax preparation schemes

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) - An Internal Revenue Service investigator and federal prosecutor are warning the public against fraud that occurs around income tax time.

U.S. Attorney John E. Kuhn Jr. of the Western District of Kentucky and IRS Criminal Investigation Special Agent in Charge Tracey D. Montano of Nashville, Tennessee, spoke out in Louisville on Monday urging the public to avoid dishonest tax return preparers and fraudulent schemes.

Kuhn and Montano reminded taxpayers they are ultimately responsible for the content of their returns and should be diligent in ensuring the returns even if prepared by a professional.

Montano also warned of phone scams and "phishing" scams in fake emails or websites.

The filing deadline is a week away. For assistance, individuals can contact the IRS at (800) 829-1040 and businesses can call (800)

JOHN WRIGHT? Ledger & Times The hand of Henderson senior student 3 Tanelle Smith shows the art work she obtained Monday at a booth that was part of the annual Understanding Islamic Culture Exhibit at Murray State.

MUSLIMS.

From front

includes attacks on France and Belgium in the past few months. The group, which goes by the names of Islamic State in Iraq and Syria (ISIS) and Islamic State of Iraq and the Levant (ISIL) bases its campaign on following the Wahhabi doctrine of Sunni Islam.

On Monday, though, Hossain said the Islamic State's ideas do not mesh with what the real Muslim religion is supposed to say. And he said people throughout the world are desperate to distinguish the two.

"(The Islamic State) is not at all this. They are just wanting to make you believe in their ways," Hossain said, charging ISIS and ISIL with directly violating traditional Muslim teachings. "In our religion, if you kill innocent people, you've killed the entire human race. They've even killed Muslims, the ones who are supposed to be 'their own' people.

"That's not how we are supposed to be, and a big thing we're doing here today is trying to say, 'Don't believe what you see when you see what (the Islamic State) is doing.' I mean, we're supposed to pray looking toward Mecca. I saw something the other day, where (Islamic State followers) were praying in some kind of L shape and were praying in different directions. They're breaking the rules. It's totally wrong."

"They will go away soon enough," said Hassan Alsulaiman, a senior student from Saudi Arabia, who is president of the Muslim Student Organization, of the Islamic State. "They're against every religion and we are very proud of Murray State University for allowing us to express our beliefs. They have accepted us. That's why today is so important. We get the chance to share this with the Murray State University community."

While reports show that the Islamic State strongly insists on its ways being obeyed, Hossain said true Muslims accept other religions, even atheists, and do not commit violence against people following other ideas. In fact, he said that God (referred to by Muslims as "Allah" and the one identified as "God" by protestants and Catholics) are probably the same.

"We are all in the same boat," Hossain said of how the dogtrine set for both the Muslim and Christian religions both have the same rule, not to put idols or other gods above the creator. "Muhammad was a prophet, but Jesus was a prophet, as were many oth-

From the Christian perspective, Tanelle Smith, a senior from Henderson, said an event like this can go a long way to bridging the gap of misunderstanding when it comes to the Muslim religion.

"They're normal, everyday people just like we are," Smith said as she and friends enjoyed a Muslim-style lunch that the Organization hosted. This came after she allowed some Muslim-inspired art work to be placed on her hand. "This is definitely an important thing for people to see. Being an African-American, I can resonate with what they go through, just because one person who happens to be an African-American does something bad, that doesn't mean all of us are like that. They face the same thing. Just because some people cause harm to others, that doesn't mean they represent everyone. That's not OK and I think these types of events are very important to educating everyone about what the real truth is. I try to go to as many of these types of things as I can, because I believe you can learn quite a bit and it's good to look at different things."

Kyle Morris, a sophomore from Covington, is a Catholic and seemed to follow Smith's ideas. "You learn that everybody's views are different. Plus I think you get to see that things are not what you're being told they are," Morris said.

Dear Abby by Abigail Van Buren

because he loved me Tonight, he packed everything up and left! I don't know exactly why, but I think it has more to do with his own issues than about me.

Abby, I feel I have been manipulated and used. Ironically, this man I thought was a friend is a psychotherapist. While we were together, he would discuss confidential information about some of his clients with me. I think I should report him, but on the other hand, I'm asking myself whether I'm only looking for revenge.

Should I leave it alone, or report him to the American Psychological Association? Or am I overreacting to losing him? I still feel really mixed up. -- VENGEFUL IN MIN-NESOTA

DEAR VENGEFUL: Psychotherapists are not gods, and like other human beings, they can have their flaws. I understand why you would be hurt and disappointed. However, rather than look for revenge, you should consider yourself lucky you didn't invest more time in this flake.

As to whether you should report his breach of professional ethics to the APA, I think that for the sake of the patients/clients whose trust he has betrayed, you should do exactly that -- but after your anger is no longer raging.

DEAR ABBY: I'm wondering if I have an issue or if what concerns me is fairly normal. I am 31 years old and have three daughters, two stepsons, an ex-wife and one current wife.

I have been asked most of my adult life, as I'm sure most people have, "Where do you see yourself in five years? Ten years?" For some reason, I can't figure out how to answer this question. There are many variables at play, and many lives would be affected by my pursuing what I want in five to 10 years. I can't say I'm going to be "here doing this in five years" because I have no idea what might change.

Do I need professional help? It upsets my wife when she wants to talk about the future and I can't give her an answer. -- CONFUSED ABOUT THE FUTURE

DEAR CONFUSED: Some people use the question of "where will you be ..." as a method of setting goals. What your wife may really be asking is, "Are you satisfied with things as they are now, and if not, what changes do you intend to make?" If that's the case, it might be illuminating to ask her what changes she would LIKE you to make.

and its weapons can injure us. The condition that often triggers sepsis is a bacterial infection. Other causes can lead to sepsis, including autoimmune diseases, surgery and severe burns. In all of these cases, the immune system is being called to help us heal from some injury. However, when the immune response is both too vigorous and too prolonged, healthy tissues can it sometimes can go overboard --

Sepsis is treated with antibiotics; the idea is to kill the bacteria that have triggered the attack by the immune system. Drugs that increase blood pressure may also be given since sepsis often results in low blood pressure. A person may also need supplemental oxygen and intravenous fluids, depending on his or her symptoms.

Sepsis is fairly common. There are between 1 million and 2 million cases every year in the United States. A decade ago, I was one of those cases. I had many of the main features of sepsis. Fairly suddenly,

DEAR DOCTOR K: My father I felt completely exhausted and had a very high fever. I developed a rapid heart rate, rapid breathing, low blood pressure, pale and mottled skin, very high numbers of white blood cells, very high blood markers of inflammation, and somewhat low levels of oxygen in

I don't think I had an alteration in my mental state, as some people with sepsis do. Then again, a person with an altered mental state isn't the best judge of whether he has an altered mental state.

I was pretty sick for a few days but I recovered fully. I was lucky. If sepsis is not promptly recognized and treated, it can cause the lungs, kidneys, liver, heart and brain to fail.

Certain people appear to be at increased risk for sepsis. They include people over age 65, people with diabetes, people with cancer, and people who are taking drugs that suppress the immune system.

Two common bacterial infections that can cause sepsis, particularly in older people, are pneumonia and urinary tract infection. I urge my older patients to call me promptly if they develop an unusual cough or breathlessness (possible symptoms of pneumonia), or painful and frequent urination (possible symptoms of urinary in-

It was a weird experience to be a doctor, to have a sudden medical emergency, and to know exactly what was happening. Fortunately, I was at the hospital when I got sick and got prompt treatment. I'll never know for sure, but I think it saved my life.

TAX RELIEF ... FOR A FEW MORE DAYS

Dear Readers: TAX DAY is looming, and the deadline to file your individual income-tax returns unless you are extending -- is less than a week off! If you are one who puts it off until the bitter end -and there are a lot of folks who do -- you have an extra 72 hours to file! Yes, Monday, April 18, 2016, is T-DAY for most. Emancipation Day, which is April 16, is a holiday that will be observed in Washington, D.C. (the District of Columbia), on Friday, April 15. The Internal Revenue Service (IRS) office in D.C. will be closed that day.

Of course, there is always a caveat, or some say a loophole. Even more interesting, if you live and/or file in Maine or Massachusetts, due to Patriots' Day, taxes are due April 19. --

HeloiseP.S.: Note, too, that the IRS is expecting to receive more than 150,000,000 (yes, that's 150 MILLION) personal returns. That's a lot of paperwork to process. Double-check your math; mistakes may delay your refund, if you are expecting

CLEAN TOYS

Dear Heloise: I cleaned out my children's toys from their playroom so I could donate them. I noticed that quite a few had crayon marks or scuffs on the plastic. Is there a way to clean these toys before giving them away? -- Sandy W. in Indiana

Absolutely! There is a simple, cheap way to get those toys clean, and I'm pretty sure you have the product somewhere in your house right now -- it's baking soda! Mix 4 tablespoons of baking soda into a quart of water. Wipe the toys with a sponge dampened in the solution to make them clean and looking good. And for many more hints, order my Heloise's Baking Soda Hints and Recipe pamphlet. Visit www. Heloise.com, or send $5 and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope to: Heloise/Baking Soda, P.O. Box 795001, San Antonio, TX 78279-5001. Baking soda is your go-to multipurpose product to clean, deodorize and scrub sinks or other surfaces (with a little water) without scratching. -- Heloise

SALVAGED SWEATSHIRT

Dear Heloise: I bought three very-high-end sweatshirts, and on the first wearing, I managed to spill some bleach on the front of one of them. My hint was to use a small syringe with needle attached, filled with more bleach. I squirted designs in a fine mist pattern over the entire sweatshirt. The result was similar to tie-dying in the hippie days. I washed it alone, and the result was very acceptable. -- Lin

C. in Ohio THROAT SPRAY

Dear Heloise: You know the wonderful spray that deadens your throat pain but tastes like the bottom of an icky old bucket? I've discovered that if I put the biggest spoon I can get into my mouth, bowl side up, over my tongue before I spray, it shelters many taste buds and minimizes that icky aftertaste. -- B.W.M.

You said a mouthful! The spray you are referring to does tend to taste like an icky old bucket! -- Hel-

Horoscope

HAPPY BIRTHDAY for Wednesday, April 13, 2016: This year you often could feel jammed into a complicated situation where your interests might be very different from those of people around you. If you are single, you often come off as very sensitive to those close to you and somewhat belligerent to those outside of your inner circle. This pattern is unique to this year; do not worry about it too much. If you are attached, your significant other often presents very different views from yours. You like the mental exercise of understanding his or her thoughts and logic. This person appreciates your efforts more than you realize. CANCER often changes moods within a minute or two

The Stars Show the Kind of Day You'll Have: 5-Dynamic; 4-Positive; 3-Average; 2-So-so; 1-Difficult

ARIES (March 21-April 19)

 You might wonder how you got into the middle of a power play. Just walk away from the issues and the uproar. You will be a lot happier if you do. Others might see you being as full of surprises and the unexpected. Don't worry about that image. It works for you. TAURUS (April 20-May 20)

* You have a lot on your mind and want to handle a change quickly. Your ability to communicate in a creative fashion emerges. You will see that suddenly a situation arises that allows you to see someone in a different light. Walk away from a pushy person. T

GEMINI (May 21-June 20)

 Make sure your efforts do not fall to the wayside. You might be coming from a more optimistic view than many people. Someone might rain on your parade, out of the blue. A friend also could come forward with surprising news.

CANCER (June 21-July 22)

 As good as you might feel is as demanding as someone around you could be, initiate conversations with others, if possible. A partner or loved one might be defiant just to be defiant. Honor a fast change of pace.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22)  Remain more confident and allow yourself to flex with various situations. You could feel that the less said, the better. Tension mounts, no matter what you decide to do. Lie back some and be responsive to others' requests. Surprises head in from those at a distance or those whom you often intellectualize with.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22)  You might want to find out what would be best to do under the circumstances. A loved one or associate could be so unpredictable that you want to guard yourself from being over-reactive with this person. Charge your creativity into a project.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22) * Your instincts serve you well when dealing with unpredictable people and an unexpected power play in your personal life. Emotions run high around you, but few people are on the same page

as vou SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21)

* Move forward in a manner that makes a difference. Your words might seem far more controlling than intended. Others might back off. You might have to make an unanticipated adjustment to your schedule as a result.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21) * A key loved one might want to lay down his or her arms and make peace with you. You have a lot to offer, but you often feel the need to add something new to your wardrobe to make you seem more together. You don't need to do that.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19)  Others clearly make an effort to handle a problem efficiently and directly. You could be past the point of no return, as far as dealing with what you think is a controlling individual. Stop; hold up a mirror. You often are very controlling. Could this person be reacting to you? AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18)  You can be nurturing to another person and not have that person become too dependent or needy. How you visualize a personal matter could evolve to a point where your vision might be considerably different from reality. Try to ground yourself PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20)

* Your sign is known for being very romantic and caring. Today is no exception, except that you might feel a loved one or close friend is crossing your boundaries. It is up to you to let others know.

COLLEGE BASEBALL: MURRAY STATE PREVIEW

MSU eyeing a back-to-back

MSU Sports Information

The Racers and Purple Aces will be making the first of their two meetings this season. Evansville won both meetings in 2015, 15-2 in Evansville, Ind., and 11-10 at Reagan Field. MSU is coming off a 1-2 weekend at conference leader Jacksonville State while the Purple Aces opened conference play winning 2-of-3 against Wichita State.

The Racers close their backto-back midweek contests with a trip to Saint Louis. Wednesday's contest will be MSU's last game of the week as the Racers will have the weekend off as this is their OVC-bye week. Head Coach Kevin Moulder coached at SLU for seven seasons as an assistant prior to taking over the MSU program in 2015.

Inside the matchups

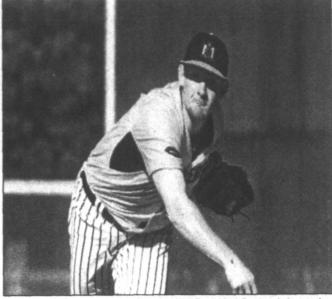

Tuesday will be the fifth season in a row that the Racers and Purple Aces will play a homeand-home with each other. The Racers are 12-13 all-time at home against Evansville. The first-ever meeting in this series took place in 1948. UE has won the last three contests in the series and 18 out of the last 21. The two teams will next meet May 10 in Evansville.

This will be the first meeting between MSU and SLU since 2010. The Racers are 5-5 alltime at Saint Louis, having lost their last contest there in 2009, 4-1. This will be SLU's fourth game in 2016 against an OVC opponent, having played Morehead State, Eastern Illinois and SIU Edwardsville earlier this season.

Scouting Report

Trey Hair leads the Purple Aces offense with an incredible .414 batting average. Hair also leads the team with 14 doubles and 19 extrabase hits. Hair's five home runs rank second on the

ST. LOUIS CARDINALS

Welcome back to Busch!

Cardinals carve up Brewers, 10-1 in home-opener

The Associated Press

ST. LOUIS - Jeremy Hazelbaker was starting to wonder whether he ever would get a shot in the major leagues.

Suddenly, the 28-year-old rookie is the St. Louis Cardinals' hottest hitter and a fixture in Mike Matheny's lineup. Batting .526 has that kind of an effect.

"I like watching him," the manager said Monday after Hazelbaker went 4 for 4 with a triple, double and sacrifice fly in the Cardinals' home opener, a 10-1 rout of the Milwaukee Brewers. "So there's a good chance you're going to see him in there.

Hazelbaker made his first opening-day roster after shortstop Ruben Tejada injured a quadriceps in late March. Like fellow rookie Almedys Diaz. who was recalled after Tommy Pham injured his left oblique in the opener and has impressed shortstop and at the plate, the outfielder has been a difference-maker.

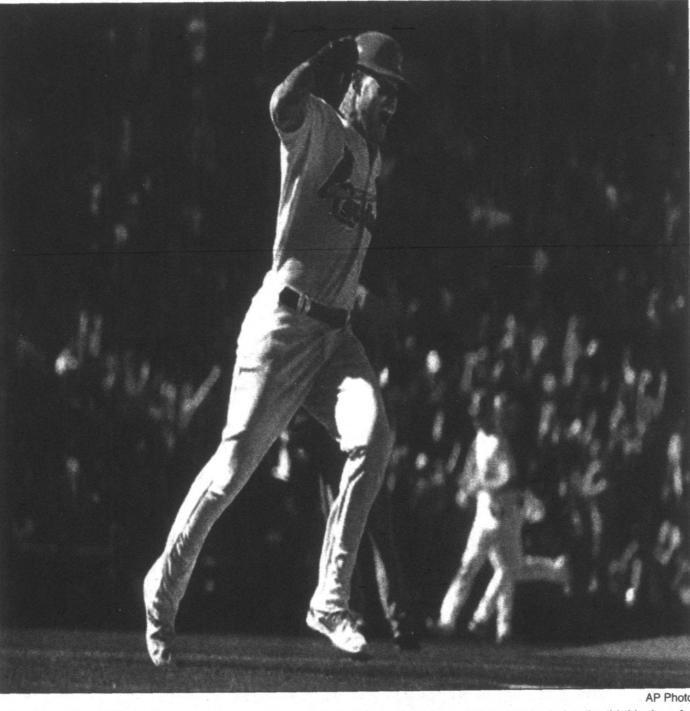

"It was definitely a good day, a good one for my parents to see," said Hazelbaker, who signed as a minor league free agent last season after being released by the Dodgers. "I knew I could do it, it was just about getting a chance.'

Diaz is batting .533 after becoming the first Cardinals rookie with a two-double performance among his first five games.

Backed by a lineup that had 10 extra-base hits, Michael Wacha had a nine-run cushion in the third and allowed four hits in six scoreless innings. "I was able to locate the fastball down in the zone on both

Simmons paces Racers at Rainy Big Blue Invitational

MSU Sports Information

The Murray State men's golf team had a spot in third place after one round of the Big Blue Invitational hosted by Tennessee State in Nashville.

The first day of play at the Hermitage Golf Club was scheduled for 36 holes, but high winds and rain forced the day to be cut to only 18 holes and thus reduce the event to 36 holes with the final 18 coming Tuesday morning.

Murray State's 296 place them four shots off the lead of Belmont (292) and a shot from second place TSU (295).

Brock Simmons led the Racers with a 1-under-par 71 for a spot in third place in the field of 99 players, while Jared Gosser was in seventh place after a 73. Matthew Zakutney carded a 74 and was in 16th place, with Duncan McCormick's 78 putting him in 45th place. A 79 from Preston French carned a spot in 48th place.

Freshman Gabe Wheeler had a 76 and was in 32nd place as he plays as an individual in the event. He was tied for fourth among the 19 individuals in the tournament.

Detroit and Evansville shared fourth place at 297. The final round will begin with a shotgun start at 8:00 a.m. Tuesday.

DAVE WINDER / Murray State Athletics MSU's Brock Simmons is chasing leader Ashton Van Horne of Belmont who carded a 5-under-par 67. TSU's Sam Gatlin was in second place after a 3-under-par 69.

PREP SOFTBALL PREVIEW: MURRAY HIGH

Going back-to-back: Lady Tigers prepped for All "A"

Staff Report

Given the Murray High Lady Tiger's recent stroke of luck recarding the weather, a rainout suprises no one by now.

After the Crosstown Classic against Calloway County was shelved just before spring break for rain and gust, similar weather has comflicted with the Lady Tigers quest to repeat as Region 1 All-"A" Classic Champions.

Origionaly scheduled to play Monday against the winner of Mayfield and Fulton County, the game has been pushed back to tonight at 8 p.m., with the semi-finals and championship game accordingly pushed a day back as well.

Predicted to win it all (with the added bonus of hosting the tournament this year), Murray High will still have to fight hard if they plan to hoist back to back All "A" trophies (and third since 2004), but last week's spring break may have been just what the doctor ordered as they head into the second frame of the season. After combining for just 16 runs during its four-game losing streak a few weeks ago, the Lady Tigers sent out a statement game against Graves County on Friday in the Murray High en innings in a 15-11 win. More importantly than that, the Lady Tigers regained their sea legs, winning their second and third straight game on Sat-

Bayliegh Blane (sore shoulder) looked healthy at the plate, but its her pitching that will bolster Murray High to a second consecutive title more than anything

Just when it looked like the Lady Tigers were in the midst of hitting the panic button, they emerged with a 9-5 record and proved that time off would heal wounds physical and mental.

"They needed a break. We played so many games in so few days. Last year I didn't schedule thick and we got rainouts. This year, I scheduled thick but we weren't gettting any rainouts early," head coach Scott Tucker said.

"It's what we needed. You get a chance to get the Marshall County and Christian County games out of your heads. We gave up 33 runs in two nights and that's just unheard of. We knew our defense was better than that."

Ballard Memorial and Hickman County should pose the largest threats to Murray High, but Carlisle County has already beaten them 8-6 at home. Meanwhile, everyone else in the bracket would like to avoid the Lady Tigers.

OKLAHOMA CITY - Kevin Durant scored 34 points and Russell Westbrook had a triple-double by halftime to help the Thunder beat the Los Angeles Lakers 112-79 on Monday night in the final road game of Kobe Bryant's 20-year career.

Kobe looked vintage in the first quarter with 13 points, but he went scoreless the rest of the

Plenty of Lakers fans lined up at Chesapeake Energy Arena more than two hours before the start, and the crowd chanted Bryant's name as they waited during pregame warmups. The Thunder honored him with a video before the tip.

Westbrook stole the show in the second quarter, clinching his league-leading 18th triple-double of the season, and the 37th of his career. He finished with 13 points, 14 assists and 10 rebounds.

Westbrook finished the first half with 11 points, 10 rebounds and 10 assists as the Thunder led 58-48 at the break. He clinched the triple-double on an assist to Anthony Morrow for a 3-pointer with 11.9 seconds left in the second quarter. According to STATS, no player has clinched a triple-double before halftime since it began keeping track in 2002-03.

Charlotte 114, Boston 100

BOSTON - Jeremy Lin scored 19 of his 25 points in Charlotte's big second quarter, carrying the Hornets to a 114-100 win over the Boston Celtics on Monday night.

Kemba Walker scored 18 points, and Al Jefferson and Marvin Williams each had 16 for the Hornets, who are in a tight race with Boston and Miami in the Eastern Conference playoff Isaiah Thomas and Avery Bradley led Boston with 17 points apiece. It was just the Celtics' third loss in their past 21 home games.

The Hornets trailed by four points after the first quarter, but took charge with a 31-3 run over the final nine minutes of the second. Lin paced the spree with a 3-pointer and scored 11 straight points over a 1:41 span.

No new bowls for three years, NCAA approves moratorium

NCAA FOOTBALL

The Associated press

The NCAA is prohibiting the creation of new bowl games for the next three years after three teams with 5-7 records were needed to fill the record number of bowls last season.

The NCAA's football oversight committee last week recommended a three-year moratorium on sanctioning new postseason games and it was approved by the Division I Council. The oversight committee started a task force to study the Bowl Subdivision postseason after there was not enough six-win, bowl-eligible teams last season to fill the 40 games.

The committee, led by Big 12 Commissioner Bob Bowlsby, will deliver a full set of recommendations on reforming the postseason in June, including determining what should qualify as a deserving team and how a 5-7 team should be placed in a bowl if necessary.

"Historical data of 'deserving teams' criteria showed that adding more bowls would cause the NCAA to have to dip into the alternate 5-7 teams, as it did last season," Division I Council chairman and Northwestern athletic director Jim Phillips told the AP in a text message on Monday. "The new postseason structure, when it is complete, will allow for existing and new bowls to compete for 'deserving teams' as that criteria is developed."

Three cities - Austin, Texas; Charleston, South Carolina; and Myrtle Beach, South Carolina - were in the process of trying to gain approval for new bowl games. ESPN.com was first to report the moratorium.

Many bowl games are entering the third year of six-year contracts with their conference partners. Letting bowls go dark if there are not enough teams with at least six wins and a .500 record at the end of the regular season is not a realistic option.

The first priority for the oversight committee is to come up with guidelines for choosing 5-7 teams.

Nebraska, Minnesota and San Jose were allowed to play in bowls last season because they had the highest Academic Progress Report scores among teams with 5-7 records.

There were no additional restrictions placed on those teams and bowls were allowed to pick them according to their contracts with conferences.

That placed Nebraska of the Big Ten in the Fosters Farm Bowl in Santa Clara, California, and Minnesota in the Quick Lane Bowl in Detroit, while six- and seven-win teams from other conferences were sent to less-desirable bowls. Two Mountain West teams, Colorado State and Nevada, played in the first Arizona, Bowl in Tucson, drawing sharp criticism from MWC Commissioner Craig Thompson.

night. Harden made 12 of 21 shots in three quarters, Trevot Ariza scored 21 points and the Rockets made 15 of 30 3-pointers. Houston (40-41) entered the game in ninth place in the Western Conference and one game behind Utah for the final Shabazz Muhammad scored 23 points and Zach LaVine scored 21 for the Timberwolves, who were looking for their first four-game winning streak since 2012.

Karl-Anthony Towns was held to 12 points and five rebounds. Houston will need to beat Sacramento on Wednesday, coupled with a Utah loss on Wednesday in L.A.

Stephen Curry is setting the standard on and off the court

The Associated Press

OAKLAND, Calif. - For years, Stephen Curry watched his dad, Dell, do his part in the community. Curry was often among those children in Charlotte treated to special appearances from star athletes and still cherishes those sweet memo-

"That's how I grew up," Curry said. "I was blessed to see my dad and how he interacted with kids my age at the time. He was going to youth camps and different school events. I know how happy me and my friends were at that age to see somebody we looked up to come and spend some time. I don't want to take those opportunities for granted, no matter what the schedule is, or what's going on outside of that event. That's a time for them.'

Even in the middle of Golden State's special season and quest for the NBA wins record, which Curry and the Warriors (72-9) will try to accomplish in the regular-season finale Wednesday night against Memphis by topping the 72-win Chicago Bulls of 1995-96.

So, on a rainy Tuesday last month when he had the day off, Curry spent several hours at Martin Luther King Jr. Elementary School. He spoke to the kids about the importance of drinking water, maintaining a healthy lifestyle, making the right choices and going to col-

This is normal for Curry, even a day after becoming the first player in NBA history to make 300 3-pointers in a season and less than 24 hours after defending champion Golden State set yet another record in a season full of them - this time for the best regular-season home winning streak ever at 45 games. In the middle of playing five games in seven days, no

Hat on backward and wearing a big smile that afternoon in inner-city Oakland, the reigning NBA MVP - likely headed for another such honor - pumped his right fist when someone gave a good answer to a trivia question, he waved and high-fived while making his entrance, and even chanted along when appropriate.

Sometimes, the Warriors worry just a bit about their do-everything point guard overextending himself.

"It doesn't surprise me," coach Steve Kerr said. "He genuinely cares. Sometimes he does too much stuff, we try to pull him back, pull the reins back because everyone wants a piece of him and he has a hard time saying no."

Among giggling, giddy children, Curry is clearly in his other element, off the basketball floor where he is the most dynamic player now and in recent

Even if all those old greats out there want to knock him down a notch, knock his game, or the overall style of play of the Warriors and others in this era

Curry insists. It means he's doing something special.

"When it's talking just about basketball, I know any time there's a successful player or team, they're going to have more of a spotlight, and people are going to ask questions about whoever it is," Curry said. "This day and age, you say something controversial and it's going to hit the airways pretty quick. When there are legends and people that I looked up to as a player - as a young kid, as a basketball player - Hall of Famers and guys that talk about our team, it means that obviously we're doing something good so we keep doing it. I take it with a grain of salt. Unless they're in the room with me and we're talking back and forth about what's going on, then I don't put too much weight into

"It's so interesting when they talk about creating a simulator to duplicate what Steph Curry does on the court and the simulator can't measure up because it just doesn't look real," Hall of Famer Julius Erving said. "That's what he's been doing on the court, things that really don't look real to the normal eye, and you have to give him kudos for that."

Sure, Curry sometimes gets tired from all of the fanfare and the NBA grind. Not to mention The scrutiny is part of it, the typical lack of sleep for a father with two young girls.

"The schedule's crazy and obviously we're right in the middle of the season, but it is helpful to remember how I felt as a kid and the stuff my dad taught me," he said. "I want to MSU... From Page 10
