A Bibliography for Mt. Ktaadn, Revised

Compiled by

EDWARD S. C. SMITH AND MYRON H. AVERY
SCHENECTADY, N. Y., AND WASHINGTON, D. C.

THE following bibliography is a revision and amplification of the one which appeared in APPALACHIA, Vol. XV, No. 3, December, 1922. A number of unavoidable errors in the original have been corrected and much additional historical matter placed therein. We wish to express our thanks to the many Ktaadn enthusiasts who have contributed valuable material, and especially should we mention the assistance of Miss Evelyn Gilmore and Miss Hall of the Maine Historical Society; Rev. Henry E. Dunnack, Librarian of the Maine State Library; George M. Houghton of the Bangor & Aroostook R. R.; M. R. Harrigan of "The Bangor Daily Commercial"; Arthur L. Norton, Portland Society of Natural History, and Mrs. Fannie H. Eckstorm.

Prof. Lucius H. Merrill, of the University of Maine, gathered together a few items about Mt. Ktaadn in 1906 and the list was published in the "Daily Commercial" at Bangor. To this list we are indebted for several references which are marked with his initials. Likewise certain references kindly furnished by Mrs. Eckstorm bear her initials.

It is hoped that this bibliography will meet the same cordial reception as did the earlier one.

CAMPBELL, COLIN. Surveyor in the employ of the British Government during a part of the Northeastern Boundary Controversy. The following is an extract from his journal, a part of the Barclay papers in the possession of the Maine Historical Society: "Tuesday, 19 October, 1819, clear and cold and a few clouds still flying from the northwest and the mountains covered with snow. After breakfast set out a third time for the peak of Cathardin. Got to the summit at 12 o'clock and had a most commanding view in every direction. Finding that Mars Hill bore N. 66° E. (by the magnet), was convinced I was on what we called last year number one of the Spencer Mountains."

 Thoreau in his account of the Allegash and East Branch trip (Maine Woods, Houghton Mifflin Co., 1906, page 214) refers to a story of a party who made a previous trip to Ktaadn as told by the guide Jo Polis. In The Congregationalist for August 17, 1866, a member of this party gave an account of the expedition under the title "Thoreau and Ktaadn," with the intent to refute Thoreau's disparaging comments. In Chapter Five of Mrs. Eckstorm's book, headed "Gray Rock of Abol," are extracts from the above-mentioned articles, and at page 108 is a portion of an "unpublished autograph account" of the trip by John S. Sewall, of the Bangor Theological Seminary, Bangor, Maine. At page 111 is a part of a second unpublished account of the excursion, and at page 141 is an extract from a third unpublished account by the Rev. F. P. Chapin of Hudson, N. H. This trip was made in June, 1857, by ten members of the Bangor Theological Seminary.
