ANNEX NOT TO OFFER SOPHOMORE COURSES

At the request of an interested group of off-campus students, consideration was given to the possibility of furnishing sophomore courses on the Brunswick Campus in 1947-48. This request came largely due to the family housing problem at Orono, where, at present, very little housing is available. A careful study has been made of the problems involved in providing sophomore courses at the Brunswick Campus. Some of these problems are, providing a staff in addition to those now covering the Annex, and providing equipment in the fields where equipment is required. The equipment now at Orono would be in need and in most cases could not be transferred. The latter difficulty would limit the offerings to a very narrow field, especially in the College of Technology, and would eliminate agriculture courses as well as certain fields of the College of Arts and Sciences. These eliminations of the number of students who would be benefitted would definitely be limited with the result that many would be disappointed; the number to remain at Brunswick would not justify the expense necessary, nor the duplication of equipment necessary. While the housing in the Brunswick area is less difficult than at Orono, the possibility of providing housing at Orono is still a problem to some extent. Each year a few students are digging for leads on housing and many others should be able to do so. It may be necessary for the men to arrange for housing in dormitories and visit their families on weekends, as some of the men at Orono are now doing, the possibility of getting housing this year at Orono will be better than a year from now.

BROWN SPEAKS AT ANNEX

Wednesday morning, May 21, Herbert Brown, Professor of English at Bowdoin, addressed the student body at an assembly in the Student Union Building. In a twenty minute speech, Dr. Brown discussed the true American during the war. Dr. Brown read numerous letters from some of his former students in which these men stated that they learned nothing of the meaning of the word American during their education. They asked, "What is American?" and "Why do we like we are?" Dr. Brown went on to discuss what makes an American. He mentioned the hundred percent American. Illustrations were both in a satirical and humorous. Dr. Brown discussed the European's opinion of what an American is like. They see us as a group of people who are willing to work for progress, who worship the dollar; who are boastful, wasteful, and wasteful; who like comic strips and follow radio ads; who have more motor cars than bathtubs; who make their money out of outlaws; and who like clubs and organizations with a rapacious avidity. They see in us an amazing bundle of contradictions. The European is anxious to find out about the American and his way of living. Dr. Brown once had a group of businessmen write for two hours what they thought made up an American. He listed some of the things mentioned in these letters. Included were American historical heroes; characters taken out of American legendry, mythology, and comic books; and signs and symbols. The reason used in mentioning these things was a clear indication that

VIC DANCE TO BE HELD FRIDAY

The series of Vic Dances which was proposed several weeks ago will open with a dance Friday night, May 23rd. The dance will be held at the Student Union Building from seven-thirty to twelve. A similar dance will be held every Friday until the close of school. This includes the weekend of June 14th. Admission to these dances will be free.

Invitations to attend these dances have been sent to about 150 women in the Bath-Brunswick area. These women were picked from lists of ex-hostesses at the Brunswick U.S.O. and the Bath Community Center. Buses will run from the Bath Community Center and from the Brunswick Town Hall and will return after the dance. These buses are for the convenience of the women who have been invited and for all others who may wish to attend. Coke will be sold at the dance. The profits from the sale of coke will be used as a joint fund to buy new records for future dances and for the Twilight Serenade program.

Dick Haney is the chairman for these dances. He would like to have someone help him. Any offers of assistance would be deeply appreciated as Dick, having no Saturday classes, would like to be able to go home some Friday evenings.

Americans think concretely but in terms of slogans, catch-words and symbols.

Americans are inherently impatient with any forms of class distinction. We are free from this class grouping because ours was a constantly expanding nation for practically two hundred years. In such society there is no room for class distinction. This expansion also is the basis for our hospitality. Because people were so widely separated in early America, they were always anxious to meet someone to talk with; and they took advantage of every possible opportunity to get together.

Dr. Brown explained the American tendency to join into groups and organizations as an expression of their fear of bureaucracy. Americans are individualists and want to settle their own difficulties. They form organizations to do this as an alternative to governmental interference. The fact previously mentioned that they once lived so far apart also influenced them to become joiners.

Americans are sometimes accused of not having any culture. They have not had the time to develop a culture comparable to that already achieved in European countries. Early Americans

TRACK TEAM IN TWO VICTORIES

Sweeping three events, Joe Zabilski's track team of the Maine Annex started off the season strongly by dumping South Portland's Red Riots last May 9, 90 1/6 to 35 5/6 at South Portland. The Maine men picked up ten first places out of a possible fourteen.

The Maine Freshmen scored heavily in the field events while South Portland picked up 32 of their 35 points in the running events.

Ray Humes, former Cony track star, paced the Maine Annex to their second track victory at Pittsfield on Tuesday, May 13. Humes picked up wins in the 100 yard dash and the broad jump while taking a second in the 220, as he and his mates walloped M.C.I. 68 2/3 to 39 1/3.

Despite a soggy, rain-soaked track and field, some good times were set as Mills of M.C.I. clicked off the 220 in 22.2, and Maine's Webster paced the field at 9.8 in the 80 yard high hurdles.

The first event, the shot, was swept by the Annexmen putting them into early command of the meet. They were never headed as the meet went on. Maine took seven firsts in the twelve event meet.

THE MAINE MASQUE

The Maine Masque will present the three-act play, "Front Page," on Saturday, June 13.

There have been several changes made in the cast of the play since it was published two weeks ago. The cast now includes Roger Nau deau as Kruger, a reporter on the "Journal of Commerce"; Robert C. Thorndike as Woodenshoes Eichorn; Rodolphe D. L'Heureux as Bennie, a janitor; Therese Dumais as Molly Malloy; Anne Haynes as Peggy Grant; and Beatrice Hanson as Mrs. Grant, Peggy's mother.

also had a tendency to distrust the esthetic. Once the expansion and industrialization of the country was completed, we tried to develop a culture in as short a time as was possible. The culture we have today was actually developed within the past one hundred years. We also like to combine the useful with the beautiful which is a result of our practicality.

Discussing the attitude of Americans towards international affairs, Dr. Brown commented on the swing from a country of isolationists to a country of interventionists. In conclusion, he stated that the main weakness of our democracy is the complacency of the people.

Semi-Formal To Highlight Gala Weekend Of June 13

Committee Plans Program Of Sports, Dancing, Plays, And Possible Beach Party

A whole week-end of entertainment, plays, sports events, bowling and dancing — that is what your committee has planned for you for the big week-end of June 13, 14, 15.

The instigators of this affair are two of those tall, good-looking fellows we see so much of around campus but seldom hear. You know, the tall, silent type, Jim Tuttle and Bill Duggan. Well at least Jim is silent! Jim and Bill with their heads together decided we should climax this first successful year of the Brunswick Campus with a really big blow-off.

The idea was brought up before the Student Council and, lo and behold, the Senate appointed Bill Duggan as Chairman-in-Chief and Jim Tuttle as his able assistant. A poll was taken on campus to find out if the students would back such a weekend, and from the report of the Senators in their respective wings everyone is for it. It was also decided from the poll that we should have a "name band," the cost of which would be considerably more than a local band; but the check we have coming the first of June is all ours.

The plans have been worked over carefully; all types of entertainment have been considered with the thought in mind to serve the majority of the people who will be here. The committee first planned on the U.S.O. in Brunswick for the dance; however, upon comparing it with the floor space in our own Union building, they found the difference to be negligible.

The committee has received fine cooperation from Mr. Raymond, Mr. Little, and Mr. Hanson in planning the sports events and plays.

A list of the entertainment and activities of the weekend is as follows: Friday afternoon, the tennis doubles championship will be held. The bowling alleys will be available, and the Union building will be open for vic-dancing. Friday evening will be the big event of the weekend—a semi-formal dance with Boyd Raeburn and his orchestra plus vocalist Ginny Powell. The dance will be held in the Student Union. On Saturday, the lounge of the Union building will be open, and there will be more tennis matches and a baseball game to see. On Saturday night, the Maine Masque will present the three-act play, "Front Page." On Sunday afternoon, if there is sufficient interest and weather permitting, busses will be provided for those interested in a beach party. Further details will be available concerning the beach party at a later date.

The total cost of the whole weekend will be kept at a minimum. The current trend at most colleges has been to dispense with the corsage for the little women. There is a break for all of us. I know where you can spend from three to five dollars and have a lot more fun.

The Bowdoin dormitories which will be empty by June 13th will be available for housing the lady guests. Be sure to let your professors know if you are planning on having your date stay on the campus.

It looks to me like it's going to be a big weekend, fellas! Don't miss it. Write now and get your favorite gal all lined up and be on deck the 13th for a weekend you'll never forget.

ANNEX NETMEN IN WINNING STREAK

Another grand slam 8-0 victory was placed on the Annex Tennis Team's scorebook last May 9. The Annex went all the way down the line with nine straight wins. Only once did the Portland Junior College Team show signs of breaking the speed of the Annexmen. This was during the match between Nisbet of Maine and Brown of Portland, but Nisbet finally came out on top with a 6-4 and a 8-6 victory.

CHICKEN!

The front page of the May 9 issue of this paper supported a statement that a Victory dance would be held at the student union that same evening. The dance was held, and about 250 girls from various and sundry places graced the hall in a wonderful attempt to provide the local boys with proper entertainment. The effort on the part of the girls was more than honorable and greatly appreciated.

There were, however, certain aspects of the dance that were not appreciated by the average student. State police were included among the decorations, it seems. Those blue uniformed proponents of the law were thicker than ants at a picnic. Like vultures, they lurked in dark roadways or around obscure corners waiting for some unsuspecting student to drive happily by.

Then, stopping the wide-eyed student, the big brave officer would growl in his usual voice, "Who owns this car, Mac?"

Then a search of the auto would ensue. Whether John Law was looking for a case of his favorite bourbon, a hidden water pistol, or a bright yellow yo-yo, I do not know. Whatever he was looking for, he couldn't have picked a more stupid spot to look for it. Most of us, as subjects of the G. I. Bill, have very little money and therefore can add little or nothing to the state larder. But then, this is a state university, and maybe we have to expect such things.

Along with everyone else, I don't know who deserves credit for this prize intrusion; but I certainly think it was a bit of bad judgement, whoever it was.

Plus the fact that our campus roads were burdened with State Police, every door except one in each barracks was locked and a janitor was stationed at each unlocked door. This was about as effective as locking an empty barn. The only accomplishment achieved by locking the doors was the forcing of a few foot-weary guys to walk from the back of the buildings around to the front when they returned from the dance.

Those doors that were locked are considered fire exits. They have red lights—denoting exits—above them. True, that the doors were locked from within and might possibly have been opened in case of fire. But, I cannot help remembering the famous Coconut Grove fire in Boston. The mere flipping of a latch would have collapsed the revolving door and the customers would never have become victims of that fire. But when fire broke out, panic also broke out; and as many people were trampled to death as were burned.

This all boils down to the fact that the locking of fire exits could have easily produced disaster—a disaster that could have rivaled that of Coconut Grove. Whoever, if anyone, solicited the services of the State Police and whoever so judiciously ordered the locking of the fire exits owes an apology to the entire student body.

Your Faculty

By Olaf Mercier

This week, in answer to many requests, "Your faculty" interviews Mr. Bruce Mazlish. I enjoyed the interview, and I hope you enjoy its presentation. During the interview I heard an interesting story concerning communism, intrigue, and Mexico; but the length of the column forbids my telling it. I think it might come out in book form; if it does, give "Your Faculty" the credit for being the first to tell you about it.

Mr. Mazlish was born in New York City. He attended and graduated from the Boys High School in the same city. Following his graduation from high school, he took a pleasure trip to Europe where he visited France, Czechoslovakia, Switzerland and parts of Russia. When he returned to the United States, he entered Columbia University at New York City. While at Columbia, he was a member of the school newspaper staff and also wrote numerous scripts for the radio. His majors at Columbia were European History and English.

His college career was interrupted by Uncle Sam, and he entered the Army. After his release from the Army he reentered Columbia and received his Bachelor of Arts Degree in 1944. He was accepted by the O.S.S. (Office of Strategic Service) after he received his degree. While he was with the O.S.S. he was attached to the Far East Desk as an expert on propaganda. His previous newspaper and radio work qualified him for this position. He could not give me any further information on his work with the O.S.S. due to security measures.

While with the O.S.S. Mr. Mazlish met and married his wife, who was then employed at the Research Analysis and Translation Department at Washington. Following the completion of his assignment with the O.S.S., Mr. Mazlish took a position with the Washington Daily News as a reporter, specializing in sports. One assignment concerned a story on the lack of players for the league teams. By arrangement, Mr. Mazlish tried out for the Washington Senators. While he was at bat, he removed his glasses because he wanted the picture of himself to be better. In the next few minutes, he struck out six times. He readily agreed that this was a poor batting average, but he blames it all on not wearing his glasses. He claims he is a much better hitter than that.

After he had worked for the "News" for quite some time, Mr. and Mrs. Mazlish took a trip to Mexico to do free lance writing on Mexico's political and economic scene. By an unwritten agreement, the "News" was to accept his story. When they returned to the U.S., they both accepted positions at Colby Academy, a preparatory school in New York. In December of 1946, Mr. Mazlish received his Master of Arts degree from Columbia. When the Brunswick Campus was formed, he and his wife accepted positions here. Mrs. Mazlish is with the Language Department as a Spanish instructor, while Mr. Mazlish is an instructor in history.

OBJETS D'ART

It has been brought to the attention of The Maine Annex that there has been a lot of unnecessary damage done recently to necessary objets d'art as the box and pin-ball machines in University Store.

Listen fellows, we know it's not easier to break the little lights flash if you bore a hole on the side of the machine so you get at them better; but it's the concession which insures these machines frowns upon sort of thing and has threatened to remove both the juke box and pin-ball machine if any more damage is done to either one of them.

If we want to keep these machines, let's lay off the rough—nuff said?

Sport Sidelights

By Cliff and Mac

It seems that the way to start off this column this week is by stating that the big event of all spring contests was the one where Johnson pitched a no-hitter against the Bowdoin JV's last May 14. The only man to get on base for Bowdoin was Kimball, and he was hit by a pitched ball. Nice going, Johnson.

Joe Nickless has been doing some very good hitting just at the right times.

Gene McNabb placed third in the State Intercollegiate Golf Tourney.

Thoits and Harvey have been giving the Orono Varsity Tennis Team plenty of help in their battles.

Also contributing to Orono — in the track line — have been such men as Phillips, Humes, Cates, Webster, and Leach. By the way, Phillips placed second in the State Track Meet. He was first all the way until the last throw.

The intramural scores:
Baseball:
Team 6 defeated 5: 5-3
Team 7 defeated 8: 6-5
Team 9 defeated 10: 5-2
Team 2 and Team 6 tied: 6-6
Team 3 defeated 8: 9-0.

Softball:
Team 6 defeated 1: 14-12
Team 5 defeated 3: 4-3
Team 7 defeated 2: 15-13
Team 5 defeated 4: 5-3

Word has been received here at the "Annex" pressroom that two of our Golf Team members, Brown and Bunker have succumbed to a pair of better golfers. Now who could that be, boys?

Let's not forget about spring football practice. And it finally looks as if spring is here to stay — we hope.

Thanks to Coach Bob Raymond, there is a sport page this week.

PERSONALITIES

By James McNiff

David Simpson Jr.

When you open your copy of the '47 Prism, and turn to the fine section devoted to the Brunswick Campus, you can offer your thanks to Dave Simpson for the great job he and the various editors have done. As editor-in-chief of the Prism staff here at the Annex, Dave and his associates have labored long and arduously to make the coverage of our campus complete and interesting.

In addition to this job, Dave's on call in Room 1, Bldg. 20, as the proctor of his wing, mothering his wild brood. Not being satisfied with holding down these two full-time jobs, he turned to on several dance committees, which helped to make a big success of all dances held in the Union building.

Always an avid sports enthusiast, but prevented from taking an active part because of a service injury, Dave helped out by ably refereeing many of the intramural basketball games in the gym this past winter.

As a student at Edward Little High in Auburn, he was a star participant in both football and basketball. He was a member of the championship hoopsters that made a journey to New York for a national schoolboy tournament, after salting the State of Maine Championship.

After graduation from high school, Dave served as a gunner's mate in the Navy. He suffered a severe back injury while on sea duty, which sent him to the hospital for many agonizing months. His disability prevents any excessive physical activity, but has in no way interfered with his organizing energy. Some of you may have noticed a cute little blonde girl on the campus during the past week. If she answered to the name of Sandra, and had a friendly smile and greeting for all, you were looking at Dave's three-year-old daughter. Her sparkling personality even went so far as to enliven one of "Bugs" Barden's drab dissertations. The very attractive Mrs. Simpson is making her home in Auburn while Dave continues his studies as a prospective zoology major. (No kidding, fellows. Another budding bug-man. And he says he's not crazy.)

So we'll conclude with our thanks to our energetic, campus-spirited personality. Through his work as head of the Annex Prism staff and as instigator of many social activities, and through the numerous other positions he has held, he has contributed a great deal to the year here at Brunswick. Good luck to you, Dave, and your fine family.

From time to time Mr. Brockway of the Placement Bureau at the University of Maine has been forwarding notices of opportunities for summer employment. Students who are interested will please call at the Housing Office to look over the notices which have been received.
