Registration Opens June 5 for 12 Weeks Summer Term

College Anticipates Large Body of Students.

The 12-weeks summer session Murray State College opened in morning (Monday, June 5) with regular registration. Although no official figures were available as the College News went to press, indications were favorable for a large enrollment approximately 600 students.

The calendar of registration and college events follows: June 5—Registration for summer session. June 6—Class work begins. June 9—Last day to register for maximum credit. June 11—Last day to register for credit. June 14—First summer term ends. July 17—Registration for second summer term. July 18—Class work begins. July 19—Last day to register for maximum credit. July 22—Last day to register for credit. August 20-24—Commencement week. August 25—Summer School opens.

A schedule of nearly 200 classes has been arranged for the commodation of the enrolling students. Dr. John W. Carr, president, has made the following suggestions for the students:

1. Register for the entire summer session, if it is possible for you to attend twelve weeks. The summer session is practically a full semester and you can accomplish almost as much as during a regular semester of eighteen weeks. The cost is much less.
2. Most of our students show appreciation of a twelve weeks' session by attending the full time.
3. If you can attend only six weeks, ask the Registrar to schedule the last half of the particular courses you desire. The request will be granted, provided at least fifteen students join in a request for each particular course, and provided further the aids of departments concerned give their approval.
4. This plan has been found to be far more satisfactory than to schedule several "last half" or "double" courses and then find at many students cannot be accommodated.
5. As more than two hundred courses are scheduled for the summer session, there is practically no reason why each student cannot get the particular courses needed for a certificate or a degree. Consult with your faculty adviser, who will assist you in making out your schedule. It is the policy of this college to assist our students in every way possible.

Weatherman Plays Another Trick on Murray Collegians

To go to classes without slicks at Murray College has become a very bad habit, even though the sun be shining brightly when the classes begin. This statement was proved last Wednesday, May 24, especially when all the students were caught in a deluge of rain. Not a slick was visible. With a crash and a flash, the storm broke about five minutes before the bell rang. The halls filled with students in white suits and light dresses. It was almost impossible for the instructors to move on with their classes. Although many students were thoroughly drenched by the down-pour, no damage was reported.

Dr. Drennon Is Benton Speaker

"Spiritual values are not in ill in the stock market of life," stated Dr. Herbert Drennon, head of the English department of Murray State College, in an address before the graduating class of 1933 of Benton High School, Benton, Ky., Friday night, May 19. Dr. Drennon continued his address by stressing the importance of public education and the necessity of its continuance. Several members of the graduating class are planning to enter Murray State College this summer or next fall.

Sister of Murray Art Teacher Dies

Funeral services were held Wednesday, May 23, for Miss Senter Meachum Woodriddle who died at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. M. E. Woodriddle in Murray, Monday, May 22. The burial services were held at the First Methodist Church at Troy, Tenn. Miss Woodriddle failed to recover from complications that set up after a prolonged illness. She had been for some time in sanatorium at Nashville, having returned to the home of her parents last week. The deceased is the sister of Miss Margaret Woodriddle, present instructor of art in Murray State College. Other survivors are several sisters, a brother and the parents.

WILSONIANS WIN ERNST TROPHY IN DEBATE CONTEST

Defeat Allenians in Clash on World Problem of Inflation

COTHAM, BLACKBURN ARE VICTORS MAY 26

The Senator Ernst trophy is now in the possession of the Wilsonian Society of Murray State College as a result of its representatives' ability to win a debate from the Allenian Society in the Murray auditorium Friday night, May 26. Previous to this time each society had won one contest. This was the deciding debate. Perry Cotham, Murray, and John Blackburn Paducah, Wilsonians, upheld the subject: Resolved: That inflation is detrimental to the best interest of American society at the present time.

James Mason, Mayfield, Ky., and Horace Berry, Lone Oak, Ky., Allenians, argued the negative side. This was the eighth annual competitive contest between the two societies. Both sides quoted many of our great political leaders. Cotham, first speaker for the Wilsonians, quoted Daniel Webster as saying, "Inflation is the best way to increase the riches of the rich by the sweat of the brow of the working class of the people. He who tampers with money robs the poor man."

Inflation would hurt the working class of people because it would cause a rise in commodities, asserted Mr. Cotham. Horace Berry, first speaker of the negative side, gave a history of inflation. He asserted inflation would cause the money holders to turn loose of the money they are now holding. His type of inflation is one that would be controlled and one that would continue as long as necessary. Deflation, according to the speaker, had caused millions to lose their homes and jobs.

Mr. Blackburn, in his constructive speech, contradicted Berry's statement that inflation could be controlled. His solution to the present-day depression was to restore confidence in the government rather than to inflate currency.

James Mason, after quoting several political leaders, drew the conclusion that inflation was the best policy because it was supported by the great political leaders. Inflation would cause the price of farm products to rise, he asserted. The affirmative, in their rebuttal, said that inflation was putting money into circulation with no backing; that inflation had never been controlled; that inflation will not make people give up their money; and that if commodities did go up, the salaries of the working class would not.

The negative side denied that salaries would not go up. They held that inflation would be useful to every type and class of people, because money would be easier to get and farm commodities would go up.

S. J. Snook and T. H. Stokes, of the board of regents, and Prof. C. P. Poole were the judges.

GRAHAM ELECTED HEAD OF ALUMNI

Member of Faculty Succeeds Rayburn as Leader of Association.

Prof. Carman Graham, faculty member, was elected president of the Alumni Association of Murray State College Wednesday evening, May 31, at its meeting in Wells Hall. Mr. Graham, a graduate of Murray State College who has his master's degree from Peabody, succeeds Waylon Rayburn to the presidency. Preston Holland, coach of the Murray High School, was elected vice-president, and Miss Villa Mae Throgmorton was chosen secretary-treasurer, succeeding Miss Dorothy Lockman.

Speakers on the program included alumni representing the various classes: R. B. Chrisman, Mrs. George Hart, Harry Potts, R. E. Broach, Clifton Thurman, Dwight Crisp, and Miss Evelyn Linn, and Preston Holland. Dr. Rainey T. Wells, Dr. J. W. Carr, and Prof. E. H. Smith also addressed the group. Mr. Rayburn presided over the meeting.

May Room In Town

The student welfare committee, appointed by President John W. Carr, has perfected a plan by which students of the summer term at Murray State College are free to room outside the dormitories. The plan is designed to improve conditions by closer cooperation between rooming house managers and the college.

The welfare committee has approved and listed a large number of homes suitable for students. Rooms for either men or women are available in the college dormitories or in private homes. Room and board in private homes may be obtained at prices from $3 to $5 per week. Rooms for light housekeeping may be obtained at prices from 50 cents per week up. Housing facilities are more completely adequate than ever before in the history of the institution.

MURRAY STATE COLLEGE LIBRARY CELEBRATES SECOND ANNIVERSARY

By Ben Muse

The Murray State College library had its second anniversary last month. The book collection was moved from the third floor of the liberal arts building, then known as the library building, in April, 1930. Since that time the student body at Murray has found available an efficient system for library work as can be found in any college. The librarians are capable and execute their duties thoroughly.

The building is the most beautiful on the campus and is constructed of red brick and white stone to harmonize with the other buildings on the Murray campus. For convenience, it is centrally located in relation to the rest of the school plant.

Its two entrances, facing east and west, are exactly alike. They are ornamented with large sunburst effect arches and light standards of bronze. The sun, glinting from the west door in the afternoon, offers a very pretty picture in contrast to the green campus.

The lobby of the building houses the delivery desk, where books are charged and discharged. To the north is situated the large reading room, which is ornately decorated and which accommodates about 210 readers. Here the reference collection is located. To the south is periodical room, where bound and current magazines may be read. This room will seat approximately 80 readers.

HOME ECONOMICS DEPARTMENT HAS EXHIBIT AND TEA

Display Is Given in Liberal Arts Building at Murray State.

MISSES LOVETT AND MORTENSEN IN CHARGE

The annual home economics exhibit and tea was held in room 306 of the liberal arts building at Murray State College Tuesday afternoon, May 30, from 2 to 4 o'clock, under the supervision of Miss Elizabeth Lovett and Miss Marie Mortensen, instructors of home education in the college.

Various types of clothing were exhibited by students of the clothing classes of 102 and 200 courses in home economics. Attractive posters on the prevention of contagious diseases were exhibited by members of the home nursing class, home economics 218. Several units were exhibited by the Child Care class, home economics 219, including an exhibit on food in daily preparation for a two-year-old child; toys suitable for a small child; books and games for children and clothes suitable for a growing child. Scrapbooks made by the child care students illustrating the different principles studied in the course were also exhibited.

Tea was served to the visitors by members of the elementary and advanced foods classes, home economics 100 and 101.

HALL OF FAME

In a copyrighted editorial, the New York Evening Journal on May 25, 1933, recommends that Nathan B. Stubblefield, Murray genius, be given a "niche in the Hall of Fame" as the "real daddy of radio."

The editorial writer obtained his information from Joseph Nathan Kane's new book, "Famous First Facts." Mr. Kane received the material from Prof. L. J. Hortin, director of publications of Murray State College and Associated Press writer at Murray.

The New York newspaper suggests that Stubblefield's proper rank is with Edison or Marconi.

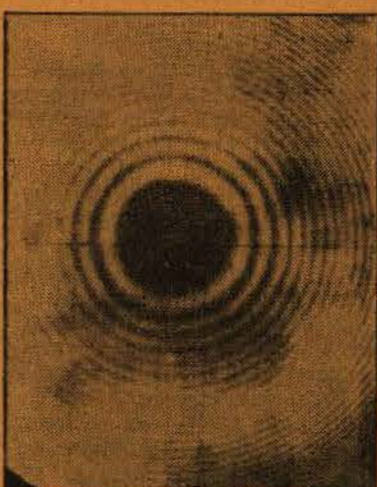

Mr. Kane, in a personal letter to Mr. Hortin, has stated that he is finishing a biography of important Americans and that he would try to include a chapter about Stubblefield.

Two nationally famous broadcasting chains, as well as Mr. Kane in his book, have this year given official recognition of Stubblefield as the inventor of the radio.

Boyd and McGregor Use Microscope in Taking Photograph.

DR. HIRE PRAISES WORK OF STUDENT PHYSICISTS

This is one of the best photographs of this subject that Dr. Charles Hire, head of the physical science department of Murray State College, has seen, and compares favorably with the work of the best photographers of the United States.

Dr. Hire explained that the making of such a picture was a difficult accomplishment. He stated, however, that this picture was far better than many pictures of Newton's rings found in college physics text books.

"The picture was taken in a dark room by means of a monochromatic light, a microscope, and a camera. Twenty-nine bright rings could be seen easily in the original photograph," Mr. Boyd said.

Although the magnification of the rings was not measured, it was assumed to be approximately 50 diameters by Dr. Hire.

"The dark and light rings as shown in the parts, were produced by constructive and destructive interference of light. Constructive interference is the uniting of two beams of light so as to add each other. Destructive interference is the uniting of two beams of light so as to destroy each other or produce darkness," according to Mr. Boyd.

Mr. Boyd and Mr. McGregor are physics majors of Murray State College. Mr. Boyd received his B. S. degree in 1931. Mr. McGregor is a member of the graduating class will graduate in June of this year.

Mr. Boyd explained that he would continue to study and experiment in this field, but lack of equipment prevented his further study at this time.

Former Murrayans Are In Race For State Legislature

DR. HIRE PRAISES WORK OF STUDENT PHYSICISTS

Three former students of Murray State College are making the race for representative this year. Waylon Rayburn, one of the most fluent orators and debaters ever to attend Murray State, is running for state representative from Calloway County. Mr. Rayburn is at present teaching in the Benton High School at Benton, Ky.

Marion McCarthy, another former Murray College student, has announced his candidacy for representative from Webster County. While at Murray State, Mr. McCarthy took part in journalism and was a member of various clubs on the campus.

John Vandell of Crittenden County, a former student, is also seeking office as representative from Crittenden County.

SOCK AND BUSKIN GIVES 'EVERYMAN' TO AID YEARBOOK

One of Best Morality Plays Presented Before Small Audience Here

EXPERTLY DIRECTED BY PROF. F. D. MELLE

By Lois Mantz Bridges One of the outstanding entertainments of the year was given Wednesday evening, May 24, when the Sock and Buskin Club of Murray State College presented the Fifteenth Century morality play, "Everyman," under the expert direction of Prof. F. D. Mellen, English instructor. The proceeds were used to help defray the expenses of the "Shield" college annual.

"Everyman" is called "Death" and wishes to take some companions with him to the grave. "Fellowship," "Kindred and Cousin," and "Goods," all refuse. "Good Deeds" consents to go with him.

"Beauty," "Strength," "Discretion," and "Fine Wits," also consent to go with him. All but "Good Deeds" desert him at the grave. The angels welcome him as he goes.

The proceeds of the play amounted to about $30 which fell short of those obtained from the faculty play. One of the smallest audiences of the year witnessed one of the greatest plays of the year. "Examinations" and unsettled weather were probably the causes of the small crowd.

Nevertheless, the Shield did not receive the $10 dollars promised by President John W. Carr if the proceeds exceeded that of the "Melting Pot."

The stage of a gray background made a pleasing contrast to the many colored costumes of the actors. Professor Mellen and members of the Sock and Buskin Dramatic Club deserve credit for their work in producing such a play.

The cast of characters included: The Messenger, Loren Putnam; Adonai, Glen Stone; Death, Robert Shelton; Everyman, Bedford Oley; Fellowship, Daron Grissom; Kindred, Thelma Whipple; Cousin, Morris Christopher; Goods, Nell Coke; Good Deeds, Julett Eaker; Knowledge, Clarence Brawner; Confession, Sue Wyman; Priest, Stewart Jackson; Beauty, Nell Hall; Strength, Phillips McCaslin; Discretion, Mary Agnes Turner; Fine Wits, Maribel Holland; Angels, Margaret Chambers, Evelyn Gover, R. T. Parker, Loren Putnam, Etna Marshall, and Julett Eaker.

Dr. Carr Cancels Senior Reception

President R. B. Chrisman of the senior class, at a special meeting of the senior class, Wednesday, May 24, read a letter from J. W. Carr, president of Murray State College, stating his regrets for being unable to be at home to the seniors as had been planned for Wednesday afternoon, May 31. The death of Dr. Carr's son, Dr. Charles Carr, New York physician, was the reason for the cancellation of this commencement event. Dr. Carr expressed his best wishes to the seniors.

Dr. Carr Confers 67 Degrees on June 1.

12 RECEIVE HIGH HONORS

Dr. Rainey T. Wells, Omaha, Neb., general counsel for the Woodmen of the World and former president of the college, spoke on "Failure and Success" in his address Thursday morning, June 1, before 67 graduates and 34 recipients of standard certificates at the tenth annual June commencement exercises of Murray State College.

Miss Mary Hughes Chambers with a standing of 2.63, Miss Daltry Cleveland 2.91, and Mrs. Lillian Lorelle Lowry 2.74 were graduated with "High Distinction." The standing of 3 is perfect. Those who were graduated with "Distinction" were: Milburn Cooper 2.4, Mrs. Mary Alice McMackin 2.44, Rubie Eudora Smith 2.51, Manzie Opal Wofford 2.54, and Mrs. Koska Lee Jones 2.55. Those who received "Honorable Mention" were: Emma Lee Fuqua 2.34, Nell Richardson Hall 2.38, Hollis Jetton Rogers 2.29, and Robert Lynn Witt 2.46.

Two students received their bachelor of arts degree earned January 1933, and seven their bachelor of science degree granted at the same time. One was awarded the bachelor of science degree in home economics granted in January.

The number of those completing their work June 1 were: 21 bachelor of arts, 33 bachelor of science, 3 bachelor of science in home economics.

Three were granted standard certificates awarded in January. Thirty-one were awarded standard certificates for June 1. A special standard certificate in public school music was granted.

The Rev. O. A. Marrs, pastor of the First Methodist Church, Murray, gave the invocation and benediction. President John W. Carr conferred the degrees, and Dr. Herbert Drennon presented the candidates. The music department provided the music.

"Best Known Man" Dr. Carr introduced Dr. Wells as "the best known man in West Kentucky," who had worked harder for Murray State College than any other man.

Elements likely to produce success, according to Dr. Wells, were: "Finish up as you go," poise, individual responsibility, self-forgetfulness, straight-forward character, and patriotism.

Speaking eloquently and forcefully, Dr. Wells declared that the youths before him were not responsible in the least for the present crisis, but that they would be deprived of opportunities that should be theirs.

Self-forgetfulness was the factor that made Luther sublime at Worms. Too many persons in life, he said, leave "ragged edges." That is, they do not "finish up as they go."

Poise, he pointed out, is a large phase of success—already attained. It means, he declared, "keeping your head when everybody else loses his." Poise is the result of careful planning.

"The one thing that will make a man," asserted the speaker, "is individual responsibility." Examples of persons who accepted responsibility were: Cicero, Napoleon, Alexander, Caesar.

"Don't let George do it," he exclaimed. "Do it yourself." Pointing out the value of character above material possession, Dr. Wells showed how Benedict Arnold failed because he could not withstand the temptation of power and wealth. Character, according to the speaker, is all of a man after he has won all and after he has lost all.

In conclusion, he appealed to the graduates to love their state and nation, for only through patriotism is a nation able to make progress. President Carr, speaking briefly at the conclusion of the exercises, announced that 5,487 students have attended the college in the 10 years of its existence. During the semester just completed, 1,998 students were enrolled in all departments, including 991 in the college proper, 744 in the extension departments, and 263 in the Training School. Approximately 519 degrees have been conferred by Murray State

Costumes in Play Made by Students

In the play, "Everyman," given by the Sock and Buskin Club Thursday night, May 25, the success of the performance goes not only to the cast as actors but to them also as designers and costumers. The play was spectacular in its richness of color and variety of dress, representative of the robes worn during the fifteenth century.

With aid of Mr. Mellen, as sponsor, and Miss Lovett, of the home economics department, the costumes were planned by each member of the cast to harmonize with the other costumes and to characterize each particular part.

A black robe and a head dress of white plaster and lurid teeth was symbolic of Death. Everyman first wore a gaudy dress of checked cloth and a bright red belt as a sign of his worldliness. During the play this dress was covered by a white robe, an emblem of his reincarnation. His untried friends were clothed in gay colors and his true friends in blue and white.

The costuming was made still more effective contrasted against a setting of gray.

Thanks, Paducah

In recognition of the College News being selected as the best all-around college paper in Kentucky the following editorial was published in the Paducah Sun-Democrat:

"Selection of the Murray College News as the best all-around college newspaper in Kentucky in the annual contest conducted by the Kentucky Intercollegiate Press Association at Danville is a tribute to the earnest and efficient efforts of the youthful news editors at Murray. The College News is a well edited publication. It would be a credit to any school in the country. Its staff writers and department heads have displayed ability, originality and an unusual knack for turning out spot news in brilliant style.

"Paducah congratulates the college and the College News staff for an enviable triumph in state newspaper work. It is a deserved victory for the paper and its faculty director, Prof. L. J. Hortin."

A Busy Week

The week of May 22 saw a very busy student body on the Murray State College campus. To some, the week meant a whole semester, while to the more industrious students it brought hopes of making A's.

Even Dean Austin had a busy day on May 24, as a result of letters sent to students by President J. W. Carr advising them of their excessive unexcused absences. Then, the cast of "Everyman" worked hard in order to get Dr. Carr's $10. The play was "put over" splendidly.

Some of the students even wished to put more days on the week. It's a shame some couldn't have composed a song entitled "Why Can't This Week Go on Forever." It should make as big a hit as did a similar song

Education Notes

TO THE PEOPLE OF KENTUCKY:

The recent economic situation has been responsible for some unethical practices on the part of a number of school board members and trustees. It has been brought to my attention that many well-trained men and women, who have dedicated their lives to the teaching profession and who have given complete satisfaction to the communities which they have been serving, have been displaced by people who have had no particular interest in teaching, and who will withdraw from it when business conditions warrant. Due to the fact that the regular vocations and callings of these people—business, law, salesmanship, and the like—have for the time being proved unremunerative, they have been prompted to use selfish and personal influence to oust conscientious and efficient teachers from their positions in order that they may secure these jobs for themselves. Of course, it was necessary for them to take some high-pressure instruction in professional educational courses to qualify them for the issuance of the necessary teachers' certificates.

An even more vicious practice is in evidence in various parts of the state: that of certain school board members acting in collusion to elect their relatives to teaching positions, usually displacing more competent teachers who have served the people in a highly satisfactory manner. One or two instances have been reported where practically every teacher in the school is closely related to one or more board members of that school district. Such a practice cannot be too strongly denounced. It violates every principle of sound ethics. The taxpayer pays his money that his children may be educated, and not that the relatives of school board members may have jobs. No practice will more completely discredit our school systems than that of favoritism in the selection of teachers. Whenever a competent teacher is displaced for the patent purpose of giving a job to another because of personal "pull" or family relationship, the members of the school board who are parties to this practice are violating the trust imposed in them by the people who selected them for these honorable and all-important posts.

The people of this state cannot afford to tolerate such practices. The laws of the Commonwealth offer some protection in this matter, but they are not sufficiently rigid to prevent the abuses to which I have referred and I am, therefore, appealing to the people of Kentucky to assist in breaking up practices which, if permitted to run their course, will work irreparable injury to public education in this Commonwealth.

Public education in this state is facing a great crisis, and this crisis imperatively demands that all school authorities, including board members and trustees, conduct the affairs of their schools in such a manner as to command the confidence and respect of the people. If we are to command respect, we must be respectable in administering the affairs of our offices.

The above statements are not to be interpreted as reflecting upon the integrity of the great majority of school board members and trustees, who serve their constituencies with honor and credit to themselves and their communities; nor are they to be construed as a criticism of many excellent teachers who may be related to members of school boards under whom they serve, but who have secured and maintained their positions through merit and not through favoritism.

 Public Instruction.

Spring Beautifies College Campus

By Clifford Isbell

The 40-acre campus of Murray State College shows every sign of summer. The trees and shrubbery are green. The fire plugs that dot the campus look like so many roses.

A few weeks ago we were looking for signs of spring, but now summer has sufficiently manifested herself.

Miss Margaret Woodridge has taken her art classes outside to get an artist's view of "nature in the raw." Lawn mowers have already made several trips over the grassy greenways of the Murray State College campus.

White duck pants and sport shoes are adorning the male collegians. Even the co-eds look cool in their white sleeveless dresses.

The physical education classes are going to the athletic field for their workouts. Trips are being made daily to Roger's Lake for a "dip" in the cool water.

Miss Olive Gould, instructor in violin at Murray State College, has resigned.

Gets Scholarship

Forrest C. Pogue, Jr., graduate of Murray State College, has been awarded a scholarship in history at the University of Kentucky. This scholarship, valued at $200, is for the 1933-34 school year.

Mr. Pogue, who received his bachelor of arts degree from Murray in 1931, is in the social science department at Western State College, Bowling Green, Ky. While at Murray, Mr. Pogue was editor of the College News, and was president of the following clubs: Henry Clay Debating Club, Christian Association, Wilsonian Society, Les Camarades Francais, and Les Savants. He was publicity assistant in the journalism department and a varsity debater for four years.

PADUCAH PASTOR GIVES SPEECH ON FAITH IN RELIGION

The Rev. Gustis Fletcher is Chapel Speaker at Murray State

HICKMAN MINISTER INTRODUCES VISITOR

The Rev. Gustis Fletcher, pastor of the Episcopal Church of Paducah, Ky., addressed the student body and faculty of Murray State College in chapel Monday morning, May 22, on the subject, "Touching Base." The Reverend Mr. Wolfe, Episcopal pastor at Hickman, Ky., had charge of the devotional exercise.

"Touching base," Mr. Fletcher defined as the procedure through which the college graduate re-lives his former faith and religion when he "goes back home" after commencement.

The speaker took his text from the account of the activities of Christ after his crucifixion and before his ascension. After his crucifixion, Jesus came back to his old haunts to establish his identity, to prove he was actually alive, to show that he was conqueror over death, to train his disciples, and to prepare them for his departure.

"The Lord Jesus came back to the old scenes. He came back and touched base," asserted the Reverend Mr. Fletcher.

When he came back, Jesus appeared before certain women, before his disciples, before 500 persons at once, in Jerusalem, on the mountains, at the Lake of Galilee, and at Bethany, explaining the speaker.

"Very soon you are going to touch base," asserted Mr. Fletcher. "You will go home—back home—and touch base."

To touch base, he added, means first that a person has scored. To the student, it means he has passed the examinations. He has passed another milestone, ready to start again—ready to begin another run.

"You are going home to re-contact the old associations, the old haunts, to take up again your place in the old family. You will there renew your faith, the faith of your mothers, the religion of your youth. Your faith will be revived and stabilized," asserted the speaker.

"I'm not saying that this school has upset your faith, but you have had the opportunities for great views, with new freedom, and you have come in contact with new ideas. Your faith may have had some kind of job or job. You need to touch base."

"If there is anything needed today it is to re-contact old religion, and old religious views. We need to touch base."

He concluded: "We have to accept Jesus Christ or explain Him away. We should come back to faith in God, the Son, and the Holy Spirit. We must touch base again."

Chemistry Club Has Picnic and Hay Ride

The members of the Chemistry Club of Murray State College went on a hay ride to Pine Bluff Monday evening, May 22. Forty-two students comprised the group.

Prof. W. E. Blackburn, chemistry instructor, was in charge of the group, which left Murray at 6 o'clock. The group crossed the river and had supper on the Tennessee side, after climbing the bluff.

After supper, the group crossed again to the Kentucky side and started back to Murray.

Gifts Are Brought to Professor

When students laud the head of the department with gifts, there is something the cause of their freedom. On Thursday morning, May 25, Dr. G. T. Hicks, head of the department of education at Murray State College, was astonished to see five young men come marching in to the classroom, each with a small present for his instructor.

At the recent meeting, Dr. Hicks emphasized the cause and effect of gifts from the students. At the class period Thursday morning the students experimented with the proposition. Whether or not the results ascertained will be pleasing, will be seen at the end of the semester.

The gifts were enumerated as follows: one bar of candy, one package of chewing gum, one orange, one bright red rose, and one ice cream bar.

The rose was pinned on the lapel of the coat; the ice cream bar was eaten at once, and the other gifts were put aside until the end of the period.

Dr. Drennon Is Speaker at Fulton

Dr. Herbert Drennon, head of the English department of Murray State College, delivered the commencement address to 35 graduates of Fulton High School on Thursday evening, May 25.

Dr. Drennon opened his address by comparing the class to some one who is going somewhere. Just where, the person does not know for sure, and just what the person will do is also very uncertain. In order to attain success in the undertaking, the person must remember that the spiritual values have not gone down in life. The speaker enumerated four fundamental points in attaining this aim: Honesty in dealing with one's fellow man, truth, love, respect, and honor the high ideals, and play fair with one's fellow man.

Dr. Drennon spoke of the educational situation of today, both state and national. According to the speaker, all must share common ideals; all must have a common purpose. The public school system of America is the medium through which this is to be accomplished.

The speaker closed his address by showing the opportunity offered by Murray to the students of Kentucky, and especially to those of West Kentucky.

Cosmopolitan Ranks First at Murray?

What type of magazine does the college student read? In a random survey of 20 college students and 3 professors, each having two votes. Cosmopolitan ranked high with nine votes. Collier's was next with seven, and the American Mercury was third with six.

Contrary to all expectations, Collier's was not a vote. Herman Shaw, varsity athlete, said he preferred College Humor and Collier's.

When asked for the names of his two favorite magazines, Dr. Herbert Drennon, head of the English department, said: "You mean, if I had to take time, and something else?" As he spoke, he pulled the latest copy of Time from under his arm. The something else he specified as Publication of Modern Languages Association of America "for the sake of my profession."

James Jacobs, senior at Murray, named the Scientific Monthly and American Mercury as his favorites.

Prof. A. B. Austin, dean of men, said he preferred Harper's and Current History. The dean is a history professor. He also stated that he liked the American Mercury. When asked why the American Mercury was not included in most libraries, he told the story of "Hatrack." Hatrack, he said, was a very hot article that appeared in the Mercury shortly after its appearance on the market. Since then, he said, the Mercury has been taboo with all conservative colleges and libraries.

Frank Ellis, a junior, and editor of the College News, said he was ashamed to admit it, but his favorites were the American and Colliers.

CAMBRIDGE MAY BE MURRAY'S FOE IN DEBATE NEXT FALL

Preliminary Announcement Made for Forensic Meet by Coach Hortin.

EVENT WILL BE FOURTH INTERNATIONAL CLASH

The University of Cambridge, England will probably be the opponent of Murray State College in an international debate in the Murray auditorium next fall, according to a preliminary announcement made by Prof. L. J. Hortin, coach. If it is scheduled, it will be the fourth consecutive international debate for Murray.

Although the definite date and final plans have not been arranged, the Murray coach is negotiating with the National Student Federation of America at New York City for a contract with a foreign team. Three world-famous teams are sent to the United States each year to engage the leading colleges and universities in forensic contests.

For the past three years, Murray has debated foreign teams. To date these have been Cambridge University, Oxford University, and the University of Dublin.

Next fall the Cambridge team will meet approximately 20 of the leading colleges in central and southern United States. Of this section including about 200 colleges and universities, Murray has been chosen as one of the 20 likely to be scheduled.

According to the foreign debaters who have met Murray in the past three years, the attendance at Murray State College equaled or exceeded that of any other college or university on their tour.

Out of over 50 debates scheduled by Murray State during the last five years, only 10 have been lost by the Murray squad.

Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Creekmur, North Seventeenth street, entertained their college students with a gypsy tea on Tuesday evening, May 9, at the Baptist picnic grounds.

After a blazing fire was built, the merry-makers roasted wieners and marshmallows, ate sandwiches, cakes, and drank coffee. Music by a portable furnished the evening's entertainment.

Among those present were: Mr. and Mrs. Creekmur, Mr. and Mrs. Carlyle Kirby, Mr. and Mrs. Jack Carroll, Mr. and Mrs. McGuison, Mrs. Boswell, Thyrza Creekmur, Wilhelmina Doepfner, Alvena Doepfner, Lois Chittenden, Marie Chittenden, Laverne Kemper, Magdalene Kemper, Carlella May, Mary Downs, Nella Mae Harrell, Ariene Swain, Reba Dunn, Virginia Greggs, Ruth Morrison, Herman Matheny, Woodrow Alderdice, Emmett Alderdice, Bill Crawford, Pierce Ray, Armond Stegall, Gordon Moody.

Apartment Built

The number of garage apartments, which are becoming popular with the students of Murray State College, has been increased by one.

Prof. J. G. Glasgow, mathematics instructor of Murray State College, is having a two-story garage and apartment built at the side of his home west of the administration building. It has a double garage over which is a four room apartment.

The rooms have already been rented for the summer term, according to Professor Glasgow.

17 Students Clubs Are on Campus

There are 17 student organizations on the campus of Murray State College. The largest of these are the Allentian and Wilsonian Literary Societies which meet bi-weekly. There is a keen spirit of rivalry existing between the two and each tries to surpass the other in presenting interesting programs to a varied group.

The Christian Association fills the place of Y. M. C. A. and Y. W. C. A. on the campus. Meetings are held each Sunday evening in the administration building and inspirational programs are given by both students and ministers of the town.

Physics Club Holds All-Day Picnic at Dr. Wells' Camp

Twenty-three students, faculty members, and visitors attended the all-day picnic of the Nathan B. Stubblefield Physics Club, Saturday, May 20. The outing was held at the camp of Dr. Rainey T. Wells, located on the Tennessee River at the former site of the old Confederate fortification, Fort Hymon. The trip was made in cars furnished by students and teachers of the science department.

During the day, the party explored the surrounding hills, played volleyball, bridge, pitched washers and horse shoes, and made a number of pictures. At noon a fish fry was served, prepared by Dr. Hire and members of the club. In the afternoon a tour of the fort was conducted by Dr. Hire who explained the layout of the fortifications and the location of the bankments and artillery. Plans for swimming were abandoned because of the turbulent condition of the river.

Before adjourning the club voted to send a letter of thanks to Dr. Wells for permission to use the camp.

One of the visitors was James Bard of Fulton, a graduate of Murray State College and a former member of the science organization. He made a special trip to Murray to attend the picnic. Others who made the trip were: Dr. and Mrs. Charles Hire, and their two daughters, Helen and Elvora Hire, Prof. and Mrs. A. F. Yancey and their daughter, Betty, Powell Boyd, Zelma Boyd, Delye Cleveland, Nell Hall, David Wall, Horace Berry, Walter Wooster, Reavis Sowell, W. P. Burnett, John Dulaney, William Trousdale, Ralph McGregor, J. D. Terrell, James Jacobs, and Marvin Wilkerson.

Smith Will Teach at Wyatt School

Lake Smith, son of E. V. Smith of Vanzora, Ky., has been appointed to teach at Wyatt, Ky. in the northwestern part of Calloway County. Mr. Smith is a freshman in Murray College.

Mr. Smith graduated from Brewers, Ky., high school in the spring of 1931. He entered Murray State College in the fall of 1932. After this semester he will be a sophomore.

Mr. Smith is a member of the Wilsonian Society.

Emphasizes Three Principles

Using a silver dollar to illustrate his points, Mr. Daugherty emphasized three fundamental principles of civilization as reflected by the superscription on the coin: The Hope of America, "Liberty;" the motto of the United States, "In Unity, Strength;" the faith of the people, "In God We Trust."

The Reverend Mr. Daugherty took his text from the account wherein Jesus said, "Render unto Caesar the things that are Caesar's and unto God the things that are God's."

By way of introduction, the speaker declared that the silver dollar, which he held in his hand, reflected the history, the ambition, and the power of the people. Since its coining in 1879, the United States has seen the invention of the radio and a miraculous growth of science.

"A person's attitude toward money reflects his character," asserted the pastor as he explained that money in itself was neither good nor evil, but rather the user was responsible for its moral value.

E Pluribus Unum

Only through unity in Christ, can the world be strong, summarized the speaker while discussing the motto, "E Pluribus Unum."

A country whose god is gold, pleasure, or military strength can never prosper physically or spiritually. Only by faith in the inscription, "In God We Trust," can a nation grow, he added.

"The stamp of Almighty God is on your faces," he asserted, and it is your duty to spend yourselves and be spent for Christ.

The complete program follows: Processional, "Tanhauseri March," Wagner, college orchestra; "Gloria," From Twelfth Mass, Mozart, college chorus with orchestra; invocation, the Rev. J. E. Skinner; scripture, the Rev. E. B. Motley; "O Bread of Life," Christiansen, a cappella choir; sermon, the Rev. W. D. Daugherty; "Unfold Ye Portals, From Redemption," Gounod, college chorus; benediction, the Rev. J. E. Skinner; recessional "Priest's March," from Athalia Mendelssohn, college orchestra.

Albert M. Thacker will teach in a rural school in Northeast Weekly County the ensuing school term.

State Medical Association to Meet at Murray College for First Time in History

Kentucky Group To Assemble Here
Sept. 11-14.

For the first time in history, the Kentucky State Medical Association will hold its annual convention at Murray, September 11-14, when it convenes in the spacious auditorium of Murray State College.

Dr. Ben B. Keys, chairman of the committee on arrangements at Murray, has announced that he expects approximately 700 members of the association to attend the meeting which will be the eighty-third convention of that body. Dr. Keys, with Dr. V. A. Stillel of Benton, conferred with President John W. Carr at the college Wednesday, May 10, relative to arranging for the accommodation of the visitors.

The Women's Auxiliary will convene at Murray at the same time, and it is expected that approximately 300 women will attend the meetings. Mrs. A. T. McCormack of Louisville is in charge of arrangements for this group.

The entire assemblage will be cared for by the college. Dr. Carr, president, has announced. The meeting will be held in the auditorium, which has a seating capacity of 4000. Meals will be served in the dining room of Wells Hall, the women's dormitory. Sleeping accommodations will be provided at both the men's and women's dormitories, as the college will not be in session at that time.

Praise College
Dr. Keys and Dr. Stillel informed Dr. Carr, Wednesday, that entertaining facilities at the college were unexcelled in the state. They stated that the foyer of the auditorium was an admirable location for the exhibits. The auditorium itself is perhaps one of the largest and best equipped to be found in all of Kentucky. Both Wells Hall and the men's dormitory have adequate facilities for all the guests that may attend, according to the committee in charge.

Dr. Stillel, in complimenting Dr. Carr on the advantages offered by the college, stated that he had visited the various college cities in the state and that nowhere had he found a superior place to hold a convention of this type.

President Carr has announced that committees would begin immediately on the plans for entertaining the visitors. He has assured the association that the entire plant would be at the disposal of the guests. Dr. Ben Keys, cooperating with the other physicians and surgeons of West Kentucky, is bending every effort

GROUP ANNOUNCES CONTEST WINNERS

F. F. Mellen Wins First Place
With Review of "Time of Man."

Winners of the creative writing contest, sponsored by the English Club of Murray State College, were announced at the last meeting of the club which was held Friday morning, May 12, in the liberal arts building.

A review of "The Time of Man," one of Elizabeth Maddox Roberts' works, written by F. F. Mellen won first place. "Old Maid," an essay, by Clarice Brawner was second. A drama of one act entitled, "Roderick and Elizabeth," also written by Mr. Mellen, and "Fog," a poem by Ernestine Lyon received honorable mention.

Several of the manuscripts contributed were read at the meeting. The articles selected by the judges as best will be published in the next issue of "The Scribbles," due to the courtesy of the Irvin Cobb Writers Club.

ABIE'S ABSTRACTS

Since I have been here at Murray State College, it has failed to rain only ONCE on either a Monday or Tuesday. . . Robert Everett walked into the Journalism office and I popped up and said "hello half-pint" . . . several boys have taken their sun-baths on the balcony of the men's dorm during the past week . . . Personal nomination for the most promising journalist—Isbell. He is the one who covers the "alligator beat" . . . Among those who are the most down-hearted are the ones who go to the post office in vain . . . Next to teaching "will-be-journalists", Prof. L. J. Hortin had rather play baseball. He lettered in baseball in college . . . ask him to show you his baseball on the watch chain . . . (I have a class under him and I know whom to write about) . . . to date, the "interscholastic" week-end has been my most enjoyable . . . Wish Bates would come to Journalism office and claim his "egg-in-an-egg" before it explodes . . . One who has the highest hopes in reaching the peak in editing is none other than "Back-Luck" Dunaway . . .

Now that we have just two more weeks of school and another issue of the College News this semester before grips are to be packed and sent home C. O. D., this is an opportune time to survey the most enjoyable moments spent about the campus at Murray State College.

Probably the most striking event in football was the time when Thoroughbreds ran wild over the U. of L.; when we frosh received the much discussed hair-cuts; when I saw the Hilltoppers play Murray for the first time; when Murray eked out a victory over the Middle Tennessee Teachers at Murfreesboro, Tenn., by 7-6; Bagwell with his 347 points during the net season and "gobs" of other events.

After so long a time, rain has finally taken a vacation and the very first day that the weather permitted, "Soda" and his crew started work on the tennis courts. Luck to you, racket wielders!

When the writer visited Middle Tennessee Teachers College, when the Thoroughbreds played their last grid game, he had the opportunity of meeting Coach Faulkenberry. He was a striking individual and after his team lost a 7-6 decision to Murray, in the final minutes, I asked him after the game what he thought of the contest. He replied, "I have no excuses to make" . . . Surely the Tennessee boys will miss him.

Intra-Mural Tennis Starts May 22 With New Backstop Set

With the arrival of the new backstops for the Murray State College tennis courts, definite plans are being made for the intra-mural tennis tournament.

According to Coach Roy Stewart, participants in the tournament began to sign up last Wednesday with the hope of practicing for the rest of the week.

The drawings will probably be held Monday morning, May 22, with games starting that afternoon. The matches will include singles and doubles.

No definite arrangements have been made for the signing of courts by individuals. A plan used last year allowed a person to sign for a court for one hour at a time, and, according to Mr. Stewart, the same arrangements will probably be made later in the year.

PHYSICISTS FRAME FISH FRY FROLIC

Nathan Stubbsfield Club Plans
Outing at Dr. Wells' Summer
Camp.

The warm spring weather has changed the thoughts of even the deep-minded physics students from polarized light and cosmic rays to fish-fries and all-day outings. The Nathan B. Stubbsfield Physics Club of Murray State College, in a belated meeting Monday evening, May 15, decided to go on a fish fry.

A welcome was advanced to the Physics Club by Dr. Rainey T. Wells to use his camp for the outing. The camp is located on the Tennessee River near Pine Bluff, and it is an old Civil War battle site.

When problems of transportation arose, Dr. Charles Hire, sponsor of the club, thought that Horace Berry's "Viber Eight" could be chartered for a few pounds of fish.

Reavis Sowell, Paducah, and Marvin Wilkerson, Wingo, members of the club, gave the program for the recent meeting. Mr. Sowell spoke on Diesel engines, explaining their action and showing their alleged advantages over other types of internal combustion engines.

Mr. Wilkerson gave some of the later theories on the origin of cosmic rays.

100-Yard Dash Mark to Be Made

During the past few days, the classes of physical education of Murray State College have been running the 100-yard dash and making broad jumps.

When questioned about the purpose of these events, Coach John Miller said that they were being given to set standards for these events and not to make records.

The classes of next year must tie or beat these standards, according to Coach Miller.

"We are having the Murray State College students set their own standards, rather than using the standards of other schools where the students may be entirely different," stated Coach Miller.

Potts Hurls For Winners To Gain
10-2 Victory in Intra-mural
Baseball.

The baseball aggregation, captained by Howard Allen, defeated Charles Wickliffe's team 10-2 Monday, May 8. Potts, pitching for the winners, allowed only five hits and struck out 15 batters.

K. Bryant and Cook, pitchers for the losers, did fairly well. Cook, who pitched only one inning, struck out three men.

This was the first appearance of the Allenites. They will probably prove to be real contenders for the intra-mural baseball championship.

Allen's team exhibited fast fielding. The team has a snappy infield and a dependable outfield.

Great interest is being taken in intra-mural baseball, and large crowds have been attending every game.

Baseball Hi-Lites

By Cecil Kent

The race for the intra-mural baseball championship promises to be very close.

Five men have already hit home runs. These men are: K. King, Clark, Foster, Elder and Baker.

K. King made the longest hit of the tourney. He knocked one over the right-center fence.

Potts struck out 15 men in seven innings and allowed five hits. Only three men made put-outs.

Clark ran his string of successive hits to seven before it was broken. He leads the league in number of hits. His batting average is .700 and his fielding is perfect.

Brinkley and Bagwell lead the league in batting with an average of .750 each.

Doing some fine relief pitching, Bennie Cook struck out three men in one inning.

The Varsity Club voted for their selection of the fielder that could cover the most territory. McKenzie was their nomination.

Team standings through Tuesday's games are:

	W	L	Pct.
Allen	3	0	1.000

Murray Nine to Play Jackson

The Murray Independents, composed of Murray College men or Murray graduates, were scheduled to play the Jackson, Tenn., Independents at Jackson Sunday, May 21.

The game between these two clubs on May 7 was called off because of rain.

Jess Haynes was slated to do the twirling duties for Murray. Manager Norman McKenzie of Jackson, Tenn., said. Haynes is a former Murray State College star. He has played with several of the best semi-pro clubs of the South.

The Jackson club was expected to have on the mound, Alvin Betts, a former pitcher in the Cotton States League. Jackson is reputed to have one of the fastest teams in West Tennessee, having defeated teams from Memphis and Nashville.

William K. Hayden will teach in a rural school of Lyon County. It will be his third successive year in the same school.

Henry Clay Club Attends Debate

Instead of holding its regular meeting, the Henry Clay Debating Club attended the debate between Murray State College and Union University Monday, May 15. The regular meeting was to be held on Tuesday morning at 9:30 o'clock.

John L. Gregory, sophomore of Murray State College, will teach his second successive year in a rural school of Marshall County.

"Everyman" to be Staged At Murray on May 24

17 Students Will Take Part in Drama.

Seventeen students will take part in "Everyman", the annual Sock and Buskin play to be given at Murray State College May 24. The cast is recruited from the members of the Sock and Buskin Club and the student body. Prof. F. D. Mellen is directing the play.

"Everyman" is the second play to be given for the benefit of the "Shield", Murray annual. The first play, "The Melting Pot", was given by the faculty the last week in April.

Dr. J. W. Carr, president of Murray College, has announced that he will award ten dollars to this play if the gate receipts are higher than those taken in at the faculty play.

Prof. F. D. Mellen, public speaking instructor, who is directing the play, said in chapel that there was no doubt that the gate receipts would come higher, since "Everyman" is a much better play than "The Melting Pot".

Taking the titular role of Everyman will be Bedford Otey, Melber, Ky. The other characters are: Messenger, Loren Putnam, Murray, Ky.; Adonal, R. T. Parker, Murray, Ky.; Detha, Robert Shelton, Nashville, Tenn.; Fellowship, Daron Grisson, Fulton, Ky.; Kyndrede, Thelma Whipple, Hickman, Ky.; Gosyn, Maurice Christopher, Somerset, Ky.; Goodes, Nell Coke, Guthrie, Ky.; Good-Dedes, Julietta Eaker, Cairo, Ill.

Knowledge, Clarice Brawner, Paducah, Ky.; Confessyon, Sue Wyman, Lowes, Ky.; Beante, Nell Hall, Puryear, Tenn.; Strength, Lee Warren Fox, Murray, Ky.; Dyscrecyon, Mary Agnes Turner, Paris, Tenn.; Five-Wyttes, Elaine Bryant, Benton, Ky.; Aungells, Margaret Chambers, Owensboro, Ky.; and Evelyn Gover, Somerset, Ky.; and Priest, Stuart Jackson, Montgomery, Ala.

The play is written by an anonymous author and has been staged many times since it was first produced over 500 years ago. Recently it was produced by Ben Greet, famous actor.

DR. FLOY ROBBINS DISCUSSES CHINA

Geography Head Speaks in Chapel at Murray State College on May 19.

"America is concerned as far as other countries are concerned with world peace, and we must understand the conditions of Manchuria before we know our part," said Dr. Robbins, head of the geography department of Murray State College, in her address in chapel, May 19, on the "Conditions About Manchuria."

Her speech consisted of the following parts: the general view between the rest of the world and the Far East situation; why the Americans are concerned; the cause of the dispute; the immediate, political, and economic cause.

"Mr. Stimson apparently felt that America's interests in China would be served if the United States acted as the drum major in the marshalling of public opinion against Japanese aggression in China but the United States would not act alone or on its own."

"Mr. Stimson acted with wisdom and foresight, assuming the task of punishing Japan. There can be no question but that China, Soviet Russia, and the small states of Europe looked forward to the United States acting as an international spanking-officer in this situation."

SON OF DR. CARR DIES IN NEW YORK

Death of Dr. Charles Carr on May 17 Follows Operation for Abscess on Neck.

Dr. Charles Carr, eminent New York physician and son of President John W. Carr of Murray State College, died Wednesday afternoon, May 17, at 4 o'clock in a New York hospital, following an operation for a retropharyngeal abscess of the neck. Dr. and Mrs. J. W. Carr left immediately upon receipt of the information of the death for New York to attend the funeral. They are expected to return Sunday or Monday.

The faculty and administrative staff sent a floral offering for the funeral.

President Carr received a telegram a few hours previous to the death, describing the condition of his son as "critical". According to the message, an operation had been performed for a "deep retropharyngeal abscess". Shortly later the message was received notifying Dr. Carr of his son's death.

Intra-mural Baseball Receives Attention

The students and town people who have been coming to see the intra-mural baseball games at Murray State College on college field have been getting tickets for the last few days.

With the first let-up of the wet weather, however, baseball is getting under way again.

There have been good crowds at the games and as the fight for top positions in the league gets "from lukewarm to hot," better attendance is expected.

All the talk among the men now is baseball. They discuss hitting averages, fielding, good and bad plays.

Even the umpires are getting their share of publicity. It seems that Warren (Biff) Allmon and Howard Moss are favorites with the fans.

MURRAY EDUCATOR UPHOLDS SCHOOLS

Prof. W. H. Caudill Writes Article for Kentucky School Journal.

"The common cry of today, 'School taxes are ruining us', is not true," declares Prof. W. M. Caudill, instructor in Murray State College, in an article, "Uphold the Faith of Our Fathers," published in the April number of the Kentucky School Journal.

Mr. Caudill, in his article, points out the fact that the United States has always supported public education in previous economic crises, and he urges that this support be continued in spite of the present depression.

"Our present curtailment of public educational opportunities stands in marked contrast to actual advance that took place in the economic recession from 1837 to 1843. During that period many of the states increased their public school support."

Declaring that "Civilization is ever a race between education and social catastrophe," Professor Caudill asserted: "This year the people of Kentucky will be called upon to vote for people who will have the power to determine in a large degree the course education shall take in our state. We are all crying economy, but we must not be misled to a false interpretation of the term economy."

"Saving at the vent and wasting at the bung hole" is poor economy. The writer argues that the schools have never absorbed as much as four per cent of the earned national wealth. He says that this sum is relatively small when it is discovered that the production and consumption of wealth is very largely based on education.

"We should scrutinize as never before every aspirant to become a member of our next General Assembly, as to his character, integrity, ability, foresightedness, and unselfishness," concludes Mr. Caudill. "If he is not broad enough to overlook selfish interest when the welfare of the state is at stake, we do not need him."

Mr. and Mrs. Openon Ray are the parents of a son, Bobby Gene, who was born April 16. Mr. Ray is a sophomore in Murray State College.

Training School News

The Training School has been extremely busy the past few weeks in their preparation for the May Day program which was given May 18.

Signs of progress are everywhere. As one passes by the classrooms, he sees the teachers and students very busy making crepe paper dresses, flowers and other things.

A piano was moved out on the walk and the campus, seemed to be covered with little tots last week who were practicing for their individual group dances.

The first grade has visited the ice plant and the cobblers. The children are going to have an assembly program showing the community helpers. The underlying idea is to show their interdependence. This culminates the community project carried on all year in the first grade room during which they have built a small town.

The College News has a friendly rival. The second grade has a newspaper and it is published weekly for the children.

The third B Class has been studying trees. The pupils have some very attractive little booklets.

The fourth grade, under the supervision of Miss Mildred Swann, has been working up a book on "The Congo Region." The children have been divided into groups and each has been assigned a special topic to look up.

Key Bagwell is assisting the fourth grade pupils in constructing an art project about the desert.

The sixth A class, under the direction of Marion Burks, practice teacher, is working out a project on "Castle Life."

Miss Laura Fitzpatrick, Mayfield, Ky., former student of Murray State College, arrived Monday, May 15 to spend the week with Miss Sheila Mizell.

Dorm Doings

Charles Wickliffe's radio has been returned from the repair shop. Students have again started trekking up there to listen to the plaintive music of Wayne King and Hal Kemp, and the "hi-de-ho" Harlem music of the "Rhythm Club" and Duke Ellington.

Cecil Kent and John Cedzlowa, are the proud owners of a pet flying squirrel given to them by Miss Thelma Whipple. The squirrel has been christened, "Joesue". Joesue amuses himself and all visitors by doing acrobatic capers around the room.

It seems as if conditions in the men's dormitory are going from bad to worse. Houston (Hound) Elder, has turned salesman on us. Mr. Elder has a long line of commodities for sale (linen suits and etc.) and also a long line of talk by which he tries to sell a prospect some goods. The writer predicts that if Mr. Elder's commodities are as good as his talk, he will become a master salesman.

Even the greatest of men makes mistakes sometimes. Tom Jackson, freshman, has been trying to wash his teeth with shaving cream.

Clegg Farmer Austin, son of Dean and Mrs. A. B. Austin, has returned to his home in the men's dormitory, after spending three days in the Mason Memorial Hospital. Tonsillitis and a high fever confined little Clegg Farmer to his bed for several days. He is recovering rapidly.

"M" CLUB HOLDS FINAL MEETING

Funds Are Secured For Pictures in "Shield", College Yearbook.

The Varsity Club of Murray State College held what will probably be its last meeting of the semester, Tuesday, May 16. The purpose of the meeting was to secure funds from the members with which to pay for their picture in the annual.

Sometime next week, the club plans to have a "get-together" meeting at the Collegiate Inn. Every member of the Varsity Club is urged to attend this banquet. Harold Byrd, president of the club, Bill Smith, and Willard Bagwell, all seniors, gave short talks expressing their appreciation of the Varsity Club and their regrets at not being back next year.

Young Mr. Mellen, age 20, the second son of Professor Mellen would have completed his college career at Starksville in June. He was to graduate with honor, being exempt from the examinations of his senior year.
