THE RELIGION OF DEMOCRACY

In his annual message to Congress President Roosevelt took occasion to call the attention of the American people, and of the world which was listening to him, to the essential and unchangeable difference between democracy and the totalitarian forms of government, whether those are called Communism, Fascism or Nazism.

That difference, reduced to the simplest terms in which the President expressed it, is that democracy alone of all of them is founded upon religion. If that is not instantly clear, consider it for a moment.

We who believe in religion believe that all men are equal in the sight of God and that every human soul is capable of choice, of reason, of developing and perfecting himself in the image of the Divine ideal. On that belief was our democracy founded, and in that belief it must persist, or it will perish.

The philosophy of Communism is that man is the product of economic forces. The Nazi doctrine is that the only people entitled to exist in the state are those of a particular blood strain.

Totally different is the democratic philosophy that every human being partakes in some measure of Divinity and that the goal of his life is not to live and labor and die under the lash of authority, but to strive for self-perfection.

In a society so organized on the democratic philosophy, the final authority is the moral principles based upon the Ten Commandments of Judaism and the Golden Rule in which Jesus summarized the law Smillie Summarizes 1938 and the teaching of the prophets. As William Penn said, men must be governed by God or they will be governed by tyrants.

Those are some of the implications of Mr. Roosevelt's first message to the new Congress. It is no wonder that in nations such as Germany, Japan, Italy and Russia, where the exactly opposite view rules, official spokesmen denounced his speech as significant of hos-

America is not hostile to the people of any nation in the world. It is definitely hostile to the ideas and principles upon which many nations are being governed today, and to the false prophets who have led their people into subservience.

a quick glance about. "Got a radio, I see?" he said. "Suppose you listen in to all the news broadcasts?"

"Nope," Warren replied. "News don't interest me much. Ridin' far?" "Stayin' here for the night if yuh don't mind? Put my hoss in your stable already."

'Glad to have some company," said Warren. Outside the storm howled. Sudlenly the stranger jerked erect.

'Some one's coming!" Warren stared mildly at the gun that had leaped into the stranger's hand. No sign of fear appeared on

"Keep your mouth shut," the stranger was saying. "I been here since morning, get me? My hoss went lame. I laid up here till he got better. That's the story and you stick to it, or else

Warren flung open the door and admitted a man. The newcomer stared suspiciously at the stranger. "Howdy, Sheriff," said Warren. Tough night to be out." He nodded toward the stranger. "Friend of mine, Bill Wiggin. Stopped by this morning to lay up while his noss' foot healed. Bill, meet Sheriff Hadley.

The tension was relieved. The sheriff flung off his slicker. "Bank robbed this afternoon," he said. 'Jigger headed this way. Going to meet my posse here. Seen anything of him, Warren?"

"Bill's the only man passed here in a week," Warren replied. They gossiped idly. A quarter of an hour passed, and then they heard the clatter of approaching hoofs. Wiggin grew tense.

"Posse, I guess," said Hadley. Four men, masked, guns in their ais head, "Truss 'em all up, Jake." The leader of the masked four approached Warren, jabbed a gun into "Guess you know what we're after, old man. Better produce your cache of gold and save Recovering from Operation time and trouble.'

Warren looked genuinely surprised. "Gold? I ain't got any gold. Don't pan enough out of the crick to keep me going, hardly."

The masked gunman laughed harshly. "Likely story. Expected it. We know better, though. Last chance. Where's it hid?" "You're crazy! There ain't any."

The gunman turned. "Take off his boots, Jake. He'll talk."

They removed old Warren's boots, stuck an iron in the fire till it glowed broke off. The door was open, again. Sheriff Hadley's posse was there, at the windows, too. The gunmen's little play had ended abruptly.

Old Warren screamed. The sound reached Wiggin's soul.

Hadley rubbed his chafed wrists, looking evenly at Wiggin, but spoke to his deputy. "We'll be going back to town now. Gotta get these bank thieves locked up. Glad we got the gold back. Make things O. K.—for every one. So long."

'Cathedral of Vicissitudes' Southwark cathedral, said to be the finest example of Gothic architecture, after Westminster Abbey, in London, is "lost," even though it stands just a few steps beyond London bridge. Buildings so hem it in that few of the thousands who pass it daily realize that it is there. Southwark is sometimes referred to as 'the Cathedral of Vicissitudes." For about 70 years in Elizabethan times its Lady chapel was rented to a baker, who did his baking in the chapel itself. Horses were once kept on the site of its old cloisters and it once served as a police court. It was made a cathedral in 1905.

COURT GRANTS THOMS NEW TRIAL ON ONE COUNT

Norristown Official Must Face At my residence, next door to National Sentence on Two Other Counts

Harry E. Thoms, Jr., former Norristown council president, was granted a new trial on the charge of conspiracy, but directed to appear for sentence February 3 on two counts of malfeasance and misfeasance in office. Judge Harold G. Knight handed down an opinion granting the new in the case of John H. McCawley, Norristown, two weeks ago. Mc-Cawley, co-defendant with Thoms was granted a new trial on the conspiracy count, but ordered to appear for sentence on a gambling

The trial of Thoms and McCawley came as a result of a councilmanic attempt to dismiss George Bausewine, veteran police chief, last August. Bausewine charged at the council meeting that Thoms had "sought to interfere with my *************** duties as a police officer" when Bausewine was planning a raid on McCawley's alleged horse-race betting establishment. This alleged interference took place in August 1937, but no action was taken until over a year later.

Miss Flora Campbell of Eagleville, of the well-known Campbell Candy Kitchen, is recuperating at the Presbyterian Hospital, Philadalphia, from a recent operation for gall bladder removal. Her condition is reported as favorable.
