Trappe Octogenarian Passes Away Monday

George Rambo Dies in 84th Year at Montgomery Hospital Following Stroke Sustained Week Ago

George Rambo, one of Trappe's oldest residents, died Monday morning at Montgomery hospital where he had been admitted as a patient Tuesday night a week ago. He was in his 84th year, having celebrated his 83rd birthday last August.

Mr. Rambo, janitor at Trappe Fire Hall, was found helpless in his home, Main street, last Tuesday evening suffering from the effects of a stroke. He was found lying on the kitchen floor by several Trappe firemen who investigated when fires in the fire hall were found to be out. Neighbors had seen Mr. Rambo open his shutters early Tuesday morning but he had not been seen after that and it is therefore thought that he was stricken sometime Tuesday morning.

He had been living alone since the death of his wife, Virginia, on Nov. 28, 1939.

Mr. Rambo, who retired some years ago when the foundry department at the Freed Heater plant was discontinued, was cupolo foreman at Freed's for many years. He was a member of Trappe Fire Company and Augustus Lutheran Church.

Surviving are a number of nephews and nieces and two step-brothers and two step-sisters: Daniel Linsenbiger, Royersford; Irvin Linsenbiger, Reading; Mrs. Anna Fry, Royersford; and Mrs. Lysa Weis, Pottstown.

Funeral services will be held Thursday afternoon at 2:30 from the Charles J. Franks Funeral Home with interment in Augustus Lutheran cemetery. Friends may call Wednesday evening at the Franks home.

REV. KOVACS SPEAKS ON BALKAN PROBLEMS

Rev. Imre Kovacs, pastor of the Hungarian Reformed Church, of Phoenixville, addressed the C-T Parent-Teachers Association on Tuesday evening, in the high school building before a large and attentive audience.

The Collegeville Lions Club joined the group to hear Rev. Kovacs speak on "What Can We Learn from the Balkans?—The Challenge of Being an American."

Rev. Imre Kovacs told of the unbelievable poverty of the landless peasants. He told of the modern cave-dwellers, thousands upon thousands of families who live in holes dug into the ground; of men who have one pair of trousers between them, and while one is out looking for work the other has to stay at home. He described the average diet in a poor Serbian village: bread and water, potatoes and water, beans and water.

MISS H. V. GRIFFITH SPEAKS AT BOYER H. & S. MEETING

The Boyer Home and School League met on Wednesday afternoon at the school with Mrs. John Gehret presiding. Preliminary plans were made by the league to sponsor a chicken supper (a la king) on Saturday evening, April 19, in the school cafeteria.

Mrs. John Moorehead is chairman of the Ways and Means Committee. Reports were made on the very successful card party, the covered dish supper and social sponsored recently by the Club.

It was voted to have movies for the children bought by the club. Principal Paul N. Lutz was authorized to spend $15 for obtaining movie programs for the remainder of the school term.

Irvin C. Brunner, 65, Dies of Heart Attack

Well-known Farmer and Trappe Councilman Succumbs Suddenly At His Home Sunday Morning

Irwin C. Brunner, well-known farmer and member of Trappe Borough Council, died unexpectedly at 7:30 Sunday morning in his home, Lewis road, Trappe.

He was a lifelong resident of this section, having successfully operated several farms in the Upper Providence section during his career. He was active in Republican politics and was a member of Trappe Borough Council for the past 21 years. He was a member of Trappe Fire Company, Economy Lodge of the Odd Fellows Order, Keystone Grange, and Augustus Lutheran Church.

Mr. Brunner had been suffering from a heart condition for some time; but was in his usual health up until the moment of his death. He had just finished his breakfast and was sitting in his favorite arm chair in the kitchen before going out to complete the Sunday morning farm chores when he apparently dozed off peacefully never to awaken again.

He was a son of the late Wilson R. and Elizabeth (Cassel) Brunner of near Trappe.

Survivors are his wife, Jennie (Whitby) Brunner; a son, Earl, Trappe; a grandson, Earl, Jr., and these sisters and brothers: Annie, wife of James Bysler, Erdenheim; Henry, Maryland; Horace, East Orange, N. J.; Leonore, wife of George Baldwin, of Norristown.

Funeral services were conducted Wednesday afternoon from the Charles J. Franks Funeral Home, with interment in Augustus Lutheran cemetery.

Collegeville Firemen to Purchase New Dishes

Collegeville Fire Company in regular February session last Thursday evening authorized the supper committee, of which Howard B. Keyser is chairman, to purchase new dishes for use at the Fire Company's annual supper to be held on Saturday evening, March 22.

The dishes recommended by the committee will cost approximately $150 and will carry the Fire company's name imprinted on each dish. Heretofore the firemen borrowed most of the dishes necessary to serve their suppers. This initial outlay of $150, including platters, cups, saucers and vegetable serving dishes, will be added to in the future as funds become available and necessity demands.

The company passed a motion to again hold the supper at the Collegeville-Trappe high school cafeteria. Roast beef will be served.

Donation from Freed's

A letter of appreciation from the Freed Heater Company for services at the October 19 fire was read and a donation of $75 was acknowledged.

H. P. Tyson, trustee and member of the Relief association, reported on the $116 blanket accident insurance policy carried by the company. Mr. Tyson warned that all active firemen must be paid up and in good financial standing to be beneficial. Likewise it is compulsory that all members record their beneficiary to the secretary in order to be eligible for death benefits.

Chief Smedley reported on the fire during the month—at Keyser's Quick Lunch restaurant, owned by William Hildebeide of Philadelphia, on Feb. 2. Estimated damage was placed at $110. Cause was attributed to improper erection of a chimney pipe too close to a shingle roof.

The Chief recommended purchase of 250 feet of one inch hose to replace badly worn sections of the present stock. The company authorized the purchase.

Mrs. Harry Umstead, Jr., won the door prize of a floor lamp.

Thank You

RAHNS MAN JAILED FIVE MONTHS BY JUDGE

Judge Harold G. Knight warned autoists who drive motor cars after suspensions of operator's licenses they will be given "substantial jail terms" when he sent Patrick McKillop, 45, of Rahns, to prison for five months after McKillop entered a plea of guilty to the charge. He also directed McKillop to pay a fine of $100 and the costs.

McKillop was arrested by Patrolman H. A. Clifford, of Collegeville barracks after Frank Heck, 8, of Rahns had fallen from McKillop's automobile. McKillop was taking the child to school.

McKillop's license had been suspended October 20, 1940, for a period of one year, after he was involved in several accidents September 17, 1940, and later arrested on charges of failure to stop at the scene of an accident and identify himself.

RAMBLING AT RANDOM BY JAY HOWARD

The cold snap over the week-end reminded us of that record breaking "big freeze" of February 9, 1934. Remember—that was the day that people were reporting thermometer readings all the way down to 30 below. The "official" reading was generally accepted as 18 below hereabouts. The old-timers, if we remember rightly, were pretty well stopped that morning. The few that ventured out from behind the stove reluctantly admitted they didn't recall anything to beat it. At any rate February 1941 is plenty cold enough to suit us—too cold in fact.

A pupil in one of the rural schools was observed to be refraining from participation in daily salute to the flag. Said the teacher: "Do you mean to say, after living in this wonderful country of ours, that you don't want to give the pledge to our flag?" The pupil replied: "Well, it's because it says, 'I pledge allegiance to our flag and the Republics for which it stands', and Pop says we're Democrats and are agin' anything the Republicans stand for."

The revision in the telephone rates, except for a few minor reductions in charges for installation and the rental on extensions, leaves this area unaffected. Like Mark Twain's death, the reduction rumor seems somewhat exaggerated. Patrons in the Collegeville-Evansburg area will continue to pay 10 cents to call Eagleville. We still insist that if it costs only a dime to call Pottstown (via Norristown routing) then it should only cost 5 cents to call Norristown.

Did you know that England must pay Canada on delivery for all the arms, ammunition and everything else she gets—the same stuff that United States is being asked to GIVE, lend or lease.

We never realized that Montgomery County was such a leading agriculture county until Mr. J. Hansell French, former state secretary of agriculture, bombarded us with some of the following in-

Danger From Within

The inconsistencies of human nature stagger logical reasoning. For example, there are those in the United States who blast the totalitarian powers as destroyers of democracy—which is the truth. In the next breath, they promote policies in our own nation that are as totalitarian in their ultimate effect as the program of any dictator.

The policies of the aggressor nations in destroying the rights and liberties of individuals, are no more deadly in their effect than are the policies being promoted by advocates of government ownership of industry in this country.

These promoters of state socialism in the United States simply assume that public ownership of business, patterned after the dictatorships, is going to cure all shortcomings or failures in private enterprise. They advance no arguments to prove to the people that socializing private industry will correct evils of which they complain, at which, at their worst, are not to be compared with the evils that follow in the wake of a policy which gives government and bureaucratic officialism an opportunity to destroy any line of private endeavor at public expense.

It is a monstrous thing that is taking place in our country under the guise of government ownership of the power industry. The worst of the picture is not the loss of the power companies to their present private owners, although that form of aggression by government against its citizens is bad enough—the real terrorizing aspect of the situation is the fact that public officials within our own government have already adopted the ruthless technique of the dictators.

The sacred name of government is being used as the screen behind which to attack private enterprise in this country under the guise of protecting the people, when as a matter of fact, every move made to put government into business and destroy private enterprise, is undermining and revoking the very liberties we should defend.

The greatest danger this country faces today is not from the aggressor without, but from the aggressor within. In the name of democracy, we have powerful influences at work within our nation using the defense emergency to destroy democracy at home.

They pick out a big industry for the spearhead of their attack, on the theory that it has few friends. It is the principle of government ownership they are establishing rather than the industry they are attacking, that the public should be fearful of. The future rights and liberties of every citizen, every home owner, every farmer and every business man are at stake. Remember that the aggressor technique and the results that follow its success are as damaging to the individual, regardless of the cloak under which it is disguised.

The Boy Scout Week Ends

Boy Scout Week has become an increasingly important week in the lives of the millions of boys enrolled in the movement. During the past week local Scouters joined with boys all over the land in a celebration unequalled in the history of Scouting.

The Scout movement is credited to an Englishman and it was soon after launched in this country. The precepts of the Scout movement all are designed to build character in American youth. The movement was founded on the principle that a Scout is trustworthy, loyal, helpful, friendly, courteous, kind, obedient, cheerful, thrifty, brave, clean, and reverent. Any American boy who begins in youth to practice these principles will need no great incentive to keep on practicing them in adult life. The spirit of help, cooperation and leadership make this movement a valuable training ground for Democracy.

And so, as Scout Week ends, we merely reiterate the praise that has often been heaped on the movement. The movement is worthy of all American boys and of the support of parents who hope to see their children grow into active and worthwhile adult life.

Kathryn Boghetti, Contralto, to Give Concert at Ursinus, Feb. 20

Kathryn Boghetti, attractive young contralto and wife of the internationally famous Giuseppe Boghetti of New York City, will give a concert at Ursinus on Thursday evening, February 20, in Bomberger Hall at 8:00 p. m. The Bomberger Program Committee, the student organization formed last year to bring outstanding personalities to the campus, will sponsor the concert.

Plans are being completed to launch a ticket campaign among the students and townspeople to insure a crowded house the night of the concert. Tickets have been placed at a minimum price to afford all the members of the College and the community an opportunity to hear Mrs. Boghetti. Tickets for students and members of the faculty and administration will sell at twenty-five cents each. All other admissions will be fifty cents each.

Mrs. Boghetti has confined her performances to a few years in order that her career on the concert stage might not interfere with her private life and her music teaching. She was discovered by and received her musical instruction from her famous husband, who taught Jan Peerce, the radio and operatic tenor who sang at the initial Bomberger Committee's offering last year.

Cancel Civil Court Session

The session of Montgomery County Civil Court scheduled for the week of February 17 has been cancelled and jurors instructed not to appear. Reason for the continuance is that there were too few cases scheduled for the week.

After the court session had been called off, Judge William F. Dannewer, accompanied by Abram Hallman, deputy prothonotary, left on a trip through the South which will take them to Florida.

Judge Harold G. Knight, with Mrs. Knight, left for New Orleans. Both parties plan to be gone for two weeks.

Fate Deals Cruelly With Life of Condemned Man

For the sixth time Frank D. Keaton has been saved from death. By now he holds little fear of it. Perhaps he is even inured to it.

Prison guards believed so when they led him out of his little white-washed cell in San Quentin's condemned row.

Were they at last taking him on that long walk of no returning? He didn't care anymore. Instead they took him where few condemned prisoners have been taken before . . . away from the gallows and out of the shadows of the death house.

Friday morning, the thirteenth, he was to mount San Quentin's gaudily painted sky blue gallows and pay with his life for shooting to death Motley H. Flint, a leading financier of Southern California, with a rusted pistol in a crowded Los Angeles courtroom in 1930.

But the fates that have dealt with him so cruelly in the past 30 years, snatched him back to the ranks of the living again . . . he wonders for how long this time. His sentence was commuted to life imprisonment by Governor Olson.

His first bit of luck came along in the early twenties when he inherited $13,000 and quickly increased it to $35,000 through a series of carefully planned investments. Luck was still at his side when he married Mariam Keaton, former missionary in China, who later presented him with two fine daughters.

At last his life was full, but for only a short time. Soon luck turned her back on him again. The depression came along and not only wiped out his little fortune, but as his friends later claimed, took his mind too.

In his mad desire for revenge he turned on a total stranger, Financier Flint, who loomed in his dazed eyes as a sinister figure, who, somehow, was to blame for his money losses, his business reverses and a "pain in the head."

When he first entered prison and was awaiting his turn in condemned row, he showed positive signs of insanity. State psychiatrists examined him and agreed and because the law forbids the supreme penalty for a crazed man, Keaton was sent to the Mendocino State hospital at Ukiah.

Adopt Proper Approach When Criticizing Others

"In criticizing people, the best psychological method is what I have frequently termed the 'sandwich plan,'" Dr. George W. Crane says. "This means that we should first administer a sincere compliment to buoy up the ego or morale of our 'victim,' then tactfully slip over the meaty layer which contains our criticism. Finally, we should administer another honest compliment to take the possible sting from our criticism. Remember, too, that I used the word 'compliment,' not the word 'flattery.' A compliment is an honest statement of appreciation for a demonstrable virtue or talent that merits commendation. As such, therefore, it is an ethical as well as a sound psychological technique.

"Flattery connotes an insincere statement for a mercenary or selfish goal. Even when you find yourself face to face with the middle layer of the sandwich, you can help take some of the unpleasantness out of the criticism if you will lead into it by the 'I wonder' plan.

"Don't tell a child, 'You're a very poor reader.' Instead, say 'I wonder if you are really trying to read as well as you can, Jack, for you're an intelligent boy, and surely you know that fluent reading is the foundation for all education.'"

Not So Long Ago

Remember those primitive days of motor touring, away back there in 1928. An automobile editor brings up the scene. The tourist setting out for a vacation trip had his running board equipped with a luggage carrier, crammed with suitcases, a couple of spare inner tubes, a five-gallon can of gasoline and a gallon of motor oil. There was more baggage piled on the front fenders and tied to the headlights and hood handles. Then there were tents, blanket rolls, folding army cots and tent poles tied with rope to the top of the car and around the spare tire.

The toolbox was carefully checked before starting, and it was essential to have a can of tire patches and a piece of wire to open the gas lines when they clogged. There was generally a spotlight clamped on the windshield for night driving. There had to be driving cushions for comfort and eyeshades for the driver.

And all that primitive stuff only 12 years ago. Well, well!

Red Baffling Color

Science has just given us a brand-new theory to the effect that red may baffle mind readers. The psychologists say their research indicates that thought transference can be confused by mental images of red things, probably because most people are both stimulated and alarmed by red.

Removing Fingermarks

Before trying to remove the fingermarks on woodwork by polishing, go over all surfaces to be cleaned with a solution of vinegar and water. Immediately follow with polish and rub until dry. The marks will quickly disappear.

DONALDSON'S LUCK

By CLARISSA MACKIE (McClure Syndicate—WNU Service.)

PHIL DONALDSON was plainly excited. He had rushed into the club-house, sought his friend, Ronald Payne, and borrowed his fishing tackle, promising to bring him a "mess of little blues" as a result of his day on the water.

"Didn't know you went in for fishing, Don. Who's 'we'?"

"Oh—the final test," Payne smiled urbanely.

Phil blushed furiously. "Now, just what do you mean by that?" he wanted to know.

"What every youth must go through if he aspires to the hand of Nancy Derringer. Old Man does a round of golf with the daring lovers—"

"Yes—we had the round of golf," admitted Phil.

"How did you come out?"

"Licked him good and plenty—I holed out in 83, and he was fuming along with ninety-something. I thought he would be pleased with a chap who could play a good game."

"And wasn't he?"

"Acted peeved. Then asked me to go fishing—say, I must be off, Ronny. I'll bring you a good lot of snappers."

"Good luck," and as an afterthought, "can you fish?"

"Not much—used to when I was a boy," and Phil hurried away in his car, anxious to keep his appointment with Nancy's father.

Perhaps sweet Nancy guessed the weighty significance of the fishing trip—her father's oddities had gradually impressed themselves upon her understanding as various suitors had been taken up by her stern parent, had fished, golfed, and hunted with him—and had then gone sadly away.

Nancy liked all these boys, but Philip Donaldson was the only one she had ever loved, and as his attentions became very serious indeed, she saw with a frightened fluttering in her heart that her father was "on the job," and was putting Phil through the mysterious test.

That was why she had tucked a tiny white silk glove in his pocket as he left her.

Their glances told each other what their lips had not time to say, for Asa Derringer was impatiently in the car, where he had already taken his seat.

Out there in the sunshine, with the Derringer motor boat anchored in the channel that led into the Sound, Phil clumsily fixed the bait on the hook. He had forgotten the delights of fishing, even lost the deft fingers of his boyhood, and he felt that Mr. Derringer was watching him with grim humor; nevertheless, it was Phil who caught the first fish—in a manner of speaking, for while the snapper was really impaled on Mr. Derringer's hook, Phil's line had fouled it, and he had brought the two up together with a violent heave that nearly overturned the boat—as if he could not do enough to damage old Asa's feelings the shining snapper was flapped back into the older man's face.

"Bah!" bellowed Nancy's parent, as he disentangled the lines. "My fish," he said curtly, and his eyes gleamed.

"I'm sorry—I'm out of practice," murmured Phil. Time and again the swiftly running fish snapped at his bait and carried it off, while Mr. Derringer pulled in one silver prize after another.

"I'm a dub," remarked Phil once, when with many apologies he had extricated his hook for the third time from the neck of his companion's sweater. Derringer made no reply, but a funny crinkle appeared around his eyes. Phil did not see it, and continued to gloat, all the while fishing doggedly, patiently, in utter silence, never catching another fish all day. They ate in silence, and continued until the older man pulled in his line with the remark that they had better "call it a day's work."

"You won't ask me to go fishing again, I'm afraid," said Phil as he started the engine—he could do all sorts of things with a boat or a car.

"On the contrary, I hope we will go out lots of times, Phil," said Derringer with great cordiality. "I like you—admire your patience, your stick-to-itiveness—your modesty, and I'm going to show you how to fish. How about it?"

Of course Phil said the right thing, and he had a glimmering that if he had caught all the fish, Derringer would not have been so agreeable.

"It's the showing-off of these young chaps that disgusts me," went on Mr. Derringer, as they rode toward home, "they want to know it, and be it all, and never admit they can't do a thing. Give me every time the fellow who is willing to take a back seat once in a while, or admit that he isn't the king-pin of every undertaking, even if it's only catching a mess of snappers! You'll stay for an informal dinner, eh?" His eyes had a "bless you my child" gleam.

The next day Phil bought a set of new fishing tackle for Ronald Payne, but the old hooks and lines he carefully treasures in a little leather box together with a crumpled silk glove. "Sometimes fishermen's bad luck is good luck in disguise," reads the label on the box.

C-T Basketeers Beat Schwenksville, 31-14

The Colonel maids got off to a slow start trailing 15-5 at half-time. The second half found Coach Claffins proteges playing a superior brand of ball, but the lead was just a bit too much to overcome. A steady flow of baskets brought the score up to 21-19 with about two minutes to play. Schwenksville elected to freeze the ball and play it safe with their two point lead. However, with less than a minute to go the C-T guards got possession of the ball and in less time than it takes to tell, Alberta Alderfer was shooting for the C-T basket—but she missed, then Ann Baird missed and things looked gloomy for the Colonels. At this stage of the game Emma Hawkins, who usually feeds the other two forwards, took a shot herself and in the ball went to tie the score at 21-21.

On the next play following the basket, Alberta Alderfer took a long shot and put the ball right thru the cords for what might have been the winning goal but the officials ruled the score had been made after the final whistle had sounded. The shouting and tumult following Emma Hawkins tying goal was so loud that it is very doubtful if even a locomotive whistle could have been heard above the roar of the crowd.

BUCKNELL GAME

Against Bucknell, the Bears, weakened by recent illnesses, looked their worst of the season. Unable to cope with the fast set plays of their opponents the Grizzlies had to resort to an offensive threat in return, but when this failed in the second quarter, the outcome of the game was certain.

SUSQUEHANNA GAME

Against the Crusaders of Susquehanna University the hoopers of Coach Ken Hashagen showed a little of their early season form but not enough to overcome their opponents in the non-league contest.

The first half ended with the Bears on the short end of a 25 to 14 score but in the second half, they came back with a terrific onslaught of points to tie the score at forty all with only two minutes remaining. Two quick goals by the home team, however, put the game on ice and the Bears could only garner a lone foul in retaliation.

BEARS LOSE TO BUCKNELL AND SUSQUEHANNA AWAY

The annual week-end trip to upstate Pennsylvania by the Bear hoopers turned into a rather dismal story this past week-end, as they returned with two defeats behind them. On Friday night the Bears were trounced by a rebounding Bucknell team to the tune of 51 to 18, and on Saturday Susquehanna University overcame the Bears in a close battle, 44-41.

BURNS PROVE FATAL TO MINGO PAINTER

section where he resided all his life. Since the death of his wife, Violet, nee Weaver, three years ago he lived in the Morrow home. He was a member of Parkerford Brethren Church.

In addition to his father, Sylvanus S. Tyson, Trappe, he is survived by a son, Harrison Tyson, Jr., Parkerford; a daughter, Mrs. John Sites, Royersford R. D. 1, and two brothers, Josiah, Phoenixville, and Sylvanus, Pottstown.

Tyson was in the first floor room he used as a kitchen and living room in the Morrow home, they said. A three-burner oil stove, used for heating and cooking purposes, had two burners lighted when Morrow went to Tyson's assistance.

A broken alarm clock on a shelf above the stove led authorities to believe Tyson's clothing may have caught fire as he reached over the stove to pick up the time-piece.

Whether flames caught Tyson's sweater when he first stretched over the stove for the clock causing him to drop it or whether they started as he restored the broken timepiece to the shelf puzzled authorities.

The room was not damaged by the fire other than scorch marks on the floor, they said.

Funeral services were held Wednesday afternoon from a Royersford funeral home. Interment was in Lower Hill cemetery.

He said, "Nothing can save the Europe of today. Revolutions, destructions, famine and chaos are a fatal reward for the blind hatreds and prejudices of Europe. Because of that, Americans should go over again; but not with bullets and bombs, as we have done once before. This time we should go over with bread in one hand and the doctrines of Christian democracy in the other.

"When Europe realizes the failure of human wisdom, of secret diplomacy, of nationalism and greed, we should be there to teach them how to give our God-given democracy a chance. "The American nation is called upon by God to change the history of the world. But an indifferent, half-hearted, and self-centered American nation cannot do this."

Rev. Kovacs also favored the audience with a number of folk songs in the native European dialect.

Rev. Kovacs was born in Hungary in 1910 and started his education in that country and then came to the United States where he continued his education for the ministry at the Theological Seminary of the Reformed Church at Lancaster and later at the Yale School of Divinity. He completed a musical education in this country. Later he traveled and worked in central Europe and the Balkan countries so that he is ideally equipped by residence and work there to draw a complete picture of the Balkan situation.

Mr. Smillie and the Bar

The selection of a committee by the Montgomery County Bar to look after the lawyers' interests in the authorization of a second judge for the Montgomery Orphans' Court and the subsequent appointment will be accepted as an indication that there is opposition inside the bar to Peters-Smillie plan to railroad the District Attorney into the new judgeship. Gov. James wants to put thousands more of the State employees under the Civil Service. Theoretically, this sounds good but in actual practice Civil Service, like Teacher Tenure, often is the sole reliance of incompetents to hang on to lifetime soft snaps from which they "can't be fired" for anything short of murder.
