Council Approves Paving, Reviews Spending

Seen & Heard Around Murray

"The Test: The test of a man is the fight he makes; the grit that he daily shows; the way he stands on his feet and takes Fate's numerous bumps and blows. A coward can smile when there is naught to fear; when nothing his progress bars; but it takes a man to stand up and cheer when some other fellow stars. It's the knocks that you take and the jolts you get, the shock that your courage stands; the hour of sorrow and regret, the prize that escaped your hands—these test your mettle and prove your worth. It isn't the blows that you deal, but the blows you take on this good old earth, that show if your stuff is real!".....Anonymous

The occasion: The French Revolution.
Three more men were about to meet Madame Guillotine: an English nobleman, a French aristocrat and Sam Stoopid's great-great grandfather.
The Englishman put his head on the block and exclaimed: "Long live the King!"
The knife descended, but stopped a few inches from the man's neck.
"Set him free!" said the man in charge of the executions.
The Frenchman was next: "Vive la France!"
Again the big blade descended, then caught.
"Set him free!"
Then Sam's ancestor was next. He motioned to the executioner, then said: "I think if you'll put a little oil up there, and tighten that loose screw, the thing will work better this time!"

"Wouldn't it be nice to be as sure of anything as some people are of everything?"

"Nothing is easier than fault-finding; no talent, no self-denial, no brains, no character are required to set up in the grumbling business".....Robert West

Ben Franklin wrote his own epiaph as follows: "The body of Benjamin Franklin printer, (like the cover of an old book, its contents work out, and strip of its lettering and gilding) lies here, food for worms. Yet the work shall not be lost, for it will, as he believed, appear once more in a new and more beautiful edition corrected and amended by its Author."

Good to see Jack Bryan the other morning. Our paths have not crossed in some months for some reason or other.

Democratic Women's Club To Meet Monday

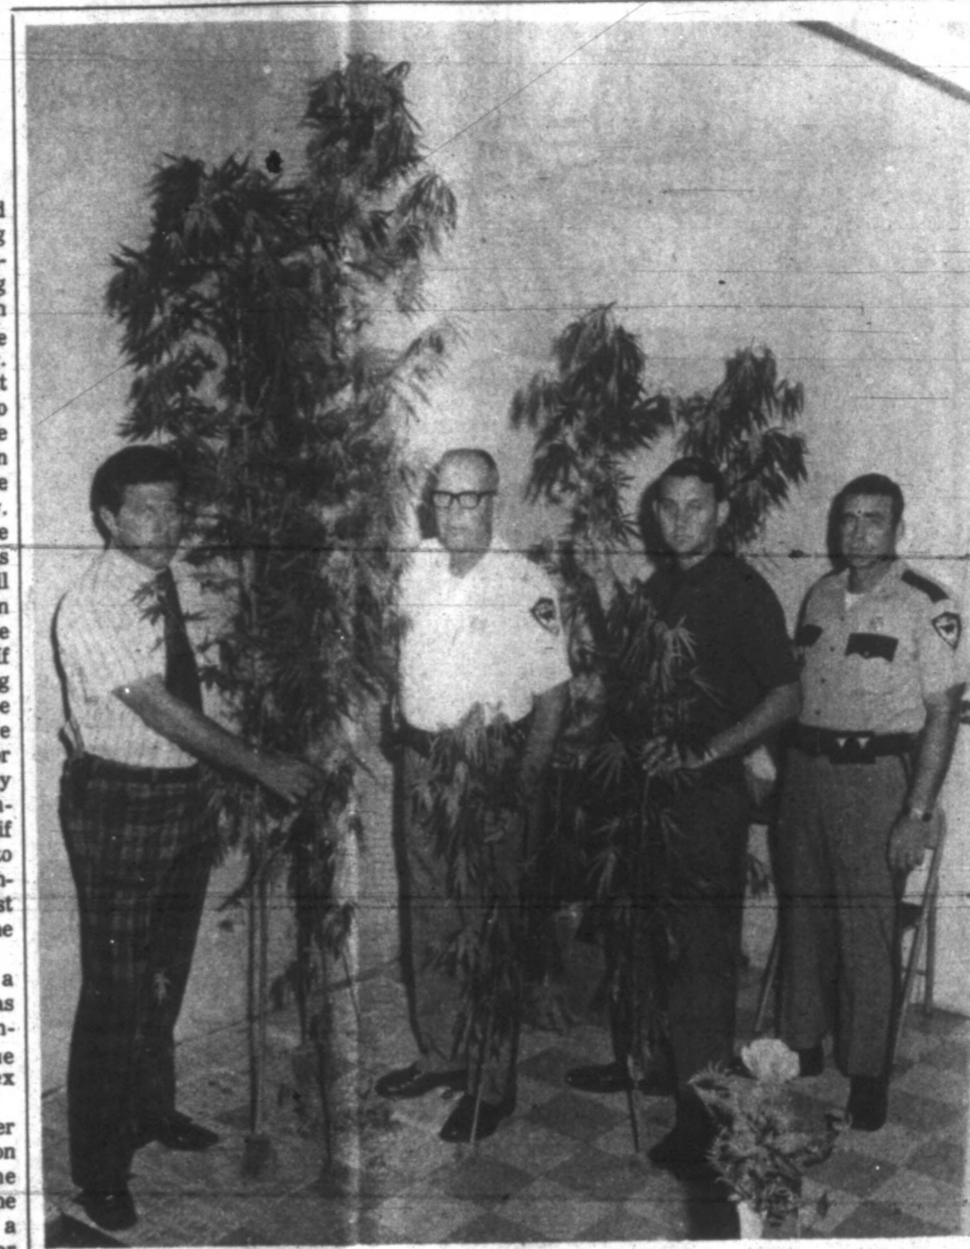

The Calloway County Democratic Women's Club will have its first official meeting at the Court Room in the Calloway County Court House on Monday, August 27, at eight p.m.
Marvin Harris, Calloway County Court Clerk, will be the speaker regarding the re-registration of all voters by September 25 to be able to vote in the General Election in November.
Mrs. Melvin Henley, president, urges all interested women to attend the meeting.

The Weather

Considerable cloudiness and little temperature change today through Saturday. A slight chance of a few showers today. Highs today and tomorrow in the mid 80s, and lows tonight around 70.
Partly cloudy warm days and fair mild nights Sunday through Tuesday. Daily highs in the 80s and lows in the 60s.

Ordinance of Intent To Annex Area To Be Drawn

Bids were opened last night at the Murray City Council for the street paving project which will begin in the immediate future.
The Asphalt Paving Company of Paducah was the low bidder on the approximately $80,000 project. Two bids each were received from the four bidders, one for the widening of the radii at certain intersections along Twelfth Street under the Municipal Aid Program of the state and the other bid was for regular paving or repaving of city streets. Asphalt Paving Company bid $11.50 per ton on each of the two types of paving.
Other bidders and their bids were John Woodruff $13.75 per ton on the radii and $12.00 on the remainder of the paving; M & H Construction $12.80 per ton and $11.80 per ton; Juiwier Paving Company $12.75 per ton and $11.75 per ton.
Streets set for repaving, according to Councilman Prentice Lassiter are as follows:
North 14th from Olive to Payne; North 18th from 121 Bypass to College Farm Road; Lincoln Avenue from North 18th to Oakdale Drive; Johnson Blvd. from South 16th to the Dr. Outland Office; Parklane Drive from South 16th to Glendale Road; Kirkwood Drive from Glendale to south end of Belmont; Canterbury Drive; Circarama Drive from South 12th to Glendale Road; Pogge street from South 11th to South 12th; Story Avenue from South 12th to Meadow Lane; Keenland Drive from Richland to 500 feet west of 17th; Catalina from Parkland to 16th; Belmont from South 16th to Melrose; Old Concord Road from South 2nd to Railroad.
Two ordinances were passed, one having to do with rules and regulations concerning operation of the Fire Department and the other amending the zoning ordinance which concerns trailers, mobile homes, recreation vehicle, etc.
Councilman John Ed Scott presented a recommendation to the city council from the Murray Planning Commission to annex a large section on the north and west side of the city. This area extends north to the Utterback Road and includes Captain's Kitchen. The council accepted the recommendation and ordered that an ordinance of intent to annex be drawn. If passed on the second reading the ordinance will then be published for ten consecutive days and it will then lie over for thirty days for any action by those opposed to the annexation. Normal procedure, if successful, is for the council to then pass an ordinance of annexation. This ordinance must be passed two times before the area is actually annexed.
One person who owns a business in the new area was present to protest the annexation, however the recommendation to annex approved unanimously.
Councilman Rex Alexander asked that no action be taken on the park situation at the meeting. He indicated that the Park Committee would make a recommendation at a later date. The Fiscal Court, in a recent meeting, approved the purchase of the Ryan property on the north side of the city as a site for the joint city-county park.
Councilman Roy Starks noted to the council that James C. Williams, editor and publisher

MARIJUANA CONFISCATED—Four officers of the Murray Police Department yesterday confiscated eight stalks of marijuana that were growing at a local residence. The stalks, varying in height from 5 feet to 12 feet, were "being cultivated" a spokesman for the police department said. Police this morning arrested Mark Tinsley, who lived at the residence at 410 N. 8th Street, on a warrant charging him with manufacture (production and propagation) of marijuana. Tinsley, 20, faces as possible fine of $500 and a one year sentence in the county jail on the charges. An arraignment date on the charges will be set by Calloway County Judge Robert O. Miller. The officers shown with the marijuana are, left to right, Sgt. Dale Spann, Chief James Brown, Captain Martin Wells and officer Harold Osborne. (Staff Photo by Gene McCutcheon)

Starks Reports Current Spending Rate Will Put City In Red By $25,000

Councilman Roy Starks last night reviewed the financial status of the city to the City Council and pointed out that if spending is continued at its present rate, the city will be "in the red" $25,000 by the end of the year.
Starks told the council that through June 30 of this year a total of $349,602 had been collected from various sources while thus far $442,714 had been expended.
According to the budget there remains $445,499 to be collected for the last half of the year. The squeeze comes on the expenditure side, he continued, since, if the city continues to expend money at the same rate it did the first six months, $471,264 will be needed.
He told the council that the only way the city can avoid a deficit of $25,000 is to trim department spending as much as possible the latter half of the year. The only other way for the city to avoid this deficit is for revenues to exceed what is anticipated by about $25,000.
Over half of the anticipated revenue from several sources was received by June 30. An exception is the property and franchise tax. By June 30 only $11,885 was received from this source and the budget calls for receipts of over $300,000 in the last half of the year.

On the expenditure side however, over half of the expenses show up in the last half of the year. The Fire Department, for instance, cost the city $85,975 the first half of the year and is expected to cost $87,803 the second half. Other expenses are borderline or nearly equally divided between the first and last half of the year.
From an accumulative standpoint, however, over the last six months of the year, the next expenses over the net anticipated income amounts to about $25,000.
Councilman Starks said that he thought with careful spending by all the departments, the city may end up about even.

Judge Robert O. Miller Is Speaker At MHS Grid Banquet

"To win them all, we have to beat Reidland, so we might as well win the first one," Judge Robert O. Miller told a large audience at the Murray High School football banquet Thursday night.
"All we expect you to do is win every game you play," Miller said. He called for a total commitment from the players and cheerleaders.
The banquet was held by a group of supporters for the Murray High football team and cheerleaders, and ended up with a number of parents and interested persons attending the dinner, held by Ty Holland Stadium.
New head football coach John Hina introduced his players and coaching staff, which includes Bobby Toon, Mark Brady, Jerry Morris, Jimmy Harrell, Clayton Hargrove, Dub Russell and Haron West.
In speaking to the crowd, Hina told the supporters that if the players "give me 100 per cent, we'll go all the way."

Sponsors for the dinner were Murray Federal Savings and Loan, Burger Queen, Captains Kitchen, Boone Laundry, Ryan Milk, Pepsi-Cola Bottling Co., Don Henry State Farm, Colonial Bakery, Bank of Murray, Peoples Bank, Dairy Queen and National Lumber.

Astronauts Step Out On Space Walk To Change Telescope Film

SPACE CENTER, Houston (AP) — Two Skylab 2 astronauts stepped outside their orbiting space station today to change solar telescope film and install a new "six pack" of gyroscopes to keep their ship on an even keel.
Bundled in bulky spacesuits attached to 60-foot lifelines, Dr. Owen K. Garriott and Jack R. Louasma exited the laboratory at 12:24 p.m. EDT, 270 miles above the South Atlantic Ocean.
Skylab 2's commander, Alan L. Bean, remained inside, ready to control the spacecraft on the remote chance something went wrong during the gyroscope installation. The gyros keep the vehicle from tumbling out of control.
Just before the pair went out, capsule communicator Bruce McCandless told them jokingly: "On the way out don't forget to turn off the lights and air conditioning and to close the door."
Louasma, a muscular Marine major, moved first into the harsh vacuum of space to hook up the 23-foot-long gyroscope cable at four connector points. Garriott, a solar physicist, stood near the open hatch to feed the cable to him.
"I can do the job with no problem," Louasma reported.
Later during the scheduled four-hour excursion, Garriott was to mount a ladder to change film in eight solar telescopes which the astronauts use to observe and photograph the sun.
Because of the orbital path of the space station today, they were to be out of radio contact for long periods during the

State Senators Blast Anti-Cigarette Move

WASHINGTON (AP) — A federal official's proposal to ban cigarettes under the Hazardous Substances Act has brought angry denunciations from both of Kentucky's U.S. Senators, and a call for the official's dismissal by Sen. Marlow Cook.
The blasts were prompted by a statement Wednesday by Richard O. Simpson, chairman of the Federal Consumer Product Safety Commission, that he is prepared to seek a ban on all or some cigarettes on public health grounds.
Simpson, a Republican appointed by President Nixon, maintained that the commission has power to invoke such a prohibition on some brands if an examination confirms findings of the surgeon general on the hazards of cigarette smoking.
Cook, also a Republican, called the remarks "unconscionable" and asked for the immediate dismissal of Simpson by the President.
Sen. Walter Huddleston, D-Elizabethtown, "deplored" Simpson's comments and expressed concern about them. Both senators contended that the Hazardous Substances Act was not meant to apply to tobacco.
Tobacco is specifically exempted from the commission's regulation under terms of the Consumer Product Safety Act, which created the commission last year. Simpson says he is waiting for a possible petition from the staff of Sen. Frank Moss, D-Utah, that would ask the commission to set standards for tar and nicotine in cigarettes.
He added that he thinks his agency has power even without such a petition to prohibit cigarette sales. Cook, a member of the Senate Commerce Committee on which Moss serves, referred to Moss in his telegram of protest to President Nixon. He said Simpson is a "handmaiden" of "radicals" in Congress, including Moss.
The Kentuckian described Moss, a long-time opponent of cigarette smoking, as "a sworn enemy of the people of my state...." Cook termed Simpson's remarks the most "unconscionable" he had heard from a public official "in all my years in public office."

Ricky Stone Still Patient At Memphis

Ricky Stone, son of Mr. and Mrs. Chester Stone of Kirksey Route One, remains in satisfactory condition at the Baptist Memorial Hospital, Memphis, Tenn.
Stone, age 15, sophomore at Calloway County High School, received a severe injury to his right leg in a motorcycle accident Tuesday about 3:45 p.m. on Highway 299.
The Calloway youth is in Room 813 of the Baptist Memorial Hospital, Memphis, Tenn., and friends and relatives may send him cards and letters there. He will probably be there for about seven weeks.

'The Whole Story'

Since the First Amendment to the Constitution forbids government from restraining the publication of news, it clearly follows that the government is equally powerless to compel the publication of news or opinion.

Yet the Florida Supreme Court recently ruled that a newspaper—specifically the Miami Herald, which is appealing the case to the U.S. Supreme Court—can be forced to print replies from political candidates it criticizes.

In their majority opinion, six of the Florida court's seven members argued that the state's "right of reply" statute, long regarded as obsolete and unenforceable, "supports freedom of the press in its true meaning—that is, the right of the reader to the whole story, rather than half of it."

It's an argument which sounds convincing enough, but there's a "catch" to it: Who decides when "the whole story" has been told?

The government? There's a name for a political system where the government becomes the arbiter of what is and isn't news. It's called "tyranny."—Huntington (W.Va.) Herald-Dispatch.

Economy Move

The administration has announced that about $10 million in federal funds has been spent in the past 4½ years on President Nixon's homes at San Clemente and Key Biscayne. The money was spent, officials said, for security and communications installations.

What a happy circumstance it is that Mr. Nixon was elected for a second term. Just think, if Sen. McGovern, had won, we would have had to spend that much—or more on two or three homes for President McGovern.

The British, though, have an even better idea. They scatter palaces around their islands that last for centuries and centuries as reigning monarchs come and go.—Gainesville (Ga.) Times.

Isn't It The Truth!

by Carl Riblet Jr.

Who can say that he doesn't fear for his peace of mind in these pricing times when greed is on the loose and the consumer, too, wishes he could fork a little of it on to his plate; meantime aware that the only thing standing between him and his deprived appetite is a tightened belt and the belt had better not be edible if he wants to hold his pants up.

Sidewalk Comments By Pavement Plato

By HAL BOYLE
 NEW YORK (AP) — Sidewalk comments by the Pavement Plato:

Faith makes the world go round.

But disbelief plays a big role in it, too.

If you blindly accept as true everything you hear and everything you think you see, you'll go through life as numbly and dumbly as a blind pony in a coal pit.

Education begins with doubting and questioning. But you have started to grow up if you view with misgivings and suspicion any such familiar remarks as:

"Two can live as cheap as one."

"We really lose money at this price. The only way we make it up is by volume."

"You always get what you pay for."

"I wouldn't marry you if you were the last man on earth."

"If it was loaded, do you think I'd keep it there on the shelf where the kids could get at it?"

"Nothing can make the human hair grow back overnight, but if you use a bottle of this tonic a week for six months, you'll be amazed at the difference it makes."

"Your cat will love the first taste of this new canned product, and after that you'll never be able to give her enough of it."

"Close your eyes, and I'll give you something nice."

"I would never expect a fiance of mine to give me a bigger engagement ring than he could really afford. Girls who do that are simply too gross for words."

"You don't mind if I turn out those bright lamps, do you? I'm still suffering from the shell glare I got in the last war."

"Don't worry. All I want to do is put my arm around you. There isn't anything wrong in that, is there?"

"If this stock doesn't double in value in three months, I'll go back to peddling shoelaces."

"Put $20 on this jockey. He won the last three times out, and it stands to reason that he'll make it four in a row."

"You don't think I'm the kind of guy who would try to take advantage of a nice, sweet girl like you, do you?"

"I know some girls pretend they don't want to get married when they really do want to, but I'm not at all sure I want to rush into anything I'd expect to be so lasting. After all, why should I be in a hurry? I'm only 29."

"I don't think I'd want my wife to go on working after we got married — only if she really wanted to."

"With the advantage of this fine new 39-volume encyclopedia in your home, your child's school grades will pick up immediately."

"If elected, I'll take steps to put this platform into effect the very day I'm sworn into office."

"Not here, Grace. Let's spread the blanket beyond those bushes over there. It looks lots cozier."

Yes, if you make it a habit to take things with two grains of salt instead of one, you'll avert twice as many disasters.

Old Photographs Needed For Restoration Of Old Capitol

FRANKFORT, Ky.—To restore the interior of the Old State Capitol as authentically as possible, 19th century photographs of the building are needed to discover how the rooms were furnished, according to William Barrow Floyd, curator of the Old State Capitol.

Floyd is looking for 19th century daguerreotypes, photographs, drawings, paintings and illustrations of the interior of the Old Capitol.

"There's a chance that someone in Kentucky will have some old photographs of the inside of the Capitol—and that someone is all I need," said Floyd, emphasizing that he is trying to be as accurate as possible in acquiring authentic furnishings for the building. The oldest photograph in his possession was taken in 1908 in the House of Representatives.

Floyd said he would like to borrow any photographs of the Old Capitol taken between 1830 and 1908 "so we can have them copied."

"We need pictures of the House of Representatives and the Senate," Floyd said. We are particularly anxious to get pictures of the Senate."

Floyd said he is also interested in obtaining 19th century photographs of the exterior of the Old Capitol and other buildings near it "for the record."

Early pictures of the fountain in front of the Old Capitol are needed, Floyd said, as well as records, notes, inventories listing the contents of the Old Capitol between 1830 and 1908.

"State government was very informal in those days, and there was no inventory of the possessions," Floyd explained.

Photographs may be loaned by writing to Floyd at P.O. Box 791, Frankfort, Kentucky.

THE FAMILY LAWYER

Women Bartenders?

Do women have a constitutional right to be bartenders? Until the last few years, courts have steadfastly said no. Laws against women bartenders, when challenged as discriminatory, were upheld on two main grounds:

1) that their presence would encourage immorality in a place "where the worst passions are aroused," and

2) that they could not keep the peace as effectively as men bartenders.

But in several recent cases, courts have taken a fresh look at the question and come up with the opposite answer. Immorality is no more encouraged, said one court, by a woman behind the bar than by waitresses out front serving cocktails.

As for keeping the peace, another court had this comment: "The saloon days of the Wild West are long gone. Nowadays the typical bar does not provide a setting for violence and danger, if in fact it ever did."

For good measure, the court added:

"Women are as capable of mixing drinks as men."

Less innocuous activities, however, may still be subject to restraint. Another case involved a city ordinance forbidding the use of "B girls"—women hired by the management to solicit drinks from male customers. A tavern owner claimed that his women employees were being deprived of their freedom of speech and assembly.

"Their freedom of speech," he reasoned, "includes the right to talk to customers and their freedom of assembly includes the right to mingle with customers."

But a court said the rights of speech and assembly, while guaranteed in general by the Constitution, may be limited in specific situations for specific reasons. Noting the city's power to discourage drinking, the court said:

"If the regulation curtails freedom in some slight degree, the limitation is not unconstitutional. These rights are not absolute."

When Princeton and Rutgers played the first American football game in 1869, some Princetonians roared, "Siss, boom, bah." The shout derived from the rocket yell of New York's 7th Regiment which had passed through the Princeton campus during the Civil War, and left a lasting impression.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Dear Editor:

I have lived in Murray for one year and have been consistently reading the Ledger and Times as my daily news source. Although it is a generally mediocre publication, there is one redeeming feature. I am absolutely crazy about the Siamese twins that write the "Seen and Heard in Murray" column. Their little tidbits of wisdom about various subjects are charming.

I think it is very commendable of your paper to not have any prejudice in employing people with such a physical deformity. Many employers would find such a situation embarrassing. But it is so refreshing for me to read, in these times of world strife, of two people who carry on their life as if they indeed were not afflicted with such a terrible malady. Because they are compelled to live in a state of constant togetherness, it is wonderful that they can share their life with your readers and not be ashamed.

I especially enjoyed the little vignette in the August 17 issue describing their many troubles in following their wife's diet—which failed.

Such silly people. But it was so funny. Keep up the good work.

However, I am curious about one thing. Do they have one wife or two? I realize that today's morals are more relaxed than ever, but wouldn't it be a bit awkward if two women were involved in such a marriage. Although they are too separate entities (intellectually speaking) they are not biologically separate (due to the nature of their defect) and this (two wives) would create a very undesirable situation in such a conservative town as Murray.

Thank you for taking time to read this letter, it has been a pleasure writing it.

Sincerely,
 D.K. Anderson

Dear Editor:

This letter has a two-fold purpose: (1) to thank our contributors, and (2) to relay to the general public the needs of the Kentucky Department of Child Welfare of Calloway County.

As a representative of the Kentucky Department of Child Welfare of Calloway County, I wish to thank the following for their cooperation and contributions to us in helping our children: the sales ladies at The Place, Lad & Lassie, Adams Shoe Store, and Roberts Realty; the Optimist Club, the Xi, Alpha Delta of Beta Sigma Phi Sorority, the ladies of the University Church of Christ and the Goodfellowship Class of Cherry-Corner Baptist Church.

The Department of Child Welfare is a state agency whose primary function is being an advocate of children. As in any organization or business, we face a problem with a shortage of money. Many times when money is needed for a child our allowance simply falls short of the cost. We must provide what is essential in some way. You (The Public) must be our way.

Too often civic organizations, churches, and individuals provide food baskets at Christmas time and forget the needs of their fellow man the other eleven months of the year. The dependent children of Calloway County should not be made to suffer because they have become victims of circumstances which they cannot control.

I, therefore, wish to urge, beg or implore the more fortunate citizens of Murray and Calloway County to take care of their less fortunate community members before they send their contributions elsewhere.

Should not charity begin at home?

It is true if one is not faced with the problem first hand, then he can shut his mind and not think about it. If you are willing to keep your eyes open, and help those who are less fortunate, please call me at Child Welfare (753-5382). Your contributions will gladly be accepted.

I would appreciate having a list of our local merchants who would be willing to donate or give a discount to our department on their merchandise. Also, if any civic organization, church, or individual wishes to help us in helping children, please notify our department.

Some of the items we often are in need of are: money, clothing, school supplies, canned food, cereal, linens (bed and bath), cleaning supplies ( mops, brooms, soap, detergent, etc) light bulbs, fly spray, small appliances, bedspreads, and drapes. If you as an organization, church or individual will help, please contact me so I can make a list of resources which can be called when needed.

The phone number is 753-5382 — Kentucky Department of Child Welfare of Calloway County.

Dear Jim:

This is the best way I know to thank those who aided the M.S.U. Choir on their recent European trip. There are many people whose names are too numerous to mention here but I must say a special "Thank You" to you. You gave the M.S.U. Choir a full page "spread" and when I went in to thank you, you also presented the choir with one of the largest cash gifts we received. This certainly was far beyond the call of duty. So many of the successes at M.S.U. have had your name attached to it in some way.

Let me tell you a little of the experiences the choir and I had. In Prague, Czech., the M.S.U. Choir presented a joint concert with the KRIZKOVSKY CHOR, a famous Male Chorus with an 80 year history of concerts. Since 1924 they have toured many of the countries of Europe, Asia, and Africa. This choir showered the M.S.U.

Choir with flowers, ribbons, japel pins, and a gracious party after the concert. During the party, their director JERI VALA said to me, "I don't envy you, your country, your music or your money,—but I do envy your fine young people." What a marvelous thing to say about the M.S.U. students.

In Sursee, Switzerland, where the M.S.U. Choir helped dedicate a new high school, the head master said "We certainly didn't expect your students to be the way they are". When I questioned him concerning his statement, I found that they expected more of the university type student which get much attention in our news media.

They were very pleased with the Murray Students; and our choir members along with their high school students, had a "sing-fest" after the concert in the school cafeteria.

The choir sang in a 16th Century Cathedral in Vienna, the famous "Mozartium" in Salzburg, the Memorial Church in Berlin, a 16th Century Concert Hall in Rothenburg, the high school in Sursee, and a 16th Century Church in Hall, Austria.

Jim, I want to thank you for all you have meant to the City of Murray, The University, and especially the Choir. The Ledger and Times will miss you — I know the M.S.U. Choir will miss you for you have always been most kind and fair to our group.

Thanks a million.
 Sincerely yours,
 Robert K. Baar

Poetically Speaking

BY TOM PERKINS

Adam loved Eve
 But she was a talker
 In laymen's terms
 She was a squawker.

Among her faults
 (and she had many)
 Was not being satisfied
 With a bountiful plenty.

From Eden forward
 Together they roam
 Leaving shortly after
 Eve ate them out of home.

Still Adam loved Eve
 Who talked enough to baffle
 (even when she)
 Got them both in trouble
 With her Adam's apple.

Thank-you, Lord
 How soon our visit ended,
 What little time it seemed,
 But I'm thankful for those moments,

And all the people I've seen.
 You are all do dear to me,
 And you've answered my every need,
 With your-kind-and-loving-words.
 And your wonderful and thoughtful deeds.

I know there will be other visits
 In the summers that will come.
 And the parting will always be so hard,
 And the tears will start to run.

It doesn't matter where we are.
 Very near or far away,
 For our prayers will always be heard
 Each time we kneel to pray.

And in my prayers I'll ask the Lord
 To give you wisdom and strength
 And he'll always answer
 in a comforting way
 when we feel lost and weak.

So thank-you Lord for these dear homes,
 And the ones that dwell there in,

And thank-you Lord, That you have given us
 This dear and wonderful Kin.

Miss Laura Dene Sills Exchanges Wedding Vows With Mark Paschall In Ceremony At The Sinking Spring Baptist Church

Mr. and Mrs. Mark Paschall

The sanctuary of the Sinking Spring Baptist Church was the setting for the wedding of Miss Laura Dene Sills, daughter of Rev. and Mrs. Terry M. Sills, to Mark Paschall, son of Mr. and Mrs. Billy M. Paschall.

Rev. Sills, father of the bride, officiated at the double ring ceremony read at six-thirty o'clock in the evening on Friday, August 3.

The altar of the church was decorated with a white wrought iron arch flanked by candelabra and baskets of mums, gladioli, and carnations in various colors. The family pews were marked with white satin bows.

Mrs. Jim Neale, organist, presented a program of nuptial music including the traditional wedding marches and accompanied the soloist, Mrs. Larry Harrison, as she sang "Whither Thou Goest" and "Oh Promise Me."

The bride, escorted to the altar by her father and given in marriage by her parents, was lovely in her wedding gown of bridal satin under chantilly lace. The dress was fashioned with an empire waistline accented with a white satin bow in the front. Her Mantilla veil was accented with chantilly lace.

Her only jewelry was a diamond pendant, gift of the groom. She carried a bridal bouquet of white carnations and mums with blue ribbons.

Miss Terri Lynn Sills, sister of the bride, was the maid of honor, and Miss Hazel Carson was the bridesmaid.

They wore floor length dresses of blue and white knit accented with blue velvet bows, and their headpieces were of mums. Both attendants carried bouquet of mums and carnations.

Terry Orr served as best man for Mr. Paschall. Groomsman and ushers were Danny Morton and Steve Sills, brother of the bride.

For her daughter's wedding the bride's mother wore a long mint green dress, while the groom's mother was attired in a long blue dress. They each wore corsages of white mums.

Mr. and Mrs. Douglas Van Dyke of Puryear, Tenn., and Mr. and Mrs. Terry L. Sills of Benton, grandparents of the bride, and Mrs. Clara Paschall of Murray, grandmother of the groom, were present for the wedding. The grandmothers had corsages of white carnations. Mrs. Jerry Lee, cousin of the bride, kept the register at the church.

Reception After the ceremony the reception was held in the fellowship hall of the church. The bride's table covered with a blue and white cloth was centered with a lovely arrangement of carnations, gladioli, and mums. The three-tiered wedding cake was topped with a bride and groom statuette which had been on the cake at her parents' wedding on July 5, 1953. Assisting in serving the cake,

Dear Abby Bushy toupee covers up the man she loves By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: I am serious about a young man I've been dating for nearly a year. Since we've been dating he has been slowly losing his hair. He is far from bald, Abby. His hairline is receding a little, and he's getting a bit thin on top, but he certainly doesn't give the impression of being bald. I knew he was rather self-conscious about it, but I never realized how much until last evening when he showed up in a full toupee! I nearly fell over.

It is so full and unnatural looking it looks ridiculous. He thinks it looks great, and it has given him so much confidence, I hate to tell him the truth. But I want the old HIM back. What should I do? MISSING HIM

DEAR MISSING: I don't care if a man wears a rug he can fly to Baghdad on, if HE thinks it looks great and it has restored his confidence, keep quiet. In time, you might suggest he have it "trimmed" a bit—or replaced with a more natural-looking one. But for the moment, don't undermine his confidence.

DEAR ABBY: Something bothers me. Whenever I clean out my closets and drawers I have a lot of clothes, shoes, purses, and lingerie I want to discard because I know I'll never wear them again, but I honestly don't know what to do with them. I hate to throw them away so I just pack them in boxes and store them in the attic. Most things are good as new. Some I hardly wore—they are "mistakes" I made by buying them.

I don't want to offer them to friends, relatives, or neighbors because I don't want them to think I think they are "in need." I don't recommend Goodwill or The Salvation Army. I want to give my things away on a more personal basis. I'd like to hand them over to the people who can use them so I will feel that I have been personally charitable. Can you help me? THINGS TO GIVE

DEAR THINGS: You don't say how old you are, or what size you are, but every church auxiliary is aware of "needy" families who could use whatever you have to give. [So is your local County Welfare Department.] Trust their judgment to give your things "directly" to needy people, and forego the satisfaction of personally handing it to one who is in need. [Accepting things can be humiliating.]

DEAR ABBY: I am doing time in Napanoch, N. Y. Finally I have been granted permission to write you! It took a year and a change to another facility to do it. This letter is typewritten. I learned to type in prison. Besides this, I have learned that I am not the only one in my little world who wants a better life for himself. But some inmates are not yet awake to the fact that even in the worst of prisons there are programs for education and improvement for those who want them. I have been in the worst of prisons, and I found that as long as I behaved myself and respected the rules, I was fairly treated.

Much to my amazement, I got less respect from some of my fellow inmates! These are the same guys who spoke of getting it together and being concerned for one another. Some who called for brotherhood, and being treated like men—not animals, forgot what being a man was when it came to riots—and I've been in several. I never was responsible for any of the uprisings in prisons, but I do know that most of them are lead into a blank wall!

There is an old saying: "If you can't do the time, don't do the crime!" GOT IT TOGETHER IN NAPANOCH Problem? You'll feel better if you get it off your chest. For a personal reply, write to ABBY: Box No. 60706, L. A., Calif. 90069. Enclose stamped, self-addressed envelope, please.

Hate to write letters? Send $1 to Abby, Box 60706, Los Angeles, Cal. 90069, for Abby's booklet, "How to Write Letters for All Occasions."

Miss Pamela Kay Hulsey Becomes Bride Of Larry Wayne Moore In Lovely Ceremony At The Madison, Tenn., Church of Christ

Mrs. Larry Wayne Moore

Miss Pamela Kay Hulsey and Larry Wayne Moore were married on Saturday, July 28, at eight o'clock in the evening in the Bixler Chapel at Madison, Tenn., Church of Christ with James Vandiver, minister of the Hendersonville Church of Christ, officiating.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Bryan Hulsey of Hendersonville, Tenn., and the granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Lax of New Concord. The groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Moore, also of Hendersonville.

Bride's Dress Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a gown of silk organza with appliques of Alencon lace. The gown featured an empire waist with high collar and full sleeves with a ruffle at the wrist. The skirt ended with a ruffle forming the train. Her illusion veil fell from a headpiece of Alencon lace and pearls. She carried a bouquet of white roses, baby's breath and delphinium.

Mrs. Wayne Tallman served as matron of honor. Her attendants were Miss Connie Keeling and Miss Christie Hulsey, sister of the bride.

They wore identical dresses of blue voile with miniature yellow rosebuds. The dresses were fashioned with an empire waist, long full sleeves, and a wide ruffle at the hemline. The attendants carried baskets of yellow daisies and baby's breath.

SA Timothy E. Moore, stationed with the U.S. Navy aboard the USS Little Rock, served as his brother's best man. Ushers were Dan Mayberry, Mike Moss, Jeff Hulsey, brother of the bride, and Ray Moore, brother of the groom.

Reception Following the ceremony, the bride's parents entertained at a reception in the Fellowship Hall of the church.

Those serving at the reception were Miss Clara Reavis of Nashville, Miss Beverly Garner of Sparta, Tenn., Miss Brenda Stuart, Madison, Tenn., and Mrs. Andrea Moore of Hendersonville.

Miss Valerie Hurt of Huntsville, Alabama, kept the guest register. Mrs. Hulsey, mother of the bride, wore a floor length gown of pink floral organza with matching accessories. Her corsage was of pink cymbidium orchids.

Mrs. Moore, mother of the groom, wore a long dress of turquoise knit with full sheer sleeves. Her corsage was of yellow orchids.

After a wedding trip to Orlando, Florida, Mr. Moore and his bride will be living at the Villager East Apartments on Hillsboro Road. Mrs. Moore will be a junior at David Lipscomb College. Mr. Moore is employed at the First American National Bank and attends Volunteer State College.

Out-of-town guests for the wedding included Mrs. Lewis Hurt and daughters, Valerie and Jenny, of Huntsville, Alabama; Mr. and Mrs. Leslie Fetzter of Dickson, Tennessee; Mr. and Mrs. Bob Lax of Mayfield, Kentucky; Mr. and Mrs. David Bogard of Murray, Kentucky; Mrs. Willard Garner and daughter, Beverly, of Sparta, Tennessee.

Murray Members Attend B&PW Board Meeting

The Kentucky Business and Professional Women's Club held its summer board of directors meeting on Saturday and Sunday, August 18-19, at Lake Barkley State Park, Cadiz.

Miss Carolyn Key, State B&PW president, Hopkinsville, presided during the two day session. The Saturday morning session was devoted to Dynamics of Leadership - Motivation. Prof. Eugene Flood, Department of Management, Murray State University was the keynote speaker. The morning session continued with membership workshops.

The luncheon speaker was Miss Terri Lynn Martin, Miss Kentucky Teenager from Cadiz. Her topic was "What's Right About America," the speech she gave when she won the Miss Kentucky Teenager title. A Fashion Revue was held in conjunction with the luncheon, and the presentation of a $1000.00 scholarship by the Arthritis Foundation by Dr. James E. Letcher, executive director of the Kentucky Chapter.

Mrs. Dolly McNutt, Mayor of Paducah was introduced by Katherine Peden, past National President, and her topic was "Turn Concern Into Action."

Mrs. Treva Mathis from the Murray B&PW Club gave the Sunday morning devotion at the Lena Madelin Phillips Memorial Trail, which was dedicated last year and sponsored by the Kentucky BPW Clubs. The members took a mile hike before breakfast.

The Sunday morning session featured Miss Betty Hinz, past Kentucky B&PW Club president and presently National B&PW Club Program Chairman, and George A. Collins Jr., Vice President International Division Liberty National Bank, Louisville who spoke on "The International Arena of Business and Its Impact On You, The Woman."

Mrs. Opal Roberts from Murray and Director of District I was in charge of the door prizes. Music was by Steve Frazier and June Wiggins of Murray.

Other B&PW members attending from Murray Club were Mesdames Betty Riley, president Ruby Pool, Annie Shoemaker, Lucille Thurman, Jessie Shoenaker, Odell Vance, Agnes McDaniel, Mary Cromwell, Laura Jennings, Doris Rowland, Madell Talent, and Frances Whitnell.

OUTDOOR SUPPER Trout in Foil French Fries Salad Bowl Rolls Melon Wedges Beverage

TROUT IN FOIL Recipe may be increased. 2 (each about 1 1/2 pounds) fresh water trout Garlic powder White pepper 1/4 teaspoon dill weed 1/4 teaspoon salt 1 can (8 ounces) small whole white potatoes, drained and sliced 2 small onions, thinly sliced 3 teaspoons lemon juice 2 tablespoons margarine, cut in small pieces Lemon wedges.

Lightly rub inside of fish with garlic powder and pepper. Sprinkle inside of each fish with dill weed and salt; insert potato and onion slices. Drizzle lemon juice in each fish. Wrap each in a large piece of foil. Place over hot coals or bake in a preheated 425-degree oven for 30 minutes or until cooked through. Serve with lemon wedges. Makes 2 servings.

Save nutrients! When boiling vegetables, cook only until tender in order to insure the best flavor, color, texture, and food value. Overcooked vegetables not only look unattractive but have a marked loss of flavor and food value.

LET'S GO FISHING

By VIRGIL WARD
MUSKIE INVADES THE SOUTH

Muskellunge, long a game fish in the North, is now available in a few Southern and border states.

Tennessee and parts of Georgia, Kentucky and Missouri have some fine muskie streams and lakes. A few years ago Arkansas imported several thousand from Ohio. After three months in a nursery pond, they were turned loose in Lake Norfolk.

Look for muskie to continue to find water in the South and treat anglers to exciting fishing. Here are a few ways to identify this fighter.

His color varies from murky to a light brown, and he has an underslung lower jaw that gives him a menacing appearance. Muskies feed on shad, minnows, frogs, suckers, snakes and other small fish. He consumes a great deal of food. He lurks in the shadows of brush, rocks, lily pads or other shady areas and lets his food come to him.

He's a cool water fish and during the summer prefers to feed mostly at night. In hot weather he likes to move as little as possible, often hanging around underwater springs or water inlets.

The best seasons to fish for muskies are early spring and late fall. He seems to like water at about 55 degrees best; surface temperatures of 35 to 50 degrees usually send him into warmer water. If the water at the surface gets to around 80 degrees, he'll probably be in water from 25 to 40 feet deep.

Muskie finds a lair and then spends most of his life there. If you find a muskie and miss or lose him, go back to the same spot the next day. Chances are very good he will be there.

When you go after muskie use stout equipment such as the Johnson Sabra or 710. When you land him, keep your fingers away from his mouth. He has strong jaws and sharp teeth.

Dear Virgil,
I'd like to know if bass are as sensitive to water temperature change as other fish. Also, what water temperature do they prefer?

John Leffler
Alexandria, Virginia

Dear John,
Water temperature of 60 to 70 degrees seems to be most comfortable for bass. If you find them in cooler water, say around 40 degrees—they may be sluggish. That's why I recommend that bass fishermen have a temperature gauge or electronic thermometer of some sort.

You really shouldn't try to guess a water temperature. Knowing that the temperature is at different depths can tip you off to where the fish are. When you have located water near the 70 degree mark, be patient and fish it.

When you're out fishing on a hot day, look for muddy water or parts of a lake or cove that are shaded from the sun. The sun's rays often aren't as strong here. The upper water temperatures will be cooler and bass will more than likely stay near the surface.

Soviet Press Trying To Whitewash Incidents Marring Games At Moscow

By JAMES R. PEIPERT
Associated Press Writer
MOSCOW (AP) — The Soviet press is pulling out all stops to depict Moscow as a sportsman's paradise and to whitewash ugly incidents that have marred the World University Games.

Raucous and organized heckling of Israeli athletes, denial of visas to Israeli journalists and harassment of Soviet Jews who have tried to attend the games may have seriously damaged Moscow's bid to stage the 1980 Summer Olympics.

Some athletes, coaches and visiting newsmen have also grumbled about the prison-like security measures, inflexible bureaucracy, insufficient interpreters, inefficient reporting of results, shaky communications and uninspired food.

The U.S. delegation was particularly irate over the Cuban brawl which disrupted an American-Cuban basketball game Wednesday night and the very light admonishment given the Cubans by the Games' technical committee.

The committee chairman is Frank Hepp of Hungary, the man who headed the committee which voted against the American bid.

Awareness Of Wake Is A Courtesy

One of the prime boating courtesies is constant awareness of the wake your boat is making. This is sometimes a bit hard to do, for most of us spend so much of our time driving automobiles where the subject of wakes is nonexistent. Nevertheless, the Mercury outboard boating experts point out that a boat operator is legally responsible for any mischief his boat's wake may do.

Wakes show up most strongly and usually do the most mischief on the clam waters of channels, lagoons and mooring areas.

A rolling wake can upset persons standing on the decks of other boats, or cause spillage of food and beverages on the tables and stoves of anchored boats, or crash together tenders and rowboats clustered around docks. Wakes can upset workmen standing on rafts and floats, or chafe the sides of boats against docks, or erode shorelines and upset small children wading on beaches.

Today's powerboats almost always have planing hulls, with wide bottoms and sterns designed to lift onto the surface of the water and skim over it. When throttled down so they settle into the water, these hulls tend to make turbulent wakes.

So it's a wise idea for every powerboat skipper to go out on the water on a calm day and so some wake-watching. Starting from a standstill, increase speed gradually and observe the kind of wake your boat makes at various speeds. While running at the speed which seems to cause the biggest wake, come to a complete stop and watch how your wake tends to travel and travel, and what it does when it reaches other boats or the shoreline.

Many harbors have speed limits in the three to seven miles an hour range. These are often unrealistic. It is difficult to judge boat speed that accurately and disagreement is common between waterfront officers and boaters. And wavemaking characteristics of planing hulls are usually powerful at such speeds; even if you're within the speed limit your wake may still be shaking people up! So learn how much your boat has to be slowed down so it makes practically no wake, and use that speed when operating in locations where your wake could conceivably cause others annoyance or harm.

ARKANSAS VERSUS S. CALIF. AND UCLA FAYETTEVILLE, Ark. (AP) — University of Arkansas athletic teams will open this year's seasons against last year's best in both football and basketball.

The Razorbacks will play last year's National Champion, Southern California, in the football opener, Sept. 15, and then tackle UCLA in basketball in the opener Nov. 30.

Both games will be played in Los Angeles.

can protest in the controversial 51-50 basketball loss to the USSR in the Olympic Games at Munich.

If one reads only the controlled Soviet press, however, he would never know such incidents or disputes had occurred or would perhaps dismiss them as normal actions of spirited players, fans or officials.

Every day since well before the games opened Aug. 15, the Soviet media have carried glowing accounts of the "superlative" handling of the universe as "proof" of Moscow's ability to host the Olympics.

The press has quoted everyone from Lord Killanin, president of the International Olympic Committee, to newsmen, athletes and coaches, to a cook at Moscow State University, on the "excellent" facilities.

Some athletes and officials said they were misquoted in the Soviet press accounts or that the quotes were fabricated. Others have said they were pestered by Soviet journalists to deny unfavorable reports by western newsmen.

Some western journalists have complained of the "constant paranoia in the Soviet press" over any criticism, no matter how minor.

The latest attack on a foreign newsman came Thursday in the national youth newspaper, Komsomolskaya Pravda. It accused a British correspondent, James Coote of the Sunday Telegraph—of attending an Israeli basketball match Saturday only to make capital on the tired them of imaginary "persecution" of Jews in the Soviet Union.

Coote and other journalists had written that 60-100 Soviet Jews were barred from attending the game, even though they had tickets. Komsomolskaya Pravda called the report a "Sunday canard" and accused Coote of seeing everywhere "plainclothesmen, barriers, ushers and guardians of the public order."

The article carried the implied warning that foreign newsmen who write unfavorably about the University Games may have trouble getting visas to cover the Olympics if they are held in Moscow.

Will Grimsley, special correspondent of the Associated Press, was attacked in the newspapers Sovetskii Sport, Trud and Izvestia for writing about the loss of the American teams credentials applications and the emergency appendectomy on a U.S. gymnast.

While lacking credentials, part of the U.S. team was kept virtual prisoner in the Moscow State University compound, where all athletes are quartered, and had trouble getting meals.

The papers also took issue with the quote of the U.S. team doctor, who said medical facilities for the appendectomy "are not exactly what we are accustomed to back in the states," but the quote was attributed to Grimsley, not the doctor, in the Soviet Press.

U.S. To Meet Russians In University Matches

By GEOFFREY MILLER
Associated Press Sports Writer
MOSCOW (AP) — The American basketball team has revenge on its side and the Russians have the home court advantage, but who has more talent won't be known until today when the two undefeated squads meet in the final of the World University Games tournament.

The game revives the rivalry between the two teams which hit an all-time peak in the Munich Olympics when the Russians handed the U.S. its first basketball defeat ever by one point in a controversial finish.

"I have been waiting for one full year to get at the Russians and now it is here," said towering Tom Burleson of North Carolina State, the only member of the ill-fated Munich team who is here.

"I am sure we are going to win this time," added Burleson who saw officials give the Russians two extra chances to win the Olympic final while the game's final seconds appeared to have run out. "We have a much better team."

The Russians have six Olympic stars on their team, including four who were starters at Munich.

Although neither team has lost on its way to today's meeting, the Americans have taken a more difficult road. After defeating the Cubans in a game marred by a bottlethrowing attack against them, the Americans just managed to beat Brazil 66-60.

"We had the game with the Cubans hanging on us," said U.S. Coach Ed Badger after the victory over Brazil. "I am sure the boys will be in perfect condition for the final. The game with the Brazilians has put our minds on the Russians."

"We are down to where it counts now."

Meanwhile, the American swimmers are dominating the closing days of the World University Games.

The U.S. four clocked 3:28.61 to edge the Russians in an exciting finish. That is a mere 2.2 seconds off the world mark.

David Johnson of San Diego won the men's 100 meters backstroke in 59.9. Ann Simmons of Long Beach, Calif., took the gold medal in the women's 400 meters freestyle in 4:28.8, with Jill Strong of Tucson, Ariz., second. Irene Arden of Vancouver, led Cathy Carcione of Long Branch, N.J., home in the women's 100 meters butterfly to win the gold in 1:06.0.

Statewide Duck Season Will Be 10 Days Shorter Than 1972

Frankfort, Ky.—The 1973-74 Statewide Kentucky duck hunting season will be 10 days shorter than last year but the limits—four daily and eight in possession—remain unchanged except that one canvasback or one redhead duck may be included in the limit. Fish and Wildlife Commissioner Arnold Mitchell said today following a meeting of the fish and wildlife commission in Frankfort.

"Last year no canvasback or redhead ducks could be taken," Mitchell said, "but the Federal Bureau of Sport Fisheries and Wildlife, which supplies the framework, or conditions, under which waterfowl may be hunted in each state, has allowed us to include either a canvasback or a redhead in the bag or possession limit."

The duck season will open December 12 and continue through January 20 and mallard ducks, the most common duck found in Kentucky, may make up the entire bag or possession limit. A "mixed bag" may include any combination of ducks except that no more than two wood ducks may be taken daily, or four in possession, and only one redhead or canvasback may be included either daily or in possession.

There will be an extra limit on blue-winged teal for nine days—December 12, through December 20—when two teal daily or four in possession—may be added to the regular duck limits. Also, two scaup may be added to the daily bag limit and four to the possession limit during the entire duck hunting season.

Goose hunters will again have 70 days to hunt—November 12 through January 20.

The statewide daily bag limit (except in Ballard, Hickman, Carlisle and Fulton Counties) is five geese, but only one Canada or two white-fronted, or one of each may be included. The possession limit, except in the counties listed above, is five geese, but no more than two Canadas and two white-fronted may be possessed after two or more days of hunting.

In Ballard, Hickman, Carlisle and Fulton Counties, the daily limit of five may include two Canada or two white-fronted, or one of each. The possession limit of five in these four counties may not include a combination of more than four Canada and white-fronted in aggregate but only two may be white-fronted.

Robinson Drives In Three To Pace Phillies To 6-3 Win Over Padres

By EARL GERHEIM

Bill Robinson, his rocky major league career once a source of frustration and worry, has finally discovered the formula for hitting homers.

"It's just a case of relaxing and making contact with the ball," the Philadelphia Phillies player explains.

He relaxed at the plate Thursday night and drove in three runs with two homers, propelling the Phillies to a 6-3

National League baseball triumph over the San Diego Padres.

In other NL games during Thursday's light schedule, Los Angeles trimmed the New York Mets 5-4 and the Chicago Cubs beat the Cincinnati Reds 4-3. In the only American League contest, California downed Milwaukee 6-3.

Robinson was touted as a new super-slugger when he first joined the New York Yankees in 1967. He never lived up to the advance fanfare, batting a dismal .196. He lasted two more seasons in New York, then made the circuit of minor league teams and almost quit after failing to make the Chicago White Sox two years ago.

"Then I just decided to go out and have some fun," Robinson recalled about that depressing stage of his career. "If I had a bad game I didn't worry about it."

However, his new-found philosophy appeared faulty after he managed only four hits in 32 times at bat during a recent road trip.

"I thought, why me?" he said. "After I finally made it, I thought I was going to blow it. But I sat down and had a long talk with myself."

Robinson's first blast, a two-run shot, capped a four-run Phils first and then followed Greg Luzinski's homer with a solo homer in the sixth.

Cubs 4, Reds 3
Don Kessinger drove home the winning run with a 10th-inning single. The Cubs tied the game 3-3 after the Reds had pulled ahead in their half of the 10th.

"I just tried to find a hole because it meant the ball game," Kessinger said his winning hit that scored Randy Hundley from third. "Any kind of a base hit would have won it."

Dodgers 5, Mets 4
Joe Ferguson laced a run-scoring double in the sixth inning, breaking a tie and lifting the Dodgers to a victory that increased their lead in the NL West to three games over Cincinnati.

Angels 6, Brewers 3
Brewer relief pitcher Chris Short issued a bases-loaded walk to Sandy Alomar, forcing in the winning during a five-run Angel seventh inning. The winning run came after Short, who replaced starter Billy Champion who was forced out after breaking a finger nail on his pitching hand, permitted the winning run to score after hitting Winston Llenas with a pitch.

Late Summer Fishing Conditions Prevalent

FRANKFORT, Ky. (AP)—Late summer fishing conditions prevail at most major lakes, with fair catches of crappie, bluegill and black bass reported.

The Fish and Wildlife Resources Department gives this rundown:

Green—Crappie fair to good in inlets and bays around submerged cover. Black bass on surface lures and artificial nightcrawlers off rocky points. Clear, stable and 80.

Fishtrap—Bluegill fair to good in inlets and bays. Catfish on cut bait. Clear, stable and 80.

Cumberland—Crappie fair to good over submerged cover. Black bass fair to good on small crawfish and casting artificial nightcrawlers at night. Below dam, trout good, with some limits. Clear, 81, and 11 feet below pool and falling slowly.

Dale Hollow—Black bass fair fishing the jumps with surface lures. Crappie fair around tree-tops. Clear, 79, four feet below pool and falling slowly.

Grayson—Bluegill fair in inlets and bays. Black bass fair over dropoffs and around points and banks. Clear, stable and 79.

Kentucky—Black bass fair to good casting artificial nightcrawlers and trolling deep runners. Bluegill good in mid-section tributaries on worms and crickets. White bass fair jump fishing. Below dam, catfish and sauger fair. Clear, 81, one foot below pool and falling slowly.

Nolin—Crappie good particularly in upper lake drift fishing in large coves. Black bass fair to good on deep runners and artificial nightcrawlers and by still fishing crawfish. Clear, stable, 82.

Barkley—Crappie good around tree-tops and stickups in inlets and bays. Black bass good and improving near drop-offs in inlets and bays. Below dam white bass good and catfish fair. Clear, stable at one foot below pool and 80.

Barren—Black bass fair to good on artificial nightcrawlers along rocky points and drop-offs. Bluegill fair off deep banks near cover. Clear, stable and 82.

Dewey—Crappie around tree-tops. Bluegill on worms off shallow banks. 77, clear to murky to muddy and stable.

Auburn Depending On Young Quarterback For New Offense

By J. PAUL TILL
Associated Press Writer

AUBURN, Ala. (AP) — The Auburn Tigers, who began the 1972 football season as an underdog and wound up the No. 5 team in the nation, are depending on a sophomore quarterback recovering from a knee injury to spark their young offense this fall.

"A lot of our success will depend on how Randy Walls comes back from knee surgery," declared Coach Ralph "Shug" Jordan.

Walls was injured during last season's Gator Bowl and missed all of practice during the spring. At the quarterback slot last year, Walls completed 46 of 97 passes for 736 yards and five touchdowns. He rushed for 189 more yards and four additional touchdowns.

Auburn finished the 1972 Southeastern Conference season with a 10-1 record including a 24-3 Gator Bowl victory over Colorado. Louisiana State handed the Tigers their only loss.

Some 32 lettermen planned to report today to launch Auburn's 23rd football season, with actual practice beginning Monday. Seven starters return to the offense and six to the defense.

If the 6-foot-3, 205-pound Walls of Brundidge, Ala., is still handicapped, then Jordan is expected to turn the signals over to Wade Whately, a 6-3, 206-pound junior from Tuskegee, Ala.

Jordan says one of his chief concerns at the beginning of fall practice is the kicking game. Auburn's punter, David Beverly, and kicking specialist, Gardner Jett, graduated.

Auburn lacks depth in the line, the coach said, "but most teams also come up short on big linemen. It just seems like every team we play always has more big linemen than we do."

On defense, Jordan says, "Our main concern will be stopping the long gainer. We lost a pair of three-year starters in our secondary and their experience will be missed."

Three veteran tackles will be returning for the Tigers, but the team lacks experience and depth at end.

Jordan says being picked near the bottom one season and close to the top the next "always causes a change in the attitude among the players. It becomes a matter of accepting the challenge."

The team refused last year to accept the fact that Auburn was supposed to lose, Jordan said. "This year the players must realize that our opponents will be preparing for us in much the same way that we approached them last year. Just being picked at the top does not mean that you will always finish there."

I can handle 'em," said the slump-ridden Eichelberger after he tied Stockton and Allin Thursday for the first round lead in the $100,000 L&M Open Golf Tournament. All had 67s.

"I'd like to get in it," said Stockton, a former PGA national champion and the current Milwaukee Open title-holder. "I had to qualify last year and won one match. I'd like another crack at it."

Eight players—including such big guns as Jack Nicklaus, Lee Trevino and Tom Weiskopf—are exempt. The other eight players in the Match Play will be the top eight after 36 holes of the L&M.

While Stockton, Allin and Eichelberger are the top contenders, they're far from secure. Five others were just one stroke back at 68 after the first round of the L&M, and there were five more at 69.

Two of the prime favorites—Lanny Wadkins and Texan Ben Crenshaw—ran afoul of the troublesome, water-guarded 18th hole and were well back.

Here are the top first-round scores:

Dave Stockton 34-33-67
Dave Eichelberger 35-32-67
Bud Allin 33-34-67
Bert Greene 33-35-68
Dan Sikes 32-36-68
Lee Wykle 33-35-68
J.C. Sneed 34-34-68
Allen Miller 33-36-69
Joe Carr 36-33-69
Roger Watson 37-32-69
Byron Comstock 34-35-69
Joe Porter 34-35-69
Ken Still 34-35-69

Three Tied In First Round of L-M Tourney

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — Dave Eichelberger and Dave Stockton are enthusiastically looking for a spot in the U.S. Professional Match Play Championship, and Buddy Allin will take one if it comes along.

Reservation Application Dates Given

Frankfort, Ky.—Applications for waterfowl hunting reservations for the 1973-74 season on the Ballard County Wildlife Management Area near LaCenter must be postmarked no earlier than August 27 and no later than September 10.

All applications must be made by letter, no telephone reservations will be made. The word "Reservations" should be marked on the envelope and the letters should be sent to: Ballard County Wildlife Management Area, Route 1, LaCenter, Kentucky 42056.

The applications must include: names and addresses of all hunters in party (only 3 hunters per blind); first choice of dates and alternate dates and preference for duck or goose hunting. A fee of $5 per day per hunter or $15 per pit must be enclosed. Only cashier's checks, certified checks or money orders will be accepted. Failure to comply with any of the above will result in return of the reservation application without action.

Hunters will be limited to five hunts per season with no more than two Saturdays. However, a hunter who has had five hunts may still hunt on a standby-first-come, first served basis provided that there is a cancellation of a previously made reservation.

Goose hunting on the Area opens December 1 and continues through January 20; while duck hunting will open December 12 and continue through January 20. There will be no Sunday or Christmas Day shooting on the Area and shooting hours are one-half hour before sunrise until 12 noon.

Selections for reservations will be made by random drawings at the Area and will begin September 11 and continue until all available spaces are filled. Money of unsuccessful applicants will be returned and confirmation of reservations should be completed with 20 to 25 days after the start of drawing.

Other seasons announced today by Mitchell were: coots, December 12 through January 20, with a daily limit of 15 and a possession limit of 30, and mergansers, also December 12 through January 20 with a daily limit of five which may include no more than one hooded merganser and a possession limit of 10 to include no more than 2 hooded mergansers.

Tainan City In Finals Of Little League

WILLIAMSPORT, Pa. (AP) — Consecutive no-hitters have placed Tainan City, Taiwan, in the finals of the Little League World Series looking for the Asian island's third straight championship.
 Its opposition Saturday will be Tucson, Ariz., which reached the finale here on a pair of one-hitters.
 Taiwan shattered four series batting marks Thursday while drubbing Tampa, Fla., 27-0, behind the no-hit pitching of Kuo Wen-li.
 Tucson's Ed Vosberg lost his no-hitter on a line-drive single in the bottom of the sixth and final inning, but he preserved his 12-0 shutout over Birmingham, Mich.
 In the consolation game Thursday, right-hander Fernando Pena scattered six hits and struck out 11 batters as Monterrey, Mexico, blanked Colonie, N.Y., 4-0.
 Taiwan broke the record for runs in one game, runs in the series, home runs in a game and hits by a ball player in a single game.
 The team's 22-hit attack and its 13-run sixth inning Thursday may also be records, but the Little League doesn't keep track of them.

Walking Horse Officials Crack Down On Soring At 35th Opening

SHELBYVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — Officials of the Tennessee Walking Horse National Celebration kept their pledge to crack down on soring Thursday as the 35th version of the annual show opened.
 Celebration veterinarians, inspecting each horse before it was permitted in the big show ring, rejected 23 of the first 99 horses entered in the opening night's classes.
 Show officials said the inspectors disqualified the horses because of foreign substances or lesions on the animals' hooves or legs.
 There were none of the demonstrations that marred last year's celebration when horsemen protested enforcement of anti-soring regulations.
 Before the entry lists were opened for this year's celebration, officials warned walking horse owners that unsound horses would be barred from competition.
 The regulations are aimed at halting the long-popular practice of using painful training devices or caustic chemicals to force the high stepping horses into an even more spectacular gait in the show ring.

Soring, long the target of humane organizations, was outlawed by the 1970 Horse Protection Act.
 Six classes were judged Thursday night before an official crowd of 5,785, about 250 more than opening night a year ago.
 The 10-day show, largest in the walking horse industry, will be capped by the selection Sept. 1 of the world champion walking horse to succeed Handshaker's Delight, the 1972 champion.

Jennifer Bartz Takes Women's 400 Meter Individual Medley

By BOB FIRESTONE JR., Associated Press Writer
 LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — Jennifer Bartz, winner of the women's 400 meter individual medley in the National AAU Long Course Swimming and Diving championships, wants a better time in the upcoming World Aquatic Championships.
 Miss Bartz, of the Santa Clara Swim Club, won the event in 5:08.735 but said it wasn't her quickest time.
 "My goal was to make Belgrade," explained Miss Bartz, who will enter the University of Miami next month on a swimming scholarship.
 "I'm hoping to make a faster time at the World (Aquatic) Championships." Those championships will be held in Belgrade from Sept. 1-9 and Miss Bartz is one of more than 50 U.S. swimmers who will compete in those championships.
 In other action Thursday, three meet records were set, one of them by Olympic veteran Shirley Babashoff of the Huntington Beach Aquatic Club in the women's 200 meter freestyle in 2:04.635.
 That broke the previous mark of 2:07.044 set by Keena Rothhammer of the Santa Clara Swim Club set earlier Thursday.
 Miss Babashoff won a gold medal in the women's 400 meter medley relay, a silver medal in the 100 and 200 meter freestyle events and was fourth in the 400 meter freestyle in last year's Olympics.
 Jim Montgomery of the Badger Dolphins of Madison, Wis., set a meet record of 1:55.898 in the men's 200 meter freestyle, eclipsing his own mark of 1:53.962 set earlier in the day. His previous mark shattered that of 1:54.6 set by Mark Spitz, winner of seven Olympic gold medals last year, in 1970.
 The other meet record was established by the Santa Clara Swim Club's 'A' team in the women's 400 meter medley relay in 4:30.131, breaking the previous mark of 4:31.20 set by the Lakewood Aquatic Club in 1970.

 Members of the winning team included Nancy Kirkpatrick, Amy Betencourt, Nina MacInnis and Keena Rothhammer.
 The Santa Clara Swim Club's 'A' team had set a meet record in the men's 400 meter medley relay but was disqualified because one of its members, John Hencken, made a false start.
 Meanwhile, Lt. Phil Boggs of the U.S. Air Force won the men's three meter diving championship with a total of 578.73 points. Keith Russell of the Dick Smith Swim Gym was second with 575.70 and Dave Bush of the Dallas Swim Club was third with 558.21.
 Deborah Keplar of the Ron O'Brien Diving School of Columbus, Ohio, won the women's platform diving championship with 370.38 points, while Barbara Schaefer, unattached, was second at 358.74, and Debby Lipman of Phillips 66 Long Beach, was third at 338.10.
 Don Craine of the Jack Nelson Swim Club of Ft. Lauderdale, Fla., led men's qualifiers in the semi finals of the platform diving with 288.99 points, followed by Greg Garlich of the Clayton Shaw Park at 287.73 and Kent Vosler of the Ron O'Brien Diving School at 284.76.
 Following Thursday's competition, the Santa Clara Swim Team led in women's standings with 263 points. Next was the Huntington Beach Aquatic Club of Santa Ana, Calif., at 91, followed by the Lakewood team of Southern Pacific, Calif., at 76. Next were Arden Hills of Carmichael, Calif., at 65 and the Cincinnati Pepsi Marlins at 62.
 The Santa Clara also led in men's competition with 160 points, followed by the Gate Road Swim Team of Bloomington, Ind., at 152. Third was the Marin Swim Club of San Rafael, Calif., at 103, while Totem

Lake of Kirkland, Wash., was fourth at 72 and the Badger Dolphins of Madison, Wis., were fifth at 70.
 Preliminaries and finals were being held today in the women's three meter diving finals and finals were set in the men's 10 meter platform diving.
 Eight events were to be held in swimming. They included men's and women's 200 meter butterfly, 200 meter breaststroke, 100 meter backstroke and 800 meter freestyle relay.
 Diving competition ends today while swimming competition concludes Saturday.

Retirements, Unrest Shake Dallas In Off-Season Months

By DENNE H. FREEMAN, Associated Press Sports Writer
 DALLAS (AP) — Retirements and off-season unrest shook the Dallas Cowboys like an earthquake, but there's every evidence unflappable coach Tom Landry will have all the pieces in place for an unprecedented eighth consecutive trip to the National Football League playoffs.
 The Cowboys lost a staggering 65 years in NFL experience with the exit of seven key players off the Super Bowl VI champions—tight end Mike Ditka, linebacker Chuck Howley, defensive end George Andrie, running back Dan Reeves, receiver Lance Alworth, defensive back Herb Adderley and center Dave Manders.
 The Cowboys also led the league in threatened retirements with defensive tackle Bob Lilly, quarterback Craig Morton, linebacker Lee Roy Jordan and others unhappy for one reason or another in hassles with Dallas management.
 Yet out of this storm of discontent, Lilly said he had found a "new spirit" on the team—"something we didn't have last year."
 To prove he was right, the Cowboys went out and defeated Los Angeles 24-7 in the exhibition opener to show there was still some fire in the boiler.
 Despite the retirements, the Cowboys still have talent that has many an NFL front office drooling.
 Quarterbacks Roger Staubach and Morton, who are again fighting for the No. 1 job, are among the tops in the league.
 Fullback Walt Garrison and 1-000-yard rusher Calvin Hill are proven ground-gainers. The offensive line, behind all-pro Rayfield Wright and John Nildan, is among the finest.
 If the Cowboys have an offensive weakness, it might be at receiver—but don't count on it. Bob Hayes caught only 15 passes last year but could be in the best shape of his career because of extensive work in professional track during the off-season.
 Otto Stowe, Paul Warfield's backup man at Miami, was obtained in a trade for Ron Sellers and has been nothing short of eye-popping in the early going. The No. 1 draft pick, tight end Billy Joe Dupree of Michigan State, also hasn't disappointed.
 On defense, Lilly says he is healthy. When the giant tackle says that, it can be a long autumn for opposing quarterbacks. Lilly was plagued by injuries during the 10-4 Cowboy season last year and the pass rush suffered.
 Jethro Pugh is the other Cowboy defensive tackle, with Bill Gregory pushing defensive ends Pat Toomy and Larry Cole hard.
 At linebacker, five-year veteran D.D. Lewis appears ready to step into Howley's shoes. There's a sneaking hunch that Landry can always get Howley to "unretire" from his dry cleaning business should Lewis fail to produce. Veterans Lee Roy Jordan and Dave Edwards fill out the linebacking trio.
 Dallas is solid in the secondary. Mel Renfro and fast-improving Charlie Waters protect the corners while alert Cliff Harris and veteran Cornell Green hold down the safeties.

Petty Returns To Nashville Saturday

By JOE EDWARDS, Associated Press Sports Writer
 NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — Richard Petty, usually a rocket on NASCAR's Grand National circuit, has fizzled a bit this year while David Pearson stole his thunder.
 But Petty returns to a track Saturday night that has handed him seven victories in 17 starts. And Pearson won't be around.
 The occasion is the 16th annual Nashville 420, where Petty will be among the favorites while Pearson takes a breather and presumably counts the $169,000 he's won this year.
 Pearson has put together a sensational string of 9 victories in 13 starts this year while Petty has won 4 of 20 and earned $109,000.
 Petty, of Randleman, N.C., won this race two years ago and has been racing on Fairground Speedway's five-eighths mile oval since 1959.
 Bobby Allison, who won the race last year, and Cale Yarborough, who won the Music City 420 in May, also are considered top threats for the $100,000 first-place prize money. The total purse is $23,000.
 Allison will seek to regain some of the pace he set last year when he won 10 Grand National races. Yarborough won the Southeastern 500 at Bristol earlier this year in addition to the Music City 320 and, along with Pearson and Petty, is the only driver to win more than one Grand National race this year.
 Allison, Benny Parsons and Buddy Baker have each won one race on the circuit this year.
 The race is the closing event on the second leg of the $120,000 Grand National point battle. Cecil Gordon is the point leader in the second leg with 2,655, followed by James Hylton with 2,571 and Benny Parsons with 2,507.
 In the overall point standings this year, Parsons leads with 5,189 followed by Gordon with 5,144 and Hylton with 5,007.

NHL Will Not Merge With WHA

TORONTO (AP) — The National Hockey League will not merge with the World Hockey Association and will battle with the new league to sign top junior players.
 The NHL board of governors decided at a closed meeting Thursday they will not stand by and watch the WHA sign underage juniors; they will change their policy if necessary.
 In a statement following the meeting, the NHL said: "Our great interest is to preserve the structure of amateur hockey and to sign players only of eligible age."
 "But if the only alternative is a plan whereby our teams are given authority to negotiate with under-age juniors, then we will be prepared to follow that course."
 The NHL policy in the past has been to sign players who have graduated from junior hockey at age 20. However, the WHA recently has signed a number of players with junior eligibility left.
 The latest signing was Dennis Sobchuk of the Regina Pats of the Western Canada Hockey League. Sobchuk signed with the WHA's Cincinnati franchise for a reported $1 million. Since Cincinnati doesn't start play until 1974-75, Sobchuk plans to stay in the WHCHL this year.
 The Howe brothers, Mark and Marty, were taken from Toronto Marlboros by the Houston Aeros of the WHA despite having junior eligibility left. Then Tom Eder of the Ontario Hockey Association Junior A club was signed by Cleveland of the WHA.

Vikings To Meet Oakland In Battle of Unbeaten NFL Clubs

By HOWARD SMITH, Associated Press Sports Writer
 The Minnesota Vikings resume their search for a No. 1 quarterback Saturday at Berkeley, Calif. against the Oakland Raiders in a battle of unbeaten National Football League clubs.
 Francis Tarkenton, the incumbent, and Bob Berry, the challenger, have been fighting it out for the right to lead the Purple Gang this season. Statistically it looks like a draw so far.
 Tarkenton has completed 18 of 28 passes for 169 yards in Minnesota's two victories while Berry has hit on 19 of 26 tosses for 224 yards. Tarkenton came to the rescue in last week's 13-10 win over Kansas City, rallying the Vikes in the fourth quarter with a 70-yard touchdown drive capped by a 19-yard pass to John Gilliam to tie the score.
 Fred Cox's 20-yard field goal with just over one minute to play won it for Minnesota.

Tarkenton will probably start against the Raiders who have their own quarterbacking follies going. Daryle Lamonica made a brief appearance against Los Angeles last week, completing three of four passes, including a six-yard scoring aerial to Bob Moore.
 Lamonica then retired while Ken Stabler and Don Milan split the duties behind center in the Raiders' 16-3 win. George Blanda, now 45, doesn't do much quarterbacking these days but he still kicks field goals and connected from 36.17 and 41 yards against the Rams.
 This will be the first meeting ever between Minnesota and Oakland, and will serve as a preview of their season-opening battle Sept. 16.
 The Houston Oilers nipped the Dallas Cowboys 27-24 in the battle of Texas Thursday night.
 Cincinnati plays at Detroit and Los Angeles visits Miami in games tonight.
 Saturday night Baltimore is at Washington, Atlanta faces Cleveland in Knoxville, Tenn., New England visits New Orleans, San Diego entertains Philadelphia and the New York Jets are in St. Louis. Sunday afternoon Chicago is at Buffalo, Denver at San Francisco and Pittsburgh at the New York Giants.
 The weekend schedule ends Sunday night when Green Bay visits Kansas City.
 Dan Pastorini connected with Fred Willis on a 31-yard scoring pass with just 1:12 to go, lifting the Oilers past the Cowboys. Bob Newhouse's 25-yard touchdown romp had given Dallas a 24-20 edge earlier in the period.
 Cincinnati coach Paul Brown plans to go with more veteran players than usual against the Lions. Ken Anderson is expected back from a leg injury at quarterback for the Bengals. Greg Landry and Bill Munson continue as quarterbacks for Detroit.
 Miami saw its winning streak stopped at 21 games last week with a 9-9 tie against Chicago. The Rams are having offensive problems and have managed just 37 points in three games.

Sea Of Secrets Wins At Fair
 LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — Defending champion Sea of Secrets, owned by Irving Cowan of Hollywood, Fla., won the Minton Memorial Perpetual Trophy Junior Exhibitor Three-Gaited Championship Thursday night in the Kentucky State Fair Horse Show here.
 The winner was ridden by Cowan's daughter, Debbie Cowan.
 Second place went to Springtime Fantasy, owned and ridden by Mary Le Beich of Bloomington, Ill., while Duchess, owned and ridden by Denise Kelee of Evansville, Ind., was third.
 Dow Jones, owned by Burning Tree Farm of Tulsa, Okla., won the $1,000 Junior Five-Gaited Stake, while Suncatcher, owned by Siekmap Farms of Appleton, Wis., was second. Dow Jones was ridden by Redd Crabtree. Suncatcher was ridden by Don Brockman. Third-place finisher, Fairy Gold, was ridden by Helen Crabtree.
 Meanwhile, the Kentucky Horse Show Hall of Fame Thursday night inducted Mrs. Frances Dodge VanLennep, the late owner of the Dodge Stables at Lexington.

Nicklaus, Weiskopf Appear In Running for Championship

Associated Press Golf Writer
 RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — Professional Golfers Association Player of the Year honors could be at stake this weekend if—as expected—Jack Nicklaus and Tom Weiskopf meet in the finals of the U.S. Professional Match Play Championship.
 They appear to be running neck and neck for the honor Nicklaus won last year. A head-to-head match in the finals Sunday afternoon could make the choice easy for the PGA committee that makes the selection.
 The Match Play, carrying $150,000 in total prizes with $40,000 to the winner, begins Saturday as the featured half of pro golf's only doubleheader with the $100,000 stroke play L&M Open.
 Two rounds of match play will be held daily on the 6,786-yard, par-71 MacGregor Downs Country Club course with Nicklaus the defending champion and No. 1 seed in the field of 16.
 The other seeded players, in order, are Johnny Miller, Tommy Aaron, Weiskopf, Lee Trevino, George Archer, Grier Jones and Jerry Heard. The other eight players will come out of the L&M.
 Weiskopf's sudden emergence was the big news this summer and shoved Nicklaus out of the headlines. In an eight-event string he won five times, including the British and Canadian Opens. For the year, he's collected $228,088.
 Then Nicklaus reclaimed center stage with his record-breaking victory in the PGA National Championship two weeks ago. It was the 14th major title of his career, breaking Bobby Jones' record.
 Nicklaus, too, has won five this year. In 15 American starts, he's finished ninth or better in all but two. In his only foreign start he was fourth in the British Open, including a course record 65 in his final round.
 And he's ahead of last year's record money-winning pace when he amassed $320,000.

Public Relations Notebook

By J. Neil Woodruff, Ph.D.
Associate Professor of Journalism
Murray State University

In business affairs as well as in personal affairs, people constantly must deal with other persons. The interrelationships of persons may take any one of hundreds of different forms. Ideas are exchanged, arguments are sounded, orders are carried out, and almost certainly, conflict will present itself in varying degrees. This is natural, yet it is one of the most severe problems in relationships among people.

The one thing that is sure in differences among people is that there are two sides to every story. And, quite often, as the romantic ballad of several years ago proclaimed, they are "as different as night and day." Of course, in reality, all differences among people are not as different as night and day. But differences do range from minor to the most severe.

In most instances of differences among people, it is probable that one party or the other, or maybe both parties, do not have all facts involved in the controversy. If complete and truthful information is not available to either or both parties, then intelligent, fair and complementary discussion cannot take place. Without complete information on a matter which has caused ill-feeling between two or more persons, one or the other parties, or both, will suffer from the consequence.

For lack of a better term, perhaps, conflicts which people have among themselves are termed personality conflicts. We all have different attitudes and opinions. Our attitudes are determined by our early lives, by our associates, by our home life, by our religious training, and by many other things which determine how we think and what we think about. And since each individual mind is different, conflict is unavoidable. The continual goal of man is to training himself to communicate with others in the most respectful and intelligent manner possible.

In the area of public relations as well as personal relations it is most important for a person to have all information before advancing an important opinion or making a decision which might have an unfavorable impact on himself or an organization which he represents. Difficulties are ironed out only through discussion between people. Discussion may take the form of a letter, a conversation, or information carried through an intermediary or by some other means. But there must be communication.

There also must be a fairly stable degree of respect between persons before there can be sincere communications. Sincerity is the key to successful communications among people. If so-called cases of personality conflict could be analyzed, it is likely that insincerity through lack of complete information was the primary source of conflict. In dealings among people, the cardinal principle to always keep foremost in mind is that there are two sides to every story. Knowing both sides will promote healthier relationships among people.

South Vietnam To Copy State Utility Methods

FRANKFORT, Ky. — Expansion of rural cooperatives for electric power, a system of rates based on usage and public hearing to settle disputes—these are policies which two South Vietnamese will be recommending to their National Utilities Commission when they return home this week.

Dr. Tran-An-Nhan, chairman of the South Vietnam National Utilities Commission, and Vu Dinh Chi, chief engineer, have been in Kentucky for two weeks studying the operation of the Commonwealth's Public Service Commission.

Both of the officials had previously visited the U.S. to observe utilities commission operations in Wisconsin, Michigan, California and Iowa. However, they discovered that those commissions are too large for the small Asian country to adopt their methods of operation.

An investigation by the State Department showed that Kentucky came closest to duplicating South Vietnam in size and type of operation. The South Vietnamese found the answers to their problems in the Commonwealth, they said.

The South Vietnam National Utilities Commission was established by a directive from the United States as part of its requirements in connection with grants from the American Agency of International Development (AID). AID has provided $32 million for improvement of generation and distribution of electricity in the Saigon area.

One of the objectives of the Kentucky visit is to discover ways to provide electric service in the rural areas of Vietnam, which has none, Dr. Nhan explained. The Asian engineers spent one day with Charles Foley, manager of the Inter-City RECC, Danville, attempting to establish ways of operating cooperatives at a profit.

Presently, South Vietnam has one set power rate for all users. Mr. Chi said he plans to recommend the adoption for a rate system based on usage as it exists in Kentucky. To learn more about the procedure, the South Vietnamese spent one day with Robert Daniels, rate expert from Union Light Heat and Power Company.

The visitors said they were impressed with the hospitality of Kentucky people. "We are happy to have all these nice persons happy to work with us and to answer our questions," Dr. Nhan noted.

Mr. Chi said he wanted to express his thanks to staff members of the PSC. Several entertained the South Vietnamese in their homes. "Not formal or stiff," Mr. Chi commented, referring to the informality of the American home at the dinner hour.

Method Developed For Treating Cataracts

By WARREN E. LEARY
AP Science Writer
BOSTON (AP) — Scientists have developed a method of using two wrongs to make a right that may allow persons blinded by cataracts to regain their vision without resorting to surgery.

Boston researchers say light passes through most cataracts — cloudy formations in the eye lens — but is scattered and distorted. This makes it impossible for the back of the eye to relay an image to the brain.

However, the scientists say they have developed filters that can distort light before it enters the eye. When this light is distorted again by the cataract, it hits the back of the eye as it normally would, they say.

The two-wrongs method was developed by Dr. David Miller, head of the ophthalmology department at Beth Israel Hospital, with the aid of Dr. George Benedek, professor of physics at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology.

Dr. Miller said researchers have tested the technique successfully, using cataracts surgically removed from patients. But he said the filters had not been tested on a person because many technical problems still must be overcome.

"Whether we can actually bring this experiment from the laboratory to clinical use is still unknown," he stressed.

Dr. Miller started the filter work with scientists at Techni-Cal Operations, Inc., in Burlington, who were working for the Army on seeing through clouds, which also scatter light.

The use of filters to see through cataracts could have wide use if perfected, he said, adding that there are about 400,000 cataract operations each year in the United States.

SOVIET ART WORKS SOLD
PARIS (AP) — A group of 65 paintings by Soviet artists from the school of socialist realism were sold at an auction here for more than $26,000.

The works included still life studies, folk art and one painting of office workers in a city, which sold for $1,600.

MENTAL HEALTH MATTERS

Bertram S. Brown, M.D., Director
National Institute of Mental Health

Electroshock

You may have heard of electroshock—and recall it as being controversial and having something to do with the treatment of mental illness.

But just what is electroshock? First, it's more appropriately called electroconvulsive therapy (known among professional workers as "ECT") because its objective is not "shock."

In simple terms, ECT is a method for treating mentally ill patients by administering medically controlled convulsive seizures by means of electricity. The patient is put to sleep with an intravenous anesthetic. This is followed by drug medication which relaxes the muscles of the body.

The therapist then applies an electric current to the scalp, producing seizures and convulsions which consist of twitching of the muscles.

Other kinds of "convulsive therapy" are also used in addition to that produced by electric shocks. These include giving the patient inhalations of an ether-like gas after he is asleep or giving him a chemical convulsant agent, a drug, injected intravenously.

What patients are chosen for ECT? The general answer is those with psychoses or severe neuroses who require intensive treatment, usually in a hospital. Severe depression, the depressive phase of manic-depressive illness, is said to be the main indication for ECT.

Is there any danger with ECT? The general answer here is that there is an element of danger. Those who employ the method feel that it is safe or that its calming or other effects outweigh its hazards. Others do not.

Most common side effects of an undesirable kind are confusion and memory loss. Usually these are most obvious immediately after a treatment. Memory changes include forgetting some events and a tendency to forgetfulness in day-to-day matters.

The American Medical Association, American Psychiatric Association, American Psychological Association, and National Association of Mental Health (or your local chapter) can provide further information. A free folder, "Facts About Electroshock Therapy," is available from the National Institute of Mental Health, Rockville, Maryland 20852.

Your Individual Horoscope

Frances Drake

FOR SATURDAY, AUGUST 25, 1973

Look in the section in which your birthday comes and find what your outlook is, according to the stars.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 20) ♈

It may be advisable to slacken your gait now — in order to detect error of method or details overlooked. Make new plans with confidence, however.

TAURUS (Apr. 21 to May 21) ♉

You are one of those gifted persons who can produce original and unusual ideas when they are most needed. This is your day to shine!

GEMINI (May 22 to June 21) ♊

Mercury in highly favorable position. A good day for capitalizing on your ingenuity and inventiveness. Writings especially encouraged.

CANCER (June 22 to July 23) ♋

Stellar influences now give hope for that which seemed "lost," broader understanding of complicated situations and show you the way to get around a knotty problem.

LEO (July 24 to Aug. 23) ♌

Even if not prepared to conclude pending negotiations immediately, give some thought to next week's handling. You may get some new ideas.

VIRGO (Aug. 24 to Sept. 23) ♍

Some reviewing needed. Certain obstacles in your path will call for either more concentrated effort or a complete revision of plan if they are to be hurdled.

LIBRA (Sept. 24 to Oct. 23) ♎

In communications, discussions, agreements, be mindful of "minor" details that could cause delays, difficulties. This is a day in which the well-balanced Libran can shine.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24 to Nov. 22) ♏

Fine advances indicated in job and business matters — if they are well planned and carried through in detail with a keen eye to the future.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23 to Dec. 21) ♐

Embark upon a new project that is really purposeful, stimulates your mind. A complex situation could contain the seed of an excellent harvest.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) ♑

The position of Saturn suggests some halt on actions which could get out of the realm of common sense. But attainment is possible through earnest, consistent endeavor.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) ♒

Don't trust to guesswork nor be lax in situations that require security treatment. A better day than you may anticipate if you are in there pitching.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) ♓

You may be well ahead of those about you, but the discreet thing will be to play it down, achieve without asking for plaudits. Be careful about giving confidences.

YOU BORN TODAY are a warm-hearted, sensitive individual, ardent and deeply emotional within, but rarely demonstrative in your affections. Those for whom you care are not always aware of your feelings for them; sometimes consider you cold and aloof. Try to express your emotions a little more often and you will be a great source of happiness. You are extremely versatile and could make a great success in many fields but, notably, as a writer, musician, entertainer, engineer or, in the business world, as a banker or manufacturer. Birthdate of: Bret Harte, Amer. author; Leonard Bernstein, symphony conductor.

Popular Poet Shares Experience So Others May Know And Grow

recalls going to Washington to receive the award on a television show as "a real experience. I went down in black jersey pants. I thought I looked just fine. But when I arrived, so many people were wearing well-made things that had been made especially for that hip bone that wasn't exactly even with the other — you know, perfect clothes. I just sat there, sliding lower and lower in my chair."

Born in Knoxville, Tenn., brought up in Ohio, the popular black poet is a frail figure with enormous dark eyes. Wearing knit slacks and a bright Greek vest, she wandered in for an interview carrying bundles of sheets brought at a department store white sale. She says her son, Thomas, will love his new sheets printed in bright cartoon characters.

The loving warmth of her own childhood appears often in Miss Giovanni's poetry, and she wants Thomas to share that kind of upbringing. "I remember when we were kids, my mother would let us go down to the fanciest store in town, what today we would call a boutique, and my sister Gary and I could charge what we wanted. We really couldn't afford it, but it was an experience my mother thought we should have. And it helped us develop some taste."

Miss Giovanni's parents are both involved in social work. She once worked in the field, too, and says she was best at getting groups to interact with each other. She uses the techniques today when, she says, groups to whom she is reading poetry are argumentative and divided. She gets them talking with each other.

The poet lights one cigarette after another, claiming smoking is a staple of her diet. In addition to her creative imaginative writing, she answers bundles of letters about how to become a poet.

Named one of eight women of the year by a national magazine, Miss Giovanni is a national poet laureate. She has published 10 books of poetry and is the author of a play, "The Gaisha Boy," which is being produced at the University of Kentucky.

When she was a professor at Rutgers University's Livingston College, she once was a member of the Black Panther Party. She says she was a member of the party for a short time, but she says she was not a member of the party for a long time.

JOE SMITH PRESENTS CONCERT PIANIST ENGLEWOOD, N.J. (AP) — Joe Smith, 89, half the long-time vaudeville team of Smith and Dale, was seen in a new role here recently — that of impresario — as he presented concert pianist Barbara Blackstone in a recital of Brahms, Bach and Beethoven at the Actors Fund of America home where he lives. Charlie Dale died, at 90, in 1971 here. Smith and Dale started out as singers and dancers in 1898 and later added comedy to their act. One of their famous routines depicted "Dr. Kronkhitze" and his patient, "Mr. Dubious." Their last appearance was in 1968 at the Lambis Club. Smith and Dale were said to be the inspiration for the Broadway show about two vaudevillians, "The Sunshine Boys." Mrs. Blackstone, who studied at the Juilliard School and Mannes college of Music, is the wife of Dr. Michael Blackstone of Englewood Cliffs. She often performs for senior citizens and hospitals.

Lucas' 'American Graffiti' Helps With Image To Studios

A teen-age night in a California town of 1962. To the background of 42 songs of the period, the young people do their thing at the high school prom, on the main street, in the drive-in and in a drive-in.

"Easily the best movie so far this year," wrote Stephen Farber in the New York Times. "One of the most important American films of the year," said Charles Champlin in the Los Angeles Times. Paul D. Zimmerman of Newsweek called it a "brilliant, bitter-sweet memoir" with "tension and tough-minded complexity."

George Lucas wears his new-found praise well. He has just turned 29 and might look like a teen-ager except for his trimmed brown beard. His view of the film world is understandably mature. He has been through the mill.

"I look 'American Graffiti' to every major and minor company in Hollywood," said Lucas, "and every one of them turned it down. They told me that it was 'not interesting enough' or 'not enough story.'"

"American International Pictures finally said they would like me make the picture if I rewrote the script. I finally got Universal to agree to back me — but only because I got my friend, Francis Ford Coppola, to serve as producer. We made the deal the week that 'The Godfather' came out, and they were impressed with Francis."

With Coppola as overseer, Lucas filmed "American Graffiti" in Petaluma and San Rafael, Calif., in 28 days. Of rattraction takes place during a single night and early morning.

"I budgeted the picture at $800,000, but Universal insisted that I make it for $600,000," Lucas said. "It ended up at $700,000, plus about $50,000."

It was three years before Lucas was able to get "American Graffiti" before the cameras. Now he's finding it easier to peddle his next feature, "Space Fantasy with Capes and Ray Guns" — a $6 million idea which he'll make for $3 million.

HANDEL JOINS MOZART

NEW YORK (AP) — For the first time since it began in 1966, the annual Lincoln Center Mostly Mozart Festival will add the music of Handel to that of Mozart and Bach.

The festival, sponsored again by the Herman Goldman Foundation, will present 24 concerts during August at Philharmonic Hall. The New York Chamber Orchestra will again be the resident ensemble.

NAUMBURG BANDSHELL DEDICATED IN 1923

NEW YORK (AP) — The Naumburg Symphony Orchestra began its 48th year of free concert in the Central Park Mall on Memorial Day.

This year marks the 50th anniversary of the dedication of the Naumburg bandshell in September 1923. There will be a celebration of that event at the Labor Day concert.

TIMES CHANGE CHATTANOOGA, TENN. (AP)

— Army Spec. 6 John Sparks, a prisoner of war in North Vietnam for nearly five years, was asked about future plans when he returned home to a hero's welcome.

"It depends," replied Sparks, 25, a reconnaissance plane crewman.

"Right now I might have a hard time getting into college because my hair is so short."

Rod Stewart's Life Pledged to Faces

By MARY CAMPBELL AP Newsfeatures Writer Rod Stewart, who makes records on his own, definitely is part of Faces...

It is surprising the amount of people who don't know I'm with the band. It will always be the five of us. I'm with them...

Stewart had jammed with Mick Jagger, in the same hotel room in which we are talking and in which a few moments before, Stewart and keyboard player Ian McLagan have been toasting...

Yes, Mick was here. It was an incredible jam, both of us singing 'Love in Vain.' It was worth a million dollars if anybody had taped it...

Faces came from Small Faces, formed in 1965. In 1968 Steve Marriott left Small Faces to form Humble Pie...

It doesn't feel like we've been together a long time. It feels like we're still a new band, which is really good...

With the Small Faces, you could feel it aging. We listened to Ogdens' Nut Gone Flake and figured there was not much more we could do...

It is usually said that Faces sound different singing with the group than I do in my own albums. I don't know why that is...

When Stewart feels talked out, Kenny Jones begins to chat. Asked about the status of popularity of Faces as an English band, he says, 'People picked up on us in America first, then England liked us better when we went back. Now it is level in both places; in fact it is really big in England now.'

Faces and who are the top bands; whatever people prefer to second they can say so. I think we play more like the Stones. Who is a unique band. They've been together over 10 years without changing lineup. I love bands that stay together for a long time.

We've been together now three and a half years. We sit and a half-year from scratch. People forget it. You'll never get away with Stewart's no good. We just plodded on. We kept our sense of unity going and that got us over those first hard times. We played and played and got better and better and people liked us.

It doesn't feel like we've been together a long time. It feels like we're still a new band, which is really good. We still haven't reached any kind of peak of playing yet. We're constantly looking to improve ourselves.

With the Small Faces, you could feel it aging. We listened to Ogdens' Nut Gone Flake and figured there was not much more we could do. We were looking for other things any way that's why it came to an end.

Tuesday, August 28

Squirrel Hunting on Opening Day

Gray silhouettes of great tall hickories sprang from the blackness while deep in the darkness a whip-or-will's lonesome call lingered through the night. A bullfrog "burruped" and a wilson's snipe took to the air. Dawn was approaching. A few more steps and I'd be positioned so as to catch the hungry bushey tails on their breakfast route.

Settling beneath the tall oaks, listening intently to the low, mellow sound of nearby cattle and an occasional cricket, my senses became alert. To my right, already settled in for the wait was Linda, my companion and lady squirrel hunter. Linda had scouted these hickories the day before and found the trees swinging with bushey tails. Now we were waiting for the grand finale, a familiar sound of a bushey tail moving through the trees. Guns began to sound in the background as the silhouettes began to brighten and trees became evident. "Swish", "Swish" the tree leaves sounded off to my left. Easing my head to the side, there he was, a bushey tail jumping toward the hickory tree he'd left the afternoon before. At his final jump he'd grabbed a nut and was now munching and crunching while the nut chips fell to the ground. By this time I'd managed to ease beneath the tree and had pulled a bead on him. At the crack of the gun Mr. Bushey Tail fell with a plop but took off at dead run. Another quick load of number 6 shot and he was soon in the bag.

When the shock of the shots had settled, the woods became alive once more, and a squirrel began to bark. A quick turn allowed me to glimpse a running squirrel as he scampered down the tree. A mid air jump and a lead of No. 6's meet head on and the squirrel fell limply on the leaves. Slipping him in the game bag with the other two, I gently eased on toward a tree that was emitting falling pieces of hickory nuts. "Boom" I nearly jumped out of my skin. Linda had also heard the bushey tail and had beaten me to him. "Boom" she she plucked another from the trees to her right. A small boy and his grandfather had moved in on us now in search of a bushey tail. We gingerly moved on so they could have their fun. After a quick planning session, we decided to separate, I took the left side of the woods and Linda eased down the right side.

Earlier that same morning my good friends Clayton Garland, Pat Scott, Jim Spann and I had met downtown where we'd made plans for our meeting and swapping stories when our morning hunting was finished.

They had entered a small woods to the east of us and were making their way through the hickories. Clayton later reported that he'd seen a snake and had shot a squirrel in the first woods, while Pat had picked out several bushey tails behind a small barn, as they moved toward their breakfast trees. Jim had been invaded by several other hunters and disgusted he took off for another spot where he knocked out several bushey tails and saw another hunter pull a squirrel from the middle of a flowing creek where it had fallen, after he'd shot it.

Linda's Remington 1100 was sounding off every now and then so I knew she'd probably gathered a few more squirrels. I eased right on through the woods and picked up another squirrel as I went. Above, bending and rattling the limbs, a squirrel "Boom" he fell limply, plopping against limbs as he dropped.

By now Linda had moved in and motioned she was ready to leave. "How many?" I whispered hoping she'd read my lips. She held up four fingers and grinned like a big opossum. "Not bad" I said, "for a girl." She shrugged it off but I could tell she didn't like that wise crack one bit.

Clayton and Pat had moved to another woods now and Jim had taken his squirrels and gone home. Just as I stepped from the car Pat came easing from the woods where he's seen a few squirrels a few days before but today the cupboard was bare. After we'd shown off our squirrels to each other and told our stories of how we'd taken each, we decided to move back to the woods where Linda and I had hunted, to try for a few more squirrels.

Clayton moved off toward a mass of tall hickories while Pat went through the center of the wooded lot. I decided to move across the field to try for another grey bushey tail. I'd only gone a short distance "Boom" sounded like a 12 gauge and Pat was shooting his pump today, then "pow" Clayton's single shot 20 gauge cut loose. About then is when a chatter grey came bursting out a limb toward me. With one shot from the 870 pump he was added to the bag. With my limit complete I decided to cross back to the woods where Clayton had shot a few minutes earlier. "Boom" Clayton's gun cut loose. "I'll pull a good one on him." I thought to myself. So I suppressed a laugh and yelled.

"Don't allow no huntin in here." I could see Clayton didn't know that I had permission from the look on his face, and he hadn't seen me yet. About then a bushey tail ran out and up the tree in front of him and hid behind the bark and leaves. Just to help Clayton, I slipped on in his direction and shook a limb causing the squirrel to take to a run. Ole' dead eye Clayton then added him to the bag.

Pat had a squirrel treed when Clayton and I eased our way over to him. "I know he's up there." Pat says. Well we shook and banged that tree but that squirrel hung tight. With disgust we left the tree to head home for some scrambled eggs and bacon, after all, we'd already had our fun for the day and were making plans for another hunt. But we had forgotten that we had a pile of squirrels to clean after breakfast and that ain't as much fun as shooting them, believe me.

Al's Tips

1. If you're a handloader, remember that top accuracy is usually achieved with slightly less than maximum charges and that extra hot loads will not necessarily assure you of clean game hits. Follow the instructions and tables in a standard loading manual, working up slowly from mild loads to more potent loads. As you work up, check each new batch of loads for accuracy and pressure signs. The slightest cratering of primers usually indicates pressure-meaning that the load is too hot for perfect safety. Also bear in mind that brass wears out with repeated reloading and firing. After cleaning the empties, check each one. Any case with even the smallest flaw should be discarded.

2. The fit of a shotgun to the individual shooter is just as important as the fit of a rifle. If you don't feel comfortable with your gun or if you're not shooting as well as you think, you should ask a gunsmith about a fitting. Expensive custom-made guns are, of course, fitted to your specifications, but mass-produced arms must be made to fit the average shooter—and no individual is precisely average. A good gunsmith can alter the stock slightly at reasonable cost and thus improve your shooting tremendously.

Sportsman's Notebook

Fishing for bass is still slow, however a few nice keepers are being taken early and late off the stumps on top water lures and plastic worms. Stripes are still good in the jumps while bream and crappie are being taken deep on the ledges. Sauger are still being taken deep by trolling. Catfish are still biting next to deep water with the main channel producing the best catches. Water temperature is in the low 80's and stands at 35°.

You deer hunters be sure to get a set of regulations at the information office at Land Between The Lakes. Then read them. This year no permanent stands may be built or occupied. There will be officials roaming the woods to see if hunters are following the regulations. If a hunter is caught violating the tree stand ruling his permit will be revoked and-or he'll be taken to court. So let's go portable. The deer bow season begins Oct. 13 in Land Between The Lakes and extends to Nov. 3. If you're planning on getting your wild turkey with a bow (which will be a first for anyone) you'll have to get it before you get your deer, because you can't bow hunt for turkey (on the same permit) after you've killed your deer. A Kentucky deer tag and a hunting license is required to hunt. Also remember that no device that damages the tree in any way may be used to climb the tree, no nails, spikes, pole climber's or screw in devices nor wire may be used legally. Your stand cannot be put on a tree until two weeks before the season begins.

Stands may be chained, belted, clamped or tied with rope and may have small stabilization spikes or blades to adhere to the tree. Climbing blocks may be attached with cord or chain and must be removed after the season. Remember your stand must have name, address, and phone number, to be legal.

The Murray Deer Sportsmen Club will at last become a reality. This club will hold its organization meeting Tuesday night at 7 p.m. in the council room at City Hall. All bow and gun hunters that like fellowship, fun and good sportsmanship come on up, we need men that want to participate. If you're the type that won't take active part then this club is not for you; however, if you're enthusiastic about deer hunting and want to preserve and improve the sport and are willing to work hard to do it, "We need You." Come on in.

Duck hunters, we've been cut 10 days on our season this year. But we still get four ducks and this year we can take a canvas back or redhead. Duck season will open December 12, and close Jan. 20 with four limit and eight possession.

Goose season will be Nov. 12 to Jan. 20 with only western counties taking two canadases. Other counties will be allowed only one Canada goose.

Ballard County Refuge reservations will be accepted no later than Sept. 10 with 3 hunters per blind this year and $5 per person or $15 per pit the cost.

Cleaning a squirrel can be easy. Just start at the tail with an incision.

Once you have the skin cut, step on the tail and pull the skin away like a sweater, then all that you have to do is take the entrails out.

Clayton Garland and Pat Scott prepare to clean a mess of squirrels taken on opening day of season.

Linda Allen picks up her bushey tail and scans the trees for another.

Lilley Cornett Woods Last Trace Of An Era

BLACKEY, KY.—What may be the world's last trace of an era extending back 70 million years stands in Letcher County. The Lilley Cornett Woods, 554 acres with 175 acres of virgin forest, is the largest known remnant of one of the greatest forests of all time - the Mixed Mesophytic Forest. That forest contained more species of trees than any other forest in the world outside the tropics. Eastern Kentucky is the center of a small area in which the Mixed Mesophytic Forest was confined because of geologic and climatic changes beginning 30 million years ago. A few mountain areas in China may contain a similar forest and a few small tracts elsewhere contain some traces of the era.

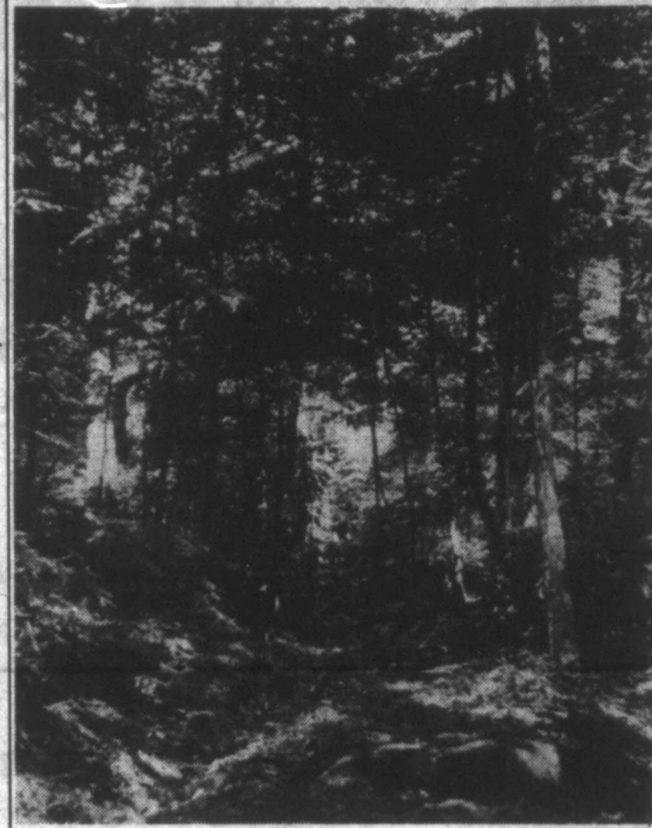

However, the small tracts are not large enough to provide the environment necessary for the continuing renewal of a Mixed Mesophytic Forest with all its variety, according to Harry Nadler, director of the Division of Forestry in the Kentucky Department for Natural Resources and Environmental Protection, which supervises the Lilley Cornett Woods. At least 64 species of trees have been found in the Lilley Cornett Woods, Nadler said. Of those, many were growing when Columbus discovered America. There remains a red oak 51.2 inches in diameter, a white oak 47.2 inches in diameter and 150 feet tall, and a chestnut oak 47.4 inches in diameter.

Many of the plants growing in the woods are rarely found elsewhere. Those include crested dwarf iris, pink lady's slipper, spotted mandarin, belleart and trillium. Much of the credit for the existence of the virgin forest which bears his name belongs to Lilley Cornett. Cornett bought the woods about 1918 with money earned at 10 cents an hour as a coal miner in Virginia. After buying the land, he refused to sell it or to allow the trees to be cut. The only trees cut were chestnuts killed by the chestnut blight. Lumber needed on the farm was purchased from neighbors.

Cornett left the woods in undivided shares to his four sons, who also refused to let the timber be cut. The sons sold the woods to the state in 1969 to preserve it for future generations.

Nadler said the Forestry Division is developing several hiking trails and setting aside much of the forest for scientific study. "We're developing the area as an outdoor scientific laboratory for investigations relating to the flora of the Mixed Mesophytic Forest and as an outdoor museum of vegetative progression and development," Nadler said. "All people can visit the area to become aware of the ecological changes in plant life and the environment in the evolutionary process." An information and museum building was opened recently near the woods.

SUMMER TRANQUILITY—The Lilley Cornett Woods in Letcher County, the largest known remnant of the Mixed Mesophytic Forest, is operated by the Division of Forestry in the Kentucky Department for Natural Resources and Environmental Protection. It may be the world's last trace of an era dating back 70 million years.

Public Relations Notebook

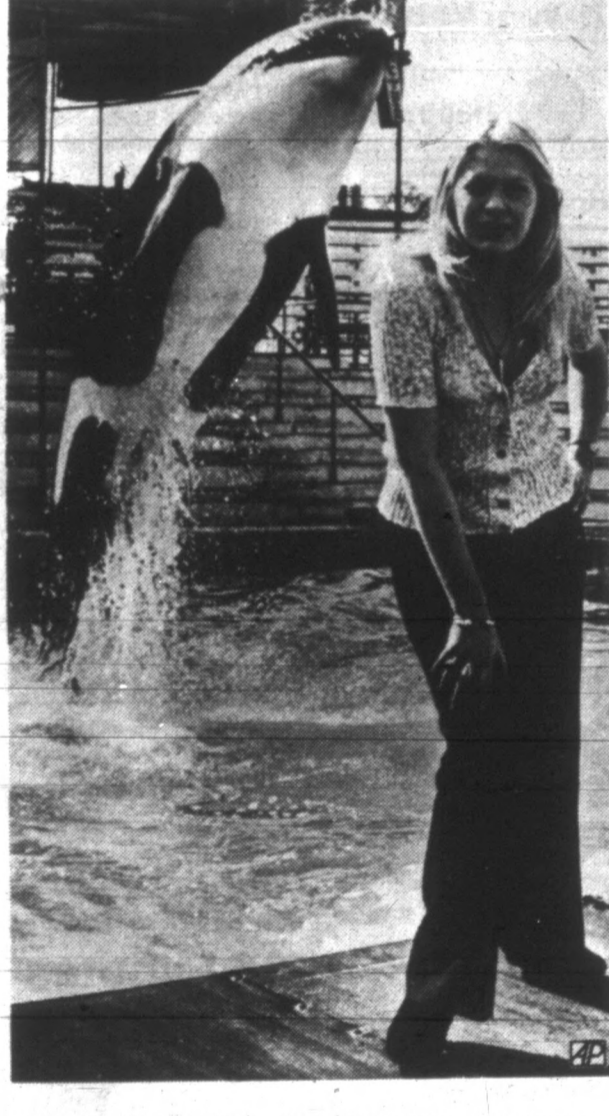

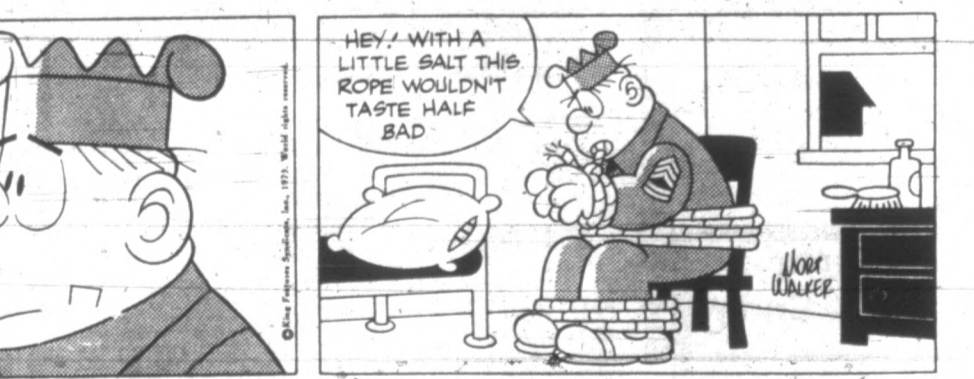

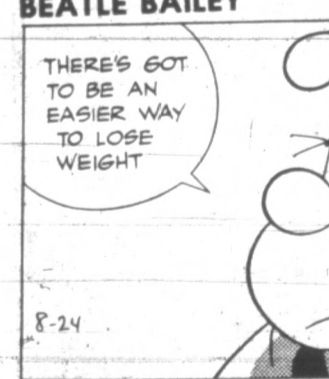

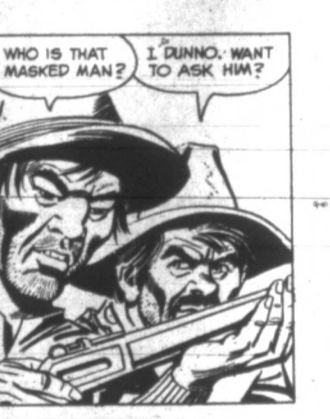

By J. Neil Woodruff, Ph.D.
Associate Professor of Journalism
Murray State University

Media which is used as public relations tools quite often find that they too have a constant and sometimes difficult job in order to insure a proper image of their organization before the public. Media which falls into this classification includes newspapers, radio, television, magazines and many others. Larger newspapers and television stations are today placing a great deal of emphasis upon this aspect of their operation. Media which is trying to perform objectively and fairly in any community is constantly conscious of their image as reflected to the public. And most will go to great lengths to correct or prevent a bad impression. Media today is considered pretty much in the monopoly category. One-ownership of two or more mass communication mediums is fairly common. But the door is always open to competition. The biggest drawback to the establishment of new media is a simple case of economics. It takes a fortune to make the move. Because of the monopolistic or one-ownership trend of media, it becomes much more important, at least theoretically, that media be more conscious of their image in their community due to the reason that they do have control of news and entertainment outlets. This is why conscientious ownership will constantly strive to promote and maintain a high degree of responsibility toward its public.

The editor of a newspaper or magazine or the manager of a radio or television station has a social responsibility which requires that he possess a conscience, that he has the necessary authority to maintain high standards in presentations through his medium and that he be allowed to hold the power, in his own right, of serving as a trustee of the public interest. The right to be in error must be included in the rights and responsibilities of free public presentations. Use of the term press has come to include media as newspapers, radio, television, magazines, motion pictures and others. Those persons who devote years of their lives to studying the press conclude in their studies that the press must be accountable. It must be accountable to society and forever maintain the rights of citizens. The moral responsibility of the press is and will continue to be conditioned upon its acceptance and accountability. William Cullen Bryant once wrote that the press is a mill that grinds all that is put into its hopper. Fill the hopper with poisoned grain and it will grind it to meal, but there is death in the bread. The press is a public trust and its performance should be based on nothing more than its responsibility to the public for which it serves. A responsible press is conscious of its role in our society. Owners and managers of the press should never become blinded to their basic obligation to the public.

Festival Stopped In Tennessee By Courts

BENTON, Tenn. (AP)—Plans for a mammoth rock music festival on a 500 acre farm near here have been abandoned but the promoters have called on the nation's youth to descend on Southeast Tennessee Labor Day weekend anyway.

And state Safety Commissioner Claude Armour, upon hearing of the promoters' plans to hold a free festival on another site, vowed that state officials "are going to protect life and property anywhere in Tennessee."

A spokesman for C. C. Manifest, Inc., the Evansville, Ind., promoter behind the "Midwest Monster Peace Jubilee and Music Festival," announced that the event had been cancelled Thursday afternoon only hours after a state judge signed a temporary injunction against it.

Instead, Jack Garland of Chattanooga said, there will be a free concert that weekend at a site to be named Aug. 31.

Garland, Manifest's national press director, speaking from the federal courthouse steps in Chattanooga, bitterly assailed Tennessee officials aid the courts for their role in stopping the festival.

"I know now that justice in Tennessee is only for those who dress and wear their hair in a manner suitable to those who have been corrupted by power," he declared.

"We issue an appeal to the youth of America to support this festival by converging upon this area on Labor Day weekend in massive droves in order that we as an entire generation might demonstrate to the people of America that there is and shall be freedom of enterprise in this country..."

In announcing the free music festival, Garland would say only that the new site would be in Southeast Tennessee. He did not say who the entertainers would be.

"The site will be named Freedom Valley, America," he said, adding that any audience donations would go for a crippled children's hospital.

The injunction against the festival was issued Thursday morning, climaxing three weeks of legal wrangling and of ten bitter conflict between the promoters and county and state officials.

When Bob Alexander, who has been described variously as an official of the promotion firm and as a consultant, first arrived in Benton to begin arrangements, county officials were virtually unanimous in their opposition.

Alexander had announced that the festival would be held on the 1,200 acre cattle farm of County Judge Dennis White who left last week for a two-week cattlemen's good will tour of Europe.

Fall Key '73 Breakfasts Are Planned Here

The Fall Series of Key '73 Monday Morning Breakfast Sessions is now underway at the Holiday Inn weekly. Rev. Martin Mattingly, Phase III chairman, is presiding at the "Directed Witnessing Studies." The public is invited this coming Monday morning at eight o'clock.

Key '73 is a year long program launched last Thanksgiving here in Calloway County and sponsored by the Murray-Calloway County Ministerial Association. Nationally Key '73 is the joint undertaking of over 150 Christian denominations and groups to "Call our Continent to Christ" during the calendar year of 1973.

Here in Calloway County the program for the year has been broken into six phases with inter-denominational committees working together on each phase.

Phase 1 "Called our Continent to Prayer and Repentance" and was chaired by Rev. Gene Keith; Phase 2 "Called our continent to the Word of God" and was presided over by Rev. Jerrell White; Phase 3 "Called our continent to the Resurrection" was led by Rev. Martin Mattingly; Phase 4 "Called our continent to New Life" was chaired by Charles Guthrie; Phase 5, "Called our continent to Proclamation" was directed by Rev. Bill Hart; and Phase 6 begins operation soon with the theme "Calling our continent to Commitment" with Rev. Paul Wanger in charge.

Rev. Gene Keith has served as over all general chairman of Key '73 with Rev. David Roos handling the publicity.

Willie W. Kelly Dies At Motel

Willie Wilson Kelly died Thursday at noon at the East Town Motel, Mayfield, where he was employed. He was 56 years of age.

Death was due to a self-inflicted gun shot wound in the right temple, according to J.G. Sanders, deputy coroner for Graves County. Kelly was a member of the Sixth Street Baptist Church, Royal Oak, Mich.

Born November 18, 1916, in Graves County, he was the son of the late John Edward Kelly and Kitty Mangrum Kelly. He is survived by three sisters, Miss Reba Kelly and Mrs. Trixie Kelly Keeling, both of Mayfield, and Mrs. Ollie Adair of Clawson, Mich.

Funeral services will be held Saturday at two p.m. at the Beech Grove Cumberland Presbyterian Church, west of Lynn Grove, with Rev. Jimmy Maddox of Mayfield officiating.

Serving as pallbearers will be Jesse Kelly, Howard Kelly, Paul Kelly, Hillard Mangrum, Hoyt Mangrum, and Harley Cloys, all nephews of the deceased.

Burial will be in the Beech Grove Cemetery with the arrangements by the Max Churchill Funeral Home where friends may call after four p.m. today (Friday).

The family requests that in lieu of flowers that donations be made to the person's favorite charity.

M. Livingston Dies Thursday

Milton M. Livingston, Sr., wholesale grocer, died Thursday at 9:30 a.m. at his residence at Paducah.

The Murray Cash and Carry here will be closed until Monday, August 27, due to the death of Mr. Livingston.

Livingston was 65 years of age and was a member of Temple Israel. He is survived by his wife, Mrs. Alene F. Livingston, one son, Milton M. Livingston, Jr., one daughter, Mrs. Bill Bob Conyer of Paducah, and four grandchildren, all of Paducah.

Funeral services will be held today at 4:30 p.m. at the chapel of the Roth Funeral Home, Paducah, with Rabbi Max Kaufman officiating. Burial will be in Temple Israel Cemetery.

Activities For MSU Freshmen Are Scheduled

Freshman arriving on the campus of Murray State University for the fall semester will become involved in a busy schedule of orientation and get-acquainted activities during the first week.

Stu Phillips, a junior from Fordville who is serving as the student government's chairman of Freshman Week, listed this calendar of events for an estimated 1,500 new freshmen:

Sunday - President's Reception for freshmen in Winslow Cafeteria, 3 to 4 p.m.; and freshmen orientation in Lovett Auditorium, 6 p.m., followed by a dance sponsored by the ROTC outside Ordway Hall.

Monday - Adviser assignments and individual schedule planning in Lovett Auditorium, 9 a.m.; registration of freshmen in Waterfield Student Union Building, noon to 4 p.m.; and a dance sponsored by the student government in front of Hester Hall, 7:30 to 11:30 p.m.

Tuesday - Movie sponsored by the student government in the University School Auditorium, 7:30 p.m.

Wednesday - Open house in the churches of the community during the regular evening service hours.

Thursday - Coffee house entertainment at the United Campus Ministry, 8 to 11 p.m. Classes for the fall semester begin on Wednesday, Aug. 29.

Judge To Rule On Ken-Bar Bids

GILBERTSVILLE, Ky. (AP) - A U.S. District Court in Nashville, Tenn., is expected to rule next week on bids received Thursday at a bankruptcy sale of the Ken-Bar Inn Resort property near Kentucky Dam Village State Park.

The high bid of $735,000 was offered by two men from Savannah, Tenn., Bob Shackelford, a funeral home operator, and Roy Crunk, operator of a real estate business.

Sale of the Ken-Bar property requires approval by the federal court in Tennessee before it becomes final. A court session tentatively has been set for next Wednesday to consider the auction.

Second high bid was offered by Carl Harris, chief executive officer of Rulon Co. of Chicago, at $730,000.

Jasper Jones, president of Delta Auction Co. of Memphis, Tenn., which handled the sale, noted that the Ken-Bar motel itself was not bankrupt. The sale was ordered, he said, to dispose of the assets of AMC Development Co. of Union City, Tenn., as part of a reorganization of AMC's parent company, Airport Machining Co. of Union City.

The property involves a 144-room motel, 260 acres of land and a building housing a branch of the Bank of Marshall County, Benton.

State Police 'Beefing Up' Narcotics Unit

FRANKFORT, Ky. (AP) - The Kentucky State Police are beefing up their narcotics unit in an effort to develop what the unit commander calls one of the most "sophisticated" units of its type in the country.

Capt. Edwin Miller said the unit will be increased from eight to 24 men by next March. He said the first five of 16 special narcotics detectives already have been stationed throughout the state.

Miller also said a research analyst has been hired to help draft an approach to battling the drug problem.

An annual report by the State Department of Safety showed that the largest percentage increase of crimes reported to State Police last year involved drug offenses.

Information Leaks To Be Investigated

By MARGARET SCHERF Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) - An acting assistant attorney general has been ordered by Atty. Gen. Elliot L. Richardson to investigate supposed leaks of information from the Justice Department about kickback allegations against Vice President Spiro T. Agnew.

Richardson Thursday also has asked FBI Director Clarence M. Kelley to make FBI personnel available as needed to assist in the inquiry.

The attorney general disclosed these steps in a letter Thursday to Agnew, who has complained of "vicious and illegal" leaks to news media about the allegations against him in a Maryland kickback investigation.

Richardson said he has put acting Asst. Atty. Gen. Glen E. Pommerening in charge of the probe.

"Should any of the leaks be traced to Department of Justice personnel, departmental regulations providing administrative sanctions, including dismissal, will apply," Richardson said in his letter to Agnew.

A Justice Department source said Thursday that at least some of the allegations made publicly about the criminal investigation involving Agnew are erroneous.

He said many of the allegations sound "like it's getting out second or third hand."

He speculated that some leaks might be coming from the White House but said such leaks wouldn't necessarily be intentional, but might be the product of sloppy handling of information relayed by the Justice Department.

"There are two people at the White House who are kept fully informed on what our findings are," said a Justice Department source, referring to President Nixon and his chief of staff, Alexander M. Haig Jr. "It's not inconceivable that information could have filtered down through other staff from them and gotten out that way."

A member of Agnew's staff also said he had been getting indications of White House leaks but said he was sure any such leaks were not a plot designed to hurt the vice president.

In San Clemente, Calif., Deputy White House Press Secretary Gerald L. Warren called the reports of White House leaks "totally false."

Theodore Standley Funeral Services Are On Saturday

Funeral services for Theodore Standley of Murray Route Six will be held Saturday at eleven a.m. at the chapel of the Blalock-Coleman Funeral Home with Rev. Robert A. Brockhoff officiating.

Pallbearers will be Troy Bogard, Jim Bogard, James Dale Weatherford, Thomas Hout, Larry Hout, and Arthur Burk.

Interment will be in the Elm Grove Cemetery with the arrangements by the Blalock-Coleman Funeral Home where friends may call.

Standley, age 66, died Thursday at 4:25 a.m. at the Henry County General Hospital, Paris, Tenn. He was a member of the Lutheran Church, a veteran of World War II, and had resided in Calloway County for about a year since his retirement at Palatine, Ill.

Mirecki of Fort Campbell; step granddaughter, Deborah Mirecki; four sisters, Mrs. Della Clauer of Dubuque, Iowa, Mrs. Helen Frederick of Miami, Fla., Mrs. Blanch St. Lawrence and Mrs. Bertha Collect, both of Des Plaines, Ill.; one brother, Pete Standley of Des Plaines, Ill.

Cooling Trend Predicted In Western Forest Areas

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Firefighters in parts of the West welcomed predictions of a cooling trend today. But conditions remained hot near Reno, Nev., where new fires were reported Thursday night.

Dick Klade, spokesman for the Interagency Fire Control Center in Boise, Idaho, said Reno authorities had requested two air tankers to fight the outbreaks there. He had no further details.

Meanwhile, only six major fires remained uncontrolled Thursday in California, Oregon, Idaho and Montana, burning a total of 40,455 acres. A total of 51 fires have burned 190,100 acres in those states, said Klade.

He predicted all the fires in the West would be contained by Sunday except for the Freeze-out fire in Oregon's Willows-Whitman National Forest. He said he could make no prediction on the Freezeout fire.

Klade said the National Weather Service predicted Thursday's cool weather and scattered showers would continue. He said the Northwest "still could catch some thundershowers in fire areas," but gusty winds, particularly in northern California, could cause problems.

"The National Weather Service here says this summer's drought is as severe and as widespread as any since 1934. We're still in that situation and have high fire danger. But, things are beginning to look better," he said.

About 10,000 men were still fighting the fires, but 26 crews - about 520 men - will be demobilized in the next few days, he said.

Sportsmen Plan Wildlife Refuge

LEXINGTON, Ky. (AP) - A resolution approved by the Lexington City Commission Thursday will permit the Bluegrass Sportsmen's Club to transform 415 acres of city-owned property into wildlife refuge and conservation areas.

The tracts involved are 265 acres on the Kentucky River near Jacks Creek Pike and 150 acres west of West Hickman Creek and north of Ash Grove Pike in Jessamine County.

Roy M. Haddix, president of the Sportsmen's Club, said the club will maintain and preserve the land for use by the public and will develop the property in stages.

The city will lease the property to the Sportsmen's Club on a year to year basis. The club will maintain the property in lieu of paying rent.

walk, sometimes more than an hour.

"It's pretty much your show up there with the station activity today," McCandless told them.

During a 15-minute period when neither the old nor the new gyros were to operate, officials expected the station to drift slightly in orientation. If the drift in roll, pitch or yaw should be more than expected, Bean was to maintain stability with the controls of the Apollo ferry ship docked at one end of the laboratory.

The space walk originally was planned only to change film in the battery of telescopes through which the astronauts observe and photograph the sun.

But during the Skylab-4 mission, the original set of gyroscopes became overheated and some started to deteriorate. So Bean, Garriott and Lousma brought up with them six replacement gyros in a container they have nicknamed a "gyro six pack."

On Saturday at 8:01 a.m. EDT, Skylab 2 will set a new space endurance record, breaking the 28-day-50-minute mark established by Skylab 1 in June.

Economists Say Most Americans Are Better Off Than They Think

WASHINGTON (AP) - Administration economists say most Americans are better off financially than they think they are, despite inflation.

Herbert Stein, chairman of the President's Council of Economic Advisers, said Thursday the housewife may have "an exaggerated idea of the rate of inflation" because of what she sees in the supermarket.

"Inflation is a worldwide phenomenon and our position is relatively favorable," said John T. Dunlop, director of the Cost of Living Council.

Dunlop and Stein were emphasizing points that the administration has been trying to make for months. They are: -Inflation is much worse in most other major industrial countries than in the United States. -Most Americans are beating inflation because their income is rising faster than prices.

Stein said real disposable income - income after taxes and taking inflation into account - has increased 5 per cent in the past year.

But Americans still think they're worse off, said Stein, and this has the administration worried.

"It is not good to have all of the people in the country unhappy," he told newsmen at a briefing.

One explanation Stein gave for what he termed this "important economic and social phenomenon" was that the increasing price of food gives an exaggerated idea of the rate of price increases overall.

In addition, he said that although income and employment both have been increasing, "income increases are commonly regarded as barely sufficient to keep pace with the recipient's just deserts, whereas price increases tend to be regarded as extortions which make a person worse off than he ought to be."

Stein did note that the rate of increase of real incomes has slowed this year and that average real weekly take-home pay of non-farm workers has been lower, because of an increase in social security payroll taxes.

Both Stein and Dunlop again declined to make predictions on the rate of inflation in the months ahead, although Stein forecast it would be "substantially below" the 8 per cent inflation so far this year.

In another economic development, the Cost of Living Council asked Atlantic Richfield Co.

Hearing To Be Held, Robbery Suspects

LEXINGTON, Ky. (AP) - Two Lexington men charged with the robbery of a branch of the Clark County National Bank in nearby Winchester last week are scheduled to be arraigned in U.S. District Court here Oct. 1.

They are William James Berryman, 27, and Tony C. Lucky, 24, charged with robbery of $6,000 from the bank last Thursday.

The men were bound over to the federal grand jury Thursday by U.S.

for the Ledger and Times had covered the meetings of the Murray City Council for the past twenty seven years and that the meeting last night would be the last meeting that he would cover for the daily newspaper. He made the motion that Williams be commended for the service he had rendered to the Council and to the citizens of Murray in reporting the actions of the Council over the years. Mayor Holmes Ellis asked for a standing vote which was unanimous.

Councilman William R. Furches reported that the new ladder truck has arrived and that it is fully manned. He asked the council to promote Firemen Boyd and Prescott to the position of Fire Lieutenant since they will be in charge of the new truck and will be the drivers of the truck. This was approved.

Mayor Ellis announced that the Kentucky Municipal League will meet in Louisville on September 19-21 and asked for council approval for the expenses of those councilmen who would attend. This was approved. He noted that the League is seeking to have cities exempt from paying sales taxes on what they purchase. The only thing exempt at this time is rolling stock used by cities.

Mayor Ellis announced that Fire Captain James Pridemore had offered his resignation as of August 31. His resignation was accepted with regret. Pridemore is a six year veteran with the Murray Fire Department.

Councilman Buel Stalls told the council that the real reason for Pridemore's resignation was that he had been promised a position on the new ladder truck but that he was not given this position. Stalls said that Pridemore had asked for a position on the Police Department and that the reason he stayed with the Fire Department was because he had been promised a position on the new truck.

Stalls said that he was even given schooling on the new ladder truck at the city's ex-
