Review Of Presidential Taxes Show Signs Of Broadening

WASHINGTON (AP) — The congressional review of President Nixon's tax returns and deductions shows signs of broadening before it has really begun.

Sen. Russell B. Long, D-La., vice chairman of the Joint Committee on Internal Revenue Taxation, said Monday he expects the committee to go beyond the two areas Nixon designated for special attention when he asked for the review.

"We probably will conduct a complete audit on the President's tax returns, as has been customary whenever we look at other individuals' tax returns," Long said.

He predicted the audit would take a month or more and said he would not prejudice the findings, but he added they would be made public — "I do not believe we will want to keep anything confidential."

The two controversial issues Nixon designated for special study were whether he was entitled to the $76,000 deduction he took for giving his vice presidential papers to the National Archives and whether he should have reported and paid tax on a $117,370 capital gain on the sale of part of his San Clemente property.

Largely because of the deduction for the papers, Nixon, after paying $72,662 in federal income tax for 1969, paid $792 for 1970, $878 for 1971 and $4,296 for 1972.

Long said the committee will meet Wednesday with its staff to chart the inquiry. It has not been decided whether to hold hearings, he said.

Focusing on another aspect of Nixon's weekend disclosure of his tax affairs, that he had paid no state income tax, House Democratic leaders used a news conference to tell reporters they regularly paid tax to their home states.

Speaker Carl Albert volunteered that he is paying $875 a quarter to Oklahoma on his estimate of 1972 tax liability; Majority Leader Thomas P. O'Neill said he is paying Massachusetts about $2,000 a year and Whip John J. McFall said his quarterly payment to California is more than $600.

Bright Spots Penetrate Darkness Of Energy Crisis In U.S. Monday

By DUDLEY LEHEW
Associated Press Writer

Don't turn the thermostat back up or all the lights back on. But a few bright spots have pierced the darkness of the energy crisis.

The stock market continued its upward surge Monday, a research firm said the Arab oil embargo wouldn't be as severe as expected, and an Arab oil minister said conditions for the embargo have changed.

The Petroleum Industry Research Foundation, Inc., said Monday the U.S. fuel shortage will be a little less severe the first three months of 1974 than the government had thought.

The firm estimated the country's oil shortage at up to 2.8 million barrels a day. The government's figure is 3.5 million barrels a day.

One source said the government's estimate appeared to have been based on the worst possible supply and weather predictions.

The stock market surged upward for the third straight session Monday. Analysts said investors turned away from the energy crisis and returned to the business of buying stocks. They said the absence of bad news from the Middle East contributed to the advance.

And, Saudi Arabian Oil Minister Sheikh Ahmed Zaki al Yamani said in Washington that the Arab oil embargo could end early next month if Israel promises to withdraw from occupied Arab territory.

He said the embargo was "originally linked to the complete withdrawal of Israel." But he said Arab oil producing nations will now lift the embargo when Israel agrees to withdraw from occupied lands and the United States guarantees the withdrawal.

The Congress, meanwhile, took steps to cope with the crisis.

The Senate passed a bill requiring the labeling of cars and major household appliances as to their energy consumption. The measure also requires federal agencies to consider the energy shortage in developing policies and programs, and it sets aside research money to develop auto engines which use less gasoline.

Burley Prices Slip Over $1 On Monday

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — Livestock Reporting service said government figures released Monday have revised downward the estimate for the 1973 crop.

Koepfer said the government figures now place the crop at 493,170,000 pounds, compared with 500,300,000 estimated in November.

If the latest estimate holds, the crop will be the smallest since 1960, with the exception of the 1971 crop which also was damaged by adverse growing conditions.

WINTER BAND CONCERT WEDNESDAY

A headline on the front page of Monday's Ledger & Times was incorrect. The headline, which concerned the Murray State Winter Band Concert, said the concert was scheduled for tonight, but the concert is actually scheduled for Wednesday night, as pointed out in the accompanying article.

The high single-day average for the season, $99.10 per hundred, was recorded last Wednesday.

Farmers sold a total of 21,848,203 pounds Monday for $21,267,049.42.

The high price was at Lebanon, where 583,984 pounds sold for $98.65 per hundred. Horse Cave recorded the low average price of $93.63 on volume of $1,115,570.

The price at Lexington was $97.67 per hundredweight for 3,263,597 pounds.

The Federal-State Market News Service said prices across the eight state Burley Belt showed a trend similar to that in Kentucky. The service said prices were slightly lower with losses of $1 to $2 per hundredweight from last Thursday's levels.

Quality improved, the service said, with a larger percentage of good and fair tobacco and less lower grades and nondescript offered for sale.

Meanwhile, James M. Koepfer of the Kentucky Crop and

House Votes Against U.S.-Soviet Loans

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House voted today to prohibit billions of dollars in U.S. credit loans essential for Soviet trade until President Nixon can certify that the Soviets allow Jews and other citizens to emigrate freely.

The prohibition was proposed by Rep. Charles A. Vanik, D-Ohio, who said it is aimed at forcing the Soviets to grant their citizens the basic human right of free emigration.

"Passage of this bill will be a reminder to the world," Vanik said, "that this country is still the hope of free men everywhere."

WKRTCC To Improve Service In Exchanges

The Mayfield-based West Kentucky Rural Telephone Cooperative Corporation will spend $3,182,000 to expand and improve its services in six telephone exchanges in extreme Western Kentucky.

Approval of the sale of $3,182,000 in WKRTCC bonds to finance the improvement of WKRTCC service was given Monday by the Public Service Commission.

A spokesman in the office of Percy Finks, WKRTCC manager in Mayfield, said other of the firm's 12 exchanges will be converted to one-party service as soon as possible.

The exchanges to be converted to one-party service now are Hardin, Fairdealing, Hazel, Hickory, Lynn Grove and New Concord.

System improvement construction is expected to begin whenever contracts are let in April. The project is expected to be completed by December, 1974, the spokesman said.

The loan announced today will be used to improve service in the six exchanges listed above and also to improve WKRTCC headquarters in Mayfield. The spokesman said a slight increase in rates will be placed in effect to customers in the one-party exchanges.

The WKRTCC serves approximately 10,000 customers in Graves, Calloway, Carlisle, Marshall, Hickman and McCracken counties in West Kentucky and Henry and Weakley counties in Northwest Tennessee.

Legislative Package Would Raise Pay For Classroom Teachers

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — The state department of public instruction has prepared a legislative package that would include raises for classroom teachers of 7 and 9 per cent over the next two years.

Dr. Lyman Ginger, state superintendent of public instruction, said Monday the budget proposal was a "reasonable and fundable" program, based on what education could expect to receive in view of the opposition to additional school tax support voiced by Gov. Wendell Ford and some legislative leaders.

Ginger declined to put a price tag on the legislative package. But he told the annual conference of local school superintendents here that he was "almost certain" the following requests would be approved in their entirety by the next legislature:

Two-step raises for classroom teachers over the biennium of 7 per cent the first year and 9 per cent the second year.

Increases of six per cent each year of the biennium for state supported capital construction funds, and increases of 7 and 9 per cent in current funds for local school districts.

"A total over the biennium of 655 new vocational education classes" and construction of "415 million to 520 million" worth of new vocational schools for the state.

France-U.S. Encounter Marks NATO Conference

BRUSSELS (AP) — The foreign ministers of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization and another semiannual meeting today marked by another sharp encounter between France and the United States.

The ministers were to sign the usual conference communiqué. It was expected to close ranks on paper but to leave unresolved differences among the allies in the wake of Soviet-American detente and the October Middle East war.

Diplomats said the allies also were considering making their meeting next spring a summit session in honor of NATO's 25th anniversary, with a new declaration of principles to revitalize the Atlantic partnership.

French Foreign Minister Michel Jobert charged at Monday's meeting that the agreement last June between President Nixon and Soviet leader Leonid I. Brezhnev to lessen the risk of nuclear war subordinated NATO's role and cast doubt on America's commitment to defend Western Europe.

Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger told the other ministers he could not "stand idly by" and let certain allies persist with such misinterpretations. He said the Nixon-Brezhnev agreement to consult in times of crisis to avert nuclear war did not negate U.S. nuclear protection of Europe, but in fact enhanced it.

Conference sources said Kissinger also told Jobert that if misinterpretations continue, he would be forced to conclude that they are not inadvertent. This was a diplomatic way of saying that it looked as if Jobert might be deliberately trying to make trouble in the alliance.

Decoration Contest Is Cancelled

In cooperation with the national effort to conserve energy, the Garden Department of the Murray Woman's Club has canceled the annual Christmas Decoration Contest for the city and surrounding area.

The contest gave public recognition to persons who shared the holiday season with others by decorating their homes.

Mrs. Peter Whaley, chairman of the committee, announced that in lieu of the contest, the department encourages citizens to celebrate the season within their neighborhoods. The traditional observances of yesteryears when friends enjoyed the fellowship and decorations of those nearby could be an inspiring experience, she said.

Mrs. Leonard Vaughn, Garden Department chairman, noted that the neighborhood observances will be more meaningful this year because of travel restrictions. Efforts to celebrate Christmas in this new old way can enrich our lives.

House rules apply to son and girl friend

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: Our son is a college senior at the state university. He makes no secret of the fact that he and his girl friend [also 21] are shacking up near campus.

We disapprove of this sort of arrangement, and he knows it, but he is 21 and we have nothing to say about his lifestyle. Now for the problem: He asked if he could bring his girl home for Christmas vacation. We know they sleep together at school, but should we let them sleep together in our home?

My sister says, "Don't be a hypocrite. Even if you put them up in separate bedrooms, you know they'll manage to get together some time during the night anyway."

Maybe she's right, but I still don't feel that we should put them up together like a married couple in our guest room.

So, what should I do? OLD FASHIONED MOTHER

DEAR MOTHER: In your home, you make the rules, so if you disapprove of your son's lifestyle at school, and he knows it, simply tell him there will be no shacking up under your roof. And if he doesn't like it, he can abide by the house rules, or stay in a motel.

DEAR ABBY: To make a long story short, I am in love with my first cousin and he's in love with me. We have been told that first cousins cannot marry because their children will not be normal. Is that right? And if it is, if my cousin has a vasectomy and produces the doctor's certificate stating he has had one, it will make him unable to have any children, right?

So if he can't have any children, that eliminates the problem of whether they will be normal or not, doesn't it?

Please answer this in the newspaper because neither one of us can get mail at home without somebody snooping to see what it was before we get home. Thank you.

COUSIN LOVER

DEAR LOVER: First cousins CAN marry in some states. Check with your clergyman [or justice of the peace] to find out whether your state permits it. [A lawyer will also be able to tell you.]

DEAR ABBY: I have a neighbor who makes a habit of borrowing from me, but she never returns a thing. I have to go over there and get it when I need it.

Right now she has my electric mixer, my turkey roasting pan, my poker chips, my popcorn popper and my portable record player. It's not like she isn't over here every day. She could just as easily bring those things back, but she doesn't.

How can I get my things back without losing her friendship? She is a very sensitive person, and I don't want to hurt her feelings. NO GUTS

DEAR NO: When people with no "guts" lend things to people with an abundance of it, it's bad news.

Don't wait for her to return what she's borrowed. Go to her house and say, "—And while I'm here, I may as well take my things. I might need them."

Olvie Towerys Celebrate 50th Anniversary

Mr. and Mrs. Olvie Towery celebrated their golden wedding anniversary on Sunday, December 2, with a surprise family dinner and gifts at the home of their son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Dale (Ernestine) Jones.

Mrs. Towery, the former Beula Holland, is the daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. F.P. Holland. Mr. Towery is the son of the late Mr. and Mrs. M.B. Towery.

Mr. and Mrs. Towery have one daughter, Mrs. Jones. One son, James H. Towery, died at birth. They have five grandchildren.

Present for the occasion with the couple were Mr. and Mrs. Jones and their grandchildren, Mr. and Mrs. John (Lawanda) Harmon of Murray Route Three, Mr. and Mrs. Gary Jones of Dexter Route One, and Lesa and Mike Jones of Dexter Route One. Another grandson, Larry Jones and his wife, Sandy, were unable to be present as he is serving with the U.S. Air Force at Scott Air Force Base, Belleville, Ill.

TIPS FOR SUCCESSFUL YEAST BAKING Rye flour is sticky when liquid is added to it. It does not contain gluten as enriched wheat flour does, so should be blended with some white flour — at the very least one enriched white to three parts rye to make a satisfactory home-made bread. Vigorous beating speeds up gluten formation.

Creamed dried beef with toasted almond slivers on crisp waffles makes an unusually good luncheon dish — unless it is too salty. Saltiness can be corrected, even at the last minute, by stirring in a little sugar. Start with 1/4 teaspoon to 4 servings, and taste; add more sugar as necessary.

Organizations Due Praise

Our community is well blessed with civic clubs for men and women, university fraternities and sororities, church affiliated organizations and many other groups who always come into the spotlight at this time of year.

Through the spirit of goodwill to their neighbors, the individuals in these organizations contribute directly to the only Christmas that many of the less fortunate in our community can have.

We salute these individuals and organizations for their untiring efforts to make Christmas happier for those who need help, and we salute the merchants of our community for their contributions to these drives, both in merchandise and in funds for support.

Through the efforts of these groups many persons are able to see the true meaning of Christmas in action and many children, who otherwise would be left out, will get a visit from Santa Claus on Christmas eve.

The sight of gladness in a child's eyes and happiness on a child's face when receiving a new toy—new to them even though it may have been cast off by someone else—is a sight that no parent should be denied on Christmas morning.

Many families would not even come close to a Christmas dinner if it were not for the good will of local organizations and clubs who deliver Christmas baskets of food to those in need.

We commend these groups for their efforts in making our community a better place in which to live. We urge every citizen to personally thank all of these individuals for sharing their Christmas with someone else.

ENERGY PROGRAMS VITAL

Now is time for action

President Nixon's announcement of the establishment of a Federal Energy Administration promises to move the government onto a more productive course in laying down an effective energy conservation program for the United States of America. There has been quite enough debate over how bad the fuel shortage is likely to get, and what ought to be done to deal with it. Now what the country needs is a better road map showing just how to get from where we are to where we have to go to meet the crisis.

A conflict of views about the advisability of rationing apparently has led to the departure of Gov. John Love of Colorado from the President's team of energy advisers. There obviously must be a consensus on key approaches to the energy problem among those who will be making decisions for the new energy agency. In our view, the direct rationing of gasoline to the individual motorist still looks like the least desirable way of reducing fuel consumption. There are too many promising ways of accomplishing the same thing that ought to be tried before that plunge into a rationing bureaucracy is taken.

Almost everyone in Washington has now had his say about what the government should do. The same flurry of proposals is erupting at state and local levels. It would be far better if state and local governments could fulfill a role in the detailed administration of energy programs than to create a whole new federal structure blanketing the country. However, action at these levels must wait until the nation's programs and goals are spelled out more clearly.

A special session of the California Legislature convened in Sacramento to adopt an emergency energy conservation bill, but the stage is already set to add energy legislation to the agenda. With national energy policies still being hatched in Washington, however, it is hard to see how the Legislature would know in which direction to move. At this point there are few issues clearly enough defined to warrant state legislation. Even the altogether sensible reduction in speed limits to 55 miles per hour and a shift to permanent Daylight Saving Time, which would require state action, have not received final approval by Congress as part of the national energy program.

The energy crisis is posing problems so unfamiliar that it will be difficult to achieve a consensus on what steps will accomplish the most with the least penalty in terms of economic loss and personal sacrifice. We are granting the government extraordinary peacetime powers to invade areas of private decision-making. Disagreement over the wisdom of one policy or another is to be expected.

One thing, however, is clear. Any policy will result in some loss of the traditional American independence. The longer we hesitate in doing what we know has to be done right now, the greater the crisis will become later — with a corresponding proportional loss of American freedoms.

Red bid for sea control

THE RUSSIANS gave us a clear indication of the importance they attach to their new navy during the recent war crisis in the Middle East.

We built the Sixth Fleet in the Mediterranean up to 60 ships, including the attack carrier John F. Kennedy.

They built the Soviet forces in the Mediterranean up to more than 72 vessels.

It was a massive demonstration that the Soviet naval planners are in earnest in their challenge to U.S. command of the seas.

Some observers felt that, by neutralizing the U.S. Navy in those narrow waters, the Soviet Union had won a naval victory of sorts in the showdown.

MEANWHILE, at Nikolayev on the Black Sea, a second Soviet attack carrier is on the ways, according to U.S. and British intelligence sources.

The first Soviet attack carrier, the Kiev, is now on commissioning trials in the Black Sea.

These are relatively small carriers, compared to the newer U.S. carriers, but they are the first Soviet attack carriers. Previous Russian carriers have been exclusively for antisubmarine operations, not attack.

The new Russian carriers will carry 35 fixed-wing aircraft, probably the new Soviet Freehand vertical - takeoff - and - landing fighters, in addition to helicopters for antisubmarine warfare.

Another larger class of Soviet attack carriers is believed to be on the drawing boards.

SKEPTICS WILL continue to see these reports as mere propaganda for bigger budgets for U.S. Navy construction.

Like the congressmen who refused to appropriate funds to fortify Midway and Wake Islands before World War II, they will not be convinced until disaster ends all doubt.

But then, it could be too late.

JUNIPERPERPER

The Elf Who Couldn't Do Anything Right

CHAPTER 2
By Bob Boyle

Early the next morning Juniperperper awakened without being called. He stayed snuggled in his bed while the other elves slept.

From the kitchen he smelled delicious aroma of food cooking.

Mrs. Claus, who starts her day long before she awakens the elves, was busy preparing mounds of pancakes, little sausages, North Pole toast, bacon, eggs and hot toast.

She looked at the clock above the huge black iron stove and said, "Well, I guess it is time to get the elves up."

Taking an old battered dishpan and a wooden spoon, she walked up the stairs and to the dormitory where the elves slept.

Juniperperper heard the door open and saw Mrs. Claus enter.

She flipped on the light switch, banged a wooden cooking spoon against the dishpan and called, "Come on, elves, rise and shine. Santa has lots of work for you today. Rise and shine."

"Come on Jinkers and Jeepers and the rest of you," Mrs. Claus said, "Time to get up. We're having hotcakes and North Pole toast this morning."

"Now, hurry up," she said as she turned and left.

Juniperperper was the first out of bed.

"Jeepers, what's your hurry?" Jeepers said to him.

"I'm anxious to get started," Juniperperper said. "This is my first day."

"Jinkers, don't be in such a rush," Jinkers said to him. "There is plenty of work, but we have to eat first."

"That food sure smells good," Juniperperper said. "But what is North Pole toast? I've never heard of that. Is it like French toast?"

The other elves laughed and Jeepers explained, "Jeepers, it's better than French toast. It's a secret recipe of Mrs. Claus. It's something like French toast only we sprinkled fine brown sugar and fine powdered sugar over it. Then we put on our special maple syrup."

"I know about the syrup," Juniperperper said. "We make that over in the Magic Snow Forest. I bet I helped make the syrup which we will use today."

Just then Santa stuck his head in the door and said, "Come on, boys. Get washed up and hurry to the kitchen, your breakfast is piping hot."

"We have a new elf to help us with our work."

After they were washed up, the elves made up their tiny beds and marched down the stairs into the kitchen.

"Good morning Santa, good morning, Mrs. Claus," they said.

"Good morning, boys," Santa said.

"Good morning, elves," Mrs. Claus said. "Now sit down and start passing the food around."

The hotcakes for the elves were as big as a silver dollar, but Santa's hotcakes were as big as his plate.

The maple syrup was all warm and shiny and the North Pole toast tasted delicious to Juniperperper.

"Boy, this is good, Mrs. Claus," he said. "This is the finest breakfast I've ever had."

"Now, go on," she said. "I bet you had fine breakfasts at the Magic Snow Forest."

"Oh, they were good," he said. "But they weren't as good as this."

The little elves laughed and talked as they ate.

"Jeepers, Julius is doing it again," Jeepers said to Juniperperper.

"What's he doing?" Juniperperper asked.

"Jeepers, he's breaking his own hotcake record. I bet he's eaten 22 of them this morning," Jeepers said.

Mrs. Claus looked down the table to Julius and said, "That's enough now, Julius, if you eat too much today, you'll be too full to work and Santa must get out his Christmas gifts."

Santa said to the others, "Okay, boys. Christmas is drawing nearer and nearer. We have lots of toys to make and we'll be busy from now until Christmas."

The Spinx Is No Lady, She's A Male Baboon

NEW YORK (AP) — Things a columnist wouldn't know if he didn't open his mail:

The Egyptian Spinx is not a lady, as most people believe. The model for one of the world's best known monuments was a male baboon, sacred in ancient times. The creature is no longer found in Egypt.

The hand that rocks the cradle now also steers the wheel as well. In 1940 fewer than 25 per cent of all licensed drivers were women. Now 44 per cent are.

It takes a lot of little things to make a great big human being. For example, one of your red corpuscles is so tiny that a cube only 1-25th of an inch across could hold enough of them to equal the population of Chicago. Yet, small as these corpuscles are, each of them is big enough to contain 100-million hemoglobin molecules.

Top stories: What were the biggest news stories of the last

75 years? A poll of news media leaders by a soft-drink company came up with these nominations: Man lands on moon, the dropping of the atom bomb on Hiroshima, the assassination of President Kennedy, World War II and World War I, the bombing of Pearl Harbor and the Russian Revolution (tie), the great depression, the Wright brothers' flight, and the Vietnamese war. Would you yourself list them in that order?

Funny, Funny World

Bristol, England—Ivan Rak, who stands 6 feet, 4 inches, did not let a little thing like a car stand in his way when it pulled up in front of him at a traffic light. He climbed on the hood in his boots and walked across it. After admitting in court he damaged the car, Rak was fined $25 and ordered to pay $40 for repairs. (Bristol Evening Post)

Port Moresby—Local tribesmen in New Guinea's western highlands have offered to turn cannibal again—to boost tourism. They told committee members of the Mount Hagen Show, a major festival in the territory, they were prepared to eat human flesh again at the show. The tribesmen added however, that they did not want to eat any of their enemies and would make do instead with a body from the local hospital's morgue. A government officer at the meeting politely, but firmly, declined the tribesmen's suggestion. (Melbourne Age)

Port Elizabeth, South Africa—Kaiser Matazi, 55, was fined $300 for driving a hearse while drunk.

Seen & Heard Around Murray

By James C. Williams

A nice note from Clyde Hurt of Hazel Park, Michigan. He encloses a picture of Chinese Cucumber. This thing is 35% inches long and one and seven eighths inches in diameter. He says he let the cucumber get rip and turn yellow since he wanted the seeds. Had he picked it while green, it would have been about two or three inches shorter and not as big around. Taste the same as a regular cucumber, he says.

That's Mr. Hurt's grandson standing by the cucumber and, as you can see, a yardstick is tied to the cucumber. Thanks, Mr. Hurt, for this information. As you pointed out, this type of cucumber is brought into the office from time to time.

Joe Wimberly called us well over a week ago about some Mustard Greens in his garden that had grown to giant size. Measured about 45 inches across. When you realize how small a mustard seed is, this is some growing.

We lived across the street from Sally and Joe for nearly fifteen years and always appreciated them as friends and neighbors.

Bible Thought For Today

"What's he doing?" Juniperperper asked.

"Jeepers, he's breaking his own hotcake record. I bet he's eaten 22 of them this morning," Jeepers said.

Mrs. Claus looked down the table to Julius and said, "That's enough now, Julius, if you eat too much today, you'll be too full to work and Santa must get out his Christmas gifts."

Santa said to the others, "Okay, boys. Christmas is drawing nearer and nearer. We have lots of toys to make and we'll be busy from now until Christmas."

The Spinx Is No Lady, She's A Male Baboon

NEW YORK (AP) — Things a columnist wouldn't know if he didn't open his mail.

The Egyptian Spinx is not a lady, as most people believe. The model for one of the world's best known monuments was a male baboon, sacred in ancient times. The creature is no longer found in Egypt.

The hand that rocks the cradle now also steers the wheel as well. In 1940 fewer than 25 per cent of all licensed drivers were women. Now 44 per cent are.

Parrots are lazy householders. They do not bother even to build a nest. They simply lay their eggs in the soft dust that accumulates at the bottom of decayed tree trunks.

It takes a lot of little things to make a great big human being. For example, one of your red corpuscles is so tiny that a cube only 1-25th of an inch across could hold enough of them to equal the population of Chicago. Yet, small as these corpuscles are, each of them is big enough to contain 100 million hemoglobin molecules.

Top stories: What were the biggest news stories of the last

75 years? A poll of news media leaders by a soft-drink company came up with these nominations: Man lands on moon, the dropping of the atom bomb on Hiroshima, the assassination of President Kennedy, World War II and World War I, the bombing of Pearl Harbor and the Russian Revolution (tie), the great depression, the Wright brothers' flight, and the Vietnamese war. Would you yourself list them in that order?

Funny, Funny World

Bristol, England—Ivan Rak, who stands 6 feet, 4 inches, did not let a little thing like a car stand in his way when it pulled up in front of him at a traffic light. He climbed on the hood in his boots and walked across it. After admitting in court he damaged the car, Rak was fined $25 and ordered to pay $40 for repairs. (Bristol Evening Post)

Port Moresby—Local tribesmen in New Guinea's western highlands have offered to turn cannibal again—to boost tourism. They told committee members of the Mount Hagen Show, a major festival in the territory, they were prepared to eat human flesh again at the show. The tribesmen added however, that they did not want to kill any of their enemies and would make do instead with a body from the local hospital's morgue. A government officer at the meeting politely, but firmly, declined the tribesmen's suggestion. (Melbourne Age)

Seen & Heard Around Murray

By James C. Williams

A nice note from Clyde Hurt of Hazel Park, Michigan. He encloses a picture of Chinese Cucumbers. This thing is 35 1/2 inches long and one and seven eighths inches in diameter. He says he let the cucumber get rip and turn yellow since he wanted the seeds. Had he picked it while green, it would have been about two or three inches shorter and not as big around. Taste the same as a regular cucumber, he says.

That's Mr. Hurt's grandson standing by the cucumber and, as you can see, a yardstick is tied to the cucumber. Thanks, Mr. Hurt, for this information. As you pointed out, this type of cucumber is brought into the office from time to time.

Joe Wimberly called us well over a week ago about some Mustard Greens in his garden that had grown to giant size. Measured about 45 inches across. When you realize how small a mustard seed is, this is some growing.

We lived across the street from Sally and Joe for nearly fifteen years and always appreciated them as friends and neighbors.

Many Theories Advanced On Comets— Strange Visitors From Outer Space

CAMBRIDGE, Mass. (AP) — Comets have been getting a bad rap.

They've long been regarded popularly as heralds of death and disaster, plagues, crop failure, earthquakes and similar unpleasants.

Look to an article in Harper's Weekly magazine 116 years ago, on June 6, 1857:

There were predictions, it said, that a comet that year would hit and maybe annihilate the earth. It also took note of some salesmen promoting "comet-proof suits of clothing," and that "a cometary life insurance company—premiums payable in advance—has been created."

A comet in 1668 was blamed for a lethal epidemic among cats in Westphalia, Germany, the magazine went on, and a comet in 1665 was pegged as causing a great epidemic in London that same year but with "no one, apparently, caring to settle the question why the malign influence of the comet should fall only upon London, not extending even to the neighboring towns and villages."

And "a comet appeared in the year 590 to which was attributed a fearful epidemic which prevailed in that year, in the paroxysms of which people were seized with uncontrollable fits of sneezing, generally resulting in death. When anyone about this time sneezed, it became customary to say 'God bless you!', from which, probably, proceeded a similar custom to this day prevalent upon the continent of Europe."

"A comet which appeared in March 1402," Harper's continued, "was stated by the astrologers of that day to presage the death of John Galeas Visconti, an Italian prince. This gentleman, being a devout believer in astrologers and comets, duly died—no doubt of fright—and thus, to the great delight of the astrologers, made their predictions come true."

The defeat of the English at the Battle of Hastings in 1066 has been attributed by some to a comet harbinger of bad news. But it must have looked different to William the Conqueror out of Normandy. He won.

When the famous Halley's comet is t appeared in 1910, there was widespread fears that it would destroy the earth, perhaps because the earth would soon pass through its "fiery" tail, that oceans would boil, the whole world burn up. Seeking to allay such fears, a prominent astronomer of the day, Mary Proctor, wrote in a bylined story in the New York Times of May 8, 1910, that this was a deception, since ominous-looking comet tails are made of material so filmy that we can see stars right through them.

And there were alarms that noxious gases in the comet's tail would choke and kill humans by the millions when the earth intercepted the cometary tail. It didn't happen.

Comets perhaps gain their reputation for evil because some look like feathery stars, or funny stars with long tails, because they are strangers intruding into the orderly and familiar procession of our star constellations season by season, something out of place, something perhaps as puzzling and frightening as a total, darkening eclipse of the sun if people don't happen to know one is coming.

But comets can leave calling cards, in the form of "shooting stars" or meteorites. These are the almost infinitesimal specks of dust or dirt that a comet leaves behind when some of its substance is melted off by the sun.

When the earth runs into the path of these "shooting stars," they flame in sudden death as brief streaks in the sky. The comet Encke, which visits earth every three and one-third years, has been donating shooting stars for perhaps 1,000 years.

Spectacular meteorite showers in 1769, 1933, and 1946 came from dust remnants of comet Biela, which split in two in 1846 on a visit near the sun, says Fred Whipple, a comet expert who recently retired as director of the Smithsonian Astrophysical Observatory here.

Biela came back as twins in 1852, but then the pair disappeared and neither has been detected since. "The bones of Biela's comet still float through space," Whipple observes.

Some Soviet scientists believe that a comet weighing perhaps one million tons struck Siberia in 1908, causing a blast that felled trees for 30 miles in all directions, and knocking people 100 miles away off their feet.

Others, however, think a meteorite or some other phenomenon did all the damage.

There is no danger that comet Kohoutek speeding toward us now is on collision course, says Brian Marsden of the Smithsonian Observatory.

The closest any comet has ever come to earth—aside from the possibility of the Siberian incident was 1 1/2 million miles, he says. In 1928, one comet came within four million miles, and a number have been within 10 million to 20 million. Kohoutek will stay a respectable 75 million miles from our turf.

And visible comets do not come by very often, considering that astronomers think there are 100 billion of them, or even more, roaming in a shell at the outer fringes of the solar system.

Astronomers with their telescopes pick up a good number, but it is only once every few years, on the average, that one comes into good eyeball view.

Orbits have been calculated for about 600 comets, and about 100 of these have come around at least twice, and some many more times, like Halley's comet and Encke, Marsden says.

Halley's comet comes around about every 76 years, is due back in 1986, and very likely the early and assiduous sky watchers in China may have observed Halley's comet in 467 B.C., or before, and certainly observed it in 239 B.C., Whipple says.

What has excited astronomers so much about our temporarily resident comet is that Lubos Kohoutek, a Czech astronomer for whom it is named, detected it last March, nine months ago when it was still nearly half a billion miles away, but big enough to show up on a powerful telescope. No comet that big and bright, heading for close passage of the sun, had ever been spotted so early.

Very importantly, this provided a fair amount of "lead" time to plan for detailed examination of the comet. Enough that NASA, the National Aeronautics and Space Administration, set up a special coordinating "Operation Kohoutek" under direction of Stephen Maran, astronomer at the Goddard Space Flight Center.

There was not enough time to fit out a special space probe that could intercept the head or tail of the comet, and make close-up studies, or even seize some comet material, an idea that Whipple had proposed more than a decade ago.

But just such a plan to go to a comet is being considered by NASA now, perhaps in a few years. It could resolve many of the mysteries about comets.

Around the world, telescopes on the ground will peek at comet Kohoutek for the next few months.

Out in space, three astronauts aboard Skylab likely will have the most spectacular view, high above the earth's interfering blanket of air. They will use an array of instruments, including a special ultraviolet camera to see the hydrogen cloud around the comet. They can, also, witness sudden changes in the shape of the comet or its tail and make special observations then.

Mariner 10, now en route to Venus and later to Mercury, will be able to take pictures from a different angle than from earth. Stereoscopic comparison of the two views would give, for the first time, a three-dimensional picture of the shape of the comet.

Other findings are expected from the Pioneer spacecraft that just went beyond Jupiter; from the satellites Copernicus and Orbiting Solar Observatory 7; from a small barrage of sounding rockets rising from White Sands, N.M.; from C141 Airborne Infrared Observatory; and from balloons measuring far-infrared heat waves. A special observatory has been set up on South Baldy Mountain near Socorro, N.M.

Comet Kohoutek is tugging the interest of ordinary citizens as well as astronomers, professional or amateur. Sales of telescopes are reported increased.

If you are interested, look now or plan to live another 75,000 years. Comet Kohoutek likely won't be back before then.

NFO To Focus On Impact Of Fuel Shortage

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — The National Farmers Organization (NFO) gathers here this week to consider the impact of the fuel shortage on the nation's farmers.

Oren Lee Staley of Corning, Iowa, president of the NFO, said the group will focus on farm problems stemming from the fuel shortage and possible fuel shortages he said could result.

Delegates to the convention began arriving Sunday. The convention formally gets underway here Wednesday.

GM Continuing To Roll Along

NEW YORK (AP) — While Americans are warned daily by one authority or another to expect radical changes in their life styles because of inevitable shortages of physical resources, General Motors rolls along.

GM, the world's largest manufacturing concern, maker of more energy-using vehicles than anyone, is convinced that the American dream of a "better" life will continue to be wedded to the automobile.

While recognizing the need to conserve energy, GM believes "the car and truck remain the backbone of American transportation — and will continue to be as far as we can see."

That is the view of Richard Gerstenberg, GM chairman, in his year-end statement on GM conditions and prospects. Somehow, the willpower of the American public will, it seems, overcome the energy shortage.

"General Motors is in the business of providing the transportation the public wants and needs. The public has always dictated the kind of transportation it desires and will certainly continue to do so."

General Motors stands ready, now as always, to respond to these needs in whatever form they take.

Some critics will question that statement by pointing to the loss of small car sales to foreign imports, at a cost of billions of dollars in the international payments balance, because American carmakers ignored market surveys and continued to push larger vehicles.

But, generally speaking, the American automobile industry has been remarkably effective in marketing its products and its views, and so the outlook of GM is especially valuable amidst today's uncertainties.

This is how the GM chairman views the future:

"Looking beyond the impact of the current energy emergency, there is every reason to expect that, even as other forms of transportation develop, the trends in car and truck sales which have been evident since the mid-sixties will continue."

It was during the 1960s, you will recall, when millions of Americans bought their first cars, hundreds of thousands of others moved up to multiple car status, and when suburb and shopping centers dependent upon the automobile were developed.

"With rising incomes, individuals and families will still want the convenience of dependable personal transportation. The steady expansion of suburban areas as places to live and work provides a strong incentive to own a car, and the truck will maintain its central role in the movements of goods and services.

"Although higher fuel prices can be expected to accelerate the demand for smaller special-purpose vehicles, larger cars, suitable for longer trips and larger families, will continue to be an important component of total passenger car sales.

"We also anticipate that the trend toward multiple car ownership will accelerate in the years ahead. While 80 per cent of American households now own a car, only 31 per cent own more than one.

"There is every reason to expect that families increasingly will find use for a smaller car to supplement the regular car. Paralleling this trend will be a greater demand for special-purpose trucks designed to serve specific transportation needs with maximum efficiency."

Such confidence in the midst of the general doubts now assailing everyone will probably be welcomed by most Americans, despite their particular environmental views.

But where, GM, is the energy and money coming from?

Western Kentucky Shocks Eighth-Ranked Providence

By JOHN NELSON
Associated Press Writer

Western Kentucky Coach Jim Richards calls his team's upset of No. 8 Providence "the biggest win of the season, at least until we face Butler Thursday night."

The unranked Hilltoppers, paced by Mike Odems' 20 points and 10 rebounds, upset Providence 89-84 Monday. It was an upset in every sense of the word, as expressed by Providence All-American center Marvin Barnes. Western now has won four in a row and Providence is 1-1.

"We played bad and they played good," Barnes said. "But the big thing had to be their holding us away from the boards in the second half."

Providence outbounded Western 29-17 in the first half, but the Hilltoppers controlled the backboards in the final half, 27-21.

In other major college games, No. 5 North Carolina defeated Kentucky 101-84, No. 13 Alabama beat Virginia Tech 75-64, and Oklahoma State defeated Texas 83-73.

Senior center Bobby Jones pumped in 21 points and pulled down 12 rebounds to spark North Carolina to victory. Kentucky now has lost three straight, while North Carolina is undefeated in four games.

T.R. Dunn came off the bench midway through the first half to score 12 points and spark Alabama's Crimson Tide. Virginia Tech took an early lead and held it through the first half, leading by as many as 10 points, but the Tide fought back in the second half to tie the score 47-47 with 12:48 left; Dunn also had three assists, a blocked shot, four steals and nine rebounds.

Guard K.C. Jincaid scored a career-high 27 points to lead Oklahoma State's Cowboys over Texas. The Cowboys hit four straight buckets — three by Kincaide — early in the second half to take a 10-point advantage.

Oral Roberts University defeated Hardin-Simmons 120-91 in one of the night's highest scoring games. Sam McCant paced Oral Roberts with 31 points as ORU boosted its record to 2-0.

Both Tennessee and Mississippi put 117 points on the board in scoring easy victories. Tennessee, with five players in double figures, defeated South Florida 117-90, and Tom Jordan and Den Hudson scored 18 points each to lead Ole Miss to a 117-86 drubbing of Arkansas.

Len Kosmalski Tennessee's 7-foot pivot man, led the Volunteers with 31 points, connecting on 14 of 22 shots from the floor. Ole Miss shot 60.2 per cent from the field in its triumph over Arkansas.

James "Fly" Williams, last year's national scoring leader, had 37 points to spark Austin Peay State to its third straight victory, an 89-69 defeat of Louisiana College.

The sophomore also grabbed 11 rebounds and hit 15-29 shots from the field.

UCLA (Who Else?) Tops Weekly College Ratings

Rams Cruising Toward Playoff Spot, Belt New York Giants

By RON ROACH
Associated Press Sports Writer
LOS ANGELES (AP) — Chuck Knox, rookie head coaching sensation of the National Football League, kept his Los Angeles Rams cruising on a steady course toward the National Football League playoffs.

Alex Webster, New York Giants' coach, was badgered to compare the Rams with Dallas and Washington, one of which plays Los Angeles in the NFL playoffs Dec. 23.

For Webster to compare this hapless 2-10-1 team with the 11-2 Rams, who salted away the National Conference West crown more than a week ago, seemed rather moot after a 40-6 Ram victory Monday night in a nationally televised game.

Knox refused to state his preference between Dallas and Washington, but Webster obliged.

"The Rams are a real fine football team, the finest running game all around that I have seen," said Webster. Led by Lawrence McCutcheon's 80 yards in 11 carries — taking the youngster to 1,014 yards this season — the Rams rushed for 219 yards.

"Comparing them with Washington, it's tough to make a comparison. We were down in personnel when we played the Redskins and they have a fine offense with runners like Larry Brown and three good receivers, but in summary I think the Rams are better."

"Comparing them against Dallas is also difficult. We played very well against Dallas, although they beat us. The Rams and Dallas' defenses are equal. Dallas throws a lot more offense at you. It's a tossup," said Webster.

Knox was able to clear his

Baylor Rallies In Final Minutes As Racers Suffer Through Point Drought

By STEVE W. GIVENS
Ledger & Times Sports Writer
Like a stranger in the city, Murray State stumbled down the wrong alley last night, fought for breathing room, and then finally was mugged in the final seconds before escape.

The Baylor Bears pulled the job in the bright lights of the Fieldhouse and made away with only the tenth win in the last six seasons over a Racer team in the Fieldhouse...by the score of 66-64.

Unlike Saturday's 97-81 drubbing at the hands of Western Kentucky, the visitors allowed Murray to play "Robin Hood," with their height advantage throughout the contest. MSU lead by as much as 10 points three different times in the final 20 minutes, but seem to freeze as the Bears pressed closer and closer.

And the footsteps behind Coach Cal Luther's squad finally caught up with 6:59 to go in the game when junior guard Darnell Adell canned a 20 foot shot...which was the last MSU goal of the game.

Then the Bears slapped on 12 points to a pair of free throws by 6-8 senior center Marcelous Starks to steal away their upset win!

Played before a sparse gathering, the contest failed to live up to its fast-break potential as neither team could seem to get unwound from the early season pressure of much basketball in little time.

In the low-scoring first half, the Racers jumped to a 4-0 lead and then quickly increased that to 8-2 behind the work of 5-9 senior guard Steve Barrett and 6-5 junior forward Mike "Chug" Coleman.

With 9:52 remaining, Coleman had sacked 11 of Murray's first 17 points and the Racers enjoyed a nine point spread. Sophomore forward Jessie Williams, the game's second leading scorer with 12 markers, had popped in a 15 foot jumper earlier as MSU seemed in complete control of the tempo.

Depending on the shooting of 6-6 senior center, Charles McKinney, who was very aggressive against Starks throughout the contest, and the quickness of junior guard Tom Wilkins, the Bears moved within eight, at 22-14, but a scoring lull killed the effort.

After Coleman had drawn a foul shot, MSU wound up with the ball as "Chug" rebounded his missed shot and hooked it in the basket. Then on Baylor's return trip downcourt, Barrett and a Bear player collided in mid-air while scrapping for a rebound.

Steve Bowers, a 6-4 junior, replaced Barrett and then hit a lay-up to provide the Racers with their largest margin of the half at 26-15.

Three long range bombs cut that advantage as Wilkins hit on a 12 footer and 6-2 junior guard Tom Corley sank a 15' and 20' footer to make it 28-23 after a pair of free throws were hit.

Williams managed a couple of key free tosses and then Adell hit on two lay-ups that were near-classical for a fast break offense. Two 20 foot shots connected for senior Mark Wattier before Williams sank a 10 foot shot to leave MSU ahead 36-30 at the horn.

The Bears pumped in the first four markers of the last 20 minutes to almost take the lead then, but Adell took a pass for a driving lay-up and then Coleman repeated the action to push the Racers out front by six, 40-34.

Then, Williams connected on an eight foot shot and "Chug" dropped in a 18 foot set for the first of three Murray ten points advantages of the half.

Baylor forced the hosts towards its desired end when McKinney crammed in two consecutive lay-ups around Starks and Coleman with around ten minutes showing to make it, 56-50, MSU.

Williams stalled for time when he found the range on another shot from the top of the circle before Adell flicked through the final Racer goal of the evening with 6:59 showing to make it 62-54.

McKinney then went to work, during the next three minutes bagging six of his most important markers in his team-leading 22 point total. Wattier dropped through a 10 foot shot and teammate Steve Dallas also found the range to cut the Racer lead to two.

Appropriately, McKinney had the honors of deadlocking the contest for the first time since the early minutes of the first half when he sacked a lay-up with 4:42 showing. A minute later, MSU trailed for the first time this season at a home game in the last half, when he recorded another score to make it 64-62, Bears.

Starks, who wound up with only six markers, made two of the most pressure-packed free throws of the season with 1:34 and provide the final tie.

Wattier tallied the goal that dropped Murray's slate to 3-2 and improved the Bears' campaign to 3-1 with 0:30 seconds remaining on a lay-up. Desperate to get the ball, Coleman fouled a Bear player and then on the next play with just 0:18 showing, Barrett, who returned to action earlier, fouled out of the contest.

Murray had one final chance to score with the ball out-of-bounds with less than 10 seconds, but a shot by Adell bounced harmlessly off the side, Bowers had one perfectly blocked, and Williams missed on his attempt as Starks wound up with the ball and the horn blowing before he could fire.

"They just came back and shot well after we built those leads," Coach Luther said afterwards in the quiet Racer dressing room. "They blocked some on us and played us aggressively, but we could've contained them."

"The press they applied was definitely a factor," he admitted, "but it was our inability to shoot and handle the ball well when it counted that killed us...of course the biggest factor would have to be that we went nearly seven minutes without scoring a field goal."

Coleman and McKinney tied for game scoring honors, with "Chug" hitting 10 of 18 and two of five free throws while the big Bear center got 11 of 21 floor shots for his total. The pair were also the leading rebounders with nine and 12, respectively. Williams finished with 12 points, Barrett added eight in a good effort, and Adell pumped in 10 and was the best Racer shooter with four of six shots falling.

T.C. Jamison added four points on two of three floor shots and Bowers finished with two markers in a strong substitute role.

Overall, Murray State outshot the visitors, 48.2 per cent to 47.6 per cent from the floor, and did better at the line, 62.5 to 57.1. The Racers won the battle of the backboards, 38-31, while both teams made a whopping 17 floor mistakes.

Murray takes a rest this week before facing tough California State-Somona next Saturday night in the Racers' final home game prior to the Oral Roberts Tournament and the Memphis State clash, both coming up in the last part of the month.

Bob Mitchell Wins Shrine Golf Classic

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla. (AP) — Finishing one of his worst years on the professional golf tour, Bobby Mitchell has won the Shrine National ProAm Invitational Golf Classic with a record-tying, final-round 65 on the par-73 Bardon Country Club course.

"I got just as good a thrill out of winning this tournament as any Professional Golfers Association tournament," Mitchell said of the event that launched Tournament Golf International, a new organization which hopes to set up a second major golf tour.

Mitchell earned over $100,000 on the PGA tour in 1972 but he had dropped to under $50,000 this year.

North Carolina Belts Kentucky

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
"They just had so damned many players" said Coach Joe Hall after his Kentucky basketball team was beaten 101-84 by fifth-ranked North Carolina Monday night. Undefeated North Carolina used 13 men in winning its fourth game. It was the third straight loss for Kentucky after an opening victory.

"It will be good to get back in our own league, where we hope to defend out Southeastern Conference championship," Hall said.

The North Carolina coach, Dean Smith, "We got great shooting from the outside from Darrell Elston (who scored 16 points) and Walter Davis (who scored 15). Both teams went into zone defenses because they were in foul trouble and could not afford an aggressive man-for-man defense."

The North Carolina Tar Heels, behind the dominating board work of Bobby Jones, outscored the Wildcats 10-2 in a two-minute span of the second half for a 65-52 lead, and Kentucky never could get back in the game. Jones scored 21 points, and also had 12 rebounds. The high scorer was Kevin Grevey of Kentucky with 23 points.

The game was played in the Greensboro, N.C., Coliseum, and Coach Smith said, "I want to especially praise Ray Harrison, who came back to his hometown of Greensboro and had an outstanding game for use (14 points). He gave us a lift so many times during the game."

Middle Schoolers Win

Murray Middle School's seventh and eighth grade basketball teams traveled to Calvert City last night and handed their hosts a pair of setbacks as both squads ran their season records to 4-0.

In the seventh grade game, Howard Boone's layup with two seconds left on the clock provided the margin for the Tigers' 25-23 win over Calvert City.

The score had been knotted at 23 apiece and Calvert City had the ball with a chance to win the game but a steal with eight seconds left and the long pass downcourt to Boone lifted Murray to the win.

Murray jumped to a five point first quarter edge and led at halftime by three, 10-7, before falling behind 13-12 at the end of the third period.

Ed Harcourt grabbed 14 rebounds and pitched in 11 points to pace the Tigers while Boone added nine. Taylor and Kursave each had two points while Denham had one. Cohoon, Sims, Hopkins, Gibbs, Alexander, and Perry also played.

In the eighth grade contest, Murray rambled for 15 points in the final canto to take a 51-41 win. The Tigers led 12-10 at the first quarter stop and at intermission, the game was tied at 25 apiece.

Murray took a 36-35 lead into the final period before beginning the rally to put the game in the win column.

Frank Gilliam pulled off 12 rebounds and scored a game high 26 points for Murray while Ken Perkins had 13 points and a whopping 14 rebounds. Greg Garland grabbed nine cars and scored four points.

Other scoring included Wilson, 5; Henry 2, and Thurman 2. Also playing were Mathis, Richardson, Utley, Boyd, Bumphis, Harrison, Perry, and Bayless.

Both teams will be in action Jan. 3, with a pair of games at Reidland.

Cedeno Taken Into Custody

SANTO DOMINGO, Dominican Republic (AP) — Cesar Cedeno, 22-year-old star outfielder of the Houston Astros' baseball team, was being held at police headquarters today for questioning in the shooting death of a 19-year old woman.

According to police, the shooting happened around 2 a.m. today at a local hotel, where Cedeno and the victim, Alta-Gracia de la Cruz, allegedly were staying.

Police said that Cedeno went to police headquarters this morning and told authorities that the girl had killed herself while "toying" with the gun.

A police spokesman said that according to a hotel employee Redeno had gone to the lobby and told him to call police saying that "the girl staying with me shot herself accidentally."

Cedeno had been playing winter ball in his native country, but lately had announced that he was going to Houston for an operation on his right leg.

No additional details were available on the shooting.

Cedeno has spent four seasons in the majors and batted .320 each of the past two years.

Nixon Submits Saxbe Nomination

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon has formally submitted the nomination of Sen. William B. Saxbe as attorney general to a Senate likely to approve him overwhelmingly. Hearings on the nomination of the 57-year-old Ohio Republican may begin as early as this afternoon before the Senate Judiciary Committee.

Senate leaders hope to complete action on the Saxbe nomination before Congress ends its current session late next week. Majority Leader Mike Mansfield, D-Mont., said the hearings would be thorough.

The likelihood of overwhelming Senate approval of Saxbe was indicated Nov. 27 when the Senate voted 75 to 16 for a bill that lowered the attorney general's pay from $60,000 to $35,000 to permit Saxbe to serve.

The legislation was designed to get around a constitutional barrier that existed because the attorney general's pay had been raised during Saxbe's Senate term. The Constitution bars members of Congress from being named to federal posts whose salary or other benefits have been increased during their terms.

Most of the Democrats who opposed the pay bill said they personally favor Saxbe's nomination but feared it was unconstitutional even if such a bill were passed.

Nixon signed the legislation into law Monday, then submitted Saxbe's nomination formally.

Barring unfavorable disclosures about Saxbe during his confirmation hearings, Senate observers expect the nomination to pass easily.

Normally, the appointment of a senator to a Cabinet or other high position assures his speedy confirmation, and the action often takes place without any hearings.

Saxbe was appointed Nov. 1 to succeed Atty. Gen. Elliot L. Richardson, who resigned rather than fire Watergate prosecutor Archibald Cox. Senate Republican leaders strongly urged President Nixon to name a senator to the post. Solicitor

General Robert H. Bork has been acting attorney general.

Only a month earlier, Saxbe had announced he would not seek re-election to the Senate in 1974 but would go home to Ohio and practice law. He had been known to be displeased with the slow pace of the Senate.

During his only Senate term, Saxbe, a former Ohio attorney general, had often criticized President Nixon's handling of the Vietnam war and the Watergate scandal.

However, he said after conferring with the President when offered the attorney generalship that he was convinced of Nixon's innocence.

Price Controls Lifted From U.S. Auto Industry; Average Increases to be $150 or More

DETROIT (AP) — The auto industry is free of government price controls, and the buying public will feel the impact almost immediately.

The average new car will soon cost an additional $150 or more.

The Cost of Living Council Monday exempted the auto industry from both wage and price restrictions. The move came just days after the United Auto Workers union completed negotiations on new contracts with the Big Three auto makers.

It was the biggest move yet in the council's effort to step up the process of moving the economy away from controls. The exemption from controls applies only to auto, truck and bus production. It does not extend to other items produced by the auto makers, such as appliances.

None of the auto makers offered new price lists Monday, but Ford said it would boost prices on any car or truck ordered after today.

General Motors, Chrysler, and American Motors are expected to announce increases to take effect later this week.

Before the council agreed to decontrol the auto industry, it exacted commitments from Ford and GM to keep wholesale price increases for full-size and intermediate models within an average of $150 and not to raise 1974 model prices again. There was no immediate indication what the wholesale boost would translate into in price increases in dealer showrooms.

AMC agreed to limit its wholesale price increases to an average $100, but a company spokesman said AMC dealers might be allowed to add on an additional $50 at the retail level.

In addition, Ford, GM and AMC agreed not to raise retail prices on compacts and sub-compacts more than $150.

Rev. E. L. Crump Luncheon Speaker At Campus Ministry

FOR WEDNESDAY, DECEMBER 12, 1973

Look in the section in which your birthday comes and find what your outlook is, according to the stars.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 20) ♈
Shun carelessness or recklessness like the plague. A cool head and clear-cut action will be needed if you are to remain out front—where you belong.

TAURUS (Apr. 21 to May 21) ♉
If unexpected situations arise, there's no need to take drastic action. After proper thought, you can find intelligent, logical solutions—and without anxiety!

GEMINI (May 22 to June 21) ♊
The busier the day, the more efficient you often become. But be careful not to overtax yourself by attempting too much. Don't waste time on nonessentials.

CANCER (June 22 to July 23) ♋
Don't cross bridges before you come to them, but be ready for any eventuality before it occurs. Your innate foresight will be a big help here.

LEO (July 24 to Aug. 23) ♌
A day calling for your best judgment. You could cause unnecessary misunderstandings by involving yourself in the affairs of others. Don't underestimate the competition, either.

VIRGO (Aug. 24 to Sept. 23) ♍
Skepticism and scattered energies could defeat the fine efforts this day deserves. Planets auspicious for those who have their facts straight and use progressive methods.

LIBRA (Sept. 24 to Oct. 23) ♎
Be careful not to say that which you may later regret; not to guess, then act upon that guess, without making sure. These are tendencies now.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24 to Nov. 22) ♏
Stress logic and reason. Do not rely on hunches or another's say-so. Seek more knowledge of your subject: Your capacity for learning is infinite.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23 to Dec. 21) ♐
You may be up against some unusual competition in your field, so keep alert. With your fine intelligence, you should find ways to outrun the best.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) ♑
Two admonitions for this day: Avoid impetuosity and don't drop a project which, even though slow-moving, is essentially productive, in favor of one whose outcome is dubious.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) ♒
Some new suggestions or propositions may be offered. Study each carefully and accept or reject on the basis of enduring worth—not immediate returns.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) ♓
A few "surprises" indicated—some which will please, others which may not. Take the bad with the good: Things will work out in the long run.

YOU BORN TODAY are intellectually inclined; extremely ambitious and versatile in your talents and abilities. Keenly analytical, logical and objective in your thinking, you could shine in the legal field where your mentality, harnessed to your sense of the dramatic and your subtle, but brilliant wit, would make you an outstanding trial lawyer. This same sense of the dramatic could serve you well as a writer, theatrical producer or entertainer. Other careers open to you: education, publishing, promoting. Birthdate of: John Jay, early American statesman; G. Flaubert, French novelist.
