Seen & Heard Around Murray

If you see smoke coming up from the ground around your house in the next few weeks, don't get alarmed. It'll be the Murray Water and Sewer System checking on leaks in the sewerage system. They are trying to keep surface water out of the system, which apparently is a difficult task. In the past some folks connected the down spouts from the house to the sewer lines; breaks in the line allows surface water to get in; and maybe some other things cause it. Anyway everytime it rains, the amount of sewerage running through the disposal plant increases.

This surface water has to be treated as though it were raw sewerage. This takes money, chemicals, time, wear and tear on machinery, etc. so that's why the drive is underway to stop surface water from getting into the system.

The smoke will be forced through the system and if there is a leak, the smoke gets out and comes to the surface. Then they dig down and repair the line.

Council Accepts Bids On Lift Station Last Night

Contracts were approved last night for the construction of an interceptor sewer line and a lift station for the Murray Water and Sewer System. The City Council accepted bids on the two projects, receiving three bids on the interceptor line and only one on the lift or pump station.

Tilford Plumbing & Heating, Inc. of Paducah, was the low bidder on the large sewerage project. They bid $155,705.00 on the sewer line using cast iron pipe and $151,407.00 using clay pipe. The pump station was divided into two contracts, one for the general construction which amounted to $144,752.00 and the other for the electrical work which amounted to $8,782.00.

The two other bids on the interceptor line were George Bobo Backhoe Service of Kevil, Kentucky $187,394.80 for the cast iron line and $183,925.60 for clay pipe. Preston Carroll Construction Company of Clifton, Tennessee bid only on the cast iron construction with a bid of $214,812.29.

This line will extend from the Hazel Highway along the Clark's River to the sewerage disposal plant. The pumping station will be located on the Clark's River near the New Concord bridge. This same line will be used at a later date to receive sewerage from the south and western part West said the water comes from downspouts, from bad lines and from other sources and that every effort will be made to completely eliminate the surface water from the system.

He asked for council approval to begin testing the system with smoke to find the leaks in the system. These leaks allow entrance of surface water, he continued. When found, the leaks will be repaired. Any downspouts from homes, business or industry will be disconnected from the sewerage system.

West said the smoke will be harmless and is intended merely to mark the site of a leak in the system. The smoke is blown into the system a block at a time. His request was approved. Prior to the meeting last night of the city. This will involve the construction of a major trunk sewer line along the Clark's River west to the area of Kingswood Subdivision.

This construction will also do away with the lift station located on the Herman Ellis property on the Hazel Highway.

Representatives of the various firms bidding on the project, were present last night as well as Wayne Myers and Joe King with Chester Engineers, consulting engineers for the city.

Haron West, Council Chairman of the Water & Sewer Committee told the Mayor and Council that he was pleased with the bid since it was only about $2,000 over estimated costs.

The council approved the purchase of a 75 x 75 foot area of land on the Clark's River near the New Concord bridge for the construction site of the lift station. The lot costs $1500 which includes access to the lot.

Councilman West also asked Council approval of the purchase of some valves, fittings, etc. used in the work of the system. The items were bid on by two firms with Pettey Supply of Paducah making the low bid of $2,998.50.

West told the City Council last night that efforts must be made to keep surface water out of the city sewer system. This surface water must be treated as if it is raw sewerage, he said, once it gets into the sanitary sewer system.

THE CAPITAL TOUCH

Food industry fears protesting housewives

By EDWARD NEILAN
Copley News Service

WASHINGTON — The huge companies that stock supermarket shelves across the nation carry a lot of clout in the nation's capital.

The lobbying punch is delivered by the Grocery Manufacturers' Association of America, whose chief benefactor — but sometimes unwitting enemy — in the age of consumerism is the housewife.

Mrs. Average American, who drives the family's 1968 station wagon to the suburban shopping center to buy the week's groceries, is both heroine and villainess of the GMA.

Her spending patterns are the lifeblood of GMA members like Swift & Co., Procter & Gamble Co., Kraftco Corp. and General Foods Corp., each of which has sales of over $1 billion annually.

But because the American housewife is becoming more vocal in her complaints, the food industry — as represented by GMA — is afraid that these protests may lead to new and cumbersome federal regulations.

"We don't mind if housewives get on the soapbox, as long as they keep on buying soap," is the way one officer of a company which belongs to GMA put it.

"We've got to make sure that consumerism does not enmesh the industry in a new web of federal regulation."

With a staff of 28 in its Washington office — it moved from New York when consumerism mushroomed as an important issue — GMA claims it is basically trying to help the consumer.

But "pure," nonindustry-related consumer organizations like Consumers Union and Consumer Federation of America do not agree.

Robert Choate, the man who threw the breakfast cereal industry into a frenzy in the summer of 1970 by rating breakfast foods according to nutritional value, characterizes the GMA as a negative lobbying Goliath.

"It is perhaps the most powerful negative force around Capitol Hill," Choate said. "As a positive lobbying force, GMA is occasionally effective, but less so than would be expected."

On the other hand, ex-White House staffer Bryce Harlow, now with Procter & Gamble, says, "I think GMA ought to be considered among the top, among the most-effective of Washington trade associations."

"Lobbying" is still a bad word in the political vocabulary of many Americans. But the activities of such pressure groups as the GMA play a vital and recognized role in shaping of government regulations and legislation.

A former officer of GMA, back in the days when it was a two-man office in Washington set up to show visiting industrialists around town, said, "All we used to do here was to say 'hell no' every time some new restriction was proposed for the food industry. We usually got our way."

But now, with the groundswell of consumer activism, GMA must prepare ammunition in the way of painstaking research in order to head off new governmental changes.

GMA "informs" members of Congress, plants press releases in striving to avoid the regulatory red tape that could result from potential federal actions. It fears that some of them would seriously damage the industry's profitability.

Consumer groups have vocal allies in Congress and have demonstrated political muscle of their own in the last several years.

Signs abound that the government is taking consumerism seriously. GMA, whose members produce about one-tenth of the nation's gross national product (GNP) each year, finds worrisome these federal actions now under consideration:

— Federal agencies, acting under a 1966 packaging and labeling law, are seeking to require the grocery industry to change some of its promotional gimmicks.

— The Food and Drug Administration (FDA) is pressing the food industry to label foods with their nutritional value.

— A bipartisan group of House members wants to establish a new consumer agency with powers GMA regards as dangerous to the industry.

— House and Senate members are preparing to fight again for a bill, stalled last year by industry opposition, to facilitate consumer suits against manufacturers.

— Some members of Congress are advocating legislation which would require supermarkets to indicate a product's price per pound (or other measure). Some markets have already adopted unit pricing on their own initiative.

— Congress is looking at ways to require manufacturers to date perishable products.

Poetically Speaking

BY TOM PERKINS

Here Is The Truth About Humility

Dad said humility is one great quality difficult to find. No, he doesn't mean it is difficult to find in other people. He means it is difficult to find in yourself. Actually, he means if you try to have it yourself it is difficult to find. "How," he asked, "Can you try to be humble?" "And besides," he added, "If a person tries to find humility in himself, and does, he is immediately proud."

Humility, while being an honorable state, may cause some people to appear ridiculous. "While it is difficult," Dad said, "it is possible to appear ridiculous with humility." For example, let's take a look at a man that is good at something. (What doesn't matter.) Everyone knows he is good at it. He knows he is good at it. He also understands the principle of humility, and the principle of impressing people so he says, "I'm not really good at it." Now, he knows he is good and for sure he knows other people know he's good so for the sake of the robe of humility he has lied. Dad said that if you compare a liar to a thief the thief would come out second. Dad continued by adding that he wasn't against humility just liars.

The alternative to being good and denying it is to be good and talk about it. "I am great!" Now, this may be the truth. This may be an honest evaluation of your abilities. However, this too leaves something to be desired since if you are really good at something people won't need to be told. While in the second case you don't run the risk of being a liar you do run the risk of impressing people more than they can stand.

Dad said he is smart enough to know that if you want to see humility you must see it in others. I'm little but smart enough to know that if I want to see humility I am going to have to leave home.

YOU

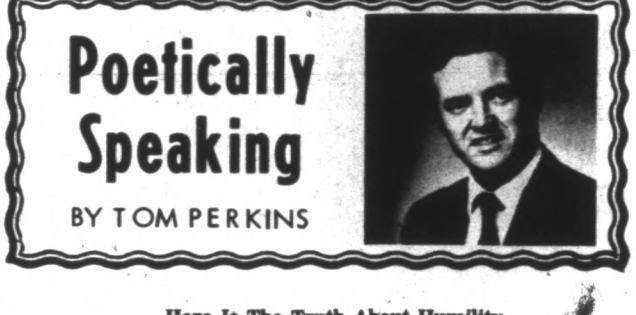

The Lord fixed the stars up in the sky. He also put that merry twinkle in your eye. He gave strength and power to men in every land. But He blessed you most with the comforting touch of your hand. Our God made all men different and unusually rare. But He made you unique when He spun golden sunlight in your hair.

When God made men and the moonlight above He made nothing more precious than your undying love. Each glimmer of a smile, each twinkle of your eye Fills my heart with a love that will never die. I long to hear your voice and feel your gentle caress. All these things I pray that the Lord will richly bless.

But, alas my heart is filled with sadness on this day. For you took your love and turned the other way. Now my heart sings the song of the mourning dove Because I am hidden in the unseen shadows of your love. She takes away your kisses, and your soft embrace. She steals away all your love, leaving not a trace.

THE FAMILY LAWYER

"Doctor in the House?"

Suppose you are sitting in a theater when the man next to you slumps to the floor, unconscious. Is there a doctor in the house?

And a doctor comes and gives first aid. As the person who summoned the doctor, could you be held legally liable for his fee?

As a general rule, when you request any kind of services to be performed for someone else, you may indeed be responsible for payment. But in the case of a medical emergency, the law usually makes an exception and denies liability. As one court explained:

"Persons commonly call for medical aid for the sick solely out of a spirit of kindness, without any expectation of becoming personally responsible."

Would it matter that the sick person was your friend or relative? Not necessarily. Thus:

A man brought his daughter-in-law to the hospital for some tests while her husband was away on a trip. When surgery became necessary, he told the doctor to go ahead. Did this request, plus his kinship to the patient, make him responsible for the surgical fee?

A court said no, because it was not customary for a man to be responsible for his daughter-in-law's medical expenses. To make him liable, said the court, there would have to be a more specific understanding between him and the doctor.

Still, the understanding need not be as specific as a formal legal contract. In another case, a man was driving his girl friend home from a party when he had an accident. The girl was badly injured, and he rushed her to a hospital.

There he begged the doctor to do everything he could to save her life. He said he "felt responsible" because she had suffered the injury in his car.

Later, he tried to avoid liability to the doctor by pointing out that he had not made a specific agreement to pay. But a court held him responsible anyhow. The judge said the comments he did make, under such circumstances, could fairly be interpreted as a promise to foot the bills.

Willie Stargell of the Pittsburgh Pirates, the major league leader in homers with 20, is slightly ahead of Brock of the St. Louis Cardinals in the balloting for the infield spot. Stargell has 25 votes while Brock has 24,032.

Catcher Johnny Bench of Cincinnati Reds leads all vote-getters with 69,506 votes and appears to be landsman winner for his position. Bench's closest competition comes from Jerry Grote of the New York Mets, who has 8,102 votes.

Orioles Make It 10 Straight With Victory Over Minnesota

The Baltimore Orioles have rival American League managers shaking their heads again. One is Bill Rigney, who saw the Orioles complete a three-game sweep of his Minnesota Twins Thursday night with a 12-0 rout. And another is Detroit's Billy Martin, whose Tigers keep winning in the AL East but fail to gain ground on the front-running Orioles. The Tigers made it three victories in a row and five in their last seven games Thursday night with a 3-2 triumph over the Milwaukee Brewers.

Striking Frank Robinson drove in five runs with homer and two singles and Jim Palmer spaced out six singles to gain his ninth victory of the season as the Orioles crushed Minnesota. It was the eighth consecutive victory for the defending World Champions and the 10th in their last 11 games.

"I still bear down when I get a lot of runs," said Palmer, who recorded his ninth complete game and first shutout of the season. "I try to pitch basically the same kind of game whether it's close or a laugher. I'm conscious of my earned run average. If you give up runs, it goes up."

"The Twins are fastball hitters and I'm a fastball pitcher," he explained. "I think getting out in front of them the way we did (10-0 after four innings) demoralized them. Harmon Killebrew, I know, saw only two fastballs the two games before this one."

"We always play well at home," Palmer added. "But I was beginning to think we were in for a bad season until two weeks ago. We were scoring runs but giving up more. Things have sure changed around."

Elsewhere in the AL, Cleveland ripped Chicago 9-0, New York edged California 3-2 and the Kansas City-Washington game was rained out.

In the National League action, San Diego topped New York 4-2, Philadelphia beat Los Angeles 4-2, Atlanta downed Houston 2-1, Montreal edged San Francisco 3-1 and Pittsburgh stopped St. Louis 3-1.

Norm Cash's 13th homer of the season—a two-run shot in the sixth inning, gave the Tigers their victory over Milwaukee. Cash, who homered to win the game the night before, followed a walk to Willie Horton with his homer, taking the AL lead in that department. Joe Coleman pitched a five-hitter to boost his record to 6-2.

The victory left the Tigers in third place, 4½ games behind the torrid Orioles. "Hell, what are you going to do about it?" said Martin. "We've got to just keep on winning. Just as long as we win, I don't care about them. They can win all they want ... Then when hey cool off, we've got to keep winning."

Ray Fosse had a three-run homer and Ted Uhlaender doubled in two more runs as the Indians crushed Chicago. Fosse homered after a walk to Ray Lamb, who won his third straight game to lift his record to 4-2, and a single to Graig Nettles.

Thurman Munson scored the deciding run in the sixth inning when he scored from third on a wild pickoff attempt by catcher Johnny Stephenson as the Yankees squeezed past California.

With the Yankees leading 2-1 in the sixth, Munson walked, took second on pitcher Tom Murphy's wild pickoff throw, moved to third on an infield out and scored when Stephenson's pickoff throw sailed into left field.

Stan Bahnsen allowed only five hits in gaining his fifth victory against six losses.

Giants Getting No Competition In NL

By FRED MCMANE
UPI Sports Writer

The San Francisco Giants seem intent on turning the National League Western Division into a pennant race, but they're having trouble finding any suitable challengers.

The Giants, who have led the NL West since the start of the season, dropped their eighth game in their last nine starts Thursday night when they lost to the Montreal Expos 3-1. However, the Giants once again failed to lose any ground and still lead the division by seven games.

San Francisco's slide has been softened by the ragged play of its nearest competitors, Los Angeles and Houston. The Dodgers, who trail the Giants by seven games, have compiled only a 5-4 record during the Giants' tailspin while Houston, which is nine games out of first place, is even worse at 3-6.

Despite the Giants' luck in maintaining a commanding lead, manager Charlie Fox is beginning to voice some concern over the team's recent misfortunes.

"I'm no psychologist but I can tell you we're not hitting. We can't put it all together. We're leaving too many men on base," said Fox. "I'd say our pitching is okay but I think our two big men could pitch better. But you can't throw the whole load to them all the time. I noticed we're still seven games ahead but I'm not concerned about the other teams. I only want this team to start winning."

Carl Morton did the Giants in Thursday night with a seven-hitter as the Expos swept the three-game series. John Bateman doubled home the tie-breaking run in a two-run fifth and Morton drove in an insurance run with a sacrifice fly in the eighth.

Los Angeles failed to take advantage of the Giants' loss for the second straight night by losing to Philadelphia 4-2 and Houston was defeated by Atlanta 2-1. In other NL games, Pittsburgh beat St. Louis 3-1 and San Diego downed New York 4-2.

In American League action, Baltimore routed Minnesota 12-0, Cleveland crushed Chicago 9-0, Detroit edged Milwaukee 3-2 and New York topped California 3-2. Washington at Kansas City was rained out.

Reserve infielder Terry Harmon scored two runs and drove in another as the Phillies beat the Dodgers. Rick Wise allowed Los Angeles only seven hits, including Willie Davis' first homer of the year.

Hank Aaron tripled home a run in the first and scored on a single by Orlando Cepeda as the Braves hung on to defeat the Astros. Tom Kelley pitched no-hit ball for six innings and allowed only three hits before Cecil Upshaw bailed him out of a ninth inning ham.

Bob Robertson's 12th homer of the year and the seven-hit pitching of Steve Blass sparked Pittsburgh's victory, which threw the NL East into a three-way tie for first. The Pirates technically remained in third place but are only .008 behind the first place Mets. St. Louis trails New York by only .001. Clay Kirby pitched a four-hitter and Nate Colbert broke a 2-2 tie with his 13th homer as the Padres downed the Mets. Kirby struck out 13, a club record, in besting Nolan Ryan. End Kranepool had a two-run homer for the Mets.

Pritchett, Beale Win In Softball

The Murray Recreation Softball League opened its season Wednesday night at the Dexter field. In the first game, Pritchett defeated Carril Volkswagen 16-1 and Beale's outlasted Moose in a freeheeling game 20-19.

The Murray Softball League consists of the following teams: Carrico, Dexter, Pritchett's, Moose Lodge, Carroll Volkswagen, Outsiders, Kegheads, and Duncans.

The league will play all of its games on Dexter field on Wednesday, Thursday and Sunday evenings.

Aaron And Mays Lead In NL All-Star Race

NEW YORK (UPI)—Hank Aaron of the Atlanta Braves and Willie Mays of the San Francisco Giants, two of baseball's all-time greats, are among the leading vote-getters in the early returns for the 1971 National League All-Star squad, it was announced today.

Aaron, who has appeared in 20 All-Star games, and Mays, who has been in 21, are the leaders in the voting for outfield berths. Aaron, who boasted a .317 average with 18 homers through games of Wednesday, June 9, has 65,206 votes in balloting conducted of the fans while Mays, whose average stood at .329 with 13 homers, had 60,040.

Willie Stargell of the Pittsburgh Pirates, the major league leader in homers with 20, is slightly ahead of Lou Brock of the St. Louis Cardinals in the balloting for the third outfield spot. Stargell has 25,193 votes while Brock has 24,032.

Catcher Johnny Bench of the Cincinnati Reds leads all NL vote-getters with 69,506 votes and appears to be landslide winner for his position. Bench's closest competition comes from Jerry Grote of the New York Mets, who has 8,102 votes.

The closest race so far is at shortstop where New York's Bud Harrelson holds a slight lead over Don Kessinger of the Chicago Cubs. Harrelson has received 29,614 votes while Kessinger has 27,926.

Willie McCovey of the San Francisco Giants, despite having been injured part of the season, leads Orlando Cepeda of Atlanta by more than 10,000 votes in the balloting for first baseman. McCovey has received 37,680 votes to 27,331 for Cepeda despite the fact that Cepeda's credentials thus far are more impressive than McCovey's.

Glenn Beckert of the Cubs holds a substantial lead over Julian Javier of St. Louis in the voting for second base and Joe Torre of the Cardinals is well ahead of Ron Santo of the Cubs in the balloting for third base.

Oddly, some of the league's top hitters to date have not fared so well in the early returns. Ralph Garr of Atlanta, who is hitting .360, ranks only eighth among the outfielders while Willie Davis of Los Angeles, batting .357, is ninth. Nate Colbert of San Diego, who has hit 13 homers, is not even listed among the first basemen nor is New York's Ed Kranepool, who is batting .317.

The fans vote only for the eight regular positions. Pitchers are selected by the manager, who this year will be Sparky Anderson of the Cincinnati Reds.

Clete Boyer Not Worried Over Fine

By JOE CARNICELLI
UPI Sports Writer

Clete Boyer today was confident he would soon be back in a baseball uniform after being fined $1,000 Thursday by Commissioner Bowie Kuhn for betting on football games.

Boyer was given his unconditional release a week ago by the Atlanta Braves and has been unsuccessful in catching on with another team. He feels that forewearing an action by the commissioner may have soured a few possible offers but thinks Thursday's action may put him back on the market.

"The commissioner's office contacted me after I was released," said Boyer. "At the time I was talking with a couple of clubs about signing. So he told the clubs to hold up signing me pending his decision. He has told me he will advise the clubs that anyone is free to sign me."

One of the teams supposedly expressing great interest in Boyer is the Oakland Athletics. The A's are looking for a backup man for Sal Bando as they seek an American League Western Division title.

Regarding the betting charge, Boyer said he never bet on any baseball games but admitted he had placed bets on football, "with a friend."

"It's true a couple of years ago I made a couple of bets with a man I thought was a friend," he explained. "But I never bet on baseball and I never made a bet with anyone I thought was a bookmaker."

"In any event, the commissioner has imposed a relatively small fine and he has assured me there is no reason I can't continue playing major league baseball. As far as I'm concerned, this should end the matter."

Boyer did say, however, that he thought he was "turned in by an informer" but failed to expand on that.

The 34-year-old third baseman's problems began when he blasted Paul Richards, the Braves' vice president of baseball operations, and Manager Luman Harris in a newspaper interview. Boyer asked for his release in the interview and Richards granted it after Boyer handed over a personal check for $10,000 to the club to cover a sum Richards said Boyer had received in advance.

Now Kuhn is investigating the events surrounding Boyer's release by the Braves. Boyer supposedly was entitled to $15,087 termination pay under the Players Association Agreement and there is a strong possibility that the commissioner will rule that the Braves must return the $10,000 check Boyer handed over to gain his release.

Boyer said he was sorry about the whole affair but added: "I still don't think I did anything wrong. I know a lot of people who bet. Good people, too."

Weiskopf Never Touches His Golf Clubs At Home

By ROYAL BRIGHTBILL
CHARLOTTE, N.C. (UPI)—Tom Weiskopf, the first round leader of the $150,000 Kemper Open, never touches his golf clubs when he goes home to Bedford, Ohio.

"I shoot my rifles and my shotgun, I party and do things with my wife," he said Thursday after touring the par 72 Quail Hollow Course with a dazzling 66.

"There's lots more things to do besides play golf," Weiskopf said.

Weiskopf, a tall, handsome golfer who values home and friends, swept over the 7,278 yard course with six birdies. He had a brush with a bogey on the 16th hole when he fell short of the green, but saved par with a shot from the bunker that put him two and a half feet from the pin.

"I putted exceptionally well," Weiskopf said. "I didn't come close to three-putting. I made just about every makeable putt I had to make."

Miller Barber, Jim Colbert, Charles Sifford and Tom Sisolak were tied for second with initial rounds of 68, four under.

Lee Trevino and Larry Hinson, who tied the course record of 65 in the pro-am event, were among nine golfers three strokes behind at 69.

Arnold Palmer was one of half a dozen at 70, defending champ Dick Lotz joined a group at even 72 and U.S. Open champ Tony Jacklin was one over at 73.

Weiskopf is looking for his first PGA victory since 1968 when he won the San Diego Open and the Buick Open. He feels he's playing better than ever, despite a slow start on the tour this year.

The Kemper is Weiskopf's 18th tournament of the 1971 season, and he has three finishes in the top 10.

Woman's World

Dear Abby

She's sensible, not sensuous

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: This is not a letter seeking advice, it is a statement of horror at the vulnerability of the female species. After reading a best seller which instructs women on how to be "sensuous," I have concluded that I am certainly not sensuous, nor do I want to be!

If a man has to take a woman for a "trial run" as if she were an automobile, I'll probably be called back to the factory due to a leaky fuel pump. And according to the author's more descriptive passages, I'd say she is well on her way to her 50th six-thousand-mile check-up. I hope her muffler falls off!

It gives me a pain in the pocketbook to realize that I spent $1.25 for that book. Sign me.

SENSIBLE, NOT SENSUOUS

DEAR SENSIBLE: You're beautiful!

DEAR ABBY: When my husband and I were married, we agreed that we would have no children. We were both in our early twenties at the time. He came from a poor family and struggled thru college and medical school on scholarships. I came from a broken home and wanted to be certain our marriage would work before bringing children into the world.

My husband is now a physician and I am teaching, and we could easily support a family, but my husband doesn't want children. He feels that they would tie us down.

He is a devoted husband and I'm sure he'd make a fine father. We are good friends as well as lovers and enjoy traveling and a sense of freedom only childless couples know.

When I mention children, he says he is happy without them. I have considered getting pregnant and then facing the issue. Should I honor his wishes and my promise, or become pregnant and hope that he will be as happy as I, once the baby comes? I am 31 and time is running out.

SOMETHING MISSING

DEAR SOMETHING: Don't trick him into fatherhood. He may never forgive you—or the child. If you can't persuade him that children would enrich your lives, better to content yourself with "something missing" than to betray him with "something added."

DEAR ABBY: I am writing to you about my sister. She is 13 years old and she hasn't had one date yet. She's no beauty, but she's not a mess either. She's tried the most exotic perfumes and she dresses in the latest styles, but it hasn't helped her. I am thinking of asking some of the boys at school to please date my sister to get her started to lift her spirits. I would even be glad to give the guy five bucks. What do you think of this approach?

HER 15-YEAR-OLD BROTHER

DEAR BROTHER: A 13-year-old girl who hasn't had one date yet is hardly an "old maid." Don't offer to pay a guy to date your sister or he'll wonder what's wrong with her. If she hasn't had a date by the time she's 16, you might arrange a "blind date" for her. But don't ask anyone who knows her to take her out at 13. [It's unlucky!]

CONFIDENTIAL TO "LUCKY" IN OMAHA: Thanks for letting me know that all is well. Sometimes a good scare can do more for a girl than 10 lectures.

What's your problem? You'll feel better if you get it off your chest. Write to ABBY, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Cal. 90069. For a personal reply enclose stamped, addressed envelope.

For Abby's booklet, "How to Have a Lovely Wedding," send $1 to Abby, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Cal. 90069.

said, and the train traveled about a mile and a half with the wheel locked. This built up a "false flange" or ridge on the wheel, he said, and when the engine went over a coupling, the wheels left the track.

Henry Haney, the engineer, then "cleared the clock" railroad parlance for pulling the emergency brake, Law said. But by that time the brown and orange cars were piling up and flying from the track.

Dick Gordon, a truck driver from Salem, Ill., watched as the lead engine "started weaving and from then on it was a blur of dust and dirt as the cars left the track."

Barbara Bennington, 20, a college student who was in the dining car when the accident occurred, said, "the train jerked about three times and then we were rolling like we were in the air. I thought I was dead but then I got up. I didn't even feel anything at first."

Mrs. Melvin Maxie of Tonti was one of the first to reach the scene. "Oh, it was just awful," she said, "they were screaming. It was a twisted mass. People were trapped and trying to crawl out of the windows."

Deputy Sheriff Gail Miller, the first law enforcement officer on the scene, said, "the front engine was burning big. People were dragging other people down the road. Some people with broken arms were walking and other people were helping people with broken legs. They were getting the hell out of there."

City Council...

Scott was named as chairman of the Traffic Committee, Vice-chairman of the Special Problems Committee and a member of the Street Committee.

The council voted to purchase two Refuse Collection Vehicles last night. The vehicles are small and have a dump body and will be used to collect garbage house to house, rather than to use so many men in this operation. The use of these small vehicles speeds up garbage collection, saves wear and tear on the large compactor type trucks, and reduces overhead according to Dave Willis, Chairman of the Sanitation Committee of the Council.

Belmont Equipment Company won the low bid for the Cushman at a cost of $5,582 for the two. Manning Equipment Company bid $5,890.00 on the Little Joe vehicle with Belmont getting the contract.

The ordinance which made North Eighth Street one-way between Main and Olive Street was repealed.

The council will ask for bids on a new pumper truck for the Fire Department to be ready by 1972 and on a new ladder truck for delivery in July of 1973. James Rudy Albritten, Chairman of the Fire Committee of the Council told the council that the city is fulfilling the requisites of the Kentucky Inspection Bureau, for a lower fire insurance rate for the city.

The Bureau, the agency which sets fire insurance rates in Kentucky, informed the city that in order to obtain lower fire insurance rates, it would have to order a pumper and ladder truck, provide the bureau with a map showing the complete water distribution system and fire plugs in the city, and to institute a training program with regular and volunteer firemen. All of these requisites are being accomplished and the city expects to drop from sixth class to fifth class in fire insurance rating. This move may come as early as next fall.

A new typewriter will be purchased for the Chief of Police's office. Pushbutton phones will replace dial phones in the city hall.

Chief Brown and three policemen will attend the Kentucky Peace Officers Association convention in Louisville with the city paying $265.00 toward their expenses.

Barry Polston, City Recreation Director made a report to the council on the summer activities being planned for residents of the city in local parks.

Councilman Willis asked that a drinking fountain be installed for employees of the Murray Sanitation System at the headquarters on 641 North.

Fire Chief Jackie Cooper reported on the recent fire school at Lexington for which he was one of the instructors.

Chief of Police Brown reported on citations issued from May 24 through June 6 as follows: unnecessary noise 6; no state inspection sticker 8; DWI 13, wrong way on one way street 1; public drunkenness 7; reckless driving 6; disorderly conduct 5; speeding 5; disregarding stop sign 3; no operator's license 8; fleeing police officer 2; no registration plates 1; no city sticker 2; illegal possession of alcohol 1. Twenty wrecks were reported, 18 improper parking tickets issued and eight breaking and entering cases reported. Of the cases charged, 21 were filed away and 47 were tried as charged.

SBA REPRESENTATIVE
A representative of the Small Business Administration will be at that Agency's part-time office in the City Hall on the First Floor, Paducah, Kentucky, on June 17, as announced by R. B. Story of Patty Duke— Comeback For Veteran Star—Age 25!

By ARMY ARCHERD
Central Press Association
Correspondent

HOLLYWOOD — At 25, an Oscar and Emmy-award winner is making a comeback: Now, comebacks are nothing new to Hollywood—but at 25? We are all quite accustomed to hearing stars' retirement plans—voluntary or otherwise, only to soon find they are planning a "comeback." After all, it's all part of the business of show. But when a star makes a comeback at the ripe young age of 25, well, it's news. The star is Patty Duke.

After a year away from the movie cameras and a year of great personal turmoil, Patty Duke tells me she's fine and planning to remain at work without a hitch. The reasons are simple: she needs the money and wants to support her baby, born earlier this year, named Sean Duke. Yes, his last name is his mother's, Duke. She had been married at the time of the child's birth but it was a strange marriage—a short-lived one, in the common acceptance. Patty and her husband were together but a month after which lawyers set about to end it.

DURING the year preceding the baby's birth, Patty had been a favorite subject of Hollywood writers because of her romance with young Desi Arnaz Jr. with whom she recently visited Desi, Sr., at the latter's palatial home in Baja California — to, no doubt, discuss the youngsters' future lives—together or apart. Mama Lucy Ball disapproved of their possible marriage.

With the arrival of the baby came a new kind of peace and accomplishment for Patty. She told me she wanted to go right to work and three weeks afterwards she started before the cameras in a "Romeo and Juliet" type story. "The Glass Hammer" How did she do? Producer Aaron Spelling told me "She was the most professional actress I've known with the exception of Barbara Stanwyck" And Barbara Stanwyck holds a standing in the professional community that is considered untouchable. It is so high.

Patty's role in the film has her playing a young girl whose romance with a Japanese-American boy is shattered by the events surrounding Pearl Harbor.

"IT'S ONE of the best parts I've ever had," Patty said, "I can really identify with this girl. She doesn't ask for much out of life and when she finds what she really wants, she can't have it! She has to fight prejudice and the effects of war which are just about the same now as they were in 1941. It's a beautiful script."

"I've been knocked down before," smiled Patty, recalling the brickbats tossed at her after the success of her actions in the past year, "but I've always come back."

The comebacks go back to a career which started at seven for the girl who was born in a charity ward in a New York hospital. She started out in the business, as she describes herself — "a character actress at the age of seven." That's when she was doing commercials and started a trend for kids in them.

The comebacks go back to a career which started at seven for the girl who was born in a charity ward in a New York hospital. She started out in the business, as she describes herself — "a character actress at the age of seven." That's when she was doing commercials and started a trend for kids in them.

"Before I came along," Patty said, "kids usually were blond, perfect types to be used in commercials. Along came me—an ugly duckling! When I once showed up for a soap commercial I was the only dirty kid there!" P.S. She got that job—and many more, continuing on to the dramatic career which led to the "Miracle Worker" role on Broadway at the age of 12, winning scores of Broadway awards; then two years later, winning the Oscar for the film portrayal of young Helen Keller.

AFTERWARDS, Patty headed to television to win her first Emmy as a star of her own television series, playing two roles for three years. She sought desperately to overcome her baby image and took on a role which she'd like to forget—that of the alcoholic actress in "Valley of the Dolls."

From there, Patty went into another film, "Me Natalie." Last year, the poignant (again) performance in "My Sweet Charlie" won her an Emmy for the TV show—which was so great it was sent out to theaters after having been shown free!

Patty vowed to never return to TV, but now tells me she would not only accept another television series, but is looking for one—she wants to work, because she is a pro and because, as she said, she wants the independence of being able to support her own baby.

"Now I'm a mother and have new responsibilities," she said. "And for the first time in my life, I look forward to going home at night. I have someone who needs me and who needs my care to live. My mistakes are behind me now and I'm looking forward to the future."

How about that for a perfect example of Women's Lib?

WIGAN, England (UPI)—Angler Ronnie Wilde caught a record fish when he hooked a 3 pound, 6 ounce red gurnard. But by the time his angling club got around to notifying him, he'd destroyed the evidence. "We ate it for supper," he said Thursday.

Red China asserting influence in Tanzania

By RAY McHUGH
Copley News Service

DAR ES SALAAM, Tanzania — The laughing black youngsters watched the Sunday morning worshippers emerge from the English service at the old German Lutheran cathedral, sorted out the tourists and then darted to them.

"Want to buy?"

From inside folded newspapers they produced brand-new editions of the "Thoughts of Mao" in the familiar red cover — editions they picked up free at the nearby Chinese information office.

The scene was a strange capsule of this country's history.

A German colony before World War I, Tanganyika became a British possession in 1918 and won independence in 1963. In 1963, it merged with the offshore islands of Zanzibar and Pemba to form Tanzania.

Today this is one of the most controversial nations in black Africa and the focal point of Chinese Communist efforts to gain a foothold on the dark continent. It also boasts one of the continent's most articulate leaders and the foremost advocate of "black socialism." Suspicious British residents grumble that President Julius Nyerere "thinks he personally discovered socialism" during his three years (1949-52) at Edinburgh University in Scotland where he earned a Master of Arts degree.

But no one at the cosmopolitan Dar es Salaam yacht club underestimates Nyerere. He always seems to be the center of conversation whether the speaker is a British copper expert from Zambia's rich fields, a Spanish ambassador who directs Soviet shipping interests here, a young American doctor who is teaching at Tanzania's University College or a London wife of an importer who can't lose her cockney accent even in the humid, sweltering equatorial heat of this Indian Ocean port.

Always a white man's island, the yacht club seems almost instinctively to be drawing closer together in the face of an uncertain future.

Tanzania is a poor country — one of the 19 poorest in the world, according to a recent United Nations Educational, Scientific and Cultural Organization report. But rich or poor, Nyerere appears determined that Tanzania's own people will set its course, not former colonialists or the "imperialist capitalists" that his Tanzania Standard loves to pillory day after day.

Nyerere obviously wears two hairshirts. He is black Africa's most vehement foe of white-ruled South Africa, Rhodesia and the Portuguese colonies. And he is one of the most vigorous advocates of an all-black society. The latter mood makes Britain nervous since it is the overwhelming economic force in these parts.

Nyerere's skill as a passionate orator has made him one of the central figures in the Organization of African Unity, the body that brings together the chiefs of state of Africa's Arab and Negro nations. It also has made him a darling of that altruistic set that believes black Africa — on its own — will discover some panacea to a true Socialist future.

His passions, however, now have caused him to embrace the Chinese Communists. The temperature of that romance is a constant topic of speculation not only at the yacht club, but in a dozen embassies, banks, business houses and homes along this blue-green, palm-studded shore.

Two of the most interested groups of spectators are the American and Russian diplomatic communities.

Nyerere's courtship with the Communist Chinese began with the TanZam railroad, a line that is to stretch more than 1,000 miles by 1974 from the copper fields in Zambia to Dar es Salaam.

Turned down by the World Bank, European consortiums and American aid officials, Nyerere and Zambia President Kenneth Kaunda solicited help from Peking. The result is a $400 million undertaking that is out-and-out political, has dubious economic value, but has given Red China a foothold in Africa and an impressive one.

LYE WARNING

SMOOTH SAILING

That is exactly what all of us dream of. But this is God's world and we certainly must learn the laws of the winds of God if our journey is to be smooth. We must chart our course with caution.

We must know how to man the sails. We must read carefully the "guide book for mariners," called The Sermon on the Mount. One must know how to tack and, most important of all, ask the "Great Pilot" what course He recommends.

Let your church attendance and support record, the contribution you make to the cause of good, and your love for the brethren serve as your compass. The smooth sailing of your ship will be determined by the judgment you use in your preparation.

You can't make it alone, Mister. Better take God with you.

Save the Prairie Chicken! Grassland Grouse Doomed?

Prairie chicken—once it numbered millions

By GROVER BRINKMAN

Written Especially for Central Press and This Newspaper FROM countless millions a century ago, to less than a thousand birds today—this is the fate of the vanishing prairie chicken in Illinois.

Like the golden eagle and other rare birds, the prairie chicken has been on the "endangered species list" for some time. The problem arises in lack of suitable nesting ground for the birds. A grassland grouse, the prairie chicken is related closely to the sharp-tail, and more distantly to the pheasant, quail, ruffed grouse, turkey, Hungarian partridge and similar birds.

"These birds all have many common traits," said Jim Lockart, supervisor of wildlife resources for the Illinois Department of Conservation. "All of them walk about as much as they fly, and they nest on the ground. Most of them perform mating rituals that include strutting and feather display."

CONCERN over the fate of the prairie chicken in Illinois is nothing new. There was concern in 1887 when the hunting season was closed for two years. It was closed again from 1903 to 1911. Then for a time it was reopened, but by 1933 the birds had so decreased that it was closed again, and still remains closed.

Sometimes the main reason for a wildlife decline is so obvious that it is not apparent, and this was true regarding the prairie chicken. They blamed the hunter, but in reality it was the plow and the mowing machine.

IN THE LATE 1950s it became evident that something had to be immediately done if the prairie grouse were to be saved from extinction. The Prairie Chicken Foundation of Illinois was formed by 10 to 12 of the leading conservationists in the state.

Since that day, major programs have been set up. The bird, 1,322 acres of ground are now owned by the protective groups solely for the purpose of providing areas for the birds to live and breed.

Anti-Litter Day In Land Between Lakes Is Success

Over 350 people gathered along the Kentucky Lake shoreline in Land Between the Lakes Saturday to participate in the National Anti-Litter Day. Focusing the attention of the public on the problems of unsightly litter throughout the United States was the objective of the Nationwide program.

Under the direction of Don Burchfield, a Land Between the Lakes recreation planner, scout troops representing Kentucky, Missouri, Illinois, and Ohio; five (5) Coast Guard Auxiliary Flotillas of Division 27 on Kentucky Lake; and the Great Onyx Job Corps from Mammoth Cave National Park collected approximately 50 cubic yards of litter along the Kentucky Lake shoreline. Dr. McKenzie Reviews 2 Book For Local Library

Book Review
By Dr. H. S. McKenzie

The Grid for Sales Excellence by Robert R. Blake and Jane Srygley Mouton; McGraw-Hill; New York; 1970; 189 pp.

1964 marked the appearance in the academic-business worlds of a new concept—"The Management Grid"—which in only six years has gone the round of Management Development conferences, industrial forums, and business college lecture halls all over the globe. It was the contribution of a then relatively unknown professor of Business Psychology at The University of Texas, Robert Blake, and is one of the very few academic books—Samuelson's Economics was another—which made its author into a millionaire!

In the original work, Blake devised a new method of ascertaining and identifying a manager's personal "style" of managerial behavior. In addressing himself to the question of why some bosses are tyrants and others are buddies, why some challenge subordinates and others refuse to make decisions, Blake identified the managerial task as being of two dimensions: a concern for the job, and a concern for the employee. Placing each of these concerns into a pictographic perpendicular schematic frame, he assigned a numerical value to each, and thus derived five typical styles. A "9,1", for example, was a boss who couldn't care less about his employees, but who was a real driver when it came to task accomplishment. The "5,5" leader was a compromiser who had equal concern for both productivity and human relations; a "1,1" was a do-nothing who refused to execute any decision unless it had been previously made by a higher authority.

While "Blake's Grid" is of utter simplicity, it has proved to be a handy tool for both the academic teachers of business subjects and the management development practitioners in teaching the concept of "Style"; and its usefulness is amply attested by its widespread popularity. Now, every sophisticated officer in the army, prelate in the church, industrial magnate, and academic administrator tries, at least, to be a "Nine-niner", i.e. a challenging, creative, inspiring leader.

This year, after four books, several industrial teaching films, and a highly successful management development institute (Scientific Methods, Inc. of Austin, Texas), Blake has turned his attention—and his grid—to the salesman. With the editorial help of his associate, Dr. Jane Mouton, Blake's newest book is an extension of the grid concept which has proved so profitable in the past. Using the same format, the hard-driving boss is now the assertive, hard-sell salesman; the role of the do-nothing boss is taken by the order-taker who writes orders rather than sells; and the country-club style manager who is a buddy to his people is here replaced by the friendly salesman who picks up the luncheon check.

The customer is not left out either. He is diagrammed too. He can be a "9,1" who knows what he wants and won't take anything else; or a "5,5" who is willing to be persuaded to try a new product... if his competitors do likewise.

Like all the Blake books, The Grid for Sales Excellence is well written, clear to the point of being simplistic, and filled with illustrative material. Because it is what it is, it will be required reading in next year's classes in Salesmanship and in Introductory Marketing. Because it is by Blake, it will become well known. For many of us—both in the academic world and in business—it is one of these "must" books. In a way, it is too bad because it is not a good book, nor is it a poor book, it is only an important book!

There is one redeeming feature that does make it worth reading. In addressing himself to the salesman's personal role identification, Blake asks the questions that are important: What do I sell? and How do I sell? Blake asserts that some salesmen say, "I sell a product". Another insists, "I sell myself". Still another would say, "I don't sell anything, the product sells itself if it is to be sold". A fourth salesman replies, "I have to sell both my product and myself for the buyer won't buy one without the other". The fifth salesman—the one Blake would commend to all salesmen—would say: "I sell, but I sell solutions to my customer's problems." All of us sell. Some may sell products; others, ideas. Some sell value systems from pulpits or political platforms. Yet, regardless of what we are selling—from our skills, for our time, or perhaps for our efforts—the question is of real importance: What do I sell? Products... or Self... or Solutions... Now, isn't that a point worth pondering? The Grid For Sales Excellence can be obtained at The Murray Public Library on Main Street.

Censorship in America by Olga G. and Edwin P. Hoyt; The Seabury Press; New York; 1970; 119 pp.

One of the striking characteristics of the communist society—and for all totalitarianism for that matter—is the total reliance on the part of the state on censorship in all its forms. When the monolithic state wishes to control its populace, it limits its book publishers to the "safe" books, destroys the freedom of the press, muzzles its professors, "corrects" its artists, and clamps down on its radio, television, and stage. From the time of Julius Caesar, who burned the library at Alexandria, the dictator has attempted to control the thoughts of his people for it is necessary to dominate the mind before you can coerce the body.

What is the history of censorship in "the land of the free, and the home of the brave"? It is that question that Edwin Hoyt and his wife, Olga, have attempted to answer in their brief little volume, Censorship in America. Written primarily for thinking young adults, their brief history is well written, appropriately—if selectively—documented, and designed to promote the oft-repeated thesis: "eternal vigilance is the price of liberty."

As a brief and informative history, it fulfills its purpose admirably. It is neither comprehensive nor definitive. It is easy reading. From Bowdler (who expunged Shakespeare) to Comstock (a self-appointed purist who prosecuted 3600 guilty and not-so-guilty booksellers), they describe the ebb and flow of the puritanical mind. They indicate the close association between the tempo of the changing times, the enthusiasm of the private watchdogs, and the laws of the land. Especially—and in some detail—they describe the changing attitudes of the U. S. Supreme Court which remains as the chief censor of the American printed and spoken word.

As important as anything else is the Hoyt's characterization of the current American censorship scene as being essentially absurd. The well-meaning, if uninformed, private pressure groups which exert their influence create anomalies: the N.A.A.C.P. is attempting to stop the showing of Uncle Tom's Cabin because it depicts negro life unfairly; the Cleveland Police force tried to ban Freud from the library because his General Introduction to Psychoanalysis had a chapter on sex; the group of women in San Antonio that tried to get the City Council to take Einstein's Theory of Relativity off the City Library shelves because of Einstein's alleged Communist associations; etc. etc. These facts are worth knowing.

Despite the volume's brevity, the Hoyt's ask the single vital question: "Who censors the censors?" To censor means to say: "I have the truth. That which is not the truth will hurt you. Therefore, I will judge what you will read, what you will see, what you will think about." No one will question the sincerity of the modern American censors, but their wisdom is—to say the least—open to some real questions. Recognizing that all parents are censors, that all teachers are arbiters, that all critics are evaluators—the question still remains: "Who censors the censors?" At what point does guidance end and thought control begin? What is "Liberty in Law" anyway? These are big questions, and ones well worth considering.

Seeing that we live in a county which just recently allowed dancing in its county high school, turned down a liquor by the drink proposal, and engaged in a "free speech" controversy of some dimensions—this book should excite a good bit of Murray interest.

Censorship in America can be obtained at The Murray Public Library on Main Street.

Brazil receives funds for hydroelectric plant

The construction of a 700-megawatt hydroelectric plant and transmission facilities at Salto Osorio on the Iguacu River will be assisted by a World Bank loan of $70 million. The project, with an estimated cost of $152.3 million, is the major element in the 1971-76 construction program of the Centrais Electricas do Sul do Brasil S.A.

CONSUMER AGENCY WASHINGTON (UPI)—Sen. Philip A. Hart, D-Mich., said he would introduce legislation today to establish an independent agency to champion consumer causes.

Hart said the chances for his proposal looked "most optimistic." Similar legislation passed the Senate last year but died in the House late in the session.

The people we lend money to tell us what to do.

We lend money to farmers and ranchers. Nobody else. And the people who borrow buy stock in PCA. That way, they tell us what to do. They decide who is really going to run our operation.

It's a great arrangement. We end up being owned and operated by the people who need—and use—our service. So we know all about their special money needs. Supplies, equipment, maintenance, extra help, medical bills, educational expenses. And we know how to tailor repayment programs to their production and income.

Talk over your money needs—any season of the year—with a seasoned money pro: the man at PCA.
