Mrs. Lowry Appointed Honorary MD Chairman

Mrs. C. C. (Betty) Lowry of Murray was appointed honorary state chairman of the 1972 Kentucky March of Dimes this morning by Governor Wendell H. Ford, who has served as honorary chairman for the past three years.

Mrs. C. C. Lowry

"I am pleased that Mrs. Lowry will be assisting in the enlistment and work of thousands of March of Dimes volunteers throughout the state during the annual January fund raising appeal for prevention, research, and treatment of birth defects," Ford said. "As one of my first official acts as Governor, I am proud to make this appointment and open the 1972 Kentucky March of Dimes," he continued.

Mrs. Lowry, wife of Dr. C. C. Lowry, Murray surgeon, is very active in civic affairs serving on the Murray City Council. She is a past president of the Kentucky Federation of Women's Club, and is now serving as chairman of the Advisory Council of the Murray Woman's Club.

In discussing the work of the March of Dimes, Ford noted "there have been many accomplishments made during the past year but much more needs to be done for the estimated 4,300 Kentucky children who are born

Man Charged In Execution Type Slaying Tuesday

DYER, Tenn. (UPI)—A white man has been charged with first-degree murder in the execution-style slaying of a black fireman at City Hall Tuesday.

James Collins, 36, burst into the building early Tuesday morning and pointed a 7.65 millimeter Mauser hunting rifle at 46-year-old George Ivey's head. Collins then forced Mayor David Robinson to tape the muzzle of the hunting rifle to Ivey's neck and, when the mayor reached for a second roll of adhesive tape, pulled the trigger.

District Attorney General W. R. Kinton said Collins was being held at the Gibson County jail at Trenton. An investigation to determine a motive for the slaying is continuing, Kinton said.

After the shooting, Collins was knocked unconscious with a billy club swung by City Recorder Horace Mays.

Robinson said Collins was incoherent when he entered the building.

"George, God rest his soul, was apparently the first guy this fellow ran across when he entered the building," the mayor said.

"I kept asking him what he was doing and he kept saying something about taping the gun to George's head or he would blow his brains out," Robinson added.

Letters To St. Nick Pour In At Santa Claus, Indiana

SANTA CLAUS, Ind. (UPI)—Letters from youngsters anxiously awaiting Christmas and a visit from St. Nick are pouring in here so fast this year efforts to answer them have resulted in an economic problem.

Each year residents in and around this southern Indiana community pitch in to address and send off a letter from Santa Claus to answer each letter from a child.

Jim Yellig, the 77-year-old man who oversees the project as the "Santa Claus" of this area, recently estimated 75,000 letters may come in by this Christmas.

Bert Reinke, Santa Claus postmaster, said the letters were coming in at double the rate of recent years. He estimated at least 2,000 letters a day have come through his office.

"In previous years we possibly had around 40,000—between 40,000 and 50,000," said Yellig. "This thing is getting to the point where the cost of it is almost prohibitive. It's a problem."

"For the cost of it, it is well worth it," he said. "It brings immense joy to the children."

Yellig said he returned here in 1930 after a career with the Navy. He said that year the project began when 1,500 letters were delivered here. Yellig said he works on the project as youth and child welfare director.

U.S. Steel Granted 3.6 Per Cent Price Hike By Commission

By ARNOLD B. SAWISLAK
WASHINGTON (UPI)—In a decision that could affect the cost of practically everything, the Price Commission has granted an increase averaging 3.6 per cent to U.S. Steel Corp.

The action, announced late Tuesday in a two-paragraph statement, gave U.S. Steel permission to boost prices for its entire line of products between now and Aug. 1.

While the commission did not say the decision was to be a precedent for the most basic of industrial commodities, Chairman C. Jackson Grayson said it "should help to stabilize the general price structure."

Setting a general pattern for steel (the commission previously had ruled only on prices of specialized steel products, such as tin plate), was the third major case handled by the seven-member commission.

The commission also announced approval Tuesday of increases of 5.5 and 5 per cent for Dow Jones & Co. on advertising rates of the Wall Street Journal and the National Observer.

It announced that United Press International had "established for the record that it had contracts prior to Aug. 15 which would allow it to increase prices 10 per cent and 5.6 per cent on selected services."

In other developments:—The U.S. Chamber of Commerce attacked the Pay Board for allowing pay increases "that go right through the ceiling ... The Pay Board must stop shattering its 5.5 per cent guideline. Construction increases of four and five times that amount—paid retroactively—to make a farce out of wage controls."

The Sheet Metal Workers Union also attacked the Pay Board for halting construction industry pay raises while the panel reviews the operation of the Construction Industry Stabilization Committee. The head of that committee was called before the Pay Board today to explain some of the recent building trades contracts it has approved.

Wintry Storm Buffets Plains

By United Press International
A wintry storm, accompanied by bitter cold and heavy snows, buffeted much of the Rockies and High Plains today and damp weather prevailed over much of the remainder of the nation.

Heavy snow warnings were in effect for New Mexico, the mountains of eastern Arizona and the mountains of southwest Colorado today and locally heavy snow was predicted for eastern Utah.

Blowing and drifting snow resulted in travelers' warnings for eastern Colorado and western Kansas. Travelers' warnings also were posted for northwest Texas and north and west Oklahoma where light snow and freezing rains made travel hazardous.

An Arctic high triggered cold wave warnings for Colorado, Wyoming, western North Dakota, northwest South Dakota and western Nebraska and bitter, subzero cold covered much of Montana and extended across western Wyoming. Temperatures in north-central Montana fell below 20 below zero in some places.

Snow was falling along the Washington coast with accumulations of up to two inches and travelers' warnings were in effect for western Washington.

Light rain dampened the mid-Atlantic states and scattered drizzle was reported from Tennessee and Arkansas to the Great Lakes region.

Early morning temperatures ranged from 23 below zero at Butte, Mont., to 77 at Key West, Fla.

Isn't It The Truth!

by Carl Riblet Jr.

Greed was never more in evidence than it is today with everybody who has anything to sell jacking up the price whether expenses are greater or not; which is to say that when you raise your prices you are unpatriotic, unrealistic, unfair and a crook, but I had to raise my prices because I need the money.

The Almanac

By United Press International
Today is Wednesday, Dec. 8, the 342nd day of 1971.

The moon is between its full phase and last quarter.

There are no morning stars.

The evening stars are Saturn, Venus, Mars, Jupiter and Mercury.

Those born on this date are under the sign of Sagittarius.

Cotton gin inventor Eli Whitney was born Dec. 8, 1765.

On this day in history:

In 1776 George Washington crossed the Delaware, near Trenton, N.J. and landed in Pennsylvania.

In 1863 President Abraham Lincoln announced his plan for reconstruction of the South. It provided amnesty for all who supported the Confederacy, except the highest leaders.

In 1886 delegates from 25 unions founded the American Federation of Labor in Columbus, Ohio.

In 1949 the Chinese Nationalist government, defeated by the Communists, moved its headquarters from the mainland to Formosa.

A thought for today: Abraham Lincoln said, "Truth is generally the best vindication against slander."

MEXICO CITY (UPI) —A group of 28 young Americans left for Cuba Monday to help out in the 1971-1972 Cuban sugar cane harvest and said many more would follow them.

VA Office Announces New Rule

As part of a continuing program to "cut red tape," Veterans Administration announced today that a lost birth certificate or marriage license will no longer be the big problem it once was for those who apply for veterans benefits. Less formal proof of marriage and birth is now acceptable under new VA regulations.

Officials noted that a new regulation became effective October 27, and that it covers payments of compensation, pension, dependency and indemnity compensation and education benefits for veterans, widows, and orphan children.

They explained that VA now accepts a veteran's certified statement of marriage, provided he or his wife has been married before, and the agency has no contradictory information on file.

VA also accepts a widow's certified statement of marriage, if agency records substantially support her statement.

Similarly, a veteran's certified statement on the birth of a child of his marriage is acceptable as proof of age and relationship, again, barring VA information to the contrary.

In the case of a deceased veteran, the other parent's certified statement on the birth of the veteran's child is sufficient, provided VA records corroborate the statement.

VA officials pointed out that before the regulation change, the agency required all statements of marriages and births to be supported by formalized documentary evidence.

Re-discover KENTUCKY

By Helen Price Stacy

WEST LIBERTY, Ky. —A season's first snow seldom stays around long, but patches of white that cling to twigs and tree trunks are enough to make something entirely different of the pine or cedar, the hillside, city street or the fireside.

Overnight the tree has taken on the look of Christmas, a hillside has become a place to sleigh ride, the city street is gay with shops and gifts and the fireplace hung from the mantel or a chairback pulled close to the hearthstone.

Already there are those of you who have gifts bought, wrapped and tagged. There too are the rest of us who long ago learned that Christmas is not complete without that last rush to a store or shop.

There is still time this year to give a bit of Kentucky in the stockings hung by the mantel with care...or those dangling from the back of a chair. A husband can give his family a winter weekend in a state resort park, and it bears repeating that as wonderful as the parks are in summer there is nothing so peaceful and beautiful as a park visit during cold months when a wood fire reflects color and hospitality in the massive beams and stones and copper hoods above warm hearthstones.

Continuing the theme of giving, Kentucky-made gifts this Christmas, stores and shops throughout the commonwealth and park gift shops abound with locally crafted articles that are satisfying to give and a joy to receive. There are shelves of books by Kentucky authors and editors—books on history, sports, cooking, crafts, music, art and books for all age groups.

Every city, town or village has its people who tool leather, hammer copper and brass, make jewelry—seamstresses who could provide lengths of patchwork or even a quilt, placemats, table cover or curtains in this popular motif. You might want to undertake a bit of patchwork yourself and make a gift of velvet patches brierstitched together or a country quilt made of pieces of whatever you can find. In the hills grandmothers continue a generations-old tradition of piecing quilts to give their children and grandchildren at Christmas.

For the collector there are artist prints as well as original paintings, Kentucky-made furniture, pottery and bibelots. I consider it a mark of distinction to display Kentucky arts and crafts. You might find a Kentucky display case to give—an antique china cabinet. My old schoolmaster's desk, for instance, holds apple dolls made by Mrs. Johnny Burgess of Louisa, ceramic birds made by Morehead's Miss Nell Carr, wax candles from the Cane Brake in Washington, Ky., and other state-made gifts.

In a Louisville home visited recently, Eloise and Bennet Elliott used Kentucky sculpture, pottery, yarn hangings and original paintings to lend distinction and create a mood that almost says "Welcome to our home and let's talk awhile."

For something different in Kentucky gifts, call the historical society in your community to find out who does genealogies. Give the genealogist as much family history as you have to get started on a family tree that is sure to be the beginning of an absorbing family hobby. Whatever your ancestry with its family ghosts, whatever your race or color, your gift of a family tree can be an important legacy, a stabilizing factor in linking present and past generations.

Among stocking stuffers to be found in state park gift shops are many Kentucky-made articles small enough for the stocking and also for the pocketbook, such as the booklet "By Their Works," to be found at My Old Kentucky Home, Greenbo Lake State Resort Park and others. Written by Lynn Nickell, West Liberty, the booklet tells much about your ancestors who preserved foods by drying and canning, sulphured apples, how they built their cabins and log bee hives, and country schools. They built a great Kentucky by work of their hands.

Look around you, search for unusual Kentucky foods and products, or make something yourself. This year would be a good time to give gifts with a made-in-Kentucky flavor and look.

Mercury Content In Kentucky On Decline

The latest test results show the amount of poisonous mercury in Kentucky Lake fish declined during July, August and September.

The figures were released by the Tennessee Valley Authority, Environmental Protection Agency and the Tennessee Water Quality Control Board.

Last August state Health Commissioner William P. McElwain advised against eating Kentucky Lake fish more than twice weekly because of the high mercury content.

Despite the reduction, game fish still have an average mercury content slightly above the .5 parts per million safety level set by the Food and Drug Administration.

Kentucky Lake mercury contamination has been blamed on mercury wastes dumped into the Tennessee River by an Alabama factory.

Pollution from the factory has been under control for the past year, authorities say, but old wastes still exist in the river bed.

Coed Is Kidnaped From Home

By BARBARA FRYE

TALLAHASSEE, Fla. (UPI) —Gerald Givens grabbed a rag and went outside to wipe the morning rain off the windshield of the family car so his wife could drive their daughter to classes at Florida State University.

As he raised up from the car, he found himself looking straight into the barrel of a 20-gauge shotgun.

That was the way it started Monday.

It ended three hours later with the arrest of 20-year-old Andrew Jackson Jr. on charges of kidnapping for $1,000 ransom 17-year-old Geraldine Givens.

Givens said Jackson, a Negro who lived off-and-on with his mother about a quarter of a mile down the road, threatened to kill him and then forced Geraldine at gunpoint to go with him, demanding $1,000 for her return.

From then on, for Geraldine, it was a nightmare of running through brambles in the woods behind her house, then being pushed into the trunk of an automobile, blindfolded and left for a short while.

When Jackson returned, she related, he took her to his mother's house where they telephoned her father about the ransom. Learning it had been placed in a paper bag behind the Givens barn, Jackson and his hostage returned. Geraldine, with Jackson's gun on her, climbed a fence, grabbed the bag and brought it back.

About that time, Sheriff Raymond Hamlin and Deputy Gene Geiger, with a bloodhound, came up behind them and Jackson took a shot at them, missing. Geiger returned the fire, wounding Jackson in both arms.

"There were bullets all around and I was hoping none would hit me," the freshman coed told newsmen later.

Hamlin said Jackson was free on $1,000 bail on burglary charges at the time. He underwent surgery for his arm wounds Monday and was released several hours later and booked into the county jail.

He had told Givens he needed $1,000 to go to Miami.

Earl Monroe, meanwhile, has recovered from his ankle sprain and will be in the lineup tonight against the Boston Celtics.

'Pinto Project' Conducted At Murray State

Wall Street Chatter

Wall Street Chatter. NEW YORK (UPI) —Subject to the usual profit taking, the stock market should continue to strengthen, according to the Alexander Hamilton Institute.

With prospects for a strong 1972 economy getting better all the time, the market will have little difficulty working higher, the firm says.

The recovery is likely to meet some resistance at the Dow 840-850 area unless the present bear market psychology has been more thoroughly reversed, Reynolds Securities Inc. says. The firm says bear psychology could be reversed by either a sudden favorable news announcement, probably on the international monetary front, or after a further period of stabilization and time-tested base building.

Spear and Staff says the recent market rise could be the beginning of the next extended market advance. If the current recovery is not too swift and security prices begin to move in line with the tempo of gradual improvement of economic conditions, the advance should carry the Dow very much higher, according to the firm.

The Dines Letter advises investors to use rallies to liquidate. "A rally like this could last for several weeks but in a bear market, you can never be certain," the firm observes.

Warning Issued Hexachlorophene

By WILLIAM B. MEAD

WASHINGTON (UPI) —

A chemical widely used for years in baby soaps may cause brain damage, according to the Food and Drug Administration (FDA).

Furthermore, the FDA said, the chemical—hexachlorophene—fails to deliver on many of the claims made for it.

Perhaps the best known hexachlorophene product is phisobex, introduced more than 20 years ago as a surgical scrub and widely used also for bathing babies in hospitals and homes.

In a bulletin mailed to 600,000 doctors today, the FDA cited a new study by Phisobex's manufacturer, Winthrop Laboratories Division of Sterling Drug Inc., in which newborn monkeys washed daily with the solution absorbed hexachlorophene into their blood and suffered brain damage.

Another study showed similar blood absorption and brain damage in rats, the FDA said, and a third showed lesser but measurable hexachlorophene levels in the blood of 50 newborn babies who were bathed with it. The monkeys and rats were killed so their brains could be studied. The babies, of course, were not, and the FDA said "no obvious toxic symptoms were noted in the newborns."

The FDA warned against bathing with hexachlorophene and proposed this warning label for products containing it:

"Do not use for total body bathing. Rinse thoroughly after use."

The action pertained only to products with 3 per cent or more hexachlorophene, including phisobex and gamphen surgical cake of soap.

A Winthrop Laboratories spokesman took exception to the FDA warning. "In more than 20 years of use and tens of millions of cases there has never been a single report of harm from phisobex when used as directed," the spokesman said.

Referring to the student opinion survey of subcompact cars, Platzer said the name of the company sponsoring the project was not revealed as the study was made.

"Keeping this secret was one of the hardest things for the students making the survey to do," he continued, "but if the name of the sponsoring company had been known, the research may have been biased and of questionable value."

The Ford company has loaned the marketing department at Murray State a Pinto car for as much as six weeks for use as a teaching and research aid. Platzer said students who signed up to test drive the car may make arrangements to drive it by contacting the marketing department office between 8:30 a.m. and 12:30 p.m. or between 1:30 and 3:30 p.m.

Students in the marketing research class working on the project are: Carolyn Wright, Buster Perry, Larry Arnett, Klaus Beinkamp, William Neville, William Birch, Jim Hauber, Scott Leary, Donald

The study noted Kentucky had a shortage of 1,540 physicians in 1970 and the situation will grow worse if nothing is done.

The shortage was greatest in rural counties with Jackson County having only one doctor. Robertson and Menifee counties also have only one doctor for a combined population of 6,000 persons.

The study shows Kentucky has one practicing doctor for every 998 persons, compared to a national average of one per 750.

The study recommended: —Each state medical school receive $300,000 annually for the family practice department; —Establishment of a scholarship fund for medical students to be trained in "the specialty of family practice"; —The legislature allow communities to contract on a yearly basis for the services of a licensed doctor.

The Murray High School Band Parents Booster Club announces

Heavy load calls for help, not harassment

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: We've been married 14 years and have four sweet kids. Over the years my husband has done some pretty mean things. Here is an example:

Yesterday my youngest cried when I told her I couldn't attend the first PTA meeting as that was my night to do the weekly grocery shopping. When I realized how much it meant to her to have me meet her teacher and view her work, I knew I had to go, so when my husband came home from work, I told him his dinner was on the table, and I was rushing out to do the marketing early, so I could attend the PTA meeting.

Well, Abby, he flew into a rage like a madman when he saw there was no full-course dinner waiting for him—but something I had quickly put together instead. He shouted that he would not put up with meals like this, as though I fed him that way every night! He also said it wasn't necessary for me to go to the PTA meeting, and I was only using it as an excuse to get out of the house. (And all of this in front of the children?)

I did the marketing with a lump in my throat and when I returned, he refused to help me carry in the nine bags of groceries!

Abby, what do you think of a 41-year-old man with a master's degree and an executive position who treats his family this way?

HEARTSICK

DEAR HEARTSICK: Maturity and consideration do not come in degrees. And by the way, your husband is as much a parent as you, and as such he should have gone to the PTA meeting with you. [P. S. I hope your husband grows up before his kids do.]

DEAR ABBY: You jokingly said, "Now, if Ma Bell would only come up with a gadget that would signal those nonstop talkers to say goodbye!"

Well, we of Standard Telephone in northeast Georgia have used a feature for some 20 years. Our apparatus signals a short warning at the end of five minutes. Sixty seconds later another warning signal is heard, after which the connection is automatically broken.

This does not, of course, prevent the parties from re-dialing each other. It does, however, free the line for others who may be trying to get either of the long-winded parties. Yours very truly,

H. M. STEWART

DEAR MR. STEWART: The feature is great if one of the parties is eager to terminate the conversation. But can you imagine the resentment an automatic disconnect would create if both parties were enjoying a "long-winded" conversation about love? Or money?

DEAR ABBY: After years of accepting congratulations and gifts on my birthday just for having been born, it suddenly occurred to me who really deserved the gifts.

After that, on my birthday, I sent my mother one rose for every year of my life. I enclosed a note, "With loving thanks." She knew who had sent them.

Now that she is no longer living, I send a contribution on my birthday to my mother's favorite charity in her name. The card still says, "With loving thanks."

J.

DEAR J.: Thank you for sharing a beautiful idea.

Trigg Wildcats Outlast Murray High Last Night

By MIKE BRANDON

Football season in Kentucky ended two weeks ago. But if one witnessed the visiting Trigg County Wildcats 58-55 win over the Murray High Tigers last night, he might have been led to believe otherwise.

The Tigers and the Wildcats managed to play one of the sloppiest, roughest games imaginable. But in the end it turned out to be a thriller.

Murray led once in the entire ballgame. That came when George Landolt hit from under the basket to put the Tigers in front 2-0. Poor shooting and far too many turnovers caused the Tigers to be on the low end of a 12-7 first quarter score.

Both teams played a very ragged second quarter. The Tigers managed to cut the margin to three points on a 15 foot jump shot by Jimmy Bramley. But the Wildcats rattled off five straight points over the next three minutes and Murray trailed 25-17.

Tyrone McCuiston swished two free throws with nine seconds left to cut the margin to six points. But David Fitzwater balanced McCuiston's free throws out by scoring from under the basket at the buzzer to give Trigg County a 27-19 lead at halftime.

The Tigers hit a miserable 29 per cent from the field in the first half.

Robert Baker dimmed the Tiger hopes a little more by scoring four quick points at the outset of the third period and Coach Bob Toon's Tigers found themselves behind by 12 points. Murray fought back to within eight points as Porter McCuiston scored on a rebound with 3:15 left to make the count 36-28. Then the roof fell in.

With the Wildcats holding a 38-30 lead Shemwell and Baker combined for six quick points. Baker was fouled at the buzzer and Porter McCuiston was whistled for a technical foul. Baker hit the two foul shots and the one technical foul shot to give Trigg a 47-30 lead at the end of the quarter.

Because the quarter had ended with a technical foul, Trigg County was given the ball at the outset of the final period. Baker went right back to work by promptly hitting on a drive to give the Trigg County Wildcats their largest lead of the game, 49-30.

With 5:42 remaining in the game Higbee banged a 15 footer to give Trigg a 54-36 lead. Then, the Tigers began to fight out of their cages.

Porter McCuiston scored four straight points and Tyrone McCuiston hit a 15 footer to pull the Tigers to within 12. Adam Lanning scored four straight points and the Tigers closed the gap to eight.

With 3:01 to play, Ray Lane popped a 20 footer and the Tiger fans went into a frenzy as the now hustling Tigers pulled to within six points.

With 2:55 showing on the clock Porter McCuiston stole the ball on the press and drove for a layup. McCuiston was fouled on the play and converted the free throw to make it 54-51.

Eight seconds later Shemwell was fouled and hit one of his two free throws to up the lead to four eight points as Porter McCuiston the Tigers blew four chances to score as two layups were missed and two floor violations were called.

Jimmy Bramley stole the ball from the Wildcats and drove for the score to put the Tigers within two points with 58 seconds still left. Eight seconds later Diggs, missed the second of a one-plus situation and the Tigers rebounded the ball. But in a scramble the ball fell on the floor and a jumpball followed. Willis controlled the tip for Murray. Bramley tried to drive and was fouled. Bramley missed both free throws and the Wildcats iced the game in the final seconds by scoring on a goal tending call and by hitting a free throw. Bramley scored the last Tiger point with three seconds left by connecting from five feet out to make the final count 58-55.

The evening had one bright note. The "B" team Tigers took a 51-42 win over the Wildkittens of Trigg County. Ray Lane led the scoring with 16 points, followed by Dean Willis and Mike Cathey with seven. Resig and Dick had four apiece while Scott and Lanning each scored three to round out the point production for the Tigers.

The Tigers travel to Paducah Tilghman Friday to meet the highly-regarded Blue Tornado. Trigg County 12 15 20 11-55 Murray High 7 12 11 25-55

Evansville Rated To Team In UPI Small College Poll

NEW YORK (UPI)—Evansville showed its early-season might and the United Press International Board of Coaches responded by voting the Aces an overwhelming No. 1 in the first week of balloting in the small college ratings.

Evansville, victor in last year's NCAA College Division post-season tournament, opened the '71 season with an 83-80 triumph over last year's regular season champion, Assumption. That got the Aces 19 first-place votes from the 30 coaches participating in the balloting for UPI and 256 points. Idle Kentucky State was second with 220 points and one first-place vote.

Kentucky Wesleyan, which will entertain Evansville in this week's top game on Saturday, was third with 165 points. After that it was Tennessee State, Louisiana Tech and Eau Claire of Wisconsin. Eau Claire got the second highest total of first-place votes (five) after winning its first three games.

Assumption, which was rated fourth in pre-season, slipped to

Frosh Fall To Salukis

By MIKE BRANDON

It took part of three seasons for it to happen but it finally did. Murray State's Baby Racers 27 game winning streak came to an end Monday night as the Saluki freshmen of Southern Illinois University whipped Murray 100-84.

The Baby Racers were within eight points at halftime 51-43. But big Mike Coleman left the game with fouls during the second half and the Murray effort fell short.

Murray shot 89 times in the contest making only 34 buckets for a cold .382 per centage. The Salukis were 42 of 72 for a blistering .583.

Coleman found the confines of the Carbondale Arena very unfriendly as the 6-6 center scored just nine points. T.C. Jamison picked up the scoring slack for the Racers by firing in 37 points. Darnell Adell chipped in with 19. Roger Boynton led the Salukis with 28 while 6-10 Joe Merriweather scored 22. Gower and Willis each scored 19 while Ricci also hit double figures with 10.

Murray (84)—Coleman 9, Jamison 37, Adell 19, Kelley 7, Swartzell 4, Mantooth 4, Smith 2, Roney 2, Hale 0 and Redmon. SIU (100)—Willis 19, Ricci 10, Merriweather 22, Boynton 28, Gower 19 and Rogers 2.

SWINNEY CLAIMED

NEW YORK (UPI)—The Houston Oilers claimed Clovis Swinney, a 6-foot-3, 249 pound defensive tackle, from the New York Jets Tuesday.

Swinney, who was called off his used car lot in Jonesboro, Ark. by the Jets last month, was placed on the injured waiver list by New York following an ankle injury suffered in the contest against San Francisco Nov. 28.

Luther Pleased With Showing Of Racers In Saturday Loss

"Of course I'm disappointed in losing after coming from behind twice, but I'm really pleased with the poise and determination the team showed in coming back," Murray State Coach Cal Luther said of his team's 81-80 loss to Cheyney State Saturday night. "Cheyney State's strong team," Luther continued. "They have size and great speed, they are well disciplined, and they came in here with a hot hand and played a fine ballgame."

Luther blamed his Racers' floor mistakes for the loss. "You certainly can't turn the ball over 25 times and expect to beat a good team like Cheyney," He also expressed disappointment at his team's shooting, noting that its outside shooting statistics were far from impressive.

After falling 16 points behind in the first half and trailing by 12 at halftime, the Racers rallied to tie the score midway of the second half, only to see Cheyney spurt to an 11-point lead with 5 minutes to go. "The trap defense we used to get back in the game drained us," Luther said. "We don't have the reserve strength to maintain such a defense for a long period."

Still the Racers rallied again, taking a one-point lead in the last minute and getting two good shots at the basket in the final seconds after Cheyney had gone back in front by one. Les Taylor, who had 40 points in the Racers' win over Arkansas Tech, added 18 against Cheyney.

and leads the Racers in scoring average with 29.0. Ron Williams is averaging 17.5, Bill Mancini 12.0, Marcelous Starks 9.0, and Steve Barret 7.0. Starks is leading rebounder with 12.5 a game. Mancini has averaged 11.5.

The next opponent for the Racers will be Illinois State who will be in Murray Saturday night. The Cardinals are 1-2 for the season.

Luther calls Illinois State one of the strongest teams on the Murray schedule and says the Racers will have to play a much better game to win. "Illinois State is bigger, stronger, and better shooters than either of the teams we've played," he said.

Boston Snaps Knicks Losing Streak; Bucks Rout Seattle

By GARY KALE

UPI Sports Writer

Former Celtics Bill Russell and Tom Heinsohn are supably impressed by the present brand of Boston talent.

They cite three reasons why the current Celts should win the Atlantic Division title in the National Basketball Association this season:

—The 105-97 victory over New York Tuesday night that snapped the Knicks' eight-game winning streak against Boston.

—The maturing of 1970-71 co-rookie of the year Dave Cowens into an all-round center.

—The 10-2 start by Boston this season and the ability to win a vital decision Tuesday that meant a two-game lead over New York.

Cowens controlled the boards in the first half as Boston overcame poor shooting to trail New York 52-51, at intermission.

The Knicks, hitting only on one of their first 15 shots, exhibited one of their frequent cold spells this season as they failed to score for 4:14 of the third period while Boston ran off 10 straight points. Boston led 69-55 halfway through the quarter by running off an 18-3 spurt as Jo Jo White and John Haylicek zeroed in on target. White finished with 26 points and White netted 25. Walt Frazier was high for New York with 25 points.

"All teams are sky-high when they play us," said Heinsohn, the Boston coach. "The old Celtics were twice as tough, but we're achieving recognition. Everybody worked their butt off tonight to beat the Knicks."

for fighting.

Chicago remained 4½ games back of Milwaukee in the Central Division with a fourth quarter rally that beat Cleveland. The Bulls held the Cavs to 13 points in the final period while scoring 30.

In other NBA action, Milwaukee routed Seattle, 116-83. Chicago ripped Cleveland, 115-99, Portland surprised Detroit, 131-130, in overtime. Buffalo riddled Cincinnati, 115-91, and Atlanta defeated Golden State, 116-113.

Milwaukee led Seattle close to 39-37 with 3:46 left in the first half and then ran off a 12-1 spurt to put the game out of reach. Kareem Jabbar paced the Bucks with 29 points and Bob Dandridge had 28. Don Smith led the Sonics with 21. John Block of Milwaukee and Dick Snyder of Seattle were ejected in the fourth quarter.

Stan McKenzie scored six of Portland's 15 points in overtime as the Trail Blazers won their first road game in 12 attempts. Jimmy Walker rallied Detroit in the fourth quarter by scoring 19 of the club's last 21 points in regulation time. He finished with 40. Geoff Petrie, the other co-rookie of 1971, scored 36 for Portland.

Rookie Fred Hilton accounted for 26 points as Buffalo clobbered Cincinnati. The Braves scored 12 straight points in a surge that started with four minutes remaining in the third period and carried them from a 69-64 deficit to a 76-64 lead.

Lou Hudson scored 30 points and Pete Maravich added 26 as the Hawks beat Golden State. Cazzie Russell led the Warriors with 33 points but it wasn't enough to prevent their fourth consecutive defeat.

Christmas spirit finds flood-stricken town

DOWNIEVILLE, Calif. — Christmas is the time for telling and retelling the traditional stories of man's humanity toward his fellow man. This is the story of how 34 years ago the Christmas spirit came to the tiny gold rush mining town of Downieville nestled high in the rugged northern Sierra Nevada of California.

On Dec. 21, 1937, loving kindness was showered on the flood-stricken people of Downieville with a force more powerful than the deluge that two weeks before laid waste to the town.

Downieville, the county seat of Sierra County, is located at the confluence of tributary streams which most of the year flow gently into the North Yuba River. The place was first called The Forks by the gold-hungry Argonauts who pitched their tents on the stream banks and river bars. The diggin' proved rich, often rewarding the miner with a "tin-cup full of gold a day." Civilization came to The Forks and with it a new name to honor the town's foremost citizen, Major William Downie.

The miners soon exhausted the placer gold from the banks and began an assault on the hillsides where they burrowed into the granite searching for quartz veins and additional wealth. The town prospered, and, as the 20th Century rolled around, became a trading center for the isolated mines which dotted the up-country.

In early December, 1937, the good people of Downieville began to prepare for the holidays. Decorations crowded store windows. Scores of small faces pressed against frosted glass panes, peering longingly at goodies on display.

Blue-gray smoke rose silently skyward from the chimneys of neatly painted houses which lined the hillsides and huddled together on the flats. Inside, family members smiled at one another as they gaily hung shimmering strips of tinsel on trees freshly cut from the surrounding evergreen hills.

Then it happened. Slowly at first, then increasing with a speed that seemed to shout impending destruction, the skies blackened and rain began to fall.

In San Francisco, some 200 miles to the west, the weather bureau said a storm front was moving in. It arrived from the Pacific right on schedule buffeting Northern California with vicious winds and torrential rain. It scored direct hits on the counties of Plumas, Placer, Nevada and Sierra. It seemed to single out the latter and struck with a vengeance. For two days and nights, heavy rain whipped by increasing wind washed whole trees and giant boulders into swirling mud-clogged streams.

The debris tumbled wildly in the current until it was stopped abruptly by the concrete bridge that carried State Highway 49 across the North Yuba River through the center of Downieville. A gigantic dam was formed as the river rose at an alarming rate. Muddy water spilled in great torrents at either side of the dam inundating low-lying homes and stores.

Residents of Grass Valley, 45 miles south of the town, opened their Grass Valley Morning

Union for Dec. 11, to an eight-column front page banner headline DOWNIEVILLE

Downieville was isolated, all telephone and power lines were down. The town was in darkness and had been divided into three islands by the rampaging Yuba. The town of 450 faced a bleak future.

Christmas was two weeks away and Grass Valley was preparing for the traditional Donation Day parade in which school children march to a center STRICKEN AS BRIDGE CLOGS YUBA. Additional headlines gave the news that: One Missing and Scores Homeless, 15 Buildings Collapse, Four Bridges Lost.

Collisions Are Investigated By The Police

Three traffic collisions were investigated by the Murray Police Department on Monday. No injuries were listed on the reports filed by the officers.

Seventh and Main Streets was the scene of the collision at 11:24 a.m. between a 1970 Dodge four door owned by Van Prince of Mayfield Route One and driven by Joe Harrol Prince of Farmington, and a 1970 Ford two door driven by Sue Collins Weatherford of Murray Route Four.

Police said Prince, going north on 7th, stopped for the stop sign at Main Street, started across the street, but failed to see the Weatherford car going west on Main Street.

Damage to the Dodge was on the right front and to the Ford on the front.

Cars involved in a collision at 4:31 p.m. at the intersection of 12th and Main Streets were a 1969 Plymouth two door hardtop owned by Jackie Fain and driven by Linda Dunn Fain of 1606 Miller Avenue, Murray, and a 1970 Volkswagen two door owned by Edwin W. Mills and driven by Ruth Ann Mills of Route Two, Guston.

The Mills car, going west on Main Street, made a left turn onto South 12th Street, and collided with the Fain car going east on Main Street, according to the police report.

The Fain car was damaged on the right front fender and bumper, and the Mills car on the right rear quarter panel.

The other collision occurred at 3:15 p.m. on Maple Street near the Benton Auto Supply Company between a 1970 Ford four door sedan driven by Mary G. Lassiter of 204 Poplar Street, Murray, and a 1972 Datsun station wagon owned by Kathryn Buckaway Sexton of 1705 Johnson Boulevard, Murray.

Police said Miss Lassiter was traveling into the north side of Maple Street to park in a no parking zone. The right front door handle of the Lassiter car hit the left front door of the Sexton car as she was pulling in to park, according to the police report.

Damage to the Ford was on the right door and to the Datsun on the left front door.

SCHMIDTKE BEATS ROUSE FRANKFURT, Germany (UPI)—Roger Rouse of Anacanda, Mo., a former top light heavyweight contender, lost a 10-round decision Friday to West German lightweight champion Ruediger Schmidtke. Rouse weighed 172 to 178 for Schmidtke.

tral location bearing gifts of food to be distributed to the town's needy families. Children helping children. But what of the children of Downieville who watched their dreams of Christmas and Santa Claus washed away by the irresistible flood; what will Christmas hold for them?

The flood waters of the Yuba began to recede, but the hearts of the people in the neighboring towns of Grass Valley, Nevada City, Marysville and Auburn filled with overflowing with goodwill toward the little children of Downieville.

In Auburn, members of the Gold Rush founded fraternity of E Clampus Vitus — whose red shirts and black trousers had long been symbols synonymous with fun and horse play — went into action. There was no horseplay when children faced the prospect of no Christmas. Cash, food, toys, fruit, candy and nuts were collected by the brethren of the order to assure Santa's arrival in Downieville.

In Marysville, in adjoining Yuba County, service clubs and civic groups combined forces in a similar effort. In Nevada City and Grass Valley the "Downieville Children's Christmas Tree Fund" was subscribed to generously by the residents of those twin gold-mining towns.

December 21 rather than Christmas Eve was chosen for Santa's arrival in Downieville. Preparations were under way for an automobile caravan to carry the gifts. It would start in Marysville and Auburn then to Grass Valley and Nevada City where — rain, snow or shine — it would travel the last 45 miles over "The Road of a Thousand Turns" into Downieville. California Highway Patrol units would convoy the group.

Each town oversubscribed its individual relief program. Brightly wrapped packages were loaded into cars along with food baskets and strings of ornaments for decoration of a community tree. Singers, musicians and other entertainers volunteered their talents.

All was ready. At 3 p.m. on Dec. 21, 1937, the expedition began its trek to bring Christmas to the flood-stricken children of Downieville. Past Smartville, through Penn Valley and on to Rough and Ready the Marysville contingent traveled. At every crossroad more automobiles joined the procession. At Grass Valley the Auburn group joined up. More cars fell into the lengthening line as crowds cheered them on their way. By the time they reached Nevada City, 200 automobiles containing 600 people had joined the cavalcade.

With horns blowing and musicians playing the cars triumphantly entered Downieville. Men wept openly at the sight of smiling children waving and singing amid the rubble. Santa, his flowing white beard wet with tears, emerged from the lead car as the caravan came to a halt in front of the venerable St. Charles Hotel. Stranger embraced stranger. Little children were snatched up by eager arms and hugged and kissed. Christmas had come to Downieville.

Republicans may lose key senatorial races

WASHINGTON — The well-organized team assembling President Nixon's reelection campaign is quietly anticipating that his popularity will yield some 1972 Senate gains for the Republicans. At this stage, however, there are few positive signs to indicate such an event will occur. The same signs do point to a potential Republican loss in the Senate unless Mr. Nixon uses his time and control of party resources to help some allies in trouble.

Thirty-three U.S. senators — 19 Republicans and 14 Democrats — will be up for reelection next year. Democrats now control 55 to 45, and are a favorite as of now to retain virtually all of the seats they hold.

A survey of individual offices also indicates that, based on current popularity and plans of the incumbents, Democrats could gain as many as six seats next year.

In 1970, Democrats won 22 and Republicans 11 of the seats in contention. One independent and one conservative won election at the same time. Despite some criticism that the White House lost in the first off-year election, Mrs. Nixon described the current makeup of the Senate as a "working majority" for his party.

The critical problem for Mr. Nixon next year, however, is that the "working majority" — the number of conservative Republicans and Democrats expected to pool their forces on major issues — could be cut sharply after November of next year.

A secondary problem for Mr. Nixon is that all of the so-called "glamor races" for Senate in 1972 will occur in states needed to secure his reelection.

In only two states, normally Democratic Virginia and Georgia, do Republicans now stand a better than even chance of upsetting the Democrats.

Races expected to draw the most attention are those waged by Howard Baker in Tennessee, Robert Griffin in Michigan, Mark Hatfield in Oregon, Charles Percy in Illinois and John Tower in Texas. All are Republicans and with the exception of Percy and Hatfield, consistent supporters of Mr. Nixon.

Republicans could pull a surprise in Virginia where there is now announced GOP opposition to Sen. William Spong. Similarly, Georgia GOP Rep. Fletcher Thompson hopes to unseat Sen. David Gambrell, appointed by Gov. Jimmy Carter last year to succeed the late Richard Russell.

Mr. Nixon's problems would be eased considerably by the victories of several aging but politically safe Republicans who have yet to announce their intentions for next year. They include Sens. Gordon Allott of Colorado, J. Caleb Boggs of Delaware, Clifford Case of New Jersey, Carl Curtis of Nebraska, Jack Miller of Iowa and James Pearson of Kansas.

Another troublesome seat for Mr. Nixon is the one held by Republican Karl Mundt of South Dakota. Mundt has been seriously ill for more than a year and has not attended a Senate session in that time. If he decides not to file for reelection, the race could be wide open.

Liberal Republican Edward Brooke of Massachusetts and conservative loyalist Strom Thurmond of South Carolina are heavy favorites to win.

Republicans so far have been trying to insure there will be no lack of resources for the Baker, Griffin and Tower campaigns.

White House sources say there is sympathy but less campaign enthusiasm for Percy and Hatfield. Percy is expected to have a close run but is favored.

If Hatfield drops out — as he has given some indication of doing — the seat is expected to go to another maverick Republican — Gov. Tom McCall.

A problem for the Republicans in gaining Democrat seats is that most of the opposition party incumbents represent southern states. In only one state, Oklahoma, do Republicans of their states are prizes sought by Mr. Nixon's electoral vote counters.

LOVE AND CULTURE

LONDON (UPI)—Lord Beaumont, who recently saw teenagers kissing in a London museum, told the House of Lords Monday he approves of such buildings being used for petting purposes. "They (the young persons) were perfectly well-behaved and obviously had nowhere more agreeable to meet. I believe it was instilling in them an interest in the museum which would grow as they grew older," he said.

it's a sign of Confidence and helps build opportunity in Murray.

Where we say
our school, not the school

Big city schools have little school spirit. Little sense of belonging. Little pride.

School is a job at a very early age.

Our schools are important. We take a special interest in our children, their friends and their teachers.

We keep track of our graduates. We like to share in their successes and like to have them feel they always have a home community. Our community is proud of them. Because they belong to us.

Good school spirit is an important part of good community spirit. It makes everything more worthwhile.

IT'S TOUGH Prayer issue lives on

By VERNON E. BROWN
Copley News Service

Congress recently saw fit to turn down an appeal for prayer in our public schools.

I can well appreciate every parent's option, as it relates to their children being involved in prayer while at school. I will personally tip my hat to the nearsighted congressman whose rationale it was that prayer, in school, would be contrary to our American Constitution.

I am always amazed when in 1971 Congress becomes so adamantly Constitution minded. All you and I need do is look back on their records and we can see that very few are very earnest and sincere followers of our Constitution.

I am reminded that many years ago a lady brought suit. As a result of her efforts, our children were not allowed the right to thank God for their existence on that particular day.

I am reminded that whenever a public state or federal gathering begins, as Americans, we pay homage to the flag, oftentimes singing the "Star Spangled Banner," and a great many times, an invocation is given. If there be those among you who are of the opinion that prayer is wrong, or unconstitutional, or that it would deprive us of our American way of life, then you have problems.

Let's discuss the benefits and some of the uses of prayer. I will not cite any denomination, faith or religion. I will remind you that some form of prayer has been in existence since the beginning of man.

I appreciate the agnostic's point of view. I don't buy it, but it's his thing. I can understand the atheist's philosophy, by the same token. He's also entitled to his view.

But I would imagine, if you gave me an agnostic, an atheist, a hammer, a dozen nails and some thorns to put around their heads, that very quickly they would believe in God.

There are many uses for prayer. When a marriage is performed, prayer is used. When our children are born, they too, enter the world with prayer. When we become gravely ill, near death, prayer is administered by those people who pray for us. At funerals, prayer is offered so that our souls may rest in peace, and those left behind may continue to live a normal life. For the mentally and physically handicapped, for the blind, deaf and lame, how many prayers go out to help them endure a condition, not brought upon by themselves?

How many of us, or our loved ones, have been involved in accidents? How many prayers have we said in such situations?

When an individual walks his final step from death row to the gallows, there is prayer.

In this day of troubled times and massive corrosion of the spirit, our young people's minds contain a huge amount of frustration. Must we now take the opportunity of prayer from our young?

Think of me as a young man without a goal to save the world. But think of each of us as praying for the world.

Cancer may be wafted by aerosol sprays

The wide use of aerosol deodorants and hair sprays is a major factor in the increasing incidence of lung cancer over the last few years, says a Colorado surgeon Dr. William O. Good.

The doctor suspects aerosols also cause noncancerous lung infections. He believes the Freon propellant or some other ingredient in the products damages or destroys hair-like cilia protecting lungs.

High School Education Carries Ford A Long Way

FRANKFORT, KY. (UPI)—Gov. Wendell H. Ford once described himself as a "little man from Yellow Creek with just a high school education."

Ford, who was inaugurated Tuesday as Kentucky's 49th Governor, has come a long way with those credentials.

Inauguration was Ford's day in the state capitol and he took the initiative in his inaugural address to point out in subtle terms that the people cannot expect from Government things that they will not allow it to accomplish.

"Our alliance these next four years must carry with it an understanding that as Wendell Ford is faithful and true to you (the people of Kentucky), so will you be to your state," Ford said.

Not so evasively put was Ford's thought on special interests:

"The challenge to you and the challenge to me," Ford said, "is that before we are Democrats or Republicans or Independents, before we are any of the things that separate us, let us upon the altar of our state place a personal sacrifice and stop treating that altar as a trough from which to eat."

Ford, 47, was greeted by a crowd from his hometown of Owensboro and signs reading "we're proud of you Wendell" dotted the crowd.

Inaugural officials estimated a crowd of 15,000 took part in the day-long activities. Only about 5,000 were on hand for the swearing-in that took place in a light rain.

Cloudy skies threatened to put a damper on the activities, but the shower held off until late in the afternoon and the final outdoor events.

The 200-unit parade along a mile route through downtown Frankfort to the capitol building lasted four hours. The brightly-colored floats carried one of two themes: They congratulated Ford and Carroll or they hailed the long-awaited return of the Democrats to the statehouse.

Ford, and Carroll, 40, a Paducah attorney and former speaker of the state House of Representatives, were legally sworn-in at private homes in Frankfort shortly after midnight Tuesday. The early oath of office is traditionally given to insure an orderly line of succession to state office.

Ford and Carroll and their wives greeted guests in a receiving line at the capitol Tuesday night before attending inaugural balls in four locations.

The grand march, the high point of the main ball, was held in the rotunda of the capitol Tuesday night.

In a farewell address, Gov. Louie B. Nunn, who was elected after a 20-year absence of a republican in the statehouse, said his administration's "stewardship is recorded in a legacy of significant gains in areas of vital human need."

Carroll, in his inaugural address, said the next four years, "will not be a house divided. This is not to say we (Ford and Carroll) shall never disagree, but rather it is my intention that we shall be able to disagree without being disagreeable."

Both men were fined $25 and assessed legal costs.

Both charges grew out of a collision between the Strickland car and a car driven by the deceased, Ellison F. Moore, 28, of Murray.

According to testimony Monday, events leading to the accident unfolded in this manner:

—The Gore car stopped several hundred yards west of the Amvets Club on Highway 79 near Kentucky Lake to talk to two girls. It was not clear whether the car was parked on the highway or whether it was partially on the shoulder.

—A car driven by Donald P. Harrison of Stewardson, Ill., came up behind the Gore car and stopped, apparently unable to get around. Both cars were headed toward Paris.

—Strickland said his car pulled out of the Amvets Club, "spun a little gravel," and began moving toward Paris.

—Strickland applied his brakes when he realized that the Harrison car was stopped. He slid around the Harrison car on the left side of the road and stopped about even with the car driven by Gore.

—There was conflicting testimony by Strickland and a passenger in his car, Tommy Freeland, Paris, about what conversation if any took place between occupants of the Strickland car and the Gore car.

—Shortly thereafter, the Moore car, heading toward the lake, rammed the left front of the Strickland car, knocking it into the car driven by Harrison. The Gore car was not involved in the collision.

Sgt. R. L. McClanahan of the Tennessee Highway Patrol, who investigated the accident, testified, "In this officer's opinion, Gore was indirectly responsible for the accident even though his car was not involved."

McClanahan, who was assisted in the investigation by Sheriff Leon Williams, also said that blood alcohol tests were run on both Strickland and the body of Moore. He said the Strickland youth did not register enough alcohol to be charged with drunken driving. The body of Moore, however, showed enough alcohol content to be charged with DWI.

In his testimony, Freeland said he saw a car pull out from a restaurant just west of the accident point while they were sitting in the left hand lane. He said he also saw another car behind that car but he was uncertain which car hit the Strickland car.

Officers also revealed that there were three other witnesses to the accident. Sgt. McClanahan said that two soldiers from Fort Knox who were hitchhiking witnessed the wreck as did a third man from Michigan.

Both defendants were represented by attorneys, Strickland by Hugh McLean and Gore by Kent Jones.

Two Fined In Fatal Accident

Two Henry County, Tenn., men were convicted Monday of criminal charges stemming from an automobile accident which resulted in the death of a Murray man on October 8.

Henry County General Session Court Judge Millard Kesterson found William A. Strickland, 18, of Puryear, guilty of reckless driving and Roger Gore, of Paris Route 5, guilty of improper parking.

Both men were fined $25 and assessed legal costs.

Hawaiian Santa Claus says aloha, not ho-ho-ho

HONOLULU — Palm trees sway in gentle trade winds and the tropical sun makes the surf sparkle but, yes, Virginia, there is a Santa Claus in Hawaii.

Because the 50th state lies over 2,000 miles from its nearest sister-state, shopkeepers display holiday decorations and merchandise many weeks before the Thanksgiving turkey is stuffed.

The island housewife has usually purchased, wrapped and mailed gifts to friends and family on the Mainland or the Far East by mid-November.

However, it's the first shipload of fragrant Northwest fir trees that really heralds the opening of the Christmas season in Hawaii.

Strangely enough, Norfolk pine trees are farmed in Hawaii for sale on the Mainland. Some of these perfectly symmetrical trees find their way to island homes but the majority are trimmed in homes in a snowy climate.

Some islanders choose a less traditional tree, preferring perhaps a piece of driftwood, cast up from their seashore doorstep. This "tree" from the water may be decorated with shells, bits of coral and seaweed and, of course, twinkling lights.

Almond-eyed keikis (children) stand shoulder-to-shoulder with blue-eyed towheads and golden skinned Polynesians ogling the tempting wares in the shop windows.

Santa Claus wears his red fur trimmed suit and is thankful for air conditioning in the department store. He takes orders for dolls, trains, games, roller skates, bicycles but his list from the children of Hawaii also includes surf boards and swim fins.

The Ala Moana Shopping Center, the largest of its kind in the world, flies in Santa's reindeer where they are displayed in air cooled gaily painted stalls. Even Rudolph is there to be petted by small loving hands.

Christmas cards carry the holiday greeting in many tongues but the favorite theme is still, "Peace On Earth, Good Will Toward Men." Many cards depict the nativity scene in a lush tropical setting or Santa Claus, donned in flowered swimming trunks, arriving on a sailing skiff.

Island hostesses never need much of an excuse to give a party, but the Christmas season ushers in a rash of social events that would fatigue the most glamorous debutante. The cocktail party is far and away the most popular way to entertain at this time of the year.

"Casual Attire," stated on the invitation means muumuu for the women and aloha shirts for the men. But how the muumuu has changed since the missionary ladies of the 1800s clothed the native female form in yards and yards of printed calico.

Lace, velvet, satin, brocade, imported saris from India, finely embroidered just from the Philippines and exotic silks from Taiwan, Japan and Korea are cut and fashioned into modern day versions of the muumuu. The 1971 social season will see still further modifications. Skirts will be slit waist high to show off Hot Pants.

"Business suit," means coat and tie for the husband and a cocktail dress for his wife. The coat may be a double breasted dark blue worsted or of cotton or linen done in a tapa print but the cocktail dress may well be a jeweled original from one of Honolulu's many exclusive shops.

Whatever the tone of the party, guests will probably be entertained on a wide lanai (terrace) or a spacious lawn. Christmas tree lights will compete with the glowing garden torches and a trio of musicians will strum guitars and ukuleles. Someone will very likely do an impromptu hula before the evening is over.

Haole housewives (Haole is a term used loosely in Hawaii to mean Caucasian), will serve pupus (hors d'oeuvres) of dips with potato chips, stuffed celery stalks, cheese puffs, caviar and anything else that comes in a bottle or can to be found on the gourmet shelves of the super market.

If she was Island-born or has lived there for many years, this hostess will add grilled slivers of steak soaked in a marinade of soy and ginger, water chestnuts wrapped in bacon and fried, sashimi (raw fish) sliced and dipped in a piquant sauce, cooked ground round steak mixed with herbs and wrapped in grape leaves, prawns dipped in batter and deep fried, spicy Portuguese sausage, hot pork cubes dipped in poi and red salt, sweet pineapple dusted with brown sugar or lychee nuts stuffed with cream cheese.

School children sing, "Kani Kani Pele," (Jingle Bells) and bring home handmade

SAN ANTONIO—Airman Gary W. Mardis, son of Mr. and Mrs. William E. Mardis of Rt. 1, Dexter, has completed his U.S. Air Force basic training at the Air Training Command's Lackland AFB, Tex. He has been assigned to Lowry AFB, Colo., for training in the munitions and weapons maintenance field. Airman Mardis is a 1969 graduate of South Marshall High School, Benton. His wife, Linda, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Bill Perry of Rt. 1, Benton.

Christmas presents and cards which are treasured by their parents.

Church youth groups present the nativity story. Mary may well be of Japanese descent, Joseph's great-grandmother may have come from China and the Wiseman's kinfolk from Korea, Okinawa, Chicago or Manila. Some, indeed, may have been in the great outrigger canoes that came from far-away Pacific Islands and brought the first people to the Hawaiian Archipelago.

Christmas Eve is an exciting time for children the world over and in Hawaii it's especially so. Many island families will be entertaining friends and relatives from the East and West. Eyes, whether brown or blue, will close reluctantly while visions of see moi (a salty sweet-sour candied fruit from the Orient) dance in tousled heads.

Morning dawns bright and clear. Fluffy white clouds sail across a blue sky. The thermometer reads 78 degrees. The Pacific Ocean rolls up on golden beaches but Hawaii's children know it's Christmas!

Colorful wrappings and ribbons are torn away to reveal new aloha shirts, zori (thong slippers), model planes, Barbie dolls, Monopoly games, snorkels, electric rice cookers, lawn mowers, cuff links, panty hose, socks and lacy lingerie.

After breakfast and church, it wouldn't be at all unusual for the family to go to the nearest beach park for a Christmas picnic. Schools don't open until after the New Year holiday so there's a special festive feeling in the soft air.

There are many ways to say, "Merry Christmas," but the people of Hawaii think, "Mele Kalikimaka," is the best and each year thousands of visitors go to this Island Paradise to share in the Aloha of Christmas.

EDUCATION NOTEBOOK

Open admissions idea a 2nd chance or fraud?

By KENNETH J. RABBE
Copley News Service

Offering a college education to anyone with high school credentials, regardless of qualifications, reveals as much about impotent public schools as it creates controversy.

The Council for Basic Education sponsored a discussion of the idea, known as open admissions, by a distinguished panel in Washington. Controversy over open admissions, or access, has been fueled by the City University of New York (CUNY) decision to open its four-year institutions to all city high school graduates, beginning with the June, 1970, class.

The CUNY program, combined with a massive remedial education effort, has been hailed as a second chance for those lacking academic advantages and an important social experiment. Opponents say the CUNY project and open admissions are a fraud and a political ploy doomed to failure and frustration for students.

Panelist Seymour C. Hyman, CUNY's deputy chancellor, explained that many of the extensive papers about the experiment brag of "results," most of which are unknown to us at the university. It is too early to evaluate completely, he cautions.

Hyman's revelations about New York City high school graduates were spectacularly disheartening. Nearly 13 per cent of the "open admissions" freshmen these last two years scored below ninth-grade reading level, yet held high school diplomas.

CUNY placement tests of nearly 32,000 prospective freshmen in 1970 disclosed that 41 per cent needed intensive remedial help. In mathematics, the figures were 26 per cent requiring some help and 25 per cent needing intensive re-training.

Scores were worse in 1971, providing still more evidence that New York City is an educational disaster area. Forty-three per cent of more than 28,000 prospective collegians required some remedial reading instruction and 13 per cent needed intensive help.

Math scores showed that 29 per cent required some help and 30 per cent needed intensive assistance. Hyman said at one of CUNY's senior colleges receiving a proportionately smaller number of "open admission" freshmen, "40 per cent of the individuals needing remediation had high school averages above the cutoff limit for conventional admissions in prior years." New York teachers must base their grades on something other than subject competence or mastery.

CUNY offers open admissions students extensive programs in basic skills so that they eventually can read and do arithmetic well enough to complete course requirements and meet college standards, even the lowered requirements and watered-down standards now fashionable at CUNY and other higher education institutions. One of the major questions about open admissions is whether higher education should be doing what the public schools have failed to do.

Its supporters agree that elementary and secondary school education must be improved. They emphasize that a generation or more of young adults suffering a disadvantaged education because of race, religion or socioeconomic status should not be denied the opportunity any longer to realize that part of the American Dream that says a college degree is a ticket to financial success and social status.

E. Lawrence Chalmers, chancellor at the University of Kansas, where open admissions has been state policy for 80 years, praised the large percentage of Kansans entering college. He did not mention the number that eventually earned degrees.

Panelist Robert Nisbet, a University of California, Riverside, sociologist, pleaded for "restoration of the university..." as a place "...in which teaching is regarded as the essential function..." with scholarship its indispensable complement.

"This will call for a radical clearing out of the thicket of distractive and generally anti-academic projects the universities began to take on in such abundance and with such evangelical enthusiasm during World War II."

He called for "...students who are really students, who... come to the university because it is a community of scholarship, a place for study in the learned disciplines, and not simply a setting for riding out adolescence, escaping home, seeking diversion and contemplating individual identity." Nisbet said such students might be found among ethnic groups and the so-called blue-collar class.

Nisbet presented a discouraging picture of what could happen to higher education institutions that become glorified high schools. Some critics say it already has happened at CUNY, other institutions and community colleges, making their grades and degrees meaningless in the marketplace or as a criterion for admittance to professional and graduate study.

The Safety Sheriff—Joe Higgins—is on pretty safe ground when he recommends U.S. Savings Bonds as Christmas gifts. No one has ever been known to receive too many of them.

Copley News Service

Christmas is usually a happy time of year for most people unless of course they work for the Postal Service.

For them, Christmas means they must process and deliver a tidal wave of letters and packages within a two or three week period prior to Christmas Day.

"The amount of mail builds to a peak which lasts about two days and then starts to taper off," said postmaster Ralph S. Colonell. "There wouldn't be any problem handling the Christmas mail at all if we could get 80 per cent of the mail-sending population to follow our mailing guidelines."

"Let's face it, Christmas cards lose their effect when they arrive after Christmas and there's always disappointment when gifts from out-of-state friends and relatives aren't under the tree," he said.

The way to avoid all this and make Christmas a more pleasant time for mailmen and women everywhere is to mail your packages and letters early and use the ZIP Codes.

According to Colonell, Dec. 1 is the deadline for mailing packages with distant destinations; Dec. 10 is the deadline for mailing local packages and long distant letters, and Dec. 15 is the deadline for local letters.

"As last year, the Postal Service will be delivering local and out-of-town letters to every home for designating letter bundles," he said. "When people bundle their letters and label them 'local' or 'out-of-town' it really speeds up our operation."

This year, all letters sent First Class (sealed) or Third Class (unsealed) will need an eight cent stamp. Air mail will cost 11 cents.

"An advantage to sending letters First Class," said Colonell, "is that they will be forwarded should the party have moved and left a forwarding address. Third Class won't."

The Postal Service also requests that persons using Christmas Seals on their envelopes do not place them in the front corners but use them on the back along the seal.

For mailing those packages loaded with Christmas gifts, the Postal Service has these suggestions for making sure they arrive in time and in one piece:

- Use strong cardboard boxes and lots of packing materials.

- Double wrap and tie securely all packages for mailing.

- Enclose a list of contents and a second set of to and from addresses in each package.

- Place outside to and from addresses on only one side of the package.

- Do not use gummed labels. The Postal Service prefers that the addresses be written or printed in felt tip pen.

- Be sure and include ZIP Codes on both to and from addresses.

- Mark parcels containing breakable items FRAGILE or GLASS.

- Be sure and insure all parcels.

- Be sure and remove batteries from all battery operated items.

- Letters may be enclosed in a package but a note must be on the outside to that effect. There is an additional eight cent charge for this service.

"We hope that everyone will take it upon themselves to get their Christmas mailing done early and use their ZIP Codes," said Colonell.

So the Postal Service personnel can enjoy Christmas, too.

Mazda's rotary engine attracting many buyers

By JEFF CUSHING
Copley News Service

The rotary engine seems destined to stay with us after all. At first relegated to a "nice trick but it will never catch on" item, the rotary powerplant made its first public appearance under the hood of the German NSU RO-80 sedan a couple of years ago.

Now General Motors is not so secretly working with the rotary concept and rumors are persistent that there will be a rotary car with the GM emblem running around by 1975, perhaps under the hood of an all-new sports car.

But in the meantime, lovers of this unusual power concept can avail themselves of the Mazda. And for those who find the Mazda lines and appointments attractive but are skeptical of such a newfangled engine, Mazda offers an alternative, a conventional overhead valve powerplant.

The Mazda has enjoyed fantastic customer response. And although it is still largely unavailable in the Midwest, the factory will soon remedy that now that the stock strikes are over and the vehicle flow has resumed.

There are currently six Mazda models available. The least expensive is the conventionally powered 1200 Coupe that you can pick up for about $2,500 port of entry. At the high end of the scale is the zoomy RX-2 Coupe, with its lush interior and rotary engine. The RX-2 lists for under $3,000.

In between you have the rotary version of the 1200, dubbed the R-100, and a 616 Coupe (it's really an RX-2 with a conventional engine and different rear suspension) and a 616 Sedan, also sporting a reciprocating powerplant.

Mazda isn't going to rely on its rotary engine alone to sell units. Standard equipment includes such items as radial ply tires, caliper disc brakes, fully reclining bucket seats, carpeting and even tinted glass and a locking gas cap. About the only "extras" you can tack on are air conditioning and a radio.

Waiting in the wings is yet another Mazda series, a rotary-powered Coupe and Sedan called the RX-3 and the conventionally powered twins which Mazda has labeled the 808. This new series will slip in between the low-line R-100 and the RX-2.

Mazda has entered a very competitive field, and in light of the recent reins put on the imports by the Nixon administration, it looks like the arena will become more competitive still now that the domestic subcompacts are priced as low as — or even lower than — their counterparts from abroad.

Undoubtedly some of the low-volume imports are going to fall by the wayside in the months ahead. But the chances of that happening to Mazda are indeed slim.

As one Southern California Mazda dealer put it: "If you want to be realistic about it, we could charge $4,000 and still sell the rotary models. People are that anxious to get their hands on something really different."

Mazda sales bear out this statement. And barring any engineering and longevity problems with the radical powerplant, the sales picture will continue to look bright for some time to come.

FUEL STOP: During these winter months, be sure your exhaust system is free of leaks that could pass deadly carbon monoxide into the driving compartment. And keep the window open a crack to help air circulate freely through the car.

Q. My car needs tires but I am confused over what type of tire I should purchase. I would like to mount radials, but I don't know if they are compatible with my car. I drive a 1969 Pontiac. Can you help? — P.M., Arizona

A. You can mount radials on any car — or truck, for that matter — but generally speaking, the chassis of American cars are not "tuned" for radials. In other words, there can be some tire noise at low speeds and at times a grating feeling in the steering wheel. But the over-all benefits of radials far outshadow any shortcomings. I would strongly recommend that you use radials if you can afford them. A helpful hint: when you rotate the tires, just switch from front to rear on the same side. Never cross-mount radials.

Q. I live in the Southwest and a buddy and myself are planning an extended trip (1,000 miles) through the rugged mountain and desert country on motorcycle. We plan to keep off the main highways as much as possible. We will start our trek in Santa Fe, N.M., and end up (hopefully) in Mexico. Can you give us any tips that might aid us on our way? We are both 17 years old. — J.B., New Mexico

A. First off, I hope you plan to make the trip on enduro-type machines, not road bikes. Looking at the map, it doesn't look like you'll ever be too far from civilization, but it would be a good idea not to take chances by stocking up on emergency items such as brake and clutch cables, spark plugs, a tire repair kit (or better yet, a spare inner tube). You'll also need spare oil and larger gas tanks on your bikes. And if you're going into Mexico, be sure you've got the proper identification and if your hair is on the long side, be sure you keep it tucked under your helmet because the authorities take a dim view of such things.

Do you have a question about your car, motorcycle or recreational vehicle? If so, drop a line to: MOTORWAYS, Copley News Service, P.O. Box 190, San Diego, Calif. 92112.

Attention Farmers!

The Calloway and Henry County NFO members are now operating a hog collection point in Murray, Kentucky, at the former Shoemaker Livestock Barn. For fair weights and grade bring your hogs Wednesdays and Saturdays. Hogs should be booked two days in advance by calling 492-8642. Now is the time to start to raise the general pork prices and to plan production deliveries like organized business men. No one but the farmer goes to the market and says "What are you gonna give me?" If you want to have a voice in what you are paid, join your neighbor with your production at the NFO collection point in Murray, Kentucky, Wednesdays and Saturdays at the former Shoemaker Livestock Barn. Plans for feeder calves and cull cows are being made.

Rioters Tear-Gassed
BERLIN (UPI) — Police used tear gas tonight to break up a demonstration by about 100 rioters protesting the shooting death of a member of an anarchist criminal band.

The demonstrators carried a red flag and a wreath with them when they blocked a crossroads on the Kurfuerstendamm, West Berlin's main boulevard. The demonstration was against the death of 24-year old Georg Von Rauch, son of a professor and long sought by police as a member of the notorious Baader-Meinhoff group of anarchist bandits.

Von Rauch was killed Saturday in a gun duel with police. A policeman was seriously wounded in the battle.

MIDSHIPWOMAN?
WASHINGTON (UPI) — Sen. Jacob K. Javits, R-N.Y., who broke tradition by naming the first girl Senate page, plans to attack another male stronghold by appointing a girl to the U.S. Naval Academy.

Javits said Wednesday he has not made a final choice on who he would appoint but added that one girl has asked to be sent to Annapolis and he has "a number of other female candidates ... in mind."

HOGS ARE SAFE NOW
BALTIMORE (AP) — The U.S. Department of Agriculture has declared Maryland officially free of hog cholera, a disease that cost state farmers more than $300,000 in killed hogs in 1969.

No cases of the disease have been detected in Maryland the past 12 months, the department said.

Virginia Beach builds park out of garbage

By E. W. WINSLOW
Copley News Service
VIRGINIA BEACH, Va. — While residents of some strike-plagued cities have complained bitterly about the necessity of piling their garbage in the street, citizens of this resort city have been deliberately building a mountain of refuse in the middle of town.

In 1965 when city planners began to look for new ways to dispose of city garbage, it was apparent that some new ideas were required. According to Charles Kiley, city sanitation engineer, "We had completely filled our last dump. We couldn't find a gulley or valley in this flat country to fill in. Ecology considerations prevented us from burning our refuse. So, we called in some experts from the state Health Department and had a big discussion."

R. E. Dorer, director of the Bureau of Solid Waste and Vector Control of the Commonwealth of Virginia Department of Health, had been waiting for just such an opportunity. For years he had envisioned a project where waste materials would be used to build a site for a recreation park. He offered his ideas to the Virginia Beach city fathers.

"The idea of using the pile for a park was a natural," said Jim Wilson, chief of the program planning division of the Department of City Planning for the City of Virginia Beach. "We already had a site which belonged to the city, was pretty much in the middle of the town's area and which was rapidly being surrounded by housing developments. We began our plans to exploit the area and to make the pile of garbage fit our plans for the park."

Wilson's planners went to work and came up with several natural uses for what was to become a very "unnatural" playground.

"There are no hills of any size in Virginia Beach," said Wilson. "So we decided to make a big ugly pile of garbage into a playground by developing facilities which required some elevation."

For years the Soap Box Derby competition had been held in a naval shipyard in nearby Portsmouth. But the Navy's hill wasn't really close to what is needed to hold real competition so one of the first items programmed was a regulation size and shape Soap Box Derby track. Another facility found in most cities but lacking in Virginia's tidewater lowlands was an amphitheater. Now there would be a place for one in Virginia Beach. The flat areas would be used for Little League fields and other routine facilities.

As Wilson's planners came up with ideas they began to formulate the topographical sketches to support their plans. The planners and sanitation engineers met frequently to discuss the mechanics of building a mountain to fit a topographic plan. The sanitation engineers came up with a method of guaranteeing that the mountain would be strong enough to take the abuse of several generations of children yet unborn.

When the U.S. Department of Health, Education and Welfare heard about the plan, a grant of $300,000 was made to enable the effort to proceed as a feasibility study and be a pilot program for other cities.

As the plan developed it was decided that the mountain would be built in layers, in much the same way geologists tell us the earth's crust was built up.

"We decided that we would lay a four-foot-deep layer of garbage, pack it down with huge compactor vehicles, then lay a one-foot layer of dirt over the garbage and compact the dirt down on and into the garbage," explained Kiley. "This way we would eliminate any settling problems and cut down on our rodent problems. We have found that the compacting exceeds our best expectations. "Our core samples have weighed out at a greater density than the surrounding natural soil. And, no one on the project has seen a rodent since the compactors arrived and started packing."

Cosby Turns To Teaching On ETV Show

LEXINGTON, Ky. — Comedian Bill Cosby has much more on his mind these days than being a funny man.

As a "faculty" member of "The Electric Company," a reading series produced for educational television, Cosby is constantly concerned that a joke for a joke's sake might well "muddy up" the learning process of his audience.

"We as performers sometimes forget that we are teaching when we try as performers to be funny," he said. "But we have to stop and say this is not what we're doing—we're teaching. Everything we do has a point and has to add to instead of detract from what a student is going to learn."

"The Electric Company" is being telecast weekdays on the Kentucky Educational Television Network at 4:30 p.m., E.S.T. The series was designed to help second, third, and fourth-graders improve reading skills.

Everything on the programs has its educational point, but the skits, monologues, songs and minidocumentaries provide attention-getting devices which stimulate and entertain as well as teach youngsters.

Cosby says he and other teachers on "The Electric Company" perform different sketches which have to do with "certain sounds, forms of letters, and blends."

If the series follows the successful suit of its big brother "Sesame Street," Kentucky's grade-schoolers who watch should see improvement in their reading.

Constant research into the effectiveness of new reading series will help our producers "know how we fared," Cosby says. The plans are to correct the mistakes and "in general to become better."

Not designed to "overpower" the teacher, Cosby says, the show "should never be competition to the teacher—but an aid."

"It's an aid to get across the feeling and get to a student in a certain way, an aid not so much to prove that the film is much better than the instructor, just another finger tip," he added.

Two days a week, Cosby works toward a doctorate in education at the University of Massachusetts. The other three he teaches on "The Electric Company."

Does Cosby want to be a college teacher?

"No, that isn't it," he explained. "I'm working with film and the television medium as a form of teaching. I'm sure that the tube or the screen itself is a place that we can use and use well to aid teaching."

He sees his role in educational TV as more of a writer-producer of programs than a performer. I had rather just write them to make sure they are done the way I want them done. I've written everything I've said on the stage.

"I take an idea. It's a form, something I stole from jazz where you take a theme and play it on the stage, using the chords to take you where you want to go. That way each time you blow your solo it isn't the same."

Chuckling a multi-million dollar entertainment career, Cosby says, is not surprising. He studied education at Temple University and "I said when I was in show business that I would leave it for education. If you'll look back at old newspaper clippings, I gave myself 10 years in show business."

However, Cosby is quick to add that he is not "totally retired" and entertains on weekends. By the looks of his audience at Morehead State University, where Cosby entertained recently and granted this interview, thousands of college students are delighted that Cosby turns his teaching and student roles off long enough to be a weekend comedian.
